8 And Ahaz took the ſilver and the gold that was found in the [h] houſe of the Lord, and in the treaſures of the king's houſe, and ſent a preſent unto the king of Aſſhur.

9 And the king of Aſſhur conſented unto him: and the king of Aſſhur went up againſt Damaſcus: and when he had taken it, he carried the people away to Kir, and ſlew Rezin.

10 And king Ahaz went unto Damaſcus to meet Tiglath-Pileſer king of Aſſhur: and when king Ahaz ſaw the altar that was at Damaſcus, he ſent to Urijah the prieſt the pattern of the altar, and the faſhion of it, and all the workmanſhip thereof.

11 And Urijah the prieſt made an altar [i] in all points like to that which king Ahaz had ſent from Damaſcus: ſo did Urijah the prieſt againſt king Ahaz came from Damaſcus.

12 So when the king was come from Damaſcus, the king ſaw the altar: and the king drew near to the altar, and offered [k] thereon.

13 And he burnt his burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and poured his drink-offering, and ſprinkled the blood of his peace-offerings beſides the altar,

14 And ſet it by the braſen altar which was before the Lord, and brought it in farther before the houſe between the altar and the houſe of the Lord, and ſet it on the [l] north ſide of the altar.

3 Hoſhea king of Iſrael is taken, 4 And he and all his realm brought to the Aſſyrians, 18 for their idolatry. 25 Lions deſtroy the Aſſyrians that dwelt in Samaria. 29 Every one worſhippeth the god of his nation, 35 contrary to the commandment of God.

IN the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah began Hoſhea the ſon of Elah to reign in Samaria over Iſrael, and reigned nine years.

2 And he did evil in the ſight of the Lord, [p] but not as the kings of Iſrael, that were before him.

14 Neverthelеſs they would not obey; * but hardened their necks, like to the necks of their [u] fathers, that did not believe in the Lord their God. * Deut. 31. 27.

15 And they refuſed his ſtatutes and his covenant that he made with their fathers, and his teſtimonies (wherewith he witneſſed unto them) and they followed vanity, and became vain, and followed the heathen that were round about them: concerning whom the Lord had charged them, that they ſhould not do like them.

16 Finally, they left all the commandments of the Lord their God, and made them molten images, * even two calves, and made a grove, and worſhipped all the [w] hoſt of heaven, and ſerved Baal. * Exod. 32. 8. 1 Kings 12. 28.

17 And they made their ſons and their daughters [x] paſs through the fire, and uſed witchcraft and enchantments, yea, [y] ſold themſelves to do evil in the ſight of the Lord, to anger him.

18 Therefore the Lord was exceeding wroth with Iſrael, and put them out of his ſight, and none was left but the tribe of Judah [z] only.

19 Yet Judah kept not the commandments of the Lord their God, but walked according to the faſhion of Iſrael which they uſed.

20 Therefore the Lord caſt off all the ſeed of Iſrael, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the hands of ſpoilers, until he had caſt them out of his [a] ſight.

21 [b] For he cut off Iſrael from the houſe of David, and they made Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat king: and Jeroboam drew Iſrael away from following the Lord, and made them ſin a great ſin.

22 For the children of Iſrael walked in all the ſins of Jeroboam, which he did, and departed not therefrom,

24 And the king of Aſſhur brought folk from Babel, and from [c] Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria inſtead of the children of Iſrael: ſo they poſſeſſed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof. Bef. Chr. 678.

25 ¶ And at the beginning of their dwelling there, they feared [d] not the Lord: therefore the Lord ſent lions among them, which ſlew them.

26 Wherefore they ſpake to the king of Aſſhur, ſaying, The nations which thou haſt removed and placed in the cities of Samaria know not the manner of the God of the land: therefore he hath ſent lions among them, and behold, they ſlay them, becauſe they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then the king of Aſſhur commanded, ſaying, Carry thither one of the prieſts whom ye brought thence, and let him go and dwell there, and teach them the manner of the God [e] of the country.

28 So one of the prieſts, which they had carried from Samaria, came and dwelt in Beth-el, and taught them how they ſhould fear the Lord.

29 Howbeit every nation made their gods, and put them in the houſes of the high places which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities, wherein they dwelt.

30 For the men of Babel made [f] Succoth-Benoth: and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Aſhima.

31 And the Avims made Nibhaz, and Tartak: and the Sepharvaims burnt their children in the fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 Thus they feared the Lord, and appointed out prieſts out of themſelves for the high places, who prepared for them ſacrifices in the houſes of the high places.

33 * They [g] feared the Lord, but ſerved their gods after the manner of the nations whom they carried thence. * Ezek. 20. 39. Zeph. 1. 5.

34 Unto this day they do after the old manner: they neither fear God, neither do after [h] their ordinances, nor after their cuſtoms, nor after the law, nor after the commandment which the Lord commanded the children of Jacob, * whom he named Iſrael, * Gen. 32. 28. 1 Kings 18. 31.

35 And with whom the Lord had made a covenant, and charged them, ſaying, * Fear none other gods, nor bow yourſelves to them, nor ſerve them, nor ſacrifice to them: * Judg. 6. 10. Jer. 10. 2.

36 But fear the Lord which brought you out of the land of Egypt with great power, and a ſtretched-out arm: him fear ye, and worſhip him, and ſacrifice to him.

37 Alſo keep ye diligently the ſtatutes and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment, which he wrote for you, that ye do them continually, and fear not other gods.

38 And forget not the covenant that I have made with you, neither fear ye other gods.

[r] Thus the idolaters think that God's religion is deſtroyed, when ſuperſtition and idolatry are reformed.

[s] Meaning, that it was beſt for him to yield to the king of Aſſyria, becauſe his power was ſo ſmall that he had not men to furniſh two thouſand horſes.

28 So Rabſhakeh ſtood and cried with a loud voice in the Jews language, and ſpake, ſaying, Hear the words of the great king, of the king of Aſſhur.

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you to truſt in the Lord, ſaying, The Lord will ſurely deliver us, and this city ſhall not be given over into the hand of the king of Aſſhur.

31 Hearken not unto Hezekiah: for thus ſaith the king of Aſſhur, Make † appointment with me, and come out to me, that every man may eat of his own vine, and every man of his own fig-tree, and drink every man of the water of his own well,

33 Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Aſſhur?

34 Where is the god of Hamath, and of Arpad? where is the god of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivah? how have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the nations that have delivered their land out of mine hand, that the [w] Lord ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of mine hand?

36 But the people held their peace, and anſwered him not a word: for the king's commandment was, ſaying, Anſwer ye him not.

37 Then Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was ſteward of the houſe, and Shebna the chancellor, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their cloaths rent, and told him the words of Rabſhakeh.

AND [*] when king Hezekiah heard it, he rent his cloaths and put on ſackcloth, and came into the houſe of the Lord,

2 And ſent Eliakim which was the ſteward of the houſe, and Shebna the chancellor, and the elders of the prieſts cloathed in ſackcloth [x] to Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz.

3 And they ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Hezekiah, This day is a day of tribulation, and of rebuke, and blaſphemy: for the children are come to [y] the birth, and there is no ſtrength to bring forth.

4 If ſo be the Lord thy God hath heard all the words of Rabſhakeh, whom the king of Aſſhur his maſter hath ſent to rail on the living God, and to reproach him with words which the Lord thy God hath heard, then lift thou up thy prayer for the [y] remnant that are left.

5 ¶ So the ſervants of king Hezekiah came to Iſaiah.

6 And Iſaiah ſaid unto them, So ſhall ye ſay to your maſter, Thus ſaith the Lord, Be not afraid of the words which thou haſt heard, wherewith the ſervants of the king of Aſſhur have blaſphemed me.

7 Behold, I will ſend a blaſt [a] upon him, and he ſhall hear a noiſe, and return to his own land: and I will cauſe him to fall by the ſword in his own land.

10 Thus ſhall ye ſpeak unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and ſay, Let not thy [d] God deceive thee, in whom thou truſteſt, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſhur.

11 Behold, thou haſt heard what the kings of Aſſhur have done to all lands, how they have deſtroyed them: and ſhalt thou be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the heathen delivered them which my fathers have deſtroyed? as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Thelaſar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivah?

14 ¶ So Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the meſſengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up into the houſe of the Lord, and Hezekiah ſpread it before the [e] Lord.

15 And Hezekiah [f] prayed before the Lord, and ſaid, O Lord God of Iſrael, which dwelleſt between the cherubims, thou art very God alone over all the kingdoms of the earth: thou haſt made the heaven and the earth.

16 Lord,

16 Lord, [g] bow down thine ear, and hear: Lord, open thine eyes and behold, and hear the words of Sennacherib, who hath ſent to blaſpheme the [h] living God.

17 Truth it is, Lord, that the kings of Aſſhur have deſtroyed the nations and their lands,

18 And have ſet fire on their gods: for they were no gods, but the work of man's hands, even wood and ſtone: therefore they deſtroyed them.

19 Now therefore, O Lord our God, I beſeech thee, ſave thou us out of his hand, that all the [i] kingdoms of the earth may know that thou, O Lord, art only God.

20 ¶ Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz ſent to Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, I have heard that which thou haſt prayed me, concerning Sennacherib king of Aſſhur.

21 This is the word that the Lord hath ſpoken againſt him, O [k] virgin, daughter of Zion, he hath deſpiſed thee, and laughed thee to ſcorn: O daughter of Jeruſalem, he hath ſhaken his head at thee.

22 Whom haſt thou railed on? and whom haſt thou blaſphemed? and againſt whom haſt thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high? even [l] againſt the holy one of Iſrael.

23 By thy meſſengers thou haſt railed on the Lord, and ſaid, By the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the top of the mountains, by the ſides of Lebanon, and will cut down the high cedars thereof, and the fair fir-trees thereof, and I will go into the [m] lodging of his borders, and into the foreſt of his ‡ Carmel.

25 Haſt thou not heard, how I have of old time made it, and have formed it long ago? [n] and ſhould I now bring it, that it ſhould be deſtroyed, and laid on ruinous heaps as cities defenced?

26 Whoſe [o] inhabitants have ſmall power, and are afraid, and confounded: they are like the graſs of the field, and green herb, or graſs on the houſe tops, or as corn blaſted before it be grown.

27 I know thy dwelling, yea, thy going out, and thy coming in, and thy fury againſt me.

28 And becauſe thou rageſt againſt me, and thy tumult is come up to mine ears, I will put mine [p] hook in thy noſtrils, and my bridle in thy lips, and will bring thee back again the ſame way thou cameſt.

29 And this ſhall be a [q] ſign unto thee, O Hezekiah, Thou ſhalt eat this year ſuch things as grow of themſelves, and the next year ſuch as grow without ſowing, and the third year ſow ye and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruits thereof.

32 Wherefore thus ſaith the Lord, concerning the king of Aſſhur, He ſhall not enter this city, nor ſhoot an arrow there, nor come before it with ſhield, nor caſt a mount againſt it:

33 But he ſhall return the way he came, and ſhall not come into this city, ſaith the Lord.

7 Then Iſaiah ſaid, Take a [a] lump of dry figs. And they took it, and laid it on the boil, and he recovered.

8 ¶ For Hezekiah had ſaid unto Iſaiah, What ſhall be the ſign that the Lord will heal me, and that I ſhall go up into the houſe of the Lord the third day?

16 Thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and on the inhabitants thereof, even all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read,

17 Becauſe they have forſaken me, and have burnt incenſe unto other gods, to anger me with all the [x] works of their hands: my wrath alſo ſhall be kindled againſt this place, and ſhall not be quenched.

18 But to the king of Judah, who ſent you to inquire of the Lord, ſo ſhall ye ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, The words that thou haſt heard, ſhall come to paſs.

19 But becauſe thine heart did [y] melt, and thou haſt humbled thyſelf before the Lord, when thou heardeſt what I ſpake againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants of the ſame, to wit, that it ſhould be deſtroyed and accurſed, and haſt rent thy cloaths, and wept before me, I have alſo heard it, ſaith the Lord.

20 Behold therefore, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou ſhalt be put in thy grave in [z] peace, and thine eyes ſhall not ſee all the evil which I will bring upon this place. Thus they brought the king word again.

CHAP. XXIII.

2 Joſiah readeth the law before the people. 3 He maketh a covenant with the Lord. 4 He putteth down the idols, after he had killed their prieſts. 22 He keepeth the paſſover. 24 He deſtroyeth the conjurers. 29 He was killed in Megiddo, 30 And his ſon Jehoahaz reigned in his ſtead. 33 After he was taken, his ſon Jehoiakim was made king.

* 2 Chron. 34. 30.

THEN * the king [a] ſent, and there gathered unto him all the elders of Judah and of Jeruſalem.

2 And the king went up into the houſe of the Lord, with all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem with him, and the prieſts and prophets, and all the people both ſmall and great: and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant, which was found in the houſe of the Lord.

Bef. Chr. 624.

3 And the king ſtood by the [b] pillar, and made a [c] covenant before the Lord, that they ſhould walk after the Lord, and keep his commandments and his teſtimonies, and his ſtatutes, with all their heart and with all their ſoul, that they might accompliſh the words of this covenant written in this book. And all the people ſtood to the covenant.

4 Then the king commanded Hilkiah the high prieſt, and the [d] prieſts of the ſecond order, and the keepers of the door, to bring out of the temple of the Lord all the veſſels that were made for Baal, and for the grove, and for all the hoſt of heaven, and he burnt them without Jeruſalem in the fields of Kedron, and carried [e] the powder of them into Beth-el.

5 And he put down the [f] Chemarims, whom the kings of Judah had founded to burn incenſe in the high places, and in the cities of Judah, and about Jeruſalem, and alſo them that burnt incenſe unto Baal, to the ſun, and to the moon, and to the planets, and to all the hoſt of heaven.

6 And he brought out the [g] grove from the temple of the Lord without Jeruſalem unto the valley of Kedron, and burnt it in the valley of Kedron, and ſtamped it to powder, and caſt the duſt thereof upon the [h] graves of the children of the people.

7 And he brake down the houſes of the Sodomites that were in the houſe of the Lord, where the women wove hangings for the grove.

8 Alſo he brought all the prieſts out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the prieſts had burnt incenſe, even from Geba to Beer-ſheba, and deſtroyed the high places of the gates that were in the entering in of the gate of Joſhua the governor of the city, which was at the left hand of the gate of the city.

9 Neverthelesſ the prieſts of the high places [i] came not up to the altar of the Lord in Jeruſalem, ſave only they did eat of the unleavened bread among their brethren.

10 He defiled alſo [k] Topheth, which was in the valley of the children of Hinnom, that no man ſhould make his ſon or his daughter paſs through the fire to Molech.

11 He put down alſo the [l] horſes that the kings of Judah had given to the ſun at the entering

17 Then he ſaid, What title is that which I ſee? And the men of the city ſaid unto him, It is the ſepulchre of the man of God which came from Judah, and told theſe things that thou haſt done to the altar of Beth-el.

18 Then ſaid he, Let him alone: let none remove his bones. So his bones were ſaved with the bones of the [p] prophet that came from Samaria.

19 Joſiah alſo took away all the houſes of the high places, which were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Iſrael had made to anger the Lord, and did to them according to all the facts that he had done in Beth-el.

20 And he ſacrificed all the prieſts of the high places that were there upon the altars, and burnt men's bones upon them, and returned to Jeruſalem.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Jews comprehend both theſe books in one, which the Grecians, becauſe of the length, divide into two: and they are called Chronicles, becauſe they note briefly the hiſtories from Adam to the return from their captivity in Babylon. But theſe are not thoſe books of Chronicles, which are ſo oft mentioned in the books of the kings of Judah and Iſrael, which did at large ſet forth the ſtory of both the kingdoms, and afterward periſhed in the captivity: but an abridgment of the ſame, and were gathered by Ezra, as the Jews write, after their return from Babylon. This firſt book containeth a brief rehearſal of the children of Adam unto Abraham, Iſaac, Jacob, and the twelve patriarchs, chiefly of Judah, and of the reign of David, becauſe Chriſt came of him according to the fleſh. And therefore it ſetteth forth more amply his acts, both concerning civil government, and alſo the adminiſtration, and care of things concerning religion, for the good ſucceſs whereof he rejoiceth, and giveth thanks to the Lord.

29 Theſe are their generations. * The eldeſt ſon of Iſhmael was Nebaioth, and Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibſam.

‡ Or, Hadar.

30 Miſhma, and Dumah, Maſſa, ‡ Hadad, and Tema,

31 Jetur, Naphiſh and Kedemah: theſe are the ſons of Iſhmael.

32 ¶ And Keturah Abraham's [h] concubine bare ſons, Zimran, and Jokſhan, and Medan, and Midian, and Iſhbak, and Shuah: and the ſons of Jokſhan, Sheba, and Dedan.

[a] Meaning, that Seth was Adam's ſon, and Enoch Seth's ſon.

[b] It had been ſufficient to have named Shem, of whom came Abraham and David, but becauſe the world was reſtored by thoſe three, mention is alſo made of Ham and Japhet.

[d] Of whom came the Syrians, and therefore they are called Aramites throughout all the ſcripture.

[e] Of him came the Hebrews, which were afterward called Iſraelites of Iſrael, which was Jacob: and Jews of Judah, becauſe of the excellency of that tribe.

[f] He repeateth Shem again, becauſe he would come to the ſtock of Abraham.

[g] Who came of Shem, and of him Shelah.

[h] Read Gen. 25. 1, 2, 3.

Bef. Chr. 1676.

33 And the ſons of Midian were Ephah, and Ephar, and Henoch, and Abida, and Eldaah: * All theſe are the ſons of Keturah.

* Gen. 25. 4.

34 And * Abraham begat Iſaac: the ſons of Iſaac, Eſau, and Iſrael.

* Gen. 21. 2.

35 ¶ The ſons of Eſau were [i] * Eliphaz, Reuel, and Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah.

* Gen. 36. 9.

36 The ſons of Eliphaz; Teman, and Omar, ‡ Zephi, and Gatam, Kenaz, and [k] Timna, and Amalek.

‡ Or, Zepho.

42 The ſons of Ezer were Bilhan, and Zavan, and Jakan. The ſons of Diſhon were Uz, and Aran.

43 ¶ And theſe were the [m] kings that reigned in the land of Edom, before a king reigned over the children of Iſrael, to wit, Bela the ſon of Beor, and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

44 Then Bela died, and Jobab the ſon of Zerah of [n] Bozrah reigned in his ſtead.

45 And when Jobab was dead, Huſham of the land of the Temanites reigned in his ſtead.

46 And when Huſham was dead, Hadad the ſon of Bedad, which ſmote Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his ſtead, and the name of his city was Avith.

47 So Hadad died, and Samlah of Maſrekah reigned in his ſtead.

48 And Samlah died, and Shaul of Rehoboth by the river reigned in his ſtead.

49 And when Shaul was dead, Baal-hanan the ſon of Achbor reigned in his ſtead.

50 And Baal-hanan died, and Hadad reigned in his ſtead, and the name of his city was ‡ Pai, and his wife's name Mehetabel the daughter of Matred the daughter of Mezahab.

‡ Or, Pan.

51 Hadad died alſo, and there were dukes in Edom, duke Timna, duke ‡ Aliah, duke Jetheth,

‡ Or, Alvah.

52 Duke Aholibamah, duke Elah, duke Pinon,

53 Duke Kenaz, duke Teman, duke Mibzar,

54 Duke Magdiel, duke Iram: theſe were the dukes of Edom.

[y] Who died whilſt his father was alive, and therefore it is ſaid, ver. 34. that Sheſhan had no ſons.

[z] That is, the chief governor or prince of the Ziphims, becauſe the prince ought to have a fatherly care and affection toward his people.

[a] This difference was between the wife and the concubine, that the wife was taken with certain ſolemnities of marriage, and her children did inherit: the concubine had no ſolemnities in marriage, neither did her children inherit, but had a portion of goods or money given them.

[b] Meaning, the chief and principal.

[c] Which were men learned and expert in the law.

[d] Read Num. 10. 29. and Judg. 1. 16.

[e] He returneth to the genealogy of David, to ſhew that Chriſt came of his ſtock.

[f] Which, 2 Sam. 3. 3. is called Cheleab, born of her that was Nabal's wife the Carmelite.

[g] Called alſo Bath ſheba the daughter of Eliam: ſo they gave them divers names.

[h] Eliſhama, or Eliſhua, 2 Sam. 5. 15. and Eliphelet died, and David named thoſe ſons which were next born by the ſame names: in the book of the Kings his children are mentioned which were alive, and here both they that were alive and dead.

Bef. Chr. 1471, &c.

15 ¶ And of the ſons of Joſiah, the [h] eldeſt was ‡ Johanan, the ſecond, Jehoiakim, the third Zedekiah, and the fourth Shallum.

‡ Or, Jehoahaz, 2 Kings 23. 30.

16 And the ſons of Jehoiakim, were Jeconiah his ſon, and Zedekiah his ſon.

17 And the ſons of Jeconiah, Aſſir, and Salathiel his ſon:

18 Malchiram alſo and Pedaiah, and Shenazar, Jecamiah, Hoſhama, and Nedabiah.

19 And the ſons of Pedaiah were [i] Zerubbabel, and Shimei: and the ſons of Zerubbabel, were Meſhullam, and Hananiah, and Shelomith their ſiſter,

20 And Haſhubah, and Ohel, and Berechiah, and Hazadiah, and Juſhab-heſed, five in number.

21 And the ſons of Hananiah were Pelatiah, and Jeſaiah: the ſons of Rephaiah, the ſons of Arnan, the ſons of Obadiah, the ſons of Shechaniah, 22 And the ſon of Shechaniah was Shemaiah: and the ſons of Shemaiah were Hattuſh and Igeal, and Bariah, and Neariah, and Shaphat, [k] ſix.

23 And the ſons of Neariah were Elioenai, and Hezekiah, and Azrikam, three.

24 And the ſons of Elioenai were Hodaiah, and Eliaſhib, and Pelaiah, and Akkub, and Johanan, and Dalaiah, and Anani, ſeven.

CHAP. IV.

1 The genealogy of the ſons of Judah, 5 Of Aſher, 9 Of Jabez and his prayer, 11 Of Chelub, 24 And Simeon: their habitations, 38 And conqueſts.

* Gen. 38. 29. and 46. 12. Ch. 2. 4.

THE [l] ſons of Judah were * Pharez, Hezron, and Carmi, and Hur, and Shobal.

2 And Reaiah the ſon of Shobal begat Jahath, and Jahath begat Ahumai, and Lahad: theſe are the families of the Zorehathites,

3 And theſe were of the father of Etam, Jezreel, and Iſhma and Idbaſh: and the name of their ſiſter was Hazelelponi.

4 And Penuel was the father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Huſhah: theſe are the ſons of Hur the [m] eldeſt ſon of Ephratah, the father of Beth-lehem.

5 But Aſhur the father of Tekoa had two wives, Helah, and Naarah.

6 And Naarah bare him Ahuzam, and Hepher, and Temeni, and Haahaſhtari: theſe were the ſons of Naarah.

7 And the ſons of Helah were Zereth, Jezohar, and Ethnan.

8 Alſo Coz begat Anub, and Zobebah, and the families of Aharhel the ſon of Harum.

9 But Jabez was more honourable than his brethren: and his mother called his name [n] Jabez, ſaying, Becauſe I bare him in ſorrow.

10 And Jabez called on the God of Iſrael, ſaying, If thou wilt bleſs me indeed, and enlarge my coaſts, and [o] if thine hand be with me, and thou wilt cauſe me to be delivered from evil, that I be not hurt. And God granted the thing that he aſked.

Bef. Chr. 1300, &c.

11 ¶ And Chelub the brother of Shuah begat Mehir, which was the father of Eſhton.

12 And Eſhton begat Beth-rapha, and Paſeah, and Tehinnah the father of the city of Nahaſh: theſe are the men of Rechah.

13 ¶ And the ſons of Kenaz, were Othniel and Zeraiah, and the ſon of Othniel, Hathath.

14 And Meonothai begat Ophrah. And Seraiah begat Joab the [p] father of the valley of craftſmen: for they were craftſmen.

15 ¶ And the ſons of Caleb the ſon of [q] Jephunneh: were Iru, Elah, and Naam. And the ſon of Elah was Kenaz.

16 And the ſons of Jehaleleel were Ziph, an Ziphah, Tiria, and Aſareel.

17 And the ſons of Ezrah were Jether and Mered, and Epher and Jalon, and he begat Miriam, and Shammai, and Iſhbah the father of Eſhtemoa.

18 Alſo his ‡ wife Jehudijah bare Jered the father of Gedor, and Heber the father of Socho, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah: and theſe are the ſons of Bithiah the daughter of Pharaoh ‡ which Mered took.

‡ Or, of whom he had Mered.

19 And the ſons of the wife of Hodiah, the ſiſter of Naham the father of Keilah were the Garmites, and Eſhtemoa the Maachathite.

20 And the ſons of Shimon were Amnon and Rinnah, Ben-hanam and Tilon. And the ſons of Iſhi were Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth.

21 ¶ * The ſons of Shelah, the ſon of Judah were Er the father of Lecah, and Laadah the father of Mareſhah, and the families of the houſholds of them that wrought fine linen in the houſe of Aſhbea.

* Gen. 38. 1, 3, 5.

22 And Jokim and the men of Chozeba, and Joaſh, and Saraph, which had the dominion in Moab, and ‡ Jaſhubi-lehem. Theſe alſo are ancient things.

‡ Or, of the inhabitants of Lehem.

23 Theſe were potters, and dwelt among plants and hedges: [r] there they dwelt with the king for his work.

24 ¶ * The ſons of Simeon were Nemuel, and Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, and [s] Shaul,

* Gen. 46. 10. Exod. 6. 1.

25 Whoſe ſon was Shallum, and his ſon Mibſam, and his ſon Miſhma.

26 And the ſons of Miſhma, Hamuel was his ſon, Zacchur his ſon, and Shimei his ſon.

27 And Shimei had ſixteen ſons, and ſix daughters, but his brethren had not many children, neither was all their family like to the children of Judah in multitude.

28 And they dwelt at [t] Beer-ſheba, and at Moladah, and at Hazar-ſhual,

29 And at Bilhah, and at Ezem, and at Tolad,

30 And at Bethuel, and at Hormah, and at Ziklag,

31 And

[h] So called, becauſe he was preferred to the dignity royal, before his brother Jehoiakim which was the elder.

[i] Saint Matthew ſaith, that Zorobabel was ſon to Salathiel, meaning, that he was his nephew, according to the Hebrew ſpeech: for he was Pedaiah's ſon.

[k] So that Shemaiah was Shechaniah's natural ſon, and the other five his nephews, and in all were ſix.

[l] Meaning, they came of Judah, as nephews and kinſmen: for only Pharez was his natural ſon.

[m] The firſt-born of his mother, and not the eldeſt ſon of his father.

[n] Otherwiſe called Othniel, Judg. 1. 31.

[o] It is to be underſtood, that then he would accompliſh his vow which he made.

[p] The Lord of that valley where the artificers did work.

[q] Called alſo Eſron.

[r] They were king David's gardeners, and ſerved him in his works.

[t] Theſe cities belonged to the tribe of Judah, Joſh. 19. 1. and were given to the tribe of Simeon.

Bef. Chr. 1300, &c.

31 And at Beth-marcaboth, and at Hazar-ſuſim, at Beth-birei, and at Shaaraim: theſe were their cities unto the reign of [u] David.

32 And their towns were Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Aſhan, five cities.

33 And all their towns that were round about theſe cities unto Baal. Theſe are their habitations and the declaration of their genealogy.

34 And Meſhobab and Jamlech, and Joſhah the ſon of Amaziah,

35 And Joel, and Jehu the ſon of Joſibiah, the ſon of Seraiah, the ſon of Aſiel,

36 And Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeſhohaiah, and Aſaiah, and Adiel, and Jeſimiel, and Benaiah, 37 And Ziza the ſon of Shiphi, the ſon of Allon, the ſon of Jedaiah, the ſon of Shimri, the ſon of Shemaiah.

38 Theſe were famous princes in their families, and increaſed greatly their fathers houſes.

39 And they [w] went to the entering in of Gedor, even unto the eaſt-ſide of the valley, to ſeek paſture for their ſheep.

40 And they found fat paſture and good, and a wide land, both quiet and fruitful: for they of Ham had dwelt there before.

41 And theſe deſcribed by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and ſmote their tents, and the inhabitants that were found there, and deſtroyed them utterly unto this day, and dwelt in their room, becauſe there was paſture there for their ſheep.

42 And beſides theſe, five hundred men of the ſons of Simeon went to mount Seir, and Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Rephaiah, and Uzziel the ſons of Iſhi, were their captains, 43 And they ſmote the reſt of Amalek that had [x] eſcaped, and they dwelt there unto this day.

CHAP. V.

1 The birthright taken from Reuben and given to the ſons of Joſeph. 3 The genealogy of Reuben, 11 and Gad, 23 and of the half tribe of Manaſſeh.

THE ſons alſo of Reuben the eldeſt ſon of Iſrael (for he was the eldeſt, * but had defiled his father's bed, therefore his birthright was given unto the [y] ſons of Joſeph the ſon of Iſrael, ſo that the genealogy is not reckoned after his birthright.

* Gen. 35. 22. and 49. 4.

2 For Judah prevailed above his brethren, and of him came [z] the prince, but the birthright was Joſeph's)

3 * The ſons of Reuben the eldeſt ſon of Iſrael were Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron and Carmi.

*Gen. 46. 9. Exod. 6. 14. Num. 26. 5.

4 The ſons of Joel, Shemaiah his ſon, Gog his ſon, and Shimei his ſon,

5 Michah his ſon, Reaiah his ſon, and Baal his ſon,

6 Beerah his ſon: whom Tilgath-pilneſer king of Aſſhur [a] carried away: he was a prince of the Reubenites.

7 And when his brethren in their families reckoned the genealogy of their generations, Jeiel and Zechariah were the chief,

8 And Bela the ſon of Azaz, the ſon of Shema, the ſon of Joel, which dwelt in [b] Aroer, even unto Nebo and Baal-meon.

9 Alſo eaſtward he inhabited unto the entering in of the wilderneſs from the river ‡ Perath: for they had much cattle in the land of Gilead.

‡ Or, Euphrates.

10 And in the days of Saul they warred with the [c] Hagarims, which fell by their hands: and they dwelt in their tents in all the eaſt parts of Gilead.

11 ¶ And the children of Gad dwelt over-againſt them in the land of Baſhan unto Salcah.

12 Joel was the chiefeſt, and Shapham the ſecond, but Jaanai and Shaphat were in Baſhan.

13 And their brethren of the houſe of their fathers were Michael, and Meſhullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jahan, and Zia, and Heber, ſeven.

14 Theſe are the children of Abihail, the ſon of Huri, the ſon of Jaroah, the ſon of Gilead, the ſon of Michael, the ſon of Jeſhiſhai, the ſon of Jahdo, the ſon of Buz.

15 Ahi the ſon of Abdiel, the ſon of Guni, was chief of the houſhold of their fathers.

16 And they dwelt in Gilead in [d] Baſhan, and in the towns thereof, and in all the ſuburbs of Sharon by their borders.

17 All theſe were reckoned by genealogies in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam king of Iſrael.

18 ¶ The ſons of Reuben and of Gad, and of half the tribe of Manaſſeh, of thoſe that were valiant men, able to bear ſhield and ſword, and to draw a bow, exerciſed in war, were four and forty thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore, that went out to the war.

19 And they made war with the Hagarims, with [e] Jetur, and Naphiſh, and Nodab.

20 And they were [f] holpen againſt them, and the Hagarims were delivered into their hand, and all that were with them: for they cried to God in the battle, and he heard them, becauſe they truſted in him.

11 And Azariah the ſon of Hilkiah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Zadok, the ſon of Meraioth, the ſon of Ahitub the [z] chief of the houſe of God.

12 And Adaiah the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Paſhhur, the ſon of Malchijah, and Maaſai the ſon of Adiel, the ſon of Jahzerah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Meſhillemith, the ſon of Immer.

13 And their brethren the chief of the houſholds of their fathers, a thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore valiant men for the [a] work of the ſervice of the houſe of God.

14 ¶ And of the Levites, Shemaiah the ſon of Haſhub, the ſon of Azrikam, the ſon of Haſhabiah of the ſons of Merari,

15 And Bakbakkar, Hereſh and Galal, and Mattaniah the ſon of Micha, the ſon of Zichri, the ſon of Aſaph,

16 And Obadiah the ſon of Shemaiah, the ſon of Galal, the ſon of Jeduthun, and Berechiah the ſon of Aza, the ſon of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites.

17 ¶ And the porters were Shallum, and Akkub,

[z] That is, he was the high prieſt.

[a] To ſerve in the temple, every one according to his offices.

Bef. Chr. 1200, &c. Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum was the chief.

18 For they were porters to this time by companies of the children of Levi unto the [b] king's gate Eaſtward.

19 And Shallum the ſon of Kore the ſon of Ebiaſaph the ſon of Korah, and his brethren the Korathites (of the houſe of their father) were over the work and office to keep the gates of the [c] tabernacle: ſo their families were over the hoſt of the Lord, keeping the entry.

20 And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar was their guide, and the Lord was with him.

21 Zechariah the ſon of Meſhelemiah was the porter of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 All theſe were choſen for porters of the gates, two hundred and twelve, which were numbered according to their genealogies by their towns. David eſtabliſhed theſe and Samuel the Seer ‡ in their perpetual office. ‡ Or, for their fidelity.

23 So they and their children had the overſight of the gates of the houſe of the Lord, even of the houſe of the tabernacle by wards.

24 The porters were in four quarters, Eaſtward, Weſtward, Northward, and Southward.

25 And their brethren which were in their towns, came at [d] ſeven days from time to time with them.

26 For theſe four chief porters were in perpetual office, and were of the Levites, and had charge of the ‡ chambers, and of the treaſures in the houſe of God. ‡ Or, opening of the doors.

27 And they lay round about the houſe of God, becauſe the charge was theirs, and they cauſed it to be opened every morning.

28 And certain of them had the rule of the miniſtering veſſels: for they brought them in by tale, and brought them out by tale.

29 Some of them alſo were appointed over the inſtruments, and over all the veſſels of the ſanctuary, and of the [e] flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the incenſe, and the ſweet odours.

30 And certain of the ſons of the prieſts made ointments of ſweet odours.

31 And Mattithiah one of the Levites, which was the eldeſt ſon of Shallum the Korhite, had the charge of the things that were made in the frying-pan.

32 And other of their brethren the ſons of Kohath had the overſight of the * ſhew-bread, to prepare it every ſabbath. * Exod. 25. 30.

33 And theſe are the ſingers, the chief fathers of the Levites, which dwelt in the chambers [f] and had none other charge: for they had to do in that buſineſs day and night.

34 Theſe were the chief fathers of the Levites according to their generations, and the principal which dwelt at Jeruſalem.

* Ch. 8. 29. ‡ Or, Abigibeon. 35 * And in Gibeon dwelt ‡ the father of Gibeon, Jeiel, and the name of his wife was Maachah.

36 And his eldeſt ſon was Abdon, then Zur, and Kiſh, and Baal, and Ner, and Nadab, 37 And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth.

38 And Mikloth begat Shimeam: they alſo dwelt with their brethren at Jeruſalem, even by their brethren. Bef. Chr. 823.

39 And * Ner begat Kiſh, and Kiſh begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan and Malchiſhua, and Abinadab and Eſh-baal. * 1 Sam. 14. 51. Ch. 8. 33.

40 And the ſon of Jonathan was Merib-baal: and Merib-baal begat Micah.

41 And the ſons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech and Tahrea.

42 And Ahaz begat [g] Jarah, and Jarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri, and Zimri begat Moza.

43 And Moza begat Binea, whoſe ſon was Rephaiah, and his ſon was Eleaſah, and his ſon Azel.

44 And Azel had ſix ſons, whoſe names are theſe, Azricam, Bocheru, and Iſhmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan: theſe are the ſons of Azel.

1 The battle of Saul againſt the Philiſtines, 4 In which he dieth, 6 And his ſons alſo. 13 The cauſe of Saul's death.

THEN * the Philiſtines fought againſt Iſrael: and the men of Iſrael fled before the Philiſtines, and fell down ſlain in mount Gilboa. * 1 Sam. 31. 1.

2 And the Philiſtines purſued after Saul, and after his ſons, and the Philiſtines ſmote Jonathan and Abinadab, and Malchiſhua the ſons of Saul.

3 And the battle was ſore againſt Saul, and the archers † hit him, and he was wounded of the archers. † Heb. found.

4 Then ſaid Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw out thy ſword, and thruſt me through therewith, leſt theſe uncircumciſed come and mock at me: but his armour-bearer would not, for he was ſore afraid: therefore Saul took the ſword and fell upon it.

5 And when his armour-bearer ſaw that Saul was dead, he fell likewiſe upon the ſword, and died.

6 So Saul died and his three ſons, and all his houſe, they died together.

7 And when all the men of Iſrael that were in the valley, ſaw how they fled, and that Saul and his ſons were dead, they forſook their cities, and fled away, and the Philiſtines came and dwelt in them.

8 And on the morrow when the Philiſtines came to ſpoil them that were ſlain, they found Saul and his ſons † lying in mount Gilboa. † Heb. fallen.

9 And when they had ſtript him, they took his head, and his armour, and ſent them into the land of the Philiſtines round about, to publiſh it unto their idols, and to the people.

10 And they laid up his armour in the houſe of their god, and ſet up his head in the houſe of [h] Dagon.

11 ¶ When all they of Jabeſh-Gilead heard all that the Philiſtines had done to Saul,

12 Then they aroſe (all the valiant men) and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his ſons,

13 So Saul died for his tranſgreſſion, that he committed againſt the Lord, * even againſt the word of the Lord, which he kept not, and in that he ſought and aſked counſel of a ‡ * familiar ſpirit,

14 And aſked not of the Lord: therefore he ſlew him, and turned the kingdom unto David the ſon of Jeſſe.

CHAP. XI.

3 After the death of Saul is David anointed in Hebron. 5 The Jebuſites rebel againſt David, from whom he taketh the tower of Zion. 6 Joab is made captain. 10 His valiant men.

* 2 Sam. 5. 1.

THEN * all Iſrael [i] gathered themſelves to David unto Hebron, ſaying, Behold, we are thy bones and thy fleſh.

2 And in time paſt, even when Saul was king, thou leddeſt Iſrael out and in: and the Lord thy God ſaid unto thee, Thou ſhalt feed my people Iſrael, and thou ſhalt be captain over my people Iſrael.

* 1 Sam. 16. 13.

3 So came all the elders of Iſrael to the king to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the Lord. And they anointed David king over Iſrael, * according to the word of the Lord by the hand of Samuel.

4 ¶ And David and all Iſrael went to Jeruſalem, which is Jebus, where were the Jebuſites, the inhabitants of the land.

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus ſaid to David, Thou ſhalt not come in hither. Nevertheleſs David took the tower of Zion, which is the city of David.

* 2 Sam. 5. 8.

6 And David ſaid, * Whoſoever ſmiteth the Jebuſites firſt, ſhall be the chief and captain. So Joab the ſon of Zeruiah went firſt up, and was captain.

7 And David dwelt in the tower: therefore they called it the city of David.

* 2 Sam. 5. 9.

8 * And he built the city on every ſide, from Millo even round about, and Joab repaired the reſt of the city.

9 And David proſpered, and grew: for the Lord of hoſts was with him.

* 2 Sam. 23. 8.

10 * Theſe alſo are the chief of the valiant men that were with David, and joined their force with him in his kingdom with all Iſrael, to make him king over Iſrael, according to the word of the Lord.

11 And this is the number of the valiant men whom David had, Jaſhobeam the ſon of Hachmoni, the [k] chief among thirty: he lift up his ſpear againſt three hundred, whom he ſlew at one time.

12 And after him was Eleazar the ſon of ‡ Dodo the Ahohite, which was one of the three valiant men.

13 He was with David at Paſ-dammim, and there the Philiſtines were gathered together to battle: and there was a parcel of ground full of barley, and the people fled before the Philiſtines.

Bef. Chr. 1047.

14 And they ſtood in the midſt of the field, [l] and ſaved it, and ſlew the Philiſtines: ſo the Lord gave a great victory.

15 ¶ And three of the [m] thirty captains went to a rock to David, into the cave of Adullam. And the army of the Philiſtines camped in the valley of Rephaim.

16 And when David was in the hold, the Philiſtines garriſon was at Beth-lehem.

* 2 Sam. 23. 15.

17 And David longed, and ſaid, * Oh that one would give me to drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate!

18 Then theſe three brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and took it and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it for an oblation to the Lord,

19 And ſaid, Let not my God ſuffer me to do this: ſhould I drink the [n] blood of theſe men's lives? for they have brought it with the jeopardy of their lives: therefore he would not drink it: theſe things did theſe three mighty men.

20 ¶ And Abiſhai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three, and he lift up his ſpear againſt three hundred, and ſlew them, and had the name among the three.

* 2 Sam. 23. 19.

21 Among the three he was more honourable than the two, and he was their captain: * but he attained not unto the firſt three.

‡ Or, lions.

22 Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada (the ſon of a valiant man) which had done many acts, and was of Kabzeel, he ſlew two ‡ ſtrong men of Moab: he went down alſo and ſlew a lion in the midſt of a pit in time of ſnow.

23 And he ſlew an Egyptian, a man of great ſtature, even five cubits long, and in the Egyptian's hand was a ſpear like a weaver's beam: and he went down to him with a ſtaff, and plucked the ſpear out of the Egyptian's hand, and ſlew him with his own ſpear.

24 Theſe things did Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and had the name among the three worthies.

* 2 Sam. 23. 23.

25 Behold, he was honourable among thirty, but he attained not unto the [o] firſt three. * And David made him of his counſel.

26 ¶ Theſe alſo were valiant men of war, Aſahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan the ſon of Dodo of Beth-lehem, 13 Jeremiah the tenth, Machbanai the eleventh.

14 Theſe were the ſons of Gad, captains of the hoſt: one of the leaſt could reſiſt an hundred, and the greateſt a thouſand.

15 Theſe are they that went over Jordan in the [u] firſt month when he had filled over all his banks, and put to flight all them of the valley: toward the eaſt and the weſt.

16 And there came of the children of Benjamin, and Judah to the hold unto David,

17 And David went out to meet them, and anſwered and ſaid unto them, If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, mine heart ſhall be knit unto you: but if you come to betray me to mine adverſaries, ſeeing there is no wickedneſs in mine hands, the God of our fathers behold it, and rebuke it.

18 And the [w] ſpirit came upon Amaſai, which was the chief of thirty, and he ſaid, Thine are we, David, and with thee, O ſon of Jeſſe. Peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be unto thine helpers: for thy God helpeth thee. Then David received them, and made them captains of the garriſon.

19 ¶ And of Manaſſeh ſome fell to David, when he came with the Philiſtines againſt Saul to battle, but they [x] helped them not: for the princes of the Philiſtines * by adviſement ſent * 1 Sam. 29. 4.

20 As he went to Ziklag, there fell to him of Manaſſeh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jediael, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Ziltai, heads of the thouſands that were of Manaſſeh.

21 And they helped David againſt [y] that band: for they were all valiant men, and were captains in the hoſt.

22 For at that time day by day there came to David to help him, until it was a great hoſt, like the hoſt of [z] God.

23 And theſe are the numbers of the captains that were armed to battle, and came to David to Hebron to turn the kingdom of Saul to him, according to the word of the Lord.

24 The children of Judah that bare ſhield and ‡ ſpear, were ſix thouſand and eight hundred armed to the war. ‡ Or, buckler.

25 Of the children of Simeon, valiant men of war, ſeven thouſand and an hundred.

26 Of the children of Levi, four thouſand and ſix hundred.

27 And Jehoiada was the chief of them of Aaron:

‡ Or, Nilus.

6 And David went up and all Iſrael to ‡ Baalath, in Kirjath-jearim, that was in Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God the Lord that dwelleth between the cherubims, where his name is called on.

‡ Or, Baal, read 2 Sam. 6. 2.

7 And they carried the ark of God in a new cart out of the houſe of Abinadab: and Uzza and Ahio [h] guided the cart.

8 And David and all Iſrael played before [i] God with all their might, both with ſongs, and with harps, and with viols, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

9 ¶ And when they came unto the threſhing-floor of [k] Chidon, Uzza put forth his hand to hold the ark, for the oxen did ſhake it.

10 But the wrath of the Lord was kindled againſt Uzza, and he ſmote him, becauſe he laid his hand upon the ark: ſo he died there [l] before God.

11 And David was angry, becauſe the Lord had made a breach in Uzza, and he called the name of that place Perez-uzza unto this day.

12 And David feared God that day, ſaying, How ſhall I bring in to me the ark of God?

13 Therefore David brought not the ark to him into the city of David, but cauſed it to turn into the houſe of [m] Obed-Edom the Gittite.

14 So the ark of God remained in the houſe of Obed-Edom, even in his houſe three months: and the Lord bleſſed the houſe of Obed-Edom, and all that he had.

8 But when the Philiſtines heard that David was anointed king over Iſrael, all the Philiſtines came up to ſeek David. And when David heard, he went out againſt them.

9 And the Philiſtines came, and ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim.

10 Then David aſked counſel at God, ſaying, Shall I go up againſt the Philiſtines, and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the Lord ſaid unto him, Go up: for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim, and David ſmote them there: and David ſaid, God hath divided mine enemies with mine hand, as waters are divided: therefore they called the name of that place, [p] Baal-perazim.

12 And there they had left their gods: and David ſaid, Let them be even burnt with fire.

13 Again the Philiſtines came and ſpread themſelves in the valley.

14 And when David aſked again counſel at God, God ſaid to him, Thou ſhalt not go up after them, but turn away from them, that thou mayeſt come upon them over-againſt the mulberry-trees.

15 And when thou heareſt the noiſe of one going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, then go out to battle: for God is gone forth before thee, to ſmite the hoſt of the Philiſtines.

16 So David did as God had commanded him: and they ſmote the hoſt of the Philiſtines from Gibeon even to Gezer.

17 And the fame of David went out into all lands: and the Lord brought the fear of him upon all nations.

CHAP. XV.

1 David prepareth an houſe for the ark. 4 The number and order of the Levites. 16 The ſingers are choſen out among them. 25 They bring again the ark with joy. 29 David dancing before it, is deſpiſed of his wife Michal.

AND David made him houſes in the [q] city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent.

* Num. 4. 2, 20. 2 Then David ſaid, * None ought to carry the ark of God, but the Levites: for the Lord hath choſen them to bear the ark of the Lord, and to miniſter unto him for ever.

3 ¶ And David gathered all Iſrael together to Jeruſalem to bring up the [r] ark of the Lord unto his place, which he had ordained for it.

4 And David aſſembled the ſons of Aaron, and the Levites. Bef. Chr. 1042.

5 Of the ſons of Kohath, Uriel the chief, and his ‡ brethren ſixſcore.

6 Of the ſons of Merari, Aſaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty. ‡ Or, kinſmen.

7 Of the ſons of Gerſhom, Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty.

8 Of the ſons of [s] Elizaphan, Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred.

9 Of the ſons of [t] Hebron, Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourſcore.

10 Of the ſons of Uzziel, Amminadab the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve.

11 ¶ And David called Zadok and Abiathar the prieſts, and of the Levites, Uriel, Aſaiah and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Amminadab:

12 And he ſaid unto them, Ye are the chief fathers of the Levites: [u] ſanctify yourſelves, and your brethren, and bring up the ark of the Lord God of Iſrael unto the place that I have prepared for it.

13 For * becauſe ye were not there at the firſt, the Lord our God made a breach among us: for we ſought him not after due [w] order. * Ch. 13. 10.

14 So the prieſts and the Levites ſanctified themſelves to bring up the ark of the Lord God of Iſrael.

15 ¶ And the ſons of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their ſhoulders with the bars, as Moſes had commanded, * according to the word of the Lord. * Exod. 25. 14, 15.

16 And David ſpake to the chief of the Levites, that they ſhould appoint certain of their brethren to ſing with [x] inſtruments of muſick, with viols and harps, and cymbals, that they might make a ſound, and lift up their voice with joy.

17 So the Levites appointed Heman the ſon of Joel, and his brethren Aſaph the ſon of Berechiah, and of the ſons of Merari their brethren, Ethan the ſon of Kuſhaiah,

18 And with them their brethren in the [y] ſecond degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benajah, and Maaſeiah, and Mattithiah, and Eliphaleh, and Mikneah, and Obed-Edom, and Jeiel the porters.

19 So Heman, Aſaph, and Ethan were ſingers to make a ſound with cymbals of braſs:

20 And Zechariah and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaſeiah and Benaiah with viols on [z] Alamoth, 21 And Mattithiah, and Eliphaleh, and Mikneah, and Obed-Edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps upon [a] Sheminith Jenazzeah.

22 But Chenaniah the chief of the Levites had [b] the charge, bearing the burden in the charge, for he was able to inſtruct.

24 And Shecaniah, and Jehoſhaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amaſai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer the prieſts did blow with trumpets before the ark of God: and Obed-Edom, and Jehiah were porters [c] for the ark.

* 2 Sam. 6. 12. 25 * So David, and the elders of Iſrael, and the captains of thouſands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord from the houſe of Obed-Edom with joy.

26 And becauſe that God [d] helped the Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, they offered [e] ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams.

27 And David had on him a linen garment, as all the Levites that bare the ark, and the ſingers, and Chenaniah that had the chief charge of the ſingers: and upon David was a linen [f] ephod.

28 Thus all Iſrael brought up the ark of the Lord's covenant with ſhouting and ſound of cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a ſound with viols and with harps.

29 And when the ark of the [g] covenant of the Lord came into the city of David, Michal the daughter of Saul looked out a window, and ſaw king David dancing and playing: and * ſhe deſpiſed him in her heart. * 2 Sam. 6. 16.

* 2 Sam. 6. 17. SO * they brought in the ark of God, and ſet it in the midſt of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it, and they offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before God.

2 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings and the peace-offerings, he [h] bleſſed the people in the name of the Lord.

3 And he dealt to every one of Iſrael both man and woman, to every one a cake of bread, and a piece of fleſh, and a bottle of wine.

4 And he appointed certain of the Levites to miniſter before the ark of the Lord, and to [i] rehearſe, and to thank and praiſe the Lord God of Iſrael:

5 Aſaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-Edom, even Jeiel with inſtruments, viols, and harps, and Aſaph to make a ſound with cymbals.

7 Then at that time David did [k] appoint at the beginning to give thanks to the Lord by the hand of Aſaph, and his brethren.

8 * Praiſe the Lord, and call upon his name: declare his [l] works among the people. * Pſ. 105. 1. Iſa. 12. 4.

21 He ſuffered no man to do them wrong, but rebuked [q] kings for their ſakes, ſaying,

22 Touch not mine [r] anointed, and do my [s] prophets no harm.

23 * Sing unto the Lord all the earth: declare his ſalvation from day to day. * Pſ. 95. 1.

24 Declare his glory among the nations, and his wonderful works among all people.

25 For the Lord is great, and much to be praiſed, and he is to be feared above all gods.

26 For all the gods of the people are [t] idols: but the Lord made the heavens.

27 Praiſe and glory are before him: power and beauty are in his place.

28 Give unto the Lord, ye families of the people, give unto the Lord glory and power.

29 Give unto the Lord the glory of his name: bring an offering, and come before him, and worſhip the Lord in the glorious ſanctuary.

30 [u] Tremble ye before him, all the earth: ſurely the world ſhall be ſtable, and not move.

38 And Obed-Edom, and his brethren, threeſcore and eight: and Obed-Edom the ſon of Jeduthun, and Hoſah were porters.

39 And Zadok the prieſt and his brethren the prieſts were before the tabernacle of the Lord, in the high place that was at Gibeon,

40 To offer burnt-offerings unto the Lord, upon the burnt-offering altar continually, in the morning and in the evening, even according unto all that is written in the law of the Lord, which he commanded Iſrael.

* 2 Sam. 7. 2.

NOW * afterward when David dwelt in his houſe, he ſaid to Nathan the prophet, Behold, I dwell in an houſe of [c] cedar trees, but the ark of the Lord's covenant remaineth under [d] curtains.

2 Then Nathan ſaid to David, Do [e] all that is in thine heart: for God is with thee.

3 And the ſame [f] night even the word of God came to Nathan, ſaying,

4 Go, and tell David my ſervant, Thus ſaith the Lord, Thou ſhalt not build me an houſe to dwell in:

5 For I have dwelt in no houſe ſince the day that I brought out the children of Iſrael unto this day, but I have been from [g] tent to tent, and from habitation to habitation.

6 Whereſoever I have [h] walked with all Iſrael, ſpake I one word to any of the judges of Iſrael (whom I commanded to feed my people) ſaying, Why have ye not built me an houſe of cedar trees?

7 Now therefore thus ſhalt thou ſay unto my ſervant David, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I took thee from the ſheep-cote, [i] and from following the ſheep, that thou ſhouldſt be a prince over my people Iſrael.

8 And I have been with thee whitherſoever thou haſt walked, and have deſtroyed all thine enemies out of thy ſight, and have ‡ made thee a name, like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

‡ Or, gotten thee fame.

9 (Alſo I will appoint a place for my people Iſrael, and [k] will plant it, that they may dwell in their place, and move no more: neither ſhall the † wicked people ‡ vex them any more, as at the beginning,

† Heb. ſons of iniquity. ‡ Or, conſume.

10 And ſince the time that I commanded judges over my people Iſrael). And I will ſubdue all thine enemies: therefore I ſay unto thee, that the Lord will [l] build thee an houſe.

11 And when thy days ſhall be fulfilled to go with thy fathers, then will I raiſe up thy ſeed after thee, which ſhall be of thy ſons, and will eſtabliſh his kingdom.

12 He ſhall build me an houſe, and I will eſtabliſh his throne for [m] ever.

13 I will be his father, and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before [n] thee.

14 But I will eſtabliſh him in mine houſe, and in my kingdom for ever, and his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever,

15 According to all theſe words, and according to all this viſion: ſo Nathan ſpake to David.

16 ¶ And David the king [o] went in and ‡ ſat before the Lord, and ſaid, Who am I, O Lord God, and what is mine houſe, that thou haſt brought me [p] hitherto?

‡ Or, remained.

17 Yet thou eſteeming this a ſmall thing, O God, haſt alſo ſpoken concerning the houſe of thy ſervant for a great while, and haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of [q] high degree, O Lord God.

18 What can David deſire more of thee, for the honour of thy ſervant? for thou knoweſt thy ſevant.

19 O Lord, for thy ſervant's ſake, even according to thine [r] heart haſt thou done all this great thing to declare all magnificence.

20 Lord, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beſide thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

21 Moreover, what one nation in the earth is like thy people Iſrael, whoſe God went to redeem them to be his people, and to make thyſelf a name, and to do great and terrible things by caſting out nations from before thy people, whom thou haſt delivered out of Egypt?

22 For thou haſt ordained thy people Iſrael to be thine own people for ever, and thou Lord art become their God.

23 Therefore now Lord, let the thing that thou haſt ſpoken concerning thy ſervant, and concerning his houſe, be confirmed for ever, and do as thou haſt ſaid,

24 And let thy name be ſtable and magnified for ever, that it may be ſaid, The Lord of hoſts, God of Iſrael, is the God of [s] Iſrael, and let the houſe of David thy ſervant be eſtabliſhed before thee.

25 For thou, O my God, haſt [t] revealed unto the ear of thy ſervant, that thou wilt build him an houſe: therefore thy ſervant hath † been bold to pray before thee.

26 Therefore now Lord (for thou art [u] God, and haſt ſpoken this goodneſs unto thy ſervant.)

27 Now therefore it hath pleaſed thee to bleſs the houſe of thy ſervant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou, O Lord, haſt bleſſed it, and it ſhall be bleſſed for ever.

1 The battle of David againſt the Philiſtines, 2 And againſt Moab, 3 Zobah, 5 Aram, 12 And Edom.

AND after this, David ſmote the Philiſtines, and ſubdued them, and took [w] Gath, and the villages thereof out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

2 And he ſmote Moab, and the Moabites became David's ſervants, ‡ and brought gifts.

3 ¶ And David ſmote ‡ Hadarezer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to eſtabliſh his border by the river ‡ Perath.

5 ¶ Then came the Aramites of Damaſcus to ſuccour Hadarezer king of Zobah, but David ſlew of the Aramites two and twenty thouſand.

6 And David put a garriſon in Aram of ‡ Damaſcus, and the Aramites became David's ſervants, and brought gifts: and the Lord [x] preſerved David whereſoever he went.

‡ Or, Darmeſek.

7 And David took the ſhields of gold that were of the ſervants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jeruſalem.

8 And from [y] Tibhath, and from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought David exceeding much braſs, wherewith Solomon made the braſen * ſea, and the pillars, and the veſſels of braſs.

* 1 Kings 7. 23. Jer. 52. 20.

9 ¶ Then Tou king of Hamath heard how David had ſmitten all the hoſt of Hadarezer king of Zobah:

10 Therefore he ſent [z] Hadoram his ſon to king David, to ſalute him, and to rejoice with him, becauſe he had fought againſt Hadarezer, and beaten him (for Tou had war with Hadarezer) who brought all veſſels of gold, and ſilver, and braſs.

11 And king David did dedicate them unto the Lord, with the ſilver and gold that he brought from all the nations, from [a] Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philiſtines, and from Amalek.

12 ¶ And Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah ſmote of Edom in the ſalt valley [b] eighteen thouſand.

13 And he put a garriſon in Edom, and all the Edomites became David's ſervants: and the Lord preſerved David whereſoever he went.

14 So David reigned over all Iſrael, and executed judgment and juſtice to all his people.

15 And Joab the ſon of Zeruiah was over the hoſt, and Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud recorder,

16 And Zadok the ſon of Ahitub, and Abimelech the ſon of Abiathar were the prieſts, and ‡ Shauſha the ſcribe,

7 And they hired them two and thirty thouſand chariots, and the king of Maachah and his people, which came and pitched before [i] Medeba: and the children of Ammon gathered themſelves together from their cities, and came to the battle.

8 ¶ And when David heard, he ſent Joab and all the hoſt of the valiant men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and ſet their battle in array at the gate of the city. And the kings that were come, were by themſelves in the field.

10 When Joab ſaw that the front of the battle was againſt him before and behind, then he choſe out of all the choice of Iſrael, and ſet himſelf in array to meet the Aramites.

11 And the reſt of the people he delivered unto the hand of Abiſhai his brother, and they put themſelves in array againſt the children of Ammon.

12 And he ſaid, If Aram be too ſtrong for me, then thou ſhalt ſuccour me: and if the children of Ammon prevail againſt thee, then I will ſuccour thee.

13 Be ſtrong, and let us ſhew ourſelves valiant for our [k] people, and for the cities of our God, and let the Lord do that which is good in his own ſight.

14 So Joab and the people that was with him, came near before the Aramites unto the battle, and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon ſaw that the Aramites fled, they fled alſo before Abiſhai his brother, and entered into the city: ſo Joab came to Jeruſalem.

16 ¶ And when the Aramites ſaw that they were diſcomfited before Iſrael, they ſent meſſengers, and cauſed the Aramites to come forth that were beyond the [l] river: and Shophach the captain of the hoſt of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And when it was ſhewed David, he gathered all Iſrael, and went over Jordan, and came unto them, and put himſelf in array againſt them: And when David had put himſelf in battle array to meet the Aramites, they fought with him.

18 But the Aramites fled before Iſrael, and David deſtroyed of the Aramites [m] ſeven thouſand chariots, and forty thouſand footmen, and killed Shophach the captain of the hoſt. Bef. Chr. 1036.

19 And when the ſervants of Hadarezer ſaw that they fell before Iſrael, they made peace with David, and ſerved him. And the Aramites would no more ſuccour the children of Ammon.

AND * when the year was expired, in the time that kings go out a warfare, Joab carried out the ſtrength of the army, and deſtroyed the country of the children of Ammon, and came and beſieged [n] Rabbah (but David tarried at Jeruſalem) and Joab ſmote Rabbah and deſtroyed it.

3 And Joab anſwered, The Lord increaſe his people an hundred times ſo many as they be, O my lord the king: are they not all my lord's ſervants? wherefore doth my lord require this thing? why ſhould he be a cauſe of [t] treſpaſs to Iſrael?

4 Nevertheleſs, the king's word prevailed againſt Joab. And Joab departed and went through all Iſrael, and returned to Jeruſalem.

5 And Joab gave the number and ſum of the people unto David: and all Iſrael were [u] eleven hundred thouſand men that drew ſword: and Judah was [w] four hundred and ſeventy thouſand men that drew ſword.

6 But the Levites and Benjamin counted he not among them: for the king's word was abominable to Joab.

7 ¶ And God was diſpleaſed with this thing: therefore he ſmote Iſrael.

8 Then David ſaid unto God, I have ſinned greatly, becauſe I have done this thing: but now, I beſeech thee, remove the iniquity of thy ſervant: for I have done very fooliſhly.

9 And the Lord ſpake unto Gad, David's ‡ ſeer, ſaying,

‡ Or, prophet.

10 Go and tell David, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, I offer thee three things: chuſe thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

11 So Gad came to David, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord, Take to thee

12 Either three years famine, or three months to be deſtroyed before thine adverſaries, and the ſword of thine enemies ‡ to take thee, or elſe the ſword of the Lord and peſtilence in the land three days, that the angel of the Lord might deſtroy throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael: now therefore adviſe thee, what word I ſhall bring again to him that ſent me.

‡ Or, ſmite thee.

13 And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a wonderful ſtrait: let me now fall into the hand of the Lord: for his mercies are exceeding great, and let me not fall into the hand of man.

14 So the Lord ſent a peſtilence in Iſrael, and there fell of Iſrael ſeventy thouſand men.

15 ¶ And God ſent the angel into Jeruſalem to deſtroy it. And [x] as he was deſtroying, the Lord beheld, and [y] repented of the evil, and ſaid to the angel that deſtroyed it, It is now enough, let thine hand ceaſe. Then the angel of the Lord ſtood by the threſhing-floor of ‡ Ornan the Jebuſite.

‡ Or, Araunah.

16 And David lift up his eyes, and ſaw the angel of the Lord ſtand between the earth and the heaven with his ſword drawn in his hand, and ſtretched out toward Jeruſalem. Then David and the elders of Iſrael, which were clothed in ſack, fell upon their faces.

17 And David ſaid unto God, Is it not I that commanded to number the people? It is even I that have ſinned and have committed evil, but theſe ſheep what have they done? O Lord my God, I beſeech thee, let thine hand be on me and on my father's houſe, and not on [z] thy people for their deſtruction.

18 ¶ Then the angel of the Lord commanded Gad to ſay to David, that David ſhould go up, and ſet up an altar unto the Lord in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.

19 So David went up according to the ſaying of Gad, which he had ſpoken in the name of the Lord.

20 And Ornan turned about and ſaw the angel: and his four ſons, that were with him, [a] hid themſelves, and Ornan threſhed wheat.

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and ſaw David, and went out of the threſhing-floor, and bowed himſelf to David with his face to the ground.

22 And David ſaid to Ornan, Give me the place of thy threſhing-floor, that I may build an [b] altar therein unto the Lord: give it me for ſufficient money, that the plague may be ſtayed from the people.

23 Then Ornan ſaid unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which ſeemeth him good: lo, I give thee bullocks for burnt-offerings, and threſhing-inſtruments for wood, and wheat for meat-offering, I give it all.

24 And king David ſaid to Ornan, Not ſo: but I will buy it for ſufficient [c] money: for I will not take that which is thine for the Lord, nor offer burnt-offerings without coſt.

25 So David gave to Ornan for that place [d] ſix hundred ſhekels of gold by weight.

26 And David built there an altar unto the Lord, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, and called upon the Lord, and he [e] anſwered him by fire from heaven upon the altar of burnt-offering.

27 And when the Lord had ſpoken to the angel, he put up his ſword again into his ſheath.

28 At that time when David ſaw that the Lord had heard him in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite, then he ſacrificed there.

29 (But the tabernacle of the Lord which Moſes had made in the wilderneſs, and the altar of burnt-offering were at that ſeaſon in the high place at Gibeon.

30 And David could not go before it to aſk counſel at God: for he was afraid of the ſword of the angel of the Lord.)

[t] It was a thing indifferent and uſual to number the people, but becauſe he did it of an ambitious mind, as though his ſtrength ſtood in his people, God puniſhed him.

[u] Joab partly for grief and partly through negligence, gathered not the whole ſum, as it is here declared.

[w] In Samuel is mention of thirty thouſand more: which was either by joining to them ſome of the Benjamites which were mixed with Judah, or as the Hebrews write, here the chief and princes are left out.

[y] When God draweth back his plagues, he ſeemeth to repent, read Gen. 6. 6.

[a] If a man hide himſelf at the ſight of an angel which is a creature, how much leſs is a ſinner able to appear before the face of God?

[b] Thus he did by the commandment of God, as ver. 18, for elſe it had been abominable, except he had either God's word, or revelation.

[c] That is, as much as it is worth: for having enough of his own, and yet to have taken of another man's goods to offer unto the Lord, it had been theft, and not acceptable to God.

[d] Read 2 Sam. 24. 24.

CHAP. XXII.

2 David prepareth things neceſſary for the building of the temple. 6 He commandeth his ſon Solomon to build the temple of the Lord, which thing he himſelf was forbidden to do. 9 Under the figure of Solomon Chriſt is promiſed.

AND David ſaid, This is the [e] houſe of the Lord God, and this is the altar for the burnt-offering of Iſrael.

2 And David commanded to gather together the [f] ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael, and he ſet maſons to hew and poliſh ſtones to build the houſe of God.

3 David alſo prepared [g] much iron for the nails of the doors, and of the gates, and for the joinings, and abundance of braſs paſſing weight,

4 And cedar trees without number: for the Zidonians, and they of Tyrus, brought much cedar wood to David.

5 And David ſaid, Solomon my ſon is young and tender, and we muſt build an houſe for the Lord, magnifical, excellent, and of great fame and dignity throughout all countries: I will therefore now prepare for him. So David prepared very much before his death.

6 Then he called Solomon his ſon, and charged him to build an houſe for the Lord God of Iſrael.

7 And David ſaid to Solomon, * My ſon, I purpoſed with myſelf to build an houſe to the name of the Lord my God,

* 2 Sam. 7. 13.

8 But the word of the Lord came to me, ſaying, * [h] Thou haſt ſhed much blood, and haſt made great battles: thou ſhalt not build an houſe unto my name: for thou haſt ſhed much blood upon the earth in my ſight.

* Ch. 28. 3.

9 Behold, a ſon is born to thee, which ſhall be a man of reſt, for I will give him reſt from all his enemies round about: therefore his name is Solomon: and I will ſend peace and quietneſs upon Iſrael in his days.

10 * He ſhall build an houſe for my name, and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will be his father, and I will eſtabliſh the throne of his kingdom upon Iſrael for ever.

* 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Kings 5. 5.

11 Now therefore my ſon, the Lord ſhall be with thee, and thou ſhalt [i] proſper, and thou ſhalt build an houſe to the Lord thy God, as he hath ſpoken of thee.

12 Only the Lord give thee [k] wiſdom and underſtanding, and give thee charge over Iſrael, even to keep the law of the Lord thy God.

13 Then thou ſhalt proſper, if thou take heed to obſerve the ſtatutes and the judgments which the Lord commanded Moſes for Iſrael: be ſtrong, and of good courage: fear not, neither be afraid.

14 For behold, according to my [l] poverty have I prepared for the houſe of the Lord, an hundred thouſand talents of gold, and a thouſand thouſand talents of ſilver, and of braſs, and of iron paſſing weight: for there was abundance: I have alſo prepared timber and ſtone, and thou mayſt provide more thereto.

Bef. Chr. 1017.

15 Moreover, thou haſt workmen with thee enough, ‡ hewers of ſtone, and workmen for timber, and all men expert in every work.

16 Of gold, of ſilver, and of braſs, and of iron there is no number: [m] up therefore, and be doing, and the Lord will be with thee.

17 David alſo commanded all the princes of Iſrael to help Solomon his ſon, ſaying,

18 Is not the Lord your God with you, and hath given you reſt on every ſide? for he hath given the [n] inhabitants of the land into mine hand, and the land is ſubdued before the Lord, and before his people.

19 Now ſet [o] your hearts and your ſouls to ſeek the Lord your God, and ariſe, and build the ſanctuary of the Lord God to bring the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and the holy veſſels of God into the houſe built for the name of the Lord.

The Second Book of the CHRONICLES.

THE ARGUMENT.

The ſecond book containeth briefly in effect that which is comprehended in the two books of the kings: that is, from the reign of Solomon to the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and the carrying away of the people captive into Babylon. In this ſtory are certain things declared and ſet forth more copiouſly than in the books of the kings, and therefore ſerve greatly to the underſtanding of the prophets. But three things are here chiefly to be conſidered. Firſt, that the godly kings, when they ſaw the plagues of God prepared againſt their country for ſin, had recourſe to the Lord, and by earneſt prayer were heard, and the plagues removed. The ſecond, how it is a thing that greatly offendeth God, that ſuch as fear him and profeſs his religion, ſhould join in amity with the wicked. And thirdly, how the good rulers ever loved the prophets of God, and were very zealous to ſet forth his religion throughout all their dominions, and contrariwiſe the wicked hated his miniſters, depoſed them, and for the true religion and word of God, ſet up idolatry, and ſerved God according to the fancy of men. Thus have we hitherto the chief acts from the beginning of the world to the building again of Jeruſalem, which was the two and thirtieth year of Darius, and contain in the whole three thouſand five hundred threeſcore and eighteen years and ſix months.

CHAP. I.

6 The offering of Solomon at Gibeon. 8 He prayeth unto God to give him wiſdom: 11 Which he giveth him, and more. 14 The number of his chariots and horſemen, 15 and of his riches.

‡ Or, ſtabliſhed, and ſtrong, read 1 Kings 2. 46.

THEN Solomon the ſon of David was ‡ confirmed in his kingdom: and the Lord his God was with him, and magnified him highly.

2 And Solomon [a] ſpake unto all Iſrael, to the captains of thouſands, and of hundreds, and to the judges, and to all the governors in all Iſrael, even the chief fathers.

3 So Solomon and all the congregation with him went to the high place that was at [b] Gibeon: for there was the tabernacle [c] of the congregation of God which Moſes the ſervant of the Lord had made in the wilderneſs.

4 But the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim, when David had made preparation for it: for he had pitched a tent for it in Jeruſalem.

* Exod. 38. 1, 2.

5 Moreover, the [d] braſen altar * that Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur had made, did he ſet before the tabernacle of the Lord: and Solomon and the congregation ſought it.

* 1 Kings 3. 4.

6 And Solomon offered there before the Lord upon the braſen altar that was in the tabernacle of the congregation: * even a thouſand burnt-offerings offered he upon it.

Bef. Chr. 1015.

7 ¶ The ſame night did God appear unto Solomon, and ſaid unto him, Aſk what I ſhall give thee.

8 And Solomon ſaid unto God, Thou haſt ſhewed great mercy unto David my father, and haſt made me to reign in his ſtead.

9 Now therefore, O Lord God, let thy promiſe unto David my father be [e] true: for thou haſt made me king over a great people, like to the duſt of the earth.

10 Give me now wiſdom and knowledge, that I may [f] go out and go in before this people: for who can judge this thy great people?

11 And God ſaid to Solomon, Becauſe this was in thine heart, and thou haſt not aſked riches, treaſures, nor honour, nor the [g] lives of thine enemies, neither yet haſt aſked long life, but haſt aſked for thee wiſdom and knowledge that thou mighteſt judge my people, over whom I have made thee king,

12 Wiſdom and knowledge is granted unto thee, and I will give thee riches and treaſures, and honour, ſo that there hath not been the like among the kings which were before thee, neither after thee ſhall there be the like.

13 Then Solomon came from the high place that was at Gibeon, to Jeruſalem from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned over Iſrael.

* 1 Kings 10. 26.

14 * And Solomon gathered the chariots and horſemen: and he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen, whom he placed in the [h] chariot cities, and with the king at Jeruſalem.

15 And the king gave ſilver and gold at Jeruſalem as [i] ſtones, and gave cedar-trees as the wild fig-trees, that are abundantly in the plain.

16 Alſo Solomon had horſes brought out of Egypt, and * fine linen: [k] the king's merchants received the fine linen for a price.

* Iſa. 19. 9. Ezek. 27. 7.

17 They came up alſo and brought out of Egypt ſome chariots, worth ſix hundred ſhekels of ſilver, that is, an horſe for an hundred and fifty: and thus they brought horſes to all the kings of the Hittites, and to the kings of Aram by their † means.

CHAP. II.

2 The number of Solomon's workmen to build the temple. 3 Solomon ſendeth to Huram the king of Tyrus for wood and workmen.

THEN Solomon determined to build an houſe for the name of the Lord, and an ‡ houſe for his kingdom.

‡ Or, palace.

2 And Solomon told out ſeventy thouſand that bare burdens, and fourſcore thouſand men to hew ſtones in the mountain, and three thouſand and [l] ſix hundred to overſee them.

3 And Solomon ſent to ‡ Huram the king of Tyrus, ſaying, As thou haſt done to David my father, and * didſt ſend him cedar-trees to build him an houſe to dwell in, ſo do to me.

‡ Or, Hiram.

* 2 Sam. 5. 11.

4 Behold, I build an houſe unto the name of the Lord my God, to ſanctify it unto him, and to burn ſweet incenſe before him, and for the continual ſhew-bread, and for the burnt-offerings of the morning and evening on the ſabbath days, and in the new moons, and in the ſolemn feaſts of the Lord our God: this is a perpetual thing for Iſrael.

5 And the houſe which I build is great: for great is our God above all gods.

6 Who is he then that can be able to build him an houſe, when the heaven, and the heaven of heavens cannot contain him? who am I then that I ſhould build him an houſe? but I do it to burn [m] incenſe before him.

7 Send me now therefore a cunning man that can work in gold, in ſilver, and in braſs, and in iron, and in purple, and ‡ crimſon, and blue ſilk, and that can grave in graven work with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jeruſalem, whom David my father hath prepared.

8 Send me alſo cedar-trees, fir-trees, and [n] ‡ almuggim-trees from Lebanon: for I know that thy ſervants can ſkill to hew timber in Lebanon: and behold, my ſervants ſhall be with thine,

‡ Or, almuggim.

9 That they may prepare me timber in abundance: for the houſe which I do build is great and wonderful.

10 And behold, I will give to thy ſervants the cutters and the hewers of timber twenty thouſand † meaſures of beaten wheat, and twenty thouſand meaſures of barley, and twenty thouſand baths of wine, and twenty [o] thouſand baths of oil.

† Heb. Corim.

11 Then Huram king of Tyrus anſwered in writing which he ſent to Solomon, Becauſe the Lord hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them.

12 Huram ſaid moreover, Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael, which made the heaven and the earth, and that hath given unto David the king a [p] wiſe ſon, that hath diſcretion, prudence, and underſtanding, to build an houſe for the Lord, and a palace for his kingdom.

13 Now therefore I have ſent a wiſe man, and of underſtanding of my father Huram's,

14 The ſon of a woman of the [q] daughters of Dan: and his father was a man of Tyrus, and he can ſkill to work in gold, in ſilver, in braſs, in iron, in ſtone, and in timber, in purple, in blue ſilk, and in fine linen, and in crimſon, and can grave in all graven works, and broider in all broidered work that ſhall be given him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord David thy father.

15 Now therefore the wheat and the barley, the oil and the wine, which my lord hath ſpoken of, let him ſend unto his ſervants.

16 And we will cut wood in Lebanon, as much as thou ſhalt need, and will bring it to thee in ‡ rafts by the ſea to ‡ Japho, ſo thou mayſt carry them to Jeruſalem.

‡ Or, ſhips.
‡ Or, Joppe.

17 ¶ And Solomon numbered all the ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael, after the numbering that his father David had numbered them: and they were found an hundred and three and fifty thouſand and ſix hundred.

18 And he ſet ſeventy thouſand of them to the burden, and fourſcore thouſand to hew ſtones in the mountain, and three thouſand and ſix hundred overſeers to cauſe the people to work.

CHAP. III.

1 The temple of the Lord, and the porch are builded, with other things thereto belonging.

3 And theſe are the meaſures whereon Solomon grounded to build the houſe of God: the length of cubits after the firſt [s] meaſure was threeſcore cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits:

4 And the porch that was before the length in the front [t] of the breadth was twenty cubits, and the height was an [u] hundred and twenty, and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

5 And the greater houſe he cieled with fir-tree which he overlaid with good gold, and graved thereon palm-trees and chains.

6 And he overlaid the houſe with precious ſtone for beauty: and the gold was gold of [w] Parvaim.

7 The houſe, I ſay, the beams, poſts, and walls thereof and the doors thereof overlaid he with gold, and graved cherubims upon the walls.

8 ¶ He made alſo the houſe of the moſt holy place: the length thereof was in the front of the breadth of the houſe, twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits: and he overlaid it with the beſt gold, of ſix hundred talents.

9 And the weight of the nails was fifty ſhekels of gold: and he overlaid the chambers with gold.

10 ¶ And in the houſe of the moſt holy place he made two cherubims wrought like children, and overlaid them with gold.

11 * And the wings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long: the one wing was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the houſe, and the other wing five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub.

* 1 Kings 6. 24.

12 Likewiſe the wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the houſe, and the other wing five cubits joining to the wing of the other cherub.

13 The wings of theſe cherubims were ſpread abroad twenty cubits: they ſtood on their feet, and their faces were toward the houſe.

14 ¶ He made alſo [x] the vail of blue ſilk and purple, and crimſon, and fine linen, and wrought cherubims thereon.

15 ¶ And he made before the houſe two pillars [y] of five and thirty cubits high: and the chapiter that was upon the top of each of them was five cubits.

16 He made alſo chains for the oracle, and put them on the heads of the pillars, and made an [z] hundred pomegranates, and put them among the chains.

17 And he ſet up the pillars before the temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left, and called that on the right hand Jachin, and that on the left hand Boaz.

CHAP. IV.

1 The altar of braſs. 2 The molten ſea. 6 The caldrons. 7 The candleſticks, &c.

AND he made an altar of braſs twenty cubits long, and twenty cubits broad, and ten cubits high.

2 And he made a molten [a] ſea of ten cubits from brim to brim, round in compaſs, and five cubits high: and a line of thirty cubits did compaſs it about.

3 And under [b] it was the faſhion of oxen, which did compaſs it round about, [c] ten in a cubit compaſſing the ſea about: two rows of oxen were caſt when it was molten.

4 It ſtood upon twelve oxen: three looked toward the north, and three looked toward the weſt, and three looked toward the ſouth, and three looked toward the eaſt, and the ſea ſtood above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

5 And the thickneſs thereof was an hand breadth, and the brim thereof was like the work of the brim of a cup, with flowers of ‡ lilies: it contained [d] three thouſand baths.

6 ¶ He made alſo ten caldrons, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to waſh in them, and to cleanſe in them that which appertained to the burnt-offerings: but the ſea was for the prieſts to waſh in.

7 ¶ And he made ten candleſticks of gold (according to their [e] form) and put them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

8 ¶ And he made ten tables, and put them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left: and he made an hundred baſons of gold.

9 And he made the court of the prieſts, and the great [f] court, and doors for the court, and overlaid the doors thereof with braſs.

10 And he ſet the ſea on the right ſide eaſtward toward the ſouth.

11 And Huram made ‡ pots, and beſoms, and baſons, and Huram finiſhed the work that he ſhould make for king Solomon for the houſe of God.

12 To wit, two pillars, and the bowls, and the chapiters on the top of the two pillars, and two grates to cover the two bowls of the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars:

13 And four hundred pomegranates for the two grates, two rows of pomegranates for every grate to cover the two bowls of the chapiters that were upon the pillars.

14 He made alſo baſes, and made caldrons upon the baſes:

15 And a ſea, and twelve bulls under it:

16 Pots alſo and beſoms, and fleſh-hooks, and all theſe veſſels made [g] Huram his father, to king Solomon for the houſe of the Lord, of ſhining braſs.

Bef. Chr. 1012. 18 And Solomon made all theſe veſſels in great abundance: for the weight of braſs could not be reckoned.

19 And Solomon made all the veſſels that were for the houſe of God: the golden altar alſo and the tables whereon the [h] ſhew-bread ſtood.

CHAP. V.

1 The things dedicated by David are put in the temple. 2 The ark is brought into the temple. 10 What was within it. 12 They ſing praiſes to the Lord.

* 1 Kings 7. 51. and 8. 1. SO * was all the work finiſhed that Solomon made for the houſe of the Lord, and Solomon brought in the things that David his father had dedicated, with the ſilver and the gold, and all the veſſels, and put them among the treaſures of the houſe of God.

2 Then Solomon aſſembled the elders of Iſrael, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief fathers of the children of Iſrael unto Jeruſalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord from the [k] city of David, which is Zion.

3 And all the men of Iſrael aſſembled unto the king at the [l] feaſt: it was in the ſeventh [m] month.

4 And all the elders of Iſrael came, and the Levites took up the ark.

5 And they carried up the ark and the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the holy veſſels that were in the tabernacle, thoſe did the prieſts and Levites bring up.

6 And king Solomon and all the congregation of Iſrael that were aſſembled unto him, were before the ark, offering ſheep and bullocks, which could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

7 So the prieſts brought the ark of the covenant of the Lord unto his place, into the oracle of the houſe, into the moſt holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

8 For the cherubims ſtretched out their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the bars thereof above.

9 And they drew out the bars, that the ends of the bars might be ſeen out of the ark before the oracle, but they were not ſeen ‡ without: and there they are unto this day. ‡ Or without the oracle.

10 Nothing was in the ark, ſave [n] the two tables, which Moſes gave at Horeb, where the Lord made a covenant with the children of Iſrael, when they came out of Egypt.

11 And when the prieſts were come out the ſanctuary (for all the prieſts that were preſent were [o] ſanctified, and did not wait by courſe. Bef Chr. 1004.

12 And the Levites the ſingers of all ſorts, as of Aſaph, of Heman, of Jeduthun, and of their ſons and their brethren, being clad in fine linen, ſtood with cymbals, and with viols, and harps at the eaſt end of the altar, and with them an hundred and twenty prieſts blowing with trumpets.

13 And they were [p] as one, blowing trumpets and ſinging, and made one ſound to be heard in praiſing and thanking the Lord, and when they lift up their voice with trumpets and with cymbals, and with inſtruments of muſick, and when they praiſed the Lord, ſinging, [q] For he his good, becauſe his mercy laſteth for ever) then the houſe, even the houſe of the Lord was filled with a cloud,

14 So that the prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter, becauſe of the cloud: for the glory of the Lord had filled the houſe of God.

4 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael, who ſpake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his ‡ hand fulfilled it, ſaying, ‡ Or, power.

5 Since the day that I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I choſe no city of all the tribes of Iſrael to build an ‡ houſe, that my name might be there, neither choſe I any man to be a ruler over my people Iſrael: ‡ Or, temple.

CHAP. VII.

1 The fire conſumeth the ſacrifice. 2 The glory of the Lord filleth the temple. 12 He heareth his prayer, 17 and promiſeth to exalt him and his throne.

AND when Solomon had made an end of praying, [f] fire came down from heaven, and conſumed the burnt-offering and the ſacrifices: and the glory of the Lord filled the houſe,

2 So that the prieſts could not enter into the houſe of the Lord, becauſe the glory of the Lord had filled the Lord's houſe.

3 And when all the children of Iſrael ſaw the fire, and the glory of the Lord come down upon the houſe, they bowed themſelves with their faces to the earth upon the pavement, and worſhipped and praiſed the Lord, ſaying, For he is good, becauſe his mercy laſteth for ever.

* 1 Kings 8. 62, 63.

4 * Then the king and all the people offered ſacrifices before the Lord.

5 And king Solomon offered a ſacrifice of two and twenty thouſand bullocks, and an hundred and twenty thouſand ſheep: ſo the king, and all the people dedicated the houſe of God.

6 And the prieſts waited on their offices, and the Levites with the inſtruments of muſic of the Lord, which king David had made to praiſe the Lord, becauſe his mercy laſteth for ever; when David praiſed God † by them, the prieſts alſo blew trumpets over-againſt them: and all they of Iſrael ſtood by.

Bef. Chr. 1004.

7 Moreover, Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the houſe of the Lord: for there he had prepared burnt-offering, and the fat of the peace-offerings, becauſe the braſen altar which Solomon had made was not able to receive the burnt-offering, and the meat-offering, and the fat.

8 And Solomon made [g] a feaſt at that time of ſeven days, and all Iſrael with him, a very great congregation, from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt.

9 And in the eighth day they [h] made a ſolemn aſſembly: for they had made the dedication of the altar ſeven days, and the feaſt ſeven days.

10 And the [i] three and twentieth day of the ſeventh month, he ſent the people away into their tents, joyous and with glad heart, becauſe of the goodneſs that the Lord had done for David and for Solomon, and for Iſrael his people.

14 If my people, among whom my name is called upon, do humble themſelves, and pray, and ſeek my preſence, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear in heaven, and be merciful to their ſin, and will [k] heal their land:

15 Then mine eyes ſhall be open, and mine ears attend unto the prayer made in this place.

16 For I have now choſen and ſanctified this houſe, that my name may be there for ever: and mine eyes and mine heart ſhall be there perpetually.

17 And if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, to do according unto all that I have commanded thee, and ſhalt obſerve my ſtatutes and my judgments:

* Ch. 6. 16.

18 Then will I ſtabliſh the throne of thy kingdom, according as I made the covenant with David thy father, ſaying, * Thou ſhalt not want a man to be ruler in Iſrael.

19 But if ye turn away, and forſake my ſtatutes and my commandments which I have ſet before you, and ſhall go and ſerve other gods, and worſhip them,

20 Then will I pluck them up out of my land, which I have given them, and this houſe which I have [l] ſanctified for my name, will I caſt out of my ſight, and will make it to be a proverb and a common talk among all people.

5 And he took away out of all the cities of Judah the high places, and the images : therefore the kingdom was [x] quiet before him.

6 He built alſo ſtrong cities in Judah, becauſe the land was in reſt, and he had no war in thoſe years : for the Lord had given him reſt.

7 Therefore he ſaid to Judah, Let us build theſe cities and make walls about, and towers, gates, and bars, whilſt the land is [y] before us : becauſe we have ſought the Lord our God, we have ſought him, and he hath given us reſt on every ſide : ſo they built and proſpered.

6 For nation was deſtroyed of nation, and city of city: for God troubled them with all adverſity.

7 Be ye ſtrong therefore, and let not your hands be weak: for your [g] work ſhall have a reward.

8 ¶ And when Aſa heard theſe words, and the prophecy of Obed the prophet, he was encouraged, and took away the abominations out of all the land of Judah, and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken of mount Ephraim, and he renewed the altar of the Lord, that was before the porch of the Lord. 14 And they ſware unto the Lord with a loud voice, and with ſhouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

15 And all Judah rejoiced at the oath, for they had ſworn unto the Lord with all their heart, and ſought him with a whole deſire, and he was [l] found of them. And the Lord gave them reſt round about.

3 And Ahab king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go with me to Ramoth-Gilead? And he anſwered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people, and we will join with thee in the war.

4 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Aſk counſel, I pray thee, at the [g] word of the Lord this day.

5 Therefore the king of Iſrael gathered of [h] prophets four hundred men, and ſaid unto them, Shall we go to Ramoth-Gilead to battle, or ſhall I ceaſe? And they ſaid, Go up: for God ſhall deliver it into the king's hand.

6 But Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there here never a prophet more of the Lord, that we might enquire of him?

7 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we may aſk counſel of the Lord, but I [i] hate him: for he doth not propheſy good unto me, but alway evil: it is Micaiah the ſon of Imla. Then Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay [k] ſo.

13 And Micaiah ſaid, As the Lord liveth, whatſoever my God ſaith, that will I ſpeak.

14 ¶ So he came to the king, and the king ſaid unto him, Micaiah, ſhall we go to Ramoth-Gilead to battle, or ſhall I leave off? And he ſaid, [o] Go ye up, and proſper, and they ſhall be delivered into your hand.

15 And the king ſaid to him, How oft ſhall I charge thee, that thou tell me nothing but the truth in the name of the Lord?

16 Then he ſaid, I ſaw all Iſrael ſcattered in the mountains, as ſheep that have no ſhepherd: and the Lord ſaid, [p] Theſe have no maſter: let them return every man to his houſe in peace.

17 And the king of Iſrael ſaid to Jehoſhaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would not propheſy good unto me, but evil?

18 Again he ſaid, Therefore hear ye the word of the Lord: I ſaw the Lord ſit upon his throne, and all the [q] hoſt of heaven ſtanding at his right hand, and at his left.

10 But Edom rebelled from under the hand of Judah unto this day: then did [l] Libnah rebel at the ſame time from under his hand, becauſe he had forſaken the Lord God of his fathers.

11 ¶ Moreover he made high places in the mountains of Judah, and cauſed the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to commit [m] fornication, and compelled Judah thereto,

12 And there came a writing to him from [n] Elijah the prophet, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord God of David thy father, Becauſe thou haſt not walked in the ways of Jehoſhaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Aſa king of Judah,

15 And thou ſhalt be in great diſeaſes in the diſeaſe of thy bowels, until [o] thy bowels fall out for the diſeaſe, day by day.

16 ¶ So the Lord ſtirred up againſt Jehoram the ſpirit of the Philiſtines, and the Arabians that were beſide the [p] Ethiopians.

17 And they came up into Judah, and brake into it, and carried away all the ſubſtance that was found in the king's houſe, and his ſons alſo, and his wives, ſo that there was not a ſon left him, ſave [q] Jehoahaz, the youngeſt of his ſons.

18 And after all this, the Lord ſmote him in his bowels with an incurable diſeaſe.

8 And the children of Iſrael took priſoners of their brethren, [y] two hundred thouſand of women, ſons and daughters, and carried away much ſpoil of them, and brought the ſpoil to Samaria.

9 ¶ But there was a prophet of the Lord's, (whoſe name was Oded) and he went out before the hoſt that came to Samaria, and ſaid unto them, Behold, [z] becauſe the Lord God of your fathers is wroth with Judah, he hath delivered them into your hand, and ye have ſlain them in a rage, that reacheth up to heaven.

10 And now ye purpoſe to keep under the children of Judah and Jeruſalem, as ſervants and handmaids unto you: but are not you ſuch, that [a] ſins are with you before the Lord your God?

11 Now therefore hear me, and deliver the captives again, which ye have taken priſoners of your brethren: for the fierce wrath of the Lord is toward you.

14 So the army left the captives and the ſpoil before the princes and all the congregation.

15 And the men that were [d] named by name, roſe up and took the priſoners, and with the ſpoil clothed all that were naked among them, and arrayed them, and ſhod them, and gave them meat, and gave them drink, and [e] anointed them, and carried all that were feeble of them upon aſſes, and brought them to Jericho the city of palm-trees to their [f] brethren: ſo they returned to Samaria.

CHAP. XXX.

1, 13 The keeping of the paſſover by the king's commandment. 6 He exhorteth Iſrael to turn to the Lord. 18 He prayeth for the people. 24 His oblation and the princes. 27 The Levites bleſs the people.

AND Hezekiah ſent to all Iſrael and Judah, and alſo wrote letters to [e] Ephraim and Manaſſeh, that they ſhould come to the houſe of the Lord at Jeruſalem, to keep the paſſover unto the Lord God of Iſrael.

2 And the king and his princes, and all the congregation had taken counſel in Jeruſalem to keep the paſſover in the [f] ſecond month.

3 For they could not keep it at this time, becauſe there were not prieſts enough ſanctified, neither was the people gathered to Jeruſalem.

4 And the thing pleaſed the king, and all the congregation.

5 And they decreed to make proclamation throughout all Iſrael, from [g] Beer-ſheba even to Dan, that they ſhould come to keep the paſſover unto the Lord God of Iſrael at Jeruſalem: for they had not done it of a great time, [h] as it was written.

6 ¶ So the poſts went with letters by the commiſſion of the king, and his princes, throughout all Iſrael and Judah, and with the commandment of the king, ſaying, Ye children of Iſrael, turn again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael, and [i] he will return to the remnant that are eſcaped of you, out of the hands of the kings of Aſſhur.

7 And be not ye like your fathers, and like your brethren, which treſpaſſed againſt the Lord God of their fathers: and therefore he made them deſolate, as ye ſee.

8 Be not ye now ſtiff-necked like your fathers, but [k] give the hand to the Lord, and come unto his ſanctuary, which he hath ſanctified for ever, and ſerve the Lord your God, and the fierceneſs of his wrath ſhall turn from you.

9 For if ye return unto the Lord, your brethren and your children ſhall find mercy before them that led them captives, and they ſhall [l] return unto this land: for the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye convert unto him.

10 ¶ So the poſts went from city to city through the land of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, even unto Zebulun: but they [m] laughed them to ſcorn, and mocked them.

11 Nevertheleſs divers of Aſher, and Manaſſeh, and of Zebulun, ſubmitted themſelves and came to Jeruſalem.

14 ¶ And they aroſe, and took away the [o] altars that were in Jeruſalem: and all thoſe for incenſe took they away, and caſt them into the brook Kidron.

15 Afterward they ſlew the paſſover the fourteenth day of the ſecond month: and the prieſts and Levites were [p] aſhamed, and ſanctified themſelves, and brought the burnt-offerings into the houſe of the Lord.

16 And they ſtood in their place after their manner, according to the law of Moſes the man of God: and the prieſts ſprinkled the [q] blood received of the hands of the Levites.

17 Becauſe there were many in the congregation that were not ſanctified, therefore the Levites had the charge of killing of the paſſover for all that were not clean, to ſanctify it to the Lord.

18 For a multitude of the people, even a multitude of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, Iſſachar and Zebulun, had not cleanſed themſelves, yet did eat the paſſover, but not as it was written: wherefore Hezekiah prayed for them, ſaying, The good [r] Lord be merciful toward him,

19 That prepareth his whole heart to ſeek the Lord God, the God of his fathers, though he be not cleanſed according to the purification of the ſanctuary.

20 And the Lord heard Hezekiah, and [s] healed the people.

21 And the children of Iſrael that were preſent at Jeruſalem, kept the feaſt of the unleavened bread ſeven days with great joy, and the Levites and the prieſts praiſed the Lord, day by day, ſinging with loud inſtruments unto the Lord.

† Heb. ſpake to the heart. 22 And Hezekiah † ſpake comfortably unto all the Levites that had good knowledge to ſing unto the Lord: and they did eat in that feaſt ſeven days, and offered peace-offerings, and praiſed the Lord God of their fathers.

23 And the whole aſſembly took counſel to keep it other ſeven days. So they kept it ſeven days with joy.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah had given to the congregation a [t] thouſand bullocks, and ſeven thouſand ſheep. And the princes had given to the congregation a thouſand bullocks, and ten thouſand ſheep: and many prieſts were ſanctified.

26 So there was great joy in Jeruſalem: for ſince the time of Solomon the ſon of David king of Iſrael, there was not the like thing in Jeruſalem.

27 Then the prieſts and the Levites aroſe, and [u] bleſſed the people, and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up unto heaven, to his holy habitation.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courſes of the prieſts and Levites by their turns, every man according to his office, both prieſts and Levites, for the burnt-offering and peace-offerings, to miniſter and to give thanks, and to praiſe in the gates of the [y] tents of the Lord.

8 With him is an [l] arm of fleſh, but with us is the [m] Lord our God for to help us, and to fight our battles. Then the people were confirmed by the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 * After this, did Sennacherib king of Aſſhur ſend his ſervants to Jeruſalem (while he was [n] againſt Lachiſh, and all his dominion with him) unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that were at Jeruſalem, ſaying, [d] They praiſed the Lord, and prayed for all proſperity to his people.

[e] He ſheweth that this plenteous liberality is expedient for the maintenance of the miniſters, and that God therefore proſpereth his people, and increaſeth by his bleſſing that which is given.

[f] Who had alſo a portion and allowance in this diſtribution.

[g] Meaning, that either by the faithful diſtributions of the officers, every one had their part in the things that were offered, or elſe that their wives and children were relieved, becauſe the Levites were faithful in their office, and ſo depended on them.

[h] He made a double wall.

[m] This declareth that Hezekiah did ever put his truſt in God, and yet made himſelf ſtrong and uſed lawful means, leſt he ſhould ſeem to tempt God.

[n] While he beſieged Lachiſh.

[o] Thus the wicked put no difference between true religion and falſe, God and idols: for Hezekiah only deſtroyed idolatry, and placed true religion. Thus the Papiſts ſlander the ſervants of God: for when they deſtroy idolatry, they ſay that they aboliſh religion.

Judah and Jeruſalem, ſaying, Ye ſhall worſhip before one altar, and burn incenſe upon it?

13 Know ye not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other countries? were the gods of the nations of other lands able to deliver their land out of mine hand?

14 Who is he of all the [p] gods of thoſe nations (that my fathers have deſtroyed) that could deliver his people out of my hand? that your God ſhould be able to deliver you out of mine hand?

15 Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor ſeduce you after this ſort, neither believe ye him: for none of all the gods of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of [q] mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: how much leſs ſhall your gods deliver you out of mine hand?

16 And his ſervants ſpake yet more againſt the Lord God, and againſt his [r] ſervant Hezekiah.

17 He wrote alſo letters, blaſpheming the Lord God of Iſrael, and ſpeaking againſt him, ſaying, As the gods of the nations of other countries could not deliver their people out of mine hand, ſo ſhall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hand.

18 Then they [s] cried with a loud voice in the Jews ſpeech unto the people of Jeruſalem that were on the wall, to fear them and to aſtoniſh them, that they might take the city.

19 Thus they ſpake againſt the God of Jeruſalem, as againſt the gods of the people of the earth, even the [t] works of man's hands.

20 But Hezekiah the king, and the prophet Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz [u] prayed againſt this, and cried to heaven.

21 And the Lord ſent an angel which deſtroyed all the valiant men, and the princes and [w] captains of the hoſt of the king of Aſſhur: ſo he returned † with ſhame to his own land. And when he was come into the houſe of his god, they that came forth of his [x] own bowels, ſlew him there with the ſword.

22 So the Lord ſaved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem from the hand of Sennacherib king of Aſſhur, and from the hand of all other, and ‡ maintained them on every ſide.

‡ Or, governed.

23 And many brought offerings unto the Lord to Jeruſalem, and preſents to Hezekiah king of Judah, ſo that he was [y] magnified in the ſight of all nations from thenceforth.

24 * In thoſe days Hezekiah was ſick unto the death, and prayed unto the Lord, who ſpake unto him, and gave him a [z] ſign.

* 2 Kings 20. 1. Iſa. 38. 1.

25 But Hezekiah did not render according to the reward beſtowed upon him: for his heart [a] was lift up, and wrath came upon him, and upon Judah and Jeruſalem.

26 Notwithſtanding Hezekiah humbled himſelf (after that his heart was lifted up) he and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and the wrath of the Lord came not upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

27 Hezekiah alſo had exceeding much riches and honour, and he gat him treaſures of ſilver, and of gold, and of precious ſtones, and of ſweet odours, and of ſhields, and of all pleaſant veſſels:

28 And of ſtore-houſes for the increaſe of wheat, and wine and oil, and ſtalls for all beaſts, and ‡ rows for the ‡ ſtables.

‡ Or, ranges, and partitions.
‡ Or, racks.

29 And he made him cities, and had poſſeſſion of ſheep and oxen in abundance: for God had given him ſubſtance exceeding much.

30 This ſame Hezekiah alſo ſtopped the upper water ſprings of [b] Gihon, and led them ſtraight underneath toward the city of David weſtward: ſo Hezekiah proſpered in all his works.

31 But becauſe of the ambaſſadors of the princes of Babel which ſent unto him to inquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him to [c] try him: and to know all that was in his heart.

32 Concerning the reſt of the acts of Hezekiah, and his goodneſs, behold, they are written in the viſion of Iſaiah the prophet, the ſon of Amoz, in the book of the kings of Judah and Iſrael.

33 So Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the higheſt ſepulchre of the ſons of David: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem did him honour at his death: and Manaſſeh his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

[q] When man hath proſperity, he ſwelleth in pride, and thinketh himſelf able to reſiſt and overcome even God himſelf.

[r] Herein we ſee that when the wicked ſpeak evil of the ſervants of God, they care not to blaſpheme God himſelf: for if they feared God, they would love his ſervants.

4 Alſo he built altars in the houſe of the Lord, whereof the Lord had ſaid, * In Jeruſalem ſhall my name be for ever. * 2 Kings 21. 4.

5 And he built altars for all the hoſt of the heaven in the two courts of the houſe of the Lord.

6 [d] And he cauſed his ſons to paſs through the fire in the valley of Ben-hinnom: he gave himſelf to witchcraft, and to charming, and to ſorcery, and he uſed them that had familiar ſpirits, and ſoothſayers: he did very much evil in the ſight of the Lord to anger him.

7 He put alſo the carved image which he had made, in the houſe of God: whereof God had ſaid to David and to Solomon his ſon, * In this houſe and in Jeruſalem which I have choſen before all the tribes of Iſrael, will I put my name for ever. * 1 Kings 8. 29. and 9. 3. 2 Kings 21. 7. and 23. 27.

9 So Manaſſeh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to err, and to do worſe than the heathen whom the Lord had deſtroyed before the children of Iſrael.

10 ¶ And the Lord ſpake [f] to Manaſſeh and to his people, but they would not regard.

11 Wherefore the Lord brought upon them the captains of the hoſt of the king of Aſſhur, which took Manaſſeh and put him in fetters, and bound him in chains, and carried him to Babel.

12 And when he was in tribulation, he prayed to the Lord his God, and humbled himſelf greatly before the God of his fathers,

13 And prayed unto him: and God was [g] entreated of him, and heard his prayer, and brought him again to Jeruſalem into his kingdom: then Manaſſeh knew that the Lord was God.

14 Now after this he built a wall without the city of David, on the weſt ſide of [h] Gihon in the valley, even at the entry of the fiſh-gate, and compaſſed about [i] Ophel, and raiſed it very high, and put captains of war in all the ſtrong cities of Judah.

15 And he took away the ſtrange gods, and the image out of the houſe of the Lord, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the houſe of the Lord, and in Jeruſalem, and caſt them out of the city.

16 Alſo he prepared the [k] altar of the Lord, and ſacrificed thereon peace-offerings, and of thanks, and commanded Judah to ſerve the Lord God of Iſrael.

17 Nevertheleſs the people did ſacrifice ſtill in the high places, but unto the [l] Lord their God. Bef. Chr. 677.

19 And his prayer, and how God was intreated of him: and all his ſin, and his treſpaſs, and the places where he built high places, and ſet groves and images (before he was humbled) behold, they are written in the book of the ‡ ſeers. ‡ Or, Hozai.

20 So Manaſſeh ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in his own [n] houſe: and Amon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

21 ¶ Amon was two and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned two years in Jeruſalem.

22 But he did evil in the ſight of the Lord, as did Manaſſeh his father: for Amon ſacrificed to all the images which Manaſſeh his father had made, and ſerved them,

23 And he humbled not himſelf before the Lord, as Manaſſeh his father had humbled himſelf: but this Amon treſpaſſed more and more.

24 And his ſervants * conſpired againſt him, and ſlew him in his own houſe. * 2 Kings 21. 23.

8 ¶ * Then in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purged the land and the temple, he ſent Shaphan the ſon of Azaliah, and Maaſeiah the governor of the city, and Joah the ſon of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the houſe of the Lord his God.

9 And when they came to Hilkiah the high prieſt, they delivered the money that was brought into the houſe of God, which the Levites that kept the door had gathered at the hand of Manaſſeh and Ephraim, and of all the reſidue of Iſrael, and of all Judah and Benjamin, and ‡ of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem.

10 And they put it in the hands of them that ſhould do the work and had the overſight in the houſe of the Lord, and they gave it to the workmen that wrought in the houſe of the Lord, to repair and amend the houſe.

11 Even to the workmen and to the builders gave they it, to buy hewed ſtone and timber for couples and for beams of the [t] houſes, which the kings of Judah had deſtroyed.

12 And the men did the work [u] faithfully, and the overſeers of them were Jahath and Obadiah the Levites, of the children of Merari, and Zechariah, and Meſhullam, of the children of the Kohathites, to ſet it forward; and of the Levites all that could ſkill of inſtruments of muſic.

13 And they were over the bearers of burdens, and them that ſet forward all the workmen in every work: and of the Levites were ſcribes, and officers, and porters.

14 ¶ And when they brought out the money that was brought into the houſe of the Lord, Hilkiah the prieſt found the [w] book of the law of the Lord given by the hand of Moſes.

15 Therefore Hilkiah anſwered and ſaid to Shaphan the chancellor, I have found the book of the law in the houſe of the Lord: and Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan.

16 And Shaphan carried the book to [x] the king, and brought the king word again, ſaying, All that is committed to the hand of thy ſervants, that do they.

17 For they have gathered the money that was found in the houſe of the Lord, and have delivered it into the hands of the overſeers, and to the hands of the workmen.

Bef. Chr. 630.

18 Alſo Shaphan the chancellor declared to the king, ſaying, Hilkiah the prieſt hath given me a book, and Shaphan read it before the king.

19 And when the king had heard the words of the law, he [y] tare his cloaths,

20 And the king commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, and Abdon the ſon of Micah, and Shaphan the chancellor, and Aſaiah the king's ſervant, ſaying, 22 Then Hilkiah and they that the king had appointed, went to Huldah the propheteſs the wife of Shallum, the ſon of ‡ Tokhath, the ſon of ‡ Haſrah keeper of the [a] wardrobe (and ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem within the [b] college) and they communed hereof with her.

25 Becauſe they have forſaken me, and burnt incenſe unto other gods, to anger me with all the works of their [d] hands, therefore ſhall my wrath fall upon this place, and ſhall not be quenched.

26 But to the king of Judah, who ſent you to inquire of the Lord, ſo ſhall ye ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, The words which thou haſt heard ſhall come to paſs.

27 But becauſe thine heart did [e] melt, and thou didſt humble thyſelf before God, when thou heardeſt his words againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants thereof, and humbledſt thyſelf before me, and taredſt thy cloaths, and wepteſt before me, I have alſo heard it, ſaith the Lord.

28 Behold, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou ſhalt be put in thy grave in peace, and thine eyes ſhall not ſee all the evil which I will bring upon this [f] place, and upon the inhabitants of the ſame. Thus they brought the king word again.

32 And he cauſed all that were found in Jeruſalem, and Benjamin to ſtand to it: and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem did according to the covenant of God, even the God of their fathers.

6 So kill the paſſover and ſanctify yourſelves, and [m] prepare your brethren that they may do according to the word of the Lord by the hand of Moſes.

† Heb. ſons of the people. 7 Joſiah alſo gave to the † people ſheep, lambs and kids, all for the paſſover, even to all that were preſent, to the number of thirty thouſand, and three thouſand bullocks: theſe were of the king's ſubſtance. Bef. Chr. 623.

8 And his princes offered willingly unto the people, to the prieſts and to the Levites: Hilkiah, and Zechariah, and Jehiel, rulers of the houſe of God, gave unto the prieſts for the paſſover, even two thouſand and ſix hundred ſheep, and three hundred bullocks.

9 [n] Conaniah alſo and Shemaiah and Nethaneel his brethren, and Haſhabiah and Jeiel, and Jozabad, chief of the Levites, gave unto the Levites for the paſſover, five thouſand ſheep, and five hundred bullocks.

10 Thus the ſervice was prepared, and the prieſts ſtood in their places, alſo the Levites in their orders, according to the king's commandment:

11 And they ſlew the paſſover, and the prieſts [o] ſprinkled the blood with their hands, and the Levites flayed them.

12 And they took away from the [p] burnt-offering to give it according to the diviſions of the families of the children of the people, to offer unto the Lord, as it is written in the book of Moſes, and ſo of the bullocks.

13 And * they roaſted the paſſover with fire according to the cuſtom, but the ſanctified things they ſod in pots, pans, and caldrons, and diſtributed them quickly to all the people. * Exod. 12. 8.

14 Afterward alſo they prepared for themſelves and for the prieſts: for the prieſts the ſons of Aaron were occupied in offering of burnt-offerings, and the fat until night: therefore the Levites prepared for themſelves, and for the prieſts the ſons of Aaron.

15 And the ſingers the ſons of Aſaph ſtood in their ſtanding, * according to the commandment of David, and Aſaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the king's [q] ſeer: and the porters at every gate, who might not depart from their ſervice: therefore their brethren the Levites prepared for them. * 1 Chron. 25. 1.

16 So all the ſervice of the Lord was prepared the ſame day, to keep the paſſover, and to offer burnt-offerings upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandment of king Joſiah.

17 And the children of Iſrael that were preſent kept the paſſover the ſame time, and the feaſt of the unleavened bread ſeven days.

18 And there was no paſſover kept like that in Iſrael, from the days of Samuel the prophet: neither did all the kings of Iſrael keep ſuch a paſſover as Joſiah kept, and the prieſts and the Levites, and all Judah, and Iſrael that were † preſent, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem. † Heb. found.

¶ The Prayer of Manaſſeh king of the Jews.

This prayer is not in the Hebrew, but is tranſlated out of the Greek.

O LORD Almighty, God of our fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and of their righteous ſeed, which haſt made heaven and earth, with all their ornament, which haſt bound the ſea by the word of thy commandment, which haſt ſhut up the deep, and ſealed it by thy terrible and glorious name, whom all do fear, and tremble before thy power: for the majeſty of thy glory cannot be borne, and thy angry threatening towards ſinners is inſupportable, but thy merciful promiſe is unmeaſurable and unſearchable. For thou art the moſt high Lord, of great compaſſion, long ſuffering, and moſt merciful, and repenteſt for man's miſeries. Thou, O Lord, according to thy great goodneſs, haſt promiſed [l] repentance and forgiveneſs to them that ſin againſt thee, and for thine infinite mercies haſt appointed repentance unto ſinners that they may be ſaved. Thou, therefore, O Lord, that art the God of the juſt, haſt not appointed repentance to the juſt, as to Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob, which have not [m] ſinned againſt thee, but thou haſt appointed repentance unto me that am a ſinner: for I have ſinned above the number of the ſand of the ſea. My tranſgreſſions, O Lord, are multiplied: my tranſgreſſions are exceeding many: and I am not worthy to behold and ſee the height of the heavens for the multitude of mine unrighteouſneſs. I am bowed down with many iron bands that I cannot lift up mine head, neither have any releaſe. For I have provoked thy wrath and done evil before thee. I did not thy will, neither kept I thy commandments. I have ſet up abominations, and have multiplied offences. Now, therefore, I bow the knee of mine heart, beſeeching thee of grace. I have ſinned, O Lord, I have ſinned, and I acknowledge my tranſgreſſions: but I humbly beſeech thee, forgive me: O Lord, forgive me, and deſtroy me not with my tranſgreſſions. Be not angry with me for ever by reſerving evil for me, neither condemn me into the lower parts of the earth. For thou art the God, even the God of them that repent: and in me thou wilt ſhew all thy goodneſs: for thou wilt ſave me that am unworthy, according to thy great mercy: therefore I will praiſe thee for ever all the days of my life: for all the power of the heavens praiſe thee, and thine is the glory for ever and ever. Amen.

[f] Which is not becauſe God approveth him, which yet is the miniſter of his juſtice, but becauſe God would by his juſt judgment puniſh this people: for this king was led with ambition and vain glory, whereunto were joined fury and cruelty: therefore his work was condemnable, notwithſtanding it was juſt and holy on God's part, who uſed this wicked inſtrument to declare his juſtice.

THE ARGUMENT.

AS the Lord is ever merciful unto his church, and doth not puniſh them, but to the intent they ſhould ſee their own miſeries, and be exerciſed under the croſs, that they may contemn the world and aſpire unto the heavens: ſo after that he had viſited the Jews and kept them now in bondage ſeventy years in a ſtrange country among infidels and idolaters, he remembered his tender mercies and their infirmities, and therefore for his own ſake raiſed them up a deliverer, and moved both the heart of the chief ruler to pity them, and alſo by him puniſhed ſuch which had kept them in ſervitude. Notwithſtanding, leſt they ſhould grow into a contempt of God's great benefit, he keepeth them ſtill in exerciſe, and raiſeth domeſtical enemies, which endeavour as much as they can to hinder their moſt worthy enterpriſes: yet by the exhortation of the prophets they went forward by little and little till their work was finiſhed. The author of this book was Ezra, who was prieſt and ſcribe of the law, as chap. vii. 6. He returned to Jeruſalem the ſixth year of Darius, who ſucceeded Cyrus, that is, about fifty years after the return of the firſt under Zerubbabel, when the temple was built. He brought with him a great company and much treaſures, with letters to the king's officers for all ſuch things as ſhould be neceſſary for the temple: and at his coming he redreſſed that which was amiſs, and ſet the things in good order.

CHAP. IV.

2 The building of the temple is hindered, and how. 11 Letters to Artaxerxes, and the anſwer.

BUT [h] the adverſaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the Lord God of Iſrael.

2 And they came to Zerubbabel, and to the chief fathers, and ſaid unto them, We will build with you: for we ſeek the Lord your God as ye do, and we have ſacrificed unto him ſince the time of Eſar-Haddon king of Aſſhur, which brought us up hither.

3 Then Zerubbabel, and Jeſhua, and the reſt of the chief fathers of Iſrael, ſaid unto them, It is not for you, but for us to build the houſe unto our God: [i] for we ourſelves together will build it unto the Lord God of Iſrael, as king Cyrus the king of Perſia hath commanded us.

4 Wherefore the people of the land † diſcouraged the people of Judah, and troubled them in building,

5 And they [k] hired counſellors againſt them to hinder their device, all the days of Cyrus king of Perſia, even unto the reign of Darius king of Perſia.

6 And in the reign of [l] Ahaſuerus (in the beginning of his reign) wrote they an accuſation againſt the inhabitants of Judah and Jeruſalem.

7 And in the days of [m] Artahſhaſhte, Mithridath, Tabeel, and the reſt of their companions wrote when it was peace, unto Artahſhaſhte king of Perſia, and the writing of the letter was the Aramites writing, and the thing declared was in the language of the Aramites.

8 Rehum the ‡ chancellor, and Shimſhai the ſcribe wrote a letter againſt Jeruſalem to Artahſhaſhte the king, in this ſort.

9 Then wrote Rehum the chancellor, and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and their companions [n] Dinai, and Apharſathcaie, Tarpelaie, Apharſaie, Archevaie, Bablaie, Shuſhanchaie, Dehave, Elmaie,

10 And the reſt of the people whom the great and noble [o] Aſnappar brought over, and ſet it in the cities of Samaria, and other that are beyond the [p] river and [q] Cheeneth.

11 ¶ This is the copy of the letter that they ſent unto king Artahſhaſhte, Thy ſervants the men beyond the river and Cheeneth, ſalute thee.

12 Be it known unto the king, that the Jews, which came up from thee to us, are come unto Jeruſalem (a city rebellious and wicked) and build, and lay the foundations of the walls, and have joined the foundations.

13 Be it known now unto the king, that if this city be built, and the foundations of the walls laid, they will not give toll, tribute, nor [r] cuſtom: ſo ſhalt thou hinder the king's tribute.

14 Now therefore becauſe † we have been brought up in the king's palace, it was not meet for us to ſee the king's diſhonour: for this cauſe have we ſent and certified the king,

16 We certify the king therefore, that if this city be builded, and the foundation of the walls laid, by this means the portion beyond the river ſhall not be thine.

17 ¶ The king ſent an anſwer unto Rehum the chancellor, and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and to the reſt of their companions that dwelt in Samaria, and unto the other beyond the river [s] Shelam and [t] Cheeth.

18 ¶ The letter which ye ſent unto us hath been openly read before me,

19 And I have commanded, and they have ſearched, and found, that this city of old time hath made inſurrection againſt kings, and hath rebelled, and rebellion hath been committed therein.

20 There have been mighty kings alſo over Jeruſalem, which have ruled over all beyond the river, and toll, tribute, and cuſtom was given unto them.

21 Make ye now a decree, that thoſe men may ceaſe, and that the city be not built, till I have given another commandment.

22 Take heed now that ye fail not to do this: why ſhould damage grow to hurt the king?

23 When the copy of king Artaxerxes letter was read before Rehum and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and their companions, they went up in all the haſte to Jeruſalem unto the Jews, and cauſed them to ceaſe by force and power.

24 Then [u] ceaſed the work of the houſe of God, which was in Jeruſalem, and did ſtay unto the ſecond year of Darius king of Perſia.

15 And he ſaid unto him, Take theſe veſſels and go thy way, and put them in the temple that is in Jeruſalem, and let the houſe of God be built in his place.

16 Then came the ſame Sheſhbazzar, and laid the foundation of the houſe of God, which is in Jeruſalem: and ſince that time even until now hath it been in building, yet is it not finiſhed.

7 Suffer ye the work of this houſe of God, that the captain of the Jews, and the elders of the Jews, may build this houſe of God in his place.

8 For I have given a commandment what ye ſhall do to the elders of theſe Jews, for the building of this houſe of God, that of the revenues of the king, which is of the tribute beyond the river, there be incontinently expences given unto theſe men, that they [g] ceaſe not.

33 And on the fourth day was the ſilver weighed, and the gold and the veſſels in the houſe of our God, by the hand of Meremoth the ſon of Uriah the prieſt, and with him was Eleazar the ſon of Phinehas, and with them was Jozabad the ſon of Jeſhua, and Noadiah the ſon of Binnui the [p] Levites.

35 Alſo the children of the captivity, which were come out of captivity, offered burnt-offerings unto the God of Iſrael, twelve bullocks for all Iſrael, ninety and ſix rams, ſeventy and ſeven lambs, and twelve he-goats for ſin: all was a burnt-offering unto the Lord. Bef. Chr. 457.

36 And they delivered the king's commiſſion unto the king's officers, and to the captains beyond the river: and they promoted the people and the houſe of God.

CHAP. IX.

1 Ezra complaineth on the people that had turned themſelves from God and married with the Gentiles. 5 He prayeth unto God.

WHEN AS theſe things were done, the rulers came to me, ſaying, The people of Iſrael, and the prieſts and the Levites, are not [q] ſeparated from the people of the lands (as touching their abominations) to wit, of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebuſites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites.

2 For they have taken their daughters to themſelves, and to their ſons, and they have mixed the holy ſeed with the people of the lands, and the hands of the [r] princes and rulers have been chief in this treſpaſs.

3 But when I heard this ſaying, I rent my cloaths and my garment, and plucked off the hair of mine head, and of my beard, and ſat down [s] aſtoniſhed.

4 And there aſſembled unto me all that feared the words of the God of Iſrael, becauſe of the tranſgreſſion of them of the captivity. * Exod. 29. 39. Num. 28. 3, 4.
And I ſat down aſtoniſhed until the * evening ſacrifice.

5 And at the evening ſacrifice I aroſe up from mine heavineſs, and when I had rent my cloaths and my garment, I fell upon my knees, and ſpread out mine hands unto the Lord my God,

6 And ſaid, O my God, I am confounded and aſhamed, to lift up mine eyes unto thee my God: for our iniquities are increaſed over [t] our head, and our treſpaſs is grown up unto [u] the heaven.

7 From the days of our fathers have we been in a great treſpaſs unto this day, and for our iniquities have we, our kings and our prieſts, been delivered into the hand of the kings of the lands, unto the ſword, into captivity, into a ſpoil, and into confuſion of face, as appeareth this day.

8 And now for a little ſpace grace hath been ſhewed from the Lord our God in cauſing a remnant to eſcape, and in giving us a [x] nail in his holy place, that our God may light our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our ſervitude.

9 For though we were bondmen, yet our God hath not forſaken us in our bondage, but hath inclined

CHAP. X.

1 The people repent and turn, and put away their ſtrange wives.

WHILE Ezra prayed thus, and [a] confeſſed himſelf, weeping, and falling down before the houſe of God, there aſſembled unto him of Iſrael a very great congregation of men and women and children: for the people wept with a great lamentation.

2 Then Shechaniah the ſon of Jehiel, one of the ſons of Elam, anſwered, and ſaid to Ezra, We have treſpaſſed againſt our God, and have taken ſtrange wives of the people of the land: yet now there is [b] hope in Iſrael concerning this.

3 Now therefore let us make a covenant with our God to put away [c] all the wives (and ſuch as are born of them) according to the counſel of the Lord, and of thoſe that fear the commandments of our God, and let it be done according to the law.

4 Ariſe: for the matter [d] belongeth unto thee: we alſo will be with thee: be of comfort and do it. Bef. Chr. 457.

5 ¶ Then aroſe Ezra, and cauſed the chief prieſts, the Levites, and all Iſrael, to ſwear that they would do according to this word. So they ſware.

6 And Ezra roſe up from before the houſe of God, and went into the chamber of Johanan the ſon of Eliaſhib: he went even thither, but he did eat neither bread, nor drink water: for he mourned, becauſe of the tranſgreſſion of them of the captivity.

7 And they cauſed a proclamation to go throughout Judah and Jeruſalem, unto † all them of the captivity, that they ſhould aſſemble themſelves unto Jeruſalem.

8 And whoſoever would not come within three days according to the counſel of the princes and elders, all his ſubſtance ſhould be ‡ forfeit, and he ſhould be ſeparate from the congregation of them of the captivity.

9 ¶ Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin aſſembled themſelves unto Jeruſalem within three days, which was the twentieth day of the [e] ninth month, and all the people ſat in the ſtreet of the houſe of God, trembling for this matter, and for the [f] rain.

10 And Ezra the prieſt ſtood up, and ſaid unto them, Ye have tranſgreſſed, and have taken ſtrange wives, to [g] increaſe the treſpaſs of Iſrael.

11 Now therefore [h] give praiſe unto the Lord God of your fathers, and do his will, and ſeparate yourſelves from the people of the land, and from the ſtrange wives.

12 And all the congregation anſwered, and ſaid with a loud voice, So will we do according to thy words unto us.

13 But the people are many, and it is a rainy weather, and we are not able to ſtand without, neither is it the work of one day or two: for we are many that have offended in this thing.

14 Let our rulers ſtand therefore [i] before all the congregation, and let all them which have taken ſtrange wives in our cities, come at the time appointed, and with them the elders of every city, and the judges thereof, till the fierce wrath of our God for this matter turn away from us.

15 Then were appointed Jonathan the ſon of Aſahel, and Jahaziah the ſon of Tikuah over this matter, and Meſhullam and Shabbethai the Levites helped them.

16 And they of the captivity did ſo, and [k] departed, even Ezra the prieſt, and the men that were chief fathers to the family of their fathers by name, and ſat down in the firſt day of the tenth month to examine the matter.

17 And until the firſt day of the firſt month they were finiſhing the buſineſs with all the men that had taken ſtrange wives.

NEHEMIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

GOD doth in all ages and at all times ſet up worthy perſons for the commodity and profit of his church, as now within the compaſs of ſeventy years he raiſed up divers excellent men for the preſervation of his people, after their return from Babylon, as Zerubbabel, Ezra, and Nehemiah. Whereof the firſt was their captain to bring them home, and provided that the temple was builded: the ſecond reformed their manners and planted religion: and the third builded up the walls, delivered the people from oppreſſion, and provided that the law of God was put in execution among them. He was a godly man, and in great authority with the king, ſo that the king favoured him greatly, and gave him moſt ample letters for the accompliſhment of all things which he could deſire. This book is alſo called of the Latins, the ſecond book of Ezra, becauſe he was the writer thereof.

CHAP. I.

1 Nehemiah bewaileth the calamity of Jeruſalem. 5 He confeſſeth the ſins of the people, and prayeth God for them.

THE words of Nehemiah the ſon of Hachaliah. In the month [a] Chiſleu, in the twentieth year, as I was in the palace of Shuſhan,

2 Came Hanani, one of my [b] brethren, he and the men of Judah, and I aſked them concerning the Jews that were delivered, which were of the reſidue of the captivity, and concerning Jeruſalem.

3 And they ſaid unto me, The reſidue that are left of the captivity there in the [c] province, are in great affliction and in reproach, and the wall of Jeruſalem is broken down, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire. Bef. Chr. 446.

4 And when I heard theſe words, I ſat down and wept, and mourned certain days, and I faſted and prayed before the God of heaven,

5 And ſaid, * O Lord God of heaven, the great and terrible God, that keepeth covenant and mercy for them that love him, and obſerve his commandments, * Dan. 9. 4.

† Heb. corrupted. 7 We have † grievouſly ſinned againſt thee, and have not kept the commandments, nor the ſtatutes, nor the judgments, which thou commandedſt thy ſervant Moſes.

8 I beſeech thee, remember the word that thou commandedſt thy ſervant Moſes, ſaying, Ye will tranſgreſs, and I * will ſcatter you abroad among the people. * Deut. 29. 21, 28.

9 But if ye turn unto me, and keep my commandments, and do them, * though your ſcattering were to the uttermoſt part of the heaven, yet will I gather you from thence, and will bring you into the place that I have choſen to place my name there. * Deut. 30. 4.

10 Now theſe are thy ſervants, and thy people, whom thou haſt redeemed by thy great power, and by thy mighty hand.

11 O Lord, I beſeech thee, let thine ear now hearken to the prayer of thy ſervant, and to the prayer of thy ſervants, who deſire to [d] fear thy name, and I pray thee, cauſe thy ſervant to proſper this day, and give him favour in the preſence of [e] this man: for I was the king's butler.

CHAP. II.

1 After Nehemiah had obtained letters of Artaxerxes, 11 he came to Jeruſalem, 17 and builded the walls.

NOW in the month [f] Niſan, in the twentieth year of king [g] Artaxerxes, the wine ſtood before him: and I took up the wine, and gave it unto the king. Now I was not before time ſad in his preſence.

2 And the king ſaid unto me, Why is thy countenance ſad, ſeeing thou art not ſick? this is nothing but ſorrow of heart. Then was I ſore afraid,

3 And I ſaid to the king, God ſave the king for ever: why ſhould not my countenance be ſad, when the city and houſe of the ſepulchres of my fathers lieth waſte, and the gates thereof are devoured with fire?

4 And the king ſaid unto me, For what thing doſt thou require? Then I prayed [h] to the God of heaven,

5 And ſaid unto the king, If it pleaſe the king, and if thy ſervant have found favour in thy ſight, I deſire that thou wouldſt ſend me to Judah unto the city of the ſepulchres of my fathers, that I may build it.

6 And the king ſaid unto me, (the queen alſo ſitting by him) How long ſhall thy journey be? and when wilt thou come again? So it pleaſed the king, and he ſent me, and I ſet him a time.

7 After I ſaid unto the king, If it pleaſe the king, let them give me letters to the captains beyond the ‡ river, that they may convey me over, till I come into Judah, Bef. Chr. 445. ‡ Or, Euphrates.

8 And letters unto Aſaph the keeper of the king's ‡ park, that he may give me timber to build the gates of the palace (which appertained to the houſe) and for the walls of the city, and for the houſe that I ſhall enter into. And the king gave me according to the [i] good hand of my God upon me. ‡ Or, paradiſe.

9 ¶ Then came I to the captains beyond the river, and gave them the king's letters. And the king had ſent captains of the army, and horſemen with me.

10 But [k] Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah a ſervant an Ammonite heard it, and it grieved them ſore, that there was come a man which ſought the wealth of the children of Iſrael.

11 So I came to Jeruſalem, and was there three days.

12 And I roſe in the night, I, and a few men with me: for I told no man, what God had put in mine heart to do at Jeruſalem: and there was not a beaſt with me, ſave the beaſt whereon I rode.

13 And I went out by night by the gate of the valley, and came before the dragon well, and to the dung port, and viewed the walls of Jeruſalem, how they were broken down, and the ports thereof devoured with the fire.

14 Then I went forth unto the gate of the ‡ fountain, and to the king's fiſhpool, and there was no room for the beaſt that was under me to paſs. ‡ Or, conduit.

15 Then went I up in the night by the brook, and viewed the wall, and turned back, and coming back, I entered by the gate of the valley, and returned.

16 And the rulers knew not whither I was gone, nor what I did, neither did I as yet tell it unto the Jews, nor to the prieſts, nor to the noblemen, nor to the rulers, nor to the reſt that laboured in the work.

17 Afterward I ſaid unto them, Ye ſee the miſery that we are in, how Jeruſalem lieth waſte, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire: come and let us build the wall of Jeruſalem, that we be no more a [l] reproach.

18 Then I told them of the hand of my God (which was good over me) and alſo of the king's words that he had ſpoken unto me. And they ſaid, Let us riſe, and build. So they ſtrengthened [m] their hand to good.

19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the ſervant an Ammonite, and [n] Geſhem the Arabian heard it, they mocked us and deſpiſed us, and ſaid, What a thing is this that ye do? Will ye [o] rebel againſt the king?

20 Then anſwered I them, and ſaid to them,

3 And Tobiah the Ammonite was beſide him, and ſaid, Although they build, yet if a fox go up, he ſhall even break down their ſtony wall.

4 [c] Hear, O our God, (for we are deſpiſed) and turn their ſhame upon their own head, and give them unto a prey [d] in the land of their captivity,

5 And cover not their [e] iniquity, neither let their ſin be put out in thy preſence: for they have provoked us before the builders.

6 So we built the wall, and all the wall was joined unto the ‡ half thereof, and the heart of the people was to work.

7 ¶ But when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Aſhdodims heard that the walls of Jeruſalem were repaired, (for the breaches began to be ſtopped) then they were very wroth,

8 And conſpired all together to come and to fight againſt Jeruſalem, and to † hinder them.

† Heb. make to ſtay, meaning the people.

9 Then we prayed unto our God, and ſet watchmen by them, day and night, becauſe of them.

10 And Judah ſaid, The ſtrength of the bearers is weakened, and there is much earth, ſo that we are not able to build the wall.

11 Alſo our adverſaries had ſaid, They ſhall not know, neither ſee, till we come into the midſt of them, and ſlay them, and cauſe the work to ceaſe.

12 But when the Jews (which dwelt beſide them) came, they told us [f] ten times, [g] From all places, whence ye ſhall return, they will be upon us.

13 Therefore ſet I in the lower places behind the wall upon the tops of the ſtones, and placed the people by their families, with their ſwords, their ſpears, and their bows.

14 Then I beheld, and roſe up, and ſaid unto the princes, and to the rulers, and to the reſt of the people, Be not afraid of them: [h] remember the great Lord, and fearful, and fight for your brethren, your ſons, and your daughters, your wives, and your houſes.

15 And when our enemies heard that it was known unto us, then God brought their counſel to nought, and we turned all again to the wall, every one unto his work.

16 And from that day, half of the young men did the labour, and the other half part of them held the ſpears, and ſhields, and bows, and habergeons: and the rulers ſtood [i] behind all the houſe of Judah.

17 They that builded on the wall, and they that bare burdens, and they that laded, did the work with one hand, and with the other held the ſword.

18 For every one of the builders had his ſword girded on his loins, and ſo builded: and he that blew the trumpet was beſide me.

19 Then ſaid I unto the princes, and to the rulers, and to the reſt of the people, The work is great and large, and we are ſeparated upon the wall, one far from another.

20 In what place therefore ye hear the ſound of the trumpet, [k] reſort ye thither unto us: our God ſhall fight for us.

21 So we laboured in the work, and half of them held the ſpears, from the appearing of the morning, till the ſtars came forth.

22 And at the ſame time ſaid I unto the people, Let every one with his ſervant lodge within Jeruſalem, that they may be a watch for us in the night, and labour in the day.

23 So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my ſervants, nor the men of the ward (which followed me) none of us did put off our cloaths, ſave every one put them off [l] for waſhing.

4 There were alſo that ſaid, We have borrowed money for the king's [o] tribute, upon our lands and our vineyards.

5 And now our fleſh is as [p] the fleſh of our brethren, and our ſons as their ſons: and lo, we bring into ſubjection our ſons and our daughters, as ſervants, and there be of our daughters now in ſubjection, and there is no power [q] in our hands: for other men have our lands and our vineyards.

6 Then was I very angry when I heard their cry, and theſe words.

7 And I thought in my mind, and I rebuked the princes, and the rulers, and ſaid unto them, You lay [r] burthens every one upon his brethren: and I ſet a great [s] aſſembly againſt them,

8 And I ſaid unto them, We (according to our ability) have redeemed our brethren the Jews, which were ſold unto the heathen: and will you ſell your brethren again, or ſhall they be [t] ſold unto us? Then held they their peace, and could not anſwer.

9 [u] I ſaid alſo, That which ye do, is not good. Ought ye not to walk in the fear of our God, for the [w] reproach of the heathen our enemies?

10 For even I, my brethren, and my ſervants do lend them money, and corn: I pray you, let us leave off this ‡ burden.

12 Then ſaid they, We will reſtore it, and will not require it of them: we will do as thou haſt ſaid. Then I called the prieſts, and cauſed them to ſwear, that they ſhould do according to this promiſe.

13 So I ſhook my lap, and ſaid, So let God ſhake out every man that will not perform this promiſe, from his houſe, and from his labour: even thus let him be ſhaken out, and emptied. And all the congregation ſaid, Amen, and praiſed the Lord: and the people did according to this promiſe.

14 And from the time that the king gave me charge to be governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year, even unto the two and thirtieth year of king Artaxerxes, that is, twelve years, I, and my brethren have not eaten the [y] bread of the governor.

15 For the former governors that were before me, had been chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, beſides forty ſhekels of ſilver: yea, and their ſervants bare rule over the people: but ſo did not I, becauſe of the fear of God.

16 But rather I fortified a portion in the work of this wall, and we bought no land, and all my ſervants came thither together unto the work.

3 Therefore I ſent meſſengers unto them, ſaying, I have a great work to do, and I cannot come down; [b] why ſhould the work ceaſe, while I leave it, and come down to you?

4 Yet they ſent unto me four times after this ſort. And I anſwered them after the ſame manner.

12 Then all the people went to eat and to drink, and to ſend away part, and to make great joy, becauſe they had underſtood the words that they had taught them.

13 And on the ſecond day the chief fathers of all the people, the prieſts and the Levites, were gathered unto Ezra the ſcribe, that he alſo might inſtruct them in the words of the law.

* Exod. 19. 18, 20. and 20. 1. 13 * Thou cameſt down alſo upon mount Sinai, and ſpakeſt unto them from heaven, and gaveſt them right judgments, and true laws, ordinances, and good commandments,

16 But they and our fathers behaved themſelves proudly, and hardened their neck, ſo that they hearkened not unto thy commandments,

17 But refuſed to obey, and would not remember thy marvellous works, that thou hadſt done for them, but hardened their necks, and had in their heads to return to their bondage by their rebellion: but thou, O God of mercies, gracious and full of compaſſion, of long-ſuffering, and of great mercy, yet forſookeſt them not.

* Exod. 13. 22. Num. 14. 14. 1 Cor. 10. 1. 19 Yet thou for thy great mercies forſookeſt them not in the wilderneſs: * the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day to lead them the way, neither the pillar of fire by night, to ſhew them light, and the way whereby they ſhould go.

20 Thou gaveſt alſo thy good Spirit to inſtruct them, and with-heldeſt not thy MAN from their mouth, and gaveſt them water for their thirſt.

* Deut. 8. 4. 21 Thou didſt alſo feed them forty years in the wilderneſs: they lacked nothing: * their cloaths waxed not old, and their feet [g] ſwelled not.

* Num. 21. 6. 22 And thou gaveſt them kingdoms and people, and [h] ſcatteredſt them into corners: ſo they poſſeſſed the * land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heſhbon, and the land of Og king of Baſhan.

23 And thou didſt multiply their children like the ſtars of the heaven, and broughteſt them into the land, whereof thou hadſt ſpoken unto their fathers, that they ſhould go and poſſeſs it.

24 So the children went in, and poſſeſſed the land, and thou ſubduedſt before them the inhabitants of the land, even the Canaanites, and gaveſt them into their hands, with their kings and the people of the land, that they might do with them what they would. Bef. Chr. 445.

25 And they took their ſtrong cities and the fat land, and poſſeſſed houſes full of all goods, ciſterns digged out, vineyards, and olives, and trees for food in abundance, and they did eat, and were filled, and became fat, and lived in pleaſure through thy great goodneſs.

26 Yet they were diſobedient, and rebelled againſt thee, and caſt thy law behind their backs, and ſlew thy prophets (which [i] proteſted among them to turn them unto thee) and committed great blaſphemies.

27 Therefore thou deliveredſt them into the hand of their enemies that vexed them: yet in the time of their affliction, when they cried unto thee, thou heardeſt them from the heaven, and through thy great mercies thou gaveſt them ſaviours, who ſaved them out of the hands of their adverſaries.

28 But when they had [k] reſt, they returned to do evil before thee: therefore lefteſt thou them in the hand of their enemies, ſo that they had the dominion over them, yet when they converted and cried unto thee, thou heardeſt them from heaven, and deliveredſt them according to thy great mercies many times,

29 And proteſtedſt among them that thou mighteſt bring them again unto thy law: but they behaved themſelves proudly, and hearkened not unto thy commandments, but ſinned againſt thy judgments (*which a man ſhould do and live in them) and [l] pulled away the ſhoulder, and were ſtiff-necked, and would not [m] hear. * Lev. 18. 5. 30 Yet thou † didſt forbear them many years, and proteſtedſt among them by thy Spirit, even by the hand of thy prophets, but they would not hear: therefore gaveſt thou them into the hand of the people of the lands. † Heb. thou didſt prolong upon them many years.

31 Yet for thy great mercies thou haſt not conſumed them, neither forſaken them: for thou art a gracious and a merciful God.

32 Now therefore our God, * thou great God, mighty and terrible, that keepeſt covenant and * mercy, let not all the affliction that hath come unto us ſeem a little before thee, that is, to our kings, and to our princes, and to our prieſts, and to our prophets, and to our fathers, and to all thy people ſince the time of the kings of [n] Aſſhur unto this day. * Exod. 34. * Pſ. 143 1, 2.

33 Surely thou art juſt in all that is come upon us: for thou [o] haſt dealt truly, but we have done wickedly.

34 And our kings, and our princes, our prieſts, and our fathers have not done thy law, nor regarded thy commandments, nor thy proteſtations, wherewith thou haſt [p] proteſted among them,

29 And from the houſe of Gilgal, and out of the countries of Jeba and Azmaveth: for the ſingers had built them villages round about Jeruſalem.

30 And the prieſts and Levites were purified, and cleanſed the people, and the gates, and the wall.

31 And I [u] brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and appointed two great companies to give thanks, and the one went on the right hand of the wall toward the dung gate.

32 And after them went Hoſhaiah, and half of the princes of Judah.

33 And Azariah, Ezra, and Meſhullam,

34 Judah, Benjamin, and Shemaiah, and Jeremiah,

35 And of the prieſts ſons with trumpets, Zechariah the ſon of Jonathan, the ſon of Shemaiah, the ſon of Mattaniah, the ſon of Michaiah, the ſon of Zaccur, the ſon of Aſaph:

36 And [w] his brethren, Shemaiah and Azareel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethaneel, and Judah, Hanani, with the muſical inſtruments of David the man of God: and Ezra the ſcribe went before them.

37 And to the gate of the fountain, even over-againſt them, went they up by the [x] ſtairs of the city of David, at the going up of the wall beyond the houſe of David, even unto the water-gate eaſtward.

38 And the ſecond company of them that gave thanks, went on the other ſide, and I after them, and the half of the people was upon the wall, and upon the tower of the furnaces, even unto the broad wall.

39 And upon the gate of Ephraim, and upon the old gate, and upon the fiſh-gate, and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Meah, even unto the ſheep-gate: and they ſtood in the gate of the ward.

40 So ſtood the two companies of them that gave thanks, in the houſe of God, and I and the half of the rulers with me.

41 The prieſts alſo, Eliakim, Maaſeiah, Miniamin, Michaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hananiah, with trumpets.

42 And Maaſeiah, and Shemaiah, and Eleazar, and Uzzi, and Jehohanan, and Malchijah, and Elam, and Ezer: and the ſingers † ſang loud, having Izrahiah, which was the overſeer.

43 And the ſame day they offered great ſacrifices and rejoiced: for God had given them great joy, ſo that both the women and the children were joyful: and the joy of Jeruſalem was heard far off.

44 Alſo at the ſame time were men appointed [y] over the chambers of the ſtore for the offerings, for the firſt fruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them out of the fields of the cities, the portions of the law for the prieſts and the Levites: for Judah rejoiced for the prieſts and for the Levites that ſerved.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The law is read. 3 They ſeparate from them all ſtrangers. 5 Nehemiah reproveth them that break the ſabbath. 30 An ordinance to ſerve God.

AND on that day did they read in the book of Moſes, in the audience of the people, and it was found written therein, that the Ammonite and the Moabite * ſhould not enter into the congregation of God, * Deut. 23. 3.

* Num. 22. 5, 6. 2 Becauſe they met not the children of Iſrael with bread and with water, * but hired Balaam againſt them, that he ſhould curſe them: and our God turned the curſe into a bleſſing.

3 Now when they had heard the law, they ſeparated from Iſrael [a] all thoſe that were mixed.

4 ¶ And before [b] this had the prieſt Eliaſhib the overſight of the chamber of the houſe of our God, [c] being kinſman to Tobiah:

5 And he had made him a great chamber, and there had they aforetime laid the offerings, the incenſe, and the veſſels, and the tithes of corn, of wine, and of oil (appointed for the Levites, and the ſingers, and the porters) and the offerings of the prieſts.

6 But in all this time was not I in Jeruſalem: for in the two and thirtieth year of [d] Artahſhaſhte king of Babel, came I unto the king, and ‡ after certain days I obtained of the king. ‡ Or, at the year's end.

7 And when I was come to Jeruſalem, I underſtood [e] the evil that Eliaſhib had done for Tobiah, in that he had made him a chamber in the court of the houſe of God,

8 And it grieved me ſore: therefore I caſt forth all the veſſels of the houſe of Tobiah out of the chamber.

9 And I commanded them to cleanſe the chambers: and thither brought I again the veſſels of the houſe of God with the meat-offering and the incenſe.

10 And I perceived that the portions of the Levites had not been given, and that every one was fled to his land, even the Levites and the ſingers that executed the work.

11 Then reproved I the rulers and ſaid, Why is the houſe of God forſaken? And I aſſembled them, and ſet them in their place. Bef. Chr. 434.

12 Then brought all Judah the tithes of corn and of wine, and of oil unto the treaſures.

13 And I made treaſurers over the treaſures, Shelemiah the prieſt, and Zadok the ſcribe, and of the Levites, Pedaiah, and under their hand Hanan the ſon of Zaccur the ſon of Mattaniah: for they were counted faithful, and their office was to diſtribute unto their brethren.

14 Remember me, O my God herein, and wipe not out my [f] kindneſs that I have ſhewed on the houſe of my God, and on the offices thereof.

15 In thoſe days ſaw I in Judah, them that trod wine-preſſes on the ſabbath, and that brought in ſheaves, and which laded aſſes alſo with wine, grapes, and figs, and all burdens, and brought them into Jeruſalem upon the ſabbath-day: and [g] I proteſted to them in the day that they ſold victuals.

16 There dwelt men of Tyrus alſo therein, which brought fiſh and all wares, and ſold on the ſabbath unto the children of Judah even in Jeruſalem.

17 Then reproved I the rulers of Judah, and ſaid unto them, What evil thing is this that ye do, and break the ſabbath-day?

18 Did not your fathers [h] thus, and our God brought all this plague upon us, and upon this city? yet ye increaſe the wrath upon Iſrael, in breaking the ſabbath.

19 And when the gates of Jeruſalem began to be [i] dark before the ſabbath, I commanded to ſhut the gates, and charged that they ſhould not be opened till after the ſabbath-day, and ſome of my ſervants ſet I at the gates, that there ſhould no burden be brought in on the ſabbath day.

20 So the chapmen and merchants of all merchandize remained once or twice all night without Jeruſalem.

21 And I proteſted among them, and ſaid unto them, Why tarry ye all night about the wall? If ye do it once again, I will lay hands upon you. From that time came they no more on the ſabbath.

22 ¶ And I ſaid unto the Levites, that they ſhould cleanſe themſelves, and that they ſhould come and keep [k] the gates, to ſanctify the ſabbath day. Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and pardon me according to thy great mercy.

23 In thoſe days I alſo ſaw Jews that married wives of [l] Aſhdod, of Ammon, and of Moab.

[f] He proteſteth that he did his duty with good conſcience, yet he doth not juſtify himſelf herein, but deſireth God to favour him, and to be merciful unto him for his own goodneſs ſake, as ver. 22 and 31.

[g] I declared unto them, that God would not ſuffer ſuch tranſgreſſors of his law to be unpuniſhed.

28 And one of the ſons of Joiada the ſon of Eliaſhib the high prieſt was the ſon-in-law of Sanballat the Horonite: but I chaſed him from me.

THE ARGUMENT.

Becauſe of the diverſity of names, whereby they uſed to name their kings, and the ſupputation of years wherein the Hebrews and the Grecians do vary, divers authors write diverſly as touching this Ahaſuerus, but it ſeemeth, Dan. 6. 1. and 9. 1. that he was Darius king of the Medes, and ſon of Aſtyages, called alſo Ahaſhueroſh, which was a name of honour, and ſignified great and chief, as chief head. Herein is declared the great mercies of God toward his church: who never faileth them in their greateſt dangers, but when all hope of worldly help faileth, he ever ſtirreth up ſome, by whom he ſendeth comfort and deliverance. Herein alſo is deſcribed the ambition, pride and cruelty of the wicked, when they come to honour, and their ſudden fall when they are at the higheſt, and how God preſerveth and preferreth them which are zealous of his glory, and have a care and love toward their brethren.

7 And they gave them drink in veſſels of gold, and changed veſſel after veſſel, and royal wine in abundance according to the [e] power of the king.

8 And the drinking was by an order, none might [f] compel: for ſo the king had appointed unto all the officers of his houſe, that they ſhould do according to every man's pleaſure.

15 What ſhall we do unto the queen Vaſhti according to the law, becauſe ſhe did not according to the word of the king Ahaſuerus by the commiſſion of the eunuchs?

16 Then Memucan anſwered before the king and the princes, The queen Vaſhti hath not only done [k] evil againſt the king, but againſt all the princes, and againſt all the people that are in all the provinces of king Ahaſuerus.

17 For the [l] act of the queen ſhall come abroad unto all women, ſo that they ſhall deſpiſe their huſbands in their own eyes, and ſhall ſay, The king Ahaſuerus commanded Vaſhti the queen to be brought in before him, but ſhe came not.

20 And when the decree of the king which ſhall be made, ſhall be publiſhed throughout all his kingdom, (though it be [o] great) all the women ſhall give their huſbands honour both great and ſmall.

AFTER theſe things, when the wrath of king Ahaſuerus was appeaſed, he [q] remembered Vaſhti, and what ſhe had done, and what was decreed [r] againſt her.

20 Eſther had not yet ſhewed her kindred nor her people, as Mordecai had charged her: for Eſther did after the word of Mordecai, as when ſhe was nouriſhed with him.

21 ¶ In thoſe days when Mordecai ſat in the king's gate, two of the king's eunuchs, Bigthan and Tereſh, which kept the door, were wroth, and ſought to lay [d] hand on the king Ahaſuerus.

22 And the thing was known to Mordecai, and he told it unto queen Eſther, and Eſther certified the king thereof in Mordecai's name: and when inquiſition was made, it was found ſo: therefore they were both hanged on a tree: and it was written in the book of the [e] Chronicles before the king.

2 And all the king's ſervants that were at the king's gate, bowed their knees, and reverenced Haman: for the king had ſo commanded concerning him: but Mordecai [f] bowed not the knee, neither did reverence.

10 Then the king ſaid to Haman, Make haſte, take the raiment and the horſe, as thou haſt ſaid, and do ſo unto Mordecai the Jew, that ſitteth at the king's gate: let nothing fail of all that thou haſt ſpoken.

11 So Haman took the raiment and the horſe, and arrayed Mordecai, and brought him on horſeback through the ſtreet of the city, and proclaimed before him, Thus ſhall it be done to the man whom the king will honour.

CHAP. IX.

1 At the commandment of the king, the Jews put their adverſaries to death. 14 The ten ſons of Haman are hanged. 17 The Jews keep a feaſt in remembrance of their deliverance.

SO in the twelfth month, which is the month Adar, upon the thirteenth day of the ſame, when the king's commandment and his decree drew near to be put in execution, in the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them (but it [y] turned contrary, for the Jews had rule over them that hated them)

2 The Jews gathered themſelves together into their cities throughout all the provinces of the king Ahaſuerus, to lay hand on ſuch as ſought their hurt, and no man could withſtand them: for the fear of them fell upon all people.

3 And all the rulers of the provinces, and the prince and the captains, and the officers of the king [z] exalted the Jews: for the fear of Mordecai fell upon them.

4 For Mordecai was great in the king's houſe, and the report of him went through all the provinces: for this man Mordecai waxed greater and greater.

5 Thus the Jews ſmote all their [a] enemies with ſtrokes of the ſword, and ſlaughter, and deſtruction, and did what they would unto thoſe that hated them.

6 And at Shuſhan the palace the Jews ſlew and deſtroyed [b] five hundred men,

8 And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha,

9 And Parmaſhta, and Ariſai, and Aridai, and Vajezatha,

10 The ten ſons of Haman the ſon of Hammedatha, the adverſary of the Jews, ſlew they: but they laid not their hands [c] on the ſpoil.

11 On the ſame day came the number of thoſe that were ſlain, unto the palace of Shuſhan before the king,

12 And the king ſaid unto the queen Eſther, The Jews have ſlain in Shuſhan the palace, and deſtroyed five hundred men, and the ten ſons of Haman: what have they done in the reſt of the king's provinces? and what is thy petition that it may be given thee? or what is thy requeſt moreover, that it may be performed?

13 Then ſaid Eſther, If it pleaſe the king, let it be granted alſo to-morrow to the Jews that are in Shuſhan, to do according [d] unto this day's decree, that they may hang upon the tree Haman's ten ſons. Bef. Chr. 509.

14 And the king charged to do ſo, and the decree was given at Shuſhan, and they hanged Haman's ten ſons.

15 ¶ So the Jews that were in Shuſhan aſſembled themſelves upon the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and ſlew three hundred men in Shuſhan, but on the ſpoil they laid not their hand.

16 And the reſt of the Jews that were in the king's provinces aſſembled themſelves, and ſtood for their [e] lives, and had reſt from their enemies, and ſlew of them that [f] hated them, ſeventy and five thouſand: but they laid not their hand on the ſpoil.

17 This they did on the [g] thirteenth day of the month Adar, and reſted the fourteenth day thereof, and kept it a day of feaſting and joy.

18 But the Jews that were in Shuſhan aſſembled themſelves on the thirteenth day, and on the fourteenth thereof, and they reſted on the fifteenth of the ſame, and kept it a day of feaſting and joy.

19 Therefore the Jews of the villages that dwelt in the unwalled towns, [h] kept the fourteenth day of the month Adar: with joy and feaſting, even a joyful day, and every one ſent preſents to his neighbour.

20 ¶ And Mordecai wrote [i] theſe words, and ſent letters unto all the Jews that were through all the provinces of the king Ahaſuerus, both near and far,

21 Enjoining them that they ſhould keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day of the ſame every year.

22 According to the days wherein the Jews reſted from their enemies, and the month which was turned unto them from ſorrow to joy, and from mourning unto a joyful day, to keep them the days of feaſting, and joy, and [k] to ſend preſents every man to his neighbour, and gifts to the poor.

23 And the Jews promiſed to do as they had begun, and as Mordecai had written unto them.

25 And when [m] ſhe came before the king, he commanded by letters, Let his wicked [n] device (which he imagined againſt the Jews) turn upon his own head, and let them hang him and his ſons on the tree.

JOB.

THE ARGUMENT.

In this hiſtory is ſet before our eyes the example of a ſingular patience. For this holy man Job was not only extremely afflicted in outward things and in his body, but alſo in his mind and conſcience, by the ſharp temptations of his wife and chief friends: which by their vehement words, and ſubtil diſputations, brought him almoſt to deſpair: for they ſet forth God as a ſevere judge and mortal enemy unto him, which had caſt him off, therefore in vain he ſhould ſeek unto him for ſuccour. Theſe friends came unto him under pretence of conſolation, and yet they tormented him more than did all his affliction. Notwithſtanding he did conſtantly reſiſt them, and at length had good ſucceſs. In this ſtory we have to mark, that Job maintaineth a good cauſe, but handleth it evil: again, his adverſaries have an evil matter, but they defend it craftily. For Job held that God did not alway puniſh men according to their ſins, but that he had ſecret judgments, whereof man knew not the cauſe, and therefore man could not reaſon againſt God therein, but he ſhould be convicted. Moreover, he was aſſured that God had not rejected him, yet through his great torments and affliction he burſteth forth into many inconveniences both of words and ſentences, and ſheweth himſelf as a deſperate man in many things, and as one that would reſiſt God: and this is his good cauſe which he doth not handle well. Again, the adverſaries maintain with many goodly arguments, that God puniſheth continually according to the treſpaſs, grounding upon God's providence, his juſtice, and man's ſins, yet their intention is evil: for they laboured to bring Job into deſpair, and ſo they maintain an evil cauſe. Ezekiel commendeth Job as a juſt man, Ezek. xiv. 14. and James ſetteth out his patience for an example, James v. 11.

1 The holineſs, riches, and care of Job for his children. 10 Satan hath permiſſion to tempt him. 13 He tempteth him by taking away his ſubſtance, and his children. 20 His faith and patience.

THERE was a man in the land of [a] Uz, called Job, and this man [b] was an upright and juſt man, [c] one that feared God and eſchewed evil.

2 And he had ſeven ſons, and three daughters.

3 His [d] ſubſtance alſo was ſeven thouſand ſheep, and three thouſand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred ſhe-aſſes, and his family was very great, ſo that this man was the greateſt of all the † men of the [e] eaſt,

† Heb. children.

4 And his ſons went and banquetted in their houſes, every one his day, and ſent, and called their three ſiſters to eat and drink with them.

5 And when the days of their banquetting were gone about, Job ſent, and [f] ſanctified them, and roſe up early in the morning, and [g] offered burnt-offerings according to the number of them all. For Job thought, It may be that my ſons have ſinned, and [h] blaſphemed God in their hearts: thus did Job [i] every day.

6 ¶ Now on a day when the [k] children of God came and ſtood [l] before the Lord, Satan [m] came alſo among them.

7 Then the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Whence [n] comeſt thou? And Satan anſwered the Lord, ſaying, [o] From compaſſing the earth to and fro, and from walking in it.

8 And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Haſt thou not conſidered my ſervant Job, how none is like him in the earth? an upright and juſt man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evil?

9 Then Satan anſwered the Lord, and ſaid, Doth Job fear God for [p] nought?

10 Haſt thou not made [q] an hedge about him, and about his houſe, and about all that he hath on every ſide? thou haſt bleſſed the work of his hands, and his ſubſtance is increaſed in the land.

11 But ſtretch out now thine hand [r] and touch all that he hath, to ſee if he will not blaſpheme thee to [s] thy face.

12 Then the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Lo, all that he hath is in [t] thine hand: only upon himſelf ſhalt thou not ſtretch out thine hand. So Satan departed from the [u] preſence of the Lord.

13 ¶ And on a day when his ſons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldeſt brother's houſe,

14 There came a meſſenger unto Job, and ſaid, The oxen were plowing, and the aſſes feeding in their places,

15 And the [x] Sabeans came violently, and took them: yea, they have ſlain the ſervants with the edge of the ſword: but I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

16 And whilſt he was yet ſpeaking, another came and ſaid, The [y] fire of God is fallen from the heaven, and hath burnt up the ſheep, and the ſervants, and devoured them: but I only am eſcaped to tell thee.

17 And whilſt he was yet ſpeaking, another came, and ſaid, The Chaldeans ſet out three bands, and fell upon the camels, and have taken them, and have ſlain the ſervants with the edge of the ſword: but I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

18 And whilſt he was yet ſpeaking, came another, and ſaid, Thy [z] ſons and thy daughters were eating, and drinking wine in their eldeſt brother's houſe,

19 And behold, there came a great wind from beyond the wilderneſs, and ſmote the four corners of the houſe, which fell upon the children, and they are dead, and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

20 Then Job aroſe, and [a] rent his garment, and ſhaved his head, and fell down upon the ground, and worſhipped,

21 And ſaid, * Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked ſhall I return [b] thither: the Lord hath given, and the Lord hath taken it: [c] bleſſed be the name of the Lord.

* Eccleſ. 5. 14. 1 Tim. 6. 7.

[c] Hereby is declared, what is meant by an upright and juſt man.

[d] His children and riches are declared to commend his virtue in his proſperity, and his patience and conſtancy, when God had taken them from him.

[e] Meaning, the Arabians, Chaldeans, Idumeans, &c.

[f] That is, commanded them to be ſanctified: meaning, that they ſhould conſider the faults that they had committed, and reconcile themſelves for the ſame.

[g] That is, he offered for every one of his children an offering of reconciliation, which declared his religion toward God, and the care that he had toward his children.

[h] In Hebrew it is, and bleſſed God, which is ſometimes taken for blaſpheming and curſing, as here, and 1 Kings 21. 10. and 13, &c.

[k] Meaning, the angels, which are called the ſons of God, becauſe they are willing to execute his will.

[l] Becauſe our infirmity cannot comprehend God in his majeſty, he is ſet forth unto us as a king, that our capacity may be able to underſtand that which is ſpoken of him.

[m] This declareth, that although ſatan be adverſary to God, yet he is compelled to obey him, and to do him all homage, without whoſe permiſſion and appointment he can do nothing.

[n] This queſtion is aſked for our infirmity: for God knew whence he came.

[o] Herein is deſcribed the nature of ſatan, which is ever ranging for his prey, 1 Pet. 5. 8.

[p] He feareth not thee for thine own ſake, but for the commodity that he receiveth by thee.

[q] Meaning, the grace of God, which ſerved Job as a rampart againſt all temptations.

[r] This ſignifieth, that ſatan is not able to touch us, but it is God that muſt do it.

[s] Satan noteth the vice whereunto men are commonly ſubject: that is, to hide their rebellion, and to be content with God in the time of proſperity, which vice is diſcloſed in the time of their adverſity.

[t] God giveth not Satan power over man to gratify him, but to declare that he hath no power over man, but that which God giveth him.

[u] That is, went to execute that which God had permitted him to do: for elſe he can never go out of God's preſence.

[x] That is, the Arabians.

[y] Which thing alſo was done by the craft of Satan, to tempt Job the more grievouſly, foraſmuch as he might ſee, that not only men were his enemies, but that God made war againſt him.

[z] This laſt plague declareth that when one plague is paſt, which ſeemeth hard to be borne, God can ſend us another far more grievous to try his, and teach them obedience.

[a] Which came not of impatience, but declareth that the children of God are not inſenſible like blocks, but that in their patience they feel affliction and grief of mind: yet they keep a mean herein, and rebel not againſt God, as the wicked do.

[b] That is, into the belly of the earth, which is the mother of all.

[c] Hereby he confeſſeth that God is juſt and good, although his hand be ſore upon him.

[d] But declared that God did all things according to juſtice and equity.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

CHAP. II.

6 Satan hath permiſſion to afflict Job. 9 His wife tempteth him to forſake God. 11 His three friends viſit him.

AND on a day the [e] children of God came and ſtood before the Lord, and [f] Satan came alſo among them, and ſtood before the Lord.

2 Then the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Whence comeſt thou? And Satan anſwered the Lord, and ſaid, From compaſſing the earth to and fro, and from walking in it.

3 And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Haſt thou not conſidered my ſervant Job, how none is like him in the earth? * an upright and juſt man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evil? for yet he continueth in his uprightneſs, [g] although thou movedſt me againſt him, to deſtroy him [h] without cauſe.

* Ezek. 14. 14. Ch. 1. 1.

4 And Satan anſwered the Lord, and ſaid, [i] Skin for ſkin, and all that ever a man hath will he give for his life.

5 But ſtretch now out thine hand, and touch his [k] bones and his fleſh, to ſee if he will not blaſpheme thee to thy face.

6 Then the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Lo, he is in thine hand, but ſave [l] his life.

7 ¶ So Satan departed from the preſence of the Lord, and ſmote Job with ſore [m] boils, from the ſole of his foot unto his crown.

8 And he took a [n] potſherd to ſcrape him, and he ſat down among the aſhes.

9 Then ſaid his [o] wife unto him, Doſt thou [p] continue yet in thine uprightneſs? Blaſpheme God, and die.

10 But he ſaid unto her, Thou ſpeakeſt like a fooliſh woman: what? ſhall we receive good at the hand of God, and not [r] receive evil? in all this did not Job ſin with his [s] lips.

11 Now when Job's three [t] friends heard of all this evil that was come upon him, they came, every one from his own place, to wit, Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they were agreed together to come to lament with him, and to comfort him.

12 So when they lift up their eyes afar off, they knew him not: therefore they lift up their voices and wept, and every one of them rent his garment, and ſprinkled [u] duſt upon their heads toward the heaven.

13 So they ſat by him upon the ground ſeven days, and ſeven nights, and none ſpake a word unto him: for they ſaw that his grief was very [w] great.

CHAP. III.

1 Job complaineth, and curſeth the day of his birth. 11 He deſireth to die, as though death were the end of all man's miſery.

AFterward [x] Job opened his mouth, and [y] curſed his day.

2 And Job cried out, and ſaid,

3 Let the day [z] periſh wherein I was born, and the night when it was ſaid, There is a man child conceived.

4 Let that day be darkneſs, let not God [a] regard it from above, neither let the light ſhine upon it,

5 But let darkneſs, and the [b] ſhadow of death ſtain it: let the cloud remain upon it, and let them make it fearful as a bitter day.

6 Let darkneſs poſſeſs that night, let it not be joined unto the days of the year, nor let it come into the count of the months.

7 Yea, deſolate be that night, and let no joy be in it.

8 Let them that curſe the day (being [c] ready to renew their mourning) curſe it.

9 Let the ſtars of that twilight be dim through darkneſs of it: let it look for light, but have none: neither let it [d] ſee † the dawning of the day,

† Heb. the eye-lids of the morning.

10 Becauſe it ſhut not up the doors of my mother's womb, nor hid ſorrow from mine eyes.

11 [e] Why died I not in the birth? or why died I not when I came out of the womb?

12 Why did the knees prevent me? and why did I ſuck the breaſts?

[e] That is, the angels, as ch. 1. 6.

[f] Read ch. 1. 6.

[g] He proveth Job's integrity by this, that he ceaſed not to fear God when his plagues were grievouſly upon him.

[h] That is, when thou hadſt nought againſt him, or when thou waſt not able to bring thy purpoſe to paſs.

[i] Hereby he meant that a man's own ſkin is dearer unto him than any other man's.

[k] Meaning, his own perſon.

[m] This ſore was moſt vehement, wherewith alſo God plagued the Egyptians, Exod. 9. 9. and threateneth to puniſh the rebellious people, Deut. 28. 27. So that this temptation was moſt grievous: for if Job had meaſured God's favour by the vehemence of his diſeaſe, he might have thought that God had caſt him off.

[n] As deſtitute of all other help and means, and wonderfully afflicted with the ſorrow of his diſeaſe.

[o] Satan uſeth the ſame inſtrument againſt Job, as he did againſt Adam.

[p] Meaning, what gaineſt thou to ſerve God, ſeeing he thus plagueth thee, as though he were thine enemy? This is the moſt grievous temptation of the faithful, when their faith is aſſailed, and when Satan goeth about to perſuade them, that they truſt in God in vain.

[q] For death was appointed to the blaſphemer, and ſo ſhe meant, that he ſhould be ſoon rid out of his pain.

[r] That is, to be patient in adverſity, as we rejoice when he ſendeth proſperity, and ſo to acknowledge him to be both merciful and juſt.

[s] He ſo bridled his affections, that his tongue through impatience did not murmur againſt God.

[t] Which were men of authority, wiſe and learned, and as the Septuagints write, kings, and came to comfort him; but when they ſaw how he was viſited, they conceived an evil opinion of him, as though he had been but an hypocrite, and ſo juſtly plagued of God for his ſins.

[u] This was alſo a ceremony, which they uſed in thoſe countries, as the rending of their cloaths in ſign of ſorrow, &c.

[w] And therefore thought that he would not have hearkened to their counſel.

[y] Here Job beginneth to feel his great imperfection, in this battle between the ſpirit and the fleſh, Rom. 7. 18. and after a manner yieldeth, yet in the end he getteth victory, though he was in the mean time greatly wounded.

[z] Men ought not to be weary of their life, and curſe it becauſe of the infirmities that it is ſubject unto, but becauſe they are given to ſin and rebellion againſt God.

[a] Let it be put out of the number of days, and let it not have the light of the ſun to ſeparate it from the night.

[b] That is, moſt obſcure darkneſs, which maketh them afraid of death, that are in it.

[c] Which curſe the day of their birth, let them lay that curſe upon this night.

[d] Let it be always night, and never ſee day.

[e] This, and that which followeth, declareth that when man

13 For ſo ſhould I now have [f] lien and been quiet, I ſhould have ſlept then, and been at reſt,

14 With the kings and counſellors of the earth, which have builded themſelves [g] deſolate places:

15 Or with the princes that had gold, and have filled their houſes with ſilver.

16 Or why was I not hid as an untimely birth, either as infants which have not ſeen the light?

17 The wicked have there [h] ceaſed from their tyranny, and there they that laboured valiantly are at reſt.

18 The [i] priſoners reſt together, and hear not the voice of the oppreſſor.

19 There are ſmall and great, and the ſervant is free from his maſter.

20 Wherefore is the light given to him that is in miſery? and [k] life unto them that have heavy hearts?

21 Which long for death, and if it come not, they would even ſearch it more than treaſures:

22 Which joy for gladneſs, and rejoice, when they can find the grave.

23 Why is the light given to the man whoſe way is [l] hid, and whom God hath hedged in?

24 For my ſighing cometh before I eat, and my roarings are poured out like the water.

25 For the thing I [m] feared, is come upon me, and the thing that I was afraid of, is come unto me.

26 I had no peace, neither had I quietneſs; neither had I reſt, [n] yet trouble is come.

CHAP. IV.

5 Job is reprehended of impatience, 7 and injuſtice, 17 and of the preſumption of his own righteouſneſs.

THEN Eliphaz the Temanite anſwered, and ſaid,

2 If we aſſay to commune with thee, wilt thou be grieved? but [o] who can with-hold himſelf from ſpeaking?

3 Behold, thou haſt taught many, and [p] haſt ſtrengthened the weary hands.

4 Thy words have confirmed him that was falling, and thou haſt ſtrengthened the weak knees.

5 But now it is come upon thee, and thou art grieved: it toucheth thee, and thou art troubled.

6 Is not this thy [q] fear, thy confidence, thy patience, and the uprightneſs of thy ways?

7 Remember, I pray thee: who ever periſhed, being an [r] innocent? or where were the upright deſtroyed?

8 As I have ſeen, they that [s] plow iniquity, and ſow wickedneſs, reap the ſame.

9 With the [t] blaſt of God they periſh, and with the breath of his noſtrils are they conſumed.

10 The roaring of the [u] lion, and the voice of the lioneſs, and the teeth of the lion's whelps are broken.

11 The lion periſheth for lack of prey, and the lion's whelps are ſcattered abroad.

12 But a thing was brought to me [w] ſecretly, and mine ear hath received a little thereof.

13 In the thoughts of a viſion in the night, when ſleep falleth on men, 14 Fear came upon me, and dread, which made all my bones to [x] tremble.

15 And the wind paſſed before me, and made the hairs of my fleſh to ſtand up.

16 Then ſtood one, and I knew not his face: an image was before mine eyes, and in [y] ſilence heard I a voice, ſaying,

17 Shall man be more [z] juſt than God? or ſhall a man be more pure than his maker?

18 Behold, he found no ſtedfaſtneſs in his ſervants, and laid folly upon his [a] angels.

19 How much more in them that dwell in houſes of [b] clay, whoſe foundation is in the duſt, which ſhall be deſtroyed before the moth?

20 They be deſtroyed from the [c] morning unto the evening: they periſh for ever, [d] without regard.

21 Doth not their dignity go away with them? do they not die, and that without [e] wiſdom?

CHAP.

man giveth place to his paſſions, he is not able to ſtay, nor keep meaſure, but runneth headlong into all evil, except God call him back.

[f] The vehemency of his afflictions made him to utter theſe words, as though death were the end of all miſeries, and as if there were no life after this: which he ſpeaketh not as though it were ſo, but the infirmities of his fleſh cauſed him to burſt out into this error of the wicked.

[g] He noteth the ambition of them, which for their pleaſure as it were change the order of nature, and build in moſt barren places, becauſe they would hereby make their names immortal.

[i] All they that ſuſtain any kind of calamity and miſery in this world: which he ſpeaketh after the judgment of the fleſh.

[k] He ſheweth that the benefits of God are not comfortable, except the heart be joyful, and the conſcience quieted.

[m] In my proſperity I looked ever for a fall, as is now come to paſs.

[n] The fear of troubles that ſhould enſue, cauſed my proſperity to ſeem to me as nothing, and yet I am not exempted from trouble.

[q] Thus he concludeth that Job was but an hypocrite, and had no true fear nor truſt in God.

[r] He concludeth that Job was reproved, ſeeing that God handled him ſo extremely, which is the argument that the carnal men make againſt the children of God.

[s] They that do evil, cannot but receive evil.

[t] He ſheweth that God needeth no great preparation to deſtroy his enemies: for he can do it with the blaſt of his mouth.

[u] Though men according to their office do not puniſh tyrants, (whom for their cruelty he compareth to lions, and their children to their whelps) yet God both is able, and his juſtice will puniſh them.

[w] A thing that I knew not before, was declared unto me by viſions, that is, that whoſoever thinketh himſelf juſt, ſhall be found a ſinner when he cometh before God.

[x] In theſe viſions which God ſheweth to his creatures, there is ever a certain fear joined, that the authority thereof might be had in greater reverence.

[y] When all things were quiet, or when the fear was ſomewhat aſſuaged, as God appeared to Elijah, 1 Kings 19. 12.

[z] He proveth that if God did puniſh the innocent, the creature ſhould be more juſt than the Creator, which were a blaſphemy.

[a] If God find imperfection in his angels, when they are not maintained by his power, how much more ſhall he lay folly to man's charge, when he would juſtify himſelf againſt God?

[b] That is, in this mortal body, ſubject to corruption, 2 Cor. 5. 1.

[c] They ſee death continually before their eyes, and daily approaching toward them.

[e] That is, before that any of them were ſo wiſe as to think on death.

CHAP. V.

1 2 Eliphaz ſheweth the difference between the children of God and the wicked. 3 The fall of the wicked. 9 God's power, who deſtroyeth the wicked, and delivereth his.

CALL now, if any will [f] anſwer thee, and to which of the ſaints wilt thou turn?

2 Doubtleſs [g] anger killeth the fooliſh, and envy ſlayeth the idiot.

3 I have ſeen the [h] fooliſh well rooted, and ſuddenly I [i] curſed his habitation, ſaying,

4 His [k] children ſhall be far from ſalvation, and they ſhall be deſtroyed in the [l] gate, and none ſhall deliver them.

5 The hungry ſhall eat up his harveſt: yea, they ſhall take it from among the [m] thorns, and the thirſty ſhall drink up their ſubſtance.

6 For miſery cometh not forth of the duſt, [n] neither doth affliction ſpring out of the earth.

7 But man is born unto [o] travail, as the ſparks fly upward.

8 But I would enquire [p] at God, and turn my talk unto God:

9 Which [q] doeth great things and unſearchable, and marvellous things without number.

10 He [r] giveth rain upon the earth, and poureth water upon the ſtreets,

11 And ſetteth up on high them that be low, that the ſorrowful may be exalted to ſalvation.

12 He ſcattereth the devices of the crafty: ſo that their hands cannot accompliſh that which they do enterpriſe.

* 1 Cor. 3. 19.

13 * He taketh the wiſe in their craftineſs, and the counſel of the wicked is made fooliſh.

14 They meet with [s] darkneſs in the daytime, and [t] grope at noon-day, as in the night.

15 But he ſaveth the [u] poor from the ſword, from their [w] mouth, and from the hand of the violent man.

16 So that the poor hath his hope, but iniquity ſhall [x] ſtop her mouth.

17 Behold, bleſſed is the man whom God correcteth: therefore refuſe not thou the chaſtiſing of the Almighty.

18 For he maketh the wound, and bindeth it up: he ſmiteth, and his hands make whole.

19 He ſhall deliver thee in [y] ſix troubles, and in the ſeventh the evil ſhall not touch thee.

20 In famine he ſhall deliver thee from death: and in battle from the power of the ſword.

21 Thou ſhalt be hid from the ſcourge of the tongue, and thou ſhalt not be afraid of deſtruction when it cometh.

22 But thou ſhalt [z] laugh at deſtruction and dearth, and ſhalt not be afraid of the beaſt of the earth.

23 For the ſtones of the field [a] ſhall be in league with thee, and the beaſts of the field ſhall be at peace with thee.

24 And thou ſhalt know, that peace ſhall be in thy tabernacle, and thou ſhalt viſit thine habitation, and ſhalt not [b] ſin.

25 Thou ſhalt perceive alſo, that thy ſeed ſhall be great, and thy poſterity as the graſs of the earth.

26 Thou ſhalt go to thy grave in [c] a full age, as a rick of corn cometh in due ſeaſon into the barn.

27 Lo, [d] thus have we enquired of it, and ſo it is: hear this, and know it for thyſelf.

CHAP. VI.

1 Job anſwereth, that his pain is more grievous than his fault. 8 He wiſheth death. 14 He complaineth of his friends.

BUT Job anſwered, and ſaid,

2 Oh that my grief were well weighed, and my miſeries were laid together in the [e] balance!

3 For it would be now heavier than the ſand of the ſea: therefore my words are [f] ſwallowed up.

4 For the arrows of the Almighty are in me: the venom whereof doth drink up my ſpirit, and the terrors of God [g] fight againſt me.

5 Doth the [h] wild aſs bray when he hath graſs? or loweth the ox when he hath fodder?

6 That

[f] He willeth Job to conſider the example of all them that have lived, or do live godly, whether any of them be like unto him, in raging againſt God as he doth.

[g] Murmuring againſt God in afflictions increaſeth the pain, and uttereth man's folly.

[h] That is, the ſinner that hath not the fear of God.

[i] I was not moved with his proſperity, but knew that God had curſed him and his.

[k] Though God ſometime ſuffer the fathers to paſs in this world, yet his judgments will light upon their wicked children.

[l] By public judgment they ſhall be condemned, and none ſhall pity them.

[m] Though there be but two or three ears left in the hedges, yet theſe ſhall be taken from him.

[n] That is, the earth is not the cauſe of barrenneſs and man's miſery, but his own ſin.

[o] Which declareth that ſin is ever in our corrupt nature, for before ſin it was not ſubject to pain and affliction.

[p] If I ſuffered as thou doſt, I would ſeek unto God.

[q] He counſelleth Job to humble himſelf unto God, to whom all creatures are ſubject, and whoſe works declare that man is inexcuſeable, except he glorify God in all his works.

[r] He ſheweth by particular examples what the works of God are.

[t] This declareth that God puniſheth the worldly wiſe, as he threatened, Deut. 28. 29.

[u] That is, he that humbleth himſelf before God.

[w] He compareth the ſlander of the wicked to ſharp ſwords.

[x] If the wicked be compelled at God's works to ſtop their mouths, much more they that profeſs God.

[y] He will ſend trouble after trouble, that his children may not for one time, but continually truſt in him: but they ſhall have a comfortable iſſue, even in the greateſt and the laſt, which is here called the ſeventh.

[z] Whereas the wicked lament in their troubles, thou ſhalt have occaſion to rejoice.

[a] When we are in God's favour, all creatures ſhall ſerve us.

[b] God ſhall bleſs thee, that thou ſhalt have occaſion to rejoice in all things, and not to be offended.

[c] Though the children of God have not always this promiſe performed, yet God doth recompenſe it otherwiſe to their advantage.

[d] We have learned theſe points by experience, that God puniſheth not the innocent, that man cannot compare in juſtice with him, that the hypocrites ſhall not long proſper, and that the affliction which man ſuſtaineth, cometh for his own ſin.

[f] My grief is ſo great, that I lack words to expreſs it.

[g] Which declareth that he was not only afflicted in body, but wounded in conſcience, which is the greateſt battle that the faithful can have.

[h] Think you that I cry without cauſe, ſeeing the brute beaſts do not complain when they have what they would?

Bef. Chr. 1520.

6 That which is [i] unſavoury, ſhall it be eaten without ſalt? or is there any taſte in the white of an egg?

7 Such things as my ſoul refuſed to touch, as were ſorrows, are my meat.

8 Oh that I might have my [k] deſire, and that God would grant me the thing that I long for!

9 That is, that God would deſtroy me: that he would let his hand go, and cut me off.

10 Then ſhould I yet have comfort, (though I burn with ſorrow, let him not ſpare) [l] becauſe I have not denied the words of the holy One.

11 What power have I that I ſhould endure? or what is mine [m] end, if I ſhould prolong my life?

12 Is my ſtrength the ſtrength of ſtones? or is my fleſh of braſs?

13 Is it not ſo, that there is in me no [n] help? and that ‡ ſtrength is taken from me?

‡ Or, wiſdom or law.

14 He that is in miſery ought to be comforted of his neighbour: but men have forſaken the fear of the Almighty.

15 My brethren have deceived me as a [o] brook, and as the riſing of the rivers they paſs away.

16 Which are blackiſh with ice, and wherein the ſnow is hid.

17 But in time they are dried up with heat, and are conſumed: and when it is hot, they fail out of their places,

18 Or they depart from their way and courſe; yea, they vaniſh and periſh.

19 They that go to Tema, [p] conſidered them, and they that go to Sheba, waited for them.

20 But they were confounded: when they hoped, they came thither and were aſhamed.

21 Surely now are ye like [q] unto it: ye have ſeen my fearful plague, and are afraid.

22 Was it becauſe I ſaid, Bring unto me? or give a reward to me of your [r] ſubſtance?

23 And deliver me from the enemies hand, or ranſom me out of the hand of tyrants?

24 Teach me, and I will [s] hold my tongue: and cauſe me to underſtand, wherein I have erred.

25 How [t] ſtedfaſt are the words of righteouſneſs? and what can any of you juſtly reprove?

26 Do ye imagine to reprove [u] words, that the talk of the afflicted ſhould be as the wind?

Bef. Chr. 1520.

27 Ye make your wrath to fall upon the fatherleſs, and dig a pit for your friend.

28 Now therefore be content to [w] look upon me: for I will not lie before your face.

29 Turn, I pray you, let there be none iniquity: return, I ſay, and ye ſhall ſee yet my righteouſneſs in that behalf. Is there iniquity in my tongue? doth not my mouth feel ſorrows?

CHAP. VII.

1 Job ſheweth the ſhortneſs and miſery of man's life.

IS there not an appointed time to man upon earth? and are not his days as the days of an [x] hireling?

2 As a ſervant longeth for the ſhadow, and as an hireling looketh for the end of his work,

3 So have I had as an inheritance the [y] months of vanity, and painful nights have been appointed unto me.

4 If I laid me down, I ſaid, When ſhall I ariſe? and meaſuring the evening, I am full with toſſings to and fro, unto the dawning of the day.

5 My fleſh is [z] clothed with worms and filthineſs of the duſt: my ſkin is rent, and become horrible.

6 My days are ſwifter than a [a] weaver's ſhuttle, and they are ſpent without hope.

7 Remember that my life is but a wind, and that mine eye ſhall not return to ſee pleaſure.

8 The eye that hath ſeen me, ſhall ſee me no more: thine eyes are upon me, and I ſhall be no longer.

9 [b] As the cloud vaniſheth and goeth away, ſo he that goeth down to the grave, ſhall [c] come up no more.

10 He ſhall return no more to his houſe, neither ſhall his place know him any more.

11 Therefore I will not [d] ſpare my mouth, but will ſpeak in the trouble of my ſpirit, and muſe in the bitterneſs of my mind.

12 Am I a ſea [e] or a whale-fiſh, that thou keepeſt me in ward?

13 When I ſay, My couch ſhall relieve me, and my bed ſhall bring comfort in my meditation,

[i] Can a man's taſte delight in that that hath no ſavour? meaning, that none take pleaſure in affliction, ſeeing they cannot away with things that are unſavoury to the mouth.

[k] Herein he ſinneth double, both in wiſhing through impatience to die, and alſo in deſiring of God a thing which was not agreeable to his will.

[l] That is, let me die at once, before I come to diſtruſt in God's promiſe through mine impatience.

[m] He feareth leſt he ſhould be brought to inconveniences, if his ſorrows ſhould continue.

[n] Have I not ſought to help myſelf as much as poſſible?

[o] He compareth thoſe friends which comfort us not in miſery, to a brook, which in ſummer, when we need waters, is dry; in winter is hard frozen; and in the time of rain, when we have no need, overfloweth with water.

[p] They that paſs thereby to go into the hot countries of Arabia, think to find water there to quench their thirſt, but they are deceived.

[q] That is, like to this brook, which deceiveth them that think to have water there in their need, as I looked for conſolation at your hands.

[r] He toucheth the worldlings, which for no neceſſity will give part of their goods, and much more theſe men, which would not give him comfortable words.

[s] Shew me wherein I have erred, and I will confeſs my fault.

[t] He that hath a good conſcience doth not ſhrink at the ſharp words or reaſonings of others, except they be able to perſuade him by reaſon.

[u] Do you cavil at my words, becauſe I ſhould be thought to ſpeak fooliſhly, which am now in miſery?

[w] Conſider whether I ſpeak as one that is driven to this impatience through very ſorrow, or as an hypocrite, as you condemn me.

[x] Hath not an hired ſervant ſome reſt and eaſe? then in this my continual torment I am worſe than an hireling.

[y] My ſorrow hath continued from month to month, and I have looked for hope in vain.

[z] This ſignifieth that his diſeaſe was rare and moſt horrible.

[a] Thus he ſpeaketh in reſpect of the brevity of man's life, which paſſeth without hope of returning, in conſideration whereof he deſireth God to have compaſſion on him.

[b] If thou behold me in thine anger, I ſhall not be able to ſtand in thy preſence.

[c] Shall no more enjoy this mortal life.

[d] Seeing I can by no other means comfort myſelf, I will declare my grief by words: and thus he ſpeaketh as one overcome with grief of mind.

[e] Am not I a poor wretch? what needeſt thou then to lay ſo much pain on me?

14 Then feareſt thou me [f] with dreams, and aſtoniſheſt me with viſions.

15 Therefore my ſoul [g] chuſeth rather to be ſtrangled and to die, than to be in my bones.

16 I abhor it: I ſhall not live alway: [h] ſpare me then, for my days are but vanity.

17 What is man that thou [i] doſt magnify him, and that thou ſetteſt thine heart upon him?

18 And doſt viſit him every morning, and trieſt him every moment?

19 How long will it be ere thou depart from me? thou wilt not let me alone while I may ſwallow my ſpittle.

20 I have [k] ſinned, what ſhall I do unto thee? O thou preſerver of men, why haſt thou ſet me as a mark againſt thee, ſo that I am a burden unto myſelf?

21 And why doſt thou not pardon my treſpaſs? and take away mine iniquity? for now ſhall I ſleep in the duſt, and if thou ſeek me in the morning, I ſhall [l] not be found.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Bildad ſheweth that Job is a ſinner, becauſe God puniſheth the wicked, and preſerveth the good.

THEN anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid,

2 How long wilt thou talk of theſe things? and how long ſhall the words of thy mouth [m] be as a mighty wind?

3 Doth God pervert judgment? or doth the Almighty ſubvert juſtice?

4 If thy ſons have ſinned againſt him, and he hath ſent them into the place of their [n] iniquity,

5 Yet, if thou [o] wilt early ſeek unto God, and pray to the Almighty,

6 If thou be pure and upright, then ſurely he will awake up unto thee, and he will make the habitation of thy righteouſneſs proſperous.

7 And though thy beginning [p] be ſmall, yet thy latter end ſhall greatly increaſe.

8 [q] Inquire therefore, I pray thee, of the former age, and prepare thyſelf to ſearch of their fathers.

9 (For we are but [r] of yeſterday, and are ignorant: for our days upon earth are but a ſhadow)

10 Shall not they teach thee and tell thee, and utter the words of their heart?

11 Can a ruſh [s] grow without mire? or can the graſs grow without water?

12 Though it were in green and not cut down, yet ſhall it wither before any other herb.

13 So are the paths of all that forget God, and the hypocrite's hope ſhall periſh.

14 His confidence alſo ſhall be cut off, and his truſt ſhall be as the houſe of a [t] ſpider.

15 He ſhall lean upon his houſe, but it ſhall not ſtand: he ſhall hold him faſt by it, yet ſhall it not endure.

16 The [u] tree is green before the ſun, and the branches ſpread over the garden thereof.

17 The roots thereof are wrapped about the fountain, and are folden about the houſe of ſtones:

18 If any pluck it from his place, and it [x] deny, ſaying, I have not ſeen thee,

19 Behold, it will rejoice [y] by this means, that it may grow in another mold.

20 Behold, God will not caſt away an upright man, neither will he take the wicked by the hand,

21 Till he have filled thy mouth with [z] laughter, and thy lips with joy.

22 They that hate thee, ſhall be cloathed with ſhame, and the dwelling of the wicked ſhall not remain.

CHAP. IX.

1 Job declareth the mighty power of God, and that man's righteouſneſs is nothing.

THEN Job anſwered, and ſaid,

2 I know verily that it is ſo: for how ſhould man compared unto God be [a] juſtified?

3 If he would diſpute with him, he could not anſwer him one thing of a [b] thouſand.

4 He is wiſe in heart, and mighty in ſtrength: who hath been fierce againſt him, and hath proſpered?

5 He removeth the mountains, and they feel not when he overthroweth them in his wrath.

6 He [c] removeth the earth out of her place, that the pillars thereof do ſhake.

7 He commandeth the ſun, and it riſeth not: he cloſeth up the ſtars as under a ſignet.

[f] So that I can have no reſt, night nor day.

[g] He ſpeaketh as one overcome with ſorrow, and not of judgment, or of the examination of his faith.

[h] Seeing my term of life is ſo ſhort, let me have ſome reſt and eaſe.

[i] Seeing that man of himſelf is ſo vile, why doſt thou give him that honour to contend againſt him? Job uſeth all kinds of perſuaſion with God, that he might ſtay his hand.

[k] After all temptations, faith burſteth forth, and leadeth Job to repentance: yet it was not in ſuch perfection, that he could bridle himſelf from reaſoning with God, becauſe that he ſtill tried his faith.

[m] He declareth that their words which would diminiſh any thing from the juſtice of God, are but as a puff of wind that vaniſheth away.

[n] That is, hath rewarded them according to their iniquity, meaning that Job ought to be warned by the example of his children, that he offend not God.

[o] That is, if thou turn betimes, while God calleth thee to repentance.

[p] Though the beginnings be not ſo pleaſant as thou wouldeſt deſire, yet in the end thou ſhalt have ſufficient occaſion to content thyſelf.

[q] He willeth Job to examine all antiquity, and he ſhall find it true which he here ſaith.

[r] Meaning, that it is not enough to have the experience of ourſelves, but to be confirmed by the examples of them that went before us.

[s] As a ruſh cannot grow without moiſtneſs, ſo cannot the hypocrite, becauſe he hath not faith, which is moiſtened with God's Spirit.

[t] Which is to-day, and to-morrow ſwept away.

[u] He compareth the juſt to a tree, which although it be removed out of one place unto another, yet flouriſheth: ſo the affliction of the godly turneth to their profit.

[x] That is, ſo that there remain nothing there to prove whether the tree had grown there or no.

[z] If thou be godly, he will give thee occaſion to rejoice, and if not, thine affliction ſhall increaſe.

[a] Job here anſwereth to that point of Eliphaz and Bildad's oration, touching the juſtice of God, and his innocence, confeſſing God to be infinite in juſtice, and man to be nothing in reſpect.

[c] He declareth what is the infirmity of man, by the mighty and incomprehenſible power that is in God, ſhewing what he could do if he would ſet forth his power.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

8 He himſelf alone ſpreadeth out the heavens, and walketh upon the height of the ſea.

9 He maketh the ſtars[d] Arcturus, Orion, and Pleiades, and the climates of the ſouth.

10 He doth great things and unſearchable: yea, marvellous things without number.

11 Lo, when he goeth[e] by me, I ſee him not: and when he paſſeth by, I perceive him not.

12 Behold, when he taketh a prey, [f] who can make him to reſtore it? who ſhall ſay unto him, What doeſt thou?

13 God[g] will not withdraw his anger, and the moſt mighty helps[h] do ſtoop under him.

14 How much leſs ſhall I anſwer him? or how ſhould I find out[i] my words with him?

15 For though I were juſt, yet could I[k] not anſwer, but I would make ſupplication to my judge.

16 If I[l] cry, and he anſwer me, yet would I not believe, that he heard my voice.

17 For he deſtroyeth me with a tempeſt, and woundeth me[m] without cauſe.

18 He will not ſuffer me to take my breath, but filleth me with bitterneſs.

19 If we ſpeak of ſtrength, behold, he is[n] ſtrong: if we ſpeak of judgment, who ſhall bring me in to plead?

20 If I would juſtify myſelf, mine own mouth ſhall condemn me: [o] if I would be perfect, he ſhall judge me wicked.

21 Though I were perfect, yet I know not my ſoul: therefore abhor I my life.

22 This is one point: therefore I ſaid, He deſtroyeth the[p] perfect and the wicked.

23 If the ſcourge ſhould ſuddenly[q] ſlay, ſhould God[r] laugh at the puniſhment of the innocent?

24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked: he[s] covereth the faces of the judges thereof: if not, where[t] is he? or who is he?

25 My days have been more ſwift than a poſt: they have fled, and have ſeen no good thing.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

26 They are paſſed as with the moſt ſwift ſhips, and as the eagle that flieth to the prey.

27 If[u] I ſay, I will forget my complaint, I will ceaſe from my wrath, and comfort me,

28 Then I am afraid of all my ſorrows, knowing that thou wilt not judge me innocent.

29 If I be wicked, why[w] labour I thus in vain?

30 If I waſh[x] myſelf with ſnow water, and purge mine hands moſt clean,

31 Yet ſhalt thou plunge me in the pit, and mine own[y] cloaths ſhall make me filthy.

32 For he is not a man as I am, that I ſhould anſwer him, if we come together to judgment.

33 Neither is there any umpire[z] that might lay his hand upon us both.

34 Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his fear aſtoniſh me:

35 Then will I ſpeak, and fear him not: [a] but becauſe I am not ſo, I hold me ſtill.

CHAP. X.

1 Job is weary of his life, and ſetteth out his frailty before God. 20 He deſireth him to ſtay his hand. 22 A deſcription of death.

MY ſoul is cut off[b] though I live: I will leave my[c] complaint upon myſelf, and will ſpeak in the bitterneſs of my ſoul.

2 I will ſay unto God, [d] Condemn me not: ſhew me wherefore thou contendeſt with me.

3 Thinkeſt thou it[e] good to oppreſs me, and to caſt off the[f] labour of thine hands, and to favour the[g] counſel of the wicked?

4 Haſt thou[h] carnal eyes? or doſt thou ſee as man ſeeth?

5 Are thy days as man's[i] days? or thy years as the time of man,

6 That thou inquireſt of mine iniquity, and ſearcheſt out my ſin?

7 Thou knoweſt that I cannot do[k] wickedly: for none can deliver me out of thine hand.

8 Thine[l] hands have made me, and faſhioned me

[d] Theſe are the names of certain ſtars, whereby he meaneth that all ſtars both known and unknown are at his appointment.

[e] I am not able to comprehend his works, which are common and daily before mine eyes, much leſs in thoſe things which are hid and ſecret.

[f] He ſheweth that when God doth execute his power, he doth it juſtly, foraſmuch as none can controul him.

[g] God will not be appeaſed for aught that man can ſay for himſelf for his juſtification.

[i] How ſhould I be able to anſwer him by eloquence? whereby he noteth his friends, that albeit they were eloquent in talk, yet they felt not in heart that which they ſpake.

[k] Meaning, in his own opinion, ſignifying that man will ſometime flatter himſelf to be righteous, which before God is abomination.

[l] While I am in my pangs, I cannot but burſt forth into many inconveniences, although I know ſtill that God is juſt.

[m] I am not able to feel my ſins ſo great, as I feel the weight of his plagues: and this he ſpeaketh to condemn his dullneſs, and to juſtify God.

[n] After he hath accuſed his own weakneſs, he continueth to juſtify God and his power.

[o] If I would ſtand in mine own defence, yet God hath juſt cauſe to condemn me, if he examine mine heart and conſcience.

[p] If God puniſh according to his juſtice, he will deſtroy as well them that are counted perfect, as them that are wicked.

[q] To wit, the wicked.

[r] This is ſpoken according to our apprehenſion, as though he would ſay, If God deſtroy but the wicked, as ch. 5. 3. why ſhould he ſuffer the innocents to be ſo long tormented by them?

[s] That they cannot ſee to do juſtice.

[u] I think not to fall into theſe affections, but my ſorrows bring me to theſe manifold infirmities, and my conſcience condemneth me.

[w] Why doth not God deſtroy me at once? Thus he ſpeaketh according to the infirmity of the fleſh.

[x] Though I ſeem never ſo pure in mine own eyes, yet all is but corruption before God.

[y] Whatſoever I would uſe to cover my filthineſs with, ſhall diſcloſe me ſo much more.

[z] Which might make an accord between God and me, ſpeaking of impatience, and yet confeſſing God to be juſt in puniſhing him.

[a] Signifying that God's judgments keep him in awe.

[c] I will make an ample declaration of my torments, accuſing myſelf, and not God.

[d] He would not that God ſhould proceed againſt him by his ſecret juſtice, but by the ordinary means that he puniſheth others.

[e] Is it agreeable to thy juſtice to do me wrong?

[f] Wilt thou be without compaſſion?

[g] Wilt thou gratify the wicked, and condemn me?

[h] Doeſt thou this of ignorance?

[i] Art thou inconſtant and changeable, as the times, to-day a friend, and to-morrow an enemy?

[k] By affliction thou keepeſt me as in a priſon, and reſtraineſt me from doing evil, neither can any ſet me at liberty.

[l] In theſe eight verſes following he deſcribeth the mercy of God in the wonderful creation of man: and thereon groundeth that God ſhould not ſhew himſelf rigorous againſt him.

me wholly round about, and wilt thou deſtroy me?

9 Remember, I pray thee, that thou haſt made me as the [m] clay, and wilt thou bring me into duſt again?

10 Haſt thou not poured me out as milk? and turned me to curds like cheeſe?

11 Thou haſt cloathed me with ſkin and fleſh, and joined me together with bones and ſinews, 12 Thou haſt given me life, and [n] grace: and thy [o] viſitation hath preſerved my ſpirit.

13 Though thou haſt hid theſe things in thine heart, yet I know [p] that it is ſo with thee.

14 If I have ſinned, then thou wilt ſtraitly look unto me, and wilt not hold me guiltleſs of mine iniquity.

15 If I have done wickedly, wo unto me: if I have done righteouſly, I will not [q] lift up mine head, being full of confuſion, becauſe I ſee mine affliction.

16 But let it increaſe: hunt thou me as a lion: return and ſhew thyſelf [r] marvellous upon me.

17 Thou reneweſt thy plagues againſt me, and thou increaſeſt thy wrath againſt me: [s] changes and armies of ſorrows are againſt me.

18 Wherefore then haſt thou brought me out of the womb? Oh that I had periſhed, and that none eye had ſeen me!

19 And that I were as I had not been, but brought from the womb to the grave!

20 Are not my days few? let him [t] ceaſe, and leave off from me, that I may take a little comfort,

21 Before I go and ſhall not [u] return, even to the land of darkneſs and ſhadow of death:

22 Into a land, I ſay, dark as darkneſs itſelf, and into the ſhadow of death, where is none [w] order, but the light is there as darkneſs.

CHAP. XI.

1 Job is unjuſtly reprehended of Zophar. 7 God is incomprehenſible. 14 He is merciful to the repentant. 18 Their aſſurance that live godly.

THEN anſwered Zophar the Naamathite, and ſaid,

2 Should not the multitude of words be anſwered? or ſhould a great talker [x] be juſtified?

3 Should men hold their peace at thy lyes? and when thou mockeſt others, ſhall none make thee aſhamed?

4 For thou haſt ſaid, [y] My doctrine is pure, and I am clean in thine eyes.

5 But, Oh that God would ſpeak, and open his lips againſt thee!

6 That he might ſhew thee the [z] ſecrets of wiſdom, how thou haſt deſerved double, according to right: know therefore, that God hath forgotten thee for thine iniquity.

7 Canſt thou by ſearching find out God? canſt thou find out the Almighty to his perfection?

8 The heavens are high, what canſt thou do? [a] it is deeper than the hell, how canſt thou know it?

9 The meaſure thereof is longer than the earth, and it is broader than the ſea.

10 If he cut off and [b] ſhut up, or gather together, who can turn him back?

11 For he knoweth vain men, and ſeeth iniquity, and him that underſtandeth nothing.

12 Yet vain man would be wiſe, though man new born is like a wild aſs's [c] colt.

13 If thou [d] prepare thine heart, and ſtretch out thine hands toward him:

14 If iniquity be in thine [e] hand, put it far away, and let no wickedneſs dwell in thy tabernacle.

15 Then truly ſhalt thou lift up thy [f] face without ſpot, and ſhalt be ſtable, and ſhalt not fear.

16 But thou ſhalt forget thy miſery, and remember it as waters that are paſt.

17 Thine age alſo ſhall appear more clear than the noon-day: thou ſhalt ſhine, and be as the morning.

18 And thou ſhalt be bold, becauſe there is hope: and thou ſhalt dig pits, and ſhalt lie down ſafely.

19 * For when thou takeſt thy reſt, none ſhall make thee afraid: yea, many ſhall make ſuit unto thee. * Lev. 26. 5, 6.

20 But the eyes [g] of the wicked ſhall fail, and their refuge ſhall periſh, and their hope ſhall be ſorrow of mind.

[m] As brittle as a pot of clay.

[n] That is, reaſon and underſtanding, and many other gifts, whereby man excelleth all earthly creatures.

[o] That is, thy fatherly care and providence, whereby thou preſerveſt me, and without the which I ſhould periſh ſtraitway.

[p] Though I be not fully able to comprehend theſe things, yet I muſt needs confeſs that it is ſo.

[q] I will alway walk in fear and humility, knowing that none is juſt before thee.

[r] Job being ſore aſſaulted in this battle between the fleſh and the ſpirit, burſteth out into theſe affections, wiſhing rather ſhort days than long pain.

[s] That is, diverſity of diſeaſes and in great abundance: ſhewing that God hath infinite means to puniſh man.

[t] He wiſheth that God would leave off his affliction, conſidering his great miſery, and the brevity of his life.

[u] He ſpeaketh thus in the perſon of a ſinner, that is overcome with paſſions and with the feeling of God's judgments, and therefore cannot apprehend in that ſtate the mercies of God and comfort of the reſurrection.

[w] No diſtinction between light and darkneſs, but where all is very darkneſs itſelf.

[y] He chargeth Job with this, that he ſhould ſay, that the thing which he ſpake was true, and that he was without ſin in the ſight of God.

[z] Which is not to ſtand in juſtifying of thyſelf: he ſignifieth that man will never be overcome, while he reaſoneth with another, and therefore God muſt break off the controverſy, and ſtop man's mouth.

[a] That is, this perfection of God: and if man be not able to comprehend the height of the heaven, the depth of hell, the length of the earth, the breadth of the ſea, which are but creatures, how can he attain to the perfection of the Creator?

[b] If God ſhould turn the ſtate of things, and eſtabliſh a new order in nature, who could controul him?

[c] That is, without underſtanding: ſo that whatſoever gifts he hath afterward, come of God and not of nature.

[d] If thou repent, pray unto him.

[e] Renounce thine own evil works, and ſee that they offend not God, over whom thou haſt charge.

[f] He declareth what quietneſs of conſcience and ſucceſs in all things ſuch ſhall have, which turn to God by true repentance.

[g] He ſheweth that contrary things ſhall come unto them that do not repent.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

CHAP. XII.

1 Job accuſeth his friends of ignorance. 7 He declareth the might and power of God, 17 and how he changeth the courſe of things.

THEN Job anſwered, and ſaid,

2 Indeed becauſe that ye are the people only, [h] wiſdom muſt die with you.

3 But I have underſtanding as well as you, and am not inferior unto you: yea, who knoweth not ſuch things?

* Prov. 14. 2.

4 * I am [i] as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth upon God, and he [k] heareth him: the juſt and the upright is laughed to ſcorn.

5 [l] He that is ready to fall, is as a lamp deſpiſed in the opinion of the rich.

6 The tabernacle of robbers do proſper, and they are in ſafety that provoke God, † whom God hath enriched with his hand.

7 Aſk now the beaſts, [m] and they ſhall teach thee; and the fowls of the heaven, and they ſhall tell thee:

8 Or ſpeak to the earth, and it ſhall ſhew thee: or the fiſhes of the ſea, and they ſhall declare unto thee.

9 Who is ignorant of all theſe, but that the hand of the Lord hath made theſe?

‡ Or, fleſh.

10 In whoſe hand is the ſoul of every living thing, and the breath of all ‡ mankind.

11 Do not the ears [n] diſcern the words? and the mouth taſte meat for itſelf?

12 Among the [o] ancient is wiſdom, and in the length of days is underſtanding.

13 With him is wiſdom and ſtrength: he hath counſel and underſtanding.

14 Behold, he will break down, and it cannot be built: he ſhutteth a man up, and he cannot be looſed.

15 Behold, he with-holdeth the waters, and they dry up: but when he ſendeth them out, they deſtroy the earth.

16 With him is ſtrength and wiſdom: he that is deceived, and that [p] deceiveth, are his.

17 He cauſeth the counſellors to go as ſpoiled, and maketh the judges fools.

18 [q] He looſeth [r] the collar of kings, and girdeth their loins with a girdle.

19 He leadeth away the princes as a prey, and overthroweth the mighty.

20 He taketh away the ſpeech from the [s] faithful counſellors, and taketh away the judgment of the ancient.

21 He poureth contempt upon princes, and maketh the ſtrength of the mighty weak.

22 He diſcovereth the deep places from their darkneſs, and bringeth forth the ſhadow of death to light.

23 He [t] increaſeth the people, and deſtroyeth them: he enlargeth the nations, and bringeth them in again.

24 He taketh away the hearts of them that are the chief over the people of the earth, and maketh them to wander in the wilderneſs out of the way.

25 They grope in the dark without light: and he maketh them to ſtagger like a drunken man.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Job compareth his knowledge with the experience of his friends. 16 The penitent ſhall be ſaved, and the hypocrite condemned. 20 He prayeth unto God that he would not handle him rigorouſly.

LO, mine eye hath ſeen all this: mine ear hath heard, and underſtood it.

2 I know alſo as much as you know: I am not inferior unto you.

3 But I will ſpeak to the Almighty, and I deſire [u] to diſpute with God.

4 For indeed ye forge lyes, and all you are [w] phyſicians of no value.

5 Oh that you would hold your tongue, that it might be imputed to you for wiſdom!

6 Now hear my diſputation, and give ear to the argument of my lips.

7 Will ye ſpeak [x] wickedly for God's defence, and talk deceitfully for his cauſe?

8 Will ye accept his perſon? or will ye contend for God?

9 Is it well that he ſhould ſeek of you? will you make a lye for him, as one lyeth for a man?

10 He will ſurely reprove you, if ye do ſecretly accept any perſon.

11 Shall not his excellency make you afraid? and his fear fall upon you?

12 Your [y] memories may be compared unto aſhes, and your bodies to bodies of clay.

13 Hold your tongues in my preſence, that I may ſpeak, and let come upon me what will.

14 Where-

[h] Becauſe you feel not that which you ſpeak, you think that the whole ſtandeth in words, and ſo flatter yourſelves as though none knew any thing, or could know but you.

[i] He reproveth theſe his friends of two faults: the one, that they thought that they had better knowledge than indeed they had; and the other, that inſtead of true conſolation, they did deride and deſpiſe their friend in his adverſity.

[k] The which neighbour being a mocker and a wicked man, thinketh that no man is in God's favour but he, becauſe he hath all things that he deſireth.

[l] As the rich eſteem not a light, or torch that goeth out, ſo is he deſpiſed that falleth from proſperity to adverſity.

[m] He declareth to them that did diſpute againſt him, that their wiſdom is common to all, and ſuch as the very brute beaſts do daily teach.

[n] He exhorteth them to be wiſe in judging, and as well to know the right uſe why God hath given them ears, as he hath done a mouth.

[o] Though men by age and continuance of time attain to wiſdom, yet it is not comparable to God's wiſdom, nor able to comprehend his judgments, wherein he anſwereth to that which was alledged, ch. 8. 8.

[p] He ſheweth that there is nothing done in this world without God's will and ordinance: for elſe he ſhould not be Almighty.

[q] He taketh wiſdom from them.

[r] He abateth the honour of princes, and bringeth them into the ſubjection of others.

[s] He cauſeth that their words have no credit, which is, when he will puniſh ſin.

[t] In this diſcourſe of God's wonderful works, Job ſheweth that whatſoever is done in this world both in the order and change of things, is by God's will and appointment: wherein he declareth that he thinketh well of God, and is as able to ſet forth his power in words as they that reaſoned againſt him, were.

[u] For although he knew that God had a juſtice, which was manifeſt in his ordinary working, and another in his ſecret counſel, yet he would utter his affection to God, becauſe he was not able to underſtand the cauſe why he did thus puniſh him.

[x] He condemneth their zeal, which had not knowledge, neither regarded they to comfort him, but alway grated on God's juſtice, as though it was not evidently ſeen in Job, except they had undertaken the probation thereof.

[y] Your fame ſhall come to nothing.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

14 Wherefore do I [z] take my fleſh in my teeth, and put my ſoul in mine hand?

15 Lo, though he ſlay me, yet will I truſt in him, and I will reprove my ways in his ſight.

16 He ſhall be my ſalvation alſo: for the [a] hypocrite ſhall not come before him.

17 Hear diligently my words, and mark my talk.

18 Behold now: if I prepare me to judgment, I know that I ſhall be [b] juſtified.

19 Who is he that will plead [c] with me? for if I now hold my tongue, I [d] die.

20 But do not theſe two things unto me: then will I not hide myſelf from thee.

21 [e] Withdraw thine hand from me, and let not thy fear make me afraid:

22 Then call thou, and I will anſwer: or let me ſpeak, and anſwer thou me.

23 How many are [f] mine iniquities and ſins? ſhew me my rebellion, and my ſin.

24 Wherefore hideſt thou thy face, and takeſt me for thine enemy?

25 Wilt thou break a leaf driven to and fro? and wilt thou purſue the dry ſtubble?

26 For thou writeſt bitter things againſt me, and makeſt me to poſſeſs [g] the iniquities of my youth.

27 Thou putteſt my feet alſo in the [h] ſtocks, and lookeſt narrowly unto all my paths, and makeſt the print thereof in the † heels of my feet. † Heb. roots.

28 Such a one conſumeth like a rotten thing, and as a garment that is moth-eaten.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Job deſcribeth the ſhortneſs and miſery of the life of man. 14 Hope ſuſtaineth the godly. 22 The condition of man's life.

MAN [i] that is born of a woman, is of ſhort continuance, and full of trouble.

2 He ſhooteth forth as a flower, and is cut down: he vaniſheth alſo as * a ſhadow, and continueth not. * Ch. 8. 9. Pſ. 144. 4.

3 And yet thou openeſt thine eyes upon ſuch [k] one, and cauſeſt me to enter into judgment with thee.

4 * Who can bring a clean thing out of filthineſs? there is not one. * Pſ. 51. 5, 7.

5 Are not his days determined? the number of his months are with thee: thou haſt appointed his bounds, which he cannot paſs.

6 Turn from him, that he may ceaſe until his deſired day, [l] as an hireling.

7 For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will yet ſprout, and the branches thereof will not ceaſe.

8 Though the root of it wax old in the earth, and the ſtock thereof be dead in the ground,

9 Yet by the ſcent of water it will bud, and bring forth boughs like a plant.

10 [m] But man is ſick, and dieth, and man periſheth, and where is he?

11 As the waters paſs from the ſea, and as the flood decayeth and drieth up,

12 So man ſleepeth and riſeth not: for he ſhall not wake again, nor be raiſed from his ſleep, till the heaven be no more.

13 Oh that thou wouldeſt hide me in the grave, and keep me ſecret, until thy [n] wrath were paſt, and wouldeſt give me term, and [o] remember me!

14 If a man die, ſhall he live again? All the days of mine appointed time will I wait, till [p] my changing ſhall come.

15 Thou ſhalt call me, and I ſhall [q] anſwer thee: thou loveſt the work of thine own hands.

16 But now thou * numbereſt my ſteps, and doſt not delay my ſins. * Prov. 5. 21.

17 Mine iniquity is ſealed up, as in a [r] bag, and thou addeſt unto my wickedneſs.

18 And ſurely as the mountain that falleth, cometh to nought, and the [s] rock that is removed from his place:

19 As the water breaketh the ſtones, when thou overfloweſt the things which grow in the duſt of the earth, ſo thou deſtroyeſt the hope of man.

20 Thou prevaileſt alway againſt him, ſo that he paſſeth away: he changeth his face when thou caſteſt him away.

21 And he knoweth not if his ſons ſhall be honourable, neither ſhall he underſtand concerning them, whether they ſhall be of low degree.

22 But while his [t] fleſh is upon him, he ſhall be ſorrowful, and while his ſoul is in him, it ſhall mourn.

CHAP. XV.

1 Eliphaz reprehendeth Job becauſe he aſcribeth wiſdom and pureneſs to himſelf. 16 He deſcribeth the curſe that falleth on the wicked, reckoning Job to be one of the number.

---

[z] Is not this a manifeſt ſign of mine affliction, and that I do not complain without cauſe, ſeeing that I am thus tormented, as though I ſhall tear mine own fleſh, and put my life in danger?

[a] Whereby he declareth that he is not an hypocrite, as they charged him.

[b] That is, cleared, and not caſt off for my ſins, as you reaſon.

[c] To prove that God doth thus puniſh me for my ſins.

[d] If I defend not my cauſe, every man will condemn me.

[e] He ſheweth what theſe two things are.

[f] His pangs thus move him to reaſon with God, not denying but that he had ſinned: but he deſired to underſtand what were his great ſins that had deſerved ſuch rigour, wherein he offended, that he would know a cauſe of God why he did puniſh him.

[g] Thou puniſheſt me now for the faults that I committed in my youth.

[h] Thou makeſt me thy priſoner, and doſt ſo preſs me, that I cannot ſtir hand nor foot.

[i] Taking occaſion of his adverſary's words, he deſcribeth the ſtate of man's life from his birth to his death.

[k] His meaning is, that ſeeing that man is ſo frail a creature, God ſhould not handle him ſo extremely: wherein Job ſheweth the wickedneſs of the fleſh, when it is not ſubject to the ſpirit.

[l] Until the time that thou haſt appointed for him to die, which he deſireth, as the hireling waiteth for the end of his labour to receive his wages.

[m] He ſpeaketh not here, as though he had not hope of the immortality, but as a man in extreme pain, when reaſon is overcome by afflictions and torments.

[n] Hereby he declareth that the fear of God's judgment was the cauſe why he deſired to die.

[o] That is, releaſe my pains, and take me to mercy.

[p] Meaning, unto the day of the reſurrection, when he ſhould be changed and renewed.

[q] Though I be afflicted in this life, yet in the reſurrection I ſhall feel thy mercies, and anſwer when thou calleſt me.

[r] Thou layeſt them all together, and ſuffereſt none of my ſins unpuniſhed.

[s] He murmureth through the impatiency of the fleſh againſt God, as though he uſed as great ſeverity againſt him, as againſt the hard rocks, or waters that overflow, ſo that hereby all the occaſion of his hope is taken away.

[t] Yet while he liveth, he ſhall be in pain and miſery.

THEN anſwered Eliphaz the Temanite, and ſaid,

2 Shall a wiſe man ſpeak words of the [u] wind, and fill his belly [w] with the eaſt wind?

3 Shall he diſpute with words not comely? or with talk that is not profitable?

4 Surely thou haſt caſt off [x] fear, and reſtraineſt prayer before God.

5 For thy mouth declareth thine iniquity, ſeeing thou haſt choſen the [y] tongue of the crafty.

6 Thine own mouth condemneth thee, and not I, and thy lips teſtify againſt thee.

7 Art thou the [z] firſt man that was born? and waſt thou made before the hills?

8 Haſt thou heard the ſecret counſel of God, and doſt thou reſtrain wiſdom [a] to thee?

9 What knoweſt thou that we know not? and underſtandeſt that is not in us?

10 With us are both ancient and very aged men, far older than thy father.

11 Seem the conſolations of God [b] ſmall unto thee? is this thing ſtrange unto thee?

12 Why doth thine heart [c] take thee away, and what do thine eyes mean, 13 That thou anſwereſt to God † at thy pleaſure, and bringeſt ſuch words out of thy mouth?

14 What is man, that he ſhould be clean? and he that is born of woman, that he ſhould [d] be juſt?

15 Behold, he found no ſtedfaſtneſs in his ſaints: yea, the heavens are not clean in his ſight.

16 How much more is man abominable and filthy, which [e] drinketh iniquity like water?

17 I will tell thee, hear me, and I will declare that which I have ſeen:

18 Which wiſe men have told, as they have heard of their fathers, and have not kept it ſecret.

19 To whom alone the land was [f] given, and no ſtranger paſſed through them.

20 The wicked man is continually as one that travaileth of child, and the number [g] of years is hid from the tyrant.

21 A ſound of fear is in his ears, and in his proſperity the deſtroyer ſhall come upon him.

22 He believeth not to return out of [h] darkneſs: for he ſeeth the ſword before him.

23 He wandereth [i] to and fro for bread where he may: he knoweth that the day of darkneſs is prepared at hand.

24 Affliction and [k] anguiſh ſhall make him afraid: they ſhall prevail againſt him as a king ready to battle.

25 For he hath ſtretched out his hand againſt God, and made himſelf ſtrong againſt the Almighty.

26 Therefore God ſhall run upon him, even upon his neck, and againſt the moſt thick part of his ſhield,

27 Becauſe he hath covered his face with [l] his fatneſs, and hath collops in his flanks.

28 Though he dwell [m] in deſolate cities, and in houſes which no man inhabiteth, but are become heaps,

29 He ſhall not be rich, neither ſhall his ſubſtance continue, neither ſhall he prolong the [n] perfection thereof in the earth.

30 He ſhall never depart out of darkneſs: the flame ſhall dry up his branches, and he ſhall go away with the breath of his mouth.

31 He [o] believeth not that he erreth in vanity: therefore vanity ſhall be his change.

32 His branch ſhall not be green, but ſhall be cut off before his day.

33 God ſhall deſtroy him as the vine her ſour [p] grape, and ſhall caſt him off as the olive doth her flower.

34 For the congregation of the hypocrite ſhall be deſolate, and fire ſhall devour the houſes of [q] bribes.

35 For they [r] conceive miſchief and bring forth vanity, and their belly hath prepared deceit.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Job, moved by the importunity of his friends, 7 counteth in what extremity he is, 19 and taketh God to witneſs of his innocency.

BUT Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 I have oftentimes heard ſuch things: miſerable comforters are ye all.

3 Shall there be no end of words of [s] wind? or what maketh thee bold ſo to [t] anſwer?

4 I could alſo ſpeak as ye do: (but would God your [u] ſoul were in my ſoul's ſtead) I could keep you company in ſpeaking, and could [w] ſhake mine head at you.

5 But

[u] That is, vain words, and without conſolation.

[w] Meaning, with matters that are of none importance, which are forgotten as ſoon as they are uttered, as the eaſt wind drieth up the moiſture as ſoon as it falleth.

[x] He chargeth Job as though his talk cauſed men to caſt off the fear of God, and prayer.

[y] Thou ſpeakeſt as do the mockers and contemners of God.

[z] That is, the moſt ancient, and ſo by reaſon the moſt wiſe.

[b] He accuſeth Job's pride and ingratitude, that will not be comforted by God, nor by their counſel.

[c] Why doſt thou ſtand in thine own conceit?

[d] His purpoſe is to prove that Job is an unjuſt man, and an hypocrite, is puniſhed for his ſins, like as he did before, ch. 4. 18.

[e] Which hath a deſire to ſin, as he that is thirſty to drink.

[f] Who by their wiſdom ſo governed, that no ſtrangers invaded them, and ſo the land ſeemed to be given to them alone.

[g] The cruel man is ever in danger of death, and is never quiet in conſcience.

[h] Out of that miſery whereinto he once falleth.

[i] God doth not only impoveriſh the wicked oft-times, but even in their proſperity he puniſheth them with a greedineſs evermore to gather: which is as a beggary.

[k] He ſheweth what weapons God uſeth againſt the wicked, which lift up themſelves againſt him, to wit, terror of conſcience and outward afflictions.

[l] That is, he was ſo puft up with great proſperity and abundance of all things, that he forgat God: noting, that Job in his felicity had not the true fear of God.

[m] Though he build and repair ruinous places to get him fame, yet God ſhall bring all to nought, and turn his great proſperity into extreme miſery.

[n] Meaning, that his ſumptuous buildings ſhould never come to perfection.

[o] He ſtandeth ſo in his own conceit, that he will give no place to good counſel, therefore his own pride ſhall bring him to deſtruction.

[q] Which were built or maintained by pillage and bribery.

[r] And therefore all their vain devices ſhall turn to their own deſtruction.

[u] I would you felt that which I do.

5 But I would ſtrengthen you [x] with my mouth, and the comfort of my lips ſhould aſſuage your ſorrow.

6 Though I ſpeak, my ſorrow [y] cannot be aſſuaged: though I ceaſe, what releaſe have I?

7 But now he [z] maketh me weary: O God, thou haſt made all my [a] congregation deſolate,

8 And haſt made me full of [b] wrinkles, which is a witneſs thereof, and my leanneſs riſeth up in me, teſtifying the ſame in my face.

9 [c] His wrath hath torn me, and he hateth me, and gnaſheth upon me with his teeth: mine enemy hath ſharpened his eyes againſt me.

10 They have opened their mouths upon me, and ſmitten me on the [d] cheek in reproach: they gathered themſelves together againſt me.

11 God hath delivered me to the unjuſt, and hath made me to turn out of the way by the [e] hands of the wicked.

12 I was in wealth, but he hath brought me to nought: he hath taken me by the neck and beaten me, and ſet me as a mark for himſelf.

13 His [f] archers compaſs me round about: he cutteth my reins, and doth not ſpare, and poureth my gall [g] upon the ground.

14 He hath broken me with one breaking upon another, and runneth upon me like a giant.

15 I have ſewed a ſackcloth upon my ſkin, and have abaſed mine [h] horn unto the duſt.

16 My face is withered with weeping, and the ſhadow of death is upon mine eyes,

17 Though there be no wickedneſs in [i] mine hands, and my prayer [k] be pure.

18 O earth, cover not thou my [l] blood, and let my crying find no place.

19 For lo, now my [m] witneſs is in the heaven, and my record is on high.

20 My friends [n] ſpeak eloquently againſt me: but mine eye poureth out tears unto God.

21 Oh that a man might [o] plead with God, as man with his neighbour!

22 For the years accounted come, and I ſhall go the way, whence I ſhall not return.

CHAP. XVII.

Job ſaith that he conſumeth away, and yet doth patiently abide it. 10 He exhorteth his friends to repentance, 13 ſhewing that he looketh but for his death.

MY breath is corrupt: my days are cut off, and the grave is ready for me.

2 There are none but [p] mockers with me, and mine eye continueth in [q] their bitterneſs.

3 [r] Lay down now, and put me in ſurety for thee, who is he that will [s] touch mine hand?

4 For thou haſt hid their heart from [t] underſtanding: therefore ſhalt thou not ſet them up on high.

5 [u] For the eyes of his children ſhall fail, that ſpeaketh flattery to his friends.

6 He hath alſo made me a [w] by-word of the people, and I am as a tabret [x] before them.

7 Mine eye therefore is dim for grief, and all my ſtrength is like a ſhadow.

8 The righteous ſhall be aſtoniſhed at [y] this, and the innocent ſhall be moved againſt the hypocrite.

9 But the righteous will hold his [z] way, and he whoſe hands are pure ſhall increaſe his ſtrength.

10 All [a] you, therefore, turn you, and come now, and I ſhall not find one wiſe amongſt you.

11 My days are paſt, mine enterpriſes are broken, and the thoughts of mine heart

12 Have changed the [b] night for the day, and the light that approached for darkneſs.

13 Though I hope, [c] yet the grave ſhall be mine houſe, and I ſhall make my bed in the dark.

14 I ſhall ſay to corruption, Thou art my [d] father, and to the worm, Thou art my mother and my ſiſter.

15 Where is then now mine hope? or who ſhall conſider the thing that I hoped for?

16 [e] They ſhall go down into the bottom of the pit: ſurely it ſhall lie together in the duſt.

CHAP.

[x] If this were in my power, yet would I comfort you, and not do as ye do to me.

[y] If they would ſay, Why doſt thou not then comfort thyſelf? he anſwereth, that the judgments of God are more heavy than he is able to aſſuage either by words or ſilence.

[z] Meaning, God.

[a] That is, deſtroyed moſt of my family.

[b] In token of ſorrow and grief.

[c] That is, God by his wrath: and in this diverſity of words and high ſtile he expreſſeth how grievous the hand of God was upon him.

[d] That is, have handled me moſt contemptuouſly: for ſo ſmiting on the cheek ſignified, 1 Kings 22. 24. Mark 14. 65.

[e] They have led me whither they would.

[f] His manifold afflictions.

[g] I am wounded to the heart.

[h] Meaning, his glory was brought low.

[i] Signifying, that he is not able to comprehend the cauſe of this his grievous puniſhment.

[k] That is, unfeigned, and without hypocriſy.

[l] Let my ſin be known, if I be ſuch a ſinner as mine adverſaries accuſe me, and let me find no favour.

[m] Though man condemn me, yet God is witneſs of my cauſe.

[n] Uſe painted words inſtead of true conſolation.

[o] Thus by his great torments he is carried away, and breaketh out into paſſions, and ſpeaketh unadviſedly, as though God ſhould treat man more gently, ſeeing he hath but a ſhort time here to live.

[p] Inſtead of comfort, being now at death's door, he had but them that mocked at him, and diſcouraged him.

[q] I ſee ſtill that they ſeek but to vex me.

[r] He reaſoneth with God as a man beſide himſelf, to the intent that his cauſe might be brought to light.

[s] And anſwer for thee?

[t] That theſe mine afflictions are thy juſt judgments, though man know not the cauſe.

[u] He that flattereth a man, and only judgeth him happy in his proſperity, ſhall not himſelf only, but in his poſterity be puniſhed.

[w] God hath made all the world to ſpeak of me, becauſe of mine afflictions.

[x] That is, as a continual ſound in their ears.

[y] To wit, when they ſee the godly puniſhed: but in the end they ſhall come to underſtanding, and know what ſhall be the reward of the hypocrite.

[z] That is, will not be diſcouraged, conſidering that the godly are puniſhed, as well as the wicked.

[a] Job ſpeaketh to them three that came to comfort him.

[b] That is, have brought me ſorrow inſtead of comfort.

[c] Though I ſhould hope to come from adverſity to proſperity, as your diſcourſe pretendeth.

[d] I have no more hope in father, mother, ſiſter, or any worldly thing: for the duſt and worms ſhall be to me inſtead of them.

[e] All worldly hope and proſperity fail, which you ſay, are only ſigns of God's favour: but ſeeing that theſe things periſh, I ſet mine hope in God, and in the life everlaſting.

C H A P. XVIII.

1 Bildad rehearſeth the pains of the unfaithful and wicked.

THEN anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid,

2 When will [f] ye make an end of your words? [g] cauſe us to underſtand, and then we will ſpeak.

3 Wherefore are we counted as beaſts, and are vile in your ſight?

4 Thou art [h] as one that teareth his ſoul in his anger, Shall the [i] earth be forſaken for thy ſake? or the rock removed out of his place?

5 Yea, the light of the wicked ſhall be [k] quenched, and the ſpark of his fire ſhall not ſhine.

6 The light ſhall be dark in his dwelling, and his candle ſhall be put out with him.

7 The ſteps of his ſtrength ſhall be reſtrained, and his own counſel ſhall caſt him down.

8 For he is taken in the net by his feet, and he [l] walketh upon the ſnares.

9 The grin ſhall take him by the heel, and the thief ſhall come upon him.

10 A ſnare is laid for him in the ground, and a trap for him in the way.

11 Fearfulneſs ſhall make him afraid on every ſide, and ſhall drive him to his feet.

12 His ſtrength ſhall be [m] famine: and deſtruction ſhall be ready at his ſide.

13 It ſhall devour the inner parts of his ſkin, and the [n] firſt-born of death ſhall devour his ſtrength.

14 His hope ſhall be rooted out of his dwelling, and ſhall cauſe him to go to the [o] king of fear.

15 Fear ſhall dwell in his houſe (becauſe it is not[p] his) [q] and brimſtone ſhall be ſcattered upon his habitation.

16 His roots ſhall be dried up beneath, and above ſhall his branch be cut down.

17 His remembrance ſhall periſh from the earth, and he ſhall have no name in the ſtreet.

18 They ſhall drive him out of the [r] light unto darkneſs, and chaſe him out of the world.

19 He ſhall neither have ſon nor nephew among his people, nor any poſterity in his dwellings.

20 The poſterity ſhall be aſtoniſhed at his [s] day, and fear ſhall come upon the ancient.

21 Surely ſuch are the habitations of the wicked, and this is the place of him that knoweth not God.

C H A P. XIX.

2 Job reproveth his friends, 15 and reciteth his miſeries and grievous pains. 25 He aſſureth himſelf of the general reſurrection.

BUT Job anſwered, and ſaid,

2 How long will ye vex my ſoul, and torment me with words?

3 Ye have now [t] ten times reproached me, and are not aſhamed: ye are impudent toward me.

4 And though I had indeed erred, mine error [u] remaineth with me.

5 But indeed, if ye will advance yourſelves againſt me, and rebuke me for my reproach,

6 Know now, that God hath [w] overthrown me, and hath compaſſed me with his net.

7 Behold, I cry out of violence, but I have none anſwer: I cry, but there is no judgment.

8 He hath hedged up my way that I cannot [x] paſs, and he hath ſet darkneſs in my paths.

9 He hath ſpoiled me of mine honour, and taken the [y] crown away from mine head.

10 He hath deſtroyed me on every ſide, and I am gone: and he hath removed mine hope like [z] a tree.

11 And he hath kindled his wrath againſt me, and counteth me as one of his enemies.

12 His [a] armies came together, and made their way upon me, and camped about my tabernacle.

13 He hath removed my brethren far from me, and alſo mine acquaintance were ſtrangers unto me.

14 My neighbours have forſaken me, and my familiars have forgotten me.

15 [b] They that dwell in mine houſe, and my maids took me for a ſtranger: for I was a ſtranger in their ſight.

16 I called my ſervant, but he would not anſwer, though I prayed him with my mouth.

17 My breath was ſtrange unto my wife, though I prayed her for the childrens ſake of mine [c] own body.

18 The wicked alſo deſpiſed me, and when I roſe, they ſpake againſt me.

19 All my ſecret friends abhorred me, and they whom I loved, are turned againſt me.

20 My bone [d] cleaveth to my ſkin, and to my fleſh, and I have eſcaped with the [e] ſkin of my teeth.

21 Have pity upon me: have [f] pity upon me, (O ye my friends) for the hand of God hath touched me.

[f] Which count yourſelves juſt, ch. 12. 4.

[g] Whom you take to be but beaſts, as ch. 12. 7.

[h] That is, like a mad man.

[i] Shall God change the order of nature for thy ſake, by dealing with thee otherwiſe than he doth with all men?

[k] When the wicked is in his proſperity, then God changeth his ſtate: and this is his ordinary working for their ſins.

[m] That which ſhould nouriſh him, ſhall be conſumed by famine.

[n] That is, ſome ſtrong and violent death ſhall conſume his ſtrength: or, as the Hebrew word ſignifieth, his members or parts.

[o] That is, with moſt great fear.

[p] Meaning, not truly come by.

[q] Though all the world would favour him, yet God would deſtroy him and his.

[r] He ſhall fall from proſperity to adverſity.

[t] That is, many times, as Nehem. 4. 12.

[u] That is, I myſelf ſhall be puniſhed for it, or you have not yet confuted it.

[w] He breaketh out again into his paſſions, and declareth ſtill that his affliction cometh of God, though he be not able to feel the cauſe in himſelf.

[x] Meaning, out of his afflictions.

[y] Meaning, his children, and whatſoever was dear unto him in this world.

[b] Mine houſhold ſervants: by all theſe loſſes Job ſheweth that touching the fleſh he had great occaſion to be moved.

[c] Which were hers and mine.

[d] Beſides theſe great loſſes and moſt cruel unkindneſs, he was touched in his own perſon, as followeth.

[e] All my fleſh was conſumed.

[f] Seeing I have theſe juſt cauſes to complain, condemn me not as an hypocrite, ſpecially ye which ſhould comfort me.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

22 Why do ye perſecute me, as [g] God? and are not ſatisfied with my [h] fleſh?

23 Oh that my words were now written! Oh that they were written even in a book, 24 And graven with [i] an iron pen in lead, or in ſtone for ever!

25 For I am ſure that my [k] Redeemer liveth, and he ſhall ſtand the laſt on the earth.

26 And though after my ſkin worms deſtroy this body, yet ſhall I ſee God [l] in my fleſh.

27 Whom I myſelf ſhall ſee, and mine eyes ſhall behold, and none other for me, though my reins are conſumed within me.

28 But ye ſaid, Why is he perſecuted? And there was a [m] deep matter in me.

29 Be ye afraid of the ſword: for the ſword will be [n] avenged of wickedneſs, that ye may know that there is a judgment.

CHAP. XX.

1 Zophar ſheweth, that the wicked and the covetous ſhall have a ſhort end, 22 though for a time they flouriſh.

THEN anſwered Zophar the Naamathite, and ſaid,

2 Doubtleſs my thoughts cauſe me to anſwer, and therefore I make haſte.

3 I have heard [o] the correction of my reproach: therefore the ſpirit of mine underſtanding cauſeth me to anſwer.

4 Knoweſt thou not this of old? and ſince God placed man upon the earth,

5 That the rejoicing of the wicked is ſhort, and that the joy of the hypocrites is but a moment?

6 Though [p] his excellency mount up to the heaven, and his head reach unto the clouds,

7 Yet ſhall he periſh for ever like his dung, and they which have ſeen him, ſhall ſay, Where is he?

8 He ſhall flee away as a dream, and they ſhall not find him, and ſhall paſs away as a viſion of the night.

9 So that the eye which had ſeen him, ſhall do ſo no more, and his place ſhall ſee him no more.

10 His children ſhall [q] flatter the poor, and his hands ſhall [r] reſtore his ſubſtance.

11 His bones are full of the ſin of his youth, and [s] it ſhall lie down with him in the duſt.

12 When wickedneſs was [t] ſweet in his mouth, and he hid it under his tongue,

13 And favoured it, and would not forſake it, but kept it cloſe in his mouth,

14 Then his meat in his bowels was turned: the gall of aſps was in the midſt of him.

15 He hath devoured ſubſtance, and he ſhall vomit it: for God ſhall draw it out of his belly.

16 He ſhall ſuck the [u] gall of aſps, and the viper's tongue ſhall ſlay him.

17 He ſhall not ſee the [w] rivers, nor the floods and ſtreams of honey and butter.

18 He ſhall reſtore the labour, and ſhall devour no more: even according to the ſubſtance ſhall be his exchange, [x] and he ſhall enjoy it no more.

19 For he hath undone many: he hath forſaken the poor, and hath ſpoiled houſes which he builded not.

20 Surely he ſhall feel no quietneſs in his body, neither ſhall he reſerve of that which he deſired.

21 There ſhall none of his [y] meat be left: therefore none ſhall hope for his goods.

22 When he ſhall be filled with his abundance, he ſhall be in pain, and the hand [z] of all the wicked ſhall aſſail him.

23 He ſhall be about to fill his belly, but God ſhall ſend upon him his fierce wrath, [a] and ſhall cauſe to rain upon him, even upon his meat.

24 He ſhall flee from the iron weapons, and the bow of ſteel ſhall ſtrike him through.

25 The arrow is drawn out, and cometh forth of the [b] body, and ſhineth of his gall, ſo fear cometh upon him.

26 [c] All darkneſs ſhall be hid in his ſecret places: the fire that is not [d] blown ſhall devour him, and that which remaineth in his tabernacle, ſhall be deſtroyed.

27 The heaven ſhall declare his wickedneſs, and the earth ſhall riſe up againſt him.

28 The [e] increaſe of his houſe ſhall go away: it ſhall flow away in the day of his wrath.

29 This is the portion of the wicked man from [f] God, and the heritage that he ſhall have of God, for his [g] words.

[g] Is it not enough that God doth puniſh me, except you by reproaches increaſe my ſorrow?

[h] To ſee my body puniſhed, except ye trouble my mind?

[i] He proteſteth that notwithſtanding his ſore paſſions, his religion is perfect: and that he is not a blaſphemer, as they judged him.

[k] I do not ſo juſtify myſelf before the world, but I know that I ſhall come before the great Judge, who ſhall be my deliverer and ſaviour.

[l] Herein Job declareth plainly that he had a full hope, that both the ſoul and body ſhould enjoy the preſence of God in the laſt reſurrection.

[m] Though his friends thought that he was but perſecuted of God for his ſins, yet he declareth that there was a deeper conſideration, to wit, the trial of his faith and patience, and ſo to be an example for others.

[n] God will be revenged of this haſty judgment, whereby you condemn me.

[o] He declareth that two things moved him to ſpeak: to wit, becauſe Job ſeemed to touch him, and becauſe he thought he had knowledge ſufficient to confute him.

[p] His purpoſe is to provoke Job to be a wicked man, and an hypocrite, becauſe God puniſhed him and changed his proſperity into adverſity.

[q] Whereas the father, through ambition and tyranny, oppreſſed the poor; the children, through poverty and miſery, ſhall ſeek favour at the poor.

[r] So that the thing which he hath taken away by violence, ſhall be reſtored again by force.

[t] As poiſon that is ſweet in the mouth, bringeth deſtruction when it cometh into the body: ſo all vice at the firſt is pleaſant, but afterward God turneth it to deſtruction.

[u] He compareth evil-gotten goods to the venom of aſps, which ſerpent is moſt dangerous: noting, that Job's great riches were not truly come by, and therefore God did plague him juſtly for the ſame.

[w] Though God give to all other abundance of his bleſſings, yet he ſhall have no part thereof.

[x] That is, theſe raveners and ſpoilers of the poor ſhall enjoy their theft but for a time; for after, God will take it from them, and cauſe them to make reſtitution, ſo that it is but an exchange.

[y] He ſhall leave nothing to his poſterity.

[z] The wicked ſhall never be in reſt: for one wicked man ſhall ſeek to deſtroy another.

[a] Some read, upon his fleſh, alluding to Job, whoſe fleſh was ſmitten with a ſcab.

[c] All fear and ſorrow ſhall light upon him, when he thinketh to eſcape.

[d] That is, fire from heaven, or the fire of God's wrath.

[e] Meaning, the children of the wicked ſhall flow away like rivers, and be diſperſed in divers places.

[f] Thus God will plague the wicked.

[g] Againſt God, thinking to excuſe himſelf, and to eſcape God's hand.

CHAP. XXI.

7 Job declareth how the prosperity of the wicked maketh them proud, 15 insomuch that they blaspheme God. 16 Their destruction is at hand. 23 None ought to be judged wicked for affliction, neither good for prosperity.

BUT Job answered, and said,

2 Hear diligently my words, and this [h] shall be instead of your consolations.

3 Suffer me that I may speak, and when I have spoken, mock on.

4 Do I direct my talk to man? If it [i] were so, how should not my spirit be troubled?

5 Mark me, and be abashed, and lay your hand upon your [k] mouth.

6 Even when I remember, I am afraid, and fear taketh hold on my flesh.

7 Wherefore do the wicked [l] live, and wax old, and grow in wealth?

8 Their seed is established in their sight with them, and their generation before their eyes.

9 Their houses are peaceable without fear, and the rod of God is not upon them.

10 Their bullock gendereth, and faileth not: their cow calveth, and casteth not her calf.

11 They send forth their children [m] like sheep, and their sons dance.

12 They take the tabret and harp, and rejoice in the sound of the organs.

13 They spend their days in wealth, and suddenly [n] they go down to the grave.

14 They say also unto God, Depart from us: for we desire not the [o] knowledge of thy ways.

15 Who is the Almighty, that we should serve him? and what profit should we have, if we should pray unto him.

16 Lo, their wealth is not in their [p] hand: therefore let the counsel of the wicked [q] be far from me.

17 How oft shall the candle of the wicked be put out? and their destruction come upon them? he will divide their lives in his wrath.

18 They shall be as stubble before the wind, and as chaff that the storm carrieth away.

19 God will lay up the sorrow of the father for his children: when he rewardeth him, he shall know it.

20 His eyes shall see his destruction, and he shall drink of the wrath of the Almighty.

21 For what pleasure hath he in his house after him, when the number of his months is cut off?

22 Shall any teach [s] God knowledge, who judgeth the highest things?

23 One [t] dieth in his full strength, being in all ease and prosperity.

24 His breasts are full of milk, and his bones run full of marrow.

25 And another [u] dieth in the bitterness of his soul, and never eateth with pleasure.

26 They shall sleep both in [w] the dust, and the worms shall cover them.

27 Behold, I know your thoughts, and the enterprises wherewith ye do me wrong.

28 For ye say, Where is the prince's [x] house? and where is the tabernacle of the wicked's dwelling?

29 May ye not [y] ask them that go by the way? and ye cannot deny their signs.

30 But the wicked is kept unto the day of [z] destruction, and they shall be brought forth to the day of wrath.

31 Who shall declare his way [a] to his face? and who shall reward him for that he hath done?

32 Yet shall he be brought to the grave, and remain in the heap.

33 The [b] slimy valley shall be sweet unto him, and every man shall draw after him, as before him there were innumerable.

34 How then comfort [c] ye me in vain, seeing in your answers there remain but lyes?

CHAP. XXII.

2 Eliphaz affirmeth that Job is punished for his sins. 6 He accuseth him of unmercifulness, and that he denied God's providence. 21 He exhorteth him to repentance.

THEN Eliphaz the Temanite answered, and said,

2 May a man be [d] profitable unto God, as he that is wise may be profitable to himself?

3 * Is it any thing unto the Almighty, that thou art righteous? or is it profitable to him, that thou makest thy ways upright?

* Col. 35. 7.

4 Is it for fear [e] of thee that he will accuse thee? or go with thee into judgment?

5 Is

[h] Your diligent marking of my words shall be to me a great consolation.

[i] As though he would say, I do not talk with man, but with God, who will not answer me, and therefore my mind must needs be troubled.

[k] He chargeth them as though they were not able to comprehend this his feeling of God's judgment, and exhorteth them therefore to silence.

[l] Job proveth against his adversaries, that God punisheth not straightways the wicked, but oft-times giveth them long life and prosperity: so that we must not judge God just or unjust by the things that appear to our eye.

[m] They have store of children, lusty and healthful, and in these points he answereth to that which Zophar alledged before.

[n] Not being tormented with long sickness.

[o] They desire nothing more than to be exempt from all subjection that they should bear to God: thus Job sheweth his adversaries, that if they reason only by that which is seen by common experience, the wicked that hate God are better dealt withal than they that love him.

[q] God keep me from their prosperity.

[r] When God recompenseth his wickedness, he shall know that his prosperity was but vanity.

[s] Who sendeth to the wicked prosperity, and punisheth the godly.

[t] Meaning, the wicked.

[u] To wit, the godly.

[w] As concerning their bodies: and this he speaketh according to the common judgment.

[x] Thus they called Job's house in derision, concluding that it was destroyed, because he was wicked.

[y] Which through long travelling have experience and tokens thereof, to wit, that the wicked do prosper, and the godly live in affliction.

[z] Though the wicked flourish here, yet God will punish him in the last day.

[a] Though men do flatter him, and none dare reprove him in this world, yet death is a token that God will bring him to an account.

[b] He shall be glad to lie in a slimy pit, who before could not be content with a royal palace.

[c] Sayings, that the just in this world had prosperity, and the wicked adversity.

[d] Though man were just, yet God could have no profit of this his justice: and therefore when he punisheth him, he hath no regard to his justice, but to his sin.

[e] Lest thou shouldst reprove or hurt him.

5 Is not thy wickedneſs great, and thine iniquities innumerable?

6 For thou haſt taken the [f] pledge from thy brother for nought, and ſpoiled the cloaths of the naked.

7 To ſuch as were weary thou haſt not given water to drink, and haſt withdrawn bread from the hungry.

8 But the mighty man [g] had the earth, and he that was in authority dwelt in it.

9 Thou haſt caſt out widows empty, and the arms of the [h] fatherleſs were broken.

10 Therefore ſnares are round about thee, and fears ſhall ſuddenly trouble thee:

11 Or darkneſs that thou ſhouldeſt not ſee, and [i] abundance of waters ſhall cover thee.

12 Is not God on [k] high in the heaven? and behold, the height of the [l] ſtars how high they are.

13 But thou ſayeſt, How ſhould God [m] know? can he judge through the dark cloud?

14 The clouds hide him that he cannot ſee, and he walketh in the circle of heaven.

15 Haſt thou marked the way of the world, [n] wherein wicked men have walked?

16 Which were [o] cut down before the time, whoſe foundation was as a river that overflowed.

17 Which ſaid unto God, Depart from us, and aſked what the Almighty could do for them.

18 Yet he [p] filled their houſes with good things: but let the counſel of the wicked be far from me.

19 The righteous ſhall ſee them, and ſhall rejoice, [q] and the innocent ſhall laugh them to ſcorn.

20 Surely, [r] our ſubſtance is hid: but the fire hath devoured the remnant of [s] them.

21 Therefore acquaint thyſelf, I pray thee, [t] with him, and make peace: thereby thou ſhalt have proſperity.

22 Receive, I pray thee, the law of his mouth, and lay up his words in thine heart.

23 If thou return to the Almighty, thou ſhalt [m] be built up, and thou ſhalt put iniquity far from thy tabernacle.

24 Thou ſhalt lay up gold for [w] duſt, and the gold of Ophir as the flints of the rivers.

25 Yea, the Almighty ſhall be thy defence, and thou ſhalt have plenty of ſilver.

26 And thou ſhalt then delight in the Almighty, and lift up thy face unto God.

27 Thou ſhalt make thy prayer unto him, and he ſhall hear thee, and thou ſhalt render thy vows.

28 Thou ſhalt alſo decree a thing, and he ſhall eſtabliſh it unto thee, and the [x] light ſhall ſhine upon thy ways.

29 [y] When others are caſt down, then ſhalt thou ſay, I am lifted up: and God ſhall ſave the humble perſon.

30 The innocent ſhall deliver the [z] iſland, and it ſhall be preſerved by the pureneſs of thine hands.

CHAP. XXIII.

2 Job affirmeth, that he both knoweth and feareth the power and ſentence of the Judge, 10 And that he is not puniſhed only for his ſins.

BUT Job anſwered and ſaid;

2 Though my talk be this day in [a] bitterneſs, and my plague greater than my groaning.

3 Would God yet I knew how to find him, I would enter unto his place.

4 I would plead the cauſe before him, and fill my mouth with arguments.

5 I would know the words that he would anſwer me, and would underſtand what he would ſay unto me.

6 Would he [b] plead againſt me with his great power? No, but he would [c] put ſtrength in me.

7 [d] There the righteous might reaſon with him, ſo I ſhould be delivered for ever from my Judge.

8 [e] Behold, if I go to the eaſt, he is not there: if to the weſt, yet I cannot perceive him:

9 If to the north where he worketh, yet I cannot ſee him: he will hide himſelf in the ſouth, and I cannot behold him.

10 But he knoweth my [f] way, and trieth me, and I ſhall come forth like gold.

11 My foot hath followed his ſteps: his way have I kept, and have not declined.

12 Neither have I departed from the commandment of his lips, and I have [g] eſteemed the words of his mouth more than mine appointed food.

13 Yet

[f] Thou haſt been cruel and without charity, and wouldeſt do nothing for the poor, but for thine own advantage.

[g] When thou waſt in power and authority, thou didſt not juſtice but wrong.

[h] Thou haſt not only not ſhewed pity, but oppreſſed them.

[i] That is, manifold afflictions.

[k] He accuſeth Job of impiety and contempt of God, as though he would ſay, If thou paſs not for men, yet conſider the height of God's majeſty.

[l] That ſo much the more by that excellent work thou mayeſt fear God, and reverence him.

[m] He reproveth Job as though he denied God's providence, and that he could not ſee the things that were done in this world.

[o] He proveth God's providence by the puniſhment of the wicked, whom he taketh away before they can bring their wicked purpoſes to paſs.

[p] He anſwereth to that which Job had ſaid, ch. 21. 7. that the wicked have proſperity in this world: deſiring that he might not be partaker of the like.

[q] The juſt rejoice at the deſtruction of the wicked for two cauſes: firſt, becauſe God ſheweth himſelf judge of the world, and by this means continueth his honour and glory: ſecondly, becauſe God ſheweth that he hath care over his, in that he puniſheth their enemies.

[r] That is, the ſtate and preſervation of the godly is hid under God's wings.

[s] Meaning, of the wicked.

[t] He exhorteth Job to repentance, and to return to God.

[u] God will reſtore unto thee all thy ſubſtance.

[w] Which ſhall be in abundance like duſt.

[x] That is, the favour of God.

[y] God will deliver his when the wicked are deſtroyed round about them, as in the flood and in Sodom.

[z] God will deliver a whole country from peril, even for the juſt man's ſake.

[a] He ſheweth the juſt cauſe of his complaining, and as touching that Eliphaz had exhorted him to return to God, ch. 22. 21. he declareth that he deſireth nothing more: but it ſeemed that God would not be found of him.

[b] Uſing his abſolute power, and ſaying, Becauſe I am God, I may do what I will.

[c] Of his mercy he would give me power to anſwer him.

[e] Meaning, that if he conſider God's juſtice, he is not able to comprehend his judgments, on what ſide or part ſoever he turneth himſelf.

[f] God hath this pre-eminence above me, that he knoweth my way: to wit, that I am innocent, and I am not able to judge of his works: he ſheweth alſo his confidence, that God doth viſit him for his profit.

[g] His word is more precious unto me, than the meat wherewith the body is ſuſtained.

13 Yet he is in one mind, and who can [g] turn him? yea, he doeth what his mind deſireth.

14 For he will perform that which is decreed me, and [h] many ſuch things are with him.

15 Therefore I am troubled at his preſence, and in conſidering it, I am afraid of him.

16 For [i] God hath ſoftened mine heart, and the Almighty hath troubled me.

17 For I am not cut off in [k] darkneſs, but he hath hid the darkneſs from my face.

C H A P. XXIV.

2 Job deſcribeth the wickedneſs of men, and ſheweth what curſe belongeth to the wicked. 12 How all things are governed by God's providence. 17 And the deſtruction of the wicked.

HOW ſhould not the times [l] be hid from the Almighty, ſeeing that they which know him, ſee not his [m] days?

2 Some remove the land-marks, that rob the flocks and feed thereof.

3 They lead away the aſs of the fatherleſs, and take away the widow's ox to pledge.

4 They make the poor to turn out of the way, ſo that the poor of the earth hide themſelves [n] together.

5 Behold, others as wild aſſes in the wilderneſs go forth to their buſineſs, and [o] riſe early for a prey: the wilderneſs [p] giveth him and his children food.

6 They reap [q] his proviſion in the field, but they gather the late [r] vintage of the wicked.

7 They cauſe the naked to lodge without garment, and without covering in the cold.

8 They are wet with the ſhowers of the mountains, [s] and they embrace the rock for want of a covering.

9 They pluck the fatherleſs [t] from the breaſt, and take the pledge of [u] the poor.

10 They cauſe him to go naked without cloathing, and take the gleaning from the hungry.

11 They that make oil [w] between their walls, and tread their wine-preſſes, ſuffer thirſt.

12 Men [x] cry out of the city, and the ſouls of the ſlain [y] cry out: yet God doth [z] not charge them with folly.

13 Theſe are they that abhor the [a] light: they know not the ways thereof, nor continue in the paths thereof.

14 The murderer riſeth early, and killeth the poor and the needy: and in the night he is as a thief.

15 The eye alſo of the [b] adulterer waiteth for the twilight, and ſaith, None eye ſhall ſee me, and diſguiſeth his face.

16 They dig through houſes in the dark, which they marked for themſelves in the day: they know not the light.

17 But the morning is even to them as the ſhadow of death: if one know them, they are in the terrors of the ſhadow of death.

18 He is ſwift upon the [c] waters: their [d] portion ſhall be curſed in the earth: he will not behold the way of the vineyards.

19 As the dry ground and heat conſume the ſnow waters, ſo ſhall the grave [e] the ſinners.

20 [f] The pitiful man ſhall forget him: the worm ſhall feel his ſweetneſs: he ſhall be no more remembered, and the wicked ſhall be broken like a tree.

21 He [g] doth evil intreat the barren that doth not bear, neither doth he good to the widow.

22 He draweth alſo the [h] mighty by his power, and when he riſeth up, none is ſure of life.

23 Though men give him aſſurance to be in ſafety, yet his eyes are upon their ways.

24 They are exalted for a little, but they are gone, and are brought low as all others: they are deſtroyed and cut off as the top of an ear of corn.

25 But if it be not [i] ſo, where is he? or who will prove me a lyar, and make my words of no value?

C H A P. XXV.

THEN anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid,

[g] Job confeſſeth that at this preſent he felt not God's favour, and yet was aſſured that he had appointed him to a good end.

[h] In many points man is not able to attain to God's judgments.

[i] That I ſhould not be without fear.

[k] He ſheweth the cauſe of his fear, which is, that he being in trouble, ſeeth no end, neither yet knoweth the cauſe.

[l] Thus Job ſpeaketh in his paſſions, and after the judgment of the fleſh: that is, that he ſeeth not the things that are done at times, neither yet hath a peculiar care over all, becauſe he puniſheth not the wicked, nor revengeth the godly.

[m] When he puniſheth the wicked, and rewardeth the good.

[n] And for cruelty and oppreſſion dare not ſhew their faces.

[o] That is, ſpare no diligence.

[p] He and his, live by robbing and murdering.

[q] Meaning, the poor man's.

[r] Signifying, that one wicked man will not ſpoil another, but for neceſſity.

[s] The poor are driven by the wicked into the rocks and holes, where they cannot lie dry for the rain.

[t] That is, they ſo pillage and ſtrip the poor widow, that ſhe cannot have to ſuſtain herſelf that ſhe may be able to give her child ſuck.

[u] That is, his garment, wherewith he ſhould be covered or clad.

[w] In ſuch places which are appointed for that purpoſe: meaning, that thoſe that labour for the wicked, are pined for hunger.

[x] For the great oppreſſion and extortion.

[z] God doth not condemn the wicked, but ſeemeth to paſs over it by his long ſilence.

[a] That is, God's word, becauſe they are reproved thereby.

[b] By theſe particular vices and the licence thereunto, he would prove that God puniſheth not the wicked, and rewardeth the juſt.

[c] He fleeth to the waters for his ſuccour.

[d] They think that all the world is bent againſt them, and dare not go by the high-way.

[e] As the dry ground is never full with waters, ſo will they never ceaſe ſinning till they come to the grave.

[f] Though God ſuffer the wicked for a time, yet their end ſhall be moſt vile deſtruction, and in this point Job cometh to himſelf, and ſheweth his confidence.

[g] He ſheweth why the wicked ſhall not be lamented, becauſe he did not pity others.

[h] He declareth that after that the wicked have deſtroyed the weakeſt, they will do like to the ſtronger, and therefore they are juſtly prevented by God's judgments.

[i] That is, that contrary to your reaſoning no man can give a perfect reaſon of God's judgments, let me be reproved.

[k] His purpoſe is to prove, that albeit God try and afflict the juſt, yet ſoon after he ſendeth proſperity; and becauſe he did not ſo to Job, he concludeth that he is wicked.

3 Is there any number in his armies? and upon whom [l] ſhall not his light ariſe?

4 And how may a man [m] be juſtified with God? or how can he be clean that is born of woman?

5 Behold, he will give no light to the moon, [n] and the ſtars are unclean in his ſight.

6 How much more man, a worm, even the ſon of man, which is but a worm?

CHAP. XXVI.

Job ſheweth that man cannot help God, and proveth it by his miracles.

BUT Job anſwered, and ſaid,

2 [o] Whom helpeſt thou? him that hath no power? saveſt thou the arm that hath no ſtrength?

3 Whom counſelleſt thou? him that hath no wiſdom? thou [p] ſheweſt right well as the thing is.

4 To whom doſt thou declare theſe words? or whoſe ſpirit [q] cometh out of thee?

5 The [r] dead things are formed under the waters, and near unto them.

6 The grave is [s] naked before him, and there is no covering for [t] deſtruction.

7 He ſtretcheth out the [u] north over the empty place, and hangeth the earth upon nothing.

8 He bindeth the waters in his clouds, and the cloud is not broken under them.

9 He holdeth back the face of his throne, [w] and ſpreadeth his cloud upon it.

10 He hath ſet bounds about the waters, until the [x] day and night come to an end.

11 The [y] pillars of heaven tremble and quake at his reproof.

12 The ſea is calm by his power, and by his underſtanding he ſmiteth the pride thereof.

13 His Spirit hath garniſhed the heavens, and his hand hath formed the crooked [z] ſerpent.

14 Lo, theſe are part of his ways: but [a] how little a portion hear we of him? and who can underſtand his fearful power?

CHAP. XXVII.

3 The conſtancy and perfectneſs of Job. 13 The reward of the wicked and of the tyrants.

MOreover Job proceeded and continued his parable, ſaying,

2 The living God hath taken away my [b] judgment: for the Almighty hath put my ſoul in bitterneſs.

3 Yet ſo long as my breath is in me, and the Spirit of God in my noſtrils,

4 My lips ſurely ſhall ſpeak no wickedneſs, [c] and my tongue ſhall utter no deceit.

5 God forbid that I ſhould [d] juſtify you: until I die, I will never take away mine [e] innocency from myſelf.

6 I will keep my righteouſneſs, and will not forſake it: mine heart ſhall not reprove me of my [f] days.

7 Mine enemy ſhall be as the wicked, and he that riſeth againſt me, as the unrighteous.

8 For what [g] hope hath the hypocrite when he hath heaped up riches, if God take away his ſoul?

9 Will God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?

10 Will he ſet his delight on the Almighty? will he call upon God at all times?

11 I will teach you what is in the hand of [h] God, and I will not conceal that which is with the Almighty.

12 Behold, all ye yourſelves [i] have ſeen it: why then do you thus vaniſh [k] in vanity?

13 This is the [l] portion of a wicked man with God, and the heritage of tyrants, which they ſhall receive of the Almighty.

14 If his children be in great number, the ſword ſhall deſtroy them, and his poſterity ſhall not be ſatisfied with bread.

15 His remnant ſhall be buried in death, and his widows [m] ſhall not weep.

16 Though he ſhould heap up ſilver as the duſt, and prepare raiment as the clay,

17 He may prepare it, but the juſt ſhall put it on, and the innocent ſhall divide the ſilver.

18 He buildeth his houſe as the [n] moth, and as a lodge that the watchman maketh.

19 When the rich man ſleepeth, [o] he ſhall not be gathered to his fathers: they opened their eyes, and he was gone.

20 Terrors ſhall take him as waters, and a tempeſt ſhall carry him away by night.

21 The eaſt wind ſhall take him away, and

[m] That is, be juſt in reſpect of God?

[n] If God ſhew his power, the moon and ſtars cannot have that light which is given them, much leſs can man have any excellency, but of God.

[o] Thou concludeſt nothing: for neither thou helpeſt me, which am deſtitute of all help, neither yet ſpeakeſt ſufficiently on God's behalf, who hath no need of thy defence.

[p] But thou doſt not apply it to the purpoſe.

[q] That is, moveth thee to ſpeak this.

[r] Job beginneth to declare the force of God's power and providence in the mines and metals in the deep places of the earth.

[s] There is nothing hid in the bottom of the earth, but he ſeeth it.

[u] He cauſeth the whole heaven to turn about the north pole.

[w] That is, he hideth the heavens, which are called his throne.

[x] So long as this world endureth.

[y] Not that heaven hath pillars to uphold it, but he ſpeaketh by a ſimilitude, as though he would ſay, The heaven itſelf is not able to abide his reproach.

[a] If theſe few things, which we ſee daily with our eyes, declare his great power and providence, how much more would they appear if we were able to comprehend all his works?

[b] He hath ſo ſore afflicted me, that men cannot judge of mine uprightneſs: for they judge only by outward ſigns.

[c] Howſoever men judge of me, yet will I not ſpeak contrary to that which I have ſaid, and ſo do wickedly in betraying the truth.

[d] Which condemn me as a wicked man, becauſe the hand of God is upon me.

[e] I will not confeſs that God doth thus puniſh me for my ſins.

[f] Of my life paſt.

[g] What advantage hath the diſſembler to gain never ſo much, ſeeing he ſhall loſe his own ſoul?

[h] That is, what God reſerveth to himſelf, and whereof he giveth not the knowledge to all.

[i] That is, theſe ſecret judgments of God, and yet do not underſtand them.

[k] Why maintain you then this error?

[l] Thus will God order the wicked and puniſh him, even unto his poſterity.

[m] None ſhall lament him.

[n] Which breedeth in another man's poſſeſſion or garment, but is ſoon ſhaken out.

[o] He meaneth that the wicked tyrants ſhall not have a quiet death, nor be buried honourably.

he ſhall depart: and it ſhall hurl him out of his place.

22 And God ſhall caſt upon him, and not ſpare, though he would fain flee out of his hand.

23 Every man ſhall clap their hands at him, and hiſs at him out of their place.

C H A P. XXVIII.

Job ſheweth that the wiſdom of God is unſearchable.

THE ſilver ſurely hath his vein, [p] and the gold his place, where they take it.

2 Iron is taken out of the duſt, and braſs is molten out of the ſtone.

3 God putteth an end to darkneſs, [q] and he trieth the perfection of all things: he ſetteth a bond of darkneſs, and of the ſhadow of death.

4 The flood breaketh out againſt the [r] inhabitant, and the waters [s] forgotten of the foot, being higher than man, are gone away.

5 Out of the ſame earth cometh [t] bread, and under it, as it were, fire is turned up.

6 The ſtones thereof are a place [u] of ſapphires, and the duſt of it is gold.

7 There is a path which no fowl has known, neither hath the kite's eye ſeen it.

8 The lion's whelps have not walked it, nor the lion paſſed thereby.

9 He putteth his hand upon the [w] rocks, and overthroweth the mountains by the roots.

10 He breaketh rivers in the rocks, and his eye ſeeth every precious thing.

11 He bindeth the floods, that they do not overflow, and the thing that is hid, bringeth he to light.

12 But where is the wiſdom found? [x] and where is the place of underſtanding?

13 Man knoweth not the [y] price thereof: for it is not found in the land of the living.

14 The depth ſaith, It is not in me: the ſea alſo ſaith, It is not with me.

15 [z] Gold ſhall not be given for it, neither ſhall ſilver be weighed for the price thereof.

16 It ſhall not be valued with the wedge of gold of Ophir, nor with the precious onyx, nor the ſapphire.

17 The gold nor the cryſtal ſhall be equal unto it, nor the exchange ſhall be for plate of fine gold.

18 No mention ſhall be made of coral, nor of the [a] gabliſh: for wiſdom is more precious than pearls.

19 The topaz of Ethiopia ſhall not be equal unto it, neither ſhall it be valued with the wedge of pure gold.

20 Whence then cometh wiſdom? and where is the place of underſtanding?

21 Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all the living, and is hid from the [b] fowls of the heaven?

22 Deſtruction and death ſay, We have heard the fame thereof with our ears.

23 But God underſtandeth the [c] way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof.

24 For he beholdeth the ends of the world, and ſeeth all that is under heaven,

25 To make the weight of the winds, and to weigh the waters by meaſure.

26 When he made a decree for the rain, and a way for the lightning of the thunders,

27 Then did he ſee it, and counted it: he prepared it, and alſo conſidered it.

28 And unto man he ſaid, Behold, * the [d] fear of the Lord is wiſdom, and to depart from evil is underſtanding. * Prov. 1. 7.

C H A P. XXIX.

1 Job complaineth of the proſperity of the time paſt. 7, 21 His authority, 12 juſtice and equity.

SO Job proceeded and continued his parable, ſaying,

2 Oh that I were as † in times paſt, when God preſerved me! † Heb. months before.

3 When his [e] light ſhined upon mine head: and when by his light I walked through the [f] darkneſs,

4 As I was in the days of my youth: when [g] God's providence was upon my tabernacle:

5 When the Almighty was yet with me, and my children round about me:

6 When I waſhed my paths [h] with butter, and when the rock poured me out rivers of oil:

7 When I went out to the gate, even to the judgment-ſeat: and when I cauſed them to prepare my ſeat in the ſtreet.

8 The young men ſaw me, and [i] hid themſelves, and the aged aroſe, and ſtood up.

9 The princes ſtayed talk, and laid their hand on their [k] mouth.

10 The voice of princes was hid, and their tongue cleaved to the roof of their mouth.

11 And when the [l] ear heard me, it bleſſed me: and when the eye ſaw me, it gave witneſs to [m] me.

12 For I delivered the [n] poor that cried, and the fatherleſs, and him that had none to help him.

[p] His purpoſe is to declare that man may attain in this world to divers ſecrets of nature, but man is never able to comprehend the wiſdom of God.

[q] There is nothing but it is compaſſed within certain limits, and hath an end, but God's wiſdom.

[r] Meaning, him that dwelleth thereby.

[t] That is, corn, and underneath is brimſtone or coal, which eaſily conceiveth fire.

[u] He alludeth to the mines and ſecrets of nature, which are under the earth, whereinto neither fowls nor beaſts can enter.

[w] After that he hath declared the wiſdom of God in the ſecrets of nature, he deſcribeth his power.

[x] Though God's power and wiſdom may be underſtood in earthly things, yet his heavenly wiſdom cannot be attained unto.

[y] It is too high a thing for man to attain unto in this world.

[z] It can neither be bought for gold nor precious ſtones, but is only the gift of God.

[a] Which is thought to be a kind of precious ſtone.

[b] Meaning, that there is no natural means, whereby man might attain to the heavenly wiſdom: which he meaneth by the fowls that fly high.

[c] He maketh God only the author of this wiſdom, and the giver thereof.

[d] He declareth that man hath ſo much of this heavenly wiſdom, as he ſheweth by fearing God, and departing from evil.

[e] When I felt his favour.

[f] I was free from affliction.

[g] That is, ſeemed by evident tokens to be more preſent with me.

[h] By theſe ſimilitudes he declareth the great proſperity that he was in, ſo that he had no occaſion to be ſuch a ſinner as they accuſed him.

[i] Being aſhamed of their lightneſs, and afraid of my gravity.

[k] Acknowledging my wiſdom.

[l] All that heard me, praiſed me.

[m] Teſtifying, that I did good juſtice.

[n] Becauſe his adverſaries did ſo much charge him with wickedneſs, he is compelled to render account of his life.

13 [o] The bleſſing of him that was ready to periſh, came upon me, and I cauſed the widow's heart to rejoice.

14 I put [p] on juſtice, and it covered me: my judgment was as a robe, and a crown.

15 I was the eyes to the blind, and I was the feet to the lame.

16 I was a father unto the poor, and when I knew not the cauſe, I ſought it out diligently.

17 I brake alſo the jaws of the unrighteous man, and pluckt the prey out of his teeth.

18 Then I ſaid, I ſhall die in my [q] neſt, and I ſhall multiply my days as the ſand.

19 For my root is [r] ſpread out by the water, and the dew ſhall lie upon my branch.

20 My glory ſhall renew toward me, and my bow ſhall be reſtored in mine hand.

21 Unto me men gave ear, and waited, and held their tongue at my counſel.

22 After my words they replied not, and my talk [s] dropped upon them.

23 And they waited for me, as for the rain, and they opened their mouth [t] as for the latter rain.

24 If I [u] laughed on them, they believed it not: neither did they cauſe the light of my countenance [w] to fall.

25 I appointed out [x] their way, and did ſit as chief, and dwelt as a king in the army, and like him that comforteth the mourners.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Job complaineth that he is contemned of the moſt contemptible, 11, 21 becauſe of his adverſity and affliction. 23 Death is the houſe of all fleſh.

BUT now they that are younger than I, [y] mock me: yea, they whoſe fathers I have refuſed to ſet with the [z] dogs of my flocks.

2 For whereto ſhould the ſtrength of their hands have ſerved me, ſeeing age [a] periſhed in them?

3 For poverty and famine they were ſolitary, fleeing into the wilderneſs, which is dark, deſolate, and waſte.

4 They cut up ‡ nettles by the buſhes, and the juniper-roots was their meat.

‡ Or, mallows.

5 They were [b] chaſed forth from among men: they ſhouted at them as at a thief:

6 Therefore they dwelt in the clifts of rivers, in the holes of the earth and rocks.

7 They roared among the buſhes, and under the thiſtles they gathered themſelves.

8 They were the children of fools, and the children of villains, which were more vile than the earth.

9 And now am I their [c] ſong, and I am their talk.

10 They abhor me, and flee far from me, and ſpare not to ſpit in my face.

11 Becauſe that God hath looſed my [d] cord, and humbled me, [e] they have looſed the bridle before me.

12 The youth riſe up at my right hand: they have puſht my feet, and have trod on me as on the [f] paths of their deſtruction.

13 They have deſtroyed my paths: they took pleaſure at my calamity, they had none [g] help.

14 They came as a great breach of waters, and [h] under this calamity they come on heaps.

15 Fear is turned upon me: and they purſue my ſoul as the wind, and mine health paſſeth away as a cloud.

16 Therefore my ſoul is now [i] poured out upon me, and the days of affliction have taken hold on me.

17 [k] It pierceth my bones in the night, and my ſinews take no reſt.

18 For the great vehemency is my garment changed, which compaſſeth me about as the collar of my coat.

19 [l] He hath caſt me into the mire, and I am become like aſhes and duſt.

20 When I cry unto thee, thou doſt not hear me, neither regardeſt me when I ſtand up.

21 Thou turneſt thyſelf [m] cruelly againſt me, and art an enemy unto me with the ſtrength of thine hand.

22 Thou takeſt me up, and cauſeſt me to ride upon [n] the wind, and makeſt my ‡ ſtrength to fail.

‡ Or, wiſdom, or law.

23 Surely I know that thou wilt bring me to death, and to the houſe appointed for all the living.

24 Doubtleſs none can ſtretch his hand [o] unto the grave, though they cry in his deſtruction.

25 Did not I weep with him that was in trouble? Was not my ſoul in heavineſs for the poor?

26 Yet when I looked for good, [p] evil came unto me: and when I waited for light, there came darkneſs.

27 My bowels did boil without reſt: for the days of affliction are come upon me.

28 I went mourning [q] without ſun: I ſtood up in the congregation [r] and cried.

[o] That is, I did ſuccour him that was in diſtreſs, and ſo he had cauſe to praiſe me.

[p] I delighted to do juſtice, as others did to wear coſtly apparel.

[q] That is, at home in my bed, without all trouble and unquietneſs.

[r] My felicity doth increaſe.

[s] That is, was pleaſant unto them.

[u] That is, they thought it not to be a jeſt, or they thought not that I would condeſcend unto them.

[w] They were afraid to offend me, and cauſe me to be angry.

[x] I had them at commandment.

[y] That is, mine eſtate is changed, and whereas before the ancient men were glad to do me reverence, the young men now contemn me.

[z] Meaning, to be my ſhepherds, or to keep my dogs.

[a] That is, their fathers died for famine before they came to age.

[b] Job ſheweth that theſe that mocked him in his affliction, were like to their fathers, wicked and lewd fellows, ſuch as he here deſcribeth.

[c] They make ſongs of me, and mock at my miſery.

[d] God hath taken from me the force, credit and authority, wherewith I kept them in ſubjection.

[e] He ſaid that the young men, when they ſaw him, hid themſelves, as ch. 29. 8. and now in his miſery they were impudent and licentious.

[f] That is, they ſought by all means how they might deſtroy me.

[g] They need none to help them.

[h] By my calamity they took an occaſion againſt me.

[i] My life faileth me, and I am as half dead.

[k] Meaning, ſorrow.

[l] That is, God hath brought me into contempt.

[m] He ſpeaketh not thus to accuſe God, but to declare the vehemency of his affliction, whereby he was carried beſide himſelf.

[n] He compareth his afflictions to a tempeſt or whirlwind.

[o] None can deliver me thence, though they lament at my death.

[p] Inſtead of comforting, they mocked at me

[q] Not delighting in any worldly thing, no not ſo much as in the uſe of the ſun.

[r] Lamenting them that were in affliction, and moving others to pity them.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

29 I am a brother to the [s] dragons, and a companion to the oſtriches.

30 My ſkin is black upon me, and my bones are burnt with [t] heat.

31 Therefore mine harp is turned to mourning, and mine organs into the voice of them that weep.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Job reciteth the innocency of his living, and number of his virtues, which declareth what ought to be the life of the faithful.

I MADE a covenant with mine [u] eyes, why then ſhould I think on a [w] maid?

2 For what portion ſhould I have of God from above? and what inheritance of the Almighty from on high?

3 Is not deſtruction to the wicked, and ſtrange puniſhment to [x] the workers of iniquity?

4 Doth not he behold my ways, and tell all my ſteps?

5 If I have walked in vanity, or if my foot hath made haſte to deceit,

6 Let God weigh me in the juſt balance, and he ſhall know mine [y] uprightneſs.

7 If my ſtep hath turned out of the way, or mine heart hath [z] walked after mine eye, or if any blot hath cleaved to mine hands,

8 Let me ſow, and let another [a] eat: yea, let my plants be rooted out.

9 If mine heart hath been deceived by a woman, or if I have laid wait at the door of my neighbour,

10 Let my wife [b] grind unto another man, and let other men bow down upon her:

11 For this is a wickedneſs, and iniquity to be condemned:

12 Yea, this is a fire that ſhall devour [c] to deſtruction, and which ſhall root out all mine increaſe.

13 If I did contemn the judgment of my ſervant, and of my maid, when they [d] did contend with me,

14 What then ſhall I do when [e] God ſtandeth up? and when he ſhall viſit me, what ſhall I anſwer?

15 He that hath made me in the womb, hath he not made [f] him? hath not he alone faſhioned us in the womb?

16 If I reſtrained the poor of their deſire, or have cauſed the eyes of the widow [g] to fail,

17 Or have eaten my morſels alone, and the fatherleſs hath not eaten thereof,

18 (For from my youth he hath grown up with me [h] as with a father, and from my mother's womb I have been a guide unto her)

19 If I have ſeen any periſh for want of clothing, or any poor without covering:

20 If his loins have not bleſſed me, becauſe he was warmed with the fleece of my ſheep:

21 If I have lift [i] up mine hand againſt the fatherleſs, when I ſaw that I might help him in the gate:

22 Let mine [k] arm fall from my ſhoulder, and mine arm be broken from the bone.

23 For God's puniſhment was [l] fearful unto me, and I could not be delivered from his highneſs.

24 If I made gold mine hope, or have ſaid to the wedge of gold, Thou art my confidence:

25 If I rejoiced becauſe my ſubſtance was great, or becauſe mine hand had gotten much:

26 If I did behold the [m] ſun, when it ſhined, or the moon walking in her brightneſs:

27 If mine heart did flatter me in ſecret, or if my mouth did kiſs mine [n] hand:

28 (This alſo had been an iniquity to be condemned: for I had denied the God [o] above).

29 If I rejoiced at his deſtruction that hated me, or was moved to joy when evil came upon him:

30 Neither have I ſuffered my mouth to ſin, by wiſhing a curſe unto my ſoul.

31 Did not the men of my [p] tabernacle ſay, Who ſhall give us of his fleſh? we cannot be ſatisfied.

32 The ſtranger did not lodge in the ſtreet, but I opened my doors unto him, that went by the way.

33 If I have hid [q] my ſin, as Adam, concealing mine iniquity in my boſom:

34 Though I could have made afraid a great multitude, yet the moſt contemptible of the families did [r] fear me: ſo I kept [s] ſilence, and went not out of the door.

35 O that I had ſome to hear me! behold my [t] ſign that the Almighty will witneſs for me: though mine adverſary ſhould write a book againſt me:

36 Would not I take it upon my ſhoulder, and bind it as [u] a crown unto me?

37 I will tell him the number of my goings, and go unto him as to a [w] prince.

38 If

[s] I am like the wild beaſts that deſire moſt ſolitary places.

[t] With the heat of affliction.

[w] Would not God then have puniſhed me?

[x] Job declareth that the fear of God was a bridle to ſtay him from all wickedneſs.

[y] He ſheweth wherein his uprightneſs ſtandeth, that is, inaſmuch as he was blameleſs before men, and ſinned not againſt the ſecond table.

[a] According to the curſe of the law, Deut. 28. 33.

[b] Let her be made a ſlave.

[c] He ſheweth, that albeit man neglect the puniſhment of adultery, yet the wrath of God will never ceaſe till ſuch be deſtroyed.

[d] When they thought themſelves evil intreated by me.

[e] If I had oppreſſed others, how ſhould I have eſcaped God's judgment?

[f] He was moved to ſhew pity unto ſervants, becauſe they were God's creatures as he was.

[g] By long waiting for her requeſt.

[h] He nouriſhed the fatherleſs, and maintained the widow's cauſe.

[i] To oppreſs him and do him injury.

[k] Let me rot in pieces.

[l] I refrained not from ſinning for fear of men, but becauſe I feared God.

[m] If I was proud of my worldly proſperity and felicity, which is meant by the ſhining of the ſun and the brightneſs of the moon.

[n] If mine own doings delighted me.

[o] By putting confidence in any thing but in him alone.

[p] My ſervants moved me to be revenged of mine enemy, yet did I never wiſh him hurt.

[q] And not confeſſed it freely: whereby it is evident that he juſtified himſelf before men and not before God.

[r] That is, I reverenced the moſt weak and contemned, and was afraid to offend them.

[s] I ſuffered them to ſpeak evil of me, and went not out of my houſe to revenge it.

[t] This is a ſufficient token of my righteouſneſs, that God is my witneſs and will juſtify my cauſe.

[u] Should not this book of his accuſations be a praiſe and commendation to me?

[w] I will make him account of all my life, without fear.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

38 If my land [x] cry againſt me, or the furrows thereof complain together:

39 If I have eaten the fruits thereof without ſilver: or if I have grieved [y] the ſouls of the maſters thereof:

40 Let thiſtles grow inſtead of wheat, and cockle in the ſtead of barley.

The [z] words of Job are ended.

CHAP. XXXII.

2 Elihu reproveth them of folly. 8 Age maketh not a man wiſe, but the Spirit of God.

SO theſe three men ceaſed to anſwer Job, becauſe he † eſteemed himſelf juſt.

2 Then the wrath of Elihu the ſon of Barachel the [a] Buzite, of the family of [b] Ram, was kindled: his wrath, I ſay, was kindled againſt Job, becauſe he juſtified himſelf [c] more than God.

3 Alſo his anger was kindled againſt his three friends, becauſe they could not find an anſwer, and yet condemned Job.

4 (Now Elihu had waited till Job had ſpoken: for [d] they were more ancient in years than he.)

5 So when Elihu ſaw, that there was none anſwer in the mouth of the three men, his wrath was kindled.

6 Therefore Elihu, the ſon of Barachel the Buzite, anſwered and ſaid, I am young in years, and ye are ancient: therefore I doubted, and was afraid to ſhew you mine opinion.

7 For I ſaid, The [e] days ſhall ſpeak, and the multitude of years ſhall teach wiſdom.

8 Surely there is a ſpirit in man, [f] but the inſpiration of the Almighty giveth underſtanding.

9 Great men are not always wiſe, neither do the aged always underſtand judgment.

10 Therefore I ſay, Hear me, and I will ſhew alſo mine opinion.

11 Behold, I did wait upon your words, and hearkened unto your knowledge, whilſt you ſought out [g] reaſons.

12 Yea, when I had conſidered you, lo, there was none of you that reproved Job, nor anſwered his words:

13 Leſt ye ſhould ſay, We have [h] found wiſdom: for God hath caſt him down, and no man.

14 Yet hath [i] he not directed his words to me, neither will I anſwer [k] him by your words.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

15 Then they fearing, anſwered no more, but left off their talk.

16 When I had waited (for they ſpake not, but ſtood ſtill, and anſwered no more)

17 Then anſwered I in my turn, and I ſhewed mine opinion.

18 For I am full of [l] matter, and the ſpirit within me compelleth me.

19 Behold, my belly is as the wine which hath no vent, and like the new bottles that burſt.

20 Therefore will I ſpeak, that I may take breath: I will open my lips, and will anſwer.

21 I will not now accept the perſon of man, [m] neither will I give titles to man.

22 For I may not give [n] titles, leſt my Maker ſhould take me away ſuddenly.

CHAP. XXXIII.

5 Elihu accuſeth Job of ignorance. 14 He ſheweth that God hath divers means to inſtruct man, and to draw him from ſin. 19, 29 He afflicteth man, and ſuddenly delivereth him. 26 Man being delivered, giveth thanks to God.

WHerefore, Job, I pray thee, hear my talk, and hearken unto all my words.

2 Behold, now, I have opened my mouth: my tongue hath ſpoken in my mouth.

3 My words are in the uprightneſs of mine heart, and my lips ſhall ſpeak pure knowledge.

4 The [o] Spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life.

5 If thou canſt give me anſwer, prepare thyſelf, and ſtand before me.

6 Behold, I am according to thy wiſh in [p] God's ſtead: I am alſo formed of the clay.

7 Behold, my terror ſhall not fear thee, neither ſhall my hand be [q] heavy upon thee.

8 Doubtleſs thou haſt ſpoken in mine ears, and I have heard the voice of thy words.

9 I am [r] clean without ſin: I am innocent, and there is no iniquity in me.

10 Lo, he hath found occaſion againſt me, and counted me for his enemy.

11 He hath put my feet in the ſtocks, and looketh narrowly unto all my paths.

12 Behold, in this haſt thou not done right: I will anſwer thee, that God is greater than man.

13 Why doſt thou ſtrive againſt him? for he doth not [s] give account of all his matters.

14 For God ſpeaketh [t] once or twice, and one ſeeth it not.

---

[x] As though I had with-holden their wages that laboured in it.

[y] Meaning, that he was no briber nor extortioner.

[z] That is, the talk which he had with his three friends.

[a] Which came of Buz the ſon of Nahor, Abraham's brother.

[b] Or, as the Chaldee paraphraſe readeth, Abram.

[c] By making himſelf innocent, and by charging God of rigour.

[d] That is, the three mentioned before.

[e] Meaning, the ancient, which have experience.

[f] It is a ſpecial gift of God that man hath underſtanding, and cometh neither of nature, nor by age.

[g] To prove that Job's affliction came for his ſins.

[h] And flatter yourſelves, as though you had overcome him.

[i] To wit, Job.

[k] He uſeth almoſt the like arguments, but without taunting and reproaches.

[m] I will neither have regard to riches, credit, nor authority, but will ſpeak the very truth.

[n] The Hebrew word ſignifieth, to change the name, as to call a fool a wiſe man: meaning, that he would not cloak the truth to flatter men.

[o] I confeſs the power of God, and am one of his, therefore thou oughteſt to hear me.

[p] Becauſe Job had wiſhed to diſpute his cauſe with God, ch. 16. 21. ſo that he might do it without fear, Elihu ſaith, he will reaſon in God's ſtead, whom he needeth not to fear, becauſe he is a man made of the ſame matter that he is.

[r] He repeateth Job's words, whereby he proteſted his innocency in divers places, but eſpecially in the 13th, 16th and 30th chapters.

[t] Though God by ſundry examples of his judgments ſpeak unto man, yet the reaſon thereof is not known: yea and though God ſhould ſpeak, yet he is not underſtood.

15 In dreams and [u] viſions of the night, when ſleep falleth upon men, and they ſleep upon their beds,

16 Then he openeth the ears of men, even by their correctiōns, which he [w] had ſealed,

17 That he might cauſe man to turn away from his enterprize, and that he might hide the [x] pride of man,

18 And keep back his ſoul from the pit, and that his life ſhould not paſs by the ſword.

19 He is alſo ſtriken with ſorrow upon his bed, and the grief of his bones is ſore,

20 So that his [y] life cauſeth him to abhor bread, and his ſoul dainty meat.

21 His fleſh faileth that it cannot be ſeen, and his bones which were not ſeen, clatter.

22 So his ſoul draweth to the grave, and his [z] life to the buriers.

23 If there be a [a] meſſenger with him, or an interpreter, one of a thouſand, [b] to declare unto man his righteouſneſs,

24 Then will he have [c] mercy upon him, and will ſay, [d] Deliver him, that he go not down in to the pit: for I have received a reconciliation.

25 Then ſhall his fleſh be as [e] freſh as a child's, and ſhall return as in the days of his youth.

26 He ſhall pray unto God, and he will be favourable unto him, and he ſhall ſee his face with joy: for he will render unto man his [f] righteouſneſs.

27 He looketh upon men, and if one ſay, I have ſinned, and [g] perverted righteouſneſs, and it did not profit [h] me,

28 [i] He will deliver his ſoul from going into the pit, and his life ſhall ſee the light.

29 Lo, all theſe things will God work [k] twice or thrice with a man,

30 That he may turn back his ſoul from the pit, to be illuminate in the light of the living.

31 Mark well, O Job, and hear me: keep ſilence, and I will ſpeak.

32 If there be [l] matter, anſwer me, and ſpeak: for I deſire to [m] juſtify thee.

33 If thou haſt not, hear me: hold thy tongue, and I will teach thee wiſdom.

C H A P. XXXIV.

5 Elihu chargeth Job that he calleth himſelf righteous. 12 He ſheweth that God is juſt in his judgments. 24 God deſtroyeth the mighty. 30 By him the hypocrite reigneth.

MOreover Elihu anſwered, and ſaid,

2 Hear my words, ye [n] wiſe men, and hearken unto me, ye that have knowledge.

3 For the ear trieth the words, as the mouth taſteth meat.

4 Let us ſeek [o] judgment among us, and let us know among ourſelves what is good.

5 For Job hath ſaid, I am righteous, and God hath taken [p] away my judgment.

6 Should I lye in my [q] right? my wound of the arrow is [r] grievous without my ſin.

7 What man is like Job that drinketh [s] ſcornfulneſs like water?

8 Which goeth in the [t] company of them that work iniquity, and walketh with wicked men?

9 For he hath ſaid, [u] It profiteth a man nothing that he ſhould [w] walk with God.

10 Therefore hearken unto me, ye men of wiſdom: God forbid that wickedneſs ſhould be in God, and iniquity in the Almighty.

11 For he will render unto man according to his work, and cauſe every one to find according to his way.

12 And certainly God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almighty pervert judgment.

13 Whom * hath he appointed over the earth beſide himſelf? or who hath placed the whole world? * Ch.36.23.

14 If [x] he ſet his heart upon man, and gather unto himſelf his ſpirit [y] and his breath, 15 All fleſh ſhall periſh together, and man ſhall return unto duſt.

16 And if thou haſt underſtanding, hear this, and hearken to the voice of my words.

17 Shall he that hateth judgment [z] govern? and wilt thou judge him wicked that is moſt juſt?

18 Wilt thou ſay unto a king, Thou art [a] wicked? or to princes, Ye are ungodly?

19 How much leſs to him that accepteth not the perſons of princes, and regardeth not the rich more than the poor? for they be all the work of his hands.

20 They ſhall die ſuddenly, [b] and the people ſhall be troubled at midnight, [c] and they ſhall paſs

[u] God, ſaith he, ſpeaketh commonly either by viſions, to teach us the cauſe of his judgments; or elſe, by afflictions, or by his meſſengers.

[w] That is, determined to ſend upon them.

[x] He ſheweth for what end God ſendeth afflictions: to beat down man's pride, and to turn from evil.

[y] That is, his painful and miſerable life.

[z] To them that ſhall bury him.

[a] A man ſent of God to declare his will.

[b] A ſingular man, and as one choſen out of a thouſand, which is able to declare the great mercies of God unto ſinners: and wherein man's righteouſneſs ſtandeth, which is thought the juſtice of Jeſus Chriſt, and faith therein.

[c] He ſheweth that it is a ſure token of God's mercy toward ſinners, when he cauſeth his word to be preached unto them.

[d] That is, the miniſter ſhall by the preaching of the word pronounce unto him the forgiveneſs of ſins.

[e] He ſhall feel God's favour and rejoice: declaring hereby, wherein ſtandeth the true joy of the faithful: and that God will reſtore him to health of body, which is a token of his bleſſing.

[f] God will forgive his ſins, and accept him as juſt.

[g] That is, done wickedly.

[h] But my ſin hath been the cauſe of God's wrath toward me.

[i] God will forgive the penitent ſinner.

[k] Meaning, oft times, even as oft as a ſinner doth repent.

[l] If thou doubt of any thing, or ſee occaſion to ſpeak againſt it.

[m] That is, to ſhew thee wherein man's juſtification conſiſteth.

[n] Which are eſteemed wiſe of the world.

[o] Let us examine the matter uprightly.

[p] That is, hath afflicted me without meaſure.

[q] Should I ſay, I am wicked, being an innocent?

[r] I am ſorer puniſhed than my ſin deſerveth.

[s] Which is compelled to receive reproach and ſcorns of many for his fooliſh words.

[t] Meaning that Job was like to the wicked, becauſe he ſeemed not to glorify God, and ſubmit himſelf to his judgments.

[u] He wreſteth Job's words, who ſaid that God's children are oft-times puniſhed in this world, and the wicked go free.

[w] That is, live godly, as Gen. 5. 22.

[x] To deſtroy him.

[y] The breath of life which he gave man.

[z] If God were not juſt, how could he govern the world?

[a] If man of nature fear to ſpeak evil of ſuch as have power, then much more ought he to be afraid to ſpeak evil of God.

[b] When they look not for it.

[c] The meſſengers or viſitation that God ſhall ſend.

paſs forth and take away the mighty without hand.

21 For his eyes are upon the ways of man, and he ſeeth all his goings.

22 There is no darkneſs nor ſhadow of death, that the workers of iniquity might be hid therein.

23 For he will not lay on man ſo much that he ſhould [d] enter into judgment with God.

24 He ſhall break the mighty without [e] ſeeking, and ſhall ſet up other in their ſtead.

25 Therefore ſhall he declare their [f] works: he ſhall turn the [g] night, and they ſhall be deſtroyed.

26 He ſtriketh them as wicked men in the places of the [h] ſeers,

27 Becauſe they have turned back from him, and would not conſider all his ways.

28 So that they have cauſed the voice of the poor to [i] come unto him, and he hath heard the cry of the afflicted.

29 And when he giveth quietneſs, who can make trouble? and when he hideth his face, who can behold him, whether it be upon nations, or upon a man only?

30 Becauſe the [k] hypocrite doth reign, and becauſe the people are ſnared.

31 Surely it appertaineth unto God [l] to ſay, I have pardoned, I will not deſtroy.

32 [m] But if I ſee not, teach thou me: if I have done wickedly, I will do no more.

33 Will he perform the thing through [n] thee? for thou haſt reproved [o] it, becauſe that thou haſt choſen, and not I: now ſpeak what thou knoweſt.

34 Let men of underſtanding tell me, and let a wiſe man hearken unto me.

35 Job hath not ſpoken of knowledge, neither were his words according to wiſdom.

36 I deſire that Job may be [p] tried unto the end, touching the anſwers for wicked men.

37 For he [q] addeth rebellion unto his ſin: he clappeth his hands among us, and multiplieth his words againſt God.

CHAP. XXXV.

6 Neither doth godlineſs profit, or ungodlineſs hurt God, but man. 13 The wicked cry unto God, and are not heard.

ELIHU ſpake moreover, and ſaid,

2 Thinkeſt thou this right, that thou haſt ſaid, I [r] am more righteous than God?

3 For thou haſt ſaid, What profiteth it thee, and what availeth it me, to purge me from my ſin?

4 Therefore will I anſwer thee, and thy [s] companions with thee.

5 Look unto the heaven, and ſee, and behold the [t] clouds which are higher than thou.

6 If thou ſinneſt, what doeſt thou [u] againſt him? yea, when thy ſins be many, what doſt thou unto him?

7 If thou be righteous, what giveſt thou unto him? or what receiveth he at thine hand?

8 Thy wickedneſs may hurt a man as thou art: and thy righteouſneſs may profit the ſon of man.

9 They cauſe many that are oppreſſed [w] to cry, which cry out for the violence of the mighty.

10 But none ſaith, Where is God that made me, which giveth ſongs in the night?

11 Which teacheth us more than the beaſts of the earth, and giveth us more wiſdom than the fowls of the heaven.

12 Then they cry becauſe of the violence of the wicked, but [x] he anſwereth not.

13 Surely God will not hear vanity, neither will the Almighty regard it.

14 Although thou ſayeſt to God, Thou wilt not regard it, yet [y] judgment is before him: truſt thou in him.

15 But now becauſe his anger hath not viſited, nor called to count the evil with great extremity,

16 Therefore Job [z] openeth his mouth in vain, and multiplieth words without knowledge.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Elihu ſheweth the power of God, 6 and his juſtice, 9 And wherefore he puniſheth. 13 The property of the wicked.

ELIHU alſo proceeded and ſaid,

2 Suffer me a little, and I will inſtruct thee: for I have yet to ſpeak on God's behalf.

3 I will fetch [a] my knowledge afar off, and will attribute righteouſneſs unto my Maker.

4 For truly my words ſhall not be falſe, and he that is [b] perfect in knowledge ſpeaketh with thee.

5 Behold, the mighty God caſteth away none that is [c] mighty and valiant of courage.

---

[d] God doth not afflict man above meaſure, ſo that he ſhould have occaſion to contend with him.

[e] For all his creatures are at hand to ſerve him, ſo that he needeth not to ſeek for any other army.

[f] Make them manifeſt, that they are wicked.

[g] Declare the things that were hid.

[h] Meaning, openly in the ſight of all men.

[i] By their cruelty and extortion.

[k] When tyrants ſit in the throne of juſtice, which under pretence of executing juſtice are but hypocrites, and oppreſs the people, it is a ſign that God hath drawn back his countenance and favour from that place.

[m] Thus Elihu ſpeaketh in the perſon of God, as it were mocking Job, becauſe he would be wiſer than God.

[n] Will God uſe thy counſel in doing his works?

[o] Thus he ſpeaketh in the perſon of God, as though Job ſhould chuſe and refuſe affliction at his pleaſure.

[p] That he may ſpeak as much as he can, that we may anſwer him and all the wicked that ſhall uſe ſuch arguments.

[q] He ſtandeth ſtubbornly in the maintenance of his cauſe.

[r] Job never ſpake theſe words: but becauſe he maintained his innocency, it ſeemed as though he would ſay, that God tormented him without juſt cauſe.

[s] Such as are in the like error.

[t] If thou canſt not controul the clouds, wilt thou preſume to inſtruct God?

[u] Neither doth thy ſin hurt God, nor thy juſtice profit him: for he will be glorified without thee.

[w] The wicked may hurt man, and cauſe him to cry, who if he ſought to God, which ſendeth comfort, ſhould be delivered.

[x] Becauſe they pray not in faith, as feeling God's mercies.

[y] God is juſt, howſoever thou judgeſt of him.

[z] For if he did puniſh thee as thou deſerveſt, thou ſhouldeſt not be able to open thy mouth.

[a] He ſheweth that when we ſpeak of God, we muſt lift up our ſpirits more high than our natural ſenſe is able to reach.

[b] Thou ſhalt perceive that I am a faithful inſtructor, and that I ſpeak to thee in the name of God.

[c] Strong and conſtant, and of underſtanding: for theſe are the gifts of God, and he loveth them in man: but foraſmuch as God puniſheth now Job, it is a ſign that theſe are not in him.

Bef. Chr. 1520. 6 He [d] maintaineth not the wicked, but he giveth judgment to the afflicted.

7 He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous, but they are with [e] kings in the throne, where he placed them for ever: thus they are exalted.

8 And if they be bound in fetters, and tied with the cords of affliction,

9 Then he will ſhew them their [f] work and their ſins, becauſe they have been proud.

10 He openeth alſo their ear to diſcipline, and commandeth them that they return from iniquity.

*Iſa. 1. 19. 11 * If they obey and ſerve him, they ſhall end their days in proſperity, and their years in pleaſures:

12 But if they will not obey, they ſhall paſs by the ſword, and periſh [g] without knowledge.

13 But the hypocrites [h] of heart increaſe the wrath: for they [i] call not when he bindeth them.

14 Their ſoul dieth in [k] youth, and their life among the whoremongers.

15 He delivereth the poor in his affliction, and openeth their ear in trouble.

16 Even ſo would he have taken thee out of the ſtraight place into a broad place, and not ſhut up beneath: and [l] that which reſteth upon thy table, had been full of fat.

17 But thou art full of the [m] judgment of the wicked, though judgment and equity maintain all things.

18 [n] For God's wrath is, leſt he ſhould take thee away in thine abundance: for no multitude of gifts can deliver thee.

19 Will he regard thy riches? he regardeth not gold, nor all them that excel in ſtrength.

20 [o] Be not careful in the night, how he deſtroyeth the people out of their place.

21 Take thou heed: look not to [p] iniquity: for thou haſt choſen it rather than affliction.

22 Behold, God exalteth by his power: what teacher is like him?

23 Who hath appointed to him his way? or who can ſay, Thou haſt done wickedly?

24 Remember that thou magnify his work, which men behold.

25 All men ſee it, and men behold it [q] afar off.

26 Behold, God is excellent, [r] and we know him not, neither can the number of his years be ſearched out. Bef. Chr. 1520.

27 When he reſtraineth the drops of water, the rain [s] poureth down by the vapour thereof:

28 Which rain the clouds do drop, and let fall abundantly upon man.

29 Who can know the diviſions of the clouds, and the thunders of his [t] tabernacle?

30 Behold, he ſpreadeth his light upon [u] it, and covereth the [w] bottom of the ſea.

31 For thereby he judgeth [x] the people, and giveth meat abundantly.

32 He covereth the light with the clouds, and commandeth them to go [y] againſt it.

33 [z] His companion ſheweth him thereof, and there is anger in riſing up.

CHAP. XXXVII.

2 Elihu proveth that the unſearchable wiſdom of God is manifeſt by his works, 4 As by the thunders, 6 The ſnow, 9 The whirlwind, 11 and the rain.

AT this alſo mine heart is [a] aſtoniſhed, and is moved out of his place.

2 Hear the [b] ſound of his voice, and the noiſe that goeth out of his mouth.

3 He directeth it under the whole heaven, and his light unto the ends of the world.

4 After it a noiſe ſoundeth: he thundereth with the voice of his majeſty, and he will not ſtay [c] them when his voice is heard.

5 God thundereth marvellouſly with his voice: he worketh great things, which we know not.

6 For he ſaith to the ſnow, Be thou upon the earth: [d] likewiſe to the ſmall rain, and to the great rain of his power.

7 With the force thereof he [e] ſhutteth up every man, that all men may know his work.

8 Then the beaſts go into the den, and remain in their places.

9 The whirlwind cometh out of the South, and the cold from the [f] North wind.

10 At the breath of God the froſt is given, and the breadth of the waters [g] is made narrow.

11 He maketh alſo the clouds to [h] labour, to water the earth, and ſcattereth the cloud of [i] his light.

12 And

[d] Therefore he will not preſerve the wicked: but to the humble and afflicted heart he will ſhew grace.

[e] He preferreth the godly to honour.

[f] He will move their hearts to feel their ſins, that they may come to him by repentance, as he did Manaſſeh.

[g] That is, in their folly or obſtination, and ſo ſhall becauſe of their own deſtruction.

[i] When they are in affliction, they ſeek not to God for ſuccour, as Aſa, 2 Chron. 16. 12. Rev. 16. 11.

[k] They die of ſome vile death, and that before they come to age.

[l] If thou hadſt been obedient to God, he would have brought thee to liberty and wealth.

[m] Thou art altogether after the manner of the wicked: for thou doſt murmur againſt the juſtice of God.

[n] God doth puniſh thee, leſt thou ſhouldeſt forget God in thy wealth, and ſo periſh.

[o] Be not thou curious in ſeeking the cauſe of God's judgments, when he deſtroyeth any.

[p] And ſo murmur againſt God through impatience.

[q] The works of God are ſo manifeſt, that a man may ſee them afar off, and know God by the ſame.

[r] Our infirmity hindereth us ſo, that we cannot attain to the perfect knowledge of God.

[s] That is, the rain cometh of thoſe drops of water which he keepeth in the clouds.

[t] Meaning of the clouds, which he calleth the tabernacle of God.

[u] Upon the cloud.

[w] That men cannot come to the knowledge of the ſprings thereof.

[x] He ſheweth that the rain hath double uſe: the one, that it declareth God's judgments, when it doth overflow any places, and the other that it maketh the land fruitful.

[z] The cold vapour ſheweth him: that is, the cloud of the hot exhalation, which being taken in the cold cloud mounteth up toward the place where the fire is, and ſo anger is engendred: that is, noiſe and thunder-claps.

[a] At the marveling of the thunder and lightnings: whereby he declareth that the faithful are lively touched with the majeſty of God, when they behold his works.

[b] That is, the thunder, whereby he ſpeaketh to men to waken their dulneſs, and to bring them to the conſideration of his works.

[c] Meaning, the rains and thunders.

[d] So that neither ſmall rain nor great, ſnow, nor any thing elſe, cometh without God's appointment.

[e] By rains and thunders God cauſeth men to keep themſelves within their houſes.

[f] In Hebrew it is called the ſcattering wind, becauſe it driveth away the clouds, and purgeth the air.

[g] That is, is frozen up and dried.

[h] Gather the vapours, and move to and fro to water the earth.

[i] That is, the cloud that hath lightning in it.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

12 And it is turned about by his government, that they may do whatſoever he commandeth them upon the whole world :

13 Whether it be for [k] puniſhment, or for his land, or of mercy, he cauſeth it to come.

14 Hearken unto this, O Job : ſtand and conſider the wondrous works of God.

15 Didſt thou know when God diſpoſed them ? and cauſed the [l] light of his cloud to ſhine ?

16 Haſt thou known [m] the variety of the cloud, and the wondrous works of him that is perfect in knowledge ?

17 Or how thy cloaths are [n] warm, when he maketh the earth quiet through the South wind ?

18 Haſt thou ſtretched out the heavens, which are ſtrong, and as a molten [o] glaſs ?

19 Tell us what we ſhall ſay unto him : for we cannot diſpoſe our matter becauſe of [p] darkneſs.

20 Shall it be [q] told him when I ſpeak ? or ſhall man ſpeak when he ſhall be [r] deſtroyed ?

21 And now men ſee not the light [s] which ſhineth in the clouds, but the wind paſſeth and cleanſeth them.

22 The [t] brightneſs cometh out of the North: the praiſe thereof is to God, which is terrible.

23 It is the Almighty : we cannot find him out : he is excellent in power and judgment, and abundant in juſtice : he [u] afflicteth not.

24 Let men therefore fear him : for he will not regard any that are wiſe in their own conceit.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 God ſpeaketh to Job, and declareth the weakneſs of man in the conſideration of his creatures, by whoſe excellency the power, juſtice, and providence of the Creator is known.

THEN anſwered the Lord unto Job out of the [w] whirlwind, and ſaid,

2 Who is this that [x] darkeneth the counſel by words without knowledge ?

3 Gird up now thy loins like a man : I [y] will demand of thee, and declare thou unto me.

4 Where waſt thou when I laid the [z] foundations of the earth ? declare, if thou haſt underſtanding.

5 Who hath laid the meaſures thereof, if thou knoweſt ? or who hath ſtretched the line over it ?

6 Whereupon are the foundations thereof ſet ? or who hath laid the corner-ſtone thereof ?

7 When the ſtars of the morning [a] praiſed me together, and all the [b] children of God rejoiced :

8 Or who hath ſhut up the ſea with doors, when it iſſued and came forth as out of the womb ?

9 When I made the clouds as a covering thereof, and darkneſs as the [c] ſwadling-bands thereof :

10 When I ſtabliſhed my commandment upon it, and ſet bars and doors,

11 And ſaid, Hitherto ſhalt thou come, but no farther : and here [d] ſhall it ſtay thy proud waves.

12 Haſt thou commanded the [e] morning ſince thy days ? haſt thou cauſed the morning to know his place,

13 That it might take hold of the corners of the earth, and that the wicked might be [f] ſhaken out of it ?

14 It is turned as clay to faſhion, [g] and all ſtand up as a garment.

15 And from the wicked their light ſhall be taken away, and the high arm ſhall be broken.

16 Haſt thou entered into the bottoms of the ſea ? or haſt thou walked to ſeek out the [h] depth ?

17 Have the gates of death been opened unto thee ? or haſt thou ſeen the gates of the ſhadow of death ?

18 Haſt thou perceived the breadth of the earth ? tell, if thou knoweſt all this.

19 Where is the way where light dwelleth ? and where is the place of darkneſs,

20 That thou ſhouldeſt [i] receive it in the bounds thereof, and that thou ſhouldeſt know the paths to the houſe thereof ?

21 Kneweſt thou it, becauſe thou waſt then born, and becauſe the number of thy days is great ?

22 Haſt thou entered into the treaſures of the ſnow ? or haſt thou ſeen the treaſures of the hail,

23 Which I have [k] hid againſt the time of trouble, againſt the day of war and battle ?

[k] Rain, cold, heat, tempeſts, and ſuch like, are ſent of God, either to puniſh man, or to profit the earth, or to declare his favour toward man, as ch. 36. 31.

[l] That is, the lightning to break forth in the clouds.

[m] Which is ſometime changed into rain, ſnow, or hail, or ſuch like.

[n] Why thy cloaths ſhould keep thee warm when the ſouth wind bloweth, rather than when any other wind bloweth ?

[o] For their clearneſs.

[p] That is, our ignorance : ſignifying that Job was ſo preſumptuous, that he would controul the works of God.

[q] Hath God need that any ſhould tell him, when man murmureth againſt him ?

[r] If God would deſtroy a man, ſhould he repine ?

[s] The cloud ſtoppeth the ſhining of the ſun, that man cannot ſee it till the wind have chaſed away the cloud : and if man be not able to attain to the knowledge of theſe things, how much leſs of God's judgments ?

[t] In Hebrew, gold : meaning, fair weather and clear as gold.

[u] Meaning, without cauſe.

[w] That his words might have greater majeſty, and that Job might know with whom he had to do.

[x] Which by ſeeking out the ſecret counſel of God by man's reaſon maketh it more obſcure, and ſheweth his own folly.

[y] Becauſe he had wiſhed to diſpute with God, ch. 13. 3. God reaſoneth with him, to declare his raſhneſs.

[z] Seeing he could not judge of thoſe things which were done ſo long before he was born, he was not able to comprehend all God's works : much leſs the ſecret cauſes of his judgments.

[a] The ſtars and dumb creatures are ſaid to praiſe God, becauſe his power, wiſdom, and goodneſs is manifeſt and known therein.

[b] Meaning, the angels.

[c] As though the great ſea were but as a little babe in the hands of God to turn to and fro.

[d] That is, God's decree and commandment, as ver. 10.

[e] To wit, to riſe, ſince thou waſt born.

[f] Who having in the night been given to wickedneſs, cannot abide the light, but hide themſelves.

[g] The earth, which ſeemed in the night to have no form, by the riſing of the ſun is as it were created anew, and all things therein clad with new beauty.

[h] If thou art not able to ſeek out the depth of the ſea, how much leſs art thou able to comprehend the counſel of God ?

[k] To puniſh mine enemies with them, as Exod. 9. 18. Joſh. 10. 11.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

24 By what way is the light parted, which ſcattereth the Eaſt wind upon the earth?

25 Who hath divided the ſpouts for the rain? or the way for the lightning of the thunders,

26 To cauſe it to rain on the earth where no man is, and in the wilderneſs where there is no man?

27 To fulfil the wild and waſte place, and to cauſe the bud of the herb to ſpring forth?

28 Who is the father of the rain? or who hath begotten the drops of the dew?

29 Out of whoſe womb came the ice? who hath ingendered the froſt of the heaven?

30 The waters are hid [l] as with a ſtone: and the face of the deep is frozen.

31 Canſt thou reſtrain the ſweet influences of [m] the Pleiades? or looſe the bands of [n] Orion?

32 Canſt thou bring forth [o] Mazzaroth in their time? Canſt thou alſo guide [p] Arcturus with his ſons?

33 Knoweſt thou the courſe of heaven? or canſt thou ſet [q] the rule thereof in the earth?

34 Canſt thou lift up thy voice to the clouds, that the abundance of waters may cover thee?

35 Canſt thou ſend the lightnings that they may walk, and ſay unto thee, Lo, here we are?

36 Who hath put wiſdom in the [r] reins? or who hath given the heart underſtanding?

37 Who can number clouds by wiſdom? or who can cauſe to ceaſe the [s] bottles of heaven, 38 When the earth groweth into hardneſs [t], and the clods are faſt together?

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 The bounty and providence of God, which extendeth even to the young ravens, giveth man full occaſion to put his confidence in God. 37 Job confeſſeth and humbleth himſelf.

WILT [u] thou hunt the prey for the lion? or fill the appetite of the lion's whelps,

2 When they couch in their places, and remain in the covert to lie in wait?

3 Who prepareth for the raven his meat, when his birds [w] cry unto God, wandering for lack of meat?

4 Knoweſt thou the time when the wild goats bring forth young? or doſt thou mark when the [x] hinds do calve?

5 Canſt thou number the months that they [y] fulfil? or knoweſt thou the time when they bring forth?

6 They bow themſelves: they [z] bruiſe their young, and caſt out their ſorrows.

Bef. Chr. 1520.

7 Yet their young wax fat, and grow up with corn: they go forth and return not unto them.

8 Who hath ſet the wild aſs at liberty? or who hath looſed the bonds of the wild aſs?

9 It is I which have made the wilderneſs his houſe, and the [a] ſalt places his dwellings.

10 He derideth the multitude of the city: he heareth not the cry of the driver.

11 He ſeeketh out the mountain for his paſture, and ſearcheth after every green thing.

12 Will the unicorn [b] ſerve thee? or will he tarry by thy crib?

13 Canſt thou bind the unicorn with his band to labour in the furrow? or will he plow the valleys after thee?

14 Wilt thou truſt in him, becauſe his ſtrength is great, and caſt off thy labour unto him?

15 Wilt thou believe him, that he will bring home thy ſeed, and gather it unto thy barn?

16 Haſt thou given the pleaſant wings unto the peacocks? or wings and feathers unto the oſtrich?

17 Which leaveth his eggs in the earth, and maketh [c] them hot in the duſt,

18 And forgetteth that the foot might ſcatter them, or that the wild beaſt might break them.

19 He ſheweth himſelf cruel unto his young ones, as they were not his: and is without fear, as if he travailed [d] in vain.

20 For God hath deprived him of [e] wiſdom, and hath given him no part of underſtanding.

21 When [f] time is, he mounteth on high; he mocketh the horſe and his rider.

22 Haſt thou given the horſe ſtrength? or covered his neck with [g] neighing?

23 Haſt thou made him afraid as the graſhopper? his ſtrong neighing is fearful.

24 He [h] diggeth in the valley, and rejoiceth in his ſtrength: he goeth forth to meet the harneſſed man.

25 He mocketh at fear, and is not afraid, and turneth not back from the ſword.

26 Though the quiver rattle againſt him, the glittering ſpear and the ſhield.

27 He [i] ſwalloweth the ground for fierceneſs and rage, and he believeth not that it is the noiſe of the trumpet.

28 He ſaith among the trumpets, Ha, ha: he ſmelleth

[o] Certain ſtars ſo called; ſome think they were the twelve ſigns.

[p] The north ſtar with thoſe that are about him.

[q] Canſt thou cauſe the heavenly bodies to have any power over the earthly bodies?

[r] In the ſecret parts of man.

[t] For when God doth not open theſe bottles, the earth cometh to this inconvenience.

[u] After he had declared God's works in the heavens, he ſheweth his marvellous providence in earth, even toward the brute beaſts.

[w] Read Pſalm 147. 9.

[x] He chiefly maketh mention of wild goats and hinds, becauſe they bring forth their young with moſt difficulty.

[y] That is, how long they go with young?

[z] They bring forth with great difficulty.

[b] Is it poſſible to make the unicorn tame? ſignifying, that if man cannot rule a creature, that it is much more impoſſible that he ſhould appoint the wiſdom of God, whereby he governeth all the world.

[c] They write that the oſtrich covereth her eggs in the ſand, and becauſe the country is hot, and the ſun ſtill keepeth them warm, they are hatched.

[d] If he ſhould take care for them.

[e] That is, to have a care and natural affection toward his young.

[f] When the young oſtrich is grown up, he outrunneth the horſe.

[g] That is, given him courage? which is meant by neighing and ſhaking his mane? for with his breath he covereth his neck.

[i] He ſo riddeth the ground, that it ſeemeth nothing under him.

Bef. Chr. 1520. ſmelleth the battle afar off, and the noiſe of the captains, and the ſhouting.

31 She abideth and remaineth in the rock, even upon the top of the rock, and the tower.

32 From thence ſhe ſpieth for meat, and her eyes behold afar off.

33 His young ones alſo ſuck up blood: and where the ſlain are, there is ſhe.

34 Moreover, the Lord ſpake unto Job, and ſaid,

35 Is this to [l] learn, to ſtrive with the Almighty? he that reproveth God, let him anſwer to it.

36 ¶ Then Job anſwered the Lord, ſaying,

37 Behold, I am [m] vile: what ſhall I anſwer thee? I will lay mine hand upon my mouth.

38 Once have I ſpoken, but I will anſwer no more, yea, twice, but I will proceed no further.

2 How weak man's power is, being compared to the works of God, 10 Whoſe power appeareth in the creation and governing of the great beaſts.

*Ch. 38. 1. AGAIN the Lord anſwered Job out of the * whirlwind, and ſaid,

2 Gird up now thy loins like a man: I will demand of thee, and declare thou unto me.

3 Wilt thou diſannul [n] my judgment? or wilt thou condemn me, that thou mayeſt be juſtified?

4 Or haſt thou an arm like God? or doſt thou thunder with a voice like him?

5 Deck thyſelf now with [o] majeſty and excellency, and array thyſelf with beauty and glory.

6 Caſt abroad the indignation of thy wrath, and behold every one that is proud, and abaſe him.

7 Look on every one that is arrogant, and bring them low: and deſtroy the wicked in their place.

8 Hide them in the duſt together, and bind [p] their faces in a ſecret place.

9 Then will I confeſs unto thee alſo, that thy right hand can [q] ſave thee.

10 ¶ Behold now [r] Behemoth (whom I made [s] with thee) which eateth [t] graſs as an ox.

11 Behold now, his ſtrength is in his loins, and his force is in the navel of his belly.

12 When he taketh pleaſure, his tail is like a cedar: the ſinews of his ſtones are wrapt together. Bef. Chr. 1520.

16 Lieth he under the trees in the covert of the reeds and fens?

17 Can the trees cover him with their ſhadow? or can the willows of the river compaſs him about?

18 Behold, he ſpoileth the river, [x] and haſteth not: he truſteth that he can draw up Jordan into his mouth.

19 He taketh it with his eyes, and thruſteth his noſe through whatſoever meeteth him.

20 ¶ Canſt thou draw out [y] Leviathan with an hook, and with a line which thou ſhalt caſt down unto his tongue?

21 Canſt thou caſt an hook into his noſe? canſt thou pierce his jaws with an angle?

22 Will he make many [z] prayers unto thee, or ſpeak thee fair?

23 Will he make a covenant with thee? and wilt thou take [a] him as a ſervant for ever?

24 Wilt thou play with him as with a bird? or wilt thou bind him for thy maids?

25 Shall the companions banquet with him? ſhall they divide him among the merchants?

26 Canſt thou fill the baſket with his ſkin? or the fiſh-pannier with his head?

27 Lay thine hand upon him: remember [b] the battle, and do no more ſo.

28 Behold, [c] his hope is in vain: for ſhall not one periſh even at the ſight of him?

CHAP. XLI.

8 One is joined to another: they ſtick together, that they cannot be ſundered.

9 His ſneezings [k] make the light to ſhine, and his eyes are like the eye lids of the morning.

10 Out of his mouth go lamps, and ſparks of fire leap out.

11 Out of his noſtrils cometh out ſmoak, as out of a boiling pot or cauldron.

12 His breath maketh the coals burn: for a flame goeth out of his mouth.

22 He maketh the depth to [n] boil like a pot, and maketh the ſea like a pot of ointment.

23 He maketh a path to [o] ſhine after him: one would think the depth as an hoar head.

24 In the earth there is none like him: he is made without fear.

25 He beholdeth [p] all high things: he is a king over all the children of pride.

CHAP XLII.

6 The repentance of Job. 9 He prayeth for his friends. 12 His goods are reſtored double unto him. 15 His children, age, and death.

THEN Job anſwered the Lord, and ſaid,

2 I know that thou canſt do all things, and that there is no [q] thought hid from thee.

3 Who is he that hideth counſel without [r] knowledge? therefore have I ſpoken that I underſtood not, even things too wonderful for me, and [s] which I knew not.

4 Hear, I beſeech thee, and I will ſpeak: I will demand of thee, [t] and declare thou unto me.

5 I have [u] heard of thee by the hearing of the ear, but now mine eye ſeeth thee.

6 Therefore I abhor myſelf, and repent in duſt and aſhes.

7 ¶ Now after that the Lord had ſpoken theſe words unto Job, the Lord alſo ſaid unto Eliphaz the Temanite, My wrath is kindled againſt thee, and againſt thy two friends: for ye have not ſpoken of me the thing that is [w] right, like my ſervant [x] Job.

8 Therefore take unto you now ſeven bullocks, and ſeven rams, and go to my ſervant Job, and offer up for yourſelves a burnt-offering, and my ſervant Job ſhall [y] pray for you: for I will accept him, leſt I ſhould put you to ſhame, becauſe ye have not ſpoken of me the thing which is right, like my ſervant Job.

9 So Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite, went and did according as the Lord had ſaid unto them, and the Lord accepted Job.

10 ¶ Then the Lord turned the [z] captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends: alſo the Lord gave Job twice ſo much as he had before.

11 Then came unto him all his [a] brethren, and all his ſiſters, and all they that had been of his acquaintance before, and did eat bread with him in his houſe, and had compaſſion of him, and comforted him for all the evil that the Lord had brought upon him, and every man gave him a ‡ piece of money, and every one an earring of gold.

‡ Or, lamb, or money ſo marked.

12 So the Lord bleſſed the laſt days of Job more than the firſt: for he had [b] fourteen thouſand ſheep, and ſix thouſand camels, and a thouſand yoke of oxen, and a thouſand ſhe-aſſes.

13 He had alſo ſeven ſons, and three daughters.

14 And he called the name of one [c] Jemimah, and the name of the ſecond [d] Keziah, and the name of the third [e] Keren-happuch.

15 In all the land were no women found ſo fair as the daughters of Job, and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren.

16 And after this lived Job an hundred and forty years, and ſaw his ſons, and his ſons ſons, even four generations.

17 So Job died, being old, and full of days.

THE

The PSALMS* of DAVID.

* Or, praiſes, according to the Hebrews: and were chiefly inſtituted to praiſe & give thanks to God for his benefits. They are called the Pſalms or ſongs of David, becauſe the moſt part were made by him.

THE ARGUMENT.

This book of Pſalms is ſet forth unto us by the Holy Ghoſt, to be eſteemed as a moſt precious treaſure, wherein all things are contained that appertain to true felicity, as well in this life preſent, as in the life to come. For the riches of true knowledge and heavenly wiſdom are ſet open for us, to take thereof moſt abundantly. If we would know the great and high majeſty of God, here we may ſee the brightneſs thereof ſhine moſt clearly. If we would ſeek his incomprehenſible wiſdom, here is the ſchool of the ſame profeſſion. If we would comprehend his ineſtimable bounty, and approach near thereunto, and fill our hands with that treaſure, here we may have a moſt lively and moſt comfortable taſte thereof. If we would know wherein ſtandeth our ſalvation, and how to attain to life everlaſting, here is Chriſt our only Redeemer and Mediator moſt evidently deſcribed. The rich man may learn the true uſe of riches. The poor man may find full content. He that will rejoice, ſhall know the true joy, and how to keep meaſure therein. They that are afflicted and oppreſſed, ſhall ſee wherein ſtandeth their comfort, and how they ought to praiſe God when he ſendeth them deliverance. The wicked and the perſecutors of the children of God ſhall ſee how the hand of God is ever againſt them, and though he ſuffer them to proſper for a while, yet he bridleth them, inſomuch that they cannot touch an hair of one's head, except he permit them, and how in the end their deſtruction is moſt miſerable. Briefly, here we may have moſt preſent remedies againſt all temptations, and troubles of mind and conſcience, ſo that, being well practiſed therein, we may be aſſured againſt all dangers in this life, live in the true fear and love of God, and at length attain to that incorruptible crown of glory, which is laid up for all them that love the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

PSALM I.

Whether it was Eſdras, or any other that gathered the Pſalms into a book, it ſeemeth he did ſet this Pſalm firſt in manner of a preface, to exhort all godly men to ſtudy and meditate the heavenly wiſdom. For the effect hereof is, 1 That they be bleſſed, which give themſelves wholly all their life to the holy Scriptures: 4 and that the wicked contemners of God, though they ſeem for a while happy, yet at length ſhall come to miſerable deſtruction.

BLESSED is the man that doth not walk in the [a] counſel of the wicked, nor ſtand in the way of ſinners, nor ſit in the ſeat of the ſcornful:

2 But his delight is in the * law of the Lord, and in his [b] law doth he meditate day and night.

* Deut. 6. 6. Joſh. 1. 8. Prov. 6. 20.

3 For he ſhall be like a * tree planted by the rivers of waters, that will bring forth her fruit in due ſeaſon: whoſe leaf ſhall not fade: ſo [c] whatſoever he ſhall do, ſhall proſper.

* Jer. 7. 8.

4 [d] The wicked are not ſo, but as the chaff which the wind driveth away.

5 Therefore the wicked ſhall not ſtand in the [e] judgment, nor ſinners in the aſſembly of the righteous.

6 For the Lord [f] knoweth the way of the righteous, and the way of the wicked ſhall periſh.

PSALM II.

1 The prophet David rejoiceth, that notwithſtanding his enemies rage, yet God will continue his kingdom for ever, and advance it even to the end of the world: 10 and therefore exhorteth kings and rulers, that they would humbly ſubmit themſelves under God's yoke, becauſe it is in vain to reſiſt God. Herein is figured Chriſt's kingdom.

WHY do the [g] heathen * rage, and the people murmur in vain?

* Acts 4. 25.

2 The kings of the earth band themſelves, and the princes are aſſembled together againſt the Lord, and againſt his † Chriſt.

† Or, anointed.

3 [h] Let us break their bands, and caſt their cords from us.

4 * But he that dwelleth in the heaven ſhall laugh: the Lord ſhall have them in deriſion.

* Prov. 1. 26.

5 [i] Then ſhall he ſpeak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his ſore diſpleaſure, ſaying,

6 Even I have ſet my king upon Sion mine holy mountain.

[a] When a man hath once given place to evil counſel, or to his own concupiſcence, he beginneth to forget himſelf in his ſin, and ſo falleth into contempt of God, which contempt is called the ſeat of the ſcorners.

[b] In the holy ſcriptures.

[c] God's children are ſo moiſtened ever with his grace, that whatſoever cometh unto them tendeth to their ſalvation.

[d] Though the wicked ſeem to bear the ſwing in this world, yet the Lord driveth them down, that they ſhall not riſe nor ſtand in the company of the righteous.

[e] But tremble when they feel God's wrath.

[f] Doth approve and proſper, like as not to know is to reprove and reject.

[g] The conſpiracy of the Gentiles, the murmuring of the Jews, and power of kings, cannot prevail againſt Chriſt.

[h] Thus the wicked ſay, that they will caſt off the yoke of God and of his Chriſt.

[i] God's plagues will declare, that in reſiſting his Chriſt, they fought againſt him.

7 I will declare the [k] decree: that is, the Lord hath ſaid unto me, * Thou art my Son, this [l] day have I begotten thee. * Acts 13. 33. Heb. 1. 5.

8 Aſk of me, and I ſhall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the [m] ends of the earth for thy poſſeſſion.

* Rev 2. 27. 9 * Thou ſhalt cruſh them with a ſceptre of iron, and break them in pieces like a potter's veſſel.

10 [n] Be wiſe now therefore, ye kings: be learned, ye judges of the earth.

11 Serve the Lord in fear, and rejoice in trembling.

12 [o] Kiſs the ſon, leſt he be angry, and ye [p] periſh in the way, when his wrath ſhall ſuddenly burn: bleſſed are all that truſt in him.

PSALM III.

1 David driven forth of his kingdom, was greatly tormented in mind for his ſins againſt God. 4 And therefore calleth upon God, and waxeth bold through his promiſes againſt the great railings and terrors of his enemies, yea, againſt death itſelf, which he ſaw preſent before his eyes. 7 Finally, he rejoiceth for the good ſucceſs that God gave him, and all the church.

¶ A Pſalm of David, when he fled from his ſon Abſalom.

LORD, how are mine adverſaries [q] increaſed! how many riſe againſt me!

2 Many ſay to my ſoul, There is no help for him in God. [r] Selah.

3 But thou, Lord, art a buckler for me: my glory, and the lifter up of mine head.

4 I did call unto the Lord with my voice, and he heard me out of his holy mountain. Selah.

5 I laid me down and ſlept, and roſe up again: for the Lord ſuſtained me.

6 I will not be afraid for [s] ten thouſand of the people, that ſhould beſet me round about.

7 O Lord, ariſe: help me, my God: for thou haſt ſmitten all mine enemies upon the cheek bone: thou haſt broken the teeth of the wicked.

8 [t] Salvation belongeth unto the Lord, and thy bleſſing is upon thy people. Selah.

PSALM IV.

1 When Saul perſecuted him, he called upon God, truſting moſt aſſuredly in his promiſe, and therefore boldly reproveth his enemies, who wilfully reſiſted his dominion, 7 and finally preferreth the favour of God before all worldly treaſures.

2 O ye [y] ſons of men, how long will ye turn my glory into ſhame, [z] loving vanity, and ſeeking lyes? Selah.

3 For be ye ſure that the Lord hath choſen to himſelf [a] a godly man: the Lord will hear when I call unto him.

4 [b] Tremble, and ſin not: examine your own heart upon your bed, and be [c] ſtill. Selah.

5 [d] Offer the ſacrifices of righteouſneſs, and truſt in the Lord.

6 Many ſay, Who will ſhew us any [e] good? but Lord, lift up the light of thy countenance upon us.

7 Thou haſt given me more joy of heart, than they have had, when their wheat and their wine did abound.

8 I will lay me down, and alſo ſleep in peace: for thou, Lord, [f] only makeſt me dwell in ſafety.

PSALM V.

1 David oppreſſed with the cruelty of his enemies, and fearing greater dangers, calleth to God for ſuccour, ſhewing how requiſite it is that God ſhould puniſh the malice of his adverſaries. 7 After being aſſured of proſperous ſucceſs, he conceiveth comfort: 12 Concluding, that when God ſhall deliver him, others alſo ſhall be partakers of the ſame mercies.

[k] To ſhew that my vocation to the kingdom is of God.

[l] That is to ſay, as touching man's knowledge, becauſe it was the firſt time that David appeared to be elected of God. So it is applied to Chriſt in his firſt coming and manifeſtation to the world.

[m] Not only the Jews, but the Gentiles alſo.

[n] He exhorteth all rulers to repent in time.

[p] When the wicked ſhall ſay, peace and reſt, ſeeming yet to be but in the mid-way of their purpoſes, then ſhall deſtruction ſuddenly come, 1 Theſſ. 5. 3.

[q] This was a token of his ſtable faith, that for all his troubles he had his recourſe to God.

[r] Selah here ſignifieth a lifting up of the voice, to cauſe us to conſider the ſentence as a thing of great importance.

[s] When he conſidered the truth of God's promiſe, and tried the ſame, his faith increaſed marvellouſly.

[t] Be the dangers never ſo great or many, yet God hath ever means to deliver his.

[u] Among them that were appointed to ſing the Pſalms, and to play on the inſtruments, one was appointed chief to ſet the tune and to begin: who had the charge, becauſe he was moſt excellent, and he began this Pſalm on the inſtrument called Neginoth, or in a tune ſo called.

[w] Thou that art the defender of my juſt cauſe.

[d] Serve God purely, and not with outward ceremonies.

[f] This word in Hebrew may be referred to God, as it is here tranſlated, or to David, ſignifying that he ſhould dwell as joyfully alone, as if he had many about him, becauſe the Lord is with him.

[g] That is, my vehement prayer and ſecret complaint and ſighings.

[h] With patience and truſt, till I be heard.

PSALM VI.

1 When David by his ſins had provoked God's wrath, and now felt not only his hand againſt him, but alſo conceived the horrors of death everlaſting, he deſireth forgiveneſs; 6 Bewailing, that if God took him away in his indignation, he ſhould lack occaſion to praiſe him, as he was wont to do whilſt he was among men. 9 Then ſuddenly feeling God's mercy, he ſharply rebuked his enemies which rejoiced in his affliction.

PSALM X.

1 He complaineth of the fraud, rapine, tyranny, and all kinds of wrong, which worldly men uſe, aſſigning the cauſe thereof, that wicked men, being as it were drunken with worldly proſperity, and therefore ſetting apart all fear and reverence towards God, think they may do all things without controuling. 15 Therefore he calleth upon God to ſend ſome remedy againſt theſe deſperate evils: 16 And at length comforteth himſelf with hope of deliverance.

WHY ſtandeſt thou far off, O Lord, and hideſt thee in [y] due time, even in affliction?

2 The wicked with pride doth perſecute the poor: let them be taken in the crafts that they have imagined.

3 For the wicked hath [z] made boaſt of his own heart's deſire, and the covetous bleſſeth himſelf: he contemneth the Lord.

4 The wicked is ſo proud that he ſeeketh not for God: he thinketh always, There is no God.

5 His ways alway proſper: thy judgments are high above his ſight: therefore ‡ defieth he all his enemies.

6 He ſaith in his heart, I ſhall ‡ never be moved, [a] nor be in danger.

‡ Or, not be moved, becauſe he was never in evil.

7 His mouth is full of curſing, and deceit, and fraud: under his tongue is miſchief and iniquity.

8 [b] He lieth in wait in the villages: in the ſecret places doth he murder the innocent: his eyes are bent againſt the poor.

9 He lieth in wait ſecretly, even as a lion in his den: he lieth in wait to ſpoil the poor: he doth ſpoil the poor when he draweth him into his net.

10 He croucheth and boweth: therefore heaps of the [c] poor do fall by his might.

11 He hath ſaid in his heart, God hath forgotten, he hideth away his face, and will never ſee.

12 [d] Ariſe, O Lord God: lift up thine hand: forget not the poor.

13 Wherefore doth the wicked contemn God? he ſaith in his heart, Thou wilt not [e] regard.

14 Yet thou haſt ſeen it: for thou beholdeſt miſchief and wrong, that thou mayeſt [f] take it into thine hands: the poor committeth himſelf unto thee: for thou art the helper of the fatherleſs.

15 Break thou the arm of the wicked and malicious: ſearch his wickedneſs, and thou ſhalt find [g] none.

PSALM. XI.

1 This Pſalm containeth two parts. In the firſt, David ſheweth how hard aſſaults of temptations he ſuſtained, and in how great anguiſh of mind he was, when Saul did perſecute him. 4 Then next he rejoiceth that God ſent him ſuccour in his neceſſity, declaring his juſtice as well in governing the good and the wicked men, as the whole world.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalm of David.

IN the Lord put I my truſt: how ſay ye then to my ſoul, [k] Flee to your mountain as a bird?

2 For lo, the wicked bend their bow, and make ready their arrows upon the ſtring, that they may ſecretly ſhoot at them which are upright in heart.

3 For the [l] foundations are caſt down: what hath the [m] righteous done?

4 The Lord is in his holy palace: the Lord's throne is in the heaven: his eyes [n] will conſider: his eye lids will try the children of men.

5 The Lord will try the righteous: but the wicked and him that loveth iniquity, doth his ſoul hate.

6 Upon the wicked he ſhall rain ſnares, [o] fire and brimſtone, and ſtormy tempeſt: this is the [p] portion of their cup.

7 For the righteous Lord loveth righteouſneſs: his countenance doth behold the juſt.

PSALM XII.

1 The prophet lamenting the miſerable eſtate of the people, and the decay of all good order, deſireth God ſpeedily to ſend ſuccour to his children. 7 Then comforting himſelf and others with the aſſurance of God's help, he commendeth the conſtant verity that God obſerveth in keeping his promiſes.

¶ To him that excelleth upon the eighth tune.
A Pſalm of David.

HELP, Lord, for there is not [q] a godly man left: for the faithful are failed from among the children of men.

2 They ſpeak deceitfully every one with his neighbour, [r] flattering with their lips, and ſpeak with a double heart.

---

[y] So ſoon as we enter into affliction, we think God ſhould help us, but that is not always his due time.

[z] The wicked man rejoiceth in his own luſt: he boaſteth when he hath that he would: he braggeth of his wit and wealth, and bleſſeth himſelf, and thus blaſphemeth the Lord.

[a] The evil ſhall not touch me, Iſa. 28. 15. or elſe he ſpeaketh thus becauſe he never felt evil.

[b] He ſheweth that the wicked have many means to hide their cruelty, and therefore ought more to be feared.

[c] By the hypocriſy of them that have authority, the poor are devoured.

[d] He calleth to God for help, becauſe wickedneſs is ſo far over-grown, that God muſt now help or never.

[e] Therefore thou muſt needs puniſh this their blaſphemy.

[f] To judge between the right and the wrong.

[g] For thou haſt utterly deſtroyed him.

[h] The hypocrites, or ſuch as live not after God's law, ſhall be deſtroyed.

[i] God helpeth when man's help ceaſeth.

[k] This is the wicked counſel of his enemies to him and his companions, and to drive him from the hope of God's promiſe.

[m] Yet am I innocent, and my cauſe good.

[n] Though all things in earth be out of order, yet God will execute judgment from heaven.

[o] As in the deſtruction of Sodom and Gomorrah.

[p] Which they ſhall drink even to the dregs, Ezek. 23. 34.

[q] Which dare defend the truth, and ſhew mercy to the oppreſſed.

[r] He meaneth the flatterers of the court, which hurt him more with their tongues than with their weapons.

3 The Lord cut off all flattering lips, and the tongue that ſpeaketh proud things:

4 Which have ſaid, [s] With our tongue will we prevail: our lips are our own: who is Lord over us?

5 [t] Now for the oppreſſion of the needy, and for the ſighs of the poor, I will up, ſaith the Lord, and will [u] ſet at liberty him whom the wicked hath ſnared.

6 The words of the Lord are pure words, as the ſilver tried in a furnace of earth, fined ſeven fold.

7 Thou wilt keep [w] them, O Lord: thou wilt preſerve him from this generation for ever.

8 The wicked walk on every ſide: when they are exalted, [x] it is a ſhame for the ſons of men.

PSALM XIII.

1 David, as it were overcome with ſundry and new afflictions, fleeth to God as his only refuge, 3 and ſo at the length being encouraged through God's promiſes, he conceiveth moſt ſure confidence againſt the extreme horrors of death.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

HOW long wilt thou forget me, O Lord, [y] for ever? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me?

2 How long ſhall I take [z] counſel within myſelf, having heavineſs daily in mine heart? how long ſhall mine enemy be exalted above me?

3 Behold, and hear me, O Lord, my God: lighten mine eyes that I ſleep not in death:

4 Leſt mine enemy ſay, I have [a] prevailed againſt him: and they that afflict me, rejoice when I ſlide.

5 But I truſt in thy [b] mercy, mine heart ſhall rejoice in thy ſalvation. I will ſing to the Lord, becauſe he hath [c] dealt lovingly with me.

PSALM XIV.

1 He deſcribeth the perverſe nature of men, which were ſo grown to licentiouſneſs, that God was brought to utter contempt. 7 For the which thing, although he was greatly grieved, yet being perſuaded that God would ſend ſome preſent remedy, he comforteth himſelf and others.

* Pſ. 53. THE * fool hath ſaid in his heart, [d] There is no God: they have [e] corrupted, and done an abominable work: there is none that doth good.

2 The Lord looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to ſee if there were any that would underſtand, and ſeek God.

3 [f] All are gone out of the way: they are all corrupt: there is none that doeth good, no not one.

4 Do not all the workers of iniquity know that they eat up my people as they eat bread? they call not upon the Lord.

5 [g] There they ſhall be taken with fear, becauſe God is in the generation of the juſt.

6 You have made [h] a mock at the counſel of the poor, becauſe the Lord is his truſt.

7 Oh give ſalvation unto [i] Iſrael out of Zion: when the Lord turneth the captivity of his people, then Jacob ſhall rejoice, and Iſrael ſhall be glad.

☞ Note, that of this 14th Pſalm, the 5th, 6th, and 7th verſes, which are put into the common tranſlation, and may ſeem unto ſome to be left out in this, are not in the ſame Pſalm in the Hebrew text, but are rather put more fully to expreſs the manners of the wicked: and are gathered out of the 5th, 140th, and 10th Pſalm, the 59th of the prophet Iſaiah, and the 36th Pſalm, and are alledged by St. Paul, and placed together in the 3d to the Romans.

PSALM XV.

1 This Pſalm teacheth on what condition God did chuſe the Jews for his peculiar people, and wherefore he placed his temple among them, which was to the intent that they, by living uprightly and godly, might witneſs that they were his ſpecial and holy people.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

LORD, who ſhall dwell in thy tabernacle? who ſhall reſt in thy holy mountain?

2 He that [k] walketh uprightly, and worketh righteouſneſs, and ſpeaketh the truth in his heart.

3 He that ſlandereth not with his tongue, nor doth evil to his neighbour, nor receiveth a falſe report againſt his neighbour.

4 [l] In whoſe eyes a vile perſon is contemned, but he honoureth them that fear the Lord: he that ſweareth to his own hinderance and changeth not.

5 He that [m] giveth not his money unto uſury, nor taketh reward againſt the innocent: he that doth theſe things, [n] ſhall never be moved.

1 This Pſalm is the firſt beginning of his gratulation, and thankſgiving in the entering into his kingdom, wherein he extolleth and praiſeth moſt highly the marvellous mercies and grace of God, who hath thus preſerved and defended him. 32 Alſo he ſetteth forth the image of Chriſt's kingdom, that the faithful may be aſſured that Chriſt ſhall always conquer and overcome by the unſpeakable power of his Father, though all the whole world ſhould ſtrive there againſt.

¶ To him that excelleth.

A Pſalm of David the ſervant of the Lord, who ſpake unto the Lord the words of this ſong (in the day that the Lord delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul) and ſaid,

I WILL love thee dearly, O Lord, my ſtrength.

2 * [p] The Lord is my rock, and my fortreſs, and he that delivereth me, my God, and my ſtrength: in him will I truſt, my ſhield, the horn alſo of my ſalvation, and my refuge. * 2 Sam. 22. 2.

3 I will call upon the Lord, which is worthy to

---

[o] He ſheweth that we cannot call upon God, except we truſt in him.

[p] Though we cannot enrich God, yet we muſt beſtow God's gifts to the uſe of his children.

[q] As grief of conſcience and miſerable deſtruction.

[r] He would neither by outward profeſſion, nor in heart, nor in mouth conſent to their idolatries.

[s] Wherewith my portion is meaſured.

[t] God teacheth me continually by ſecret inſpiration.

[u] The faithful are ſure to perſevere to the end.

[x] That is, I rejoice both in body and in ſoul.

[z] Where God favoureth, there is perfect felicity.

[a] My righteous cauſe.

[b] The vengeance that thou ſhalt ſhew againſt mine enemies.

[c] When thy ſpirit examined my conſcience.

[d] I was innocent toward mine enemy both in deed and thought.

[e] Though the wicked provoked me to do evil for evil, yet thy word kept me back.

[f] He was aſſured that God would not refuſe his requeſt.

[g] For all rebel againſt thee, which trouble thy church.

[h] For their cruelty cannot be ſatisfied but with my death.

[i] They are puft up with pride, as the ſtomach that is choaked with fat.

[k] Stop his rage.

[m] And feel not the ſmart that God's children oft-times do.

[n] This is the full felicity, comforting againſt all aſſaults, to have the face of God, and favourable countenance opened unto us.

[o] And am delivered out of my great troubles.

[p] He uſeth this diverſity of names to ſhew, that as the wicked have many means to hurt, ſo God hath many ways to help.

to be [q] praiſed: ſo ſhall I be ſafe from mine enemies.

4 The [r] ſorrows of death compaſſed me, and the floods of wickedneſs made me afraid.

5 The ‡ ſorrows of the grave have compaſſed me about: the ſnares of death overtook me.

‡ Or cords, or cables.

6 But in my trouble did I call upon the Lord, and cried unto my God: he heard my voice out of his temple, and my cry did come before him, even into his ears.

7 [s] Then the earth trembled and quaked: the foundations alſo of the mountains moved and ſhook, becauſe he was angry.

8 Smoke went out at his noſtrils, and a [t] conſuming fire out of his mouth: coals were kindled thereat.

9 He bowed the heavens alſo and came down, and [u] darkneſs was under his feet.

10 And he rode upon [w] Cherub and did fly, and he came flying upon the wings of the wind.

11 He made darkneſs his [x] ſecret place, and his pavilion round about him, even darkneſs of waters, and clouds of the air.

12 At the brightneſs of his preſence his clouds paſſed, hail-ſtones, and coals of fire.

13 The Lord alſo thundered in the heaven, and the higheſt gave [y] his voice, hail-ſtones and coals of fire.

14 Then he ſent out [z] his arrows and ſcattered them, and he increaſed lightnings and deſtroyed them.

15 And the channels of water were ſeen, and the [a] foundations of the world were diſcovered at thy rebuking, O Lord, at the blaſting of the breath of thy noſtrils.

16 He hath ſent down from above and taken me: he hath drawn me out of many [b] waters.

17 He hath delivered me from my [c] ſtrong enemy, and from them which hate me: for they were [d] too ſtrong for me.

18 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the Lord was my ſtay.

19 He brought me forth alſo into a large place: [e] he delivered me becauſe he favoured me.

20 The Lord rewarded me according to my [f] righteouſneſs: according to the pureneſs of mine hands he recompenſed me.

21 Becauſe I kept the ways of the Lord, and did not wickedly againſt my God.

22 For all his laws were before me, and I did not caſt away his [g] commandments from me.

23 I was upright alſo with him, and have kept me from my [h] wickedneſs.

24 Therefore the Lord rewarded me according to my righteouſneſs, and according to the pureneſs of mine hands in his ſight.

25 With the [i] godly thou wilt ſhew thyſelf godly: and with the upright man thou wilt ſhew thyſelf upright.

26 With the pure thou wilt ſhew thyſelf pure, and with the froward thou wilt ſhew thyſelf froward.

27 Thus thou wilt ſave the poor people, and wilt [k] caſt down the proud looks.

28 Surely thou wilt light my candle: the Lord my God will lighten my darkneſs.

29 For by thee I have [l] broken through an hoſt, and by my God I have leaped over a wall.

30 The way of the Lord is uncorrupt: the [m] word of the Lord is tried in the fire: he is a ſhield to all that truſt in him.

31 For who is God beſides the Lord? and who is mighty ſave our God?

32 God girdeth me with ſtrength, and maketh my [n] way upright.

33 He maketh my feet like hinds feet, and ſetteth me upon mine [o] high places.

34 He teacheth mine hands to fight: ſo that a bow of ‡ braſs is broken with mine arms.

‡ Or, ſteel.

35 Thou haſt alſo given me the [p] ſhield of thy ſalvation, and thy right hand hath ſtayed me, and thy [q] loving kindneſs hath cauſed me to increaſe.

36 Thou haſt enlarged my ſteps under me, and mine heels have not ſlid.

37 [r] I have purſued mine enemies, and taken them, and have not turned again till I had conſumed them.

38 I have wounded them, that they were not able to reſiſt: they are fallen under my feet.

39 For thou haſt girded me with ſtrength to battle: them that roſe againſt me, thou haſt ſubdued under me.

40 And thou haſt [s] given me the necks of mine enemies, that I might deſtroy them that hate me.

41 They [t] cried, but there was none to ſave them, even unto the Lord, but he anſwered them not.

42 Then did I beat them ſmall as the duſt before the wind: I did tread them flat as the clay in the ſtreets.

43 Thou

[q] For none can obtain their requeſts of God, that join not his glory with their petition.

[r] He ſpeaketh of the dangers and malice of his enemies, from the which God had delivered him.

[s] A deſcription of the wrath of God againſt his enemies, after he had heard his prayers.

[t] He ſheweth how horrible God's judgments ſhall be to the wicked.

[w] This is deſcribed at large, Pſ. 104.

[x] As a king angry with the people, will not ſhew himſelf unto them.

[a] That is, the deep bottoms were ſeen when the red ſea was divided.

[b] Out of ſundry and great dangers.

[c] To wit, Saul.

[d] Therefore God ſent me ſuccour.

[e] The cauſe of God's deliverance is his only favour and love to us.

[f] David was ſure of his righteous cauſe and good behaviour toward Saul and his enemies, and therefore was aſſured of God's favour and deliverance.

[g] For all his dangers he exerciſed himſelf in the law of God.

[h] I neither gave place to their wicked temptations, nor to mine own affections.

[i] Here he ſpeaketh of God according to our capacity, who ſheweth mercy to his, and puniſheth the wicked, as is ſaid alſo, Lev. 26. 21, 24.

[k] When their ſin is come to the full meaſure.

[l] He attributeth it to God, that he both gat the victory in the field, and alſo deſtroyed the cities of his enemies.

[m] Be the dangers never ſo many or great, yet God's promiſe muſt take effect.

[n] He giveth good ſucceſs to all mine enterpriſes.

[o] As towers and forts, which he took out of the hands of God's enemies.

[p] To defend me from dangers.

[q] He attributeth the beginning, continuance, and increaſe in well-doing only to God's favour.

[r] David declareth that he did nothing beſides his vocation, but was ſtirred up by God's Spirit to execute his judgment.

[t] They that reject the cry of the afflicted, God will alſo reject them when they cry for help: for either pain or fear cauſe thoſe hypocrites to cry.

43 Thou haſt delivered me from the contentions of the people: thou haſt made me the head of the [u] heathen: a people, whom I have not [w] known, ſhall ſerve me.

44 As ſoon as they hear, they ſhall obey me: the ſtrangers ſhall [x] be in ſubjection to me.

45 Strangers ſhall [y] ſhrink away, and fear in their privy chambers.

46 Let the Lord live, and bleſſed be my ſtrength, and the God of my ſalvation be exalted.

47 It is God that giveth me power to avenge me, and ſubdueth the people under me.

48 O my deliverer from mine enemies, even thou haſt ſet me up from them that roſe againſt me: thou haſt delivered me from the [z] cruel man.

49 Therefore [a] I will praiſe thee, O Lord, among the nations, and I will ſing unto thy name.

50 Great deliverances giveth he unto his King, and ſheweth mercy to his anointed, even to David, and to his [b] ſeed for ever.

PSALM XIX.

1 To the intent that he might move the faithful to a deeper conſideration of God's glory, he ſetteth before their eyes the moſt exquiſite workmanſhip of the heavens, with their proportion and ornaments: 8 And afterward calleth them to the law, wherein God hath revealed himſelf more familiarly to his choſen people. The which peculiar grace, by commending the law, he ſetteth forth more at large.

¶ To him that excelleth.

4 Their [f] line is gone forth through all the earth, and their words into the ends of the world: in them hath he ſet a tabernacle for the ſun.

5 Which cometh forth as a bridegroom out of his [g] chamber, and rejoiceth like a mighty man to run his race.

6 His going out is from the ends of the heaven, and his compaſs is unto the ends of the ſame, and none is hid from the heat thereof.

7 The [h] law of the Lord is perfect, converting the ſoul: the teſtimony of the Lord is ſure, and giveth wiſdom unto the ſimple.

8 The ſtatutes of the Lord are right and rejoice the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, and giveth light unto the eyes.

9 The fear of the Lord is clean, and endureth for ever: the judgments of the Lord are [i] truth: they are righteous [k] altogether,

11 Moreover by them is thy ſervant made circumſpect, and in keeping of them there is great [m] reward.

12 Who can underſtand his [o] faults? cleanſe me from ſecret faults.

13 Keep thy ſervant alſo from [n] preſumptuous ſins: let them not reign over me: [p] ſo ſhall I be upright, and made clean from much wickedneſs.

14 Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation [q] of my heart, be acceptable in thy ſight, O Lord, my ſtrength and my Redeemer.

PSALM XX.

1 A prayer of the people unto God, that it would pleaſe him to hear their king, and receive his ſacrifice which he offered before he went to battle againſt the Ammonites.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

THE [r] Lord hear thee in the day of trouble: the [s] name of the God of Jacob defend thee:

2 Send thee help from the ſanctuary, and ſtrengthen thee out of Zion.

3 Let him remember all thine offerings, and [t] turn thy burnt-offerings into aſhes. Selah.

[f] The heavens are as a line of great capital letters, to ſhew unto us God's glory.

[g] Or, vail. The manner was, that the bride and bridegroom ſhould ſtand under a vail together, and after come forth with great ſolemnity and rejoicing of the aſſembly.

[h] Though the creatures cannot ſerve, yet this ought to be ſufficient to lead us unto him.

[i] So that all man's inventions and intentions are lyes.

[k] Every one without exception.

PSALM XXI.

1 David, in the perſon of the people, praiſeth God for the victory, attributing it to God, and not to the ſtrength of man: wherein the Holy Ghoſt directeth the faithful to Chriſt, who is the perfection of his kingdom.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

THE king ſhall [a] rejoice in thy ſtrength, O Lord: yea, how greatly ſhall he rejoice in thy ſalvation!

2 Thou haſt given him his heart's deſire, and haſt not denied him the requeſt of his lips. Selah.

3 For thou [b] didſt prevent him with liberal bleſſings, and didſt ſet a crown of pure gold upon his head.

4 [c] He aſked life of thee, and thou gaveſt him a long life for ever and ever.

5 His glory is great in thy ſalvation: dignity and honour haſt thou laid upon him.

6 For thou haſt ſet him as [d] bleſſings for ever: thou haſt made him glad with the joy of thy countenance.

7 Becauſe the king truſteth in the Lord, and in the mercy of the moſt High he ſhall not ſlide.

8 [e] Thine hand ſhall find out all thine enemies, and thy right hand ſhall find out all that hate thee.

9 Thou ſhalt make them like a fiery oven in time of thine anger: the Lord ſhall deſtroy them in his [f] wrath, and the fire ſhall devour them.

10 Their fruit ſhalt thou deſtroy from the earth, and their ſeed from the children of men.

11 For they [g] intended evil againſt thee, and imagined miſchief, but they ſhall not prevail.

12 Therefore ſhalt thou put [h] them apart, and the ſtrings of thy bow ſhalt thou make ready againſt their faces.

13 [i] Be thou exalted, O Lord, in thy ſtrength: ſo will we ſing and praiſe thy power.

PSALM XXII.

1 David complained becauſe he was brought into ſuch extremities, that he was paſt all hope, but after he had rehearſed the ſorrows and griefs, wherewith he was vexed, 10 he recovereth himſelf from the bottomleſs pit of temptations, and groweth in hope. And here under his own perſon he ſetteth forth the figure of Chriſt, whom he did foreſee by the ſpirit of prophecy, that he ſhould marvellouſly and ſtrangely be dejected and abaſed, before his Father ſhould raiſe and exalt him again.

¶ To him that excelleth upon ‡ Aijeleth Haſſhahar. A Pſalm of David.

‡ Or, the hind of the morning, and this was the name of ſome common ſong.

MY [k] God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me, and art ſo far from mine health, and from the words of my [l] roaring?

2 O my God, I cry by day, but thou heareſt not, and by night, but ‡ have no audience.

‡ Or, I cea not.

3 But thou art holy, and doſt inhabit the [m] praiſes of Iſrael.

4 Our fathers truſted in thee: they truſted, and thou didſt deliver them.

5 They called upon thee, and were delivered: they truſted in thee, and were not confounded.

6 But I am [n] a worm, and not a man: a ſhame of men, and the contempt of the people.

7 All they that ſee me, have me in deriſion: they make a mow and nod the head, ſaying,

8 † * He truſted in the Lord, let him deliver him: let him ſave him, ſeeing he loveth him.

† Heb. rolled upon God.
* Matt. 27. 43.

9 But thou didſt draw me out of the [o] womb: thou gaveſt me hope, even at my mother's breaſts.

10 I was caſt upon thee, even from the [p] womb: thou art my God from my mother's belly.

11 Be not far from me, becauſe trouble is near: for there is none to help me.

12 Many young bulls have compaſſed me: mighty [q] bulls of Baſhan have cloſed me about.

13 They gape upon me with their mouths, as a ramping and roaring lion.

14 I am like [r] water poured out, and all my bones are out of joint: mine heart is like wax: it is molten in the midſt of my bowels.

15 My ſtrength is dried up like a potſherd, and my tongue cleaveth to my jaws, and thou haſt [s] brought me into the duſt of death.

16 For dogs have compaſſed me, and the aſſembly of the wicked have incloſed me: they [t] pierced mine hands and my feet.

[y] The worldlings that put not their only truſt in God.

[z] Let the king be able to deliver us by thy ſtrength, when we ſeek unto him for ſuccour.

[a] When he ſhall overcome his enemies, and ſo be aſſured of his vocation.

[b] Thou declaredſt thy liberal favour toward him before he prayed.

[c] David did not only obtain life, but alſo aſſurance that his poſterity ſhould reign for ever.

[d] Thou haſt made him thy bleſſings to others, and a perpetual example of thy favour for ever.

[e] Here he deſcribeth the power of Chriſt's kingdom againſt the enemies thereof.

[f] This teacheth us patiently to endure the croſs, till God deſtroy the adverſary.

[g] They laid as it were their nets, to make God's power to give place to their wicked enterpriſes.

[h] As a mark to ſhoot at.

[i] Maintain thy church againſt thine adverſaries, that we may have ample occaſion to praiſe thy name.

[k] Here appeareth that horrible conflict which he ſuſtained between faith and deſperation.

[m] He meaneth the place of praiſing, even the tabernacle: or elſe it is ſo called, becauſe he gave the people continually occaſion to praiſe him.

[n] And ſeeming moſt miſerable of all creatures, which was meant of Chriſt. And herein appeareth the unſpeakable love of God toward man, that he would thus abaſe his ſon for our ſakes.

[o] Even from my birth thou haſt given me occaſion to truſt in thee.

[p] For except God's providence preſerve the infants, they ſhould periſh a thouſand times in the mother's womb.

[q] He meaneth, that his enemies were ſo fat, proud and cruel, that they were rather beaſts than men.

[r] Before he ſpake of the cruelty of his enemies, and now he declareth the inward griefs of the mind, ſo that Chriſt was tormented both in ſoul and body.

[s] Thou haſt ſuffered me to be without all hope of life.

[t] Thus David complaineth, as though he were nailed by his enemies both hands and feet: but this was accompliſhed in Chriſt.

17 I may tell all my bones : yet they behold, and look upon me.

18 They part my garments among them, and caſt lots upon my veſture.

19 But be not thou far off, O Lord, my ſtrength : haſten to help me.

20 Deliver my ſoul from the ſword : my [u] deſolate ſoul from the power of the dog.

21 [w] Save me from the lion's mouth, and anſwer me in ſaving me from the horns of the unicorns.

* Heb. 2. 12. 22 * I will declare thy name unto my brethren : in the midſt of the congregation will I praiſe thee, ſaying, 23 [x] Praiſe the Lord, ye that fear him : magnify ye him, all the ſeed of Jacob, and fear ye him, all the ſeed of Iſrael.

24 For he hath not deſpiſed nor abhorred the affliction of the [y] poor : neither hath he hid his face from him, but when he called unto him, he heard.

25 My praiſe ſhall be of thee in the great congregation : my [z] vows will I perform before them that fear him.

26 [a] The poor ſhall eat and be ſatisfied : they that ſeek after the Lord, ſhall praiſe him : your heart ſhall live for ever.

27 All the ends of the world ſhall remember themſelves, and turn to the Lord : and all the kindreds of the nations ſhall worſhip before thee.

28 For the kingdom is the Lord's, and he ruleth among the nations.

29 All they that be fat [b] in the earth, ſhall eat and worſhip : all they that go down into the duſt, ſhall bow before him, [c] even he that cannot quicken his own ſoul.

30 [d] Their ſeed ſhall ſerve him : it ſhall be counted unto the Lord for a generation.

31 They ſhall come, and ſhall declare his righteouſneſs unto a people that ſhall be born, becauſe he hath [e] done it.

[w] Chriſt is delivered with a more mighty deliverance by overcoming death, than if he had not taſted death at all.

[x] He promiſeth to exhort the Church, that they by his example might praiſe the Lord.

[y] The poor afflicted, are comforted by this example of David or Chriſt.

[z] Which were ſacrifices of thankgiving, which they offered by God's commandment, when they were delivered out of any great danger.

[a] He doth allude ſtill to the ſacrifice.

[b] Though the poor be firſt named, as ver. 26. yet the wealthy are not ſeparated from the grace of Chriſt's kingdom.

[c] In whom there is no hope that he ſhall recover life : ſo neither poor nor rich, quick nor dead, ſhall be rejected from his kingdom.

[d] Meaning, the poſterity, which the Lord keepeth as a ſeed to the church to continue his praiſe among men.

[e] That is, God hath fulfilled his promiſe.

[i] Though he were in danger of death as the ſheep that wandereth in the dark valley without his ſhepherd.

[k] Albeit his enemies ſought to deſtroy him, yet God delivereth him, and dealeth moſt liberally with him in deſpite of them.

[m] He ſetteth not his felicity in the pleaſures of this world, but in the fear and ſervice of God,

[n] He noteth two things : the one, that the earth to man's judgment ſeemeth above the waters : and next, that God miraculouſly preſerveth the earth, that it is not drowned with the waters, which naturally are above it.

[o] Though circumciſion ſeparate the carnal ſeed of Jacob from the Gentiles, yet he that ſeeketh God, is the true Jacob and the very Iſraelite.

[p] David deſireth the building up of the temple, wherein the glory of God ſhould appear, and under the figure of this temple, he alſo prayeth for the ſpiritual temple, which is eternal, becauſe of the promiſe which was made to the temple, as it is written, Pſal. 132. 14.

yourſelves, ye everlaſting doors, and the King of glory ſhall come in.

10 Who is this King of glory? the Lord of hoſts, he is the King of glory. Selah.

PSALM XXV.

1 The prophet touched with the conſideration of his ſins, and alſo grieved with the cruel malice of his enemies, 6 prayeth to God moſt fervently to have his ſins forgiven, 7 eſpecially ſuch as he had committed in his youth. He beginneth every verſe according to the Hebrew letters, two or three except.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

UNTO thee, [q] O Lord, lift I up my ſoul.

2 My God, I [r] truſt in thee: let me not be confounded: let not mine enemies rejoice over me.

* Iſa. 28. 6. Rom. 10. 11.

3 * So all that hope in thee ſhall not be aſhamed: but let them be confounded, that tranſgreſs without cauſe.

4 [s] Shew me thy ways, O Lord, and teach me thy paths.

5 Lead me forth in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my ſalvation: in thee do I truſt all [t] the day.

6 Remember, O Lord, thy tender mercies, and thy loving kindneſs: for they have been for ever.

7 Remember not the [u] ſins of my youth, nor my rebellions, but according to thy kindneſs remember thou me, even for thy goodneſs ſake, O Lord.

8 Gracious and righteous is the Lord: therefore will he [w] teach ſinners in the way.

9 Them that be meek will [x] he guide in judgment, and teach the humble his way.

10 All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth unto ſuch as keep his covenant and his teſtimonies.

11 For thy [y] name's ſake, O Lord, be merciful unto mine iniquity, for it is great.

12 What [z] man is he that feareth the Lord? him will he teach the way that he ſhall [a] chuſe.

13 His ſoul ſhall dwell at [b] eaſe, and his ſeed ſhall inherit the land.

14 The [c] ſecret of the Lord is revealed to them that fear him: and his covenant to give them underſtanding.

15 Mine eyes are ever toward the Lord: for he will bring my feet out of the net.

16 Turn thy face unto me, and have mercy upon me: for I am deſolate and poor.

17 The ſorrows of mine heart [d] are enlarged: draw me out of my troubles.

18 Look upon mine affliction and my travail, and forgive all my ſins.

19 Behold, mine [e] enemies, for they are many, and they hate me with cruel hatred.

20 Keep my ſoul, and deliver me: let me not be confounded, for I truſt in thee.

21 Let [f] mine uprightneſs and equity preſerve me: for mine hope is in thee.

22 Deliver Iſrael, O God, out of all his troubles.

PSALM XXVI.

1 David oppreſſed with many injuries, finding no help in the world, calleth for aid from God: and aſſured of his integrity toward Saul, deſireth God to be his judge, and to defend his innocency. 6 Finally, he maketh mention of his ſacrifice, which he will offer for his deliverance, and deſireth to be in the company of the faithful, in the congregation of God, whence he was baniſhed by Saul, promiſing integrity of life, and open praiſes and thankſgivings.

A Pſalm of David.

JUDGE me, [g] O Lord, for I have walked in mine innocency: my truſt hath been alſo in the Lord: therefore ſhall I not ſlide.

2 Prove me, O Lord, and try me: examine my [h] reins, and mine heart.

3 For thy [i] loving kindneſs is before mine eyes: therefore have I walked in thy truth.

4 I have not [k] haunted with vain perſons, neither kept company with the diſſemblers.

5 I have hated the aſſembly of the evil, and have not companied with the wicked.

6 I will [l] waſh mine hands in innocency, O Lord, and compaſs thine altar,

7 That I may declare with the voice of thankſgiving, and ſet forth all thy wondrous works.

8 O Lord, I have loved the habitation of thine houſe, and the place where thine honour dwelleth.

9 [m] Gather not my ſoul with the ſinners, nor my life with the bloody men:

10 In whoſe hand is [n] wickedneſs, and their right hand is full of bribes.

11 But I will walk in mine innocency: redeem me, therefore, and be merciful unto me.

12 My foot ſtandeth in [o] uprightneſs: I will praiſe thee, O Lord, in the congregations.

[q] I put not my truſt in any worldly thing.

[r] That thou wilt take away mine enemies, which are thy rods.

[s] Retain me in the faith of thy promiſe, that I ſwerve not on any ſide.

[t] Conſtantly and againſt all temptations.

[u] He confeſſeth that his manifold ſins were the cauſe that his enemies did thus perſecute him, deſiring that the cauſe of the evil may be taken away, to the intent that the effect may ceaſe.

[w] That is, call them to repentance.

[x] He will govern and comfort them that are truly humbled for their ſins.

[y] And for none other reſpect.

[z] Meaning, the number is very ſmall.

[a] He will direct ſuch with his Spirit to follow the right way.

[b] He ſhall proſper both in ſpiritual and corporal things.

[c] His counſel contained in his word, whereby he declareth that he is the protector of the faithful.

[d] My grief is increaſed becauſe of mine enemies cruelty.

[e] The greater that his afflictions were, and the more that his enemies increaſed, the more near felt he God's help.

[f] Foraſmuch as I have behaved myſelf uprightly toward mine enemies, let them know that thou art the defender of my juſt cauſe.

[g] He fleeth to God to be the judge of his juſt cauſe, ſeeing there is no equity among men.

[h] My very affections, and inward motions of the heart.

[i] He ſheweth what ſtayed him, that he did not recompenſe evil for evil.

[k] He declareth that they cannot walk in ſimplicity before God, that delight in the company of the ungodly.

[l] I will ſerve thee with a pure affection, and with the godly that ſacrifice unto thee.

[m] Deſtroy me not in the overthrow of the wicked.

[n] Whoſe cruel hands do execute the malicious devices of their hearts.

[o] I am preſerved from mine enemies by the power of God, and therefore will praiſe him openly.

PSALM XXVII.

1 David maketh this Pſalm, being delivered from great perils, as appeareth by the praiſes and thankſgivings annexed: 6 Wherein we may ſee the conſtant faith of David againſt the aſſaults of all his enemies, 7 and alſo the end wherefore he deſireth to live and to be delivered, only to worſhip God in his congregation.

A Pſalm of David.

THE Lord is my [p] light and my ſalvation, whom ſhall I fear? the Lord is the ſtrength of my life, of whom ſhall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, came upon me to eat my fleſh, they ſtumbled and fell.

3 Though an hoſt pitched againſt me, mine heart ſhould not be afraid: though war be raiſed againſt me, I will truſt [q] in this.

4 [r] One thing have I deſired of the Lord, that I will require, even that I may dwell in the houſe of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to viſit his temple.

5 For in the time of trouble he ſhall hide me in his tabernacle: in the ſecret place of his pavilion ſhall he hide me, and ſet me up upon a rock.

6 [s] And now ſhall he lift up my head above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle ſacrifices of joy: I will ſing and praiſe the Lord.

7 Hearken unto my voice, O Lord, when I cry: have mercy alſo upon me, and hear me.

8 When thou ſaidſt, [t] Seek ye my face, mine heart anſwered unto thee, O Lord, I will ſeek thy face.

9 Hide not therefore thy face from me, nor caſt thy ſervant away in diſpleaſure: thou haſt been my ſuccour: leave me not, neither forſake me, O God of my ſalvation.

10 [u] Though my father and my mother ſhould forſake me, yet the Lord will gather me up.

11 Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a right path, becauſe of mine enemies.

12 Give me not unto the [x] luſt of mine adverſaries: for there are falſe witneſſes riſen up againſt me, and ſuch as ſpeak cruelly.

13 I ſhould have fainted, except I had believed to ſee the goodneſs of the Lord [y] in the land of the living.

14 [z] Hope in the Lord: be ſtrong, and he ſhall comfort thine heart, and truſt in the Lord.

PSALM XXVIII.

1 Being in great fear and heavineſs of heart to ſee God diſhonoured by the wicked, he deſireth to be rid of them, 4 and crieth for vengeance againſt them, and at length aſſureth himſelf that God hath heard his prayer: 9 Unto whoſe tuition he commendeth all the faithful.

A Pſalm of David.

UNTO thee, O Lord, do I cry: O my ſtrength, be not deaf toward me, leſt, if thou anſwer me not, I be [a] like them that go down into the pit.

2 Hear the voice of my petitions, when I cry unto thee, when I hold up mine hands toward thine [b] holy oracle.

3 [c] Draw me not away with the wicked, and with the workers of iniquity: which ſpeak friendly to their neighbours, when malice is in their hearts.

4 [d] Regard them according to their deeds, and according to the wickedneſs of their inventions: recompenſe them after the work of their hands: render them their reward.

5 For they regard not the works of the Lord, nor the operation of his hands: therefore [e] break them down, and build them not up.

6 [f] Praiſed be the Lord, for he hath heard the voice of my petitions.

7 The Lord is my ſtrength and my ſhield, mine heart truſted in him, and I was helped: therefore mine heart ſhall rejoice, and with my ſong will I praiſe him.

8 The Lord is [g] their ſtrength, and he is the ſtrength of the deliverance of his anointed.

9 Save thy people, and bleſs thine inheritance: feed them alſo, and exalt them for ever.

PSALM XXIX.

1 The prophet exhorteth the princes and rulers of the world, (which for the moſt part think there is no God) 3 at the leaſt to fear him for the thunders and tempeſts, for fear whereof all creatures tremble. 11 And though thereby God threateneth ſinners, yet is he always merciful to his, and moveth them thereby to praiſe his name.

A Pſalm of David.

GIVE unto the Lord, ye [h] ſons of the mighty, give unto the Lord glory and ſtrength.

2 Give unto the Lord glory due unto his name: worſhip the Lord in his glorious ſanctuary.

3 The [i] voice of the Lord is upon the waters:

---

[p] Becauſe he was aſſured of good ſucceſs in all his dangers, and that his ſalvation was ſurely laid up in God, he feared not the tyranny of his enemies.

[q] That God will deliver me, and give my faith the victory.

[r] The loſs of country, wife, and all worldly commodities, grieve me not in reſpect of this one thing, that I may not praiſe thy name in the midſt of the congregation.

[s] David aſſured himſelf by the ſpirit of prophecy, that he ſhould overcome his enemies, and ſerve God in his tabernacle.

[t] He groundeth upon God's promiſe, and ſheweth, that he is moſt willing to obey his commandment.

[u] He magnifieth God's love toward his, which far paſſeth the moſt tender love of parents towards their children.

[y] In this preſent life before I die, as Iſa. 38. 11.

[z] He exhorteth himſelf to depend on the Lord, ſeeing he never failed in his promiſes.

[a] He counteth himſelf as a dead man, till God ſhew his favour toward him, and grant him his petition.

[b] He uſed this outward means to help the weakneſs of his faith: for in that place was the ark, and there God promiſed to ſhew the tokens of his favour.

[c] Deſtroy not the good with the bad.

[d] He thus prayeth in reſpect of God's glory, and not for his own cauſe, being aſſured that God would puniſh the perſecutors of his church.

[e] Let them be utterly deſtroyed, as Mal. 1. 4.

[f] Becauſe he felt the aſſurance of God's help in his heart, his mouth was opened to ſing his praiſes.

[g] Meaning, his ſoldiers, who were as means by whom God declared his power.

[h] He exhorteth the proud tyrants to humble themſelves under God's hand, and not to be inferior to brute beaſts and dumb creatures.

[i] The thunder-claps that are heard out of the clouds ought to make the wicked to tremble for fear of God's anger.

the God of glory maketh it to thunder: the Lord is upon the great waters.

4 The voice of the Lord is mighty: the voice of the Lord is glorious.

5 The [k] voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars: yea, the Lord breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

6 He maketh them alſo to leap like a calf: Lebanon alſo and [l] Shirion like a young unicorn.

7 The voice of the Lord divideth the [m] flames of fire.

8 The voice of the Lord maketh the wilderneſs to tremble: the Lord maketh the wilderneſs of [n] Kadeſh to tremble.

9 The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to [o] calve, and [p] diſcovereth the foreſts, therefore in his [q] temple doth every man ſpeak of his glory.

10 The Lord ſitteth upon the [r] flood, and the Lord doth remain king for ever.

11 The Lord ſhall give ſtrength unto his people: the Lord ſhall bleſs his people with peace.

PSALM XXX.

1 When David was delivered from great danger, he rendered thanks to God, exhorting others to do the like; and to learn by his example, that God is rather merciful than ſevere and rigorous towards his children: 7 And alſo that the fall from proſperity to adverſity is ſudden. 8 This done, he returneth to prayer, promiſing to praiſe God for ever.

* Deut. 20.5.

¶ * A Pſalm, or ſong of the * dedication of the [s] houſe of David.

I WILL magnify thee, O Lord: for thou [t] haſt exalted me, and haſt not made my foes to rejoice over me.

2 O Lord my God, I cried unto thee, and thou haſt [u] reſtored me.

3 O Lord, thou haſt brought my [w] ſoul out of the grave: thou haſt revived me from them that go down into the pit.

4 Sing praiſes unto the Lord, ye [x] his ſaints, and give thanks [y] before the remembrance of his holineſs.

* Pſ. 122. 1. Iſa. 54 8. 2 Cor. 4 17.

5 * For he endureth but a while in his anger: but in his favour is life: weeping may abide at evening, but joy cometh in the morning.

6 And in my [z] proſperity I ſaid, I ſhall never be moved:

7 For thou, Lord, of thy goodneſs hadſt made my [a] mountain to ſtand ſtrong: but thou didſt hide thy face, and I [b] was troubled.

8 Then cried I unto thee, O Lord, and prayed to my Lord.

9 What profit is there in my blood, when I go down to the pit? ſhall the [c] duſt give thanks unto thee? or ſhall it declare thy truth?

10 Hear, O Lord, and have mercy upon me: Lord, be thou mine helper.

11 Thou haſt turned my mourning into joy: thou haſt looſed my ſack, and girded me with gladneſs.

12 Therefore ſhall my [d] tongue praiſe thee, and not ceaſe: O Lord my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever.

PSALM XXXI.

1 David, delivered from ſome great danger, firſt rehearſeth what meditation he had by the power of faith, when death was before his eyes, his enemy being ready to take him. 15 Then he affirmeth, that the favour of God is always ready to thoſe that fear him. 20 Finally, he exhorteth all the faithful to truſt in God, and to love him, becauſe he preſerveth and ſtrengtheneth them, as they may ſee by this example.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalm of David.

* Pſalm 71. 1.

IN * thee, O Lord, have I put my truſt: let me never be confounded: deliver me in thy [e] righteouſneſs.

2 Bow down thine ear to me: make haſte to deliver me: be unto me a ſtrong rock, and an houſe of defence to ſave me.

3 For thou art my rock and my fortreſs: therefore for thy name's ſake direct me and guide me.

4 Draw me out of the [f] net that they have laid privily for me: for thou art my ſtrength.

5 Into thine [g] hand I commend my ſpirit: for thou haſt redeemed me, O Lord God of truth.

6 I have hated them that give themſelves to deceitful vanities: for I [h] truſt in the Lord.

7 I will be glad and rejoice in thy mercy: for thou haſt ſeen my trouble: thou haſt known my ſoul in adverſities,

8 And thou haſt not ſhut me up in the hand of the enemy, but haſt ſet my feet at [i] large.

9 Have mercy upon me, O Lord: for I am in trouble: mine [k] eye, my ſoul and my belly, are conſumed with grief.

10 For my life is waſted with heavineſs, and my years with mourning: my ſtrength faileth for my pain: and my bones are conſumed.

[a] I thought thou hadſt eſtabliſhed me in Zion moſt ſurely.

[b] After that thou hadſt withdrawn thine help, I felt my miſery.

[c] David meaneth that the dead are not profitable to the congregation of the Lord here on earth: therefore he would live to praiſe his name, which is the end of man's creation.

[d] Becauſe thou haſt preſerved me, that my tongue ſhould praiſe thee, I will not be unmindful of my duty.

[e] For then God declareth himſelf juſt, when he preſerveth his according as he hath promiſed.

[f] Preſerve me from the crafty counſels and ſubtil practices of mine enemies.

[g] He deſireth God not only to take care for him in this life, but that his ſoul may be ſaved after this life.

[h] This affection ought to be in all God's children, to hate whatſoever thing is not grounded upon a ſure truſt in God, as deceitful and vain.

[i] Largeneſs ſignifieth comfort, as ſtraitneſs ſorrow and peril.

12 I am forgotten, as a dead man out of mind: I am like a broken veſſel.

13 For I have heard the railing [n] of great men: fear was on every ſide, while they conſpired together againſt me, and conſulted to take my life.

14 But I truſted in thee, O Lord: I ſaid, [o] Thou art my God.

15 My [p] times are in thine hand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from them that perſecute me.

16 Make thy face to ſhine upon thy ſervant, and ſave me through thy mercy.

17 Let me not be confounded, O Lord: for I have called upon thee: let the wicked be put to confuſion, and [q] to ſilence in the grave.

18 Let the lying lips be made dumb, which cruelly, proudly, and ſpitefully ſpeak againſt the righteous.

19 How great is thy goodneſs, which thou [r] haſt laid up for them that fear thee! and done to them that truſt in thee, even before the ſons of men!

23 Love ye the Lord, all his ‡ ſaints: for the Lord preſerveth the faithful, and rewardeth abundantly the proud doer.

‡ Or, ye that feel his mercies.

24 All ye that truſt in the Lord, be [w] ſtrong, and he ſhall eſtabliſh your heart.

PSALM XXXII.

1 David, puniſhed with grievous ſickneſs for his ſins, counteth them bleſſed to whom God doth not impute their tranſgreſſions: 5 and after that he had confeſſed his ſins, and obtained pardon, 6 he exhorteth the wicked men to live godly, 11 and the good to rejoice.

¶ A Pſalm of David, to give [x] inſtruction.

PSALM XXXIII.

I WILL [w] alway give thanks unto the Lord: his praiſe ſhall be in my mouth continually.

2 My ſoul ſhall glory in the Lord: the [x] humble ſhall hear it, and be glad.

3 Praiſe ye the Lord with me, and let us magnify his name together.

4 I ſought the Lord, and he heard me: yea, he delivered me out of all my [y] fear.

5 They [z] ſhall look unto him, and run to him: and their faces ſhall not be aſhamed, ſaying,

6 This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him, and ſaved him out of all his troubles.

7 The [a] angel of the Lord pitcheth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.

8 Taſte ye, and ſee how gracious the Lord is: bleſſed is the man that truſteth in him.

9 Fear the Lord, ye his ſaints: for nothing wanteth to them that fear him.

10 The [b] lions do lack, and ſuffer hunger: but they which ſeek the Lord, ſhall [c] want nothing that is good.

11 Come, children, hearken unto me: I will teach you the [d] fear of the Lord.

12 * What man is he that deſireth life, and loveth long days for to [e] ſee good? * 1 Pet. 3.

13 Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips, that they ſpeak no guile.

14 Eſchew evil, and do good: ſeek peace, and follow after it.

15 The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry.

16 But the [f] face of the Lord is againſt them that do evil, to cut off their remembrance from the earth.

17 The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth them, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.

18 The Lord is near unto them that are of a [g] contrite heart, and will ſave ſuch as be afflicted in ſpirit.

19 Great are the troubles of the righteous, but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.

20 [h] He keepeth all his bones: not one of them is broken:

21 But

---

[k] That is, counſel or commandment in governing the world.

[l] That is, the effect and execution.

[m] Howſoever the world judgeth of God's works, yet he doth all things according to juſtice and mercy.

[n] By the creation of the heavens and beautiful ornament, with the gathering alſo of the waters, he ſetteth forth the power of God, that all creatures might fear him.

[o] No counſel can prevail againſt God, but he defeateth it, and it ſhall have evil ſucceſs.

[p] He ſheweth that all our felicity ſtandeth in this, that the Lord is our God.

[q] He proveth, that all things are governed by God's providence, and not by fortune.

[r] Therefore he knoweth their wicked enterpriſes.

[s] If kings and the mighty of the world cannot be ſaved by worldly means, but only by God's providence, what have others to truſt in that have not like means?

[t] God ſheweth that toward his of his mercy, which man by no means is able to compaſs.

[u] Thus he ſpeaketh in the name of the whole church, which only depend on God's providence.

[w] He promiſeth never to become unmindful of God's great benefit for his deliverance.

[x] They that are beaten down with the experience of their own evils.

[y] Which I conceived for the danger wherein I was.

[z] They ſhall be bold to flee to thee for ſuccour, when they ſhall ſee thy mercies toward me.

[a] Though God's power be ſufficient to govern us, yet for man's infirmity he appointeth his angels to watch over us.

[b] The godly, by their patient obedience, profit more than they which ravin and ſpoil.

[c] If they abide the laſt trial.

[d] That is, the true religion and worſhip of God.

[e] Seeing all men naturally deſire felicity, he wondereth why they caſt themſelves willingly into miſery.

[f] The anger of God doth not only deſtroy the wicked, but alſo aboliſheth their name for ever.

[g] When they ſeemed to be ſwallowed up with afflictions, then God is at hand to deliver them.

[h] And as Chriſt ſaith, all the hairs of his head.

21 But malice ſhall ſlay the [i] wicked: and they that hate the righteous ſhall periſh.

22 The Lord [k] redeemeth the ſouls of his ſervants: and none that truſt in him ſhall periſh.

PSALM XXXV.

1 So long as Saul was enemy to David, all that had any authority under him, to flatter their king (as is the courſe of the world) did alſo moſt cruelly perſecute David, againſt whom he prayeth God to plead and to avenge his cauſe, 8 That they may be taken in their nets and ſnares which they laid for him, that his innocency may be declared, 27 And that the innocent which taketh part with him, may rejoice and praiſe the name of the Lord, that thus delivereth his ſervant: 28 And ſo he promiſeth to ſpeak forth the juſtice of the Lord, and to magnify his name all the days of his life.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

PLEAD thou my [l] cauſe, O Lord, with them that ſtrive with me: fight thou againſt them that fight againſt me.

2 [m] Lay hand upon the ſhield and buckler, and ſtand up for mine help.

3 Bring out alſo the ſpear, and ſtop the way againſt them that perſecute me: ſay unto my [n] ſoul, I am thy ſalvation.

4 Let them be confounded and put to ſhame, that ſeek after my ſoul: let them be turned back, and brought to confuſion, that imagine my hurt.

5 Let them be as chaff before the wind, and let the angel of the [o] Lord ſcatter them.

6 Let their way be dark and ſlippery: and let the angel of the Lord perſecute them.

7 For [p] without cauſe they have hid the pit and their net for me: without cauſe they have digged a pit for my ſoul.

8 Let deſtruction come upon [q] him at unawares, and let his net that he hath laid privily, take him: let him fall into [r] the ſame deſtruction.

9 Then my ſoul ſhall be joyful in the Lord: it ſhall rejoice in his ſalvation.

10 All my [s] bones ſhall ſay, Lord, Who is like unto thee, which delivereſt the poor from him that is too ſtrong for him! yea, the poor and him that is in miſery from him that ſpoileth him!

11 [t] Cruel witneſſes did riſe up: they aſked of things that I knew not.

12 They rewarded me evil for good, to [u] have ſpoiled my ſoul.

13 Yet I, when they were ſick, I was cloathed with a ſack: I humbled my ſoul with faſting, and my [w] prayer was turned upon my boſom.

14 I behaved myſelf as to my friend, or as to my brother: I humbled myſelf, mourning as one that bewaileth his mother.

15 But in mine [x] adverſity they rejoiced, and gathered themſelves together: the abjects aſſembled themſelves againſt me: and I knew not: they tare [y] me, and ceaſed not.

16 With the falſe ſcoffers at [z] banquets, gnaſhing their teeth againſt me.

17 Lord, how long wilt thou behold this? deliver my ſoul from their tumult, even my deſolate ſoul from the lions.

18 So will I give thee thanks in a great congregation: I will praiſe thee among much people.

19 Let not them that are mine enemies, unjuſtly rejoice over me, neither let them [a] wink with the eye, that hate me without a cauſe.

20 For they ſpeak not as friends: but they imagine deceitful words againſt the ‡ quiet of the land.

‡Or, clefts of the earth meaning, himſelf and others in their miſery.

21 And they gaped upon me with their mouths, ſaying, Aha, aha, [b] our eye hath ſeen.

22 Thou haſt ſeen it, O Lord: keep not ſilence: be not far from me, O Lord.

23 Ariſe and wake to my judgment, even to my cauſe, my God, and my Lord.

24 Judge me, O Lord my God, according to thy [c] righteouſneſs, and let them not rejoice over me.

25 Let them not ſay in their hearts, [d] O our ſoul, rejoice: neither let them ſay, We have devoured him.

26 Let them be confounded, and put to ſhame [e] together, that rejoice at mine hurt: let them be cloathed [f] with confuſion and ſhame that lift up themſelves againſt me.

27 But let them be joyful and glad [g] that love my righteouſneſs: yea, let them ſay alway, Let the Lord be magnified, which loveth the [h] proſperity of his ſervant.

28 And my tongue ſhall utter thy righteouſneſs, and thy praiſe every day.

---

[i] Their wicked enterpriſes ſhall turn to their own deſtruction.

[k] For when they ſeem to be overcome with great danger and death itſelf, then God ſheweth himſelf their Redeemer.

[l] He deſireth God to undertake his cauſe againſt them that did perſecute him and ſlander him.

[m] Albeit God can with his breath deſtroy all his enemies, yet the Holy Ghoſt attributeth unto him theſe outward weapons to aſſure us of his preſent power.

[n] Aſſure me againſt theſe temptations, that thou art the author of my ſalvation.

[o] Smite them with the ſpirit of giddineſs, that their enterpriſes may be fooliſh, and they receive juſt reward.

[p] Shewing, that we may not call God to be a revenger, but only for his glory, and when our cauſe is juſt.

[q] When he promiſeth to himſelf peace.

[r] Which he prepared againſt the children of God.

[s] He attributeth his deliverance only to God, praiſing him therefore both in ſoul and body.

[t] That would not ſuffer me to purge myſelf.

[u] To have taken from me all comfort, and brought me into deſpair.

[w] I prayed for them with inward affection, as I would have done for myſelf: or, I declared mine affection with bowing down mine head.

[x] When they ſaw me ready to ſlip, and as one that halted for infirmity.

[y] With their railing words.

[z] The word ſignifieth cakes, meaning, that the proud courtiers at their dainty feaſts ſcoff, rail, and conſpire his death.

[a] In token of contempt and mocking.

[b] They rejoiced as though they had now ſeen David overthrown.

[c] It is the juſtice of God, to give to the oppreſſors affliction and torment; and to the oppreſſed, aid and relief, 2 Theſſ. 1. 6.

[d] Becauſe we have that which we ſought for, ſeeing he is deſtroyed.

[e] That is, at once, were they never ſo many or mighty.

[f] This prayer ſhall always be verified againſt them that perſecute the faithful.

[g] That at leaſt favour my right, though they be not able to help me.

[h] He exhorteth the church to praiſe God for the deliverance of his ſervants, and for the deſtruction of his adverſaries.

PSALM XXXVI.

1 The prophet, grievouſly vexed by the wicked, doth complain of their malicious wickedneſs. 6 Then he turneth to conſider the unſpeakable goodneſs of God toward all creatures, 9 but ſpecially toward his children, that by the faith thereof he may be comforted and aſſured of his deliverance by this ordinary courſe of God's work, 13 who in the end deſtroyeth the wicked, and ſaveth the juſt.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

Wickedneſs ſaith to the wicked man, [i] even in mine heart, that there is no fear of God before his eyes.

2 For he [k] flattereth himſelf in his own eyes, while his iniquity is found worthy to be hated.

3 The words of his mouth are inquity and [l] deceit: he hath left off to underſtand and to do good.

4 He [m] imagineth miſchief upon his bed: he ſetteth himſelf upon a way that is not good, and doth not abhor evil.

† Heb. the mountains of of God: for whatſoever is excellent is thus called.

5 Thy [n] mercy, O Lord, reacheth unto the heavens, and thy faithfulneſs unto the clouds.

6 Thy righteouſneſs is like † the mighty mountains: thy judgments are like a great [o] deep: thou, Lord, doſt ſave man and beaſt.

7 How excellent is thy mercy, O God! therefore the children of men truſt under the ſhadow of thy wings.

8 They ſhall be [p] ſatisfied with the fatneſs of thine houſe, and thou ſhalt give them drink out of the river of thy pleaſures.

9 For with thee is the well of life, and in thy light ſhall we ſee light.

10 Extend thy loving kindneſs unto them that [q] know thee, and thy righteouſneſs unto them that are upright in heart.

11 Let not the [r] foot of pride come againſt me, and let not the hand of the wicked men move me.

12 [s] There they are fallen that work iniquity: they are caſt down, and ſhall not be able to riſe.

PSALM XXXVII.

1 This Pſalm containeth exhortation and conſolation for the weak, that are grieved at the proſperity of the wicked, and the affliction of the godly. 7 For how proſperouſly ſoever the wicked do live for the time, he doth affirm their felicity to be vain and tranſitory, becauſe they are not in the favour of God, but in the end they are deſtroyed as his enemies, 11 And how miſerably ſoever the righteous ſeemeth to live in the world, yet his end is peace, and he is in the favour of God, he is delivered from the wicked, and preſerved.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

Fret not [t] thyſelf becauſe of the wicked men, neither be envious for the evil doers.

2 For they ſhall ſoon be [u] cut down like graſs, and ſhall wither as the green herb.

3 [w] Truſt thou in the Lord, and do good: dwell in the land, and thou ſhalt be fed aſſuredly.

4 And delight thyſelf in the Lord, and he ſhall give thee thine heart's deſire.

5 [x] Commit thy way unto the Lord, and truſt in him, and he ſhall bring it to paſs.

6 And he ſhall bring forth thy righteouſneſs as the light, and thy [y] judgment as the noon day.

7 Wait patiently upon the Lord, and hope in him: fret not thyſelf for him [z] which proſpereth in his way: nor for the man that bringeth his enterpriſes to paſs.

8 Ceaſe from anger, and leave off wrath: fret not thyſelf [a] alſo to do evil.

9 For evil doers ſhall be cut off, and they that wait upon the Lord, they ſhall inherit the land.

10 [b] Therefore yet a little while, and the wicked ſhall not appear, and thou ſhalt look after his place, and he ſhall not be found.

11 But * meek men ſhall poſſeſs the earth, and ſhall have their delight in the multitude of peace. Matt. 12. 42.

12 [c] The wicked practiſeth againſt the juſt, and gnaſheth his teeth againſt him.

13 But the Lord ſhall laugh him to ſcorn; for he ſeeth that his day is coming.

14 The wicked have drawn their ſword, and have bent their bow, to caſt down the poor and needy, and to ſlay ſuch as be of upright converſation.

15 But their ſword ſhall enter into their own heart, and their bows ſhall be broken.

16 [d] A ſmall thing unto the juſt man is better than great riches to the wicked and mighty.

17 For the arms of the wicked ſhall be broken: but the Lord upholdeth the juſt men.

18 The Lord [e] knoweth the days of upright men, and their inheritance ſhall be perpetual.

9 They

[i] I ſee evidently by his deeds, that ſin puſheth forward the reprobate from wickedneſs to wickedneſs, albeit he goeth about to cover his impiety.

[k] Though all other deteſt his vile ſin, yet he himſelf ſeeth it not.

[l] The reprobates mock at wholeſome doctrine, and put not difference between good and evil.

[m] By deſcribing at large the nature of the reprobate, he admoniſheth the godly to beware of theſe vices.

[n] Though wickedneſs ſeemeth to overflow all the world, yet by thine heavenly providence thou governeſt heaven and earth.

[o] The depth of thy providence governeth all things, and diſpoſeth them, albeit the wicked ſeem to overwhelm the world.

[p] Only God's children have enough of all things both concerning this life, and the life to come.

[q] He ſheweth who are God's children, to wit, they that know him, and lead their lives uprightly.

[r] Let not the proud advance himſelf againſt me, neither the power of the wicked drive me away.

[s] That is, in their pride wherein they flatter themſelves.

[t] He admoniſheth us neither to vex ourſelves for the proſperous eſtate of the wicked, neither to deſire to be like them to make our ſtate the better.

[u] For God's judgment cutteth down their ſtate in a moment.

[w] To truſt in God, and do according to his will, are ſure tokens that his providence will never fail us.

[x] Be not led by thine own wiſdom, but obey God, and he will finiſh his work in thee.

[y] As the hope of the day-light cauſeth us not to be offended with the darkneſs of the night: ſo ought we patiently to truſt that God will clear our cauſe, and reſtore us to our right.

[z] When God ſuffereth the wicked to proſper, it ſeemeth to the fleſh that he favoureth their doings, Job 21. 7, &c.

[a] Meaning, except he moderate his affections, he ſhall be led to do as they do.

[b] He correcteth the impatiency of our nature, which cannot abide till the fulneſs of God's time be come.

[c] The godly are aſſured that the power and craft of the wicked ſhall not prevail againſt them, but fall on their own necks, and therefore ought patiently to abide God's time, and in the mean while bewail their ſins, and offer up their tears as a ſacrifice of their obedience.

[d] For they are daily fed, as with manna from heaven, and have ſufficient, when the wicked have never enough, but ever hunger.

[e] God knoweth what dangers hang over his, and by what means to deliver them.

19 They ſhall not be confounded in the perilous time, and in the days of famine they ſhall have [f] enough.

20 But the wicked ſhall periſh, and the enemies of the Lord ſhall be conſumed as the [g] fat of lambs: even with the ſmoke ſhall they conſume away.

21 The wicked borroweth and payeth not again: but the righteous is merciful and [h] giveth.

22 For ſuch as be bleſſed of God ſhall inherit the land, and they that be curſed of him ſhall be cut off.

23 [i] The paths of man are directed by the Lord: for he loveth his way.

24 Though he [k] fall, he ſhall not be caſt off, for the Lord putteth under his hand.

25 I have been young, and am old: yet I ſaw never the righteous forſaken, nor his [l] ſeed begging bread.

26 But he is ever merciful and lendeth, and his ſeed enjoyeth the bleſſing.

27 Flee from evil and do good, and dwell for ever.

28 For the Lord loveth judgment, and forſaketh not his ſaints: they ſhall be preſerved for evermore: but the ſeed of the wicked ſhall be cut off.

29 The righteous men ſhall inherit the land, and dwell therein [m] for ever.

30 The [n] mouth of the righteous will ſpeak of wiſdom, and his tongue will talk of judgment.

31 For the law of his God is in his heart, and his ſteps ſhall not ſlide.

32 The wicked watcheth the righteous, and ſeeketh to ſlay him.

33 But the Lord will not leave him in his hand, nor condemn him when he is [o] judged.

34 Wait thou on the Lord, and keep his way, and he ſhall exalt thee, that thou ſhalt inherit the land: when the wicked men ſhall periſh, thou ſhalt ſee.

35 I have ſeen the wicked ſtrong, and ſpreading himſelf like a green bay tree:

36 Yet he [p] paſſed away, and lo, he was gone, and I ſought him, but he could not be found.

37 [q] Mark the upright man, and behold the juſt: for the end of that man is peace.

38 But the tranſgreſſors ſhall be deſtroyed together, and the end of the wicked ſhall be cut off.

39 But the [r] ſalvation of the righteous men ſhall be of the Lord: he ſhall be their ſtrength in the time of trouble.

40 For the Lord ſhall help them, and deliver them: he ſhall deliver them from the wicked, and ſhall ſave them, becauſe they truſt in him.

PSALM XXXVIII.

1 David lying ſick of ſome grievous diſeaſe, acknowledgeth himſelf to be chaſtiſed of the Lord for his ſins, and therefore prayeth God to turn away his wrath. 5 He uttereth the greatneſs of his grief by many words and circumſtances, as wounded with the arrows of God's ire, forſaken of his friends, evil intreated of his enemies. 22 But in the end, with firm confidence he commendeth his cauſe to God, and hopeth for ſpeedy help at his hand.

¶ A Pſalm of David for [s] remembrance.

O Lord, rebuke me not in thine [t] anger, neither chaſtiſe me in thy wrath.

2 For thine [u] arrows have light upon me, and thine hand lieth upon me.

3 There is nothing ſound in my fleſh, becauſe of thine anger: neither is there reſt in my bones, becauſe of my [w] ſin.

4 For [x] mine iniquities are gone over mine head, and as a weighty burden they are too heavy for me.

5 My wounds are putrified, and corrupt, becauſe of [y] my fooliſhneſs.

6 I am bowed, and crooked very ſore: I go ‡ mourning all the day.

‡ Or, black as one that is disfigured and conſumed with ſickneſs.

7 For my reins are full of burning, and there is nothing ſound in my fleſh.

8 I am weakened and ſore broken: I [z] roar for the very grief of mine heart.

9 Lord, I pour my whole deſire before thee, and my ſighing is not hid from thee.

10 Mine heart † panteth: my ſtrength faileth me, and the light of mine eyes, even [a] they are not mine own.

† Heb. runneth about, or is toſſed to and fro: meaning, that he was deſtitute of all help and counſel.

11 My lovers and my friends ſtand aſide from my plague, and my [b] kinſmen ſtand afar off.

12 They alſo that ſeek after my life, lay ſnares, and they that go about to do me evil, talk wicked things, and imagine deceit continually.

13 But I as [c] a deaf man heard not, and am as a dumb man which openeth not his mouth.

14 Thus

[f] For God will give them contented minds, and that which ſhall be neceſſary.

[g] They ſhall vaniſh away ſuddenly: for they are fed for the day of ſlaughter.

[h] God ſo furniſheth him with his bleſſing, that he is able to help others.

[i] God proſpereth the faithful, becauſe they walk in his ways with an upright conſcience.

[k] When God doth exerciſe his faith with divers temptations.

[l] Though the juſt man die, yet God's bleſſings are extended to his poſterity; and though God ſuffer ſome juſt man to lack temporal benefits, yet he recompenſeth him with ſpiritual treaſures.

[m] They ſhall continually be preſerved under God's wings, and have at leaſt inward reſt.

[n] Theſe three points are required of the faithful, that their talk be godly, that God's law be in their heart, and that their life be upright.

[o] For though it be ſometime ſo expedient both for God's glory and their ſalvation, yet he will approve their cauſe, and revenge their wrong.

[p] So that the proſperity of the wicked is but as a cloud, which vaniſheth away in a moment.

[q] He exhorteth the faithful to mark diligently the examples both of God's mercies, and alſo of his judgments.

[r] He ſheweth that the patient hope of the godly is never in vain, but in the end hath good ſucceſs, though for a time God prove them by ſundry temptations.

[s] To put himſelf and others in mind of God's chaſtiſement for ſin.

[t] He deſireth not to be exempted from God's rod, but that he would ſo moderate his hand, that he might be able to bear it.

[u] Thy ſickneſs, wherewith thou haſt viſited me.

[w] David acknowledgeth God to be juſt in his puniſhments, becauſe his ſin had deſerved much more.

[y] That rather gave place to mine own luſts, than to the will of God.

[z] This example warneth us never to deſpair, be the torment never ſo great: but always to cry unto God with ſure truſt for deliverance.

[a] My ſight faileth me for very ſorrow.

[b] Partly for fear, and partly for pride, they denied all duty and friendſhip.

[c] For I can have no audience before men, and therefore patiently wait for the help of God.

14 Thus am I as a man that heareth not, and in whoſe mouth are no reproofs.

15 For on thee, O Lord, do I wait: thou wilt hear me, my Lord, my God.

16 For I ſaid, Hear me, leſt they rejoice over me, for [d] when my foot ſlippeth, they extol themſelves againſt me.

17 Surely I am ready to [e] halt, and my ſorrow is ever before him.

18 When I declare my pain, and am ſorry for my ſin,

19 Then mine [f] enemies are alive and are mighty, and they that hate me wrongfully are many.

20 They alſo that reward evil for good are mine adverſaries, becauſe I follow [g] goodneſs.

21 Forſake me not, O Lord: be not thou far from me, my God.

22 Haſte thee to help me, O my Lord, my [h] ſalvation.

PSALM XXXIX.

1 David uttereth with what great grief and bitterneſs of mind he was driven to theſe outrageous complaints of his infirmities. 2 For he confeſſeth that when he had determined ſilence, he broke forth yet into words that he would not, through the greatneſs of his grief. 4 Then he rehearſeth certain requeſts which taſte of the infirmity of man, 8 And mixeth with them many prayers: but all do ſhew a mind wonderfully troubled, that it may plainly appear how he did ſtrive mightily againſt death and deſperation.

¶ To the excellent muſician [i] Jeduthun.
A Pſalm of David.

I THOUGHT, [k] I will take heed to my ways, that I ſin not with my tongue: I will keep my mouth bridled while the wicked is in my ſight.

2 I was dumb and ſpake nothing: I kept ſilence even from good, [l] and my ſorrow was more ſtirred.

3 Mine heart was hot within me, and while I was muſing the fire kindled, and [m] I ſpake with my tongue, ſaying,

4 Lord, let me know mine end, and the meaſure of my days, what it is: let me know how long I have to live.

5 Behold, thou haſt made my days as an hand-breadth, and mine age as nothing in reſpect of thee: ſurely, every man in his beſt ſtate is altogether [n] vanity. Selah.

6 Doubtleſs, man walketh in a ſhadow, and diſquieteth himſelf in vain: he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who ſhall gather them.

7 And now, Lord, what wait I for? mine hope is even in thee.

8 Deliver me from all my tranſgreſſions, and make me not a rebuke unto the [o] fooliſh.

9 I ſhould have been dumb, and not have opened my mouth, becauſe [p] thou didſt it.

10 Take thy plague away from me: for I am conſumed by the ſtroke of thine hand.

11 When thou with rebukes doſt chaſtiſe man for iniquity, thou as a moth [q] makeſt his [r] beauty to conſume: ſurely every man is vanity. Selah.

12 Hear my prayer, O Lord, and hearken unto my cry: keep not ſilence at my tears, for for I am a ſtranger with thee, and a ſojourner, as all my fathers were.

13 Stay thine anger from me, that I may recover my ſtrength, [s] before I go hence, and be not.

PSALM XL.

1 David delivered from great danger, doth magnify and praiſe the grace of God for his deliverance, and commendeth his providence towards all mankind. 5 Then doth he promiſe to give himſelf wholly to God's ſervice, and ſo declareth how God is truly worſhipped. 14 Afterwards he giveth thanks, and praiſeth God: and having complained of his enemies, with good courage he calleth for aid and ſuccour.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

I WAITED [t] patiently for the Lord, and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry,

2 He brought me alſo out of the [u] horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and ſet my feet upon the rock, and ordered my goings.

3 And he hath put in my mouth a [w] new ſong of praiſe unto our God: many ſhall ſee it and fear, and ſhall truſt in the Lord.

4 Bleſſed is the man that maketh the Lord his truſt, and regardeth [x] not the proud, nor ſuch as turn aſide to lyes.

5 [y] O Lord my God, thou haſt made thy wonderful works ſo many, that none can count in order to thee thy thoughts towards us: I would declare, and ſpeak of them, but they are more than I am able to expreſs.

6 Sacri-

[d] That is, if they ſee that thou ſuccour me not in time, they will mock and triumph as though thou hadſt forſaken me.

[e] I am without hope to recover my ſtrength.

[f] In my greateſt miſery they moſt rejoice.

[g] He had rather have the hatred of all the world, than to fail in any part of his duty to Godward.

[h] Which art the author of my ſalvation: and this declareth that he prayed with ſure hope of deliverance.

[i] This was one of the chief ſingers, 1 Chron. 16. 41.

[k] Albeit he had appointed with himſelf patiently to have tarried God's leiſure, yet the vehemency of his pain cauſed him to break his purpoſe.

[l] Though when the wicked ruled, he thought to have kept ſilence, yet his zeal cauſed him to change his mind.

[m] He confeſſeth that he grudged againſt God, conſidering the greatneſs of his ſorrows, and the ſhortneſs of his life.

[n] Yet David offended in that, that he reaſoned with God, as though that he were too ſevere toward his weak creature.

[o] Make me not a mocking-ſtock to the wicked, wrap me not up with the wicked, when they are put to ſhame.

[p] Seeing my troubles came of thy providence, I ought to have endured them patiently.

[q] Though thine open plagues light not evermore upon them, yet thy ſecret curſe continually fretteth them.

[r] The word ſignifieth all that he deſireth, as health, force, ſtrength, beauty, and in whatſoever he hath delight, ſo that the rod of God taketh away all that is deſired in this world.

[s] For his ſorrow cauſed him to think that God would deſtroy him utterly: whereby we ſee how hard it is for the very ſaints to keep a meaſure in their words, when death and deſpair aſſail them.

[t] Though God deferred his help, yet he patiently abode till he was heard.

[u] He hath delivered me from moſt great dangers.

[w] That is, a ſpecial occaſion to praiſe him: for God's benefits are ſo many occaſions for us to praiſe his name.

[x] To follow their example, which he muſt needs do that ruſteth not only in the Lord.

[y] David goeth from one kind of God's favour, to the contemplation of his providence over all, and confeſſeth that his counſels towards us are far above our capacities: we cannot ſo much as tell them in order.

6 Sacrifice and offering thou didſt not deſire : (for [z] mine ears haſt thou prepared) burnt-offering and ſin-offering haſt thou not required.

7 [a] Then ſaid I, Lo, I come : for in the roll of the book it is written of me.

8 I deſired to do thy good will, O my God: yea, thy law is within mine heart.

9 I have declared thy righteouſneſs in the [b] great congregation: lo, I will not refrain my lips, O Lord, thou knoweſt.

10 I have not hid thy righteouſneſs within mine heart, but I have declared thy [c] truth and thy ſalvation : I have not concealed thy mercy and thy truth from the great congregation.

11 Withdraw not thou thy tender mercy from me, O Lord : let thy mercy and thy truth alway preſerve thee.

12 For innumerable troubles have compaſſed me : my ſins have taken ſuch hold upon me, that I am not able to look up : yea, they are more in number than the hairs of mine head : therefore mine heart hath [d] failed me.

13 Let it pleaſe thee, O Lord, to deliver me : make haſte, O Lord, to help me.

14 Let them be [e] confounded and put to ſhame together, that ſeek my ſoul to deſtroy it : let them be driven backward and put to rebuke that deſire mine hurt.

15 Let them be [f] deſtroyed for a reward of their ſhame, which ſay unto me, Aha, aha.

16 Let all them that ſeek thee, rejoice and be glad in thee : and let them that love thy ſalvation, ſay alway, [g] The Lord be praiſed.

17 Though I be poor and needy, the Lord thinketh on me: thou art mine helper and my deliverer : my God, make no tarrying.

PSALM XLI.

1 David being grievouſly afflicted, bleſſeth them that pity his caſe, 9 And complaineth of the treaſon of his own friends and familiars, as came to paſs in Judas, John 13. 18. After, he feeling the great mercies of God gently chaſtiſing him, and not ſuffering his enemies to triumph againſt him, 13 giveth moſt hearty thanks unto God.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

BLESSED is he that [h] judgeth wiſely of the poor : the Lord ſhall deliver him in the time of trouble.

2 The Lord will keep him, and preſerve him alive: he ſhall be bleſſed upon the earth, and thou wilt not deliver him unto the will of his enemies.

3 The Lord will ſtrengthen him upon the [i] bed of ſorrow : thou haſt turned all his [k] bed in his ſickneſs.

4 Therefore I ſaid, Lord have mercy upon me : heal my ſoul, for I have ſinned againſt thee.

5 Mine enemies [l] ſpeak evil of me, ſaying, When ſhall he die, and his name periſh ?

6 And if he come to ſee me, he ſpeaketh [m] lyes, but his heart heapeth iniquity within him, and when he cometh forth, he telleth it.

7 All they that hate me, whiſper together againſt me : even againſt me do they imagine mine hurt.

8 [n] A miſchief is light upon him, and he that lieth, ſhall no more riſe.

9 Yea, my † familiar friend, whom I truſted, which did eat of my bread, [o] hath lifted up the heel againſt me.

† Heb. the man of my peace.

10 Therefore, O Lord, have mercy upon me, and raiſe me up : ſo I ſhall reward them.

11 By this I know that thou favoureſt me, becauſe mine enemy doth not triumph againſt me.

12 And as for me, thou upholdeſt me [p] in mine integrity, and doſt ſet me before thy [q] face for ever.

13 Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael world without end. [r] So be it, even ſo be it.

PSALM XLII.

1 The prophet grievouſly complaineth that being letted by his perſecutors, he could not be preſent in the congregation of God's people ; proteſting that although he was ſeparated in body from them, yet his heart was thitherward affectioned. 7 And laſt of all, he ſheweth that he was not ſo far overcome with theſe ſorrows and thoughts, 8 but that he continually put his confidence in the Lord.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalm to give inſtruction, [s] committed to the ſons of Korah.

AS the hart brayeth for the rivers of water, ſo [t] panteth my ſoul after thee, O God.

2 My ſoul thirſteth for God, even for the living God : when ſhall I come and appear before the preſence of God ?

3 [u] My tears have been my meat day and night, while they daily ſay unto me, Where is thy God ?

4 When I remembered [w] theſe things, I poured

---

[z] Thou haſt opened mine ears to underſtand the ſpiritual meaning of the ſacrifices: and here David eſteemeth the ceremonies of the law nothing in reſpect of the ſpiritual ſervice.

[a] When thou hadſt opened mine ears and heart, I was ready to obey thee, being aſſured that I was written in the book of thine elect for this end.

[b] In the church aſſembled in the ſanctuary.

[c] David here numbereth three degrees of our ſalvation : God's mercy, whereby he pitieth us : his righteouſneſs, which ſignifieth his continual protection : and his truth, whereby appeareth his conſtant favour : ſo that hereof proceedeth our ſalvation.

[d] As touching the judgment of the fleſh, I was utterly deſtitute of all counſel: yet faith inwardly moved my heart to pray.

[e] He deſireth that God's mercy may contend for him againſt the rage of his enemies.

[f] Let the ſame ſhame and confuſion light upon them, which they intended to have brought upon me.

[g] As the faithful always praiſe God for his benefits : ſo the wicked mock God's children in their afflictions.

[h] Not condemning him as accurſed, whom God doth viſit, knowing that there are divers cauſes why God layeth his hand upon us : yea, and afterward he reſtoreth us.

[i] When for ſorrow or grief of mind he caſteth himſelf upon his bed.

[k] Thou haſt reſtored him in his ſick bed, and ſent him comfort.

[l] That is, curſe me, and cannot have their cruel hate quenched but with my ſhameful death.

[m] For pretending to comfort me, he conſpireth my death in his heart, and braggeth thereof.

[n] The enemies thought by his ſharp puniſhments, that God was become his mortal enemy.

[o] As David felt this falſhood, and as it was chiefly accompliſhed in Chriſt, John 13. 18. ſo ſhall his members continually prove the ſame.

[p] Meaning, either in proſperity of life, or in the true fear of God, againſt all temptations.

[q] Shewing me evident ſigns of thy fatherly providence.

[r] By this repetition he ſtirreth up the faithful to praiſe God.

[s] As a treaſure to be kept of them, which were of the number of the Levites.

[t] By theſe ſimilitudes of thirſt and panting, he ſheweth his fervent deſire to ſerve God in his temple.

[u] As others take pleaſure in eating and drinking, ſo he was altogether given to weeping.

[w] That is, how I led the people to ſerve thee in thy tabernacle, and now ſeeing my contrary ſtate I die for ſorrow.

poured out my very heart, becauſe I had gone with the multitude, and led them into the houſe of God with the voice of ſinging and praiſe, as a multitude that keepeth a feaſt.

5 Why art thou caſt down, my ſoul, and unquiet within me? [x] wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks for the help of his preſence.

6 My God, my ſoul is caſt down within me, [y] becauſe I remember thee, from the land of Jordan, and Hermonin, and from the mount Miſar.

7 One [z] deep calleth another deep by the noiſe of the water-ſpouts: all thy waves and thy floods are gone over me.

8 The Lord [a] will grant his loving kindneſs in the day, and in the night ſhall I ſing of him, even a prayer unto the God of my life.

9 I will ſay unto God, which is my rock, Why haſt thou forgotten me? why go I mourning when the enemy oppreſſeth me?

10 My [b] bones are cut aſunder, while mine enemies reproach me, ſaying daily unto me, Where is thy God?

11 [c] Why art thou caſt down, my ſoul? and why art thou diſquieted within me? wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks: he is my preſent help, and my God.

PSALM XLIII.

1 He prayeth to be delivered from them which conſpire againſt him, that he might joyfully praiſe God in his holy congregation.

JUDGE[d] me, O God, and defend my cauſe againſt the unmerciful[e] people: deliver me from the deceitful and wicked man.

2 For thou art the God of my ſtrength: why haſt thou put me away? why go I ſo mourning when the enemy oppreſſeth me?

3 Send thy [f] light and thy truth: let them lead me: let them bring me unto thine holy mountain and to thy tabernacles.

4 Then [g] will I go unto the altar of God, even unto the God of my joy and gladneſs: and upon the harp will I give thanks unto thee, O God, my God.

5 Why art thou caſt down, my ſoul? and why art thou diſquieted within me? [h] wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks, he is my preſent help, and my God.

PSALM XLIV.

1 The faithful remember the great mercy of God toward his people. 9 After they complain, becauſe they feel it no more. 17 Alſo they alledge the covenant made with Abraham, for the keeping whereof they ſhew what grievous things they ſuffered. 23 Finally, they pray unto God not to contemn their affliction, ſeeing the ſame redoundeth to the contempt of his honour.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalm to give inſtruction, committed to the ſons of Korah.

WE have heard with our [i] ears, O God: our fathers have told us the works that thou haſt done in their days, in the old time:

2 How thou haſt driven out the [k] heathen with thine hand, and planted [l] them: how thou haſt deſtroyed the [m] people, and cauſed [n] them to grow.

3 For they inherited not the land by their own ſword, neither did their own arm ſave them: but thy right hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance, becauſe thou didſt [o] favour them.

4 Thou art my king, O God: ſend help unto [p] Jacob.

5 [q] Through thee have we thruſt back our adverſaries: by thy name have we trodden down them that roſe up againſt us.

6 For I do not truſt in my bow, neither can my ſword ſave me.

7 But thou haſt ſaved us from our adverſaries, and haſt put them to confuſion that hate us.

8 Therefore will we praiſe God continually, and will confeſs thy name for ever. Selah.

9 But now thou art far off, and putteſt us to [r] confuſion, and goeſt not forth with our armies.

10 Thou makeſt us to turn back from the adverſary, and they which hate us, ſpoil ‡ for themſelves.

11 * Thou giveſt us [s] as ſheep to be eaten, and doſt ſcatter us among the nations.

‡ Or, at their pleaſure.
* Rom. 8. 36.

12 Thou ſelleſt thy people [t] without gain, and doſt not increaſe their price.

13 Thou makeſt us a reproach to our neighbours, a jeſt and a laughing-ſtock to them that are round about us.

14 Thou

[x] Though he ſuſtained grievous aſſaults of the fleſh, to caſt him into deſpair, yet his faith, grounded on God's accuſtomed mercies, getteth the victory.

[y] That is, when I remember thee in this land of my baniſhment among the mountains.

[z] Afflictions came ſo thick upon me, that I felt myſelf as overwhelmed: whereby he ſheweth there is no end of our miſery, till God be pacified, and ſend remedy.

[a] He aſſureth himſelf of God's help in time to come.

[b] That is, I am moſt grievouſly tormented.

[c] This repetition doth declare that David did not over come at once: to teach us to be conſtant, foraſmuch as God will certainly deliver his.

[d] He deſireth God to undertake his cauſe againſt his enemies, but chiefly that hewould reſtore him to the tabernacle.

[e] That is, the cruel company of mine enemies.

[f] To wit, thy favour, which appeareth by the performance of thy promiſes.

[g] He promiſeth to offer a ſolemn ſacrifice of thankſgiving in token of his great deliverance.

[h] Whereby he admoniſheth the faithful not to relent, but conſtantly to wait on the Lord, though their troubles be long and great.

[i] This Pſalm ſeemeth to have been made by ſome excellent prophet for the uſe of the people, when the church was in extreme miſery, either at their return from Babylon, or under Antiochus, or in ſuch like affliction.

[k] That is, the Canaanites.

[m] Of Canaan.

[n] That is, our fathers.

[o] God's free mercy and love is the only fountain and beginning of the church, Deut. 4. 37.

[p] Becauſe thou art our king, therefore deliver thy people from their miſery.

[q] Becauſe they and their forefathers made both one church, they apply that to themſelves, which before they did attribute to their fathers.

[r] As they confeſſed before that their ſtrength came of God, ſo now they acknowledge that this affliction came by his juſt judgment.

[s] Knowing God to be the author of this calamity, they murmur not, but ſeek remedy at his hands, who wounded them.

[t] As ſlaves which are ſold for a low price; neither lookeſt thou for him that offereth moſt, but takeſt the firſt chapman.

14 Thou makeſt us a proverb among the nations, and a nodding of the head among the people.

15 My [u] confuſion is daily before me, and the ſhame of my face hath covered me.

16 For the voice of the ſlanderer and rebuker, for the enemy and [w] avenger.

17 All this is come upon us, yet do we not [x] forget thee, neither deal we falſly concerning thy covenant.

18 Our heart is not turned back, neither our ſteps gone out of thy paths.

19 Albeit thou haſt ſmitten us down into the place of ‡ dragons, and covered us with the ſhadow of death.

‡ Or, whales: meaning, the bottomleſs ſeas of temptation. Here we ſee the power of of faith, which can be overcome by no perils.

20 If we have forgotten the name of God, and holden up our hands to [y] a ſtrange god,

21 Shall not God [z] ſearch this out? for he knoweth the ſecrets of the heart.

22 Surely for thy ſake [a] are we ſlain continually, and are counted as ſheep for the ſlaughter.

23 Up, why ſleepeſt thou, O Lord? awake, be not far off for ever.

24 Wherefore hideſt thou thy face? and forgetteſt our miſery and our affliction?

25 For our ſoul is [b] beaten down unto the duſt: our belly cleaveth unto the ground.

26 Riſe up for our ſuccour, and redeem us for thy [c] mercies ſake.

15 With joy and gladneſs ſhall they be brought, and ſhall enter into the King's palace.

16 Inſtead of thy fathers ſhall thy [p] children be: thou ſhalt make them princes [q] through all the earth.

17 I will make thy [r] name to be remembered through all generations: therefore ſhall the people give thanks unto thee, world without end.

14 For this God is our God for ever and ever: he ſhall be our guide unto the death.

PSALM XLIX.

1 The Holy Ghoſt calleth all men to the conſideration of man's life, 7 ſhewing them not to be moſt bleſſed that are moſt wealthy, and therefore not to be feared: but contrariwiſe, he lifteth up our minds to conſider how all things are ruled by God's providence: 14 Who as he judgeth theſe worldly miſers to everlaſting torments, 15 ſo doth he preſerve his, and will reward them in the day of the reſurrection, 2 Theſſ. 1. 6.

¶ To him that excelleth.

A Pſalm committed to the ſons of Korah.

HEAR [u] this, all ye people: give ear, all ye that dwell in the world.

2 As well low as high, both rich and poor.

3 My mouth ſhall ſpeak of wiſdom, and the meditation of mine heart is of knowledge.

4 I will incline mine ear to a parable, and utter my grave matter upon the harp.

5 Wherefore ſhould [w] I fear in the evil days, when iniquity ſhall compaſs me about, as at mine heels?

6 They truſt in their [x] goods, and boaſt themſelves in the multitude of their riches.

7 Yet a man can by no means redeem his brother, he cannot give his ranſom to God,

8 (So [y] precious is the redemption of their ſouls [z], and the continuance for ever)

9 That he may live ſtill for ever, and not ſee the grave.

10 For he ſeeth that wiſe men [a] die, and alſo that the ignorant and fooliſh periſh, and leave their riches for [b] others.

11 Yet they think, their houſes and their habitations ſhall continue for ever, even from generation to generation, and ‡ call their lands by their names.

‡ Or, labour, that their name may be famous in earth.

12 But man ſhall not continue in honour: he is like the [c] beaſts that die.

13 This their way uttereth their fooliſhneſs, yet their poſterity [d] delight in their talk. Selah.

14 [e] Like ſheep they lie in the grave: [f] death devoureth them, and the righteous ſhall have domination over them in the [g] morning: for their beauty ſhall conſume, when they ſhall go from their houſe to the grave.

15 But God ſhall deliver my ſoul from the power of the grave: ‡ for he will receive me. Selah.

‡ Or, becauſe he hath received me.

16 Be not thou afraid when one is made rich, and when the glory of his houſe is increaſed.

17 * For he ſhall take nothing away when he dieth: neither ſhall his pomp deſcend after him.

* Job. 27. 19. 1 Tim. 6. 7.

18 For while he lived, † he rejoiced himſelf: and [h] men will praiſe thee, when thou makeſt much of thyſelf.

† Heb. he bleſſed his ſoul.

19 ‡ [i] He ſhall enter into the generation of his fathers, [k] and they ſhall not live for ever.

‡ Or, his ſoul.

20 Man is in honour, and [l] underſtandeth not: he is like to beaſts that periſh.

PSALM L.

1 Becauſe the church is alway full of hypocrites, 8 which do imagine that God will be worſhipped with outward ceremonies only, without the heart: and eſpecially the Jews were of this opinion, becauſe of their figures and ceremonies of the law, thinking that their ſacrifices were ſufficient, 21 therefore the prophet doth reprove this groſs error, and pronounceth the name of God to be blaſphemed, where holineſs is ſet in ceremonies, 23 for he declareth the worſhip of God to be ſpiritual, whereof are two principal parts, invocation, and thankſgiving.

¶ A Pſalm of [m] Aſaph.

THE God of gods, even the Lord hath ſpoken, and called the [n] earth from the riſing-up of the ſun unto the going-down thereof.

2 Out of Zion, which is the [o] perfection of beauty, hath God ſhined.

3 Our God ſhall come and ſhall not keep ſilence: [p] a fire ſhall devour before him, and a mighty tempeſt ſhall be moved round about him.

4 He

[q] To wit, of our fathers, ſo have we proved: or, God hath performed his promiſe.

[r] In all places where thy name ſhall be heard of, men ſhall praiſe thee when they hear of thy marvellous works.

[s] Let Jeruſalem and the cities of Judah rejoice for thy juſt judgments againſt thine enemies.

[t] For in this outward defence and ſtrength, God's bleſſings did alſo appear, but the chief is to be referred to God's favour and ſecret defence, who never leaveth his.

[u] He will intreat how God governeth the world by his providence, which cannot be perceived by the judgment of the fleſh.

[w] Though wickedneſs reign, and enemies rage, ſeeing God will execute his judgments againſt the wicked in time convenient.

[x] To truſt in riches is mere madneſs, ſeeing they can neither reſtore life, nor prolong it.

[y] That is, ſo rare, or not to be found, as propheſy was precious in the days of Eli, 1 Sam. 3. 1.

[z] Meaning, it is impoſſible to live for ever, alſo, that life and death are only in God's hands.

[a] In that death maketh no difference between the perſons.

[b] That is, not to their children, but to ſtrangers. Yet the wicked profit not by theſe examples, but ſtill dream an immortality on earth.

[c] As touching the death of the body.

[d] They ſpeak and do the ſame things that their fathers did.

[e] As ſheep are gathered into the fold, ſo ſhall they be brought to the grave.

[f] Becauſe they have no part of life everlaſting.

[g] Chriſt's coming is as the morning, when the elect ſhall reign with Chriſt their head over the wicked.

[h] The flatterers praiſe them that live in delights and pleaſures.

[i] And not paſs the term appointed for life.

[k] Both they and their fathers ſhall live here but a while, and at length die for ever.

[l] He condemneth man's ingratitude, who having received excellent gifts of God, abuſeth them like a beaſt to his own condemnation.

[m] Who was either the author, or a chief ſinger, to whom it was committed.

[n] To plead againſt his diſſembling people, before heaven and earth.

[o] Becauſe God had choſen it to have his name there called upon, and alſo his image ſhined there in the doctrine of the law.

[p] As when God gave his law in mount Sinai, he appeared terrible with thunder and tempeſt, ſo will he appear terrible to take account for the keeping thereof.

4 He ſhall call the heaven above, and the [q] earth to judge his people.

5 Gather my [r] ſaints together unto me, thoſe that make a covenant with me with [s] ſacrifice.

6 And the heavens ſhall declare his righteouſneſs: for God is judge himſelf. Selah.

7 Hear, O my people, and I will ſpeak: hear, O Iſrael, and I will teſtify unto thee: for I am God, even thy God.

8 I will not [t] reprove thee for thy ſacrifices, or thy burnt-offerings, that have not been continually before me.

9 I will take no bullock out of thine houſe, nor goats out of thy folds.

10 [u] For all the beaſts of the foreſt are mine, and the beaſts on a thouſand mountains.

11 I know all the fowls on the mountains: and the wild beaſts of the field are mine.

12 If I be hungry, I will not tell thee: for the world is mine, and all that therein is.

13 [w] Will I eat the fleſh of bulls? or drink the blood of goats.

14 Offer unto God praiſe, and [x] pay thy vows unto the moſt High.

15 And call upon me in the day of trouble: ſo will I deliver thee, and thou ſhalt glorify me.

16 But unto the wicked ſaid God, [y] What haſt thou to do to declare mine ordinances, that thou ſhouldeſt take my covenant in thy mouth,

17 Seeing thou hateſt [z] to be reformed, and haſt caſt my words behind thee?

18 For when thou ſeeſt a thief, [a] thou runneſt with him, and thou art partaker with the adulterers.

19 Thou giveſt thy mouth to evil, and with thy tongue thou forgeſt deceit.

20 Thou [b] ſitteſt, and ſpeakeſt againſt thy brother, aud ſlandereſt thy mother's ſon.

21 Theſe things thou haſt done, and I held my tongue: therefore thou thoughteſt that I was like thee: but I will reprove thee, and [c] ſet them in order before thee.

22 Oh conſider this, ye that forget God, leſt I tear you in pieces, and there be none that can deliver you.

23 He that offereth [d] praiſe, ſhall glorify me: and to him that [e] diſpoſeth his way aright, will I [f] ſhew the ſalvation of God.

PSALM LI.

1 When David was rebuked by the prophet Nathan, for his great offences, he did not only acknowledge the ſame to God with proteſtation of his natural corruption and iniquity, but alſo left a memorial thereof to his poſterity. 7 Therefore, firſt, he deſireth God to forgive his ſins, 10 and to renew in him his holy Spirit, 13 With promiſes that he will not be unmindful of thoſe great graces. 18 Finally, fearing, leſt God would puniſh the whole church for his fault, he requireth that he would rather increaſe his graces towards the ſame.

¶ To him that excelleth.

A Pſalm of David, when the prophet Nathan [g] came unto him after he had gone in to Bathſheba.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, [h] according to thy loving kindneſs: according to the multitude of thy compaſſions put away mine iniquities.

2 Waſh me [i] thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanſe me from my ſin.

3 For I [k] know mine iniquities, and my ſin is ever before me.

4 Againſt thee, againſt thee only have I ſinned, and done evil in thy ſight, that thou mayeſt be juſt when thou [l] ſpeakeſt, and pure when thou judgeſt.

5 Behold, I was born in iniquity, and in ſin hath my mother conceived me.

6 Behold, thou [m] loveſt truth in the inward affections: therefore haſt thou taught me wiſdom in the ſecret of mine heart.

7 Purge me with * hyſſop, and I ſhall be clean: waſh me, and I ſhall be whiter than ſnow. *Lev. 14. 6.

8 Make me to hear [n] joy and gladneſs, that the [o] bones which thou haſt broken may rejoice.

9 Hide thy face from my ſins, and put away all mine iniquities.

10 [p] Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right ſpirit within me.

11 Caſt me not away from thy preſence, and take not thine holy Spirit from me.

12 Reſtore to me the joy of thy ſalvation, and eſtabliſh me with thy [q] free Spirit.

13 Then ſhall I teach thy [r] ways unto the wicked, and ſinners ſhall be converted unto thee.

---

[q] [illegible] witneſſes againſt the hypocrites.

[r] God in reſpect of his elect calleth the whole body holy ſaints and his people.

[s] Which ſhould know that ſacrifices are ſeals of the covenant between God and his people, and not ſet religion therein.

[t] For I paſs not for ſacrifices except the true uſe be there, which is to confirm your faith in my promiſes.

[u] Though he did delight in ſacrifice, yet had he no need of man's help thereunto.

[w] Though man's life for the infirmity thereof hath need of food, yet God, whoſe life quickeneth all the world, hath no need of ſuch means.

[x] Shew thyſelf mindful of God's benefits by thankſgiving.

[y] Why doſt thou feign to be of my people, and talkeſt of my covenant, ſeeing thou art but an hypocrite?

[z] And to live according to my word!

[a] He ſheweth what are the fruits of them that contemn God's word.

[b] He noteth the cruelty of hypocrites, which ſpare not in their talk or judgment their own mother's ſon.

[c] I will write all thy wicked deeds in a roll, and make thee to read and acknowledge them whether thou wilt or no.

[d] Under the which is contained faith and invocation.

[e] As God hath appointed.

[f] That is, declare myſelf to be his Saviour.

[g] To reprove him becauſe he had committed ſo horrible ſins, and lien in the ſame without repentance more than a whole year.

[h] As his ſins were manifold and great, ſo he requireth that God would give him the feeling of his excellent and abundant mercies.

[i] My ſins ſtick ſo faſt in me, that I have need of ſome ſingular kind of waſhing.

[k] My conſcience accuſeth me, ſo that I can have no reſt till I be reconciled.

[l] When thou giveſt ſentence againſt ſinners, they muſt needs confeſs thee to be juſt, and themſelves ſinners.

[m] He confeſſeth that God, who loveth pureneſs of heart, may juſtly deſtroy man, who of nature is a ſinner, much more him whom he had inſtructed in his heavenly wiſdom.

[n] He meaneth God's comfortable mercies towards repentant ſinners.

[o] By the bones he underſtandeth all ſtrength of ſoul and body, which by cares and mourning are conſumed.

[p] He confeſſeth that when God's Spirit is cold in us, to have it again revived, is as a new creation.

[q] Which may aſſure me that I am drawn out of the ſlavery of ſin.

[r] He promiſeth to endeavour, that others by his example may turn to God.

14 Deliver me from [s] blood, O God, which art the God of my ſalvation, and my tongue ſhall ſing joyfully of thy righteouſneſs.

15 [t] Open thou my lips, O Lord, and my mouth ſhall ſhew forth thy praiſe.

16 For thou deſireſt no ſacrifice, though I would give it: thou delighteſt not in burnt offering.

17 The ſacrifices of God are a [u] contrite ſpirit: a contrite and a broken heart, O God, thou wilt not deſpiſe.

18 Be favourable unto [w] Sion for thy good pleaſure: build the walls of Jeruſalem.

19 Then ſhalt thou accept the ſacrifices of [x] righteouſneſs, even the burnt-offering and oblation: then ſhall they offer calves upon thine altar.

PSALM LII.

1 David deſcribeth the arrogant tyranny of his adverſary Doeg: who by falſe ſurmiſes cauſed Abimelech with the reſt of the prieſts to be ſlain. 5 David propheſieth his deſtruction, 6 and encourageth the faithful to put their confidence in God, whoſe judgments are moſt ſharp againſt his adverſaries. 9 And finally, he rendereth thanks to God for his deliverance. In this Pſalm is lively ſet forth the kingdom of Antichriſt.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David to give inſtruction. When Doeg the Edomite came and ſhewed Saul, and ſaid to him, David is come to the houſe of Ahimelech.

WHY boaſteth thou thyſelf in thy wickedneſs, O [y] man of power? the loving kindneſs of God endureth daily.

2 Thy tongue imagineth [z] miſchief, and is like a ſharp razor that cutteth deceitfully.

3 Thou doſt love evil more than good, and lyes more than to ſpeak the † truth. Selah. † Heb. righteouſneſs.

4 Thou loveſt all words that may deſtroy, O deceitful tongue!

5 So ſhall God [a] deſtroy thee for ever: he ſhall take thee, and pluck thee out of thy tabernacle, and [b] root thee out of the land of the living. Selah.

6 The [c] righteous alſo ſhall ſee it, and [d] fear, and ſhall laugh at him, ſaying,

7 Behold, the man that took not God for his ſtrength, but truſted unto the multitude of his riches, and put his ſtrength ‡ in his malice. ‡ Or, in his ſubſtance.

8 But I ſhall be like a green olive-tree in the houſe of God: for I truſted in the mercy of God for ever and ever.

9 I will alway praiſe thee, for that thou haſt done [f] this, and I will ‡ hope in thy name, becauſe it is good before thy ſaints. ‡ Or, wait upon thy grace and promiſe.

PSALM LIII.

1 He deſcribeth the crooked nature, 4 The cruelty, and puniſhment of the wicked, when they look not for it, 6 And deſireth the deliverance of the godly, that they may rejoice together.

¶ To him that excelleth on [g] Mahalath.
A Pſalm of David to give inſtruction.

THE fool hath ſaid in his heart, There is [h] no God: they have corrupted and done abominable wickedneſs: there is none that doeth good.

2 God looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to ſee if there were any that would underſtand, and [i] ſeek God.

3 * Every one is gone back: they are altogether corrupt: there is none that doeth good, no not one. * Rom. 3. 10.

4 Do not the [k] workers of iniquity know that they eat up my people as they eat bread? they call not upon God.

5 There they were afraid for fear, where no [l] fear was: for God hath ſcattered the [m] bones of him that beſieged thee: thou haſt put them to confuſion, becauſe God hath caſt them off.

6 Oh give ſalvation unto Iſrael out of Zion: when God turneth the captivity of his people, then Jacob ſhall rejoice, and Iſrael ſhall be glad.

PSALM LIV.

1 David brought into great danger by reaſon of the Ziphims, 5 calleth upon the name of God to deſtroy his enemies, 6 promiſing ſacrifice and free offerings for ſo great deliverance.

¶ To him that excelleth on Neginoth.
A Pſalm of David, to give inſtruction, when the Ziphims came and ſaid unto Saul, * Is not David hid among us? * 1 Sam. 23. 19.

SAVE me, O God, [n] by thy name, and by thy power judge me.

2 O God, hear my prayer: hearken unto the words of my mouth.

[u] Which is a wounding of the heart, proceeding of faith, which ſeeketh unto God for mercy.

[w] He prayeth for the whole church, becauſe through his ſin it was in danger of God's judgment.

[x] That is, juſt and lawful, applied to their right end, which is the exerciſe of faith and repentance.

[y] O Doeg, which haſt credit with the tyrant Saul, and haſt power to murder the ſaints of God?

[z] Thy malice moveth thee by crafty flatteries and lyes, to accuſe and deſtroy the innocents.

[a] Though God forbear for a time, yet at length he will recompenſe thy falſhood.

[b] Albeit thou ſeem to be never ſo ſure ſettled.

[c] For the eyes of the reprobate are ſhut up at God's judgments.

[h] Where no regard is had of honeſty or diſhoneſty of virtue nor of vice, there the prophet pronounceth that the people have no God.

[i] Whereby he condemneth all knowledge and underſtanding that tendeth not to ſeek God.

[k] David pronounceth God's vengeance againſt cruel governors, who having charge to defend and preſerve God's people, do moſt cruelly devour them.

[l] When they thought there was none occaſion to fear, the ſudden vengeance of God lighted upon them.

[m] Be the enemies power never ſo great, nor the danger ſo fearful, yet God delivereth his in due time.

[n] He declareth that when all means do fail, God will deliver, even as it were by miracle, them that call unto him with an upright conſcience.

3 For[o] ſtrangers are riſen up againſt me, and [p] tyrants ſeek my ſoul: they have not ſet God before them. Selah.

4 Behold, God is mine helper: the Lord is with [q] them that uphold my ſoul.

5 He ſhall reward evil unto mine enemies: Oh cut them off in thy [r] truth.

6 Then I will ſacrifice [s] freely unto thee: I will praiſe thy name, O Lord, becauſe it is good.

7 For he hath delivered me out of all trouble, and mine eye hath [t] ſeen my deſire upon mine enemies.

PSALM LV.

1 David being in great heavineſs and diſtreſs, complaineth of the cruelty of Saul, 13 And of the falſhood of his familiar acquaintance, 17 Uttering moſt ardent affections to move the Lord to pity him. 22 After being aſſured of deliverance, he ſetteth forth the grace of God, as though he had already obtained his requeſt.

¶ To him that excelleth on Neginoth.
A Pſalm of David to give inſtruction.

HEAR [u] my prayer, O God, and hide not thyſelf from my ſupplication.

2 Hearken unto me, and anſwer me: I mourn in my prayer, and make a noiſe.

3 For the [w] voice of the enemy, and for the vexation of the wicked, becauſe [x] they have brought iniquity upon me, and furiouſly hate me.

4 Mine heart trembleth within me, and the terrors of death are fallen upon me.

5 Fear and trembling are come upon me, and an horrible fear hath [y] covered me.

6 And I ſaid, Oh that I had wings like a dove: then would I [z] flee away and reſt.

7 Behold, I would take my flight far off, and lodge in the wilderneſs. Selah.

8 He would make haſte for my deliverance [a] from the ſtormy wind and tempeſt.

9 Deſtroy, O Lord, and [b] divide their tongues: for I have ſeen cruelty and ſtrife in the city.

10 Day and night they go about it upon the walls thereof: both [c] iniquity and miſchief are in the midſt of it.

11 Wickedneſs is in the midſt thereof: deceit and guile depart not from her ſtreets.

12 Surely mine [d] enemy did not defame me: for I could have borne it: neither did mine adverſary exalt himſelf againſt me: for I would have hid me from him,

13 But it was thou, O man, even my [e] companion, my guide, and my familiar:

14 Which delighted in conſulting together, and went into the houſe of God as companions.

15 Let death ſeize upon them: let them [f] go down quick into the grave: for wickedneſs is in their dwellings, even in the midſt of them.

16 But I will call unto God, and the Lord will ſave me.

17 Evening and morning, and at noon will I pray, [g] and make a noiſe, and he will hear my voice.

18 He hath delivered my ſoul in peace from the battle that was againſt me: for [h] many were with me.

19 God ſhall hear and afflict them, even he that reigneth of old. Selah: becauſe they [i] have no changes, therefore they fear not God.

20 He [k] laid his hand upon ſuch as be at peace with him, and he brake his covenant.

[s] For hypocrites ſerve God for fear, or upon conditions.

[t] We may lawfully rejoice for God's judgments againſt the wicked, if our affections be pure.

[u] The earneſtneſs of his prayer declareth the vehemency of his grief, inſomuch as he is compelled to burſt out into cries.

[w] For the threatnings of Saul and his adherents.

[x] They have defamed me as a wicked perſon, or they have imagined my deſtruction.

[y] There was no part of him that was not aſtoniſhed with extreme fear.

[z] Fear had driven him to ſo great diſtreſs, that he wiſhed to be hid in ſome wilderneſs, and to be baniſhed from that kingdom, which God had promiſed that he ſhould enjoy.

[a] From the cruel rage and tyranny of Saul.

[b] As in the confuſion of Babylon, when the wicked conſpired againſt God.

7 [s] They think they ſhall eſcape by iniquity: O God, caſt theſe people down in thine anger.

8 Thou haſt counted my wanderings: put my [t] tears into thy bottle: are they not in thy regiſter?

9 When I cry, then mine enemies ſhall turn back: this I know, for God is with me.

10 I will rejoice in God becauſe of his word: in the Lord will I rejoice becauſe of his word.

11 In God do I truſt: I will not be afraid what man can do unto me.

12 [u] Thy vows are upon me, O God: I will render praiſes unto thee.

13 For thou haſt delivered my ſoul from death, and alſo my feet from falling, that I may [w] walk before God in the [x] light of the living.

PSALM LVII.

10 For thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the [h] clouds.

11 Exalt thyſelf, O God, above the heavens, and let thy glory be upon all the earth.

PSALM LVIII.

1 He deſcribeth the malice of his enemies, the flatterers of Saul, who both ſecretly and openly ſought his deſtruction, from whom he appealeth to God's judgment, 10 ſhewing that the juſt ſhall rejoice, when they ſee the puniſhment of the wicked to the glory of God.

¶ To him that excelleth.

IS it true? O [i] congregation, ſpeak ye juſtly? O ſons of men, judge ye uprightly?

2 Yea, rather ye imagine miſchief in your heart: [k] your hands execute cruelty upon the earth.

3 The wicked [l] are ſtrangers from the womb: even from the belly have they erred, and ſpeak lyes.

4 Their poiſon is even like the poiſon of a ſerpent: like the deaf [m] adder that ſtoppeth his ear:

5 Which heareth not the voice of the inchanter, though he be moſt expert in charming.

6 Break their [n] teeth, O God, in their mouths: break the jaws of the young lions, O Lord.

7 Let them [o] melt like the waters, let them paſs away: when he ſhooteth his arrows, let them be as broken.

8 Let them conſume like a ſnail that melteth, and like the untimely fruit of a woman, that hath not ſeen the ſun.

[i] Ye counſellors of Saul, who under pretence of conſulting for the commonwealth, conſpire my death, being an innocent,

[k] Ye are not aſhamed to execute that cruelty publicly, which ye have imagined in your hearts.

[l] That is, enemies to the people of God even from their birth.

[m] They paſs in malice and ſubtilty the crafty ſerpent, which could preſerve himſelf by ſtopping his ear from the enchanter.

11 And men ſhall ſay, [s] Verily there is fruit for the righteous : doubtleſs there is a God that judgeth the earth.

PSALM LIX.

1 David being in great danger of Saul, who ſent to ſlay him in his bed, prayeth unto God : 3 Declareth his innocency, and their fury, 5 deſiring God to deſtroy all thoſe that ſin of malicious wickedneſs : 11 Whom, though he kept alive for a time to exerciſe his people, yet in the end he will conſume them in his wrath, 13 that he may be known to be the God of Jacob to the end of the world. 16 For this he ſingeth praiſes to God, aſſured of his mercies.

2 Deliver me from the wicked doers, and ſave me from the bloody men.

3 For lo, they have laid wait for my ſoul : the mighty men are gathered againſt me, not for mine [w] offence, nor for my ſin, O Lord.

4 They run and prepare themſelves without a fault on my part : ariſe, therefore, to aſſiſt me, and behold,

5 Even thou, O Lord God of hoſts, O God of Iſrael, awake to viſit all the heathen, and be not [x] merciful unto all that tranſgreſs maliciouſly. Selah.

6 They go to and fro in the evening : they bark like [y] dogs, and go about the city.

13 [e] Conſume them in thy wrath : conſume them that they be no more : and let them know that God ruleth in Jacob, even unto the ends of the world. Selah.

14 And in the evening they [f] ſhall go to and fro, and bark like dogs, and go about the city.

15 They ſhall run here and there for meat : and ſurely they ſhall not be ſatisfied, though they tarry all night.

PSALM LXII.

This Pſalm partly containeth meditations, whereby David encourageth himſelf to truſt in God againſt the aſſaults of temptations. And becauſe our minds are eaſily drawn from God by the allurements of the world, he ſharply reproveth this vanity, to the intent he might cleave faſt to the Lord.

[r] David meaneth, that in this tribe his kingdom ſhall be eſtabliſhed, Gen. 49. 10.

[t] For thou wilt diſſemble, and faint as though thou wert glad.

[u] He was aſſured that God would give him the ſtrong cities of his enemies, wherein they thought themſelves ſure.

[x] Unto the which without thy help I cannot attain.

[y] There is nothing that doth more ſtrengthen our faith than the remembrance of God's ſuccour in times paſt.

[z] This chiefly is referred to Chriſt, who liveth eternally not only in himſelf, but alſo in his members.

[a] For the ſtability of thy kingdom ſtandeth in thy mercy and truth.

[b] Though Satan tempted him to murmur againſt God, yet he bridled his affections, and reſting upon God's promiſe, beareth his croſs patiently.

[c] It appeareth by the oft repetition of this word, that the prophet abode manifold temptations, but by reſting on God, and by patience he overcame them all.

[d] He meaneth himſelf, being the man whom God had appointed to the kingdom.

[e] Though ye ſeem to be in honour, yet God will ſuddenly deſtroy you.

[f] David was greatly moved with theſe troubles, therefore he ſtirreth up himſelf to truſt in God.

[g] Theſe vehement and often repetitions were neceſſary to ſtrengthen his faith againſt the horrible aſſaults of Satan.

[h] He admoniſheth us of our wicked nature, who rather hide our ſorrow and bite on the bridle, than utter our grief to God, to obtain remedy.

[i] Give yourſelves wholly to God, by putting away all things that are contrary to his law.

[k] He hath plainly borne witneſs of his power, ſo that none needeth to doubt thereof.

[l] So that the wicked ſhall feel thy power, and the godly thy mercy.

[m] To wit, of Ziph, 1 Sam. 2-. 14.

[n] Though he was both hungry and in great diſtreſs, yet he made God his ſufficiency, and above all meat and drink.

[o] In this miſery I exerciſe myſelf in the contemplation of thy power and glory, as if I were in the ſanctuary.

5 My ſoul ſhall be ſatisfied as with [p] marrow and fatneſs, and my mouth ſhall praiſe thee with joyful lips,

5 They [z] encourage themſelves in a wicked purpoſe: they commune together to lay ſnares privily, and ſay, Who ſhall ſee them?

6 They have ſought out iniquities, and have accompliſhed that which they ſought out, even every one [a] his ſecret thoughts, and the depth of his heart.

7 But God will ſhoot an arrow at them ſuddenly: their ſtrokes ſhall be at once.

8 They ſhall cauſe their own tongue to fall upon them: and whoſoever ſhall ſee them, ſhall [b] flee away.

[q] As the faithful ſhall obey God willingly, ſo the infidels for fear ſhall diſſemble themſelves to be ſubject.

[r] He toucheth the ſlothful dulneſs of man, who is cold in the conſideration of God's works.

[s] His providence is wonderful in maintaining their eſtate.

[t] He proveth that God will extend his grace alſo to the Gentiles, becauſe he puniſheth among them ſuch as will not obey his calling.

[u] He ſignifieth ſome ſpecial benefit that God had ſhewed to his church of the Jews, in delivering them from ſome great danger: whereof or of the like he promiſeth that the Gentiles ſhall be partakers.

[w] The condition of the church is here deſcribed, which is to be led by God's providence into troubles, to be ſubject under tyrants, and to enter into manifold dangers.

[x] The duty of the faithful is here deſcribed, which are never unmindful to render God praiſe for his benefits.

[y] It is not enough to have received God's benefits and to be mindful thereof, but alſo we are bound to make others to profit thereby and praiſe God.

[z] If I delight in wickedneſs, God will not hear me; but if I confeſs it, he will receive me.

[a] That is, move our hearts with his Holy Spirit, that we may feel his favour toward us.

[b] That both Jews and Gentiles may know God's covenant made with them.

[c] By theſe oft repetitions he ſheweth, that the people can never rejoice ſufficiently and give thanks for the great benefits that they ſhall receive under the kingdom of Chriſt.

[d] He ſheweth, that where God favoureth, there ſhall be abundance of all other things.

[e] When they feel his great benefits both ſpiritual and corporal toward them.

[f] The prophet ſheweth that albeit God ſuffereth the wicked tyrants to oppreſs his church for a time, yet at length he will be revenged of them.

[g] He ſheweth that when God declareth his power againſt the wicked, that it is for the commodity and ſalvation of his church, which praiſe him therefore.

name: exalt him that rideth upon the heavens, in his name [h] Jah, and rejoice before him.

5 He is a father of the fatherleſs, and a judge of the widows, even God in his holy habitation.

6 God [i] maketh the ſolitary to dwell in families, and delivereth them that were priſoners in ſtocks: but the rebellious ſhall dwell in a [k] dry land.

7 [l] O God, when thou wenteſt forth before thy people: when thou wenteſt through the wilderneſs: (Selah)

8 The earth ſhook, and the heavens dropped at the preſence of this God: even Sinai was moved at the preſence of God, even the God of Iſrael.

9 Thou, O God, ſenteſt a gracious rain upon thine inheritance, and thou didſt refreſh it when it was weary.

10 Thy congregation dwelled therein: for thou, O God, haſt of thy [m] goodneſs prepared it for the poor.

11 The Lord gave matter to the [n] women to tell of the great army.

12 Kings of the armies did flee: they did flee, and [o] ſhe that remained in the houſe, divided the ſpoil.

13 Though ye have lien among [p] pots, yet ſhall ye be as the wings of a dove that is covered with ſilver, and whoſe feathers are like yellow gold.

14 When the Almighty ſcattered kings [q] in it, it was white as the ſnow in Salmon.

15 The [r] mountain of God is like the mountain of Baſhan: it is an high mountain, as mount Baſhan.

16 [s] Why leap ye, ye high mountains? as for this mountain God, delighteth to dwell in it: yea, the Lord will dwell in it for ever.

17 The chariots of God are twenty thouſand thouſand angels, and the Lord is among them, as in the ſanctuary of Sinai.

18 Thou art gone up on high: thou haſt [t] led captivity captive, and received gifts for men: yea, even the rebellious haſt thou led, that the Lord God might dwell there.

19 Praiſed be the Lord, even the God of my ſalvation, which ladeth us daily with benefits. Selah.

20 This is our God, even the God that ſaveth us: and to the Lord God belong the [u] iſſues of death.

21 Surely God will wound the head of his enemies, and the hairy pate of him that walketh in his ſins.

22 The Lord hath ſaid, I will bring my people again from [w] Baſhan: I will bring them again from the depths of the ſea:

23 That thy foot may be dipped in blood, and the tongue of thy dogs in the blood of the enemies, even in [x] it.

24 They have ſeen, O God, thy [y] goings, the goings of my God, and my King, which art in the ſanctuary.

25 The [z] ſingers went before, the players of inſtruments after: in the midſt were the maids playing with timbrels.

26 Praiſe ye God in the aſſemblies, and the Lord, ye that are of the fountain of [a] Iſrael.

27 There was [b] little Benjamin with their [c] ruler, and the princes of Judah with their aſſembly, the princes of Zebulun, and the princes of Naphtali.

28 Thy God hath appointed thy ſtrength: eſtabliſh, O God, that which thou haſt wrought in us.

29 [d] Out of thy temple upon Jeruſalem, and kings ſhall bring preſents unto thee.

30 Deſtroy the company of the ſpearmen, and multitude of the mighty bulls, with the calves of the people that [e] tread under feet pieces of ſilver: ſcatter the people that delight in war.

31 Then ſhall the princes come out [f] of Egypt: Ethiopia ſhall haſte to ſtretch her hands unto God.

32 Sing unto God, O ye kingdoms of the earth: ſing praiſe unto the Lord. (Selah.)

33 To him that rideth upon the moſt high heavens, which were from the beginning: behold, he will ſend out by his [g] voice a mighty ſound.

34 Aſcribe the power to God: for his majeſty is upon Iſrael, and his ſtrength is in the clouds.

35 O God, thou art [h] terrible, out of thine holy [i] places: the God of Iſrael is he that giveth ſtrength and power unto the people: praiſed be God.

PSALM

[h] Jah and Jehovah are the names of God, which do ſignify his eſſence and majeſty incomprehenſible, ſo that thereby is declared that all idols are but vanity, and that the God of Iſrael is the only true God.

[i] He giveth children to them that be childleſs, and increaſeth their families.

[k] Which is barren of God's bleſſings, which before they had abuſed.

[l] He teacheth that God's favour peculiarly belongeth to his church, as appeareth by their wonderful deliverance out of Egypt.

[m] God bleſſed the land of Canaan, becauſe he had choſen that place for his church.

[n] The faſhion then was, that women ſang ſongs after the victory, as Miriam, Deborah, Judith, and others.

[o] The prey was ſo great, that not only the ſoldiers, but women alſo had part thereof.

[p] Though God ſuffer his church for a time to lie in black darkneſs, yet he will reſtore it, and make it moſt ſhining and white.

[q] In the land of Canaan, where his church was.

[r] Zion, the church of God, doth excel all worldly things, not in pomp and outward ſhew, but by the inward grace of God, which there remaineth becauſe of his dwelling there.

[s] Why boaſt ye of your ſtrength and beauty againſt this mountain of God?

[t] As God overcame the enemies of his church, took them priſoners, and made them tributaries: ſo Chriſt, which is God manifeſted in the fleſh, ſubdued Satan and ſin under us, and gave unto his church moſt liberal gifts of his Spirit, Eph. 4. 8.

[u] In moſt extreme dangers God hath infinite ways to deliver his.

[w] As he delivered his church once from Og of Baſhan, and other tyrants, and from the danger of the Red ſea, ſo will he ſtill do as oft as neceſſity requireth.

[x] That is, in the blood of that great ſlaughter, where dogs ſhall lap blood.

[y] That is, how thou, which art chief king, goeſt out with thy people to war, and giveſt them the victory.

[z] He deſcribeth the order of the people, when they went to the temple to give thanks for the victory.

[a] Which came of the patriarch Jacob.

[b] Benjamin is called little, becauſe he was the youngeſt ſon of Jacob.

[c] Who was ſome chief ruler of the tribe.

[d] Declare out of thine holy palace thy power for the defence of thy church Jeruſalem.

[e] He deſireth that the pride of the mighty may be deſtroyed, which accuſtomed to garniſh their ſhoes with ſilver: and therefore for their glittering pomp thought themſelves above all men.

[f] He propheſieth that the Gentiles ſhall come to the true knowledge and worſhip of God.

[g] By his terrible thunders he will make himſelf to be known the God of all the world.

[h] In ſhewing fearful judgments againſt thine enemies for the ſalvation of thy people.

[i] He alludeth to the tabernacle, which was divided into three parts.

PSALM LXIX.

1 The complaints, prayers, fervent zeal and great anguiſh of David are ſet forth as a figure of Chriſt and all his members: 21 The malicious cruelty of the enemies, 22 and their puniſhment alſo: 26 Where Judas and ſuch traitors are accurſed. 30 He gathereth courage in his affliction, and offereth praiſes unto God, 32 which are more acceptable than all ſacrifices: whereof all the afflicted may take comfort. 35 Finally, he doth provoke all creatures to praiſes, propheſying of the kingdom of Chriſt, and the preſervation of the church, where all the faithful, 36 and their ſeed, ſhall dwell for ever.

¶ To him that excelleth upon [k] Shoſhannim. A Pſalm of David.

SAVE me, O God: for the [l] waters are entered even to my ſoul.

2 I ſtick faſt in the deep mire, where no [m] ſtay is: I am come into deep waters, and the ſtreams run over me.

3 I am weary of crying: my throat is dry: mine [n] eyes fail, while I wait for my God.

4 They that hate me without a cauſe, are more than the hairs of mine head: they that would deſtroy me, and are mine enemies [o] falſly, are mighty, ſo that I reſtored that which I [p] took not.

5 O God, thou knoweſt my [q] fooliſhneſs, and my faults are not hid from thee.

6 Let not them that truſt in thee, O Lord God of hoſts, be aſhamed for [r] me: let not thoſe that ſeek thee, be confounded through me, O God of Iſrael.

7 For thy ſake have I ſuffered reproof: ſhame hath covered my face.

8 I am become a ſtranger unto my brethren, even an alien unto my mother's ſons.

9 [s] For the zeal of thine houſe hath eaten me, and the rebukes of them that rebuked thee, are fallen upon me.

10 I [t] wept and my ſoul faſted, but that was to my reproof.

11 I put on a ſack alſo: and I became a proverb unto them.

12 They that [u] ſat in the gate, ſpake of me, and the drunkards ſang of me.

13 But, Lord, I make my prayer unto thee in an [w] acceptable time, even in the multitude of thy mercy: O God, hear me in the truth of thy ſalvation.

14 Deliver me out of the mire, that I ſink not: let me be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep [x] waters.

15 Let not the water flood drown me, neither let the deep ſwallow me up: and let not the pit ſhut her mouth upon me.

16 Hear me, O Lord, for thy loving kindneſs is good: turn unto me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies.

17 And [y] hide not thy face from thy ſervant, for I am in trouble: make haſte and hear me.

18 Draw near unto my ſoul and redeem it: deliver me becauſe of mine enemies.

19 Thou haſt known my reproof and my ſhame, and my diſhonour: all mine [z] adverſaries are before thee.

20 Rebuke hath broken mine heart, and I am full of heavineſs, and [a] I looked for ſome to have pity on me, but there was none: and for comforters, but I found none.

21 For they gave me gall in my meat, and in my thirſt they gave me vinegar to drink.

22 Let their [b] table be a ſnare before them, and their proſperity their ruin.

23 Let their eyes be blinded that they ſee not: and make their [c] loins alway to tremble.

24 Pour out thine anger upon them, and let thy wrathful diſpleaſure take them.

25 * Let their [d] habitation be void, and let none dwell in their tents. * Acts 1, 20.

26 For they perſecute him whom thou haſt ſmitten: and they add unto the ſorrow of them whom thou haſt wounded.

27 Lay [e] iniquity upon their iniquity, and let them not come into thy righteouſneſs.

28 Let them be put out of the [f] book of life, neither let them be written with the righteous.

29 When I am poor and in heavineſs, thine help, O God, ſhall exalt me.

30 I will praiſe the name of God with a ſong, and magnify him with thankſgiving.

31 This alſo ſhall pleaſe the Lord better than a [g] young bullock that hath horns and hoofs.

32 The humble ſhall ſee this, and they that ſeek God ſhall be glad, and your heart ſhall live.

33 For the Lord heareth the poor, and deſpiſeth not his [h] priſoners.

34 Let heaven and earth praiſe him: the ſeas, and all that moveth in them.

35 For God will ſave Zion, and build the cities of Judah, that men may dwell there and have it in poſſeſſion.

[k] Of Shoſhannim, read Pſalm 45.

[l] David ſignifieth by the waters, in what great dangers he was, out of which God did deliver him.

[m] No firmity or ſtableneſs to ſettle my feet.

[n] Though his ſenſes failed him, yet his faith was conſtant, and encouraged him ſtill to pray.

[o] Condemning me guiltleſs.

[p] They judged me, poor innocent, as a thief, and gave my goods to others, as though I had ſtolen them.

[q] Though I be guilty to thee ward, yet am I innocent toward them.

[r] Let not mine evil intreaty of the enemies be an occaſion that the faithful fall from thee.

[s] When I ſaw thine enemies pretend thy name only in mouth, and in their life deny the ſame, thine Holy Spirit thruſt me forward, to reprove them and defend thy glory.

[t] My zeal moved me to lament and pray for my ſalvation.

[u] The more he ſought to win them to God, the more they were againſt him, both poor and rich.

[w] Knowing that albeit I ſuffer now trouble, yet thou haſt a time wherein thou haſt appointed my deliverance.

[x] He ſheweth a lively faith, in that he aſſureth himſelf that God is favourable to him when he ſeemeth to be angry: and at hand when he ſeemeth to be far off.

[y] Not that he feared that God would not hear him, but that care made him to think that God deferred long.

[z] Thou ſeeſt that I am beſet as a ſheep among many wolves.

[a] He ſheweth that it is in vain to put our truſt in men in our great neceſſities, but that our comfort only dependeth of God; for man rather increaſeth our ſorrows, than diminiſheth them, John 19. 29.

[b] He deſireth God to execute his judgments againſt the reprobate, which cannot by any means be turned, Rom. 11. 9.

[c] Take both judgment and power from them.

[d] Puniſh not only them but their poſterity, which ſhall be like unto them.

[e] By their continuance and increaſing in their ſins, let it be known that they be of the reprobate.

[f] They which ſeemed by their profeſſion to have been written in thy book, yet by their fruits prove the contrary, let them be known as reprobate.

[g] There is no ſacrifice, which God more eſteemeth, than thankſgiving for his benefits.

[h] For as he delivered his ſervant David, ſo will he do all that are in diſtreſs, and call upon him.

36 The [i] ſeed alſo of his ſervants ſhall inherit it: and they that love his name ſhall dwell therein.

PSALM LXX.

1 He prayeth to be right ſpeedily delivered. 2 He deſireth the ſhame of his enemies, 4 and the joyful comfort of all thoſe that ſeek the Lord.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David, to put in [k] remembrance.

* Pſ. 40. 13. O * God, [l] haſte thee to deliver me: make haſte to help me, O Lord.

2 Let them be [m] confounded and put to ſhame, that ſeek my ſoul: let them be turned backward and put to rebuke that deſire mine hurt.

3 Let them be turned back for a reward of their [n] ſhame, which ſaid, Aha, aha.

4 But let all thoſe that ſeek thee, be joyful and glad in thee, and let all that love thy ſalvation, ſay always, God be praiſed.

5 Now I am [o] poor and needy: O God, make haſte to me: thou art mine helper, and my deliverer: O Lord, make no tarrying.

PSALM LXXI.

1 He prayeth in faith, eſtabliſhed by the word of promiſe, 5 and confirmed by the work of God from his youth. 10 He complaineth of the cruelty of his enemies, 17 and deſireth God to continue his graces toward him, 22 promiſing to be mindful and thankful for the ſame.

* Pſ. 31. 1. IN * [p] thee, O Lord, I truſt: let me never be aſhamed.

2 Reſcue me and deliver me in thy [q] righteouſneſs: incline thine ear unto me, and ſave me.

3 Be thou my ſtrong Rock, whereunto I may alway reſort: thou [r] haſt given commandment to ſave me: for thou art my Rock, and my fortreſs.

4 Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand [s] of the wicked: and out of the hand of the evil and cruel man.

5 For thou art mine hope, O Lord God, even my [t] truſt from my youth.

6 Upon thee have I been ſtayed from the womb: thou art he that took me out of my mother's bowels: my praiſe ſhall be always of thee.

7 I am become as it were a [u] monſter unto many: but thou art my ſure truſt.

8 Let my mouth be filled with thy praiſe, and with thy glory every day.

9 Caſt me not off in the time of [w] age: forſake me not when my ſtrength faileth.

10 For mine enemies ſpeak of me, and they that lay wait for my ſoul, take their counſel together,

11 Saying, [x] God hath forſaken him: purſue and take him, for there is none to deliver him.

12 Go not far from me, O God: [y] my God, haſte thee to help me.

13 Let them be confounded and conſumed that are againſt my ſoul: let them be covered with reproof and confuſion that ſeek mine hurt.

14 But I will wait continually, and will praiſe thee more and more.

15 My mouth ſhall daily rehearſe thy righteouſneſs, and thy ſalvation: [z] for I know not the number.

16 I will [a] go forward in the ſtrength of the Lord God, and will make mention of thy righteouſneſs, even of thine only.

17 O God, thou haſt taught me from my youth even until now: therefore will I tell of thy wondrous works.

18 [b] Yea, even unto mine old age and grey head, O God: forſake me not, until I have declared thine arm unto this generation, and thy power to all them that ſhall come.

19 And thy [c] righteouſneſs, O God, I will exalt on high: for thou haſt done great things: [d] O God, who is like unto thee!

20 Which haſt ſhewed me great troubles and [e] adverſities, but thou wilt return and revive me, and wilt come again, and take me up from the depth of the earth.

21 Thou wilt increaſe mine honour, and return and comfort me.

22 Therefore will I praiſe thee for thy [f] faithfulneſs, O God, upon inſtrument and viol: unto thee will I ſing upon the harp, O holy One of Iſrael.

23 My lips will rejoice when I ſing unto thee, and my [g] ſoul which thou haſt delivered.

24 My tongue alſo ſhall talk of thy righteouſneſs daily: for they are confounded and brought unto ſhame, that ſeek mine hurt.

PSALM

---

[i] Under the temporal promiſe of the land of Canaan, he comprehendeth the promiſe of life everlaſting to the faithful and their poſterity.

[k] Which might put him in remembrance of his deliverance.

[l] He teacheth us to be earneſt in prayer, though God ſeem to ſtay: for at his time he will hear us.

[m] He was aſſured that the more they raged, the nearer they were to deſtruction, and he the nearer to his deliverance.

[n] Hereby we are taught not to mock at others in their miſery, leſt the ſame fall on our own necks.

[o] Becauſe he had felt God's help before, he groundeth on experience, and boldly ſeeketh unto him for ſuccour.

[p] He prayeth to God with full aſſurance of faith, that he will deliver him from his adverſaries.

[q] By declaring thyſelf true of promiſe.

[r] Thou haſt infinite means, and all creatures are at thy commandment: therefore ſhew ſome ſign, whereby I ſhall be delivered.

[s] That is, from Abſalom, Ahithophel and that conſpiracy.

[t] He ſtrengtheneth his faith by the experience of God's benefits, who did not only preſerve him in his mother's belly, but took him thence, and ever ſince hath preſerved him.

[u] All the world wondereth at me, becauſe of my miſery, as well they in authority, as the common people, yet being aſſured of thy favour, I remained ſtedfaſt.

[w] Thou that didſt help me in my youth, when I had more ſtrength, help me now ſo much the more in mine old age and weakneſs.

[x] Thus the wicked both blaſpheme God, and triumph againſt his ſaints, as though he had forſaken them, if he ſuffer them to fall into their hands.

[y] In calling him his God, he putteth back the falſe reports of the adverſaries, that ſaid, God hath forſaken him.

[z] Becauſe thy benefits toward me are innumerable, I cannot but continually meditate and rehearſe them.

[a] I will remain ſtedfaſt, being upholden with the power of God.

[b] He deſireth that as he hath begun, he would ſo continue his benefits, that his liberality may have perfect praiſe.

[c] The juſt performance of thy promiſe.

[d] His faith breaketh through all temptations, and by this exclamation he praiſeth the power of God.

[e] As he confeſſeth that God is the only author of his deliverance: ſo he acknowledgeth that theſe evils were ſent unto him by God's providence.

[f] He confeſſeth that his long tarriance was well recompenſed, when God performed his promiſe.

[g] For there is no true praiſing of God, except it come from the heart: and therefore he promiſeth to delight in nothing but wherein God may be glorified.

PSALM LXXII.

1 He prayeth for the proſperous eſtate of the kingdom of Solomon, who was the figure of Chriſt: 4 Under whom ſhall be righteouſneſs, peace, and felicity, 10 unto whom all kings and nations ſhall do homage, 17 whoſe name and power ſhall endure for ever, and in whom all nations ſhall be bleſſed.

¶ A Pſalm of [h] Solomon.

GIVE thy [i] judgments to the king, O God, and thy righteouſneſs to the king's [k] ſon.

2 Then ſhall he judge thy people in righteouſneſs, and thy poor with equity.

3 The [l] mountains and the hills ſhall bring peace to the people by juſtice.

4 He ſhall judge the [m] poor of the people: he ſhall ſave the children of the needy, and ſhall ſubdue the oppreſſor.

5 They ſhall [n] fear thee as long as the ſun and moon endureth, from generation to generation.

6 He ſhall come [o] down like the rain upon the mowen graſs, and as the ſhowers that water the earth.

7 In his days ſhall the righteous flouriſh, and abundance of peace ſhall be ſo long as the moon endureth.

8 His dominion ſhall be alſo from [p] ſea to ſea, and from the river unto the ends of the land.

9 They that dwell in the wilderneſs, ſhall kneel before him, and the enemies ſhall lick the duſt.

10 The kings of [q] Tarſhiſh and of the iſles ſhall bring preſents: the kings of [r] Sheba and Seba ſhall bring gifts.

11 Yea, all kings ſhall worſhip him: all nations ſhall ſerve him.

12 For he ſhall deliver the poor when he crieth: the needy alſo, and him that hath no helper.

13 He ſhall be merciful to the poor and needy, and ſhall preſerve the ſouls of the poor.

14 He ſhall redeem their ſouls from deceit and violence, and [s] dear ſhall their blood be in his ſight.

15 Yea, he ſhall live, and unto him ſhall they give of the [t] gold of Sheba: and they ſhall alſo pray for him continually, and daily bleſs him.

16 An handful of corn ſhall be ſown in the earth, even in the top of the mountains, and the [u] fruit thereof ſhall ſhake like the trees of Lebanon: and the children ſhall flouriſh out of the city like the graſs of the earth.

17 His name ſhall be for ever: his name ſhall endure as long as the ſun: all nations ſhall bleſs [x] him, and be bleſſed in him.

18 Bleſſed be the Lord God, even the God of Iſrael, which doeth only [y] wondrous things.

19 And bleſſed be his glorious name for ever: and let all the earth be filled with his glory. So be it, even ſo be it.

Here end the [z] prayers of David the ſon of Jeſſe.

PSALM LXXIII.

1 The prophet teacheth by his example, that neither the worldly proſperity of the ungodly, 14 nor the affliction of the good, ought to diſcourage God's children: but rather ought to move us to conſider our father's providence, and to cauſe us to reverence God's judgments, 19 forasmuch as the wicked vaniſh away, 24 and the godly enter into life everlaſting, 28 in hope whereof he reſigneth himſelf into God's hands.

¶ A Pſalm committed to Aſaph.

YET [a] God is good to Iſrael: even to the pure in heart.

2 As for me, my feet were almoſt gone: my ſteps had well near ſlipt.

3 For I fretted at the fooliſh, when I ſaw the proſperity of the wicked.

4 For there are [b] no bands in their death, yet they are luſty and ſtrong.

5 They are not in trouble as other men, neither are they plagued with other men.

6 [c] Therefore pride is as a chain unto them, and cruelty covereth them as a garment.

7 Their eyes ſtand out for fatneſs: ‡ they have more than heart can wiſh.

‡ They paſs the deſires of the heart.

8 They are licentious, and ſpeak wickedly of their oppreſſion: they talk preſumptuouſly.

9 They [d] ſet their mouth againſt heaven, and their tongue walketh through the earth.

10 Therefore his [e] people turn hither: for waters of a full cup are wrung out to them.

11 And they [f] ſay, How doth God know it? is there knowledge in the moſt High?

12 Lo, theſe are the wicked, yet proſper they alway, and increaſe in riches.

---

[h] Compoſed by David as touching the reign of his ſon Solomon.

[i] Endue the king with the ſpirit of wiſdom and juſtice, that he reign not as do the worldly tyrants.

[k] To wit, to his poſterity.

[l] When juſtice reigneth, even the places moſt barren ſhall be enriched with thy bleſſings.

[m] He ſheweth wherefore the ſword is committed to kings: to wit, to defend the innocent, and ſuppreſs the wicked.

[n] The people ſhall embrace thy true religion, when thou giveſt a king that ruleth according to thy word.

[o] As this is true in all godly kings, ſo is it chiefly verified in Chriſt, who with his heavenly dew maketh his church ever to flouriſh.

[p] That is, from the Red Sea to the ſea called Syriacum, and from Euphrates forward, meaning, that Chriſt's kingdom ſhould be large and univerſal.

[q] Of Cilicia, and of all other countries beyond the ſea, which he meaneth by the iſles.

[r] That is, of Arabia, that rich country, whereof Sheba was a part bordering upon Ethiopia.

[s] Though tyrants paſs not to ſhed blood, yet this godly king ſhall preſerve his ſubjects from all kind of wrong.

[t] God will both proſper his life, and alſo make the people moſt willing to obey him.

[u] Under ſuch a king ſhall be moſt great plenty, both of fruit and alſo of the increaſe of mankind.

[x] They ſhall pray to God for his continuance, and know that God doth proſper them for his ſake.

[y] He confeſſeth that except God miraculouſly preſerve his people, that neither the king nor the kingdom can continue.

[z] Concerning his ſon Solomon.

[a] As it were between hope and deſpair he burſteth forth into this affection, being aſſured that God would continue his favour toward ſuch as were godly indeed, and not hypocrites.

[b] The wicked in this life live at pleaſure, and are not drawn to death like priſoners: that is, by ſickneſs, which is death's meſſenger.

[c] They glory in their pride as ſome do in their chains, and in cruelty as ſome do in apparel.

[d] They blaſpheme God, and fear not his power, and rail upon men, becauſe they eſteem themſelves above all others.

[e] Not only the reprobate, but alſo the people of God oftentimes fall back, ſeeing the proſperous eſtate of the wicked, and are overwhelmed with ſorrows, thinking that God conſidereth not aright the ſtate of the godly.

[f] Thus the fleſh moveth even the godly to diſpute with God touching their poor eſtate, and the proſperity of the wicked.

13 Certainly I have cleanſed mine heart in vain, and waſhed mine hands in innocency.

14 For daily have I been puniſhed, and chaſtened every morning.

15 If I ſay, [g] I will judge thus, behold, the generation of thy children: I have treſpaſſed.

16 Then thought I to know this, but it was too painful for me,

17 Until I went into the [h] ſanctuary of God: then underſtood I their end.

18 Surely thou haſt ſet them in ſlippery places, and caſteth them down into deſolation.

19 How ſuddenly are they deſtroyed, periſhed, and [i] horribly conſumed, 20 As a dream when one awaketh! O Lord, when [k] thou raiſeſt us up, thou ſhalt make their image deſpiſed.

21 Certainly mine heart was vexed, and I was pricked in my reins:

22 So fooliſh was I and ignorant: I was a [l] beaſt before thee.

23 Yet I was alway [m] with thee: thou haſt holden me by my right hand.

24 Thou wilt guide me by thy counſel, and afterward receive me to glory.

25 Whom have I in [n] heaven but thee? and I have deſired none in the earth with thee.

26 My fleſh faileth and mine heart alſo: but God is the ſtrength of mine heart, and my [o] portion for ever.

27 For lo, they that withdraw themſelves from thee ſhall periſh: thou deſtroyeſt all them that go [p] a whoring from thee.

28 As for me, it is good for me [q] to draw near to God: therefore I have put my truſt in the Lord God, that I may declare all thy works.

PSALM LXXIV.

1 The faithful complain of the deſtruction of the church and true religion, 2 under the name of Zion, and the temple deſtroyed: 11 and truſting in the might and free mercies of God, 20 by his covenant, 21 they require help and ſuccour for the glory of God's holy name, for the ſalvation of his poor afflicted ſervants, 23 and the confuſion of his proud enemies.

¶ A Pſalm to give inſtruction, committed to Aſaph.

O GOD, [r] why haſt thou put us away for ever? why is thy wrath kindled againſt the ſheep of thy paſture?

2 Think upon thy congregation, which thou haſt poſſeſſed of old, and on the [s] rod of thine inheritance, which thou haſt redeemed, and on this mount Zion wherein thou haſt dwelt.

3 Lift up thy ‡ ſtrokes, that thou mayeſt for ever deſtroy every enemy that doeth evil to the ſanctuary.

‡ Or, feet.

4 Thine adverſaries roar in the midſt of thy congregation, and [t] ſet up their banners for ſigns.

5 He that [u] lifted the axes upon the thick trees, was renowned, as one that brought a thing to perfection:

6 But now they break down the carved work thereof with axes and hammers.

7 They have caſt thy ſanctuary into the fire, and raſed it to the ground, and have defiled the dwelling-place of thy name.

8 They ſaid in their [w] hearts, Let us deſtroy them altogether: they have burnt all the ſynagogues of God in the land.

9 We ſee not our ſigns: there is not one prophet more, nor any with us that knoweth [x] how long.

10 O God, how long ſhall the adverſary reproach thee? ſhall the enemy blaſpheme thy name for ever?

11 Why withdraweſt thou thine hand, even thy right hand? draw it out of thy boſom, and [y] conſume them.

12 Even God is my King of old, working ſalvation [z] in the midſt of the earth.

13 Thou didſt divide the ſea by thy power: thou brakeſt the heads of the [a] dragons in the waters.

14 Thou brakeſt the head of [b] Leviathan in pieces, and gaveſt him to be [c] meat for the people in the wilderneſs.

15 Thou brakeſt up the fountain and river: thou driedſt up mighty rivers.

16 The [d] day is thine, and the night is thine: thou haſt prepared the light and the ſun.

17 Thou haſt ſet all the borders of the earth: thou haſt made ſummer and winter.

18 Remember this, that the enemy hath reproached the Lord, and the fooliſh people hath blaſphemed thy name.

19 Give not the ſoul of thy [e] turtle dove unto the beaſt, and forget not the congregation of thy poor for ever.

20 Conſider thy covenant: for [f] the dark places

---

[g] If I give place to this wicked thought, I offend againſt thy providence, ſeeing thou diſpoſeſt all things moſt wiſely, and preſerveſt thy children in their greateſt dangers.

[h] Until I entered into thy ſchool, and learned by thy word and Holy Spirit, that thou ordereſt all things wiſely and juſtly.

[i] By thy fearful judgment.

[k] When thou openeſt our eyes to conſider thy heavenly felicity, we contemn all their vain pomp.

[l] For the more that man goeth about by his own reaſon to ſeek out God's judgments, the more doth he declare himſelf a beaſt.

[m] By faith I was aſſured that thy providence did watch always over me, to preſerve me.

[n] He ſought neither help nor comfort of any ſave of God only.

[o] He teacheth us to deny ourſelves, to have God our whole ſufficiency, and only contentment.

[p] That is, forſake thee to ſeek others.

[q] Though all the world ſhrink from God, yet he promiſeth to truſt in him, and to magnify his works.

[r] The church of God being oppreſſed by the tyranny either of the Babylonians or of Antiochus, prayeth to God, by whoſe hand this yoke was laid upon them for their ſins.

[s] Which inheritance thou haſt meaſured out thyſelf as with a line or rod.

[t] They have deſtroyed thy true religion, and ſpread their banners in ſign of defiance.

[u] He commendeth the temple for the coſtly matter, the excellent workmanſhip and beauty thereof, which notwithſtanding the enemies did deſtroy.

[w] They encouraged one another to cruelty, that not only God's people might be deſtroyed, but alſo his religion utterly in all places ſuppreſſed.

[x] They lament that they have no prophet among them to ſhew them how long their miſery ſhould endure.

[y] They join their deliverance with God's glory and power, knowing that the puniſhment of the enemy ſhould be their deliverance.

[z] Meaning, in the ſight of all the world.

[a] To wit, Pharaoh's army.

[b] Which was a great monſter of the ſea, or whale, meaning Pharaoh.

[c] His deſtruction did rejoice them, as meat refreſheth the body.

[d] Seeing that God by his providence governeth and diſpoſeth all things, he gathereth that he will take care chiefly for his children.

[e] He meaneth the church of God, which is expoſed as a prey to the wicked.

[f] That is, all places where thy word ſhineth not, there reigneth tyranny and ambition.

places of the earth are full of the habitations of the cruel.

21 Oh let not the oppreſſed return aſhamed, but let the poor and needy praiſe thy name.

22 Ariſe, O God: maintain thine [g] own cauſe: remember thy daily reproach by the fooliſh man.

23 Forget not the voice of thine enemies: for the tumult of them that riſe againſt thee, ‡ aſcendeth continually.

‡ Or, increaſeth more and more.

PSALM LXXV.

1 The faithful do praiſe the name of the Lord, 2 who ſhall come to judge at the time appointed, 8 when the wicked ſhall be put into confuſion, and drink of the cup of his wrath. 10 Their pride ſhall be abated, and the righteous ſhall be exalted to honour.

¶ To him that excelleth. [h] Deſtroy not.
A Pſalm or ſong, committed to Aſaph.

WE will praiſe thee, O God, we will praiſe thee, for thy name is near: therefore [i] they will declare thy wondrous works.

2 [k] When I ſhall take a convenient time, I will judge righteouſly.

3 The earth and all the inhabitants thereof are diſſolved: but I will eſtabliſh the pillars [l] of it. Selah.

4 I ſaid unto the fooliſh, Be not ſo fooliſh: and to the wicked, Lift not up the horn.

5 Lift not up your [m] horn on high, neither ſpeak with a ſtiff neck.

6 For to come to preferment is neither from the eaſt, nor from the weſt, nor from the ſouth.

7 But God is the judge: he maketh low, and he maketh high.

8 For in the hand of the Lord is a [n] cup, and the wine is red: it is full mixt, and he poureth out of the ſame: ſurely all the wicked of the earth ſhall wring out and drink the dregs thereof.

9 But I will declare for ever, and ſing praiſes unto the God of Jacob.

10 All the horns of the wicked alſo will I break: but the horns of the [o] righteous ſhall be exalted.

PSALM LXXVI.

1 This Pſalm ſetteth forth the power of God, and care for the defence of his people in Jeruſalem, in the deſtruction of the army of Sennacherib: 11 and exhorteth the faithful to be thankful for the ſame.

A Pſalm or ſong committed to Aſaph.

GOD is [p] known in Judah: his name is great in Iſrael.

2 For in [q] Salem is his tabernacle, and his dwelling in Sion.

3 There brake he the arrows of the bow, the ſhield, and the ſword, and the battle. Selah.

4 Thou art more bright and puiſſant than [r] the mountains of prey.

5 The ſtout-hearted are ſpoiled: they have ſlept their ſleep, and all the men of ſtrength have not [s] found their hands.

6 At thy rebuke, O God of Jacob, both the chariot and horſe are caſt aſleep.

7 Thou, even thou art to be feared, and who ſhall ſtand in thy [t] ſight, when thou art angry!

8 Thou didſt cauſe thy judgments to be heard from heaven: therefore the earth feared, and was ſtill.

9 When thou, O God, didſt ariſe to judgment, to [u] help all the meek of the earth. Selah.

10 Surely the [x] rage of man ſhall turn to thy praiſe: the remnant of the rage ſhalt thou reſtrain.

11 Vow and perform unto the Lord your God, all ye that be [y] round about him, let them bring preſents unto him that ought to be feared.

12 He ſhall [z] cut off the ſpirit of princes: he is terrible to the kings of the earth.

PSALM LXXVII.

1 The prophet in the name of the church rehearſeth the greatneſs of his affliction, and his grievous temptations. 6 whereby he was driven to this end, to conſider his former converſation, 11 and the continual courſe of God's work in the preſervation of his ſervants, and ſo he confirmeth his faith againſt theſe temptations.

MY [a] voice came to God, when I cried: my voice came to God, and he heard me.

2 In the day of my trouble I ſought the Lord: ‡ my ſore ran and ceaſed not in the night: my ſoul refuſed comfort.

‡ Or, mine hand was ſtretched out.

4 Thou keepeſt mine eyes [c] waking: I was aſtoniſhed, and could not ſpeak.

5 Then I conſidered the days of old: and the years of antient time.

---

[g] He ſheweth that God cannot ſuffer his church to be oppreſſed, except he loſe his own right.

[h] Read Pſalm 57. 1.

[i] He declareth how the faithful ſhall ever have juſt occaſion to praiſe God, foraſmuch as in their need they ſhall feel his power at hand to help them.

[k] When I ſee my time (ſaith God) to help your miſeries, I will come and ſet all things in good order.

[l] Though all things be brought to ruin, yet I can reſtore and preſerve them.

[m] The prophet warneth the wicked that they would not ſet themſelves againſt God's people, ſeeing that God at his time deſtroyeth them that rule wickedly.

[n] God's wrath is compared to a cup of ſtrong and delicate wine, wherewith the wicked are made ſo drunk, that by drinking till they come to the very dregs, they are utterly deſtroyed.

[o] The godly ſhall better proſper by their innocent ſimplicity, than the wicked ſhall by all their craft and ſubtilty.

[p] He declareth that God's power is evidently ſeen in preſerving his people, and deſtroying his enemies.

[q] Which afterward was called Jeruſalem.

[r] He compareth the kingdoms full of extortion and rapine to the mountains that are full of ravening beaſts.

[s] God hath taken their ſpirits and ſtrength from them, as though their hands were cut off.

[t] God with a look is able to deſtroy all the power and activity of the enemies, were they never ſo many or mighty.

[u] To revenge the wrongs done to thy church.

[x] For the end ſhall ſhew that the enemy was able to bring nothing to paſs: alſo thou ſhalt bridle their rage, that they ſhall not compaſs their purpoſe.

[y] To wit, the Levites that dwell about the tabernacle, or the people among whom he doth dwell.

[z] The Hebrew word ſignifieth to vintage, or gather grapes: meaning that he ſhall make the counſels and enterpriſes of wicked tyrants fooliſh and vain.

[a] The prophet teacheth us by his example to flee unto God for help in our neceſſities.

[b] He ſheweth that we muſt patiently abide, although God deliver us not out of our troubles at the firſt cry.

[c] Meaning, that his ſorrows were as watchmen that kept his eyes from ſleeping.

6 I called to remembrance my [d] ſong in the night: I communed with mine own heart, and my ſpirit ſearched [e] diligently.

7 Will the Lord abſent himſelf for ever? and will he ſhew no more favour?

8 Is his [f] mercy clean gone for ever? doth his promiſe fail for evermore?

9 Hath God forgotten to be merciful? hath he ſhut up his tender mercies in diſpleaſure? Selah.

10 And I ſaid, This is my [g] death: yet I remembered the years of the right hand of the moſt High.

11 I remembered the works of the Lord: certainly I remembered thy wonders of old.

12 I did alſo meditate on all thy works, and did deviſe of thine acts, ſaying,

13 Thy way, O God, is [h] in the ſanctuary: who is ſo great a [i] God as our God?

14 Thou art the God that doeſt wonders: thou haſt declared thy power among the people.

15 Thou haſt redeemed thy people with thine arm, even the ſons of Jacob and Joſeph. Selah.

16 The [k] waters ſaw thee, O God: the waters ſaw thee, and were afraid: yea, the depths trembled.

17 The clouds poured out water: the heavens gave a [l] ſound: yea, thine arrows went abroad.

18 The voice of thy thunder was round about: the lightnings lightened the world: the earth trembled and ſhook.

19 Thy way is in the ſea, and thy paths in the great waters, and thy footſteps are not [m] known.

20 Thou didſt lead thy people like ſheep, by the hand of Moſes and Aaron.

PSALM LXXVIII.

1 He ſheweth how God of his mercy choſe his church of the poſterity of Abraham, 8 reproaching the ſtubborn rebellion of their fathers; that the children might not only underſtand, 11 that God of his free mercy made his covenant with their anceſtors, 17 but alſo ſeeing them ſo malicious and perverſe, might be aſhamed, and ſo turn wholly to God. In this Pſalm the Holy Ghoſt hath comprehended, as it were, the ſum of all God's benefits, to the intent the ignorant and groſs people might ſee in few words the effect of the whole hiſtories of the Bible.

¶ A Pſalm to give [n] inſtruction; committed to Aſaph.

HEAR my [o] doctrine, O my people: incline your ears unto the words of my mouth.

2 I will open my mouth in a parable: I will declare high ſentences of old,

3 Which we have heard and known, and our [p] fathers have told us.

4 We will not hide them from their children, but to the generation to come we will ſhew the praiſes of the Lord, his power alſo, and his wonderful works that he hath done:

5 How he eſtabliſhed a [q] teſtimony in Jacob, and ordained a law in Iſrael, when he commanded our fathers, that they ſhould teach their children:

6 That the [r] poſterity might know it, and the children which ſhould be born, ſhould ſtand up, and declare it to their children:

7 That they might [s] ſet their hope on God, and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments:

8 And not to be as their [t] fathers, a diſobedient and rebellious generation: a generation that ſet not their heart aright, and whoſe ſpirit was not faithful unto God.

9 The children of [u] Ephraim being armed, and ſhooting with the bow, turned back in the day of battle.

10 They kept not the covenant of God, but refuſed to walk in his law.

11 And forgat his acts, and his wonderful works that he had ſhewed them.

12 He did marvellous things in the ſight of their [w] fathers in the land of Egypt, even in the field of Zoan.

13 * He divided the ſea, and led them through: he made alſo the waters to ſtand as an heap. * Exod. 14. 21.

14 * In the day-time alſo he led them with a cloud, and all the night with a light of fire. * Exod. 14. 24.

15 * He clave the rocks in the wilderneſs, and gave them drink as of the great depths. * Exod. 17. 6.

16 * He brought floods alſo out of the ſtony rock, ſo that he made the waters to deſcend like the rivers. * Num. 20. 11.

17 And they [x] ſinned ſtill againſt him, and provoked the Higheſt in the wilderneſs.

18 And tempted God in their hearts in [y] requiring meat for their luſt.

---

[d] Of thankſgiving, which I was accuſtomed to ſing in my proſperity.

[e] Both the cauſes why I was chaſtened, and when my ſorrows ſhould have an end.

[f] As if he ſhould ſay, It is impoſſible: whereby he exhorteth himſelf to patience.

[g] Though I firſt doubted of my life, yet conſidering that God had his years, that is, change of times, and was accuſtomed alſo to lift up them whom he hath beaten, I took heart again.

[h] That is, in heaven, whereunto we muſt aſcend by faith, if we will know the ways of God.

[i] He condemneth all that worſhip any thing ſave the only true God, whoſe glory appeareth through the world.

[k] He declareth, wherein the power of God was declared, when he delivered the Iſraelites through the Red Sea.

[l] That is, thundered and lightened.

[m] For when thou hadſt brought over thy people, the water returned to her courſe, and the enemies that thought to have followed them, could not paſs through, Exod. 14. 28, 29.

[n] Read Pſalm 32.

[o] The prophet, under the name of a teacher, calleth the people his, and the doctrine his, as Paul calleth the goſpel his, whereof he was but the preacher, as Rom. 2. 16. and 16. 25.

[p] Which were the people of God.

[q] By the teſtimony and law, he meaneth the law written, which they were commanded to teach their children, Deut. 6. 7.

[r] He ſheweth wherein the children ſhould be like their fathers, that is, in maintaining God's pure religion.

[s] He ſheweth wherein the uſe of this doctrine ſtandeth: in faith, in the meditation of God's benefits, and in obedience.

[t] Though theſe fathers were the ſeed of Abraham, and the choſen people, yet he ſheweth by their rebellion, provocation, falſhood and hypocriſy, that the children ought not to follow their examples.

[u] By Ephraim he meaneth alſo the reſt of the tribes, becauſe they were moſt in number: whoſe puniſhment declareth that they were unfaithful to God, and by their multitude and authority had corrupted all others.

[w] He proveth that not only the poſterity, but alſo their forefathers were wicked and rebellious to God.

[x] Their wicked malice could be overcome by no benefits, which were great and many.

[y] Then to require more than is neceſſary, and to ſeparate God's power from his will, is to tempt God.

* Num. 11. 1. 19 * They ſpake againſt God alſo, ſaying, Can God [z] prepare a table in the wilderneſs?

* Exod. 17. 6. Num. 20. 11. Pſ. 105. 41. 1 Cor. 10. 4. 20 * Behold, he ſmote the rock, that the water guſhed out, and the ſtreams overflowed: can he give bread alſo? or prepare fleſh for his people?

* Num. 11. 1. 21 Therefore the Lord heard, and was angry, and the * fire was kindled in Jacob, and alſo wrath came upon Iſrael.

22 Becauſe they believed not in God, and [a] truſted not in his help.

23 Yet he had commanded the [b] clouds above, and had opened the doors of heaven.

24 And had rained down MAN upon them for to eat, and had given them of the wheat of heaven.

* John 6. 31. 1 Cor. 10. 3. 25 * Man did eat the bread of angels, he ſent them meat enough.

26 He cauſed the [c] eaſt wind to paſs in the heaven, and through his power he brought in the ſouth wind.

27 He rained fleſh alſo upon them as duſt, and feathered fowl as the ſand of the ſea.

28 And he made it fall in the midſt of their camp, even round about their habitations.

29 So they did eat and were well filled: for he gave them their deſire.

30 They were not turned from their [d] luſt, but the meat was yet in their mouths,

31 When the wrath of God came even upon them, and ſlew the [e] ſtrongeſt of them, and ſmote down the choſen men in Iſrael.

32 For all this, they [f] ſinned ſtill, and believed not his wondrous works.

33 Therefore their days did he conſume in vanity, and their years haſtily.

34 And when he [g] ſlew them, they ſought him, and they returned, and ſought God early.

35 And they remembered that God was their ſtrength, and the moſt high God their redeemer.

36 But they flattered him with their mouth, and diſſembled with him with their tongue.

37 For their [h] heart was not upright with him: neither were they faithful in his covenant.

38 Yet he, being merciful, [i] forgave their iniquity, and deſtroyed them not, but oft-times called back his anger, and did not ſtir up all his wrath,

39 For he remembered that they were fleſh: yea, a wind that paſſeth and cometh not again.

40 How oft did they provoke him in the wilderneſs? and grieve him in the deſert?

41 Yea, they [k] returned and tempted God, and [l] limited the holy one of Iſrael.

42 They [m] remembered not his hand, nor the day when he delivered them from the enemy,

43 Nor him that ſet his ſigns in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Zoan,

44 And turned their rivers into blood, and their floods that they could not drink.

45 He ſent [n] a ſwarm of flies among them, which devoured them, and frogs, which deſtroyed them.

46 He [o] gave alſo their fruits unto the caterpillar, and their labour unto the graſhopper.

47 He deſtroyed their vines with hail, and their wild fig-trees with the hail-ſtone.

48 He gave their cattle alſo to the hail, and their flocks to the thunderbolts.

49 He caſt upon them the fierceneſs of his anger, indignation and wrath, and vexation, by the ſending out of [p] evil angels.

50 He made a way to his anger: he ſpared not their ſoul from death, but gave their life to the peſtilence,

51 And ſmote all the firſt-born in Egypt, even the [q] beginning of their ſtrength in the tabernacles of [r] Ham.

52 But he made his people to go out like ſheep, and led them in the wilderneſs like a flock.

53 Yea, he carried them out ſafely, and they [s] feared not, and the ſea covered their enemies.

54 And he brought them unto the borders of his [t] ſanctuary: even to this mountain, which his right hand purchaſed.

55 * He caſt out the heathen alſo before them, and cauſed them to fall to the lot of his inheritance, and made the tribes of Iſrael to dwell in their tabernacles. * Joſh. 11. 6. and 13. 6.

56 Yet they tempted and provoked the moſt high God, and kept not his teſtimonies, 57 But turned back, and dealt [u] falſly, like their fathers: they turned like a deceitful bow.

58 And they [w] provoked him to anger with their high places, and moved him to wrath with their graven images.

59 God heard this, and was wroth, and greatly abhorred Iſrael,

---

[z] Thus when we give place to ſin, we are moved to doubt of God's power, except he will always be ready to ſerve our luſt.

[a] That is, in his fatherly providence, whereby he careth for his, and provideth ſufficiently.

[b] So that they had that which was neceſſary and ſufficient: but their luſt made them to covet that which they knew God had denied them.

[c] God uſed the means of the wind to teach them that all elements were at his commandment, and that no diſtance of place could let his working.

[d] Such is the nature of concupiſcence, that the more it hath, the more it luſteth.

[e] Though other were not ſpared, yet chiefly they ſuffered which truſted in their ſtrength againſt God.

[f] Thus ſin by continuance maketh men inſenſible, ſo that by no plagues they can be amended.

[g] Such was their hypocriſy, that they ſought unto God for fear of puniſhment, though in their heart they loved him not.

[h] Whatſoever cometh not from the pure fountain of the heart, is hypocriſy.

[i] Becauſe he would ever have ſome remnant of a church to praiſe his name in earth, he ſuffered not their ſins to overcome his mercy.

[k] That is, they tempted him oftentimes.

[l] As they all do that meaſure the power of God by their capacity.

[m] The forgetfulneſs of God's benefits is the root of rebellion and all vice.

[n] This word ſignifieth a confuſed mixture of flies and venemous worms. Some take it for all ſorts of ſerpents: ſome for all wild beaſts.

[o] He repeateth not here all the miracles that God did in Egypt, but certain which might be ſufficient to convince the people of malice and ingratitude.

[p] So called, either of the effect, that is, of puniſhing the wicked: or elſe, becauſe they were wicked ſpirits whom God permitted to vex men.

[q] The firſt-born are ſo called, as Gen. 49. 3.

[r] That is, Egypt: for it was called Mizraim, or Egypt, of Mizraim, that was the ſon of Ham.

[s] That is, they had no occaſion to fear, foraſmuch as God deſtroyed their enemies, and delivered them ſafely.

[t] Meaning, Canaan, which God had conſecrated to himſelf, and appointed to his people.

[u] Nothing more diſpleaſeth God in the children, than when they continue in that wickedneſs which their fathers had begun.

[w] By ſerving God otherwiſe than he had appointed.

60 So that he [x] forſook the habitation of Shiloh, even the tabernacle where he dwelt among men,

61 And delivered his [y] power into captivity, and his beauty into the enemies hand.

62 And he gave up his people to the ſword, and was angry with his inheritance.

63 The fire [z] devoured their choſen men, and their maids were not [a] praiſed.

64 Their prieſts fell by the ſword, and their [b] widows lamented not.

65 But the Lord awaked as one out of ſleep, and as a ſtrong man that after his [c] wine crieth out,

66 And ſmote his enemies in the hinder parts, aud put them to a perpetual ſhame.

67 Yet he refuſed the tabernacle of [d] Joſeph, and choſe not the tribe of Ephraim:

68 But choſe the tribe of Judah, and Mount Zion which he loved.

69 And he [e] built his ſanctuary as an high palace, like the earth, which he ſtabliſhed for ever.

70 He choſe David alſo his ſervant, and took him from the ſheep-folds:

71 Even from behind the ewes with young, brought he him to feed his people in Jacob, and his inheritance in Iſrael.

72 So [f] he fed them according to the ſimplicity of his heart, and guided them by the diſcretion of his hands.

PSALM LXXIX.

1 The Iſraelites complain to God for the great calamity and oppreſſion that they ſuffered by God's enemies, 8 and confeſſing their ſins, flee to God's mercies with full hope of deliverance, 10 becauſe their calamities were joined with the contempt of his name, 12 for the which they promiſe to be thankful.

¶ A Pſalm committed to Aſaph.

O God, the [g] heathen are come into thine inheritance: thine holy temple have they defiled, and made Jeruſalem heaps of ſtones.

2 The [h] dead bodies of thy ſervants have they given to be meat unto fowls of the heaven, and the fleſh of thy ſaints unto the beaſts of the earth.

3 Their blood have they ſhed like waters round about Jeruſalem, and there was none to [i] bury them.

4 We are a reproach to our [k] neighbours, even a ſcorn and deriſion unto them that are round about us.

5 Lord, how long wilt thou be angry, for ever? ſhall thy jealouſy [l] burn like fire?

6 * Pour out thy wrath upon the heathen that have not known thee, and upon the kingdoms that have not called upon thy name.

* Jer. 10. 25.

7 For they have devoured Jacob, and made his dwelling-place deſolate.

8 Remember not againſt us the [m] former iniquities, but [n] make haſte and let thy tender mercies prevent us: for we are in great miſery.

9 Help us, O God of our [o] ſalvation, for the glory of thy name, and deliver us, and be merciful unto our ſins for thy name's ſake.

10 Wherefore ſhould the heathen ſay, Where is their God? Let them be known among the heathen in our ſight by the vengeance of the blood of thy ſervants that is ſhed.

11 Let the ſighing of the [p] priſoners come before thee: according to thy mighty arm preſerve [q] the children of death.

12 And render to our neighbours ſevenfold into their boſom their reproach wherewith they have reproached thee, O Lord.

13 So we thy people, and ſheep of thy paſture, ſhall praiſe thee for ever: and from generation to generation [r] we will ſet forth thy praiſe.

14 Lord, why doſt thou reject my ſoul, and hideſt thy face from me?

15 I am afflicted and at the point of death: [n] from my youth I ſuffer thy terrors, doubting of my life.

16 Thine indignations go over me, and thy fear hath cut me off.

17 They came round about me daily like water, and compaſſed me together.

18 My lovers and friends haſt thou put away from me, and mine acquaintance † hid themſelves.

† Heb. were in darkneſs.

PSALM LXXXIX.

1 With many words doth the prophet praiſe the goodneſs of God, 23 for his teſtament and covenant, that he had made between him and his elect, by Jeſus Chriſt the ſon of David. 38 Then doth he complain of the great ruin and deſolation of the kingdom of David, ſo that to the outward appearance, the promiſe was

---

[r] That is, from moſt great danger of death: out of the which none, but only the mighty hand of God, could deliver him.

[s] He ſheweth that there can be no moderation nor equity where proud tyrants reign, and that the lack of God's fear is a privilege to all vice and cruelty.

[t] He boaſteth not of his own virtues, but confeſſeth that God of his free goodneſs hath ever been merciful unto him, and given him power againſt his enemies, as to one of his own houſhold.

[u] God did chuſe that place among the hills, to eſtabliſh Jeruſalem and his temple.

[w] Though thy glorious eſtate do not yet appear, yet wait with patience, and God will accompliſh his promiſe.

[x] That is, Egypt and theſe other countries ſhall come to the knowledge of God.

[y] It ſhall be ſaid of him that is regenerate, and come to the church, that he is as one that was born in the church.

[z] Out of all quarters they ſhall come into the church, and be counted as citizens.

[a] When he calleth by his word them into the church, whom he had elected and written in his book.

[b] The prophet ſetteth his whole affections and comfort in the church.

[c] That is, to humble. It was the beginning of a ſong, by the tune whereof this Pſalm was ſung.

[d] Though many cry in their ſorrows, yet they cry not earneſtly to God for remedy as he did: whom he confeſſed to be the author of his ſalvation.

[e] For he that is dead is free from all cares and buſineſs of this life, and thus he ſaith, becauſe he was unprofitable for all matters concerning man's life, and as it were cut off from this world.

[f] That is, from thy providence and care, which is meant according to the judgment of the fleſh.

[g] The ſtorms of thy wrath have overwhelmed me.

[h] He attributeth the wrath and diſpleaſure of his friends to God's providence, whereby he partly puniſheth, and parly trieth his.

[i] I ſee no end of my ſorrows.

[k] Mine eyes and face declare my ſorrows.

[l] He ſheweth that the time is more convenient for God to help, when men call unto him in their dangers, than to tarry till they be dead, and then raiſe them up again.

[m] That is, in the grave, where only the body lieth, without all ſenſe and remembrance.

[n] I am ever in great dangers and ſorrows, as though my life ſhould utterly be cut off every moment.

was broken. 46 Finally, he prayeth to be delivered from his afflictions, making mention of the ſhortneſs of man's life, and confirming himſelf by God's promiſes.

¶ A Pſalm to give inſtruction, of Ethan the Ezrahite.

I WILL [o] ſing the mercies of the Lord for ever: with my mouth will I declare thy truth from generation to generation.

2 For I [p] ſaid, Mercy ſhall be ſet up for ever: thy truth ſhalt thou [q] eſtabliſh in the very heavens.

3 [r] I have made a covenant with my choſen: I have ſworn to David my ſervant:

4 Thy ſeed ſhall I eſtabliſh for ever, and ſet up thy throne from generation to generation. Selah.

5 O Lord, even the [s] heavens ſhall praiſe thy wondrous work: yea, thy truth in the [t] congregation of the ſaints.

6 For who is equal to the Lord in the heaven? and who is like the Lord among the [u] ſons of the gods?

7 God is very terrible in the aſſembly of the [w] ſaints, and to be reverenced above all that are about him.

8 O Lord God of hoſts, who is like unto thee, which art a mighty Lord, and thy truth is about thee?

9 [x] Thou ruleſt the raging of the ſea: when the waves thereof ariſe, thou ſtilleſt them.

10 Thou haſt beaten down Rahab as a man ſlain: thou haſt ſcattered thine enemies with thy mighty arm.

11 The heavens are thine, the earth alſo is thine: thou haſt laid the foundation of the world, and all that therein is.

12 Thou haſt created the north and the ſouth: [y] Tabor and Hermon ſhall rejoice in thy name.

13 Thou haſt a mighty arm: ſtrong is thine hand, and high is thy right hand.

14 [z] Righteouſneſs and equity are the ſtabliſhment of thy throne: mercy and truth go before thy face.

15 Bleſſed is the people that can rejoice in thee: they ſhall walk in the light of thy [a] countenance, O Lord.

16 They ſhall rejoice continually in thy name, and in thy righteouſneſs ſhall they exalt themſelves.

17 For thou art the [c] glory of their ſtrength, and by thy favour our horns ſhall be exalted.

18 For our [d] ſhield appertaineth to the Lord, and our king to the holy One of Iſrael.

19 Thou ſpakeſt then in a viſion unto [e] thine holy one, and ſaidſt, I have laid help upon one that is [f] mighty: I have exalted one choſen out of the people.

20 I have found David my ſervant: with mine holy oil have I anointed him.

21 Therefore mine hand ſhall be eſtabliſhed with him, and mine arm ſhall ſtrengthen him.

22 The enemy ſhall not oppreſs him, neither ſhall the wicked hurt him.

23 But I will [g] deſtroy his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him.

24 My truth alſo and my [h] mercy ſhall be with him, and in my name ſhall his [i] horn be exalted.

25 I will ſet his hand alſo in the ſea, and his right hand in the [k] floods.

26 He ſhall cry unto me, Thou art my [l] father, my God, and the rock of my ſalvation.

27 Alſo I will make him my firſt-born, higher than the kings of the earth.

28 My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and my covenant ſhall ſtand faſt with him.

29 His ſeed will I make to endure for [m] ever, and his throne as the days of heaven.

30 But if his children forſake my law, and walk not in my judgments:

31 * If they break my ſtatutes, and keep not my commandments:

* 2 Sam. 7. 14.

32 Then will I viſit their tranſgreſſion with the rod, and their iniquity with ſtrokes.

33 [n] Yet my loving kindneſs will I not take from him, neither will I falſify my truth.

34 My covenant will I not break, nor [o] alter the thing that is gone out of my lips.

35 I have ſworn once by mine holineſs, † that I will not fail David, ſaying, † Heb. If I be unto David, which is a manner of oath.

36 His ſeed ſhall endure for ever, and his throne ſhall be as the ſun before me.

37 He ſhall be eſtabliſhed for evermore as the moon, and as a faithful [p] witneſs in the heaven.

38 But thou haſt rejected and abhorred, thou haſt been angry with thine anointed.

39 Thou haſt [q] broken the covenant of thy ſervant,

---

[o] Though the horrible confuſion of things might cauſe them to deſpair of God's favour, yet the manifold examples of his mercies, cauſe them to truſt in God, though to man's judgment they ſaw no occaſion.

[p] As he that ſurely believeth in heart.

[q] As thine inviſible heaven is not ſubject to any alteration and change: ſo ſhall the truth of thy promiſe be unchangeable.

[r] The prophet ſheweth what was the promiſe of God, whereon he grounded his faith.

[s] The angels ſhall praiſe thy power and faithfulneſs in delivering thy church.

[t] That is, in the heavens.

[u] Meaning, the angels.

[w] If the angels tremble before God's majeſty and infinite juſtice, what earthly creature, by oppreſſing the church, dare ſet himſelf againſt God?

[x] For as he delivered the church by the Red Sea, and by deſtroying Rahab, that is, the Egyptians: ſo will he eftſoon deliver it when the dangers be great.

[y] Tabor is a mountain weſtward from Jeruſalem, and Hermon eaſtward: ſo the prophet ſignifieth, that all parts and places of the world ſhall obey God's power for the deliverance of his church.

[z] For hereby he judgeth the world, and ſheweth himſelf a merciful father, and faithful protector unto his.

[a] Feeling in their conſcience that God is their father.

[b] They ſhall be preſerved by thy fatherly providence.

[c] In that they are preſerved and continue, they ought to give the praiſe and glory only to thee.

[d] In that, that our king hath power to defend us, it is the gift of God.

[e] To Samuel and to others, to aſſure that David was thy choſen one.

[f] Whom I have both choſen, and given him ſtrength to execute his office, as ver. 21.

[g] Though there ſhall be evermore enemies againſt God's kingdom, yet he promiſeth to overcome them.

[h] I will mercifully perform my promiſes to him, notwithſtanding his infirmities and offences.

[i] His power, glory, and eſtate.

[k] He ſhall enjoy the land round about.

[l] His excellent dignity ſhall appear herein, that he ſhall be named the ſon of God, and the firſt-born, wherein he is a figure of Chriſt.

[m] Though for the ſins of the people, the ſtate of this kingdom decayed, yet God reſerved ſtill a root, till he had accompliſhed this promiſe in Chriſt.

[n] Though the faithful anſwer not in all points to their profeſſion, yet God will not break his covenant with them.

[o] For God in promiſing hath reſpect to his mercy, and not to man's power in performing.

[p] As long as the ſun and moon endure, they ſhall be witneſſes to me of this promiſe.

[q] Becauſe of the horrible confuſion of things, the prophet complaineth to God, as though he ſaw not the performance of his promiſe. And thus diſcharging [illegible] God, he reſiſteth doubt and impatience.

ſervant, and profaned his [r] crown, caſting it on the ground.

40 Thou haſt broken down all his walls: thou haſt laid his fortreſſes in ruin.

41 All that go by the way ſpoil him: he is a rebuke unto his neighbours.

42 Thou haſt ſet up the right hand of his enemies, and made all his adverſaries to rejoice.

43 Thou haſt alſo turned the edge of his ſword, and haſt not made him to ſtand in the battle.

44 Thou haſt cauſed his dignity to decay, and caſt his throne to the ground.

45 The days of his [s] youth haſt thou ſhortened, and covered him with ſhame. Selah.

46 [t] Lord, how long wilt thou hide thyſelf, for ever? ſhall thy wrath burn like fire?

47 Remember [u] of what time I am: wherefore ſhouldeſt thou create in vain all the children of men?

48 What man liveth and ſhall not ſee death? ſhall he deliver his ſoul from the hand of the grave? Selah.

49 Lord, where are thy former mercies, which thou ſwareſt unto David in thy truth?

50 Remember, O Lord, the rebuke of thy ſervants, which I bear in my [x] boſom of all the mighty people.

51 For [y] thine enemies have reproached thee, O Lord, becauſe they have reproached the [z] footſteps of thine anointed.

52 Praiſed be the Lord for evermore. So be it, even ſo be it.

PSALM XC.

1 Moſes in his prayer ſetteth before us the eternal favour of God toward his, 3 who are neither admoniſhed by the brevity of their life, 7 nor by his plagues to be thankful: 12 Therefore Moſes prayeth God to turn their hearts, and continue his mercies toward them, and their poſterity for ever.

¶ A prayer of Moſes the [a] man of God.

LORD, thou haſt been our [b] habitation from generation to generation.

2 Before the [c] mountains were made, and before thou hadſt formed the earth, and the world, even from everlaſting to everlaſting, thou art our God.

3 Thou [d] turneſt man to deſtruction: again thou ſayeſt, Return, ye ſons of Adam.

4 [e] For a thouſand years in thy ſight are as yeſterday when it is paſt, and as a watch in the night.

5 Thou haſt [f] overflowed them: they are as a ſleep: in the morning he groweth like the graſs.

6 In the morning it flouriſheth and groweth, but in the evening it is cut down and withereth.

7 For we [g] are conſumed by thine anger, and by thy wrath are we troubled.

8 Thou haſt ſet our iniquities before thee, and our ſecret ſins in the light of thy countenance.

9 For all our days are paſt in thine anger: we have [h] ſpent our years as a thought.

10 The time of our life is threeſcore years and ten, and if they be of ſtrength, [i] fourſcore years: yet their ſtrength is but labour and ſorrow: for it is cut off quickly, and we flee away.

11 [k] Who knoweth the power of thy wrath? for according to thy fear is thine anger.

12 Teach us ſo to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto [l] wiſdom.

13 Return (O Lord, [m] how long?) and be ‡ pacified toward thy ſervants.

‡ Or, take comfort in thy ſervants.

14 Fill us with thy mercy in the morning: ſo ſhall we rejoice and be glad all our days.

15 Comfort us according to the days that thou haſt afflicted us, and according to the years that we have ſeen evil.

16 [n] Let thy work be ſeen toward thy ſervants, and thy glory upon their [o] children.

17 And let the [p] beauty of the Lord our God be upon us, and [q] direct thou the work of our hands upon us, even direct the work of our hands.

PSALM XCI.

1 Here is deſcribed in what aſſurance he liveth, that putteth his whole truſt in God, and committeth himſelf wholly to his protection in all temptations. 14 A promiſe of God to thoſe that love him, know him, and truſt in him, to deliver them, and give them immortal glory.

WHOSO dwelleth in the [r] ſecret of the Moſt High, ſhall abide in the ſhadow of the Almighty.

2 [s] I will ſay unto the Lord, O mine hope, and my fortreſs: he is my God, in him will I truſt.

3 Surely

[r] By this he meaneth, the horrible diſſipation and rending of the kingdom, which was under Jeroboam: or elſe by the Spirit of prophecy Ethan ſpeaketh of thoſe great miſeries which came ſoon afterward to paſs at the captivity of Babylon.

[s] He ſheweth that the kingdom fell before it came to perfection, or was ripe.

[t] The prophet, in joining prayer with his complaint, ſheweth that his faith never failed.

[u] Seeing man's life is ſhort, and thou haſt created man to beſtow thy benefits upon him, except thou haſte to help, death will prevent thee.

[x] He meaneth, that God's enemies did not only ſlander him behind his back: but alſo mocked him to his face, and, as it were, caſt their injuries in his boſom.

[y] So he calleth them that perſecute the church.

[z] They laugh at us which patiently wait for the coming of thy Chriſt.

[a] Thus the ſcripture uſeth to call the prophets.

[b] Thou haſt been as an houſe and defence unto us in all our troubles and travels now theſe four hundred years.

[c] Thou haſt choſen us to be thy people before the foundations of the world were laid.

[d] Moſes, by lamenting the frailty and ſhortneſs of man's life, moveth God to pity.

[e] Though man think his life long, which is indeed moſt ſhort, yea, though it were a thouſand years: yet in God's ſight it is as nothing, and as the watch that laſteth but three hours.

[f] Thou takeſt them away ſuddenly as with a flood.

[g] Thou calleſt us by thy rods to conſider the ſhortneſs of our life, and for our ſins thou abridgeſt our days.

[h] Our days are not only ſhort, but miſerable, foraſmuch as our ſins daily provoke thy wrath.

[i] Meaning, according to the common ſtate of life.

[k] If man's life for the brevity be miſerable, much more if thy wrath lie upon it, as they which fear thee only know.

[l] Which is, by conſidering the ſhortneſs of our life, and by meditating the heavenly joys.

[m] Meaning, wilt thou be angry?

[n] Even thy mercy, which is thy chiefeſt work.

[o] As God's promiſe appertained as well to their poſterity as to them, ſo Moſes prayeth for the poſterity.

[p] Meaning, that it was obſcured when he ceaſeth to do good to his church.

[q] For except thou guide us with thine Holy Spirit, our enterpriſes can have no good ſucceſs.

[r] He that maketh God his defence and truſt, ſhall perceive his protection to be a moſt true ſafeguard.

[s] Being aſſured of this protection, he prayeth unto the Lord.

3 Surely I will deliver thee from the [t] ſnare of the hunter, and from the noiſom peſtilence.

4 He will cover thee under his wings, and thou ſhalt be ſure under his feathers: his [u] truth ſhall be thy ſhield and buckler.

5 [w] Thou ſhalt not be afraid of the fear of the night, nor of the arrow that flieth by day:

6 Nor of the peſtilence that walketh in the darkneſs, nor of the plague that deſtroyeth at noon day.

7 A thouſand ſhall fall at thy ſide, and ten thouſand at thy right hand, but it ſhall not come near thee.

8 Doubtleſs with thine [x] eyes ſhalt thou behold and ſee the reward of the wicked:

9 For thou haſt ſaid, The Lord is mine hope: thou haſt ſet the Moſt High for thy refuge.

10 There ſhall none evil come unto thee, neither ſhall any plague come near thy tabernacle.

11 [y] For he ſhall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways.

12 They ſhall bear thee in their hands, that thou hurt not thy foot againſt a ſtone.

13 Thou ſhalt walk upon the lion and aſp: the [z] young lion and the dragon ſhalt thou tread under feet.

14 [a] Becauſe he hath loved me, therefore will I deliver him: I will exalt him, becauſe he hath known my name.

15 He ſhall call upon me, and I will hear him: I will be with him in trouble: I will deliver him, and glorify him.

16 With [b] long life will I ſatisfy him, and ſhew him my ſalvation.

P S A L M XCII.

1 This Pſalm was made to be ſung on the ſabbath, to ſtir up the people to acknowledge God, and to praiſe him in his works: the prophet rejoiceth therein. 6 But the wicked is not able to conſider that the ungodly, when he is moſt flouriſhing, ſhall moſt ſpeedily periſh. 12 In the end is deſcribed the felicity of the juſt, planted in the houſe of God to praiſe the Lord.

¶ A Pſalm or ſong for the [c] ſabbath-day.

IT is a good thing to praiſe the Lord, and to ſing unto thy name, O moſt High:

2 To declare thy loving kindneſs in the [d] morning, and thy truth in the night,

3 Upon an [e] inſtrument of ten ſtrings, and upon the viol, with the ſong upon the harp.

4 For thou, Lord, haſt made me glad by thy [f] works, and I will rejoice in the works of thine hands.

5 O Lord, how glorious are thy works! and thy thoughts are very deep.

6 An [g] unwiſe man knoweth it not, and a fool doth not underſtand this,

7 (When the wicked grow as the graſs, and all the workers of wickedneſs do flouriſh) that they ſhall be deſtroyed for ever.

8 But thou, O Lord, art [h] moſt high for evermore.

9 For lo, thine enemies, O Lord: for lo, thine enemies ſhall periſh: all the workers of iniquity ſhall be deſtroyed.

10 [i] But thou ſhalt exalt mine horn, like the unicorn's, and I ſhall be anointed with freſh oil.

11 Mine eyes alſo ſhall ſee my deſire againſt mine enemies: and mine ears ſhall hear my wiſh againſt the wicked, that riſe up againſt me.

12 The righteous ſhall [k] flouriſh like a palm-tree, and ſhall grow like a cedar in Lebanon.

13 Such as be planted in the houſe of the Lord, ſhall flouriſh in the courts of our God.

14 They ſhall bring forth fruit in their [l] age: they ſhall be fat and flouriſhing.

15 To declare that the Lord my rock is righteous, and that none iniquity is in him.

P S A L M XCIII.

1 He praiſeth the power of God in the creation of the world, and beateth down all people which lift them up againſt his majeſty, 5 and provoketh to conſider his promiſes.

THE Lord [m] reigneth, and is cloathed with majeſty: the Lord is cloathed, and girded with power: the world alſo ſhall be eſtabliſhed, that it cannot be moved.

2 Thy [n] throne is eſtabliſhed of old: thou art from everlaſting.

3 [o] The floods have lifted up, O Lord: the floods have lifted up their voice: the floods lift up their waves.

4 The waves of the ſea are marvellous through the noiſe of many waters, yet the Lord on high is more mighty.

5 Thy [p] teſtimonies are very ſure: holineſs becometh thine houſe, O Lord, for ever.

---

[t] That is, God's help is moſt ready for us, whether Satan aſſail us ſecretly, which he calleth a ſnare: or openly, which is here meant by the peſtilence.

[u] That is, his faithful keeping of promiſe to help thee in thy neceſſity.

[w] The care that God hath over his, is moſt ſufficient to defend them from all dangers.

[x] The godly ſhall have ſome experience of God's judgments againſt the wicked even in this life, but fully they ſhall ſee it at that day when all things ſhall be revealed.

[y] God hath not appointed every man one angel, but many to be miniſters of his providence to keep his, and defend them in their vocation, which is the way to walk in without tempting God.

[z] Thou ſhalt not only be preſerved from all evil, but overcome it, whether it be ſecret or open.

[a] To aſſure the faithful of God's protection, he bringeth in God to confirm the ſame.

[b] For he is contented with that life that God giveth: for by death the ſhortneſs of this life is recompenſed with immortality.

[c] Which teacheth that the uſe of the ſabbath ſtandeth in praiſing God, and not only in ceaſing from work.

[d] For God's mercy and fidelity in his promiſes toward his, bind them to praiſe him continually both day and night.

[e] Theſe inſtruments were then permitted, but at Chriſt's coming aboliſhed.

[f] He ſheweth what is the uſe of the ſabbath day: to wit, to meditate God's works.

[g] That is, the wicked conſider not God's works, nor his judgments againſt them, and therefore moſt juſtly periſh.

[h] Thy judgments are moſt conſtant againſt the wicked, and paſs our reach.

[i] Thou wilt ſtrengthen them with all power, and bleſs them with all felicity.

[k] Though the faithful ſeem to wither, and be cut down by the wicked, yet they ſhall grow again and flouriſh in the church of God, as the cedars do in mount Lebanon.

[l] The children of God ſhall have a power above nature, and their age ſhall bring forth moſt freſh fruits.

[m] As God by his power and wiſdom hath made and governeth the world: ſo muſt the ſame be our defence againſt all enemies and dangers.

[n] Wherein thou ſitteſt and governeſt the world.

[o] God's power appeareth in ruling the furious waters.

[p] Beſides God's power and wiſdom in creating and governing, his great mercy alſo appeareth, in that he hath given his people his word and covenant.

PSALM XCIV.

1 He prayeth unto God againſt the violence and arrogancy of tyrants, 10 warning them of God's judgments. 12 Then doth he comfort the afflicted by the good iſſue of their afflictions, as he felt in himſelf, and did ſee in others, and by the ruin of the wicked, 23 whom the Lord will deſtroy.

O Lord God [q] the avenger, O God the avenger, ſhew thyſelf [r] clearly.

2 Exalt thyſelf, O Judge of the world, and render a reward to the proud.

3 Lord, how long ſhall the wicked, how long ſhall the wicked [s] triumph?

4 They prate and ſpeak fiercely: all the workers of iniquity vaunt themſelves.

5 They [t] ſmite down thy people, O Lord, and trouble thine heritage.

6 They ſlay the widow and the ſtranger, and murder the fatherleſs.

7 [u] Yet they ſay, the Lord ſhall not ſee: neither will the God of Jacob regard it.

8 Underſtand, ye unwiſe among the people: and ye fools, when will ye be wiſe?

9 He that [w] planted the ear, ſhall he not hear? or he that formed the eye, ſhall he not ſee?

10 Or he that [x] chaſtiſeth the nations, ſhall he not correct? he that teacheth man knowledge, ſhall be not know?

11 The Lord knoweth the thoughts of man, that they are vanity.

12 Bleſſed is the man whom thou [y] chaſtiſeſt, O Lord, and teacheſt him in thy law,

13 That thou mayeſt give him reſt from the days of evil, while the pit is digged for the wicked.

14 Surely the Lord will not fail his people, neither will he forſake his inheritance.

15 For [z] judgment ſhall return to juſtice, and all the upright in heart ſhall follow after it.

16 Who will riſe up with me againſt the wicked? or who will take my part againſt the workers of iniquity?

17 If the Lord had not [a] holpen me, my ſoul had almoſt dwelt in ſilence.

18 When I ſaid, [b] My foot ſlideth, thy mercy, O Lord, ſtayed me.

19 In the multitude of my [c] thoughts in mine heart, thy comforts have rejoiced my ſoul.

20 Hath the thorn of iniquity [d] fellowſhip with thee, which forgeth wrong for a law?

21 They gather them together againſt the ſoul of the righteous, and condemn the innocent blood.

22 But the Lord is my refuge, and my God is the rock of my hope.

23 And he will recompenſe them their wickedneſs, and [e] deſtroy them in their own malice: yea, the Lord our God ſhall deſtroy them.

PSALM XCV.

1 An earneſt exhortation to praiſe God, 4 for the government of the world, and the election of his church. 8 An admonition not to follow the rebellion of the old fathers, that tempted God in the wilderneſs: 11 For the which they might not enter into the land of promiſe.

COME, let us rejoice unto the Lord: let us ſing [f] aloud unto the rock of our ſalvation.

2 Let us come before his face with praiſe: let us ſing loud unto him with Pſalms.

3 For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all [g] gods.

4 In whoſe hand are the deep places of the earth, and the [h] heights of the mountains are his:

5 To whom the ſea belongeth: for he made it, and his hands formed the dry land.

6 Come, let us [i] worſhip and fall down, and kneel before the Lord our maker.

7 For he is our God, and we are the people of his paſture, and the ſheep of his [k] hand: today if ye will hear his voice,

8 [l] Harden not your heart, as ‡ in Meribah, and as in the day of ‡ Maſſah in the wilderneſs.

9 Where your fathers * tempted me, proved me, though they had ſeen my work.

10 Forty years have I contended with this generation, and ſaid, They are a people that [m] err in heart, for they have not known my ways.

11 Wherefore I ſware in my wrath, ſaying, Surely they ſhall not enter into my [n] reſt.

‡ Or, in ſtrife: whereof the place was ſo called.
‡ Or, temptation, read Exod. 17.2.
* Num. 14. 22.

PSALM XCVI.

1 An exhortation both to the Jews and Gentiles to praiſe God for his mercy. And this ſpecially ought to be referred to the kingdom of Chriſt.

SING

[q] Whoſe office it is to take vengeance on the wicked.

[r] Shew by effect that thou art judge of the world to puniſh the wicked.

[s] That is, brag of their cruelty and oppreſſion: or eſteem themſelves above all other.

[t] Seeing the church was then ſo ſore oppreſſed, it ought not to ſeem ſtrange to us, if we ſee it ſo now, and therefore muſt call to God to take our cauſe in hand.

[u] He ſheweth, that they are deſperate in malice, foraſmuch as they feared not God, but gave themſelves wholly to do wickedly.

[w] He ſheweth that it is impoſſible but God ſhould hear, ſee, and underſtand their wickedneſs.

[x] If God puniſh whole nations for their ſins, it is mere folly for any one man, or elſe a few, to think that God will ſpare them.

[y] God hath care over his, and chaſtiſeth them for their wealth, that they ſhould not periſh for ever with the wicked.

[z] God will reſtore the ſtate and government of things to their right uſe, and then the godly ſhall follow him chearfully.

[a] He complaineth of them which would not help him to reſiſt the enemies: yet was aſſured that God's help would not fail.

[b] When I thought there was no way but death.

[c] In my trouble and diſtreſs I ever found thy preſent help.

[d] Though the wicked judges pretend juſtice in oppreſſing the church, yet they have not that authority of God.

[e] It is a great token of God's judgment, when the purpoſe of the wicked is broken, but moſt, when they are deſtroyed in their own malice.

[f] He ſheweth that God's ſervice ſtandeth not in dead ceremonies, but chiefly in the ſacrifice of praiſe and thankſgiving.

[g] Even the angels (who in reſpect of men are thought as gods) are nothing in his ſight: much leſs the idols which man's brain inventeth.

[h] All things are governed by his providence.

[i] By theſe three words he ſignifieth one thing: meaning, that they muſt wholly give themſelves to ſerve God.

[k] That is, the flock whom he governeth with his own hand. He ſheweth wherein they are God's flock: that is, if they hear his voice.

[m] They were without judgment and reaſon.

[n] That is, into the land of Canaan, where he promiſed them reſt.

SING [o] unto the Lord a new ſong: ſing unto the Lord, all the earth.

2 Sing unto the Lord, and praiſe his name: declare his ſalvation from day to day.

3 Declare his glory among all nations, and his wonders among all people.

4 For the Lord is [p] great and much to be praiſed: he is to be feared above all gods.

5 For all the gods of the people are ‡ idols: but the Lord [q] made the heavens. ‡ Or, vanities.

6 [r] Strength and glory are before him: power and beauty are in his ſanctuary.

7 Give unto the Lord, ye families of the people: give unto the Lord glory and [s] power.

8 Give unto the Lord the glory of his name: bring [t] an offering, and enter into his courts.

9 Worſhip the Lord in the glorious ſanctuary: tremble before him, all the earth.

10 Say among the [u] nations, The Lord reigneth: ſurely the world ſhall be ſtable, and not move, and he ſhall judge the people [w] in righteouſneſs.

11 Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad: let the ſea roar, and all that therein is.

12 Let the field be joyful, and all that is in it: let all the [x] trees of the wood then rejoice,

13 Before the Lord: for he cometh, for he cometh to judge the earth: he will judge the world with righteouſneſs, and the people in his truth.

PSALM XCVII.

1 The prophet exhorteth all to rejoice for the coming of the kingdom of Chriſt, 7 dreadful to the rebels and idolaters. 8 And joyful to the juſt, whom he exhorteth to innocency, 12 to rejoicing and thankſgiving.

THE [y] Lord reigneth: let the earth rejoice: let the [z] multitude of the iſles be glad.

2 [a] Clouds and darkneſs are round about him: righteouſneſs and judgment are the foundation of his throne.

3 There ſhall go a fire before him, and burn up his enemies round about.

4 His lightnings gave light unto the world: the earth ſaw it and was [b] afraid.

5 The mountains melted like wax at the preſence of the Lord, at the preſence of the Lord of the whole earth.

6 The heavens declare his righteouſneſs, and all the people ſee his glory.

7 [c] Confounded be all they that ſerve graven images, and that glory in idols: worſhip him [d], all ye gods.

8 Zion heard of it, and was glad: and the [e] daughters of Judah rejoiced, becauſe of thy judgments, O Lord.

9 For thou, Lord, art moſt high above all the earth: thou art much exalted above all gods.

10 Ye that [f] love the Lord, hate evil: he preſerveth the ſouls of his ſaints: he will deliver them from the hand of the wicked.

11 [g] Light is ſown for the righteous, and joy for the upright in heart.

12 Rejoice, ye righteous, in the Lord: and give thanks for his holy [h] remembrance.

PSALM XCVIII.

1 An earneſt exhortation to all creatures to praiſe the Lord for his power, mercy and fidelity in his promiſe by Chriſt, 10 by whom he hath communicated his ſalvation to all nations.

¶ A Pſalm.

SING [i] unto the Lord a new ſong: for he hath done marvellous things: * his right hand and his holy [k] arm hath gotten him the victory. * Iſa. lix. 16.

2 The Lord declared his [l] ſalvation: his righteouſneſs hath he revealed in the ſight of the nations.

3 He hath [m] remembered his mercy and his truth toward the houſe of Iſrael: all the ends of the earth have ſeen the ſalvation of our God.

4 All the earth, ſing ye loud unto the Lord: cry out and rejoice, and ſing praiſes.

5 Sing praiſe to the Lord upon the harp, even upon the harp with a ſinging voice.

6 With [n] ſhawms and ſound of trumpets, ſing loud before the Lord the king.

7 Let the ſea roar, and all that therein is, the world, and they that dwell therein.

8 Let the floods clap their hands, and let the mountains rejoice together

9 Before the Lord: for he is come to judge the earth: with righteouſneſs ſhall he judge the world, and the people with equity.

PSALM

[o] The prophet ſheweth that the time ſhall come, that all nations ſhall have occaſion to praiſe the Lord for the revealing of his goſpel.

[p] Seeing he will reveal himſelf to all nations contrary to their own expectation, they ought all to worſhip him contrary to their own imaginations, and only as he hath appointed.

[q] Then the idols, or whatſoever made not the heavens, are not God.

[r] God cannot be known, but by his ſtrength and glory: the ſigns whereof appear in his ſanctuary.

[s] As by experience ye ſee that it is only due unto him.

[t] By offering yourſelves wholly unto God, declare that you worſhip him only.

[u] He propheſieth that the Gentiles ſhall be partakers with the Jews of God's promiſe.

[w] He ſhall regenerate them anew with his Spirit, and reſtore them to the image of God.

[x] If the inſenſible creatures ſhall have cauſe to rejoice when God appeareth much more we, from whom he hath taken malediction and ſin.

[y] He ſheweth that whree God reigneth, there is all felicity and ſpiritual joy

[z] For the goſpel ſhall not be only preached in Judea, but through all iſles and countries.

[a] He is thus deſcribed to keep his enemies in fear, which commonly contemn God's power.

[b] This fear bringeth not the wicked to true obedience, but maketh them to run away from God.

[c] He ſignifieth that God's judgments are in a readineſs to deſtroy the idolaters.

[d] Let all that which is eſteemed in the world fall down before him.

[e] The Jews ſhall have occaſion to rejoice that the Gentiles are made partakers with them of God's favour.

[f] He requireth two things of his children, the one, that they deteſt vice; the other, that they put their truſt in God for their deliverance.

[g] Though God's deliverance appear not ſuddenly, yet it is ſown and laid up in ſtore for them.

[h] Be mindful of his benefits, and only truſt in his defence.

[i] That is, ſome ſong newly made in token of their wonderful deliverance by Chriſt.

[k] He preſerveth his church miraculouſly.

[m] God was moved by no other means to gather his church of the Jews and Gentiles, but becauſe he would perform his promiſe.

[n] By this repetition and earneſt exhortation to give praiſes with inſtruments, and alſo of the dumb creatures, he ſignifieth, that the world is never able to praiſe God ſufficiently for their deliverance.

PSALM XCIX.

1 He commendeth the power, equity and excellency of the kingdom of God by Chriſt over the Jews and Gentiles, 5 and provoketh them to magnify the ſame, and to ſerve the Lord, 6 following the example of the ancient fathers, Moſes, Aaron, Samuel, who calling upon God, were heard in their prayers.

THE Lord reigneth, let the [o] people tremble: he ſitteth between the * cherubims, let the earth be moved.

* Exod. 25. 25.

2 The Lord is great in Zion, and he is high above all the people.

3 They ſhall [p] praiſe thy great and fearful name (for it is holy.)

4 And the king's power that loveth judgment: for thou haſt prepared equity: thou haſt executed judgment and juſtice in Jacob.

5 Exalt the Lord our God, and fall down before his [q] footſtool: for he is holy.

6 Moſes and Aaron were among his prieſts, [r] and Samuel among ſuch as call upon his name: theſe called upon the Lord, and he heard them.

7 He ſpake unto them in the cloudy pillar: they kept his teſtimonies, and the law that he gave them.

8 Thou heardeſt them, O Lord our God: thou waſt a favourable God unto them, though thou didſt take vengeance for [s] their inventions.

9 Exalt the Lord our God, and fall down before his holy mountain: for the Lord our God is holy.

PSALM C.

1 He exhorteth all to ſerve the Lord, 3 who hath choſen us and preſerved us, 4 and to enter into his aſſemblies to praiſe his name.

¶ A Pſalm of praiſe.

SING [t] ye loud unto the Lord, all the earth.

2 Serve the Lord with gladneſs: come before him with joyfulneſs.

3 Know ye that even the Lord is God: he hath [u] made us, and not we ourſelves: we are his people, and the ſheep of his paſture.

4 [w] Enter into his gates with praiſe, and into his courts with rejoicing: praiſe him and bleſs his name.

5 For the Lord is good: his mercy is [x] everlaſting, and his truth is from generation to generation.

PSALM CI.

1 David deſcribeth what government he will obſerve in his houſe and kingdom. 5 He will puniſh and correct by rooting forth the wicked, 6 and cheriſhing the godly perſons.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

I Will [y] ſing mercy and judgment: unto thee, O Lord, will I ſing.

2 I will do wiſely in the perfect way, [z] till thou comeſt to me: I will walk in the uprightneſs of mine heart in the midſt of mine houſe.

3 I will ſet no wicked thing before mine eyes: I hate [a] the work of them that fall away: it ſhall not cleave unto me.

4 A froward heart ſhall depart from me: I will know none evil.

5 Him that privily [b] ſlandereth his neighbour, will I deſtroy: him that hath a proud look and high heart, I cannot ſuffer.

6 Mine eyes ſhall be unto the [c] faithful of the land, that they may dwell with me: he that walketh in a perfect way, he ſhall ſerve me.

7 There ſhall no deceitful perſon dwell within mine houſe: he that telleth lyes ſhall not remain in my ſight.

8 [d] Betimes will I deſtroy all the wicked of the land, that I may cut off all the workers of iniquity from the city of the Lord.

PSALM CII.

1 It ſeemeth that this prayer was appointed to the faithful to pray in the captivity of Babylon. 16 A conſolation for the building of the church. 18 Whereof followeth the praiſe of God to be publiſhed to all poſterity. 22 The converſion of the Gentiles, 28 and the ſtability of the church.

¶ A prayer [e] of the afflicted, when he ſhall be in diſtreſs, and pour forth his meditation before the Lord.

O Lord, hear my prayer, and let my [f] cry come unto thee.

2 Hide not thy face from me in the time of my trouble: incline thine ears unto me: when I call, make haſte to hear me.

3 For my days are [g] conſumed like ſmoak, and my bones are burnt like an hearth.

4 Mine heart is ſmitten and withereth like graſs, becauſe I forgat [h] to eat my bread.

5 For the voice of my groaning, my bones do cleave to my ſkin.

6 I

[o] When God delivereth his church, all the enemies ſhall have cauſe to tremble.

[p] Though the wicked rage againſt God, yet the godly ſhall praiſe his name and mighty power.

[q] That is, before his temple, or ark, where he promiſed to hear when they worſhipped him, as now he promiſeth his ſpiritual preſence, whereſoever his church is aſſembled.

[r] Under theſe three he comprehendeth the whole people of Iſrael, with whom God made his promiſe.

[s] For the more liberally that God dealeth with his people, the more doth he puniſh them that abuſe his benefits.

[t] He propheſieth that God's benefit in calling the Gentiles ſhall be ſo great, that they ſhall have wonderful occaſion to praiſe his mercy, and rejoice.

[u] He chiefly meaneth, touching the ſpiritual regeneration, whereby we are his ſheep and people.

[w] He ſheweth that God will not be worſhipped, but by that means which he hath appointed.

[x] He declareth, that we ought never to be weary in praiſing him, ſeeing his mercies toward us laſt for ever.

[y] David conſidereth what manner of king he would be when God ſhould place him in the throne, promiſing openly that he would be merciful and juſt.

[z] Though as yet thou deferreſt to place me in the kingly dignity, yet will I give myſelf to wiſdom and uprightneſs, being a private man.

[a] He ſheweth that magiſtrates do not their duties, except they be enemies to all vice.

[b] In promiſing to puniſh theſe vices, which are moſt pernicious in them that are about kings, he declareth that he will puniſh all.

[c] He ſheweth what is the true uſe of the ſword: to puniſh the wicked, and to maintain the good.

[d] Magiſtrates muſt immediately puniſh vice, leſt it grow to farther inconvenience: and if heathen magiſtrates are bound to do this, how much more they that have the charge of the church of God?

[e] Whereby is ſignified, that albeit we be in never ſo great miſeries, yet there is ever place left for prayer.

[f] He declareth, that in our prayer we muſt lively feel that which we deſire, and ſtedfaſtly believe to obtain.

[g] Theſe exceſſive kinds of ſpeech ſhew how much the affliction of the church ought to wound the hearts of the godly.

[h] My ſorrows were ſo great, that I paſſed not for mine ordinary food.

6 I am like a [i] pelican of the wilderneſs: I am like an owl of the deſerts.

7 I watch, and am as a ſparrow alone upon the houſe-top.

8 Mine enemies revile me daily, and they that rage againſt me, have [k] ſworn againſt me.

9 Surely, I have [l] eaten aſhes as bread, and mingled my drink with weeping:

10 Becauſe of thine [m] indignation, and thy wrath: for thou haſt heaved me up, and caſt me down.

11 My days are like a ſhadow that fadeth, and I am withered like graſs.

12 But thou, O Lord, doſt [n] remain for ever, and thy remembrance from generation to generation.

13 Thou wilt ariſe and have mercy upon Zion: for the time to have mercy thereon, for the [o] appointed time is come.

14 For thy ſervants delight in the [p] ſtones thereof, and have pity on the duſt thereof.

15 Then the heathen ſhall fear the name of the Lord, and all the kings of the earth thy glory,

16 When the Lord ſhall build up Zion, and ſhall appear [q] in his glory,

17 And ſhall turn unto the prayer of the deſolate, and not deſpiſe their prayer.

18 This ſhall be written for the generation to come: and the people, which ſhall be [r] created, ſhall praiſe the Lord.

19 For he hath looked down from the height of his ſanctuary: out of the heaven did the Lord behold the earth,

20 That he might hear the mourning of the priſoner, and deliver the [s] children of death:

21 That they may declare the name of the Lord in Zion, and his praiſe in Jeruſalem, 22 When the people ſhall be gathered [t] together, and the kingdoms to ſerve the Lord.

23 He [u] abated my ſtrength in the way, and ſhortened my days.

24 And I ſaid, O my God, take me not away in the midſt of my days: thy years endure from generation to generation.

25 Thou haſt aforetime laid the foundation of the earth, and the heavens are the work of thine hands.

26 [w] They ſhall periſh, but thou ſhalt endure: even they ſhall all wax old, as doth a garment: as doth a veſture ſhalt thou change them, and they ſhall be changed.

27 But thou art the ſame, and thy years ſhall not fail.

28 The children of thy ſervants ſhall continue, and their ſeed ſhall ſtand [x] faſt in thy ſight.

PSALM CIII.

1 He provoketh all to praiſe the Lord, which hath pardoned his ſins, delivered him from deſtruction, and given him ſufficient of all good things: 10 Then, he addeth the tender mercies of God, which he ſheweth like a moſt tender father toward his children. 14 The frailty of man's life. 20 An exhortation to men and angels to praiſe the Lord.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

MY ſoul, [y] praiſe thou the Lord, and all that is within me, praiſe his holy name.

2 My ſoul, praiſe thou the Lord, and forget not all his benefits:

3 Which [z] forgiveth all thine iniquity, and healeth all thine infirmities:

4 Which redeemeth thy life from the [a] grave, and crowneth thee with mercy and compaſſions:

5 Which ſatisfieth thy mouth with good things: and thy [b] youth is renewed like the eagle's.

6 The Lord executeth righteouſneſs and judgment to all that are oppreſſed.

7 He made his ways known unto [c] Moſes, and his works unto the children of Iſrael.

8 The Lord is full of compaſſion and mercy, ſlow to anger, and of great kindneſs.

9 He will not alway [d] chide, neither keep his anger for ever.

10 He hath not [e] dealt with us after our ſins, nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

11 For as high as the heaven is above the earth, ſo great is his mercy toward them that fear him.

12 As far as [f] the Eaſt is from the Weſt, ſo far hath he removed our ſins from us.

13 As a father hath compaſſion on his children, ſo hath the Lord compaſſion on them that fear him.

14 For he knoweth wherefore we be made: he remembereth that we are but duſt.

---

[i] Ever mourning and ſolitary, caſting out fearful cries.

[k] Have conſpired my death.

[l] I have not riſen out of my mourning, to take my refection.

[m] He ſheweth, that the afflictions did not only thus move him, but chiefly the feeling of God's diſpleaſure.

[n] Howſoever we be frail; yet thy promiſe is ſure, and the remembrance thereof ſhall confirm us for ever.

[o] That is, the ſeventy years, which by the prophet Jeremiah thou didſt appoint, Jer. 29. 12.

[p] The more that the church is in miſery and deſolation, the more ought the faithful to love and pity it.

[q] That is, when he ſhall have drawn his church out of the darkneſs of death.

[r] The deliverance of the church is a moſt excellent benefit, and therefore he compareth it to a new creation: for in their baniſhment the body of the church ſeemed to have been dead, which by deliverance was as it were created anew.

[s] Who now in their baniſhment could look for nothing but death.

[t] He ſheweth that God's name is never more praiſed, than when religion flouriſheth, and the church increaſeth: which thing is chiefly accompliſhed under the kingdom of Chriſt.

[u] The church lament that they ſee not the time of Chriſt, which was promiſed, but have but few years and ſhort days.

[w] If heaven and earth periſh, much more man ſhall periſh: but the church, by reaſon of God's promiſe, endureth for ever.

[x] Seeing thou haſt choſen thy church out of the world, and joined it to thee, it cannot but continue for ever: for thou art everlaſting.

[y] He wakeneth his dulneſs to praiſe God, ſhewing, that both underſtanding and affections, mind and heart, are too little to ſet forth his praiſe.

[z] This is the beginning and chiefeſt of all benefits: remiſſion of ſin.

[a] For before that we have remiſſion of our ſins, we are as dead men in the grave.

[b] As the eagle, when her beak over groweth, ſucketh blood, and ſo is renewed in ſtrength, even ſo God miraculouſly giveth ſtrength to his church above all man's expectation.

[c] As to his chief miniſter, and next to his people.

[d] He ſheweth firſt his ſevere judgment, but ſo ſoon as the ſinner is humbled, he receiveth him to mercy.

[e] We have proved by continual experience, that his mercy hath ever prevailed againſt our offences.

[f] As great as the world is, ſo full is it of ſigns of God's mercies toward his faithful, when he hath removed their ſins.

15 The days of [g] man are as graſs: as a flower of the field, ſo flouriſheth he.

16 For the wind goeth over it, and it is gone, and the place thereof ſhall know it no more.

17 But the loving kindneſs of the Lord endureth for ever and ever upon them that fear him, and his [h] righteouſneſs upon childrens children.

18 Unto them that keep his [i] covenant, and think upon his commandments to do them.

19 The Lord hath prepared his throne in heaven, and his kingdom ruleth over all.

20 Praiſe the Lord, ye [k] his angels, that excel in ſtrength, that do his commandment in obeying the voice of his word.

21 Praiſe the Lord, all ye his hoſts, ye his ſervants that do his pleaſure.

22 Praiſe the Lord, all ye his works, in all places of his dominion: my ſoul, praiſe thou the Lord.

PSALM CIV.

1 An excellent Pſalm to praiſe God for the creation of the world, and the governance of the ſame by his marvellous providence, 35 wherein the prophet prayeth againſt the wicked, who are occaſions that God diminiſhed his bleſſings.

MY ſoul, praiſe thou the Lord: O Lord my God, thou art exceeding great, thou art [l] cloathed with glory and honour.

2 Which covereth himſelf with light as with a garment, and ſpreadeth the heavens like a curtain.

3 Which layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters, and maketh the clouds his chariot, and walketh upon the wings of the wind.

4 Which [m] maketh the ſpirits his meſſengers, and a flaming fire his miniſters.

5 He ſet the earth upon her foundations, ſo that it ſhall never move.

6 Thou covereſt it with the [n] deep as with a garment: the [o] waters would ſtand above the mountains.

7 But at thy rebuke they flee: at the voice of thy thunder they haſte away.

8 And the mountains aſcend, and the vallies deſcend to the place which thou haſt eſtabliſhed for them.

9 But thou haſt ſet them a bound, which they ſhall not paſs: they ſhall not return to cover the earth.

10 He ſendeth the ſprings into the vallies which run between the mountains.

11 They ſhall give drink to all the [p] beaſts of the field, and the wild aſſes ſhall quench their thirſt.

12 By theſe [q] ſprings ſhall the fowls of the heaven dwell, and ſing among the branches.

13 He watereth the mountains from his [r] chambers, and the earth is filled with the fruit of thy works.

14 He cauſeth graſs to grow for the cattle, and herb for the uſe of [s] man, that he may bring forth bread out of the earth:

15 And wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oil to make the face to ſhine, and bread that ſtrengtheneth man's heart.

16 The high trees are ſatisfied, even the cedars of Lebanon which he hath planted, 17 That the birds may make their neſts there: the ſtork dwelleth in the fir-trees.

18 The high mountains are for the ‡ goats: the rocks are a refuge for the conies.

‡ Or, does, roes, and ſuch like.

19 He appointed the [t] moon for certain ſeaſons: [u] the ſun knoweth his going down.

20 Thou makeſt darkneſs, and it is night, wherein all the beaſts of the foreſt creep forth.

21 The lions roar after their prey, and ſeek their meat [w] at God.

22 When the ſun riſeth, they retire, and couch in their dens.

23 [x] Then goeth man forth to his work, and to his labour until the evening.

24 O Lord, how [y] manifold are thy works! in wiſdom thou haſt made them all: the earth is full of thy riches.

25 So is this ſea great and wide: for therein are things creeping innumerable, both ſmall beaſts and great.

26 There go the ſhips, yea that ‡ Leviathan, which thou haſt made to play therein.

‡ Or, whales.

27 [z] All theſe wait upon thee, that thou mayeſt give them food in due ſeaſon.

28 Thou giveſt it to them, and they gather it: thou openeſt thine hand, and they are filled with good things.

29 But if thou [a] hide thy face, they are troubled: if thou take away their breath, they die and return to their duſt.

30 Again, if thou [b] ſend forth thy Spirit, they are created, and thou reneweſt the face of the earth.

31 Glo-

---

[g] He declareth, that man hath nothing in himſelf to move God to mercy, but only the confeſſion of his infirmity and miſery.

[h] His juſt and faithful keeping of his promiſe.

[i] To whom he giveth grace to fear him, and to obey his word.

[k] In that that we, who naturally are ſlow to praiſe God, exhort the angels, who willingly do it, we ſtir up ourſelves to conſider our duty, and awake out of our ſluggiſhneſs.

[l] The prophet ſheweth, that we need not to enter into the heavens to ſeek God, foraſmuch as all the order of nature, with the propriety and placing of the elements, are moſt lively mirrors to ſee his majeſty in.

[m] As the prophet here ſheweth, that all viſible powers are ready to ſerve God: ſo the apoſtle to the Hebrews 1. 7. beholdeth in this glaſs how the very angels alſo are obedient to his commandment.

[n] Thou makeſt the ſea to be an ornament unto the earth.

[o] If by thy power thou didſt not bridle the rage of the waters, it were not poſſible but the whole world ſhould be deſtroyed.

[p] If God provide for the very beaſts, much more will he extend his provident care to man.

[q] There is no part of the world ſo barren, where moſt evident ſigns of God's bleſſings appear not.

[r] From the clouds.

[s] He deſcribeth God's provident care over man, who doth not only provide neceſſary things for him, as herbs and other meat: but alſo things to rejoice and comfort him, as wine, and oil, or ointments.

[t] As to ſeparate the night from the day, and to note days, months, and years.

[u] That is, by his courſe, either far or near, it noteth ſummer, winter, and other ſeaſons.

[w] That is, they only find meat according to God's providence, who careth even for the brute beaſts.

[x] To wit, when the day ſpringeth: for the light is as it were a ſhield to defend man againſt the tyranny and fierceneſs of beaſts.

[y] He confeſſeth, that no tongue is able to expreſs God's words, nor mind to comprehend them.

[z] God is a moſt nouriſhing father, who provideth for all creatures their daily food.

[a] As by thy preſence all things have life: ſo if thou withdraw thy bleſſings, they all periſh.

[b] As the death of creatures ſheweth that we are nothing of ourſelves: ſo their generation declareth, that we receive all things of our Creator.

31 Glory be to the Lord for ever, let the Lord rejoice in his works.

32 He looketh on the earth and it trembleth: he toucheth the mountains, [c] and they ſmoke.

33 I will ſing unto the Lord all my life: I will praiſe my God, while I live.

34 Let my words be acceptable unto him: I will rejoice in the Lord.

35 Let the ſinners be [d] conſumed out of the earth, and the wicked till there be no more: O my ſoul, praiſe thou the Lord. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM CV.

1 He praiſeth the ſingular grace of God, who hath of all the people of the world choſen a peculiar people to himſelf, and having choſen them, never ceaſeth to do them good, even for his promiſe ſake.

PRAISE the Lord, and call upon his name: [e] declare his works among the people.

2 Sing unto him, ſing praiſe unto him, and talk of all his wondrous works.

3 Rejoice in his holy name, let the heart of them that ſeek the Lord, rejoice.

4 Seek the Lord and his [f] ſtrength: ſeek his face continually.

5 Remember his [g] marvellous works, that he hath done, his wonders, and the [h] judgments of his mouth,

6 Ye ſeed of Abraham his ſervant, ye children of Jacob, which are his elect.

7 He is the Lord our God: his judgments are through all the earth.

8 He hath alway remembered his covenant and promiſe, that he made to a thouſand generations,

9 Even that which he made with [i] Abraham, and his oath unto Iſaac:

10 And ſince hath confirmed it to Jacob for a law, and to Iſrael for an everlaſting covenant,

11 Saying, [k] Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the lot of your inheritance.

12 Albeit, they were few in number, yea, very few, and ſtrangers in the land,

13 And walked about from nation to nation, from one kingdom to another people,

14 Yet ſuffered he no man to do them wrong, but reproved [l] kings for their ſakes, ſaying,

15 Touch not mine [m] anointed, and do my [n] prophets no harm.

16 Moreover, he called a famine upon the land, and utterly brake the [o] ſtaff of bread.

17 But he ſent a man before them: Joſeph was ſold for a ſlave.

18 They held his feet in the ſtocks, and he was laid in irons,

19 Until [p] his appointed time came, and the counſel of the Lord had tried him.

20 The king ſent and looſed him: even the ruler of the people delivered him.

21 He made him lord of his houſe, and ruler of all his ſubſtance,

22 That he ſhould bind his [q] princes unto his will, and teach his ancients wiſdom.

23 Then Iſrael came to Egypt, and Jacob was a ſtranger in the land of Ham.

24 And he increaſed his people exceedingly, and made them ſtronger than their oppreſſors.

25 [r] He turned their heart to hate his people, and to deal craftily with his ſervants.

26 Then ſent he Moſes his ſervant, and Aaron whom he had choſen.

27 They ſhewed among them the meſſage of his ſigns, and wonders in the land of Ham.

28 He ſent darkneſs, and made it dark: and they were not [s] diſobedient unto his commiſſion.

29 * He turned their waters into blood, and ſlew their fiſh. * Exod. 7. 20.

30 * Their land brought forth frogs, even in their king's chambers. * Exod. 8. 6.

31 He [t] ſpake, and there came ſwarms of flies, and lice in all their quarters.

32 He gave them [u] hail for rain, and flames of fire in their land.

33 He ſmote their vines alſo and their fig-trees, and brake down the trees in their coaſts.

34 * He ſpake, and the graſhoppers came, and caterpillars innumerable,

35 And did eat up all the graſs in their land, and devoured the fruit of their ground.

36 * He ſmote alſo the firſt-born in their land, even the beginning of all their ſtrength. * Exod. 12. 29.

37 He brought them forth alſo with ſilver and gold, and there was [x] none feeble among their tribes.

38 Egypt was [y] glad at their departing: for the fear of them had fallen upon them.

39 He ſpread a cloud to be a covering, and fire to give light in the night.

40 They [z] aſked, and he brought quails, and he filled them with the bread of heaven.

41 He opened the rock, and the waters flowed out, and ran in the dry places like a river.

42 For

[c] God's merciful face giveth ſtrength to the earth, but his ſevere countenance burneth the mountains.

[d] Who infect the world, and ſo cauſe God that he cannot rejoice in his works.

[e] Foraſmuch as the Iſraelites were exempted from the common condemnation of the world, and were elected to be God's people, the prophet willeth them to ſhew themſelves mindful by thankſgiving.

[f] By the ſtrength and face, he meaneth the ark, where God declared his power and his preſence.

[g] Which he hath wrought in the deliverance of his people.

[h] Becauſe his power was thereby as lively declared, as if he ſhould have declared it by mouth.

[i] The promiſe which God made to Abraham to be his God, and the God of his ſeed after him, he renewed and repeated it again to his ſeed after him.

[k] He ſheweth, that they ſhould not enjoy the land of Canaan by any other means, but by reaſon of his covenant made with their fathers.

[l] That is, the king of Egypt, and the king of Gerar, Gen. 12. 17. & 20. 3.

[m] Thoſe whom I have ſanctified to be my people.

[n] Meaning, the old fathers, to whom God ſhewed himſelf plainly, and who were ſetters forth of his word.

[o] Either by ſending ſcarcity, or by taking away the ſtrength and nouriſhment thereof.

[p] So long he ſuffered adverſity, as God had appointed, and till he had tried ſufficiently his patience.

[q] That the very princes of the country ſhould be at Joſeph's commandment, and learn wiſdom of him.

[r] So is it in God, either to move the hearts of the wicked to love or hate God's children.

[s] Meaning, Moſes and Aaron.

[t] So that this vermin came not by fortune, but as God had appointed, and his prophet Moſes ſpake.

[u] It was ſtrange to ſee rain in Egypt, much more it was fearful to ſee hail.

[w] He ſheweth, that all creatures are armed againſt man, when God is his enemy: as at his commandment the graſhoppers deſtroyed the land.

[x] When the enemies felt God's plagues, his children by his providence were exempted.

[y] For God's plagues cauſed them rather to depart with the Iſraelites, than with their lives.

[z] Not for neceſſity, but for ſatisfying of their luſt.

42 For he remembered his holy [a] promiſe to Abraham his ſervant.

43 And he brought forth his people with [b] joy, and his choſen with gladneſs.

44 And gave them the lands of the heathen, and they took the labours of the people in poſſeſſion.

45 That they might keep [c] his ſtatutes, and obſerve his laws. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM CVI.

1 The people diſperſed under Antiochus, do magnify the goodneſs of God among the juſt and repentant: 4 Deſiring to be brought again into the land by God's merciful viſitation. 8 And after the manifold marvels of God wrought in their deliverance forth of Egypt, and the great ingratitude of the people rehearſed, 47 they do pray and deſire to be gathered from among the heathen, to the intent they may praiſe the name of the God of Iſrael.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

PRAISE [d] ye the Lord, becauſe he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Who can expreſs the noble acts of the Lord, or ſhew forth all his praiſe?

3 Bleſſed are they that [e] keep judgment, and do righteouſneſs at all times.

4 Remember me, O Lord, with the [f] favour of thy people: viſit me with thy ſalvation.

5 That I may ſee the felicity of thy choſen, and rejoice in the joy of thy people, and glory with thine inheritance.

6 We have [g] ſinned with our fathers: we have committed iniquity, and done wickedly.

7 Our fathers underſtood not thy wonders in Egypt, neither remembered they the multitude of thy mercies, but rebelled at the ſea, even at the Red Sea.

8 Nevertheleſs, he [h] ſaved them for his name's ſake, that he might make his power to be known.

9 And he rebuked the Red Sea, and it was dried up, and he led them in the deep, as in the wilderneſs.

10 And he ſaved them from the adverſaries hand, and delivered them from the hand of the enemy.

* Exod. 14. 27. 11 * And the waters covered their oppreſſors: not one of them was left.

12 Then [i] believed they his words, and ſang praiſe unto him.

13 But incontinently they forgat his works: they waited not for his [k] counſel,

14 But luſted with concupiſcence in the wilderneſs, and tempted God in the deſert.

15 Then he gave them their deſire, but he ſent [l] leanneſs into their ſoul.

16 They envied Moſes alſo in the tents, and Aaron the holy one of the Lord.

17 Therefore the earth opened and [m] ſwallowed up Dathan, and covered the company of Abiram.

18 And the fire was kindled in their aſſembly: the flame burnt up the wicked.

19 They made a calf in Horeb, and worſhipped the molten image.

20 Thus they turned their [n] glory into the ſimilitude of a bullock that eateth graſs.

21 They forgat God their Saviour, which had done great things in Egypt,

22 Wonderous works in the land of Ham, and fearful things by the Red Sea.

23 Therefore he minded to deſtroy them, had [o] not Moſes his choſen ſtood in the breach before him to turn away his wrath, leſt he ſhould deſtroy them.

24 Alſo they contemned that [p] pleaſant land, and believed not his word:

25 But murmured in their tents, and hearkened not unto the voice of the Lord.

26 Therefore [q] he lifted up his hand againſt them, to deſtroy them in the wilderneſs,

27 And to deſtroy their ſeed among the nations, and to ſcatter them throughout the countries.

28 They joined themſelves alſo unto [r] Baal-peor, and did eat the offerings of the [s] dead.

29 Thus they [t] provoked him unto anger with their inventions, and the plague brake in upon them.

30 But [u] Phinehas ſtood up, and executed judgment, and the plague was ſtayed.

31 * And it was [w] imputed unto him for righteouſneſs, from generation to generation for ever. * Num. 25. 12.

32 They angered him alſo at the waters of * Meribah, ſo that [x] Moſes was puniſhed for their ſakes. * Num. 20. 13. Pſ. 95. 8.

33 Becauſe they vexed his Spirit, ſo that he ſpake unadviſedly with his lips.

34 Neither deſtroyed they the people, as the Lord had commanded them.

35 But

---

[a] Which he confirmeth to the poſterity, in whom after a ſort the dead live and enjoy the promiſes.

[b] When the Egyptians lamented and were deſtroyed.

[c] That is the end why God preſerveth his church, becauſe they ſhould worſhip, and call upon him in this world.

[d] The prophet exhorteth the people to praiſe God for his benefits paſt, that thereby their minds may be ſtrengthened againſt all preſent troubles and deſpair.

[e] He ſheweth, that it is not enough to praiſe God with mouth, except the whole heart agree thereunto, and all our life be thereunto framed.

[f] Let the good will that thou beareſt to thy people, extend unto me, that thereby I may be received into the number of thine.

[g] By earneſt confeſſion, as well of their own, as of their fathers ſins, they ſhew that they had hope that God according to his promiſe would pity them.

[h] The ineſtimable goodneſs of God appeareth in this, that he would change the order of nature, rather than his people ſhould not be delivered, although they were wicked.

[i] The wonderful works of God cauſed them to believe for a time, and to praiſe him.

[k] They would prevent his wiſdom and providence.

[l] The abundance that God gave them, profited not, but made them pine away, becauſe God curſed it.

[m] By the greatneſs of the puniſhment, the heinous offence may be conſidered: for they that riſe againſt God's miniſters, rebel againſt him.

[n] He ſheweth, that all idolaters renounce God to be their glory, when inſtead of him they worſhip any creature, much more wood, ſtone, metal, or calves.

[o] If Moſes by his interceſſion had not obtained God's favour againſt their rebellions.

[p] That is, Canaan, which was as it were an earneſt penny of the heavenly inheritance.

[q] That is, he ſware. Sometimes alſo it meaneth to puniſh.

[r] Which was the idol of the Moabites.

[s] Sacrifices offered to the dead idols.

[t] Signifying, that whatſoever man inventeth of himſelf to ſerve God by, is deteſtable, and provoketh his anger.

[u] When all others neglected God's glory, he in his zeal killed the adulterers; and prevented God's wrath.

[w] This act declared his lively faith, and for his faith's ſake was accepted.

[x] If ſo notable a prophet of God eſcape not puniſhment, though others provoked him to ſin, how much more ſhall they be ſubject to God's judgment, which cauſe God's children to ſin?

35 But were mingled among the heathen, and learned their works,

36 And ſerved their idols, which were their ruin.

37 Yea, they offered their [y] ſons and their daughters unto devils,

38 And ſhed innocent blood, even the blood of their ſons and of their daughters, whom they offered unto the idols of Canaan, and the land was defiled with blood.

39 Thus were they ſtained with their own works, and went [z] a whoring with their own inventions.

40 Therefore was the wrath of the Lord kindled againſt his people, and he abhorred his own inheritance.

41 And he gave them into the hand of the heathen: and they that hated them, were lords over them.

42 Their enemies alſo oppreſſed them, and they were humbled under their hand.

43 Many a [a] time did he deliver them, but they provoked him by their counſels: therefore they were brought down by their iniquity.

44 Yet he ſaw when they were in affliction, and he heard their cry.

45 And he remembered his covenant toward them, and [b] repented according to the multitude of his mercies:

46 And gave them favour in the ſight of all them that led them captives.

47 Save us, O Lord our God, and [c] gather us from among the heathen, that we may praiſe thine holy name, and glory in thy praiſe.

48 Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael for ever and ever, and let all the people ſay, So be it. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM CVII.

1 The prophet exhorteth all thoſe that are redeemed by the Lord, and gathered unto him, to give thanks, 9 for this merciful providence of God governing all things at his good pleaſure, 20 ſending good and evil, proſperity and adverſity, to bring men unto him, 42 therefore as the righteous thereat rejoice, ſo ſhall the wicked have their mouths ſtopped.

PRAISE [d] the Lord, becauſe he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let them, [e] which have been redeemed of the Lord, ſhew how he hath delivered them from the hand of the oppreſſor,

3 And gathered them out of the lands, from the Eaſt, and from the Weſt, from the North, and from the ‡ South.

‡ Or, from the ſea: meaning the Red Sea, which was the South part of the land.

4 When they wandered in the deſert and wilderneſs out of the way, and found no city to dwell in.

5 [f] Both hungry and thirſty, their ſoul fainted in them.

6 Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them from their diſtreſs,

7 And led them forth by the right way, that they might go to a city of habitation.

8 Let them therefore confeſs before the Lord his loving kindneſs, and his wonderful works before the ſons of men.

9 For he ſatisfied the thirſty ſoul, and filled the hungry ſoul with goodneſs.

10 They that dwell in darkneſs and in the ſhadow of death, being bound in miſery and iron,

11 Becauſe they [g] rebelled againſt the words of the Lord, and deſpiſed the counſel of the Moſt High.

12 When he humbled their heart with heavineſs, then they fell down and there was no helper.

13 Then they [h] cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them from their diſtreſs.

14 He brought them out of darkneſs, and out of the ſhadow of death, and brake their bands aſunder.

15 Let them therefore confeſs before the Lord his loving kindneſs, and his wonderful works before the ſons of men.

16 For he hath broken the [i] gates of braſs, and burſt the bars of iron aſunder.

17 [k] Fools by reaſon of their tranſgreſſion, and becauſe of their iniquities are afflicted.

18 Their ſoul abhorreth all meat, and they are brought to death's door.

19 Then they cry unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivereth them from their diſtreſs.

20 [l] He ſendeth his word and healeth them, and delivereth them from their [m] graves.

21 Let them therefore confeſs before the Lord his loving kindneſs, and his wonderful works before the ſons of men.

22 And let them offer ſacrifices of [n] praiſe, and declare his works with rejoicing.

23 They that go down to the [o] ſea in ſhips, and occupy by the great waters,

---

[y] He ſheweth how monſtrous a thing idolatry is, which can win us to things abhorring to nature, whereas God's word cannot obtain moſt ſmall things.

[z] Then true chaſtity is, to cleave wholly and only unto God.

[a] The prophet ſheweth, that neither by menaces nor promiſes, we can come to God, except we be altogether newly reformed, and that his mercy over-cover and hide our malice.

[b] Not that God is changeable in himſelf, but that then he ſeemeth to us to repent, when he altereth his puniſhments and forgiveth us.

[c] Gather thy church which is diſperſed, and give us conſtancy under the croſs, that with one conſent we may all praiſe thee.

[d] This notable ſentence was in the beginning uſed, as the foot or tenor of the ſong which was oftentimes repeated.

[e] As this was true in the Jews, ſo is there none of God's elect that feel not his help in their neceſſity.

[f] He ſheweth, that there is no affliction ſo grievous, out of the which God will not deliver his; and alſo exhorteth them that are delivered, to be mindful of ſo great a benefit.

[g] Then the true way to obey God, is to follow his expreſs commandment: alſo hereby all are exhorted to deſcend into themſelves, foraſmuch as none are puniſhed but for their ſins.

[h] He ſheweth, that the cauſe why God doth puniſh us extremely is, becauſe we can be brought unto him by no other means.

[i] Where there ſeemeth to man's judgment no recovery, but all things are brought to deſpair, then God chiefly ſheweth his mighty power.

[k] They that have no fear of God, by his ſharp rods are brought to call upon him, and ſo find mercy.

[l] By healing them he declareth his good will toward them.

[m] Meaning, their diſeaſes, which had almoſt brought them to the grave, and corruption.

[n] Praiſe and confeſſion of God's benefits are the true ſacrifices of the godly.

[o] He ſheweth by the ſea what care God hath over man, for in that, that he delivereth them from the great dangers of the ſea, he delivereth them as it were from a thouſand deaths.

24 They ſee the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.

25 For he commandeth and raiſeth the ſtormy wind, and it lifteth up the waves thereof.

26 They mount up to the heaven, and deſcend to the deep, ſo that their ſoul [p] melteth for trouble.

27 They are toſſed to and fro, and ſtagger like a drunken man, and all their [q] cunning is gone.

28 Then they cry unto the Lord in their trouble, and he bringeth them out of their diſtreſs.

29 He turneth the ſtorm to calm, ſo that the waves thereof are ſtill.

30 When they are [r] quieted, they are glad, and he bringeth them unto the haven where they would be.

31 Let them therefore confeſs before the Lord his loving kindneſs, and his wonderful works before the ſons of men:

32 And let them exalt him in the [s] congregation of the people, and praiſe him in the aſſembly of the elders.

33 He turneth the floods into a wilderneſs, and the ſprings of water into drineſs,

‡ Or, ſaltneſs.

34 And a fruitful land into ‡ barrenneſs, for the wickedneſs of them that dwell therein.

35 Again, he [t] turneth the wilderneſs into pools of water, and the dry land into water ſprings.

36 And there he placeth the hungry, and they build a city to dwell in,

37 And ſow the fields, and plant vineyards, which bring forth fruitful [u] increaſe.

38 For he bleſſeth them, and they multiply exceedingly, and he diminiſheth not their cattle.

39 [x] Again, men are diminiſhed, and brought low by oppreſſion, evil and ſorrow.

40 He poureth [y] contempt upon princes, and cauſeth them to err in deſert places out of the way.

41 Yet he raiſeth up the poor out of miſery, and maketh him families like a flock of ſheep.

42 The [z] righteous ſhall ſee it and rejoice, and all iniquity ſhall ſtop her mouth.

43 Who is wiſe, that he may obſerve theſe things? for they ſhall underſtand the loving kindneſs of the Lord.

PSALM CVIII.

1 This Pſalm is compoſed of two other Pſalms before, the ſeven and fiftieth, and the ſixtieth. The manner here contained, is, 1 That David giveth himſelf with heart and voice to praiſe the Lord, 7 and aſſureth himſelf of the promiſe of God concerning his kingdom over Iſrael, and his power againſt other nations: 11 Who though he ſeem to forſake us for a time, yet he alone will in the end caſt down our enemies.

¶ A Pſalm or ſong of David.

O God, mine heart is [a] prepared, ſo is ‡ my tongue: I will ſing and give praiſe.

‡ Or, my glory, becauſe it chiefly ſetteth forth the glory of God.

2 Awake, viol and harp: I will awake early.

3 I will praiſe thee, O Lord, among the [b] people, and I will ſing unto thee among the nations.

4 For thy mercy is great above the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds.

5 [c] Exalt thyſelf, O God, above the heavens, and let thy glory be upon all the earth.

6 That thy beloved may be delivered: [d] help with thy right hand, and hear me.

7 God hath ſpoken in his [e] holineſs: therefore I will rejoice, I will divide Shechem, and meaſure the valley of Succoth.

8 Gilead ſhall be mine, and Manaſſeh ſhall be mine: Ephraim alſo ſhall be the ſtrength of mine head: Judah is my law-giver.

9 * Moab ſhall be my waſh-pot: over Edom will I caſt out my ſhoe: upon Paleſtina will I triumph.

* Pſ. 60. 8.

10 Who will lead me into the ſtrong city? who will bring me unto Edom?

11 [f] Wilt not thou, O God, which haſt forſaken us, and didſt not go forth, O God, with our armies?

12 Give us help againſt trouble: for vain is the help of man.

13 Through God we ſhall do valiantly: for he ſhall tread down our enemies.

PSALM CIX.

1 David being falſely accuſed by flatterers unto Saul, prayeth God to help him, and to deſtroy his enemies: 8 And under them he ſpeaketh of Judas the traitor unto Jeſus Chriſt, and of all the like enemies of the children of God: 27 And deſireth to be delivered, that his enemies may know the work to be of God. 30 Then doth he promiſe to give praiſes unto God.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

HOLD not thy tongue, O God of my [g] praiſe.

2 For the mouth of the wicked, and the mouth full of deceit are opened upon me: they have ſpoken unto me with a lying tongue.

3 They compaſſed me about alſo with words of hatred, and fought againſt me without a cauſe.

4 For my friendſhip they were mine adverſaries, [h] but I gave myſelf to prayer.

5 And they have rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my friendſhip.

---

[p] Their fear and danger is ſo great.

[q] When their art and means fail them, they are compelled to confeſs, that only God's providence doth preſerve them.

[r] Though before every drop ſeemed to fight one againſt another, yet at his commandment they are as ſtill as though they were frozen.

[s] This great benefit ought not only to be conſidered particularly, but magnified in all places and aſſemblies.

[t] For the love that he beareth to his church, he changeth the order of nature for their commodity.

[u] Continual increaſe and yearly.

[x] As God by his providence doth exalt men, ſo doth he alſo humble them by afflictions to know themſelves.

[y] For their wickedneſs and tyranny he cauſeth the people and ſubjects to contemn them.

[z] They, whoſe faith is lightened by God's Spirit, ſhall rejoice to ſee God's judgments againſt the wicked and ungodly.

[a] This earneſt affection declareth, that he is free from hypocriſy, and that ſluggiſhneſs taketh him not.

[b] He propheſieth of the calling of the Gentiles: for except they were called, they could not hear the goodneſs of God.

[c] Let all the world ſee thy judgments, in that that thou art God over all, and ſo confeſs that thou art glorious.

[d] When God by his benefits maketh us partakers of his mercies, he admoniſheth us to be earneſt in prayer, to deſire him to continue and finiſh his graces.

[e] As he hath ſpoken to Samuel concerning me, ſo will he ſhew himſelf conſtant and holy in his promiſe, ſo that theſe nations following ſhall be ſubject unto me.

[f] From the ſixth verſe of this Pſalm, unto the laſt, read the expoſition in the ſixtieth Pſalm, and fifth verſe.

[g] Though all the world condemn me, yet thou wilt approve mine innocency, and that is a ſufficient praiſe to me.

[h] To declare that I had no other refuge but thee, in whom my conſcience was at reſt.

6 [i] Set thou the wicked over him, and let the adverſary ſtand at his right hand.

7 When he ſhall be judged, let him be condemned, and let his [k] prayer be turned into ſin.

8 Let his days be few: and let another take his [l] charge.

9 Let his children be fatherleſs, and his wife a widow.

10 Let his children be vagabonds, and beg and ſeek bread, coming out of their places deſtroyed.

11 Let the [m] extortioner catch all that he hath, and let the ſtrangers ſpoil his labour.

12 Let there be none to extend mercy unto him: neither let there be any to ſhew mercy upon his fatherleſs children.

13 Let his poſterity be deſtroyed, and in the generation following let their name be put out.

14 [n] Let the iniquity of his fathers be had in remembrance with the Lord: and let not the ſin of his mother be done away.

15 But let them alway be before the Lord, that he may cut off their memorial from the earth.

16 Becauſe [o] he remembered not to ſhew mercy, but perſecuted the afflicted and poor man, and the ſorrowful hearted to ſlay him.

17 As he loved curſing, [p] ſo ſhall it come unto him: and as he loved not bleſſing, ſo ſhall it be far from him.

18 As he cloathed himſelf with curſing, like a raiment, ſo ſhall it come into his bowels like water, and like oil into his bones.

19 Let it be unto him as a garment to cover him, and for a girdle wherewith he ſhall be alway girded.

20 Let this be the reward of mine adverſary [q] from the Lord, and of them that ſpeak evil againſt my ſoul.

21 But thou, O Lord my God, deal with me according to thy [r] name: deliver me (for thy mercy is good)

22 Becauſe I am poor and needy, and mine heart is wounded within me.

23 I depart like the ſhadow that declineth, and am ſhaken off as the [s] graſhopper.

24 My knees are weak through faſting, and my fleſh hath [t] loſt all fatneſs.

25 I became alſo a rebuke unto them: they that looked upon me ſhaked their heads.

26 Help me, O Lord my God: [u] ſave me according to thy mercy,

27 And they ſhall know, that this is thine hand, and that thou, Lord, haſt done it.

28 Though they [x] curſe, yet thou wilt bleſs: they ſhall ariſe and be confounded, but thy ſervant ſhall rejoice.

29 Let mine adverſaries be cloathed with ſhame, and let them cover themſelves with their confuſion, as with a cloak.

30 I will give thanks unto the Lord greatly with my [y] mouth, and praiſe him among the multitude.

31 For he will ſtand at the right hand of the poor, to ſave him from them that would [z] condemn his ſoul.

PSALM CX.

1 David propheſieth of the power and everlaſting kingdom given to Chriſt: 4 And of his prieſthood which ſhould put an end to the prieſthood of Levi.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

THE [a] Lord ſaid unto my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footſtool.

2 The Lord ſhall ſend the rod of thy power out of [b] Sion: be thou ruler in the midſt of thine enemies.

3 Thy people ſhall come willingly at the time of aſſembling [c] thine army in holy beauty: the youth of thy womb ſhall be as the morning dew.

4 The Lord ſware, and will not repent, Thou art a prieſt for ever after the order of [d] Melchizedek.

5 The Lord, that is at thy right hand, ſhall wound kings in the day of his wrath.

6 He ſhall be judge among the heathen: he ſhall fill all with dead bodies, and ſmite the [e] head over great countries.

7 He ſhall [f] drink of the brook in the way, therefore ſhall he lift up his head.

PSALM CXI.

1 He giveth thanks to the Lord for his merciful works toward his church: 10 And declareth wherein true wiſdom and right knowledge conſiſteth.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

I Will [g] praiſe the Lord with my whole heart, in the aſſembly and congregation of the juſt.

---

[i] Whether it were Doeg or Saul, or ſome familiar friend that had betrayed him, he prayeth not of private affection, but moved by God's Spirit, that God would take vengeance upon him.

[k] As to the elect all things turn to their profit: ſo to the reprobate, even thoſe things that are good turn to their damnation.

[m] He declareth, that the curſe of God lieth upon the extortioners, who thinking to enrich their children by their unlawful gotten goods, are by God's juſt judgment deprived of all.

[n] Thus puniſheth the Lord to the third and fourth generation the wickedneſs of the parents in their wicked children.

[o] He ſheweth, that God accuſtometh to plague them after a ſtrange ſort, that ſhew themſelves cruel toward others.

[p] Thus giveth the Lord to every man the things wherein he delighteth, that the reprobate cannot accuſe God of wrong, when they are given up to their luſts and reprobate minds.

[q] For being deſtitute of man's help, he fully truſted in the Lord, that he would deliver him.

[r] As thou art named merciful, gracious, and long-ſuffering, ſo ſhew thyſelf in effect.

[s] Meaning, that he hath no ſtay nor aſſurance in this world.

[t] For hunger, that came of ſorrow, he was lean, and his natural moiſture failed him.

[u] The more grievouſly Satan aſſailed him, the more earneſt and inſtant was he in prayer.

[x] They ſhall gain nothing by curſing me.

[y] Not only in confeſſing it ſecretly in myſelf, but alſo in declaring it before all the congregation.

[z] Hereby he ſheweth, that he had not to do with them that were of little power, but with the judges and princes of the world.

[a] Jeſus Chriſt, in Matt. 22. 44. giveth the interpretation hereof, and ſheweth, that this cannot properly be applied unto David, but to himſelf.

[b] And thence it ſhall ſtretch through all the world: and this power chiefly ſtandeth in the preaching of his word.

[c] By thy word, thy people ſhall be aſſembled into thy church, whoſe increaſe ſhall be ſo abundant and wonderful as the drop of the dew.

[d] As Melchizedek, the figure of Chriſt, was both king and prieſt: ſo the effect cannot be accompliſhed in any king, ſave only in Chriſt, Heb. 7. 26.

[e] No power ſhall be able to reſiſt him.

[f] Under this ſimilitude of a captain that is ſo greedy to deſtroy his enemies, that he will not ſcarce drink by the way, he ſheweth how God will deſtroy his enemies.

[g] The prophet declareth, that he will praiſe God both privately and openly, and that from the heart, as he that conſecrateth himſelf wholly and only unto God.

2 The works of the Lord are[h] great, and ought to be ſought out of all them that love them.

3 His work is beautiful and glorious, and his righteouſneſs endureth for ever.

4 He hath made his wonderful works to be had in remembrance: the Lord is merciful and full of compaſſion.

5 He hath given[i] a ‡ portion unto them that fear him: he will ever be mindful of his covenant.

‡ Or, prey and food.

6 He hath ſhewed to his people the power of his works, in giving unto them the heritage of the heathen.

7 The[k] works of his hands are truth and judgment: all his ſtatutes are true.

8 They are eſtabliſhed for ever and ever, and are done in truth and equity.

9 He ſent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant for ever: holy and fearful is his name.

10 [l] The beginning of wiſdom is the fear of the Lord: all they that obſerve[m] them, have good underſtanding: his praiſe endureth for ever.

PSALM CXII.

1 He praiſeth the felicity of them that fear God, 12 and contemneth the curſed ſtate of the contemners of God.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

BLeſſed is the man[n] that feareth the Lord, and delighteth greatly in his commandments.

2 His ſeed ſhall be mighty upon earth: the generation of the righteous ſhall be bleſſed.

3 [o] Riches and treaſures ſhall be in his houſe, and his righteouſneſs endureth for ever.

4 Unto the[p] righteous ariſeth light in darkneſs: he is merciful and full of compaſſion, and righteous.

5 A good man is merciful and[q] lendeth, and will meaſure his affairs by judgment.

6 Surely he ſhall never be moved: but the righteous ſhall be had in everlaſting remembrance.

7 He will not be afraid of evil things: for his heart is fixed, and believeth in the Lord.

8 His heart is eſtabliſhed: therefore he will not fear, until he ſee his deſire upon his enemies.

9 He hath[r] diſtributed and given to the poor: his righteouſneſs remaineth for ever: his[s] horn ſhall be exalted with glory.

10 The wicked ſhall ſee it, and be angry: he ſhall gnaſh with his teeth, and[t] conſume away: the deſire of the wicked ſhall periſh.

PSALM CXIII.

1 An exhortation to praiſe the Lord for his providence, 7 in that, that contrary to the courſe of nature, he worketh in his church.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

PRAISE, O ye ſervants of the Lord,[u] praiſe the name of the Lord.

2 Bleſſed be the name of the Lord from henceforth and for ever.

3 The Lord's name is praiſed from the riſing of the ſun, unto the going down of the ſame.

4 The Lord is high above all[w] nations, and his glory above the heavens.

5 Who is like unto the Lord our God, that hath his dwelling on high:

6 Who abaſeth himſelf to behold things in the heavens and in the earth!

7 He raiſeth the needy out of the duſt, and lifteth up the[x] poor out of the dung.

8 That he may ſet him with the princes, even with the princes of his people.

9 He maketh the barren woman to dwell with a family, and a joyful mother of children. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM CXIV.

1 How the Iſraelites were delivered forth of Egypt, and of the wonderful miracles that God wrought at that time: which put us in remembrance of God's great mercy toward his church, who, when the courſe of nature faileth, preſerveth his miraculouſly.

WHEN * Iſrael went out of Egypt, and the houſe of Jacob from the[y] barbarous people,

* Exod. 13. 3.

2 Judah was[z] his ſanctification, and Iſrael his dominion.

3 The ſea ſaw it and fled: Jordan was turned back.

4 The[a] mountains leaped like rams, and the hills as lambs.

5 What ailed thee, O ſea, that thou fleddeſt? O Jordan, why waſt thou turned back?

6 Ye mountains, why leaped ye like rams, and ye hills as lambs?

7 The[b] earth trembled at the preſence of the Lord, at the preſence of the God of Jacob.

8 Which

[h] He ſheweth, that God's works are a ſufficient cauſe wherefore we ſhould praiſe him, but chiefly his benefits toward his church.

[i] God hath given to his people all that was neceſſary for them, and will do ſtill even for his covenant's ſake, and in this ſenſe the Hebrew word is taken, Prov. 30. 8. and 31. 15.

[k] As God promiſed to take care of his church, ſo in effect doth he declare himſelf juſt and true in the government of the ſame.

[l] They only are wiſe that fear God, and none have underſtanding, but they that obey his word.

[m] To wit, his commandments, as ver. 7.

[n] He meaneth, that reverent fear which is in the children of God, which cauſeth them to delight only in the word of God.

[o] The godly ſhall have abundance, and contentment, becauſe their heart is ſatisfied in God only.

[p] The faithful in all their adverſities know that all ſhall go well with them, for God will be merciful and juſt.

[q] He ſheweth what is the fruit of mercy, to lend freely, and not for gain, and ſo to meaſure his doings, that he may be able to help where need requireth, and not to beſtow all on himſelf.

[r] The godly pinch not niggardly, but diſtribute liberally, as the neceſſity of the poor requireth, and as his power is able.

[s] His power and proſperous eſtate.

[t] The bleſſings of God upon his children ſhall cauſe the wicked to die for envy.

[u] By this often repetition he ſtirreth up our cold dulneſs to praiſe God, ſeeing his works are ſo wonderful, and that we are created for the ſame cauſe.

[w] If God's glory ſhine through all the world, and therefore of all ought to be praiſed, what great condemnation were it to his people, among whom chiefly it ſhineth, if they ſhould not earneſtly extol his name?

[x] By preferring the poor to high honour, and giving the barren children, he ſheweth that God worketh not only in his church by ordinary means, but alſo by miracles.

[y] That is, from them that were of a ſtrange language.

[z] The whole people were witneſſes of his holy majeſty, in adopting them, and of his mighty power in delivering them.

[a] Seeing that theſe dead creatures felt God's power, and after a ſort ſaw it, much more his people ought to conſider it, and glorify him for the ſame.

[b] Ought then his people to be inſenſible, when they ſee his power and majeſty?

8 Which [c] turneth the rock into water-pools, and the flint into a fountain of water.

PSALM CXV.

1 A prayer of the faithful oppreſſed by idolatrous tyrants, againſt whom they deſire that God would ſuccour them; 9 truſting moſt conſtantly that God will preſerve them in this their need, ſeeing that he hath adopted and received them to his favour, 18 promiſing finally, that they will not be unmindful of ſo great a benefit, if it would pleaſe God to hear their prayer, and deliver them by his omnipotent power.

NOT [d] unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy name give the glory, for thy loving mercy, and for thy truth's ſake.

2 Wherefore ſhall the heathen ſay, [e] Where is now their God?

3 But our God is in heaven: he doth whatſoever he [f] will.

4 Their idols are [g] ſilver and gold, even the work of men's hands.

5 They have a mouth and ſpeak not: they have eyes and ſee not.

6 They have ears and hear not: they have noſes and ſmell not.

7 They have [h] hands and touch not: they have feet and walk not: neither make they a ſound with their throat.

8 They that make them are [i] like unto them: ſo are all that truſt in them.

9 O Iſrael, truſt thou in the Lord: for he is their help and their ſhield.

10 [k] O houſe of Aaron, truſt ye in the Lord: for he is their help and their ſhield.

11 Ye that fear the Lord, truſt in the Lord: for he is their helper and their ſhield.

12 The Lord hath been mindful of us: he will bleſs, he [l] will bleſs the houſe of Iſrael, he will bleſs the houſe of Aaron.

13 He will bleſs them that fear the Lord, both ſmall and great.

14 The Lord will increaſe his graces toward you, even toward you and toward your children.

15 Ye are children of the Lord, which [m] made the heaven and the earth.

16 The [n] heavens, even the heavens are thy Lord's: but he hath given the earth to the ſons of men.

17 The dead praiſe not the Lord, neither any that [o] go down into the place of ſilence.

18 But we will praiſe the Lord from henceforth and for ever. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM CXVI.

1 David being in great danger of Saul in the deſert of Maon, perceiving the great and ineſtimable love of God toward him, magnifieth ſuch great mercies, 13 and proteſteth that he will be thankful for the ſame.

I [p] Love the Lord, becauſe he hath heard my voice and my prayers.

2 For he hath inclined his ear unto me, when I did call upon him [q] in my days.

3 When the ſnares of death compaſſed me about, and the griefs of the grave caught me: when I found trouble and ſorrow:

4 Then I called upon the name of the Lord, ſaying, I beſeech thee, O Lord, deliver my ſoul.

5 The Lord is [r] merciful and righteous, and our God is full of compaſſion.

6 The Lord preſerveth the ſimple: I was in miſery, and he ſaved me.

7 Return unto thy reſt, O [s] my ſoul: for the Lord hath been beneficial unto thee.

8 Becauſe thou haſt delivered my ſoul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling.

9 I ſhall [t] walk before the Lord in the land of the living.

10 [u] I believed, therefore did I ſpeak: for I was ſore troubled.

11 I ſaid in my [w] fear, All men are lyars.

12 What ſhall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?

13 I will [x] take the cup of ſalvation, and call upon the name of the Lord.

14 I will pay my vows unto the Lord, even now in the preſence of all his people.

15 Precious in the ſight of the Lord is the [y] death of his ſaints.

16 Behold, Lord: for I am thy ſervant, I am thy ſervant, and the ſon of thine handmaid: thou haſt broken my bonds.

17 I will offer to thee a ſacrifice of praiſe, and will call upon the name of the Lord.

18 I will pay my [z] vows unto the Lord, even now in the preſence of all his people.

19 In the courts of the Lord's houſe, even in the midſt of thee, O Jeruſalem. Praiſe ye the Lord.

[c] That is, cauſed miraculouſly water to come out of the rock in moſt abundance, Exod. 17. 6.

[d] Becauſe God promiſed to deliver them, not for their ſakes, but for his name, Iſa. 48. 11. therefore they ground their prayer upon this promiſe.

[e] When the wicked ſee that God accompliſheth not his promiſe, as they imagine, they think there is no God.

[f] No impediments can lett his work, but he uſeth even the impediments to ſerve his will.

[g] Seeing, that neither the matter nor the form can commend the idols, it followeth, that there is nothing why they ſhould be eſteemed.

[h] He ſheweth what great vanity it is to aſk help of them which not only have no help in them, but lack ſenſe and reaſon.

[i] As much without ſenſe as blocks and ſtones.

[k] For they were appointed by God as inſtructors and teachers of faith and religion for others to follow.

[l] That is, he will continue his graces toward his people.

[m] And therefore doth ſtill govern and continue all things therein.

[n] And they declare enough his ſufficiency, ſo that the world ſerveth him nothing, but to ſhew his fatherly care toward men.

[o] Though the dead ſet forth God's glory, yet he meaneth here, that they praiſe him not in his church and congregation.

[p] He granteth, that no pleaſure is ſo great as to feel God's help in our neceſſity, neither that any thing more ſtirreth up our love toward him.

[q] That is, in convenient time to ſeek help, which was when he was in diſtreſs.

[r] He ſheweth forth the fruit of his love, in calling upon him, confeſſing him to be juſt and merciful, and to help them that are deſtitute of aid and counſel.

[s] Which was unquieted before, now reſt upon the Lord, for he hath been beneficial towards thee.

[t] The Lord will preſerve me, and ſave my life.

[u] I felt all theſe things, and therefore was moved by faith to counſel them, 2 Cor. 4. 13.

[w] In my great diſtreſs I thought God would not regard man, which is but lyes and vanity, yet I overcame this temptation, and felt the contrary.

[x] In the law they uſed to make a banquet, when they gave ſolemn thanks to God, and to take the cup and drink in ſign of thankſgiving.

[y] I perceive that God hath a care over his, ſo that he both diſpoſeth their death, and taketh an account.

[z] I will thank him for his benefits: for that is a juſt payment, to confeſs that we owe all to God.

PSALM CXVII.

1 He exhorteth all the Gentiles to praiſe God, becauſe he hath accompliſhed, as well to them as to the Jews, the promiſe of life everlaſting by Jeſus Chriſt.

* Rom. 15. 11.

ALL * nations, praiſe ye the Lord: all ye people praiſe him.

2 For his loving kindneſs is great toward us, and the [a] truth of the Lord endureth for ever. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM CXVIII.

1 David rejected of Saul and of the people, at the time appointed obtained the kingdom. 4 For the which, he biddeth all them, that fear the Lord, to be thankful. And under his perſon, in all this was Chriſt lively ſet forth, who ſhould be of his people rejected.

PRAISE [b] ye the Lord, becauſe he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let Iſrael now ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.

3 Let the houſe of Aaron now ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.

4 Let them that fear the Lord, now ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.

5 I called upon the Lord in [c] trouble, and the Lord heard me, and ſet me at large.

6 The Lord is with me: therefore I will not fear what man [d] can do unto me.

7 The Lord is with me among them that help me: therefore ſhall I ſee my deſire upon mine enemies.

8 It is better to truſt in the Lord, than to have confidence [e] in man.

9 It is better to truſt in the Lord, than to have confidence in princes.

10 All nations have compaſſed me: but in the name of the Lord I ſhall deſtroy them.

11 They have compaſſed me: yea, they have compaſſed me: but in the name of the Lord I ſhall deſtroy them.

12 They came about me like bees, but they were quenched as a fire of thorns: for in the name of the Lord I ſhall deſtroy them.

13 [f] Thou haſt thruſt ſore at me that I might fall: but the Lord hath holpen me.

14 The Lord is my ſtrength and [g] ſong: for he hath been my deliverance.

15 The [h] voice of joy and deliverance ſhall be in the tabernacles of the righteous, ſaying, The right hand of the Lord hath done valiantly.

16 The right hand of the Lord is exalted: [i] the right hand of the Lord hath done valiantly.

17 I ſhall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord.

18 The Lord hath chaſtened me ſore, but he hath not delivered me to death.

19 Open ye unto me the [k] gates of righteouſneſs, that I may go into them, and praiſe the Lord.

20 This is the gate of the Lord: the righteous ſhall enter into it.

21 I will praiſe thee, for thou haſt heard me, and haſt been my deliverance.

* Iſa. 28. 16. Matt 21.42. Acts 4. 11. Rom. 9. 33. 1 Pet. 2. 6, 7.

22 * The ſtone which the builders [l] refuſed, is the head of the corner.

23 This was the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

24 This is the [m] day which the Lord hath made: let us rejoice and be glad in it.

25 [n] O Lord, I pray thee, ſave now: O Lord, I pray thee, now give proſperity.

26 Bleſſed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord: [o] we have bleſſed you out of the houſe of the Lord.

27 The Lord is mighty, and hath given us [p] light: bind the ſacrifice with cords unto the horns of the altar.

28 Thou art my God, and I will praiſe thee, even my God: therefore will I exalt thee.

29 Praiſe ye the Lord, becauſe he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

PSALM CXIX.

1 The prophet exhorteth the children of God to frame their lives according to his holy word: 123 Alſo he ſheweth wherein the true ſervice of God ſtandeth, that is, when we ſerve him according to his word, and not after our own fancies.

ALEPH.

BLeſſed are [q] thoſe that are upright in their way, and walk in the law of the Lord.

2 Bleſſed are they that keep his teſtimonies, and ſeek him with their whole heart.

3 Surely they work [r] none iniquity, but walk in his ways.

4 Thou haſt commanded to keep thy precepts diligently.

5 [s] O that my ways were directed to keep thy ſtatutes!

6 Then ſhould I not be confounded, when I have reſpect unto all thy commandments.

---

[a] That is, the moſt certain and continual teſtimonies of his fatherly grace.

[b] Becauſe God by creating David king, ſheweth his mercy toward his afflicted church, the prophet doth not only himſelf thank God, but exhorteth all the people to do the ſame.

[c] We are here taught, that the more that troubles oppreſs us, the more ought we to be inſtant in prayer.

[d] Being exalted to this eſtate, he aſſured himſelf to have man ever to be his enemy. Yet he doubted not but God would maintain him, becauſe he had placed him.

[e] He ſheweth that he had truſted in vain, if he had put his confidence in man, to have been preferred to the kingdom, and therefore he put his truſt in God, and obtained.

[f] He noteth Saul his chief enemy.

[g] In that he was delivered, it came not of himſelf, nor of the power of man, but only of God's favour, therefore he will praiſe him.

[h] He promiſeth both to render graces himſelf, and to cauſe others to do the ſame, becauſe that in his perſon the church was reſtored.

[i] So that all, that are both far and near, may ſee his mighty power.

[k] He willeth the doors of the tabernacle to be opened, that he may declare his thankful mind.

[l] Though Saul and the chief powers refuſed me to be king, yet God hath preferred me above them all.

[m] Wherein God hath ſhewed chiefly his mercy, by appointing me king, and delivering his church.

[n] The people pray for the proſperity of David's kingdom, who was the figure of Chriſt.

[o] Which are the prieſts, and have the charge thereof, as Num. 6. 23.

[p] Becauſe he hath reſtored us from darkneſs to light, we will offer ſacrifices and praiſes unto him.

[q] Hereby they are not called bleſſed, which think themſelves wiſe in their own judgment, nor which imagine to themſelves a certain holineſs, but they whoſe converſation is without hypocriſy.

[r] For they are ruled by God's Spirit, and embrace no doctrine but his.

[s] David acknowledgeth his imperfection, deſiring God to reform it, that his life may be conformable to God's word.

7 I will praiſe thee with an upright [t] heart, when I ſhall learn the [u] judgments of thy righteouſneſs.

8 I will keep thy ſtatutes: forſake me not [w] overlong.

BETH.

9 Wherewith ſhall a [x] young man redreſs his way? in taking heed thereto according to thy word.

10 With my whole heart have I ſought thee: let me not wander from thy commandments.

11 I have [y] hid thy promiſe in mine heart, that I might not ſin againſt thee.

12 Bleſſed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy ſtatutes.

13 With my lips have I declared all the judgments of thy mouth.

14 I have had as great [z] delight in the way of thy teſtimonies, as in all riches.

15 I will meditate in thy precepts, and conſider thy ways.

16 I will delight in thy ſtatutes, and I will not forget thy word.

GIMEL.

17 Be beneficial unto thy ſervant, that I may [a] live and keep thy word.

18 Open mine eyes, that I may ſee the wonders of thy law.

19 I am [b] a ſtranger upon earth: hide not thy commandments from me.

20 Mine heart breaketh for the deſire to thy judgments alway.

21 Thou [c] haſt deſtroyed the proud: curſed are they that do err from thy commandments.

22 Remove from me ſhame and contempt: for I have kept thy teſtimonies.

23 [d] Princes alſo did ſit, and ſpeak againſt me: but thy ſervant did meditate in thy ſtatutes.

24 Alſo thy teſtimonies are my delight, and my counſellors.

DALETH.

25 My ſoul cleaveth to the [e] duſt: quicken me according to thy word.

26 I have [f] declared my ways, and thou heardeſt me: teach me thy ſtatutes.

27 Make me to underſtand the way of thy precepts, and I will meditate in thy wonderous works.

28 My ſoul melteth for heavineſs: raiſe me up according unto thy [g] word.

29 Take from me the [h] way of lying, and grant me graciouſly thy law.

30 I have choſen the way of truth, and thy judgments have I laid before me.

31 I have cleaved to thy teſtimonies, O Lord: confound me not.

32 I will run the way of thy commandments, when [i] thou ſhalt enlarge my heart.

HE.

33 Teach [k] me, O Lord, the way of thy ſtatutes, and I will keep it unto the end.

34 Give me underſtanding, and I will keep thy law: yea, I will keep it with my whole [l] heart.

35 Direct me in the path of thy commandments: for therein is my delight.

36 Incline mine heart unto thy teſtimonies, and not to [m] covetouſneſs.

37 Turn away mine [n] eyes from regarding vanity, and quicken me in thy way.

38 Stabliſh thy promiſe to thy ſervant, becauſe he feareth thee.

39 Take away [o] my rebuke that I fear: for thy judgments are good.

40 Behold, I deſire thy commandments; [p] quicken me in thy righteouſneſs.

VAU.

41 And let thy [q] loving kindneſs come unto me, O Lord, and thy ſalvation according to thy promiſe.

42 So ſhall I [r] make anſwer unto my blaſphemers: for I truſt in thy word.

43 And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth: for I wait for thy judgments.

44 So ſhall I alway keep thy law for ever and ever.

45 And I will [s] walk at liberty: for I ſeek thy precepts.

46 I will ſpeak alſo of thy teſtimonies before [t] kings, and will not be aſhamed.

47 And

---

[t] For true religion ſtandeth in ſerving God without hypocriſy.

[u] That is, thy precepts, which contain perfect righteouſneſs.

[w] He refuſeth not to be tried by temptations, but he feareth to faint, if God ſuccour not his infirmity in time.

[x] Becauſe youth is moſt given to licentiouſneſs, he chiefly warneth them to frame their lives betimes to God's word.

[y] If God's word be graven in our hearts, we ſhall be more able to reſiſt the aſſaults of Satan: and therefore the prophet deſireth God to inſtruct him daily more and more therein.

[z] The prophet doth not boaſt of his virtues, but ſetteth forth an example for others to follow God's word, and leave worldly vanities.

[a] He ſheweth that we ought not to deſire to live, but to ſerve God; and that we cannot ſerve him aright, except he open our eyes and minds.

[b] Seeing man's life in this world is but a paſſage, what ſhould become of him, if thy word were not his guide?

[c] In all ages thou haſt plagued all ſuch which maliciouſly and contemptuouſly depart from thy truth.

[d] When the powers of the world gave falſe ſentence againſt me, thy word was a guide and counſellor to teach me what to do, and comfort me.

[e] That is, it is almoſt brought to the grave, and without thy word I cannot live.

[f] I have confeſſed mine offences, and now depend wholly on thee.

[g] If God did not maintain us by his word, our life would drop away like water.

[h] Inſtruct me in thy word, whereby my mind may be purged from vanity, and taught to obey thy will.

[i] By this he ſheweth, that we can neither chuſe good, cleave to God's word, nor run forward in his way, except he make our hearts large to receive his grace, and willing to obey.

[k] He ſheweth that he cannot follow on to the end, except God teach him oft-times, and lead him forward.

[m] Hereby meaning all other vices, becauſe that coveteouſneſs is the root of all evil.

[n] Meaning, all his ſenſes.

[o] Let me not fall to thy diſhonour, but let mine heart ſtill delight in thy gracious word.

[p] Give me ſtrength to continue in thy word even to the end.

[q] He ſheweth that God's mercy and love is the firſt cauſe of our ſalvation.

[r] By truſting in God's word, he aſſureth himſelf to be able to confute the ſlanders of his adverſaries.

[s] They that ſimply walk after God's word, have no lets to entangle them: whereas they that do contrary, are ever in nets and ſnares.

[t] He ſheweth that the children of God ought not to ſuffer their Father's glory to be obſcured by the vain pomp of princes.

47 And my delight ſhall be in thy commandments, which I have loved.

48 Mine hands alſo will I lift up unto thy commandments, which I have loved, and I will meditate in thy ſtatutes.

ZAIN.

49 Remember [u] the promiſe made to thy ſervant, wherein thou haſt cauſed me to truſt.

50 It is my comfort in trouble: for thy promiſe hath quickened me.

51 The [w] proud have had me exceedingly in deriſion: yet have I not declined from thy law.

52 I remembered thy [x] judgments of old, O Lord, and have been comforted.

53 [y] Fear is come upon me for the wicked that forſake thy law.

54 Thy ſtatutes have been my ſongs in the houſe of my [z] pilgrimage.

55 I have remembered thy name, O Lord, in the [a] night, and have kept thy law.

56 [b] This I had becauſe I kept thy precepts.

CHETH.

57 O Lord, that art my [c] portion, I have determined to keep thy words.

58 I made my ſupplication in thy preſence with my whole heart: be merciful unto me according to thy promiſe.

59 I have conſidered my [d] ways, and turned my feet into thy teſtimonies.

60 I made haſte and delayed not to keep thy commandments.

61 The bands of the wicked have [e] robbed me: but I have not forgotten thy law.

62 At midnight will I riſe to give thanks unto thee, becauſe of thy righteous judgments.

63 I am [f] a companion of all them that fear thee, and keep thy precepts.

64 The earth, O Lord, is full of thy mercy: [g] teach me thy ſtatutes.

TETH.

65 O Lord, thoy haſt dealt [h] graciouſly with thy ſervant according unto thy word.

66 Teach me good judgment and knowledge, for I have believed thy commandments.

67 Before I was [i] afflicted, I went aſtray: but now I keep thy word.

68 Thou art good and gracious: teach me thy ſtatutes.

69 The proud have imagined a lye againſt me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart.

70 [k] Their heart is fat as greaſe: but my delight is in thy law.

71 It is [l] good for me that I have been afflicted, that I may learn thy ſtatutes.

72 The law of thy mouth is better unto me than thouſands of gold and ſilver.

JOD.

73 Thine hands have [m] made me and faſhioned me, give me underſtanding therefore, that I may learn thy commandments.

74 So they that [n] fear thee, ſeeing me, ſhall rejoice, becauſe I have truſted in thy word.

75 I know, O Lord, that thy judgments are right, and that thou haſt afflicted me † juſtly.

76 I pray thee, that thy mercy may comfort me, according to thy promiſe unto thy ſervant.

77 Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may [o] live: for thy law is my delight.

78 Let the proud be aſhamed: for they have dealt wickedly and falſly with me: but I meditate in thy precepts.

79 Let ſuch as fear thee [p] turn unto me, and they that know thy [q] teſtimonies.

80 Let mine heart be upright in thy ſtatutes, that I be not aſhamed.

CAPH.

81 My ſoul [r] fainteth for thy ſalvation: yet I wait for thy word.

82 Mine eyes fail for thy promiſe, ſaying, When wilt thou comfort me?

83 For I am like a [s] bottle in the ſmoak: yet do I not forget thy ſtatutes.

84 How many are the [t] days of thy ſervant? When wilt thou execute judgment on them that perſecute me?

85 The proud have [u] digged pits for me, which is not after thy law.

86 All thy commandments are true: they perſecute me falſly: [w] help me.

87 They had almoſt conſumed [x] me upon the earth: but I forſook not thy precepts.

88 Quicken me according to thy loving kindneſs: ſo ſhall I keep the teſtimony of thy mouth.

89 O

[u] Though he feel God's hand ſtill to lie upon him, yet he reſteth on his promiſe, and comforteth himſelf therein.

[w] Meaning, the wicked which contemn God's word, and tread his religion under foot.

[x] That is, the examples whereby thou declareſt thyſelf to be judge of the world.

[y] That is, a vehement zeal to thy glory, and indignation againſt the wicked.

[z] In the courſe of this life and ſorrowful exile.

[a] Even when others ſleep.

[b] That is, all theſe benefits.

[c] I am perſuaded that to keep thy law is an heritage and great gain for me.

[d] He ſheweth, that none can embrace the word of God, except he conſider his own imperfections and ways.

[e] They have gone about to draw me into their company.

[f] Not only in mutual conſent, but alſo with aid and ſuccour.

[g] For the knowledge of God's word is a ſingular token of his favour.

[h] Having proved by experience that God was true in his promiſe, he deſireth that he would increaſe in him knowledge and judgment.

[i] So Jeremiah ſaith, that before the Lord touched him, he was like a calf untamed, ſo that the uſe of God's rods is to call us home to God.

[k] Their heart is indurate and hardened, puffed up with proſperity and vain eſtimation of themſelves.

[l] He confeſſeth, that before that he was chaſtened, he was rebellious, as man by nature is.

[m] Becauſe God leaveth not his work that he had begun, he deſireth a new grace, that is, that he would continue his mercies.

[n] When God ſheweth his grace toward any, he teſtifieth to others that he faileth not them that truſt in him.

[o] He declareth, that when he felt not God's mercies, he was as dead.

[p] That is, be comforted by mine example.

[q] He ſheweth, that there can be no true fear of God without the knowledge of his word.

[r] Though my ſtrength fail me, yet my ſoul groaneth, and ſigheth, reſting ſtill in thy word.

[s] Like a ſkin-bottle or bladder, that is parched in the ſmoke.

[t] How long wilt thou afflict thy ſervant?

[u] They have not only oppreſſed me violently, but alſo craftily conſpired againſt me,

[w] He aſſureth himſelf, that God will deliver his, and deſtroy ſuch as unjuſtly perſecute them.

[x] Finding no help in earth, he lifteth up his eyes to heaven.

LAMED.

89 O Lord, thy word endureth for ever in [y] heaven.

90 Thy truth is from generation to generation: thou haſt laid the foundation of the earth, and it abideth.

91 They [z] continue even to this day by thine ordinances: for all are thy ſervants.

92 Except thy law had been my delight, I ſhould now have periſhed in mine affliction.

93 I will never forget thy precepts: for by them thou haſt quickened me.

94 I am [a] thine, ſave me: for I have ſought thy precepts.

95 The wicked have waited for me to deſtroy me: but I will conſider thy teſtimonies.

96 I [b] have ſeen an end of all perfection: but thy commandment is exceeding large.

MEM.

97 Oh how love I thy law! [c] it is my meditation continually.

98 By thy commandments thou haſt made me wiſer than mine enemies: for they are ever with me.

99 I have had more [d] underſtanding than all my teachers: for thy teſtimonies are my meditation.

100 I underſtood more than the ancient, becauſe I kept thy precepts.

101 I have refrained my feet from every evil way, that I might keep thy word.

102 I have not declined from thy judgments: for [e] thou didſt teach me.

103 How ſweet are thy promiſes unto my mouth! yea, more than honey unto my mouth.

104 By thy precepts I have gotten underſtanding: therefore I hate all the ways of falſhood.

NUN.

105 Thy word is a [f] lantern unto my feet, and a light unto my path.

106 I have [g] ſworn, and will perform it, that I will keep thy righteous judgments.

107 I am very ſore afflicted: O Lord, quicken me according to thy word.

108 O Lord, I beſeech thee, accept the [h] free offerings of my mouth, and teach me thy judgments.

109 My [i] ſoul is continually in mine hand: yet do I not forget thy law.

110 The wicked have laid a ſnare for me: but I ſwerved not from thy precepts.

111 Thy teſtimonies have I taken as an [k] heritage for ever: for they are the joy of mine heart.

112 I have applied mine heart to fulfil thy ſtatutes alway, even to the end.

SAMECH.

113 I hate [l] vain inventions: but thy law do I love.

114 Thou art my refuge and ſhield, and I truſt in thy word.

115 [m] Away from me, ye wicked: for I will keep the commandments of my God.

116 Stabliſh me according to thy promiſe, that I may live, and diſappoint me not of mine hope.

117 [n] Stay thou me, and I ſhall be ſafe, and I will delight continually in thy ſtatutes.

118 Thou haſt trodden down all them that depart from thy ſtatutes: for their [o] deceit is vain.

119 Thou haſt taken away all the wicked of the earth like [p] droſs: therefore I love thy teſtimonies.

120 My fleſh [q] trembleth for fear of thee, and I am afraid of thy judgments.

AIN.

121 I have executed judgment and juſtice: leave me not to mine oppreſſors.

122 [r] Anſwer for thy ſervant in that which is good, and let not the proud oppreſs me.

123 Mine eyes have failed in waiting for thy ſalvation, and for thy juſt promiſe.

124 Deal with thy [s] ſervant according to thy mercy, and teach me thy ſtatutes.

125 I am thy ſervant: grant me therefore underſtanding, that I may know thy teſtimonies.

126 It is [t] time for thee, Lord, to work: for they have deſtroyed thy law.

127 Therefore love I thy commandments above gold, yea above moſt fine gold.

128 Therefore I eſteem all thy precepts moſt juſt, and hate all falſe [u] ways.

---

[y] Becauſe none ſhould eſteem God's word according to the changes of things in this world, he ſheweth that it abideth in heaven, and therefore is immutable.

[z] Seeing the earth and all creatures remain in that eſtate, wherein thou haſt created them, much more thy truth remaineth conſtant and unchangeable.

[a] He proveth by effect, that he is God's child, becauſe he ſeeketh to underſtand his word.

[b] There is nothing ſo perfect in earth but it hath an end, only God's word laſteth for ever.

[c] He ſheweth that we cannot love God's word except we exerciſe ourſelves therein, and practiſe it.

[d] Whoſoever doth ſubmit himſelf only to God's word, ſhall not only be ſafe againſt the practices of his enemies, but alſo learn more wiſdom than they that profeſs it, and are men of experience.

[e] So then of ourſelves we can do nothing, but when God doth inwardly inſtruct us with his Spirit, we feel his graces ſweeter than honey.

[f] Of ourſelves we are but darkneſs and cannot ſee, except we be lightened with God's word.

[g] So all the faithful ought to bind themſelves to God by a ſolemn oath and promiſe, to ſtir up their zeal to embrace God's word.

[h] That is, my prayers and thankſgiving, which ſacrifice Hoſea calleth, the calves of the lips, Hoſea 14. 3.

[i] That is, I am in continual danger of my life.

[k] I eſteemed no worldly things, but made thy word mine inheritance.

[l] Whoſoever will embrace God's word aright, muſt abhor all fancies and imaginations both of himſelf and others.

[m] And hinder me not to keep the law of the Lord.

[n] He deſireth God's continual aſſiſtance, leſt he ſhould faint in this race which he had begun.

[o] The crafty practices of them that contemn thy law, ſhall be brought to nought.

[p] Which infected thy people, as droſs doth the metal.

[q] Thy judgments do not only teach me obedience, but cauſe me to fear, conſidering mine own weakneſs, which fear cauſeth repentance.

[r] Put thyſelf between mine enemies and me, as if thou were my pledge.

[s] He boaſteth that he is God's ſervant, but hereby putteth God in mind, that as he made him by his grace, ſo he would continue his favour toward him.

[t] The prophet ſheweth, that when the wicked have brought all things to confuſion, and God's word to utter contempt, then it is God's time to help and ſend remedy.

[u] That is, whatſoever diſſenteth from the purity of thy word.

PE.

129 Thy teſtimonies are[w] wonderful: therefore doth my ſoul keep them.

130 The entrance into thy [x] words ſheweth light, and giveth underſtanding to the ſimple.

131 I opened my mouth and [y] panted, becauſe I loved thy commandments.

132 Look upon me and be merciful unto me, as thou uſeſt to do unto thoſe that love thy name.

133 Direct my ſteps in thy word, and let none iniquity have dominion over me.

134 Deliver me from the oppreſſion of men, and I will keep thy precepts.

135 Shew the light of thy countenance upon thy ſervant, and teach me thy ſtatutes.

136 Mine eyes [z] guſh out with rivers of water, becauſe they keep not thy law.

TSADDI.

137 Righteous art thou, O Lord, and juſt are thy judgments.

138 Thou haſt commanded [a] juſtice by thy teſtimonies and truth eſpecially.

* Pſ. 69. 9. John 2. 17.

139 * My zeal hath even conſumed me: becauſe mine enemies have forgotten thy words.

140 Thy word is proved [b] moſt pure, and thy ſervant loveth it.

141 I am [c] ſmall and deſpiſed: yet do I not forget thy precepts.

142 Thy righteouſneſs is an everlaſting righteouſneſs, and thy law is truth.

143 Trouble and anguiſh are come upon me: yet are thy commandments my delight.

144 The righteouſneſs of thy teſtimonies is everlaſting: grant me underſtanding, and I ſhall [d] live.

KOPH.

145 I have [e] cried with my whole heart: hear me, O Lord, and I will keep thy ſtatutes.

146 I called upon thee: ſave me, and I will keep thy teſtimonies.

147 I prevented the morning light, and cried: for I waited on thy word.

148 Mine eyes [f] prevent the night watches, to meditate in thy word.

149 Hear my voice according to thy loving kindneſs: O Lord, quicken me according to thy ‡ judgment.

‡ Or, cuſtom.

150 They draw near that follow after [g] malice, and are far from thy law.

151 Thou art near, O Lord: for all thy commandments are true.

152 I have known long ſince [h] by thy teſtimonies, that thou haſt eſtabliſhed them for ever.

RESH.

153 Behold mine affliction, and deliver me: for I have not forgotten thy law.

154 Plead my cauſe, and deliver me: quicken me according to thy [i] word.

155 Salvation is far from the wicked, becauſe they ſeek not thy ſtatutes.

156 Great are thy tender mercies, O Lord: quicken me according to thy [k] judgments.

157 My perſecutors and my oppreſſors are many: yet do I not ſwerve from thy teſtimonies.

158 I ſaw the tranſgreſſors and was [l] grieved, becauſe they kept not thy word.

159 Conſider, O Lord, how I [m] love thy precepts: quicken me according to thy loving kindneſs.

160 The [n] beginning of thy word is truth, and all the judgments of thy righteouſneſs endure for ever.

SCHIN.

161 Princes have [o] perſecuted me without cauſe, but mine heart ſtood in awe of thy words.

162 I rejoice at thy word, as one that findeth a great ſpoil.

163 I hate falſhood and abhor it, but thy law do I love.

164 [p] Seven times a day do I praiſe thee, becauſe of thy righteous judgments.

165 They [q] that love thy law, ſhall have great proſperity, and they ſhall have no hurt.

166 Lord, I have [r] truſted in thy ſalvation, and have done thy commandments.

167 My ſoul hath kept thy teſtimonies: for I love them exceedingly.

168 I have kept thy precepts and thy teſtimonies: [s] for all my ways are before thee.

TAU.

169 Let my complaint come before thee, O Lord, and give me underſtanding [t] according unto thy word.

170 Let my ſupplication come before thee, and deliver me according to thy promiſe.

171 My

[w] Containing, high and ſecret myſteries, ſo that I am moved with admiration and reverence.

[x] The ſimple ideots that ſubmit themſelves to God, have their eyes opened, and their minds illuminated ſo ſoon as they begin to read God's word.

[y] My zeal toward thy word was ſo great.

[z] He ſheweth what ought to be the zeal of God's children, when they ſee his word contemned.

[a] We cannot confeſs God to be righteous, except we live uprightly and truly, as he hath commanded.

[b] Gold hath need to be fined, but thy word is perfection itſelf.

[c] This is the true trial, to praiſe God in adverſity.

[d] So that the life of man without the knowledge of God is death.

[e] He ſheweth that all his affections and whole heart were bent to God-ward for to have help in dangers.

[f] He was more earneſt in the ſtudy of God's word, than they that kept the watch were in their charge

[g] He ſheweth the nature of the wicked to be, to perſecute againſt their conſcience.

[h] His faith is grounded upon God's word, that he would ever be at hand when his children be oppreſſed.

[i] For without God's promiſe there is no hope of deliverance.

[k] According to thy promiſe made in thy law, which becauſe the wicked lack, they can have no hope of ſalvation.

[l] My zeal conſumed me, when I ſaw their malice and contempt of thy glory.

[m] It is a ſure ſign of our adoption, when we love the law of God.

[n] Since thou firſt promiſedſt, even to the end, all thy ſayings are true.

[o] The threatenings and perſecutions of princes could not cauſe me to ſhrink to confeſs thee, whom I more fear than men.

[p] That is often and ſundry times.

[q] For their conſcience aſſureth them, that they pleaſe thee, whereas they that love not thee have the contrary.

[r] He ſheweth that we muſt firſt have faith before we can work and pleaſe God.

[s] I had no reſpect unto men, but ſet thee always before mine eyes as the judge of my doings.

[t] As thou haſt promiſed to be the ſchoolmaſter unto all them that depend upon thee.

171 My lips ſhall [u] ſpeak praiſe, when thou haſt [x] taught me thy ſtatutes.

172 My tongue ſhall intreat of thy word: for all thy commandments are righteous.

173 Let thine hand help me: for I have choſen thy precepts.

174 I have longed for thy ſalvation, O Lord, and thy law is my delight.

175 Let my ſoul live, and it ſhall praiſe thee, and thy [y] judgments ſhall help me.

176 I have [z] gone aſtray like a loſt ſheep: ſeek thy ſervant, for I do not forget thy commandments.

PSALM CXX.

1 The prayer of David, being vexed by the falſe reports of Saul's flatterers: 5 And therefore he lamenteth his long abode among thoſe infidels, 7 who were given to all kind of wickedneſs and contention.

¶ A Song of [a] degrees.

I Called unto the Lord in my [b] trouble, and he heard me.

2 Deliver my ſoul, O Lord, from lying lips, and from a deceitful tongue.

3 What doth thy [c] deceitful tongue bring unto thee? or what doth it avail thee?

4 It is as the [d] ſharp arrows of a mighty man, and as the coals of juniper.

5 Wo is to me that I remain in [e] Meſhech, and dwell in the tents of [f] Kedar.

6 My ſoul hath too long dwelt with him that hateth peace.

7 I ſeek [g] peace, and when I ſpeak thereof, they are bent to war.

PSALM CXXI.

1 This Pſalm teacheth that the faithful ought only to look for help at God, 7 who only doth maintain, preſerve, and proſper his church.

¶ A Song of degrees.

I WILL lift up mine eyes ‡ unto the mountains, from whence mine help ſhall come.

‡ Or, above the mountains, meaning, that there is nothing ſo high in this world wherein he can truſt, but only in God.

2 Mine help cometh from the Lord, which hath made the [h] heaven and the earth.

3 He will not ſuffer thy foot to ſlip: for he that keepeth thee will not [i] ſlumber.

5 For there are thrones ſet for judgment, even the thrones of the houſe of [q] David.

6 Pray for the peace of Jeruſalem: let them proſper that love thee.

7 Peace be within thy [r] walls, and proſperity within thy palaces.

8 For my [s] brethren and neighbours ſakes, I will wiſh thee now proſperity.

¶ A Song of degrees.

I LIFT up mine eyes to thee that dwelleſt in the heavens.

2 Behold, as the eyes of [t] ſervants look unto the hand of their maſters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her miſtreſs: ſo our eyes wait upon the Lord our God until he have mercy upon us.

3 Have mercy upon us, O Lord, have mercy upon us: for we have [u] ſuffered too much contempt.

3 Behold, children are the inheritance of the Lord, and the fruit of the womb his reward.

4 As are the arrows in the hand of the ſtrong man: ſo are the [o] children of youth.

5 Bleſſed is the man, that hath his quiver full of them: for they [p] ſhall not be aſhamed, when they ſpeak with their enemies in the gate.

PSALM CXXVIII.

1 He ſheweth that bleſſedneſs appertaineth not to all univerſally, but to them only that fear the Lord, and walk in his ways.

¶ A Song of degrees.

BLeſſed is every one that feareth the Lord, and walketh in his [q] ways.

2 When thou eateſt the labours of thine hands,

---

[w] He ſheweth that God was ready to help at need, and that there was no other way to be ſaved, but by his only means.

[x] So unable were we to reſiſt.

[y] He uſeth moſt proper ſimilitudes to expreſs the great danger that the church was in, and out of the which God miraculouſly delivered them.

[z] For the wicked did not only furiouſly rage againſt the faithful, but craftily imagined to deſtroy them.

[a] Though the world be ſubject to mutations, yet the people of God ſhall ſtand ſure, and be defended by God's providence.

[b] Though God ſuffer his to be under the croſs, leſt they ſhould embrace wickedneſs, yet this croſs ſhall not ſo reſt upon them that it ſhould drive them from hope.

[c] He deſireth God to purge his church from hypocrites, and ſuch as have no zeal of the truth.

[d] Their deliverance was as a thing incredible, and therefore took away all excuſe of ingratitude.

[e] He ſheweth how the godly ought to rejoice, when God gathereth his church, or delivereth it.

[f] If the infidels confeſs God's wonderful work, the faithful can never ſhew themſelves ſufficiently thankful.

[g] It is no more impoſſible to God to deliver his people, than to cauſe the rivers to run in the wilderneſs and barren places.

[h] That is, ſeed, which was ſcarce and dear: meaning. that they which truſted in God's promiſe to return, had their deſire.

[i] That is, govern and diſpoſe all things pertaining to the family.

[k] The public eſtate of the commonwealth.

[l] Which watch and ward, and are alſo magiſtrates and rulers of the city.

[m] Either that which is gotten by hard labour, or eaten with grief of mind.

[n] Not exempting them from labour, but making their labours comfortable, and as it were a reſt.

[o] That is, endued with ſtrength and virtues from God, for theſe are ſigns of God's bleſſings, and not the number.

[p] Such children ſhall be able to ſtop their adverſaries mouths, when their godly life is maliciouſly accuſed before judges.

[q] God approveth not our life, except it be reformed according to his word.

[r] hands, thou ſhalt be bleſſed, and it ſhall be well with thee.

3 Thy wife ſhall be as the fruitful vine on the ſides of thine houſe, and thy [s] children like the olive-plants round about thy table.

4 Lo, for ſurely thus ſhall the man be bleſſed that feareth the Lord.

5 The Lord out of Zion ſhall [t] bleſs thee, and thou ſhalt ſee the wealth of [u] Jeruſalem all the days of thy life.

6 Yea, thou ſhalt ſee thy children's children, and peace upon Iſrael.

PSALM CXXIX.

1 He admoniſheth the church to rejoice though it be afflicted: 4 For by the righteous Lord it ſhall be delivered, 6 and the enemies, for all their glorious ſhew, ſhall ſuddenly be deſtroyed.

¶ A Song of degrees.

THEY have oftentimes afflicted me from my youth (may [w] Iſrael now ſay.)

2 They have oftentimes afflicted me from my youth: but they could not prevail againſt me.

3 The plowers plowed upon my back, and made long furrows.

4 But the [x] righteous Lord hath cut the cords of the wicked.

5 They that hate Zion ſhall be all aſhamed and turn backward.

6 [y] They ſhall be as the graſs on the houſe-tops, which withereth afore it cometh forth:

7 Whereof the mower filleth not his hand, neither the gleaner his lap:

8 Neither they, which go by, ſay, The bleſſing of the Lord be upon you, or, We bleſs you in the name of the Lord.

PSALM CXXX.

1 The people of God from their bottomleſs miſery do cry unto God, and are heard. 3 They confeſs their ſins, and flee unto God's mercy.

¶ A Song of degrees.

OUT of the [a] deep places have I called unto thee, O Lord.

2 Lord, hear my voice: let thine ears attend to the voice of my prayers.

3 If thou, O Lord, ſtraightly markeſt iniquities, O Lord, [b] who ſhall ſtand?

4 But mercy is with thee, that thou [c] mayeſt be feared.

5 I have waited on the Lord: my ſoul hath waited, and I have truſted in his word.

6 My ſoul waiteth on the Lord more than the morning watch watcheth for the morning.

7 Let Iſrael wait on the Lord: for with the Lord is [d] mercy, and with him is great redemption.

8 And he ſhall redeem Iſrael from all his iniquities.

PSALM CXXXI.

1 David charged with ambition and greedy deſire to reign, proteſteth his humility and modeſty before God, and teacheth all men what they ſhould do.

¶ A Song of degrees, or Pſalm of David.

LORD, [e] mine heart is not haughty, neither are mine eyes lofty, neither have I walked in great [f] matters, and hid from me.

2 Surely I have behaved myſelf like one weaned from his mother, and kept ſilence: I am in myſelf as one that is [g] weaned.

3 Let Iſrael wait on the Lord, from henceforth and for ever.

PSALM CXXXII.

1 The faithful, grounding on God's promiſe made unto David, deſire that he would eſtabliſh the ſame, both as touching his poſterity, and the building of the temple, to pray there as was fore-ſpoken, Deut. 12. 5.

¶ A Song of degrees.

LORD, remember David with all his [h] affliction:

2 Who ſware unto the Lord, and vowed unto the mighty God of Jacob, ſaying,

3 I [i] will not enter into the tabernacle of mine houſe, nor come upon my pallet or bed,

4 Nor ſuffer mine eyes to ſleep, nor mine eye-lids to ſlumber,

5 Until I find out a place for the [k] Lord, an habitation for the mighty God of Jacob.

6 Lo, we heard of it in [l] Ephratah, and found it in the fields of the foreſt.

7 We will enter into his tabernacles, and worſhip before his footſtool.

8 Ariſe, O Lord, to come into thy [m] reſt, thou, and the ark of thy ſtrength.

9 Let thy prieſts be cloathed with [n] righteouſneſs, and let thy ſaints rejoice.

---

[r] The world eſteemeth them happy, which live in wealth and idleneſs, but the Holy Ghoſt approveth them beſt that live of the mean profit of their labours.

[s] Becauſe God's favour appeareth in no outward thing, more than in increaſe of children, he promiſeth to enrich the faithful with this gift.

[t] Becauſe of the ſpiritual bleſſing which God hath made to his church, theſe temporal things ſhall be granted.

[u] For except God bleſſed his church publicly, this private bleſſing were nothing.

[w] The church now afflicted ought to remember, how her condition hath ever been ſuch from the beginning, to be moleſted moſt grievouſly by the wicked: yet in time it hath ever been delivered.

[x] Becauſe God is righteous, he cannot but plague his adverſaries, and deliver his, as oxen out of the plough.

[y] The enemies that lift themſelves moſt high, and as it were approach near to the ſun, are conſumed with heat of God's wrath, becauſe they are not grounded in godly humility.

[z] That is, the wicked ſhall periſh, and none ſhall paſs for them.

[a] Being in great diſtreſs and ſorrow.

[b] He declareth, that we cannot be juſt before God, but by forgiveneſs of ſins.

[c] Becauſe of nature thou art merciful: therefore the faithful reverence thee.

[d] He ſheweth to whom the mercy of God doth appertain, to Iſrael: that is, to the church, and not to the reprobate.

[e] He ſetteth forth his great humility, as an example to all rulers and governors.

[f] Which paſs the meaſure and limits of his vocation.

[g] He was void of ambition and wicked deſires.

[h] That is, with how great difficulty he came to the kingdom, and with how great zeal and care he went about to build thy temple.

[i] Becauſe the chief charge of the king was to ſet forth God's glory, he ſheweth that he could take no reſt, neither would go about any worldly thing, were it never ſo neceſſary, before he had executed his office.

[k] That is, the ark, which was a ſign of God's preſence.

[l] The common report was, that the ark ſhould remain in Ephratah: that is, in Bethlehem, a plentiful place: but after we perceived that thou wouldeſt place it in Jeruſalem, which was barren as a foreſt, and compaſſed about only with hills.

[m] That is, Jeruſalem, becauſe that afterward his ark ſhould remove to no other place.

[n] Let the effect of thy grace both appear in the prieſts, and in the people.

10 For thy [o] ſervant David's ſake, refuſe not the face of thine anointed.

11 The Lord hath ſworn in truth unto David, and he will not ſhrink from it, ſaying, Of the fruit of thy body will I ſet upon thy throne.

12 If thy ſons keep my covenant, and my teſtimonies, that I ſhall teach them, their ſons alſo ſhall ſit upon thy throne for [p] ever.

13 For the Lord hath choſen Zion, and loved to dwell in it, ſaying, 14 This is my reſt for ever: here will I dwell, for I have a [q] delight therein.

15 I will ſurely bleſs her victuals, and will ſatisfy her poor with bread,

16 And will cloath her prieſts with [r] ſalvation, and her ſaints ſhall ſhout for joy.

17 There will I make the [s] horn of David to bud: for I have ordained a light for mine anointed.

18 His enemies will I cloath with ſhame, but on him his crown ſhall flouriſh.

PSALM CXXXIII.

1 This Pſalm containeth the commendation of brotherly amity among the ſervants of God.

¶ A Song of degrees, or Pſalm of David.

BEhold, how good and how comely a thing it is brethren to dwell [t] together.

2 It is like to the precious [u] ointment upon the head, that runneth down upon the beard, even unto Aaron's beard, which went down on the borders of his garments:

3 And as the dew of [w] Hermon, which falleth upon the mountains of Zion: for [x] there the Lord appointed the bleſſing and life for ever.

PSALM CXXXIV.

1 He exhorteth the Levites watching in the temple to praiſe the Lord.

¶ A ſong of degrees.

BEhold, praiſe ye the Lord, all ye [y] ſervants of the Lord, ye that by night ſtand in the houſe of the Lord.

2 Lift up your [z] hands to the ſanctuary, and praiſe the Lord.

3 The Lord that hath [a] made heaven and earth, bleſs thee out of Zion.

PSALM CXXXV.

1 He exhorteth all the faithful, of what ſtate ſoever they be, to praiſe God for his marvellous works, 21 and ſpecially, for his graces toward his people, wherein he hath declared his majeſty, 15 to the confuſion of all idolaters and their idols.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

PRAISE the name of the Lord: ye ſervants of the Lord, praiſe him.

2 Ye that ſtand in the [b] houſe of the Lord: and in the [c] courts of the houſe of our God,

3 Praiſe ye the Lord: for the Lord is good: ſing praiſes unto his name, for it is a comely thing.

4 For the Lord hath [d] choſen Jacob to himſelf, and Iſrael to his chief treaſure.

5 For I know that the Lord is great, and that our Lord is above all gods.

6 Whatſoever pleaſed the Lord, that [e] did he in heaven and in earth, in the ſea, and in all the depths.

7 He bringeth up the clouds from the ends of the earth, and maketh the * lightnings with the rain: he draweth forth the wind out of his treaſures. * Heb. 10, 13.

8 * He ſmote the firſt-born of Egypt, both of man and beaſt. * Exod. 12, 29.

9 He hath ſent tokens and wonders into the midſt of thee, O Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his ſervants.

10 * He ſmote many nations, and ſlew mighty kings: * Num. 21, 24, 34.

11 As Sihon king of the Amorites, and Og king of Baſhan, and all the kingdoms of Canaan:

12 And [f] gave their land for an inheritance, even an inheritance unto Iſrael his people.

13 Thy name, O Lord, endureth for ever: O Lord, thy remembrance is from generation to generation.

14 For the Lord will [g] judge his people, and be pacified toward his ſervants.

15 The [h] idols of the heathen are ſilver and gold, even the work of men's hands.

16 They have a mouth and ſpeak not: they have eyes and ſee not.

17 They have ears and hear not, neither is there any breath in their mouth.

18 They that make them, are like unto them: ſo are all that truſt in them.

19 Praiſe the Lord, ye houſe of Iſrael: praiſe the Lord, ye houſe of Aaron.

20 Praiſe the Lord ye houſe of Levi: ye that fear the Lord, praiſe the Lord.

21 Praiſed be the Lord out of Zion, which dwelleth in Jeruſalem. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM

---

[o] As thou firſt madeſt promiſe to David, ſo continue it to his poſterity, that whatſoever they ſhall aſk for their people, it may be granted.

[p] Becauſe this cannot be accompliſhed but in Chriſt, it followeth that the promiſe was ſpiritual.

[q] Meaning, for his own ſake, and not for the plentifulneſs of the place: for he promiſeth to bleſs it, declaring before, that it was barren.

[r] That is, with my protection, whereby they ſhall be ſafe

[s] Though his force for a time ſeemed to be broken, yet he promiſeth to reſtore it.

[t] Becauſe the greateſt part were againſt David, though ſome favoured him, yet when he was eſtabliſhed king, at length they joined all together like brethren: and therefore he ſheweth by theſe ſimilitudes the commodity of brotherly love.

[u] The ointment was a figure of the graces, which come from Chriſt the head unto his church.

[w] By Hermon and Zion, he meaneth the plentiful country about Jeruſalem.

[x] Where there is ſuch concord.

[y] Ye that are Levites, and chiefly appointed to this office.

[z] For their charge was not only to keep the temple, but to pray there, and to give God thanks.

[a] And therefore hath all power, bleſs thee with his fatherly love declared in Zion. Thus the Levites uſed to praiſe the Lord, and bleſs the people.

[b] Ye Levites that are in his ſanctuary.

[c] Meaning, the people: for the people and Levites had their courts, which were places of the temple ſeparate.

[d] That is, hath freely loved the poſterity of Abraham.

[e] He joineth God's power with his will, to the intent that we ſhould not ſeparate them: and hereby he willeth God's people to depend on his power, which he confirmeth by examples.

[f] He ſheweth what fruit the godly conceive of God's power, whereby they ſee how he deſtroyeth his enemies, and delivereth his people.

[g] That is, govern and defend his people.

[h] By ſhewing what puniſhment God appointed for the heathen idolaters, he warneth the people to beware the like offence, ſeeing that idols have neither power nor life, and that their deliverance came not by idols, but by the mighty power of God. Read Pſalm 115. 4.

PSALM CXXXVI.

1 A moſt earneſt exhortation to give thanks unto God, for the creation and governance of all things, which ſtandeth in confeſſing that he giveth us all of his mere liberality.

PRAISE ye the Lord, becauſe he is good: for his [i] mercy endureth for ever.

2 Praiſe ye the God of gods: for his mercy endureth for ever:

3 Praiſe ye the Lord of lords: for his mercy endureth for ever:

4 Which only doeth great wonders: for his mercy endureth for ever:

5 Which by his wiſdom made the heavens: for his mercy endureth for ever:

6 Which hath ſtretched out the earth upon the waters: for his [k] mercy endureth for ever:

7 Which made great lights: for his mercy endureth for ever:

8 As the ſun to rule the day: for his mercy endureth for ever:

9 The moon and the ſtars to govern the night: for his mercy endureth for ever:

10 Which ſmote Egypt with their firſt-born, (for his mercy endureth for ever)

11 And [l] brought out Iſrael from among them (for his mercy endureth for ever)

12 With a mighty hand and [m] ſtretched out arm: for his mercy endureth for ever:

13 Which divided the Red Sea in two parts: for his mercy endureth for ever:

14 And made Iſrael to paſs through the midſt of it: for his mercy endureth for ever:

15 And overthrew Pharaoh and his hoſt in the Red Sea: for his mercy endureth for ever:

16 Which led his people through the [n] wilderneſs: for his mercy endureth for ever.

17 Which ſmote great kings: for his mercy endureth for ever:

18 And ſlew [o] mighty kings: for his mercy endureth for ever:

19 As Sihon, king of the Amorites: for his mercy endureth for ever:

20 And Og the king of Baſhan: for his mercy endureth for ever:

21 And gave their land for an heritage: for his mercy endureth for ever:

22 Even an heritage unto Iſrael his ſervant: for his mercy endureth for ever:

23 Which remembered us in our [p] baſe eſtate: for his mercy endureth for ever:

24 And hath reſcued us from our oppreſſors: for his mercy endureth for ever.

25 Which giveth food to all [q] fleſh: for his mercy endureth for ever.

26 [r] Praiſe ye the God of heaven: for his mercy endureth for ever.

PSALM CXXXVII.

1 The people of God in their baniſhment, ſeeing God's true religion decay, lived in great anguiſh and ſorrow of heart: the which grief the Chaldeans did ſo little pity, 3 that they rather increaſed the ſame daily with taunts, reproaches, and blaſphemies againſt God. 7 Wherefore the Iſraelites deſire God, firſt to puniſh the Edomites, who provoked the Babylonians againſt them, 8 and moved by the Spirit of God, propheſy the deſtruction of Babylon, where they were handled ſo tyrannouſly.

BY the rivers of Babel we [s] ſat, and there we wept, when we remembered Zion.

2 We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midſt [t] thereof.

3 Then they that led us captives, [u] required of us ſongs and mirth, when we had hanged up our harps, ſaying, Sing us one of the ſongs of Zion.

4 How ſhall we ſing, ſaid we, a ſong of the Lord in a ſtrange land?

5 [w] If I forget thee, O Jeruſalem, let my right hand forget to play.

6 If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth: yea, if I prefer not Jeruſalem to my [x] chief joy.

7 Remember the children of [y] Edom, O Lord, in the [z] day of Jeruſalem, which ſaid, Raſe it, raſe it to the foundation thereof.

8 O daughter of Babel, worthy to be deſtroyed, bleſſed ſhall he be that rewardeth thee as thou haſt ſerved us.

9 [a] Bleſſed ſhall he be that taketh and daſheth thy children againſt the ſtones.

PSALM CXXXVIII.

1 David with great courage praiſeth the goodneſs of God toward him, the which is ſo great, 4 that it is known to foreign princes, who ſhall praiſe the Lord together with him. 6 And he is aſſured to have like comfort of God in the time following, as he hath had heretofore.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

I WILL praiſe thee with my whole heart: even before the [b] gods will I praiſe thee.

2 I will

[i] By this repetition he ſheweth, that the leaſt of God's benefits bind us to thankſgiving: but chiefly his mercy, which is principally declared toward his church.

[k] This was a common kind of thankſgiving, which the whole people uſed when they had received any benefit of God, as 2 Chron. 7. 6. and 20. 21. meaning, that God was not only merciful to their fathers, but alſo continued the ſame to their poſterity.

[l] God's merciful providence toward man, appeareth in all his creatures, but chiefly in that, that he delivered his church from the thraldom of their enemies.

[m] In doing ſuch a work as was never done before, nor that any other could do.

[n] Where for the ſpace of forty years he ſhewed infinite and moſt ſtrange wonders.

[o] Declaring thereby, that no power nor authority was ſo dear unto him, as the love of his church.

[p] In our greateſt affliction and ſlavery, when we looked for nothing leſs than to have had any ſuccour.

[q] Seeing, that God provideth even for the beaſts, much more hath he care over his.

[r] Seeing that all ages have had moſt plain teſtimonies of God's benefits.

[s] That is, we abode a long time, and albeit that the country was pleaſant, yet could it not ſtay our tears, nor turn us from the true ſervice of our God.

[t] To wit, of that country.

[u] The Babylonians ſpake thus in mocking us, as though by our ſilence we ſhould ſignify that we hoped no more in God.

[w] Albeit the faithful are touched with their particular griefs, yet the common ſorrow of the church is moſt grievous unto them, and is ſuch as they cannot but remember and lament.

[x] The decay of God's religion in their country was ſo grievous, that no joy could make them glad, except it were reſtored.

[y] According as Ezek. 25. 13. and Jer. 49. 7. propheſied: and Obadiah, ver. 10. ſheweth, that the Edomites which came of Eſau conſpired with the Babylonians againſt their brethren and kinsfolk.

[z] When thou didſt viſit Jeruſalem.

[a] He alludeth to Iſaiah's propheſy, chap. 13. 16. promiſing good ſucceſs to Cyrus and Darius, whom ambition moved to fight againſt Babylon: but God uſed them as his rods to puniſh his enemies.

[b] Even in the preſence of angels, and of them that have authority among men.

2 I will worſhip toward thine [c] holy temple, and will praiſe thy name, becauſe of thy loving kindneſs and for thy truth: for thou haſt magnified thy name above all things by thy word.

3 When I called, then thou heardeſt me, and haſt [d] increaſed ſtrength in my ſoul.

4 All the [e] kings of the earth ſhall praiſe thee, O Lord: for they have heard the words of thy mouth.

5 And they ſhall ſing of the ways of the Lord, becauſe the glory of the Lord is great.

6 For the Lord is high: yet he beholdeth the lowly, but the proud he knoweth [f] afar off.

7 Though I walk in the midſt of trouble, yet wilt thou revive me: thou wilt ſtretch forth thy hand upon the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand ſhall ſave me.

8 The Lord will [g] perform his work toward me: O Lord, thy mercy endureth for ever: forſake not the works of thine hands.

PSALM CXXXIX.

1 David, to cleanſe his heart from all hypocriſy, ſheweth that there is nothing ſo hid which God ſeeth not, 13 which he confirmeth by the creation of man. 14 After declaring his zeal and fear of God, he proteſteth to be an enemy to all them that contemn God.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

O Lord, thou haſt tried me and known me.

2 Thou knoweſt my [h] ſitting and my riſing, thou underſtandeſt my thought afar off.

3 Thou [i] compaſſeſt my paths, and my lying down, and art accuſtomed to all my ways.

4 For there is not a word in [k] my tongue, but lo, thou knoweſt it wholly, O Lord.

5 Thou holdeſt me ſtrait behind and before, and layeſt thine [l] hand upon me.

6 Thy knowledge is too wonderful for me: it is ſo high that I cannot attain unto it.

7 Whither ſhall I go from thy [m] Spirit? or, whither ſhall I flee from thy preſence?

8 If I aſcend into heaven, thou art there: if I lie down in hell, thou art there.

9 Let me take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermoſt parts of the ſea:

10 Yet thither ſhall thine [n] hand lead me, and thy right hand hold me.

11 If I ſay, Yet the darkneſs ſhall hide me, even the night ſhall be [o] light about me.

12 Yea, the darkneſs hideth not from thee: but the night ſhineth as the day: the darkneſs and light are both alike.

13 For thou haſt [p] poſſeſſed my reins: thou haſt covered me in my mother's womb.

14 I will praiſe thee, for I am [q] fearfully and wonderfully made: marvellous are thy works, and my ſoul knoweth it well.

15 My bones are not hid from thee, though I was made in a ſecret place, and faſhioned [r] beneath in the earth.

16 Thine eyes did ſee me, when I was without form: [s] for in thy book were all things written, which in continuance were faſhioned, when there was none of them before.

17 How [t] dear therefore are thy thoughts unto me, O God! how great is the ſum of them!

18 If I ſhould count them, they are more than the ſand: when I wake, [u] I am ſtill with thee.

19 Oh that thou wouldeſt ſlay, O God, the wicked and bloody men, to whom I ſay, Depart ye from me:

20 Which ſpeak wickedly of thee, and being thine enemies are lifted up in vain.

21 Do not [w] I hate them, O Lord, that hate thee? and do not I earneſtly contend with thoſe that riſe up againſt thee?

22 I hate them with an unfeigned hatred, as they were mine utter enemies.

23 Try me, O God, and know mine heart: prove me, and know my thoughts,

24 And conſider if there be [x] any way of wickedneſs in me, and lead me in the [y] way for ever.

PSALM CXL.

1 David complaineth of the cruelty, falſhood, and injuries of his enemies: 8 Againſt the which he prayeth unto the Lord, and aſſureth himſelf of his help and ſuccour, 12 wherefore he provoketh the juſt to praiſe the Lord, and to aſſure themſelves of his tuition.

¶ To him that excelleth.
A Pſalm of David.

DEliver me, O Lord, from the evil man: preſerve me from the [z] cruel man:

2 Which

[c] Both the temple and ceremonial ſervice of Chriſt's coming were aboliſhed, ſo that now God will be worſhipped only in ſpirit and truth, John 4. 23.

[d] Thou haſt ſtrengthened me againſt mine outward and inward enemies.

[e] All the world ſhall confeſs that thou haſt wonderfully preſerved me, and performed thy promiſe.

[f] Diſtance of place cannot hinder God to ſhew mercy to his, and to judge the wicked, though they think that he is far off.

[g] Though mine enemies rage never ſo much, yet the Lord, which hath begun his work in me, will continue his grace to the end.

[h] He confeſſeth, that neither our actions, thoughts, or any part of our life can be hid from God, though he ſeem to be far off.

[i] So that they are evidently known to thee.

[k] Thou knoweſt my meaning before I ſpeak.

[l] Thou ſo guideſt me with thine hand, that I can turn no way, but where thou appointeſt me.

[m] From thy power and knowledge.

[n] Thy power doth ſo faſt hold me, that I can eſcape by no means from thee.

[o] Though darkneſs be an hinderance to man's ſight, yet it ſerveth thine eyes as well as the light.

[p] Thou haſt made me in all parts, and therefore muſt needs know me.

[q] Conſidering thy wonderful works in forming me, I cannot but praiſe thee, and fear thy mighty power.

[r] That is, in my mother's womb: which he compareth to the inward parts of the earth.

[s] Seeing that thou didſt know me before I was compoſed of either fleſh or bone, much more now muſt thou know me, when thou haſt faſhioned me.

[t] How ought we to eſteem the excellent declaration of thy wiſdom in the creation of man!

[u] I continually ſee new occaſions to meditate on thy wiſdom, and to praiſe thee.

[w] He teacheth us boldly to contemn all the hatred of the wicked, and friendſhip of the world, when they would let us to ſerve God ſincerely.

[x] Or, any heinous way, or rebellious meaning, that tho' he were ſubject to ſin, yet was he not given to wickedneſs, and to provoke God by rebellion.

[y] That is, continue thy favour towards me to the end.

[z] Which perſecuteth me of malice and without cauſe.

2 Which imagine evil things in their [a] heart, and make war continually.

3 They have ſharpened their tongues like a ſerpent: [b] adders poiſon is under their lips. Selah.

4 Keep [c] me, O Lord, from the hands of the wicked: preſerve me from the cruel man, which purpoſeth to cauſe my ſteps to ſlide.

5 The proud have laid a ſnare for me, and ſpread a net with cords in my path-way, and ſet grins for me. Selah.

6 Therefore I ſaid unto the Lord, Thou art my God: hear, O Lord, the voice of my prayers.

7 O Lord God, the ſtrength of my ſalvation, thou haſt [d] covered my head in the day of battle.

8 Let not the wicked have his deſire, O Lord: [e] perform not his wicked thought, leſt they be proud. Selah.

9 As for [f] the chief of them that compaſs me about, let the miſchief of their own lips come upon them.

10 Let coals fall upon them: let [g] him caſt them into the fire, and into the deep pits that they riſe not.

11 For the backbiter ſhall not be eſtabliſhed upon the earth: evil ſhall [h] hunt the cruel man to deſtruction.

12 I know that the Lord will avenge the afflicted, and judge the poor.

13 Surely the righteous ſhall praiſe thy name, and the juſt ſhall [i] dwell in thy preſence.

PSALM CXLI.

1 David being grievouſly perſecuted under Saul, only fleeth unto God to have ſuccour, 3 deſiring him to bridle his affections, that he may patiently abide till God take vengeance of his enemies.

A Pſalm of David.

O Lord, I [k] call upon thee: haſte thee unto me: hear my voice, when I cry unto thee.

2 Let my prayer be directed in thy ſight as incenſe, and the [l] lifting up of mine hands as an evening ſacrifice.

3 Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth, and keep the [m] door of my lips.

4 Incline not my heart to evil, that I ſhould commit wicked works with men that work iniquity: and let me not eat of their [n] delicates.

5 Let the righteous ſmite me: for that is a benefit: and let [o] him reprove me, and it ſhall be a precious oil, that ſhall not break mine head: for within a while, I ſhall even [p] pray in their miſeries.

6 When their judges ſhall be caſt down in ſtony places, they ſhall [q] hear my words, for they are ſweet.

7 Our bones lie ſcattered at the [r] grave's mouth, as he that heweth wood, or diggeth in the earth.

8 But mine eyes look unto thee, O Lord God: in thee is my truſt: leave not my ſoul deſtitute.

9 Keep me from the ſnare which they have laid from me, and from the gins of the workers of iniquity.

10 Let the wicked fall into his [s] nets [t] together, while I eſcape.

PSALM CXLII.

1 The prophet neither aſtoniſhed with fear, nor carried away with anger, nor forced by deſperation, would kill Saul, but with a quiet mind directed his earneſt prayer to God, who did preſerve him.

¶ A Pſalm of David, to give inſtruction, and a prayer, when he was in the cave.

I Cried unto the Lord with my voice: with my voice I [u] prayed unto the Lord.

2 I poured out my meditation before him, and declared mine affliction in his preſence.

3 Though my ſpirit † was in perplexity in me, yet thou kneweſt my path: in the way wherein I walked, have they privily laid a ſnare for me.

4 I looked upon the right hand, and beheld, but there was none that would know me: all refuge failed me, and none ‡ cared for my ſoul.

† Heb. was folden or wrapped in me: meaning, as a thing that could have no iſſue.

‡ Or, ſought for my ſoul.

5 Then cried I unto thee, O Lord, and ſaid, Thou art mine [x] hope, and my portion in the land of the living.

6 Hearken unto my cry, for I am brought very low: deliver me from my perſecutors, for they are too ſtrong for me.

7 Bring my ſoul out of [y] priſon, that I may praiſe thy name: then ſhall the righteous [z] come about me, when thou art beneficial unto me.

PSALM CXLIII.

1 An earneſt prayer for the remiſſion of ſins, acknowledging that the enemies did thus cruelly perſecute him by God's juſt judgment, 8 he deſireth to be reſtored to grace, 10 to be governed by his Holy Spirit, that he may ſpend the remnant of his life in the true fear and ſervice of God.

---

[a] That is, by their falſe cavillations and lyes they kindle the hatred of the wicked againſt me.

[b] He ſheweth what weapons the wicked uſe when power and force fail them.

[c] He declareth what is the remedy of the godly, when they are oppreſſed by the worldlings.

[d] He calleth to God with lively faith, being aſſured of his mercies, becauſe he had before time proved, that God helped him ever in his dangers.

[e] For it is in God's hand to overthrow the counſels and enterpriſes of the wicked.

[f] It ſeemeth that he alludeth to Saul.

[g] To wit, God: for David ſaw that they were reprobate, and that there was no hope of repentance in them.

[h] God's plagues ſhall light upon him in ſuch ſort, that he ſhall not eſcape.

[i] That is, ſhall be defended and preſerved by thy fatherly providence and care.

[k] He ſheweth that there is no other refuge in our neceſſities, but only to flee unto God for comfort of ſoul.

[l] He meaneth his earneſt zeal and geſture, which he uſed in prayer: alluding to the ſacrifices which were by God's appointment offered in the old law.

[m] He deſireth God to keep his thoughts and ways either from thinking or executing vengeance.

[n] Let not their proſperity allure me to be wicked as they are.

[o] He could abide all corrections that came of a loving heart.

[p] By patience I ſhall ſee the wicked ſo ſharply handled, that I ſhall for pity pray for them.

[q] The people which followed their wicked rulers in perſecuting the prophet, ſhall repent and turn to God, when they ſee their wicked rulers puniſhed.

[r] Here appeareth that David was miraculouſly delivered out of many deaths, as 2 Cor. 1. 9. 10.

[s] Into God's nets, whereby he catcheth the wicked in their own malice.

[t] So that none of them eſcape.

[u] David's patience and inſtant prayer to God, contemneth their wicked rage, which in their troubles either deſpair and murmur againſt God, or elſe to ſeek to others than to God, to have redreſs in their miſeries.

[x] Though all means failed him, yet he knew that God would never forſake him.

[y] For he was beſet on all ſides with his enemies, as though he had been in a moſt ſtrait priſon.

[z] Either to rejoice at my wonderful deliverance, or to ſet a crown upon mine head.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

HEAR my prayer, O Lord, and hearken unto my ſupplication: anſwer me in thy [a] truth, and in thy [b] righteouſneſs.

2 (And enter not into judgment with thy ſervant: for in thy [c] ſight ſhall none that liveth be juſtified.)

3 For the enemy hath perſecuted my ſoul: he hath ſmitten my life down to the earth: he hath laid me in the darkneſs, as they that have been dead [d] long ago.

4 And my ſpirit was in perplexity in me, and mine [e] heart within me was amazed.

5 Yet do I remember the time [f] paſt: I meditate in all thy works, yea, I do meditate in the works of thine hands.

6 I ſtretch forth mine hands unto thee: my ſoul deſireth after thee, as the thirſty land. Selah.

7 Hear me ſpeedily, O Lord, for my ſpirit faileth: hide not thy face from me, elſe I ſhall be like unto them that go down into the pit.

8 Let me hear thy loving kindneſs in the [g] morning, for in thee is my truſt: [h] ſhew me the way that I ſhould walk in, for I lift up my ſoul unto thee.

9 Deliver me, O Lord, from mine enemies: for [i] I hid me with thee.

10 [k] Teach me to [l] do thy will, for thou art my God: let thy good Spirit lead me unto the land of righteouſneſs.

11 Quicken me, O Lord, for thy name's ſake and for thy righteouſneſs bring my ſoul out of trouble.

12 And for thy mercy [m] ſlay mine enemies, and deſtroy all them that oppreſs my ſoul: for I am thy [n] ſervant.

PSALM CXLIV.

1 He praiſeth the Lord with great affection and humility for his kingdom reſtored, and for his victories obtained, 5 demanding help, and the deſtruction of the wicked, 9 promiſing to acknowledge the ſame with ſongs of praiſes, 15 and declareth wherein the felicity of any people conſiſteth.

¶ A Pſalm of David.

BLeſſed be the Lord my ſtrength, which [o] teacheth mine hands to fight, and my fingers to battle.

2 He is my goodneſs and my fortreſs, my tower and † my deliverer, my ſhield, and in him I truſt, which ſubdueth my [p] people under me.

† Heb. my deliverer unto me: for the prophet cannot ſatisfy himſelf with any words.

3 Lord, what is man that thou [q] regardeſt him! or the ſon of man that thou thinkeſt upon him!

4 Man is like to vanity: his days are like a ſhadow that vaniſheth.

5 [r] Bow thine heavens, O Lord, and come down: touch the mountains and they ſhall ſmoke.

6 [s] Caſt forth the lightning and ſcatter them: ſhoot out thine arrows, and conſume them.

7 Send thine hand from above: deliver me, and take me out of the great [t] waters, and from the hand of ſtrangers,

8 Whoſe mouth talketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand [u] of falſhood.

9 I will ſing a [w] new ſong unto thee, O God, and ſing unto thee upon a viol, and an inſtrument of ten ſtrings.

10 It is he that giveth deliverance unto kings, and reſcueth David his [x] ſervant from the hurtful ſword.

11 Reſcue me, and deliver me from the hand of ſtrangers, whoſe mouth talketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falſhood.

12 That our [y] ſons may be as the plants growing up in their youth, and our daughters as the corner ſtones graven after the ſimilitude of a palace:

13 That our [z] corners may be full and abounding with divers ſorts, and that our ſheep may bring forth thouſands, and ten thouſand in our ſtreets.

14 That our [a] oxen may be ſtrong to labour: that there be none invaſion, nor going out, nor no crying in our ſtreets.

15 Bleſſed are the people that be [b] ſo, yea, bleſſed are the people whoſe God is the Lord.

PSALM

---

[a] That is, as thou haſt promiſed to be faithful in thy promiſe to all that truſt in thee.

[b] That is, according to thy free goodneſs, whereby thou defendeſt thine.

[c] He knew that afflictions were God's meſſengers to cal him to repentance for his ſins, though toward his enemies he was innocent, and that in God's ſight all men are ſinners.

[d] He acknowledgeth that God is the only and true phyſician to heal him: and that he is able to raiſe him to life though he were dead long ago, and turned to aſhes.

[e] So that only by faith, and by the grace of God's Spirit, he was upholden.

[f] To wit, thy great benefits of old, and the manifold examples of thy favour toward thine.

[g] That is, ſpeedily, and in due ſeaſon.

[h] Let thine Holy Spirit counſel me how to come forth of theſe great cares and troubles.

[i] I hid myſelf under the ſhadow of thy wings, that I might be defended by thy power.

[k] He confeſſeth, that both the knowledge and obedience of God's will cometh by the Spirit of God, who teacheth us by his word, giveth underſtanding by his Spirit, and frameth our hearts by his grace to obey him.

[l] That is, juſtly and aright: for ſo ſoon as we decline from God's will, we fall into error.

[m] Which ſhall be a ſign of thy fatherly kindneſs toward me.

[n] Reſigning myſelf wholly unto thee, and truſting in thy protection.

[o] Who of a poor ſhepherd hath made me a valiant warrior and mighty conqueror.

[p] He confeſſeth that neither by his own authority, power, nor policy, his kingdom was quiet, but by the ſecret grace of God.

[q] To give unto God juſt praiſe, is to confeſs ourſelves to be unworthy of ſo excellent benefits, and that he beſtoweth them upon us of his free mercy.

[r] He deſireth God to continue his graces, and to ſend help for the preſent neceſſity.

[s] By theſe manner of ſpeeches he ſheweth, that all the lets in the world cannot hinder God's power, which he apprehended by faith.

[t] That is, deliver me from the tumults of them that ſhould be my people, but are corrupt in their judgment and enterpriſes, as though they were ſtrangers.

[u] For though they ſhake hands, yet they keep no promiſe.

[w] That is, a rare and excellent ſong, as thy great benefits deſerve.

[x] Though wicked kings be called God's ſervants, as Cyrus, Iſa. 45. 1. foraſmuch as he uſeth them to execute his judgments: yet David, becauſe of God's promiſe, and they that rule godly, are properly ſo called, becauſe they ſerve not their own affections, but ſet forth God's glory.

[y] He deſireth God to continue his benefits toward his people, counting the procreation of children, and their good education, among the chiefeſt of God's benefits.

[z] That the very corners of our houſes may be full of ſtore for the great abundance of thy bleſſings.

[a] He attributeth not only the great commodities, but even the leaſt alſo to God's favour.

[b] And if God give not to all his children all theſe bleſſings, yet he recompenſeth them with better things.

PSALM CXLV.

This Pſalm was compoſed when the kingdom of David flouriſhed. 1 Wherein he deſcribeth the wonderful providence of God, as well in governing man, as in preſerving all the reſt of his creatures. 17 He praiſeth God for his juſtice and mercy, 18 but eſpecially for his loving kindneſs toward thoſe that call upon him, that fear him, and love him, 21 for the which he promiſeth to praiſe him for ever.

¶ A Pſalm of David, of praiſe.

O MY God and King, [c] I will extol thee, and will bleſs thy name for ever and ever.

2 I will bleſs thee daily, and praiſe thy name for ever and ever.

3 [d] Great is the Lord, and moſt worthy to be praiſed, and his greatneſs is incomprehenſible.

4 Generation ſhall praiſe thy works unto [e] generation, and declare thy power.

5 I will meditate of the beauty of thy glorious majeſty, and thy wonderful works.

6 And they ſhall ſpeak of the power of thy [f] fearful acts, and I will declare thy greatneſs.

7 They ſhall break out into the mention of thy great goodneſs, and ſhall ſing aloud of thy righteouſneſs.

8 * The Lord is gracions and [g] merciful, ſlow to anger, and of great mercy. * Exod. 34. 6.

9 The Lord is good to all, and his mercies are over all his works.

10 All thy works praiſe thee, O Lord, and thy ſaints bleſs thee.

11 [h] They ſhew the glory of thy kingdom, and ſpeak of thy power,

12 To cauſe his [i] power to be known to the ſons of men, and the glorious renown of his kingdom.

13 Thy * kingdom is an everlaſting kingdom, and thy kingdom endureth throughout all ages. * Luke 1. 33. Dan. 7. 14.

14 The Lord upholdeth all [k] that fall, and lifteth up all that are ready to fall.

15 The eyes of [l] all wait upon thee, and thou giveſt them their meat in due ſeaſon.

16 Thou openeſt thine hand and filleſt all things living of thy good pleaſure.

17 The Lord is [m] righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works.

18 The Lord is near to all that call upon him: yea, to all that call upon him in [n] truth.

19 He will fulfil the [o] deſire of them that fear him: he alſo will hear their cry, and will ſave them.

20 The Lord preſerveth all them that love him: but he will deſtroy all the wicked.

21 My mouth ſhall ſpeak the praiſe of the Lord, and all fleſh [p] ſhall bleſs his name for ever and ever.

PSALM CXLVI.

1 David declareth his great zeal that he hath to praiſe God: 3 And teacheth not to truſt in man, but only in God Almighty, 7 which delivereth the afflicted, 9 defendeth the ſtrangers, and comforteth the fatherleſs and the widows, 10 and reigneth for ever.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

PRAISE thou the Lord, O my [q] ſoul.

2 I will praiſe the Lord during my life: as long as I have any being, I will ſing unto my God.

3 Put not your truſt in [r] princes, nor in the ſon of man, for there is no help in him.

4 His breath departeth, and he returneth to his earth: then his [s] thoughts periſh.

5 Bleſſed is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, whoſe hope is in the Lord his God,

6 Which made [t] heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that therein is: which keepeth his fidelity for ever:

7 Which executeth juſtice [u] for the oppreſſed: which giveth bread to the hungry: the Lord looſeth the priſoners.

8 The Lord giveth ſight to the blind: the Lord raiſeth up the crooked: the Lord [x] loveth the righteous.

9 The Lord keepeth the [y] ſtrangers: he relieveth the fatherleſs and widow: but he overthroweth the way of the wicked.

10 The Lord ſhall [z] reign for ever: O Zion, thy God endureth from generation to generation. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM

[c] He ſheweth what ſacrifices are pleaſant and acceptable unto God; even praiſe and thankſgiving: and ſeeing that God ſtill continueth his benefits toward us, we ought never to be weary in praiſing him for the ſame.

[d] Hereby he declareth, that all power is ſubject unto God, and that no worldly promotion ought to obſcure God's glory.

[e] Foraſmuch as the end of man's creation, and of his preſervation in this life, is to praiſe God, therefore he requireth that not only we ourſelves do this, but cauſe all others to do the ſame.

[f] Of thy terrible judgments againſt the wicked.

[g] He deſcribeth after what ſort God ſheweth himſelf to all his creatures, though our ſins have provoked his vengeance againſt all: to wit, merciful, not only in pardoning the ſins of his elect, but in doing good even to the reprobate, albeit they cannot feel the ſweet comfort of the ſame.

[h] The praiſe of thy glory appeareth in all thy creatures: and tho' the wicked would obſcure the ſame by their ſilence, yet the faithful are ever mindful of the ſame.

[i] He ſheweth, that all things are out of order, but only where God reigneth.

[k] Who being in miſery and affliction would faint and fall away, if God did not uphold them, and therefore they ought to reverence him that reigneth in heaven, and ſuffer themſelves to be governed by him.

[m] He praiſeth God, not only for that he is beneficial to all his creatures, but alſo in that he juſtly puniſheth the wicked, and mercifully examineth his by the croſs, giving them ſtrength, and delivering them.

[n] Which only appertaineth to the faithful; and this virtue is contrary to infidelity, doubting, impatiency, and murmuring.

[o] For they will aſk or wiſh for nothing, but according to his will, 1 John 5. 14.

[p] That is, all men ſhall be bound to praiſe him.

[q] He ſtirreth up himſelf and all his affections to praiſe God.

[r] That God may have the whole praiſe: wherein he forbiddeth all vain confidence, ſhewing that of nature we are more inclined to put our truſt in creatures, than in God the Creator.

[s] As their vain opinions, whereby they flattered themſelves, and ſo imagined wicked enterpriſes.

[t] He encourageth the godly to truſt only in the Lord, both for that his power is able to deliver them from all dangers, and for his promiſe ſake his will is moſt ready to do it.

[u] Whoſe faith and patience for a while he trieth; but at length he puniſheth the adverſaries, that he may be known to be judge of the world.

[x] Though he viſit them by affliction, hunger, impriſonment, and ſuch like, yet his fatherly love and pity never faileth them, yea rather to his theſe are ſigns of his love.

[y] Meaning, all them that are deſtitute of worldly means and ſuccour.

[z] He aſſureth the church that God reigneth for ever, for the preſervation of the ſame.

PSALM CXLVII.

1 The prophet praiſeth the bounty, wiſdom, power, juſtice, and providence of God upon all his creatures, 2 but ſpecially upon his church, which he gathereth together after their diſperſion, 19 declaring his word and judgments ſo unto them, as he hath done to no other people.

PRAISE ye the Lord, for it is good to ſing unto our God: for it is a [a] pleaſant thing, and praiſe is comely.

2 The Lord doth build up [b] Jeruſalem, and gather together the diſperſed of Iſrael.

3 He healeth thoſe that are [c] broken in heart, and bindeth up their ſores.

4 He [d] counteth the number of the ſtars, and calleth them all by their names.

5 Great is our Lord, and great is his power: his wiſdom is infinite.

6 The Lord relieveth the meek, and abaſeth the wicked to the [e] ground.

7 Sing unto the Lord with praiſe: ſing upon the harp unto our God,

8 Which [f] covereth the heaven with clouds, and prepareth rain for the earth, and maketh the graſs to grow upon the mountains:

9 Which giveth to beaſts their food, and to the young ravens that [g] cry.

10 He hath no pleaſure in the [h] ſtrength of an horſe, neither delighteth he in the legs of man.

11 But the Lord delighteth in them that fear him, and attend upon his mercy.

12 Praiſe the Lord, O Jeruſalem: praiſe thy God, O Zion.

13 For he hath made the bars of thy gates [i] ſtrong, and hath bleſſed thy children within thee.

14 He ſetteth peace in thy borders, and ſatiſfieth thee with the ‡ flour of wheat. ‡ Fat.

15 He ſendeth forth his [k] commandment upon earth, and his word runneth very [l] ſwiftly.

16 He giveth ſnow like wool, and ſcattereth the hoary froſt like aſhes.

17 He caſteth forth his ice like morſels: who can abide the cold thereof?

18 He ſendeth his word and melteth them: he cauſeth his wind to blow, and the waters flow.

19 He ſheweth his [m] word unto Jacob, his ſtatutes and his judgments unto Iſrael.

20 He hath not dealt ſo with every nation, neither have they [n] known his judgments. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM CXLVIII.

1 He provoketh all creatures to praiſe the Lord in heaven and earth, and in all places, 14 ſpecially his church, for the power that he hath given to the ſame, after that he hath choſen them, and joined them unto him.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

PRAISE ye the Lord from the heaven: praiſe ye him in the high places.

2 Praiſe ye him, all ye [o] his angels: praiſe him, all his army.

3 Praiſe ye him, [p] ſun and moon: praiſe ye him, all bright ſtars.

4 Praiſe ye him, [q] heavens of heavens, and [r] waters that be above the heavens.

5 Let them praiſe the name of the Lord: for he commanded, and they were created,

6 And he hath eſtabliſhed them for ever and ever: he hath made an ordinance, which ſhall not paſs.

7 Praiſe ye the Lord from the earth, ye [s] dragons and all depths:

8 [t] Fire and hail, ſnow and vapours, ſtormy wind, which execute his word:

9 Mountains and all hills, fruitful trees and all cedars:

10 Beaſts and all cattle, creeping things and feathered fowls:

11 [u] Kings of the earth and all people, princes and all judges of the world.

12 Young men and maidens, alſo old men and children:

13 Let them praiſe the name of the Lord: for his name only is to be exalted, and his praiſe above the earth and the heavens.

14 For he hath exalted the [w] horn of his people, which is a praiſe for all his ſaints, even for the [x] children of Iſrael, a people that is near unto him. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM

---

[a] He ſheweth wherein we ought to exerciſe ourſelves continually, and to take our paſtime: to wit, in praiſing God.

[b] Becauſe the Lord is the founder of the church, it cannot be deſtroyed, though the members thereof be diſperſed, and ſeem, as it were, for a time to be cut off.

[c] With affliction, or ſorrow for ſin.

[d] Though it ſeem to man incredible, that God ſhould aſſemble his church, being ſo diſperſed: yet nothing can be too hard to him that can number and name all the ſtars.

[e] For the more high that the wicked climb, the greater is their fall in the end.

[f] He ſheweth the examples of God's mighty power, goodneſs, and wiſdom, that we can never want moſt juſt occaſion to praiſe God.

[g] For their crying is as it were a confeſſion of their need, which cannot be relieved, but by God only: then if God ſhew himſelf mindful of the moſt contemptible fowls, can he ſuffer them to die with famine, whom he hath aſſured of life everlaſting?

[h] Though to uſe lawful means is both profitable and pleaſeth God, yet to put our trnſt in them is to defraud God of his honour.

[i] He doth not only furniſh his church with all things neceſſary, but preſerveth alſo the ſame, and maketh it ſtrong againſt all outward force.

[k] His ſecret working in all creatures is as a commandment to keep them in order, and to give them moving and force.

[l] For immediately and without reſiſting all things obey him.

[m] As before he called God's ſecret working in all his creatures, his word; ſo he meaneth here by his word, the doctrine of life everlaſting, which he hath left to his church, as a moſt precious treaſure.

[n] The cauſe of this difference is God's free mercy, which hath elected his in his Son Chriſt Jeſus to ſalvation: and his juſt judgment, whereby he hath appointed the reprobate to eternal damnation.

[o] Becauſe they are members of the ſame body, he ſetteth them before our eyes, which are moſt willing hereunto, and and by their prompt obedience teach us to do our duty.

[p] In that God's glory ſhineth in theſe inſenſible creatures, this their beauty is as a continual praiſing of God.

[q] Not that there are divers heavens, but becauſe of the ſpheres and of the ſituation of the fixed ſtars and planets, he comprehendeth by this word the whole heaven.

[r] That is, the rain, which is in the middle region of the air, which he here comprehendeth under the name of the heavens.

[s] Meaning the great and monſtrous fiſhes, as whales, and ſuch like.

[t] Which come not by chance or fortune, but by God's appointed ordinance.

[u] For the greater gifts that any hath received, and the more high that one is preferred, the more bound is he to praiſe God for the ſame: but neither high nor low condition or degree can be exempted from this duty.

[w] That is, the dignity, power, and glory of his church.

[x] By reaſon of his covenant made with Abraham.

PSALM CXLIX.

1 An exhortation to the church to praiſe the Lord, for his victory and conqueſt that he giveth his ſaints againſt all man's power.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

SING ye unto the Lord [y] a new ſong: let his praiſe be heard in the congregation of ſaints.

2 Let Iſrael rejoice in him that [z] made him, and let the children of Zion rejoice in their [a] king.

3 Let them praiſe his name with the flute: let them ſing praiſes unto him with the timbrel and harp.

4 For the Lord hath pleaſure in his people: he will make the meek glorious by deliverance.

5 Let the ſaints be joyful with glory: let them ſing loud upon their [b] beds.

6 Let the high acts of God be in their mouth, and a two-edged ſword in their hands,

7 [c] To execute vengeance upon the heathen, and corrections among the people:

8 To bind [d] their kings in chains, and their nobles with fetters of iron,

9 That they may execute upon them the judgment that is [e] written: this honour ſhall be to all his ſaints. Praiſe ye the Lord.

PSALM CL.

1 An exhortation to praiſe the Lord without ceaſing, by all manner of ways, for all his mighty and wonderful works.

¶ Praiſe ye the Lord.

PRAISE ye God in his [f] ſanctuary: praiſe ye him in the [g] firmament of his power.

2 Praiſe ye him in his mighty acts: praiſe ye him according to his excellent greatneſs.

3 Praiſe ye him in the ſound of the [h] trumpet: praiſe ye him upon the viol and the harp.

4 Praiſe ye him with timbrel and flute: praiſe ye him with virginals and organs.

5 Praiſe ye him with ſounding cymbals: praiſe ye him with high ſounding cymbals.

6 Let every thing that hath [i] breath praiſe the Lord. Praiſe ye the Lord.

[y] For his rare and manifold benefits beſtowed on his church.

[z] In that that they were preferred before all other nations, it was as a new creation, and therefore, Pſalm 95. 7. they were called the ſheep of God's hands.

[a] For God, as he is the Creator of the ſoul and body, ſo will he that both two ſerve him, and that his people be continually ſubject unto him, as to their moſt lawful King.

[b] He alludeth to that continual reſt and quietneſs which they ſhould have, if they would ſuffer God to rule them.

[c] This is chiefly accompliſhed in the kingdom of Chriſt, when God's people for juſt cauſes execute God's judgments againſt his enemies: and it giveth no liberty to any to revenge their private injuries.

[d] Not only the people, but the kings that were their enemies, ſhould be deſtroyed.

[e] Hereby God bindeth the hands and minds of all his, to enterpriſe no further than he appointeth.

[f] That is, in the heavens.

[g] For his wonderful power appeareth in the firmament, which in Hebrew is called a ſtretching out, or ſpreading abroad, wherein the mighty work of God ſhineth.

[h] Exhorting the people only to rejoice in praiſing God, he maketh mention of thoſe inſtruments which by God's commandment were appointed in the old law, but under Chriſt the uſe thereof is aboliſhed in the church.

[i] He ſheweth, that all the order of nature is bound to this duty, and much more God's children, who ought never to ceaſe to praiſe him, till they be gathered into that kingdom which he hath prepared for his, where they ſhall ſing everlaſting praiſe.

The * PROVERBS of SOLOMON.

* This word Proverb, or Parable, ſignifieth a grave and notable ſentence, worthy to be kept in memory: and is ſometimes taken in the evil part for a mock or ſcoff.

THE ARGUMENT.

The wonderful love of God toward his church is declared in this book: foraſmuch as the ſum and effect of the whole ſcripture is here ſet forth in theſe brief ſentences, which partly contain doctrine, and partly manners, and alſo exhortations to both: whereof the nine firſt chapters are as a preface full of grave ſentences and deep myſteries, to allure the hearts of men to the diligent reading of the parables that follow: which are left as a moſt precious jewel to the church, of thoſe three thouſand parables mentioned, 1 Kings 4. 32. and were gathered and committed to writing by Solomon's ſervants, and indited by him.

CHAP. I.

1 The power and uſe of the word of God. 7 Of the fear of God, and knowledge of his word. 10 We may not conſent to the enticings of ſinners. 20 Wiſdom complaineth that ſhe is contemned. 24 The puniſhment of them that contemn her.

THE Parables of Solomon the ſon of David, king of Iſrael.

2 To know wiſdom [a] and inſtruction, to underſtand the words [b] of knowledge,

3 To receive [c] inſtruction to do wiſely, by [d] juſtice and judgment and equity,

4 To give unto the [e] ſimple, ſharpneſs of wit, and to the child knowledge and diſcretion.

5 A wiſe man ſhall hear, and increaſe in learning, and a man of [f] underſtanding ſhall attain unto wiſe counſels,

6 To underſtand a parable, and the interpretation, the words of the wiſe, and their dark ſayings.

7 ¶ * The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fools deſpiſe wiſdom and inſtruction.

* Pſ. 111. 10.

[a] That is, what we ought to know and follow, and what we ought to refuſe.

[b] Meaning, the word of God, wherein is the only true knowledge.

[c] To learn to ſubmit ourſelves to the correction of thoſe that are wiſe.

[d] By living juſtly, and rendering to every man that which appertaineth unto him.

[e] To ſuch as have no diſcretion to rule themſelves

[f] As he ſheweth that theſe parables containing the effect of religion, as touching manners and doctrine, do appertain to the ſimple people: ſo doth he declare that the ſame is alſo neceſſary for them that are wiſe and learned.

8 My ſon, hear thy [g] father's inſtruction, and forſake not thy [h] mother's teaching.

9 For they ſhall be † a comely ornament unto thine head, and as chains for thy neck.

10 ¶ My ſon, if [i] ſinners do entice thee, conſent thou not.

11 If they ſay, Come with us, we will lay wait for [k] blood, and lie privily for the innocent without a cauſe:

12 We will ſwallow them up alive like a [l] grave even whole, as thoſe that go down into the pit.

13 We ſhall find alſo precious riches, and fill our houſes with ſpoil.

14 Caſt in thy lot among us: we will all have one [m] purſe:

15 My ſon, walk not thou in the way with them: refrain thy foot from their [n] path.

16 For their feet run to evil, and make haſte to ſhed blood.

17 Certainly, as without cauſe the net is ſpread before the eyes of all that have wing:

18 So they lay wait for blood, and lie privily for [o] their lives.

19 Such are the ways of every one that is greedy of gain: he would take away the [p] life of the owners thereof.

20 ¶ [q] Wiſdom crieth without: ſhe uttereth her voice in the [r] ſtreets.

21 She calleth in the high ſtreet, among the preſs in the entering of the gates, and uttereth her words in the city, ſaying,

22 O ye [s] fooliſh, how long will ye love fooliſhneſs? and the ſcornful take their pleaſure in ſcorning? and the fools hate knowledge?

23 (Turn you at my correction: lo, I will pour out my mind unto you, and make you underſtand my words)

24 Becauſe I have called, and ye refuſed: I have ſtretched out mine hand, and none would regard,

25 But ye have deſpiſed all my counſel, and would none of my correction,

26 I will alſo [t] laugh at your deſtruction, and mock when your fear cometh:

27 When [u] your fear cometh like ſudden deſolation, and your deſtruction ſhall come like a whirlwind: when affliction and anguiſh ſhall come upon you:

28 Then ſhall they call upon me, but I will not anſwer: they ſhall ſeek me early, but they ſhall not [w] find me.

29 Becauſe they hated knowledge, and did not chuſe the fear of the Lord.

30 They would none of my counſel, but [x] deſpiſed all my correction.

31 Therefore ſhall they eat of the [y] fruit of their own way, and be filled with their own devices.

32 For [z] eaſe ſlayeth the fooliſh, and the proſperity of fools deſtroyeth them.

33 But he that obeyeth me, ſhall dwell ſafely, and be quiet from fear of evil.

CHAP. II.

1 Wiſdom exhorteth to obey her. 5 She teacheth the fear of God. 6 She is given of God. 10 She preſerveth from wickedneſs.

MY ſon, if thou wilt receive my words, and [a] hide my commandments within thee,

2 And cauſe thine ears to hearken unto wiſdom, and incline [b] thine heart to underſtanding,

3 (For if thou calleſt after knowledge, and [c] crieſt for underſtanding:

4 If thou ſeekeſt her as ſilver, and ſearcheſt for her as for [d] treaſures,

5 Then ſhalt thou underſtand the fear of the Lord, and find the [e] knowledge of God.

6 For the Lord giveth wiſdom, out of his mouth cometh knowledge and underſtanding.

7 He ‡ preſerveth the ſtate of the righteous: he is a ſhield to them that walk uprightly,

‡ Or, hideth the ſalvation.

8 That they may keep the ways of judgment: and he preſerveth the way of his ſaints)

9 Then ſhalt thou underſtand righteouſneſs, and judgment, and equity, and every good path.

10 ¶ When wiſdom entereth into thine heart, and knowledge delighteth thy ſoul,

11 Then ſhall [f] counſel preſerve thee, and underſtanding ſhall keep thee,

12 And deliver thee from the evil way, and from the man that ſpeaketh froward things,

13 And from them that leave the [g] ways of righteouſneſs to walk in the ways of darkneſs:

14 Which rejoice in doing evil, and delight [h] in the frowardneſs of the wicked,

15 Whoſe ways are crooked, and they are lewd in their paths.

16 And it ſhall deliver thee from the ſtrange [i] woman, even from the ſtranger, which flattereth with her words.

[g] He ſpeaketh this in the name of God, which is the univerſal Father of all creatures; or in the name of the paſtor of the church, who is as a father.

[h] That is, of the church, wherein the faithful are begotten by the incorruptible ſeed of God's word.

[i] To wit, the wicked which have not the fear of God.

[k] He ſpeaketh not only of the ſhedding of blood with hand, but of all crafty practices which tend to the detriment of our neighbour.

[l] As the grave is never ſatiate, ſo the avarice of the wicked and their cruelty hath no end.

[m] He ſheweth whereby the wicked are allured to join together, becauſe they have every one part of the ſpoil of the innocent.

[n] That is, having nothing at all to do with them.

[o] He ſheweth that there is no cauſe to move theſe wicked to ſpoil the innocent, but their avarice and cruelty.

[p] Whereby he concludeth that the covetous man is a murderer.

[q] This wiſdom is the eternal word of God.

[r] So that none can pretend ignorance.

[s] Wiſdom reproveth three kinds of men, the fooliſh or ſimple, which err of ignorance; and the mockers, that cannot ſuffer to be taught; and the fools, which are drowned in worldly luſts, and hate the knowledge of godlineſs.

[t] This is ſpoken according to our capacity, ſignifying, that the wicked which mock and jeſt at God's word, ſhall have the juſt reward of their mocking.

[u] That is, your deſtruction, which thing you feared.

[w] Becauſe they ſought not with an affection to God, but for eaſe of their own grief.

[x] Shewing that without faith and obedience we cannot call upon God aright.

[y] They ſhall feel what commodity their wicked life ſhall give them.

[z] That is, the proſperity, and ſenſuality wherein they delight.

[a] That is, keep them in thine heart.

[b] If thou give thyſelf to the true knowledge of God without hypocriſy.

[c] Meaning, that we muſt ſeek the knowledge of God with care and diligence.

[d] Shewing, that no labour muſt be ſpared.

[e] This (ſaith he) is the true wiſdom, to know and fear God.

[f] The word of God ſhall teach thee and counſel thee how to govern thyſelf.

[g] That is, the word of God, which is the only light, to follow their own fancies, which are darkneſs.

[h] When they ſee any given to evil as they are.

[i] Meaning, that wiſdom which is the word of God, ſhall preſerve us from all vices: naming this vice of whoredom, whereunto man is moſt prone.

17 Which forſaketh the [k] guide of her youth, and forgetteth the [l] covenant of her God.

18 Surely her [m] houſe tendeth to death, and her paths unto [n] the dead.

19 All they that go unto her, return not again, neither take they hold of the ways of life.

20 Therefore walk thou in the way of good men, and keep the ways of the righteous.

21 For the juſt ſhall dwell in the [o] land, and the upright men ſhall remain in it.

22 But the wicked ſhall be cut off from the earth, and the tranſgreſſors ſhall be rooted out of it.

CHAP. III.

1 The word of God giveth life. 5 Truſt in God. 7 Fear him. 9 Honour him. 11 Suffer his correction. 22 To them that follow the word of God, all things ſhall ſucceed well.

*Deut. 8. 1. & 30. 16. MY ſon, forget not thou my law, but let thine heart * keep my commandments.

2 For they ſhall increaſe the length of thy [p] days and the years of life, and thy proſperity.

3 Let not [q] mercy and truth forſake thee: bind them on thy [r] neck, and write them upon the table of [s] thine heart.

4 So ſhalt thou find favour and good underſtanding in the ſight of God and man.

5 ¶ Truſt in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own wiſdom.

6 In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he ſhall direct thy ways.

7 ¶ Be not wiſe in thine own eyes: but fear the Lord, and depart from evil.

8 So health ſhall be unto thy [t] navel, and marrow unto thy bones.

9 [u] Honour the Lord with thy riches, and with the firſt fruits of all thine increaſe.

10 So ſhall thy barns be filled with abundance, and thy preſſes ſhall [w] burſt with new wine.

11 ¶ My ſon, refuſe not the chaſtening of the Lord, neither be grieved with his correction.

*Heb. 12. 5. Rev. 3. 19. 12 * For the Lord correcteth him whom he loveth, even as the father doth the child in whom he delighteth.

13 Bleſſed is the man that findeth wiſdom, and the man that getteth underſtanding.

14 For the merchandize thereof is better than the merchandize of ſilver, and the gain thereof is better than gold.

15 It is more precious than pearls: and all things that thou canſt deſire, are not to be compared unto her.

16 Length of days is in her right hand, [x] and in her left hand riches and glory.

17 Her ways are ways of pleaſure, and all her paths proſperity.

18 She is a tree [y] of life to them that lay hold on her, and bleſſed is he that retaineth her.

19 The Lord by wiſdom hath laid the [z] foundation of the earth: and hath eſtabliſhed the heavens through underſtanding.

20 By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew.

21 My ſon, let not theſe things depart from thine eyes, but obſerve wiſdom and counſel.

22 So they ſhall be life to thy ſoul, and grace unto thy ‡ neck. ‡Or, throat, read chap. 1. 9.

23 Then ſhalt thou walk ſafely by the way: and thy foot ſhall not ſtumble.

24 If thou ſleepeſt, thou ſhalt not be afraid: and when thou ſleepeſt, thy ſleep ſhall be ſweet.

25 Thou ſhalt not fear for any ſudden fear, neither for the [a] deſtruction of the wicked when it cometh.

26 For the Lord ſhall be for thine aſſurance, and ſhall preſerve thy foot from taking.

27 ¶ With-hold not the good from [b] the owners thereof, though there be power in thine hand to do it.

28 Say not unto thy neighbour, Go, and come again, and to-morrow will I give thee, if thou now have it.

29 ¶ Intend none hurt againſt thy neighbour, ſeeing he doth dwell [c] without fear by thee.

30 ¶ Strive not with a man cauſeleſs, when he hath done thee no harm.

31 ¶ Be not [d] envious for the wicked man, neither chuſe any of his ways.

32 For the froward is abomination unto the Lord: but his [e] ſecret is with the righteous.

33 The curſe of the Lord is in the houſe of the wicked: but he bleſſeth the habitation of the righteous.

34 With the ſcornful [f] he ſcorneth, but he giveth grace to the humble.

35 The wiſe ſhall inherit glory: but fools diſhonour, though they be exalted.

CHAP.

[k] That is, her huſband, which is her head and guide to govern her, from whom ſhe ought not to depart, but remain in his ſubjection.

[l] Which is the promiſe made in marriage.

[m] Her acquaintance, with her familiars and them that haunt her.

[n] To them that are dead in body and ſoul.

[o] They ſhall enjoy the temporal and ſpiritual promiſes of God, as the wicked ſhall be void of them.

[p] Long life is the bleſſing of God, which he giveth to his, ſo far forth as it is expedient for them.

[q] By mercy and truth, he meaneth the commandments of the firſt and ſecond table: or elſe the mercy and faithfulneſs that we ought to uſe toward our neighbours.

[r] Keep them as a moſt precious jewel.

[s] Have them ever in remembrance.

[t] By this part he comprehendeth the whole body, as by health he meaneth all the benefits promiſed in the law, both corporal and ſpiritual.

[u] As was commanded in the law, Exod. 23. 19. Deut. 26. 2. and by this they acknowledged, that God was the giver of all things, and that they were ready to beſtow all at his commandment.

[w] For to the faithful diſtributer God giveth in greater abundance.

[x] Meaning, that he that ſeeketh wiſdom, that is, ſuffereth himſelf to be governed by the word of God, ſhall have all proſperity both ſpiritual and temporal.

[y] Which bringeth forth ſuch fruit, that they that eat thereof, have life: and he alludeth to the tree of life in Paradiſe.

[z] Hereby he ſheweth that this wiſdom, whereof he ſpeaketh, is everlaſting, becauſe it was before all creatures, and that all things, even the whole world, were made by it.

[a] For when God deſtroyeth the wicked, he will ſave his as he did Lot in Sodom.

[b] Not only from them to whom the poſſeſſion belongeth, but alſo thou ſhalt not keep it from them which have need of the uſe thereof.

[c] That is, putteth his truſt in thee.

[d] Deſire not to be like unto him.

[e] That is, his covenant and fatherly affection, which is hid and ſecret from the world.

[f] He will ſhew by his plagues, that their ſcorns ſhall turn to their own deſtruction, as ch. 1. 26.

CHAP. IV.

1 Wiſdom and her fruits ought to be ſearched. 14 The way of the wicked muſt be refuſed. 20 By the word of God the heart, eyes, and courſe of life muſt be guided.

HEAR, O ye children, the inſtruction of a [g] father, and give ear to learn underſtanding.

2 For I do give you a good doctrine: therefore forſake ye not my law.

3 For I was my father's ſon, tender and [h] dear in the ſight of my mother.

4 When [i] he taught me, and ſaid unto me, Let thine heart hold faſt my words: keep my commandments, and thou ſhalt live.

5 Get wiſdom: get underſtanding: forget not, neither decline from the words of my mouth.

6 Forſake her not, and ſhe ſhall keep thee: love her, and ſhe ſhall preſerve thee.

7 [k] Wiſdom is the beginning: get wiſdom therefore: and above all thy poſſeſſion get underſtanding.

8 Exalt her, and ſhe ſhall exalt thee: ſhe ſhall bring thee to honour, if thou embrace her.

9 She ſhall give a comely ornament unto thine head, yea ſhe ſhall give thee a crown of glory.

10 ¶ Hear, my ſon, and receive my words, and the years of thy life ſhall be many.

11 I have [l] taught thee in the way of wiſdom, and led thee in the paths of righteouſneſs.

12 When thou goeſt, thy gate ſhall not be [m] ſtrait, and when thou runneſt thou ſhalt not fall.

13 Take hold of inſtruction, and leave not: keep her, for ſhe is thy life.

14 ¶ Enter not into the way of the wicked, and walk not in the way of evil men.

15 Avoid it, and go not by it: turn from it, and paſs by.

16 For they cannot [n] ſleep, except they have done evil: and their ſleep departeth, except they cauſe ſome to fall.

17 For they eat the bread of [o] wickedneſs, and drink the wine of violence.

18 But the way of the righteous ſhineth as the light that [p] ſhineth more and more unto the perfect day.

19 The way of the wicked is as the darkneſs: they know not wherein they ſhall fall.

20 ¶ My ſon, hearken unto my words, incline thine ear unto my ſayings,

21 Let them not depart from thine eyes, but keep them in the midſt of thine heart.

22 For they are life unto thoſe that find them, and health unto all their [q] fleſh.

23 Keep thine heart with all diligence: for thereout cometh [r] life.

24 Put away from thee a froward mouth, and put wicked lips far from thee.

25 Let thine eyes behold the right, and let thine eyelids direct thy way before thee.

26 [s] Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be ordered aright.

27 Turn not to the right hand, nor to the left, but remove thy foot from evil.

CHAP. V.

3 Whoredoms forbidden, 9 and prodigality. 15 He willeth a man to live on his labours, and to help others. 18 To love his wife. 22 The wicked taken in their own wickedneſs.

MY ſon, hearken unto my wiſdom, and incline thine ear unto my ‡ knowledge,

‡ Or, underſtanding.

2 That thou mayeſt regard counſel, and thy lips obſerve knowledge.

3 For the lips of a [t] ſtrange woman drop as an honeycomb, and her mouth is more ſoft than [u] oil.

4 But the end of her is bitter as wormwood, and ſharp as a two-edged ſword.

5 Her [w] feet go down to death, and her ſteps take hold on hell.

6 She weigheth not the way of life: her paths are [x] moveable: thou canſt not know them.

7 Hear ye me now therefore, O children, and depart not from the words of my mouth.

8 Keep thy way far from her, and come not near the door of her houſe,

9 Leſt thou give thine [y] honour unto others, and thy years to the cruel:

10 Leſt the ſtranger ſhould be filled with thy ſtrength, and thy [z] labours be in the houſe of a ſtranger,

11 And thou mourn at thine end (when thou haſt conſumed thy fleſh and thy body)

12 And ſay, How have I hated inſtruction, and mine heart deſpiſed correction!

13 And have not obeyed the voice of them that taught me, nor inclined mine ear to them that inſtructed me!

14 I was almoſt brought into all evil in the midſt of the congregation and [a] aſſembly.

15 ¶ Drink the water of [b] thy ciſtern, and of the rivers out of the midſt of thine own well.

16 Let thy fountains flow forth, and the rivers of waters in the ſtreets.

17 But

[g] He ſpeaketh this in the perſon of a preacher or miniſter, which is as a father unto the people, read ch. 1. 2.

[h] In Hebrew it is only: for though ſhe had three others, as 1 Chron. 3. 5. yet ſo tenderly ſhe loved Solomon, that he was unto her as her only ſon.

[i] Meaning, David his father.

[k] He ſheweth that we muſt firſt begin at God's word, if ſo be we will that other things proſper with us; contrary to the judgment of the world, which make it their laſt ſtudy, or elſe care not for it at all.

[l] Solomon declareth, what care his father had to bring him up in the true fear of God: for this was David's proteſtation.

[m] Thou ſhalt walk at liberty, without offence.

[n] Meaning, that to do evil, is more proper and natural to the wicked, than to ſleep, eat, or drink.

[o] Gotten by wicked means and cruel oppreſſion.

[p] Signifying, that the godly increaſe daily in knowledge and perfection, till they come to full perfection, which is, when they ſhall be joined to their head in the heavens.

[q] That is, they ſhall have health of body: under which all other bleſſings promiſed in the law are contained.

[r] For as the heart is either pure or corrupt, ſo is the whole courſe of man's life.

[s] Keep a meaſure in all thy doings.

[t] That is, an harlot which giveth herſelf to another than to her huſband.

[u] By oil and honey, he meaneth flattering and crafty enticements.

[w] All her doings lead to deſtruction.

[x] She hath ever new means to allure to wickedneſs.

[y] That is, thy ſtrength and goods to her that will have no pity upon thee: as is read of Samſon, and the prodigal ſon.

[z] The goods gotten by thy travail.

[a] Although I was faithfully inſtructed in the truth, yet had I almoſt fallen to utter ſhame and deſtruction, notwithſtanding my good bringing up in the aſſembly of the godly.

[b] He teacheth us ſobriety, exhorting us to live of our own labours, and to be beneficial to the godly that want.

17 But let them be thine, even [c] thine only, and not the ſtrangers with thee.

18 Let thy [d] fountain be bleſſed, and rejoice with the wife of thy [e] youth.

19 Let her be as the loving hind and pleaſant roe: let her breaſts ſatisfy thee at all times, and delight in her love continually.

‡ Or, go aſtray with a ſtranger.

20 For why ſhouldſt thou ‡ delight, my ſon, in a ſtrange woman, or embrace the boſom of a ſtranger?

21 For the ways of man are before the [f] eyes of the Lord, and he pondereth all his paths.

22 His own iniquities ſhall take the wicked himſelf, and he ſhall be holden with the cords of his own ſin.

23 He ſhall [g] die for fault of inſtruction, and ſhall go aſtray through his great folly.

CHAP. VI.

1 Inſtruction for ſureties. 6 The ſlothful and ſluggiſh are ſtirred to work. 12 He deſcribeth the nature of the wicked. 16 The things that God hateth. 20 To obſerve the word of God. 24 To flee adultery.

MY ſon, if thou be ſurety for thy neighbour, and haſt ſtricken hands with the ſtranger,

2 Thou art [h] ſnared with the words of thy mouth: thou art even taken with the words of thine own mouth.

3 Do this, now my ſon, and deliver thyſelf: ſeeing thou art come into the hand of thy neighbour, go and humble thyſelf, and ſolicit thy friends.

4 Give no ſleep to thine eyes, nor ſlumber to thine eyelids.

5 Deliver thyſelf as a doe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 ¶ Go to the [i] piſmire, O ſluggard: behold her ways, and be wiſe.

7 For ſhe having no guide, governor, nor ruler,

8 Prepareth her meat in the ſummer, and gathereth her food in harveſt.

9 How long wilt thou ſleep, O ſluggard? when wilt thou ariſe out of thy ſleep?

*Ch. 24. 33.

10 * Yet a little ſleep, a little ſlumber, [k] a little folding of the hands to ſleep.

11 Therefore thy poverty cometh as one that [l] travelleth by the way, and thy neceſſity like [m] an armed man.

12 The unthrifty man, and the [n] wicked man, walketh with a froward mouth.

† Heb. ſpeaketh.

13 He maketh a ſign with his eyes: he † ſignifieth with his feet: he [o] inſtructeth with his fingers,

14 Lewd things are in his heart: he imagineth evil at all times, and raiſeth up contentions,

15 Therefore ſhall his deſtruction come ſpeedily: he ſhall be deſtroyed ſuddenly without recovery.

16 ¶ Theſe ſix things doth the Lord hate: yea, his ſoul abhorreth ſeven:

17 The haughty eyes, a lying tongue, and the hands that ſhed innocent blood,

18 An heart that imagineth wicked enterpriſes, [p] feet that be ſwift in running to miſchief,

‡ Or, neighbour.

19 A falſe witneſs that ſpeaketh lyes, and him that raiſeth up contentions among ‡ brethren.

20 ¶ My ſon, keep thy father's commandment, and forſake not thy mother's inſtruction.

21 Bind them alway upon [q] thine heart, and tie them about thy neck.

22 It ſhall lead thee when thou walkeſt: it ſhall watch for thee when thou ſleepeſt, and when thou wakeſt, it ſhall talk with thee.

23 For the [r] commandment is a lantern, and inſtruction a light: and [s] corrections for inſtruction are the way of life,

24 To keep thee from the wicked woman, and from the flattery of the tongue of a ſtrange woman.

25 Deſire not her beauty in thine heart, neither let her take thee with her [t] eyelids.

26 For becauſe of the whoriſh woman, a man is brought to a morſel of bread, and a woman will hunt for the precious life of a man.

27 [u] Can a man take fire in his boſom, and his cloaths not be burnt?

28 Or, can a man go upon coals, and his feet not be burnt?

29 So he that goeth in to his neighbour's wife, ſhall not be innocent, whoſoever toucheth her.

30 Men do not [w] deſpiſe a thief, when he ſtealeth, to ſatisfy his [x] ſoul, becauſe he is hungry.

31 But if he be found, he ſhall reſtore ſevenfold, or he ſhall give all the ſubſtance of his houſe.

† Heb. faileth in heart.

32 But he that committeth adultery with a woman, he ‡ is deſtitute of underſtanding: he that doth it, deſtroyeth his own ſoul.

[c] Diſtribute them not to the wicked and infidels, but reſerve them for thyſelf, thy family, and them that are of the houſhold of faith.

[d] Thy children ſhall come of thee in great abundance: ſhewing, that God bleſſeth marriage, and curſeth whoredom.

[e] Which thou didſt marry in thy youth.

[f] He declareth that except man do join to his wife both in heart and outward converſation, that he ſhall not eſcape the judgments of God.

[g] Becauſe he will not give ear to God's word, and be admoniſhed.

[h] He forbiddeth us not to become ſurety one for another, according to the rule of charity, but that we conſider for whom and after what ſort, ſo that the creditor may not be defrauded.

[i] If the word of God cannot inſtruct thee, yet learn at the little piſmire to labour for thyſelf, and not to burthen others.

[k] He expreſſeth lively the nature of the ſluggards, which, though they ſleep never ſo long, yet have never enough, but ever ſeek occaſion thereunto.

[l] That is, ſuddenly, and when thou lookeſt not for it.

[m] It ſhall come in ſuch ſort, as thou art not able to reſiſt it.

[n] He ſheweth to what inconvenience the idle perſons and ſluggards come, by calling them unthrifty, or the men of Belial, and ſlanderous.

[o] Thus all his geſture tendeth to wickedneſs.

[p] Meaning, the raging affections, which carry a man away in ſuch ſort, that he cannot tell what he doth.

[q] Read ch. 3. 3.

[r] By the commandment, he meaneth the word of God, and by the inſtruction, the preaching and declaration of the ſame, which is committed to the church.

[s] And reprehenſions when the word is preached bring us to life.

[u] Meaning, that ſhe will never ceaſe till ſhe have brought thee to beggary, and then ſeek thy deſtruction.

[w] He reproveth not theft, but ſheweth that it is not ſo abominable as whoredom, foraſmuch as theft might be redeemed: but adultery was a perpetual infamy, and death by the law of God.

[x] Meaning, for very neceſſity.

33 He ſhall find [y] a wound and diſhonour, and his reproach ſhall never be put away.

34 For jealouſy is the rage of a man: therefore he will not [z] ſpare in the day of vengeance.

35 He cannot bear the ſight of any ranſom: neither will he conſent, though thou augment the gifts.

CHAP. VII.

1 An exhortation to wiſdom and to the word of God, 3 which will preſerve us from the harlot, 6 whoſe manners are deſcribed.

MY ſon, keep my words, and hide my commandments with thee.

2 Keep my commandments, and thou ſhalt live, and mine inſtruction as the [a] apple of thine eyes.

3 Bind them upon thy fingers, and write them upon the table of thine heart.

4 Say unto wiſdom, Thou art my ſiſter: and call underſtanding thy kinſwoman,

5 That they may keep thee from the ſtrange woman, even from the ſtranger that is ſmooth in her words.

6 ¶ [b] As I was in the window of mine houſe, I looked through my window,

7 And I ſaw among the fools, and conſidered among the children, a young man deſtitute of underſtanding,

8 Who paſſed through the ſtreet by her corner, and went toward her houſe,

9 In the twilight in the evening, when the night began to be [c] black and dark.

10 And behold, there met him a woman with an harlot's ‡ behaviour, and ‡ ſubtil in her heart.

‡ Or, garment.
‡ Or, hid.

11 (She [d] is babbling and loud: whoſe feet cannot abide in her houſe.

12 Now ſhe is without, now in the ſtreets, and lieth in wait at every corner)

13 So ſhe caught him and kiſſed him, and † with an impudent face ſaid unto him,

14 I have [e] peace-offerings: this [f] day have I payed my vows:

15 Therefore came I forth to meet thee, that I might ſeek thy face: and I have found thee.

16 I have decked my bed with ornaments, ‡ carpets, and laces of Egypt.

‡ Or, carved work.

17 I have perfumed my bed with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.

18 Come, let us take our fill of love until the morning: let us take our pleaſure in dalliance.

19 For mine huſband is not at home: he is gone a journey far off.

20 He hath taken † with him a bag of ſilver, and will come home at the day appointed.

21 Thus with her great craft ſhe cauſed him to yield, and with her flattering lips ſhe enticed him.

22 And he followed her ſtraitways, as an [g] ox that goeth to the ſlaughter, and [h] as a fool to the ſtocks for correction,

23 Till a dart ſtrike through his liver, as a bird haſteth to the ſnare, not knowing that † he is in danger.

† Heb. it is for his life.

24 ¶ Hear me now therefore, O children, and hearken to the words of my mouth.

25 Let not thine heart decline to her ways: wander thou not in her paths.

26 For ſhe hath cauſed many to fall down wounded, and the [i] ſtrong men are all ſlain by her.

27 Her houſe is the way * unto the grave, which goeth down to the chambers of death.

* Ch. 2. 18.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Wiſdom declareth her excellency, 11 riches, 15 power, 22 eternity. 32 She exhorteth all to love and follow her.

DOTH * not [k] wiſdom cry? and underſtanding utter her voice?

* Ch. 1. 20.

2 She ſtandeth in the top of the high places by the way in the place of the depths.

3 She crieth beſide [l] the gates before the city, at the entry of the doors,

4 O men, I call unto you, and utter my voice to the children of men.

5 O ye fooliſh men, underſtand wiſdom, and ye, O fools, be wiſe in heart.

6 Give ear, for I will ſpeak of excellent things, and the opening of my lips ſhall teach things that be right.

7 For my mouth ſhall ſpeak the truth, and my lips abhor wickedneſs.

8 All the words of my mouth are righteous: there is no lewdneſs nor frowardneſs in them.

9 They are all [m] plain to him that will underſtand, and ſtrength to them that would find knowledge.

10 Receive mine inſtruction, and not ſilver, and knowledge rather than fine gold.

11 For wiſdom is better than precious ſtones: and all pleaſures are not to be compared unto her.

12 I wiſdom dwell with [n] prudence, and I find forth knowledge and counſels.

13 The fear of the Lord is to hate [o] evil: as pride,

---

[y] That is, death appointed by the law.

[z] He ſheweth, that man by nature ſeeketh his death that hath abuſed his wife, and ſo concludeth, that neither God's law, nor the law of nature, admitteth any ranſom for the adulterer.

[a] By this diverſity of words he meaneth, that nothing ought to be ſo dear unto us as the word of God, nor that we look on any thing more, nor mind any thing ſo much.

[b] Solomon uſeth this parable, to declare their folly that ſuffer themſelves to be abuſed by harlots.

[c] He ſheweth, that there was almoſt none ſo impudent, but they were afraid to be ſeen, and alſo their own conſciences did accuſe them, which cauſed them to ſeek the night to cover their filthineſs.

[d] He deſcribeth certain conditions, which are peculiar to harlots.

[e] Becauſe that in peace-offerings, a portion returned to them that offered, ſhe ſheweth him that ſhe hath meat at home to make good cheer with: or elſe ſhe would uſe ſome cloak of holineſs, till ſhe had gotten him in her ſnares.

[f] Which declareth, that harlots outwardly will ſeem holy and religious: both becauſe they may the better deceive others, and alſo thinking by obſerving of ceremonies and offerings, to make ſatisfaction for their ſins.

[g] Which thinketh he goeth to the paſture, goeth willingly to his own deſtruction.

[h] Which goeth chearfully, not knowing that he ſhall be chaſtiſed.

[i] Neither wit nor ſtrength can deliver them that fall into the hands of the harlot.

[k] Solomon declareth that man is cauſe of his own perdition, and that he can pretend no ignorance, foraſmuch as God calleth to all men by his word, and by his works, to follow virtue and to flee from vice.

[l] Where the people did moſt reſort, and which was the place of juſtice.

[m] Meaning, that the word of God is eaſy unto all that have deſire unto it, and which are not blinded by the prince of this world.

[n] That is, except a man have wiſdom, which is the true knowledge of God, he can neither be prudent, nor good counſellor.

[o] So that he that doth not hate evil, feareth not God.

pride, and arrogancy, and the evil way: and a mouth that ſpeaketh lewd things, I do hate.

14 I have counſel and wiſdom: I am underſtanding, and I have ſtrength.

15 By me [p] kings reign, and princes decree juſtice.

16 By me princes rule, and the nobles, and all the judges of the earth.

17 I love them that love me: and they that ſeek me [q] early ſhall find me.

18 Riches and honour are with me: even [r] durable riches and righteouſneſs.

19 My fruit is better than gold, even than fine gold, and my revenues better than fine ſilver.

20 I cauſe to walk in the way of righteouſneſs, and in the midſt of the paths of [s] judgment,

21 That I may cauſe them that love me to inherit ſubſtance, and I will fill their treaſures.

22 The Lord hath poſſeſſed me in the beginning of his way: I was [t] before his works of old.

23 I was ſet up from everlaſting, from the beginning, and before the earth.

24 When there were no depths, was I begotten, when there were no fountains abounding with water.

25 Before the mountains were ſettled: and before the hills, was I begotten.

26 He had not yet made the earth, nor the open places, nor the height of the duſt in the world.

27 When he prepared the heavens, I was [u] there, when he ſet the compaſs upon the deep:

28 When he eſtabliſhed the clouds above, when he confirmed the fountains of the deep:

29 When he gave his decree to the ſea, that the water ſhould not paſs his commandment, when he appointed the foundations of the earth,

30 Then was I with him as a [x] nouriſher, and I was daily his delight, rejoicing alway before him,

31 And took my [y] ſolace in the compaſs of [z] his earth: and my delight is with the children of men.

32 Therefore now hearken, O children, unto me: for bleſſed are they that keep my ways.

33 Hear inſtruction, and be ye wiſe, and refuſe it not: bleſſed is the man that heareth me, watching daily at my gates, and giving attendance at the poſts of my doors.

34 For he that findeth me, findeth life, and ſhall obtain favour of the Lord.

35 But he that ſinneth againſt me, hurteth his own ſoul: and all that hate me, love death.

CHAP. IX.

1 Wiſdom calleth all to her feaſt. 7 The ſcorner will not be corrected. 10 The fear of God. 13 The conditions of the harlot.

WISDOM hath built her [a] houſe, and hewn out her [b] ſeven pillars.

2 She hath killed her victuals, drawn her wine, and [c] prepared her table.

3 She hath ſent forth her [d] maidens, and crieth upon the higheſt places of the city, ſaying,

4 Whoſo is [e] ſimple, let him come hither, and to him that is deſtitute of wiſdom, ſhe ſaith,

5 Come, and eat of my [f] meat, and drink of the wine that I have drawn.

6 Forſake your way, ye fooliſh, and ye ſhall live: and walk in the way of underſtanding.

7 He that reproveth a ſcorner, purchaſeth to himſelf ſhame: and he that rebuketh the wicked, getteth himſelf a [g] blot.

8 Rebuke not a [h] ſcorner, leſt he hate thee: but rebuke a wiſe man, and he will love thee.

9 Give admonition to the wiſe, and he will be wiſer: teach a righteous man, and he will increaſe in learning.

10 The beginning of wiſdom is the fear of the Lord, and the knowledge of holy things is [i] underſtanding.

11 For thy days ſhall be multiplied by me, and the years of thy life ſhall be augmented.

12 If thou be wiſe, thou ſhalt be wiſe for [k] thyſelf: and if thou be a ſcorner, thou alone ſhalt ſuffer.

13 ¶ A [l] fooliſh woman is troubleſome: ſhe is ignorant and knoweth nothing.

14 But ſhe ſitteth at the door of her houſe on a ſeat in the high places of the city,

15 To call them that paſs by the way, that go right on their way, ſaying,

---

[p] Whereby he declareth, that honours, dignity, or riches, come not of man's wiſdom or induſtry, but by the providence of God.

[q] That is, ſtudy the word of God diligently, and with a deſire to profit.

[r] Signifying, that he chiefly meaneth the ſpiritual treaſures and heavenly riches.

[s] For there can be no true juſtice or judgment, which is not directed by this wiſdom.

[t] He declareth hereby the divinity and eternity of this wiſdom, which he magnifieth and praiſeth through this book: meaning thereby the eternal Son of God, Jeſus Chriſt our Saviour, whom St. John calleth, the word that was in the beginning, John 1. 1.

[u] He declareth the eternity of the Son of God, which is meant by this word Wiſdom, who was before all time, and ever preſent with the Father.

[x] Some read, a chief worker: ſignifying, that this wiſdom, even Chriſt Jeſus, was equal with God his Father, and created, preſerveth, and ſtill worketh with him, as John 5. 17.

[y] Whereby is declared, that the work of the creation was no pain, but a ſolace unto the wiſdom of God.

[z] By earth he meaneth man, which is the work of God, in whom wiſdom took pleaſure: inſomuch as for man's ſake, the divine Wiſdom took man's nature, and dwelt among us, and filled us with unſpeakable treaſures, and this is that ſolace and paſtime whereof is here ſpoken.

[a] Chriſt hath prepared him a church.

[b] That is, many chief ſtates and principal parts of his church, as were the patriarchs, prophets, apoſtles, paſtors, and doctors.

[c] He compareth wiſdom with great princes, that keep open houſe, for all that come.

[d] Meaning, true preachers, which are not infected with man's wiſdom.

[e] He that knoweth his own ignorance, and is void of malice.

[f] By the meat and drink is meant, the word of God, and the miniſtration of the ſacraments, whereby God nouriſheth his ſervants in his houſe, which is the church.

[g] For the wicked will contemn him, and labour to defame him.

[h] Meaning, them that are incorrigible, which Chriſt calleth dogs and ſwine: or he ſpeaketh this in compariſon, not that the wicked ſhould not be rebuked, but he ſheweth their malice, and the ſmall hope of profit.

[i] He ſheweth that true underſtanding is, to know the will of God in his word, which is meant by holy things.

[k] Thou ſhalt have the chief profit and commodity thereof.

[l] By the fooliſh woman, ſome underſtand the wicked preachers, to him that is deſtitute of wiſdom, ſhe ſaith alſo,

17 Stolen waters are ſweet, and hid bread is pleaſant:

18 But he knoweth not that the dead are there, and that her gueſts are in the depth of hell.

CHAP. X.

In this chapter, and all that follow unto the thirtieth, the wiſe man exhorteth by divers ſentences, which he calleth parables, to follow virtue and flee vice: and ſheweth alſo what profit cometh of wiſdom, and what hinderance proceedeth of fooliſhneſs.

The Parables of Solomon.

*Ch.15.20. A Wiſe * ſon maketh a glad father: but a fooliſh ſon is an heavineſs to his mother.

2 The treaſures of [m] wickedneſs profit nothing: but righteouſneſs delivereth from death.

3 The Lord will [n] not famiſh the ſoul of the righteous: but he caſteth away the ſubſtance of the wicked.

‡ Or, deceitful. 4 A ‡ ſlothful hand maketh poor: but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

5 He that gathereth in ſummer, is the ſon of wiſdom: but he that ſleepeth in harveſt is the ſon of confuſion.

6 Bleſſings are upon the head of the righteous: but iniquity ſhall cover the mouth of the [o] wicked.

7 The memorial of the juſt ſhall be bleſſed: but the name of the wicked ſhall [p] rot.

8 The wiſe in heart will receive command-
† Heb. lips. ments: but the fooliſh in † talk ſhall be beaten.

‡ Or, ſurely. 9 He that walketh uprightly, walketh ‡ boldly: but he that perverteth his ways ſhall be known.

10 He that [q] winketh with the eye worketh ſorrow, and he that is [r] fooliſh in talk ſhall be beaten.

11 The mouth of a righteous man is a wellſpring of life: but iniquity covereth the mouth of the wicked.

1 Pet. 4. 8. covereth all treſpaſſes.

13 In the lips of him that hath underſtanding, wiſdom is found: and [s] a rod ſhall be for the back of him that is deſtitute of wiſdom.

14 Wiſe men lay up knowledge: but the mouth of the fool is a preſent deſtruction.

15 The rich man's goods are his [t] ſtrong city: but the fear of the needy is their poverty.

16 The labour of the righteous tendeth to life: but the revenues of the wicked to ſin.

17 He that regardeth inſtruction is in the way of life: but he that refuſeth correction, goeth out of the way.

18 He that diſſembleth hatred with lying lips, and he that inventeth ſlander, is a fool.

19 In many words there cannot want iniquity: but he that refraineth his lips is wiſe.

20 The tongue of a juſt man is as fined ſilver: but the heart of the wicked is little worth.

21 The lips of the righteous do [u] feed many: but fools ſhall die for want of wiſdom.

22 The bleſſing of the Lord it maketh rich, and he doth add no [w] ſorrows with it.

23 It is as a paſtime to a fool to do wickedly: but wiſdom is underſtanding to a man.

24 That which the wicked feareth ſhall come upon him: but God will grant the deſire of the righteous.

25 As the whirlwind paſſeth, ſo is the wicked no more: but the righteous is as an everlaſting foundation.

26 As vinegar is to the teeth, and as ſmoke to the eyes, ſo is the ſlothful to them that [x] ſend him.

27 The fear of the Lord increaſeth the days: but the years of the wicked ſhall be [y] diminiſhed.

28 The patient abiding of the righteous ſhall be gladneſs: but the hope of the wicked ſhall periſh.

29 The way of the Lord is ſtrength to the upright man: but fear ſhall be for the workers of iniquity.

30 The righteous ſhall [z] never be removed: but the wicked ſhall not dwell in the land.

31 The mouth of the juſt ſhall be fruitful in wiſdom: but the tongue of the froward ſhall be cut out.

32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable: but the mouth of the wicked ſpeaketh froward things.

preachers, who counterfeit the word of God, as appeareth ver. 16. which were the words of the true preachers, as ver. 4. but their doctrine is but as ſtolen waters, meaning that they are but men's traditions, which are more pleaſant to the fleſh than the word of God: and therefore they themſelves boaſt thereof.

[m] That is, wickedly gotten.

[n] Though he ſuffer the juſt to want for a time, yet he will ſend him comfort in due ſeaſon.

[o] When their wickedneſs ſhall be diſcovered, they ſhall be as dumb, and not know what to ſay.

[p] Shall be vile and abhorred both of God and man, contrary to their own expectation, which think to make their name immortal.

[q] He that beareth a fair countenance, and imagineth miſchief in his heart, as chap. 6. 13.

[r] For the corruption of his heart is known by his talk.

[s] That is, God will find him out to puniſh him.

[t] And ſo maketh him bold to do evil, whereas poverty bridleth the poor from many evil things.

[u] For they ſpeak truth, and edify many by exhortations, admonitions, and counſel.

[w] Meaning, that all worldly things bring care and ſorrow; whereas they that feel the bleſſings of God, have none.

[x] He is but a trouble and grief to him that ſetteth him about any buſineſs.

[y] The time of their proſperity ſhall be ſhort becauſe of their great fall, though they ſeem to live long.

[z] They enjoy in this life, by faith and hope, their everlaſting life.

them: but the tranſgreſſors ſhall be taken in their own wickedneſs.

7 When a wicked man dieth, his hope periſheth, and the hope of the unjuſt ſhall periſh.

8 The righteous eſcapeth out of trouble, and the wicked ſhall come in his [c] ſtead.

9 An [d] hypocrite with his mouth hurteth his neighbour: but the righteous ſhall be delivered by knowledge.

10 In the proſperity of the righteous, the city [e] rejoiceth: and when the wicked periſh, there is joy.

‡ Or, proſperity.

11 By the ‡ bleſſing of the righteous the city is exalted: but it is ſubverted by the mouth of the wicked.

12 He that deſpiſeth his neighbour, is deſtitute of wiſdom: but a man of underſtanding will [f] keep ſilence.

13 He that goeth about as a ſlanderer, diſcovereth a ſecret: but he that is of a faithful heart, concealeth a matter.

14 Where no counſel is, the people fall: but where many [g] counſellors are, there is health.

15 He ſhall be ſore vexed, that is ſurety for a [h] ſtranger, and he [i] that hateth ſuretyſhip, is ſure.

‡ Or, modeſt.

16 A ‡ gracious woman attaineth honour, and the ſtrong men attain riches.

‡ Or, neighbour.

17 He that is merciful [k] rewardeth his own ſoul: but he that troubleth his own ‡ fleſh is cruel.

18 The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but he that ſoweth righteouſneſs ſhall receive a ſure reward.

19 As righteouſneſs leadeth to life: ſo he that followeth evil ſeeketh his own death.

20 They that are of a froward heart, are abomination to the Lord: but they that are upright in their way, are his delight.

21 [l] Though hand join in hand, the wicked ſhall not be unpuniſhed: but the ſeed of the righteous ſhall eſcape.

‡ Or, is of uncomely behaviour.

22 As a jewel of gold in a ſwine's ſnout: ſo is a fair woman which ‡ lacketh diſcretion.

23 The deſire of the righteous is only good: but the hope of the wicked [m] is indignation.

24 There is that ſcattereth, [n] and is more increaſed: but he that ſpareth more [o] than is right, ſurely cometh to poverty.

† Heb. the ſoul of bleſſing ſhall be made fat.

25 The † liberal perſon ſhall have plenty: and he that watereth, ſhall alſo have rain.

26 He that withdraweth the corn, the people will curſe him: but bleſſing ſhall be upon the head of him that [p] ſelleth corn.

27 He that ſeeketh good things, getteth favour: but he that ſeeketh evil, it ſhall come to him.

28 He that truſteth in his riches, ſhall fall: but the righteous ſhall flouriſh as a leaf.

29 He that troubleth his own [q] houſe, ſhall inherit the wind, and the fool ſhall be [r] ſervant to the wiſe in heart.

30 The fruit of the righteous is as a tree of of life, and he that [s] winneth ſouls is wiſe.

31 Behold, the righteous ſhall be [t] recompenſed in the earth: how much more the wicked and the ſinner!

CHAP. XII.

HE that loveth inſtruction, loveth knowledge: but he that hateth correction is a fool.

2 A good man getteth favour of the Lord: but the man of wicked imaginations will he condemn.

3 A man cannot be eſtabliſhed by wickedneſs: but the [u] root of the righteous ſhall not be moved.

† Heb. ſtrong or painful.

7 God overthroweth the wicked, and they are not: but the houſe of the righteous ſhall ſtand.

8 A man ſhall be commended for his wiſdom: but the froward of heart ſhall be deſpiſed.

9 He that is deſpiſed, [x] and is his own ſervant, is better than he that boaſteth himſelf and lacketh bread.

[r] For though the wicked be rich, yet are they but ſlaves to the godly, which are the true poſſeſſors of the gifts of God.

[s] That is, bringeth them to the knowledge of God.

[t] Shall be puniſhed as he deſerveth, 1 Pet. 4. 18.

[u] They are ſo grounded in the favour of God, that their root ſhall proſper continually.

[w] As their conſcience is upright, ſo ſhall they be able to ſpeak for themſelves againſt their accuſers.

[x] The poor man that is contemned, and yet liveth of his own travail.

[y] Is merciful, even to the very beaſt that doth him ſervice.

[z] Continually imagineth means how to do harm to others.

[a] Meaning, their heart within, which is upright and doth good to all.

[b] He ſtandeth in his own conceit, and condemneth all others in reſpect of himſelf.

16 A fool in a day ſhall be known by his anger: but he [b] that covereth ſhame is wiſe.

17 He that ſpeaketh truth will ſhew righteouſneſs: but a falſe witneſs uſeth deceit.

*Ch. 14. 15. 18 * There is that ſpeaketh words like the prickings of a [c] ſword: but the tongue of wiſe men is health.

19 The lips of truth ſhall be ſtable for ever: but a lying tongue varieth incontinently.

20 Deceit is in the heart of them that imagine evil: but to the counſellors of peace ſhall be joy.

21 There ſhall none iniquity come to the juſt: but the wicked are full of evil.

22 The lying lips are an abomination to the Lord: but they that deal truly are his delight.

23 A wiſe man concealeth knowledge: but the heart of the fools publiſheth fooliſhneſs.

*Ch. 10. 4. 24 * The hand of the diligent ſhall bear rule: but the idle ſhall be under tribute.

25 Heavineſs in the heart of man doth bring it down: but a [d] good word rejoiceth it.

26 The righteous is [e] more excellent than his neighbour: but the way of the wicked will deceive them.

27 The deceitful man roaſteth not that he [f] took in hunting: but the riches of the diligent man are precious.

28 Life is in the way of righteouſneſs, and in that path-way there is no death.

CHAP. XIII.

A Wiſe ſon will obey the inſtruction of his father; but a ſcorner will hear no rebuke.

2 A man ſhall eat good things by the fruit [g] of his mouth: but the ſoul of the treſpaſſers ſhall ſuffer violence.

3 He that keepeth his mouth, keepeth his life: but he that openeth his lips, deſtruction ſhall be to him.

4 The ſluggard [h] luſteth, but his ſoul hath nought: but the ſoul of the diligent ſhall have plenty.

5 A righteous man hateth lying words: but the wicked cauſeth ſlander and ſhame.

6 Righteouſneſs preſerveth the upright of † life: but wickedneſs overthroweth the ſinner. † Heb. way.

7 There is that maketh himſelf rich, and hath nothing: and that maketh himſelf poor, having great riches.

8 A man will give his riches for the ranſom of his life: but the poor [i] cannot hear the reproach.

9 The light of the righteous rejoiceth: but the candle of the wicked ſhall be put out.

10 Only by pride [k] doth man make contention: but with the well-adviſed is wiſdom.

11 The [l] riches of vanity ſhall diminiſh: but he that gathereth with the [m] hand ſhall increaſe them.

12 The hope that is deferred, is the fainting of the heart: but when the deſire cometh, it is as a tree of life.

13 He that deſpiſeth [n] the word, he ſhall be deſtroyed: but he that feareth the commandment, he ſhall be rewarded.

14 The inſtruction of a wiſe man is as the well-ſpring of life, to turn away from the ſnares of death.

15 Good underſtanding maketh acceptable: but the way of the diſobedient is hated.

16 Every wiſe man will work by knowledge: but a fool will ſpread abroad folly.

17 * A wicked meſſenger falleth [o] into evil: but a faithful ambaſſador is preſervation. *Ch. 25. 13.

18 Poverty and ſhame is to him that refuſeth inſtruction: but he that regardeth correction ſhall be honoured.

19 A deſire accompliſhed delighteth the ſoul: but it is an abomination to fools to depart from evil.

20 He that walketh with the wiſe, ſhall be wiſe: but a companion of fools ſhall [n] be afflicted.

21 Affliction followeth ſinners: but unto the righteous God will recompenſe good.

22 The good man ſhall give inheritance unto his childrens children: and the [q] riches of the ſinner is laid up for the juſt.

23 Much food is in the field of the [r] poor: but the field is deſtroyed without diſcretion.

24 * He that ſpareth his rod, hateth his ſon: but he that loveth him, chaſteneth him betimes. *Ch. 23. 13. Eccleſ. 30. 1.

25 The righteous eateth to the contentment of his mind: but the belly of the wicked ſhall want.

CHAP. XIV.

A Wiſe woman [s] buildeth her houſe: but the fooliſh deſtroyeth it with her own hands.

2 * He that walketh in his [t] righteouſneſs, feareth the Lord: but he that is lewd in his ways, deſpiſeth him. *Job 12. 4.

3 In the mouth of the fooliſh is the [u] rod of pride: but the lips of the wiſe preſerve them.

4 Where no [w] oxen are, there the crib is empty: but much increaſe cometh by the ſtrength of the ox.

5 A faithful witneſs will not lye: but a falſe record will ſpeak lyes.

6 A ſcorner [x] ſeeketh wiſdom, and findeth it not:

---

[b] Which bridleth his affections.

[c] Which ſeek nothing more than to provoke others to anger.

[d] That is, words of comfort, or a chearful mind, which is declared by his words, rejoiceth a man, as a covetous mind killeth him.

[e] That is, more liberal in giving.

[f] Although he get much by unlawful means, yet will he not ſpend it upon himſelf.

[g] If he uſe his tongue to God's glory, and the profit of his neighbour, God ſhall bleſs him.

[h] He ever deſireth, but taketh no pains to get any thing.

[i] For his poverty, he is not able to eſcape the threatenings which the cruel oppreſſors uſe againſt him.

[k] When as every man contendeth to have the preheminence, and will not give place to another.

[l] That is, goods evil gotten.

[m] That is, with his own labour.

[n] Meaning, the word of God, whereby he is admoniſhed of his duty.

[o] Bringeth many inconveniences both to himſelf and to others.

[p] As he is partaker of their wickedneſs and beareth with their vices, ſo ſhall he be puniſhed alike as they are.

[q] Read Job 27. 16, 17.

[r] God bleſſeth the labour of the poor; and conſumeth their goods which are negligent, becauſe they think they have enough.

[s] That is, taketh pains to profit her family, and to do that which concerneth her duty in her houſe.

[t] That is, in uprightneſs of heart, and without hypocriſy.

[u] His proud tongue ſhall cauſe him to be puniſhed.

[w] By the ox is meant labour, and by the crib the barn: meaning, without labour there is no profit.

[x] For the maintenance of his own ambition, and not for God's glory, as Simon Magus.

not: but knowledge is eaſy to him that will underſtand

7 Depart from the fooliſh man, when thou perceiveſt not in him the lips of knowledge.

8 The wiſdom of the prudent is to underſtand his way: but the fooliſhneſs of the fools is deceit.

9 The fool maketh a mock [y] of ſin: but among the righteous there is favour.

10 The heart knoweth the [z] bitterneſs of his ſoul, and the ſtranger ſhall not meddle with his joy.

11 The houſe of the wicked ſhall be deſtroyed: but the tabernacle of the righteous ſhall flouriſh.

* Ch.16.25.

12 * There is a way that ſeemeth right to a man, but the iſſues thereof are the ways of death.

13 Even in laughing the heart is ſorrowful, [a] and the end of that mirth is heavineſs.

14 The heart that declineth [b] ſhall be ſatiate with his own ways: but a good man ſhall depart from him.

15 The fooliſh will believe every thing: but the prudent will conſider his ſteps.

16 A wiſe man feareth, and departeth from evil: but a fool rageth, and is careleſs.

17 He that is haſty to anger, committeth folly, and a † buſy-body is hated.

† Heb. the man of imaginations.

18 The fooliſh do inherit folly: but the prudent are crowned with knowledge.

19 The evil ſhall bow before the good, and the wicked [c] at the gates of the righteous.

20 The poor is hated even of his own neighbour: but the friends of the rich are many.

21 The ſinner deſpiſeth his neighbour: but he that hath mercy on the poor, is bleſſed.

22 Do not they err that imagine evil? but to them that think on good things, ſhall be mercy and truth.

23 In all labour there is abundance: but the talk of the lips bringeth only want.

24 The crown of the wiſe is their riches, and the folly of fools is fooliſhneſs.

25 A faithful witneſs delivereth ſouls: but a deceiver ſpeaketh lyes.

26 In the fear of the Lord is an aſſured ſtrength, and his children ſhall have hope.

27 The fear of the Lord is as a well-ſpring of life, to avoid the ſnares of death.

28 In the multitude of the [d] people is the honour of a king, and for the want of people cometh the deſtruction of the prince.

29 He that is ſlow to wrath, is of great wiſdom: but he that is of an haſty mind exalteth folly.

‡ Or, body.

30 A ſound heart is the life of ‡ the fleſh: but envy is the rotting of the bones.

* Ch. 17. 5.

31 * He that oppreſſeth the poor, reproveth him that made him: but he honoureth him that hath mercy on the poor.

32 The wicked ſhall be caſt away for his malice: but the righteous hath hope in his death.

33 Wiſdom reſteth in the heart of him that hath underſtanding, and is known [e] in the midſt of fools.

34 Juſtice exalteth a nation, but ‡ ſin is a ſhame for the people.

‡ Or, and the mercy of the people is a ſacrifice for ſin.

35 The pleaſure of a king is in a wiſe ſervant: but his wrath ſhall be toward him that is lewd.

CHAP. XV.

* Ch.25.15.

A * Soft anſwer putteth away wrath: but grievous words ſtir up anger.

* Ver. 28.

2 The tongue of the wiſe uſeth knowledge aright: but the mouth of * fools babbleth out fooliſhneſs.

3 The eyes of the Lord in every place behold the evil and the good.

4 A wholſom tongue is as a tree of life: but the frowardneſs thereof is the breaking of the mind.

5 A fool deſpiſeth his father's inſtruction: but he that regardeth correction, is prudent.

6 The houſe of the righteous hath much treaſure: but in the revenues of the wicked is [f] trouble.

7 The lips of the wiſe do ſpread abroad knowledge: but the heart of the fooliſh doth not ſo.

8 The [g] ſacrifice of the wicked is abomination to the Lord: but the prayer of the righteous is acceptable unto him.

9 The way of the wicked is an abomination unto the Lord: but he loveth him that followeth righteouſneſs.

10 Inſtruction is evil to him that [h] forſaketh the way, and he that hateth correction ſhall die.

11 [i] Hell and deſtruction are before the Lord: how much more the hearts of the ſons of men!

12 A ſcorner loveth not him that rebuketh him, neither will he go unto the wiſe.

* Ch. 17. 22.

13 * A joyful heart maketh a chearful countenance: but by the ſorrow of the heart the mind is heavy.

14 The heart of him that hath underſtanding ſeeketh knowledge: but the mouth of the fool is fed with fooliſhneſs.

† Heb. heart.

15 All the days of the afflicted are evil: but a good † conſcience is a continual feaſt.

* Pſ. 37. 16.

16 * Better is a little with the fear of the Lord, than great treaſure and trouble therewith.

17 Better is a dinner of green herbs where love is, than a ſtalled ox and hatred therewith.

* Ch. 17. 22.

18 * An angry man ſtirreth up ſtrife: but he that is ſlow to wrath, appeaſeth ſtrife.

19 The way of a ſlothful man is as an hedge of [k] thorns: but the way of the righteous is plain.

---

[y] Doth not know the grievouſneſs thereof, nor God's judgments againſt the ſame.

[z] As a man's conſcience is witneſs of his own grief: ſo another cannot feel the joy and comfort, which a man feeleth in himſelf.

[a] He ſheweth that the allurement unto ſin ſeemeth ſweet, but the end thereof is deſtruction.

[b] He that forſaketh God, ſhall be puniſhed, and wax weary of his ſins, wherein he delighteth.

[c] If this come not daily to paſs, we muſt conſider that it is becauſe of our ſins, which let God's working.

[d] That is, the ſtrength of a king ſtandeth in many people.

[e] Foraſmuch as they are convicted thereby, and put to ſilence.

[f] For though they have much, yet it is full of trouble and care.

[g] That thing is abominable before God, which the wicked think to be moſt excellent, and whereby they think moſt to be accepted.

[h] He that ſwerveth from the word of God, cannot abide to be admoniſhed.

[i] There is nothing ſo deep, or ſecret, that can be hid from the eyes of God, much leſs men's thoughts.

[k] That is, he ever findeth ſome let or ſtay, and dare not go forward.

* Ch. 10. 1. 20 * A wiſe ſon rejoiceth a father: but a fooliſh man deſpiſeth his mother.

21 Fooliſhneſs is joy to him that is deſtitute of underſtanding: but a man of underſtanding walketh uprightly.

22 Without counſel thoughts come to nought: but [l] in the multitude of counſellors there is ſtedfaſtneſs.

23 A joy cometh to a man by the anſwer of his mouth: and how good is a word [m] in due ſeaſon!

24 The way of life is on high to the prudent, to avoid from hell beneath.

25 The Lord will deſtroy the houſe of the proud men: but he will eſtabliſh the borders of the widow.

26 The thoughts of the wicked are abomination to the Lord: but the pure have [n] pleaſant words.

27 He that is greedy of gain, troubleth his own houſe: but he that hateth gifts, ſhall live.

28 The heart of the righteous ſtudieth to anſwer: but the wicked man's mouth babbleth evil things.

29 The Lord is far off from the wicked: but he heareth the prayer of the righteous.

30 The light of the eyes rejoiceth the heart, and a good name maketh the bones fat.

31 The ear that hearkeneth to the [o] correction of life, ſhall lodge among the wiſe.

32 He that refuſeth inſtruction deſpiſeth his own ſoul: but he that obeyeth correction getteth underſtanding.

33 The fear of the Lord is the inſtruction of wiſdom: and before honour goeth [p] humility.

CHAP. XVI.

THE [q] preparations of the heart are in man: but the anſwer of the tongue is of the Lord.

2 All the ways of a man are [r] clean in his own eyes: but the Lord pondereth the ſpirits.

‡ Or, roll. 3 ‡ Commit thy works unto the Lord, and thy thoughts ſhall be directed.

4 The Lord hath made all things for his own ſake: yea, even the wicked for the day of [s] evil.

5 All that are proud in heart, are an abomination to the Lord: though * hand join in hand, he ſhall not be unpuniſhed. * Ch. 11. 21.

6 By [t] mercy and truth iniquity ſhall be forgiven, and by the fear of the Lord they depart from evil.

7 When the ways of a man pleaſe the Lord, he will make alſo his enemies at peace with him.

* Ch. 15. 16. Pſ. 37. 16. 8 * Better is a little with righteouſneſs, than great revenues without equity.

9 The heart of man [u] purpoſeth his way, but the Lord doth direct his ſteps.

10 A divine ſentence ſhall be in the lips of the king: his mouth ſhall not tranſgreſs in judgment.

11 * A true weight and balance are of the Lord: all the weights of the bag are his [w] work. * Ch. 11. 1.

12 It is an abomination to kings to commit wickedneſs: for the throne is eſtabliſhed [x] by juſtice.

13 Righteous lips are the delight of kings; and the king loveth him that ſpeaketh right things.

14 The wrath of a king is as [y] meſſengers of death: but a wiſe man will pacify it.

15 In the light of the king's countenance is life: and his favour is [z] as a cloud of the latter rain.

16 * How much better is it to get wiſdom than gold! and to get underſtanding, is more to be deſired than ſilver. * Deut. 11. 24. Ch. 8. 10.

17 The path of the righteous is to decline from evil: and he keepeth his ſoul, that keepeth his way.

18 Pride goeth before deſtruction, and an high mind before the fall.

19 Better it is to be of humble mind with the lowly, than to divide the ſpoils with the proud.

20 He that is wiſe in his buſineſs, ſhall find good: and he * that truſteth in the Lord, he is bleſſed. * Pſ. 125. 1.

21 The wiſe in heart ſhall be called prudent: and [a] the ſweetneſs of the lips ſhall increaſe doctrine.

22 Underſtanding is a well-ſpring of life unto them that have it: and the [b] inſtruction of fools is folly.

23 The heart of the wiſe guideth his mouth wiſely, and addeth doctrine to his lips.

24 Fair words are as an honeycomb, ſweetneſs to the ſoul, and health to the bones.

25 * There is a way that ſeemeth right unto man, but the iſſues thereof are the ways of death. * Ch. 14. 12.

26 The perſon that travaileth, travaileth for himſelf: for his mouth † craveth it of him. † Heb. boweth upon him.

27 A wicked man diggeth up evil, and in his lips is like [c] burning fire.

28 A froward perſon ſoweth ſtrife: and a tale-teller maketh diviſion among princes.

29 A wicked man deceiveth his neighbour, and leadeth him into the way that is not good.

30 [d] He ſhutteth his eyes to deviſe wickedneſs: he moveth his lips, and bringeth evil to paſs.

31 Age

[l] Read ch. 11. 14.

[m] If we will that our talk be comfortable, we muſt wait for time and ſeaſon.

[n] That is, wholſome and profitable to the hearers.

[o] That ſuffereth himſelf to be admoniſhed by God's word, which bringeth life: and ſo amendeth.

[p] Meaning, that God exalteth none, but them that are truly humbled.

[q] He derideth the preſumption of man, who dare attribute to himſelf any thing, as to prepare his heart, or ſuch like, ſeeing that he is not able to ſpeak a word, except God give it him.

[r] He ſheweth hereby, that man flattereth himſelf in his doings, calling that virtue which God termeth vice.

[s] So that the juſtice of God ſhall appear to his glory, even in the deſtruction of the wicked.

[t] Their upright and repenting life ſhall be a token that their ſins are forgiven.

[u] He ſheweth the folly of man, which thinketh that his ways are in his own hand, and yet is not able to remove one foot, except God give force.

[w] If they be true and juſt, they are God's work, and he delighteth therein: but otherwiſe, if they be falſe, they are the work of the devil, and to their condemnation that uſe them.

[x] They are appointed by God to rule according to equity and juſtice.

[y] That is, he findeth out many means to execute his wrath.

[z] Which is moſt comfortable to the dry ground.

[a] The ſweet words of conſolation, which come forth of a godly heart.

[b] Either that which the wicked teach others, or elſe it is folly to teach them that are malicious.

[c] For he conſumeth himſelf and others.

[d] With his whole endeavour he laboureth to bring his wickedneſs to paſs.

31 Age is a crown of glory, when it is found in the way of [e] righteouſneſs.

32 He that is ſlow unto anger, is better than the mighty man: and he that ruleth his own mind, is better than he that winneth a city.

33 The lot is caſt into the lap: but the whole diſpoſition thereof is of [e] the Lord.

CHAP. XVII.

BETTER is a dry morſel, if peace be with it, than an houſe full of [g] ſacrifices with ſtrife.

* Eccleſ. 10. 29. 2 * A diſcreet ſervant ſhall have rule over a lewd ſon, and he ſhall divide the [h] heritage among the brethren.

3 As is the fining pot for ſilver, and the furnace for gold, ſo the Lord trieth the hearts.

4 The wicked giveth heed to falſe lips, and a lyar hearkeneth to the naughty tongue.

* Ch. 14. 31. 5 * He that mocketh the poor, reproacheth him that made him: and he that rejoiceth at deſtruction, ſhall not be unpuniſhed.

6 Children's children are the crown of the elders: and the glory of the children are their fathers.

† Heb. the lips of excellency. 7 † High talk becometh not a fool, much leſs lying talk a prince.

8 A reward is as a ſtone pleaſant in the eyes of them that have it: it proſpereth whitherſoever it [i] turneth.

9 He that covereth a tranſgreſſion, ſeeketh love: but he that repeateth a matter, ſeparateth the [k] prince.

10 A reproof entereth more into him that hath underſtanding, than an hundred ſtripes into a fool.

11 A ſeditious perſon ſeeketh only evil, and a cruel [l] meſſenger ſhall be ſent againſt him.

12 It is better for a man to meet a bear robbed of her whelps, than a [m] fool in his folly.

* Rom. 12. 17. 1 Theſſ 5. 15. 1 Pet. 9. 13 * He that rewardeth evil for good, evil ſhall not depart from his houſe.

14 The beginning of ſtrife is as one that openeth the waters: therefore before the contention be meddled with, leave off.

* Iſa. 5. 23. 15 * He that juſtifieth the wicked, and he that condemneth the juſt, even they both are abomination to the Lord.

16 Wherefore is there [n] a price in the hand of the fool to get wiſdom, and he hath no heart?

17 A friend loveth at all times: and [o] a brother is born for adverſity.

18 A man deſtitute of underſtanding [p] toucheth the hand, and becometh ſurety for his neighbour.

19 He loveth tranſgreſſion that loveth ſtrife: and he that exalteth his [q] gate, ſeeketh deſtruction.

20 The froward heart findeth no good: and he that hath a naughty tongue, ſhall fall into evil.

21 He that begetteth a fool, getteth himſelf ſorrow, and the father of a fool can have no joy.

22 * A joyful heart cauſeth good health: but a ſorrowful mind drieth the bones. * Ch. 15. 13.

23 A wicked man taketh a gift out of the [r] boſom to wreſt the ways of judgment.

24 * Wiſdom is in the face of him that hath underſtanding: but the eyes of a fool are in the [s] corners of the world. * Eccleſ. 2. 14. & 8. 1.

25 A fooliſh ſon is a grief unto his father, and a * heavineſs unto her that bare him. * Ch. 10. 1.

26 Surely it is not good to condemn the juſt, nor that the princes ſhould ſmite ſuch [t] for equity.

27 He that hath knowledge, ſpareth his words, and a man of underſtanding is of an excellent ſpirit.

28 Even a fool (when he holdeth his peace) is counted wiſe, and he that ſtoppeth his lips, prudent.

CHAP. XVIII.

FOR the deſire thereof he will [u] ſeparate himſelf to ſeek it, and occupy himſelf in all wiſdom.

2 A fool hath no delight in underſtanding: but that his heart may be [w] diſcovered.

3 When the wicked man cometh, then cometh [x] contempt, and with the vile man reproach.

4 The words of a man's mouth are like [y] deep waters, and the well-ſpring of wiſdom is like a flowing river.

5 It is not good to [z] accept the perſon of the wicked, to cauſe the righteous to fall in judgment.

6 A fool's lips come with ſtrife, and his mouth calleth for ſtripes.

7 A fool's mouth is his own deſtruction, and his lips are a ſnare for his ſoul.

8 The words of a tale-bearer are as flatterings, and they go down into the [a] bowels of the belly.

9 He alſo that is ſlothful in his work, is even the brother of him that is a great waſter.

10 The name of the Lord is a ſtrong tower: the righteous runneth [b] unto it, and is exalted.

11 * The rich man's riches are his ſtrong city: and as an high wall in his imagination. * Ch. 10. 15.

13 He that anſwereth a matter before he hear it, it is folly and ſhame unto him.

14 The ſpirit of a man will ſuſtain his infirmity: [c] but a wounded ſpirit, who can bear it?

15 A wiſe heart getteth knowledge, and the ear of the wiſe ſeeketh learning.

16 A man's gift [d] enlargeth him, and leadeth him before great men.

17 [e] He that is firſt in his own cauſe, is juſt: then cometh his neighbour, and maketh inquiry of him.

18 The lot [f] cauſeth contentions to ceaſe, and [g] maketh a partition among the mighty.

19 A brother offended is harder to win than a ſtrong city, and their contentions are like the [h] bars of a palace.

20 With the fruit of a man's mouth ſhall his belly be ſatisfied, and with the increaſe of his lips ſhall he be filled.

21 Death and life are in the power of the tongue, and they that [i] love it, ſhall eat the fruit thereof.

22 He that findeth a [k] wife, findeth a good thing, and receiveth favour of the Lord.

23 The poor ſpeaketh with prayers: but the rich anſwereth roughly.

24 A man that hath friends, ought to ſhew himſelf friendly: for a friend is nearer [l] than a brother.

CHAP. XIX.

*Ch. 28. 6. BETTER * is the poor that walketh in his uprightneſs, than he that abuſeth his lips, and is a fool.

2 For without knowledge the mind is not good, and he that haſteth with his feet ſinneth.

3 The fooliſhneſs of a man perverteth his way, and his heart fretteth againſt the Lord.

4 Riches gather many friends: but the poor is ſeparated from his neighbour.

*Deut. 19. 19. Dan. 13. 62. 5 * A falſe witneſs ſhall not be unpuniſhed: and he that ſpeaketh lyes ſhall not eſcape.

6 Many reverence the face of the prince, and every man is friend to him that giveth gifts.

7 All the brethren of the poor do hate him: how much more will his friends depart from him? though he be inſtant [m] with words, yet they will not.

8 He that poſſeſſeth underſtanding, [n] loveth his own ſoul, and keepeth wiſdom to find goodneſs.

9 A falſe witneſs ſhall not be unpuniſhed: and he that ſpeaketh lyes, ſhall periſh.

10 [o] Pleaſure is not comely for a fool, much leſs for a ſervant to have rule over princes.

11 The diſcretion of a man deferreth his anger: and his glory is [p] to paſs by an offence.

12 * The king's wrath is like the roaring of a lion: but his favour is like the dew upon the graſs. *Ch. 20. 2.

13 * A fooliſh ſon is the calamity of his father, * and the contentions of a wife are like a continual [q] dropping. *Ch. 17. 21. *Ch. 21. 9.

14 Houſe and riches are the inheritance of the fathers: but * a prudent wife cometh of the Lord. *Ch. 18. 22.

15 Slothfulneſs cauſeth to fall aſleep, and a deceitful perſon ſhall be famiſhed.

16 He that keepeth the commandment, keepeth his own ſoul: but he that deſpiſeth his ways ſhall die.

17 He that hath mercy upon the poor, lendeth unto the Lord: and the Lord will recompenſe him that which he hath given.

18 Chaſten thy ſon while there is hope, and let not thy ſoul ſpare for his murmuring.

19 A man of much anger ſhall ſuffer puniſhment: and though thou [r] deliver him, yet will his anger come again.

20 Hear counſel, and receive inſtruction, that thou mayeſt be wiſe in thy latter end.

21 Many devices are in a [s] man's heart: but the counſel of the Lord ſhall ſtand.

22 That that is to be deſired of a man, is his [t] goodneſs, and a poor man is better than a lyar.

23 The fear of the Lord leadeth to life: and he that is filled therewith, ſhall continue, and ſhall not be viſited with evil.

24 * The ſlothful hideth his hand in his boſom, and will not put it to his mouth again. *Ch. 26. 15.

25 * Smite a ſcorner, and the fooliſh [u] will beware: and reprove the prudent, and he will underſtand knowledge. *Ch. 21. 11.

26 He that deſtroyeth his father, or chaſeth away his mother, is a lewd and ſhameful child.

27 My ſon, hear no more the inſtruction that cauſeth to err from the words of knowledge.

28 A wicked witneſs mocketh at judgment, and the mouth of the wicked [w] ſwalloweth up iniquity.

29 But judgments are prepared for the ſcorners, and ſtripes for the back of the fools.

CHAP. XX.

WINE [x] is a mocker, and ſtrong drink is raging: and whoſoever is deceived thereby is not wiſe.

[c] The mind can well bear the infirmity of the body, but when the ſpirit is wounded, it is a thing moſt hard to ſuſtain.

[d] Getteth him liberty to ſpeak, and favour of them that are moſt in eſtimation.

[e] He that ſpeaketh firſt, is beſt heard of the wicked judge, but when his adverſary inquireth out the matter, it turneth to his ſhame.

[f] If a controverſy cannot otherwiſe be decided, it is beſt to caſt lots, to know whoſe the thing ſhall be.

[g] Appeaſeth their controverſy, which are ſo ſtout that they cannot otherwiſe be pacified.

[h] Which for the ſtrength thereof will not bow nor yield.

[i] By the uſing of the tongue well or evil, cometh the fruit thereof either good or bad.

[k] He that is joined with a virtuous woman in marriage, is bleſſed of the Lord, as ch. 19. 14.

[l] That is, oftentimes ſuch are found which are more ready to do pleaſure, than he that is more bound by duty.

[m] To have comfort of them.

[n] He that is upright in judgment, findeth favour of God.

[o] The free uſe of things are not to be permitted to him that cannot uſe them aright.

[p] That is, to cover it by charity, and to do therein as may moſt ſerve to God's glory.

[r] Though for a time he give place to counſel, yet ſoon after will he give place to his raging affections.

[s] Man's device ſhall not have ſucceſs, except God govern it, whoſe purpoſe is unchangeable.

[t] That is, that he be honeſt: for the poor man that is honeſt, is to be eſteemed above the rich, which is not virtuous.

[u] That is, the ſimple and ignorant men learn, when they ſee the wicked puniſhed.

[w] Taketh a pleaſure and delight therein, as gluttons and drunkards in delicate meats and drinks.

[x] By wine here is meant him that is given to wine, and ſo by ſtrong drink.

*Ch.19.12. 2 * The fear of the king is like the roaring of a lion: he that provoketh him unto anger, [y] ſinneth againſt his own ſoul.

3 It is a man's honour to ceaſe from ſtrife: but every fool will be meddling.

4 The ſlothful will not plow, becauſe of winter: therefore ſhall he beg in ſummer, but have nothing.

5 The counſel in the heart of [z] man is like deep waters: but a man that hath underſtanding, will draw it out.

6 Many men will boaſt, every one of his own goodneſs: but who can find a faithful man?

7 He that walketh in his integrity, is juſt: and bleſſed ſhall his children be after him.

12 The Lord hath made both theſe, even the ear to hear, and the eye to ſee.

13 Love not ſleep, leſt thou come unto poverty: open thine eyes, and thou ſhalt be ſatisfied with bread.

14 It is naught, it is naught, ſaith the buyer: but when he is gone apart, he boaſteth.

15 There is gold, and a multitude of precious ſtones: but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.

*Ch.27.13. 16 * Take his [c] garment that is ſurety for a ſtranger, and a pledge of him for the ſtranger.

* Jer. 10. 23. 24 * The ſteps of man are ruled by the Lord: how can a man then underſtand his own way?

25 It is a deſtruction for a man to [d] devour that which is ſanctified, and after the vows to inquire.

26 A wiſe king ſcattereth the wicked, and cauſeth the [e] wheel to turn over them.

27 The [f] light of the Lord is the breath of man, and ſearcheth all the bowels of the belly.

28 * Mercy and truth preſerve the king: for his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed with mercy. *Ch.29.14.

29 The beauty of young men is their ſtrength, and the glory of the aged is the grey head.

30 [g] The blueneſs of the wound ſerveth to purge the evil, and the ſtripes within the bowels of the belly.

CHAP. XXI.

THE [h] king's heart is in the hand of the Lord, as the rivers of waters: he turneth it whitherſoever it pleaſeth him.

2 Every * way of a man is right in his own eyes: but the Lord pondereth the hearts. *Ch. 16. 2.

3 * To do juſtice and judgment, is more acceptable to the Lord than ſacrifice. *Mich. 6. 8.

4 A haughty look and a proud heart, which is the ‡ [i] light of the wicked, is ſin. ‡ Or, ploughing.

5 The thoughts of the diligent do ſurely bring abundance: but [k] whoſoever is haſty, cometh ſurely to poverty.

6 * The gathering of treaſures by a deceitful tongue, is vanity toſſed to and fro of them that ſeek death. *Ch.13.11.

7 The [l] robbery of the wicked ſhall deſtroy them: for they have refuſed to execute judgment.

8 The way of ſome is perverted and ſtrange: but of the pure man, his work is right.

9 * It is better to dwell in the corner of the houſe-top, than with a contentious woman in a ‡ wide houſe. *Ch.19.13. & 25.24. ‡ Or, in a great family.

10 The ſoul of the wicked wiſheth evil: and his neighbour hath no favour in his eyes.

11 [m] When the ſcorner is puniſhed, the fooliſh is wiſe: and when one inſtructeth the wiſe, he will receive knowledge.

12 The righteous [n] teacheth the houſe of the wicked: but God overthroweth the wicked for their evil.

13 He that ſtoppeth his ear at the crying of the poor, he ſhall alſo cry and not be heard.

14 A [o] gift in ſecret pacifieth anger, and a gift in the boſom great wrath.

15 It is joy to the juſt to do judgment: but deſtruction ſhall be to the workers of iniquity.

16 A man that wandereth out of the way of wiſdom, ſhall remain in the congregation of the dead.

17 He that loveth paſtime ſhall be a poor man: and he that loveth wine and oil ſhall not be rich.

[y] Putteth his life in danger.

[z] It is hard to find out: for it is as deep waters, whoſe bottom cannot be found: yet the wiſe man will know a man either by his words or manners.

[a] Where righteous judgment is executed, there ſin ceaſeth, and vice dare not appear.

[b] Read chap. 16. 11.

[c] Teach him wit, that he caſt not himſelf raſhly into danger.

[d] That is, to apply it, or take it to his own uſe, which was appointed to God's, and then inquire how they may be exempted from the fault.

[e] Which was a kind of puniſhment then uſed.

[f] The word of God giveth life unto man, and cauſeth us to ſee and try the ſecrets of our dark hearts, Heb. 4. 12.

[g] Sharp puniſhment that pierceth even the inward parts is profitable for the wicked, to bring them to amendment.

[h] Though kings ſeem to have all things at commandment, yet are they not able to bring their own purpoſes to paſs any otherwiſe than God hath appointed: much leſs are inferiors able.

[i] That is, the thing whereby he is guided, or which he bringeth forth as the fruit of his work.

[k] He that goeth raſhly about his buſineſs, and without counſel.

[l] He meaneth this chiefly of judges and princes, which leave that vocation whereunto God hath called them, and pillage their ſubjects to maintain their luſts.

[m] Read ch. 19. 25.

[n] Though the godly admoniſh them, both by words and example of life, yet the wicked will not amend, till God deſtroy them.

[o] To do a pleaſure to the angry man pacifieth him.

18 The [p] wicked ſhall be a ranſom for the juſt, and the tranſgreſſor for the righteous.

19 It is better to dwell in the wilderneſs, than with a contentious and angry woman.

20 In the houſe of the wiſe is a pleaſant treaſure and [q] oil : but a fooliſh man devoureth it.

21 He that followeth after righteouſneſs and mercy, ſhall find life, righteouſneſs, and glory.

22 A [r] wiſe man goeth up into the city of the mighty, and caſteth down the ſtrength of the confidence thereof.

23 He that keepeth his mouth and his tongue, keepeth his ſoul from afflictions.

24 Proud, haughty, and ſcornful is his name, that worketh in his arrogancy wrath.

25 The deſire of the ſlothful [s] ſlayeth him : for his hands refuſe to work.

26 He coveteth evermore greedily : but the righteous giveth, and ſpareth not.

* Ch. 15. 8. Iſa. 1. 13.

27 The * ſacrifice of the wicked is an abomination : how much more when he bringeth it with a wicked mind ?

* Ch. 19. 5.

28 A * falſe witneſs ſhall periſh : but he that heareth, [t] ſpeaketh continually.

29 A wicked man hardeneth his face : but the juſt, he will direct his way.

30 There is no wiſdom, neither underſtanding, nor counſel againſt the Lord.

31 The horſe is prepared againſt the day of battle : but ſalvation is of the Lord.

CHAP. XXII.

A Good name is to be choſen above great riches, and [u] loving favour is above ſilver, and above gold.

*Ch. 29. 13.

2 * The rich and poor [w] meet together : the Lord is the maker of them all.

*Ch. 27. 12.

3 * A prudent man ſeeth the [x] plague, and hideth himſelf : but the fooliſh go on ſtill, and are puniſhed.

4 The reward of humility, and the fear of God is riches, and glory, and life.

5 Thorns and ſnares are in the way of the froward : but he that regardeth his ſoul, will depart far from them.

6 Teach a child [y] in the trade of his way, and when he is old, he ſhall not depart from it.

7 The rich ruleth the poor, and the borrower is ſervant to the man that lendeth.

8 He that ſoweth iniquity ſhall reap affliction, and the [z] rod of his anger ſhall fail.

9 He that hath a good [a] eye, he ſhall be bleſſed : for he giveth of his bread unto the poor.

10 Caſt out the ſcorner, and ſtrife ſhall go out : ſo contention and reproach ſhall ceaſe.

11 He that loveth pureneſs of heart for the grace of his lips, the [b] king ſhall be his friend.

12 The eyes of the [c] Lord preſerve knowledge : but he overthroweth the words of the tranſgreſſor.

13 The ſlothful man ſaith, A [d] lion is without, I ſhall be ſlain in the ſtreet.

14 The mouth of a ſtrange woman is as a deep pit : he with whom the Lord is [e] angry ſhall fall therein.

15 Fooliſhneſs is bound [f] in the heart of a child : but the rod of correction ſhall drive it away from him.

16 He that oppreſſeth the poor to increaſe himſelf, and giveth unto the rich, ſhall ſurely come to poverty.

17 ¶ Incline thine ear, and hear the words of the wiſe, and apply thine heart unto my knowledge.

18 For it ſhall be pleaſant if thou keep them in thy belly, and if they be directed together in thy lips.

19 That thy confidence may be in the [g] Lord, I have ſhewed thee this day : thou therefore take heed.

20 Have I not written to thee [h] three times in counſels and knowledge,

21 That I might ſhew thee the aſſurance of the words of truth, to anſwer the words of truth to them that ſend to thee ?

22 Rob not the poor becauſe he is poor, neither oppreſs the afflicted † in judgment : † Heb. in the gates.

23 For the Lord * will defend their cauſe, and ſpoil the ſoul of thoſe that ſpoil them. * Ch. 23. 11.

24 Make [i] no friendſhip with an angry man, neither go with the furious man,

25 Leſt thou learn his ways, and receive deſtruction to thy ſoul.

26 Be not thou of them that [k] touch the hand, nor among them that are ſurety for debts.

27 If thou haſt nothing to pay, why cauſeſt thou that he ſhould take thy bed from under thee ?

28 Thou ſhalt not * remove the ancient bounds which thy fathers have made. * Deut. 27. 17. Ch. 23. 10.

29 Thou ſeeſt that a diligent man in his buſineſs ſtandeth before kings, and ſtandeth not before the baſe ſort.

CHAP. XXIII.

WHEN thou ſitteſt to eat with a ruler, [l] conſider diligently what is before thee :

2 [m] And put the knife to thy throat, if thou be a man given to appetite.

---

[p] God ſhall cauſe that to fall on their own heads, which they intended againſt the juſt, by delivering the juſt, and putting the wicked in their places.

[q] Meaning, abundance of all things.

[r] Wiſdom overcometh ſtrength and confidence in worldly things.

[s] He thinketh to live by wiſhing and deſiring all things, but will take no pains to get aught.

[t] He that boldly teſtifies the truth that he hath heard.

[u] Which cometh by well-doing.

[w] Live together, and have need the one of the other.

[x] That is, the puniſhment which is prepared for the wicked, and fleeth to God for ſuccour.

[y] Bring him up virtuouſly, and he ſhall ſo continue.

[z] His authority, whereby he did oppreſs others, ſhall be taken from him.

[a] He that is merciful and liberal.

[b] He ſheweth, that princes ſhould uſe their familiarity whoſe conſcience is good, and their talk wiſe and godly.

[c] Favour them that love knowledge.

[d] He derideth them that invent vain excuſes, becauſe they would not do their duty.

[e] So God puniſheth one ſin by another, when he ſuffereth the wicked to fall into the acquaintance of an harlot.

[f] He is naturally given unto it.

[g] He ſheweth what the end of wiſdom is : to wit, to direct us to the Lord.

[h] That is, ſundry times.

[i] Have not to do with him that is not able to rule his affections : for he would hurt thee by his evil converſation.

[k] Which raſhly put themſelves in danger for others, as ch. 6. 1, 2.

[m] Bridle thine appetite, as it were by force and violence.

3 Be not deſirous of his [n] dainty meats: for it is a deceivable meat.

4 Travail not too much to be rich: but ceaſe from thy [o] wiſdom.

5 Wilt thou caſt thine eyes upon it, which is nothing? for riches taketh her to her wings as an eagle, and flieth into the heaven.

6 Eat thou not the bread of him that hath an [p] evil eye, neither deſire his dainty meats.

7 For as though he thought it in his heart, ſo will he ſay unto thee, Eat and drink: but his heart is not with thee.

8 Thou ſhalt vomit thy [q] morſels that thou haſt eaten, and thou ſhalt loſe thy ſweet words.

9 Speak not in the ears of a fool: for he will deſpiſe the wiſdom of thy words.

* Deut. 27. 17. Ch. 22. 28. 10 * Remove not the ancient bounds, and enter not into the fields of the fatherleſs.

11 For he that redeemeth them is mighty: *Ch. 22. 23 He will * defend their cauſe againſt thee.

*Ch. 13. 24. & 19. 18. 13 * With-hold not correction from the child: if thou ſmite him with the rod, he ſhall not die.

14 Thou ſhalt ſmite him with the rod, and ſhalt deliver his ſoul from [r] hell.

15 My ſon, if thine heart be wiſe, mine heart ſhall rejoice, and I alſo.

16 And my reins ſhall rejoice, when thy lips ſpeak righteous things.

*Pſ. 37. 1. Ch. 24. 1. 17 * Let not thine heart be envious againſt ſinners: but let it be in the fear of the Lord continually.

23 Buy [u] the truth, but ſell it not: likewiſe wiſdom, and inſtruction, and underſtanding.

24 The father of the righteous ſhall greatly rejoice, and he that begetteth a wiſe child ſhall have joy of him.

30 Even to them that tarry long at the wine, to them that go [y] and ſeek mixt wine.

31 Look not thou upon the wine, when it is red, and when it ſheweth his colour in the cup, or goeth down pleaſantly.

32 In the end thereof it will bite like a ſerpent, and hurt like a cockatrice.

33 Thine [z] eyes ſhall look upon ſtrange women, and thine heart ſhall ſpeak lewd things.

34 And thou ſhalt be as one that ſleepeth in the midſt of the [a] ſea, and as he that ſleepeth on the top of the maſt.

35 They have ſtricken me, ſhalt thou ſay, but I was not ſick: they have beaten me, but I knew not when I awoke: therefore will I [b] ſeek it yet ſtill.

CHAP. XXIV.

BE * not thou envious againſt evil men, neither deſire to be with them: *Pſ. 37. 1. Ch. 23. 17.

2 For their heart imagineth deſtruction, and their lips ſpeak miſchief.

3 Through wiſdom is an houſe builded, and with underſtanding it is eſtabliſhed:

4 And by knowledge ſhall the chambers be filled with all precious and pleaſant riches.

7 Wiſdom is high to a fool: therefore he cannot open his mouth in the [c] gate.

8 He that imagineth to do evil, men ſhall call him an author of wickedneſs.

9 The wicked thought of a fool is ſin, and the ſcorner is an abomination to men.

13 My ſon, eat [f] honey, for it is good: and the honey-comb, for it is ſweet unto thy mouth:

14 So ſhall the knowledge of wiſdom be unto thy ſoul, if thou find it, and there ſhall be an ‡ end, and thine hope ſhall not be cut off. ‡ Or, reward.

15 Lay no wait, O wicked man, againſt the houſe of the righteous, and ſpoil not his reſting place:

---

[n] For oft-times the rich, when they bid their inferiors to their tables, it is not for the love they bear them, but for their own ſecret purpoſes.

[o] Beſtow not the gifts that God hath given thee, to get worldly riches.

[p] That is, covetous; as contrary, a good eye is taken for liberal, as ch. 22. 9.

[q] He will not ceaſe till he hath done thee ſome harm, and his flattering words ſhall come to no uſe.

[r] That is, from deſtruction.

[s] The proſperity of the wicked ſhall not continue.

[t] In the obſervation of God's commandments.

[u] Spare no coſts for truth's ſake, neither depart from it for any gain.

[w] Give thy ſelf wholly to wiſdom.

[x] She ſeduceth many, and cauſeth them to offend God.

[y] Which by art make wine ſtronger, and more pleaſant.

[z] That is, drunkenneſs ſhall bring thee to whoredom.

[a] In ſuch great danger ſhalt thou be.

[b] Though drunkenneſs make them more inſenſible than beaſts, yet can they not refrain.

[c] In the place where wiſdom ſhould be ſhewed.

[d] Man hath no trial of his ſtrength, till he be in troubles.

[e] None can be excuſed, if he help not the innocent when he is in danger.

[f] As honey is ſweet and pleaſant to the taſte, ſo wiſdom is to the ſoul.

16 For a juſt man [g] falleth ſeven times, and riſeth again: but the wicked fall into miſchief.

17 Be not thou glad when thine enemy falleth, and let not thine heart rejoice when he ſtumbleth,

18 Leſt the Lord ſee it, and it diſpleaſe him, and he turn his wrath [h] from him.

19 * Fret not thyſelf becauſe of the malicious, neither be envious at the wicked:

26 They ſhall kiſs the lips of him that anſwereth upright words.

27 Prepare thy work without, and make ready thy things in the field, [k] and after build thine houſe.

28 Be not a witneſs againſt thy neighbour without cauſe: for wilt thou deceive with thy lips?

29 * Say not, I will do to him as he hath done to me, I [l] will recompenſe every man according to his work.

* Ch. 20. 22.

30 I paſſed by the field of the ſlothful, and by the vineyard of the man deſtitute of underſtanding,

31 And lo, it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the ſtone-wall thereof was broken down.

32 Then I beheld, and I conſidered it well: I looked upon it, and [m] received inſtruction.

33 Yet a little ſleep, [n] a little ſlumber, a little folding of the hands to ſleep,

34 So thy poverty cometh as one that travelleth by the way, and thy neceſſity like an armed man.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Theſe are alſo Parables of Solomon, which the [o] men of Hezekiah king of Judah [p] copied out.

2 THE glory of God is to [q] conceal a thing ſecret: but the [r] king's honour is to ſearch out a thing.

3 The heavens in height, and the earth in deepneſs, and the [s] king's heart can no man ſearch out.

4 Take the [t] droſs from the ſilver, and there ſhall proceed a veſſel for the finer.

5 Take [u] away the wicked from the king, and his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed in righteouſneſs.

6 Boaſt not thyſelf before the king, and ſtand not in the place of great men,

7 * For it is better that it be ſaid unto thee, Come up hither, than that thou be put lower in the preſence of the prince whom thine eyes have ſeen.

* Luke 14. 10.

8 Go not forth haſtily to ſtrife, leſt thou know not what to do in the end thereof, when thy neighbour hath put thee to ſhame.

9 Debate thy matter with thy neighbour, and diſcover not thy ſecret to another,

10 Leſt he that heareth it put thee to ſhame, and thine infamy do not [w] ceaſe.

11 A word ſpoken in his place, is like apples of gold with pictures of ſilver.

12 He that reproveth the wiſe, and the obedient ear, is as a golden ear-ring and an ornament of fine gold.

13 As the [x] cold of the ſnow, in the time of harveſt, ſo is a faithful meſſenger to them that ſend him: for he refreſheth the ſoul of his maſters.

14 A man that boaſteth of falſe liberality, is like [y] clouds and wind without rain.

15 A prince is pacified by [z] ſtaying of anger, and a ſoft tongue breaketh [a] the bones.

16 If thou have found honey, eat that is [b] ſufficient for thee, leſt thou be over-full and vomit it.

17 Withdraw thy foot from thy neighbour's houſe, leſt he be weary of thee, and hate thee.

18 A man that beareth falſe witneſs againſt his neighbour, is like an hammer, and a ſword, and a ſharp arrow.

19 Confidence in an unfaithful man in time of trouble, is like a broken tooth, and a ſliding foot.

20 He that taketh away the garment in the cold ſeaſon, is like vinegar poured upon [c] ‡ nitre, or like him that ſingeth ſongs to an heavy heart.

‡ Or, allum.

21 * If he that hateth thee be hungry, give him bread to eat: and if he be thirſty, give him water to drink:

* Rom. 12. 20.

22 For thou ſhalt lay [d] coals upon his head, and the Lord ſhall recompenſe thee.

23 As the north wind driveth away the rain, ſo doth an angry countenance the ſlandering tongue.

---

[g] He is ſubject to many perils; but God delivereth him.

[h] To be avenged on thee.

[i] Meaning, either of the wicked and ſeditious, as verſe 19 and 21. or of them that fear not God, nor obey their king.

[k] Be ſure of the means how to compaſs it before thou take any enterpriſe in hand.

[l] He ſheweth what is the nature of the wicked to revenge wrong for wrong.

[m] That I might learn by another man's fault.

[n] Read ch. 6. 16.

[o] Whom Hezekiah appointed for this purpoſe.

[p] That is, gathered out of divers books of Solomon.

[q] God doth not reveal the cauſe of his judgments to man.

[r] Becauſe the king ruleth by the revealed word of God, the cauſe of his doings muſt appear, and therefore he muſt uſe diligence in trying out of cauſes.

[s] He ſheweth, that it is too hard for man to attain to the reaſon of all the ſecret doings of the king, even when he is upright and doth his duty.

[t] When vice is removed from a king, he is a meet veſſel for the Lord's uſe.

[u] It is not enough that he be pure himſelf, but that he put away others that be corrupted.

[w] Leſt whereas thou thinkeſt by this means to have an end of the matter, it put thee to farther trouble.

[x] In the time of great heat, when men deſire cold.

[y] Which have an outward appearance, and are nothing within.

[z] By not miniſtering occaſion to provoke him farther.

[a] That is, the heart that is bent to anger, as ch. 15. 1.

[b] Uſe moderately the pleaſures of this world.

[c] Which melteth it and conſumeth it.

[d] Thou ſhalt as it were by force overcome him, inſomuch that his own conſcience ſhall move him to acknowledge thy benefits, and his heart ſhall be inflamed.

*Ch. 22. 9. 24 * It is better to dwell in a corner of the houſe-top, than with a contentious woman in a wide houſe.

25 As are the cold waters to a weary ſoul, ſo is good news from a far country.

26 A righteous man falling down before the wicked, is like a troubled well, and a corrupt ſpring.

* Eccleſ. 3. 22. 27 It is not good to eat much honey: * ſo to ſearch their own glory is not glory.

28 A man that refraineth not his appetite, is like a city which is [e] broken down, and without walls.

CHAP. XXVI.

AS the ſnow in the ſummer, and as the rain in the harveſt are not meet, ſo is honour unſeemly for a fool.

2 As the ſparrow by flying, and the ſwallow by flying eſcape, ſo the curſe that is cauſeleſs ſhall not come.

3 Unto the horſe belongeth a whip, to the aſs a bridle, and a rod to the fool's back.

4 Anſwer not a fool [f] according to his fooliſhneſs, leſt thou be like him.

† Heb. eyes. 5 Anſwer a fool [g] according to his fooliſhneſs, leſt he be wiſe in his own † conceit.

6 He that ſendeth a meſſage by the hand of a fool, is as he that cutteth off [h] feet, [i] and drinketh iniquity.

7 As they that lift up the legs of the lame, ſo is a parable in a fool's mouth.

8 As the cloſing up of a precious ſtone in an heap of ſtones, ſo is he that giveth glory to a fool.

9 As a thorn ſtanding [k] up in the hand of a drunkard, ſo is a parable in the mouth of fools.

10 [l] The Excellent that formed all things, both rewardeth the fool, and rewardeth the tranſgreſſors.

*2 Pet. 2. 22. 11 * As a dog turneth again to his own vomit, ſo a fool turneth to his fooliſhneſs.

12 Seeſt thou a man wiſe in his own conceit? [m] more hope is of a fool than of him.

13 The ſlothful man ſaith, [n] A lion is in the way: a lion is in the ſtreets.

14 As the door turneth upon the hinges, ſo doth the ſlothful man upon his bed.

*Ch. 19. 24. 15 * The ſlothful hideth his hand in his boſom, and it grieveth him to put it again to his mouth.

16 The ſluggard is wiſer in his own conceit, than ſeven men that can render a reaſon.

17 He that paſſeth by, and meddleth with the ſtrife that belongeth not unto him, is as one that taketh a dog by the ears.

18 As he that feigneth himſelf mad, caſteth firebrands, arrows, and mortal things,

19 So dealeth the deceitful man [o] with his friend, and ſaith, Am not I in ſport?

20 Without wood the fire is quenched, and without a tale-bearer ſtrife ceaſeth.

21 As the coal maketh burning coals, and wood a fire, ſo the contentious man is apt to kindle ſtrife.

22 * The words of a tale-bearer are as flatterings, and they go down into the bowels of the belly. *Ch. 18. 8.

23 As ſilver-droſs overlaid upon a potſherd, ſo are burning lips, and [p] an evil heart.

24 He that hateth, will counterfeit with his lips, but in his heart he layeth up deceit.

25 Though he ſpeak favourably, believe him not: for there are [q] ſeven abominations in his heart.

26 Hatred may be covered by deceit: but the malice thereof ſhall be diſcovered in the [r] congregation.

27 * He that diggeth a pit, ſhall fall therein, and he that rolleth a ſtone, it ſhall return unto him. *Eccleſ. 10. 8.

28 A falſe tongue hateth the afflicted, and a flattering mouth cauſeth ruin.

CHAP. XXVII.

BOAST not thyſelf of [s] to-morrow: thou knoweſt not what a day may bring forth.

2 Let another man praiſe thee, and not thine own mouth: a ſtranger, and not thine own lips.

3 A ſtone is heavy, and the ſand weighty: but a fool's wrath is heavier than them both.

4 Anger is cruel, and wrath is raging: but who can ſtand before [t] envy?

5 Open rebuke is better than ſecret love.

6 The wounds of a lover are faithful, and kiſſes of an enemy are [u] pleaſant.

7 * The perſon that is full, deſpiſeth an honeycomb: but unto the hungry ſoul every bitter thing is ſweet. *Job 6.

8 As a bird that wandereth from her neſt, ſo is a man that wandereth from his own place.

9 As ointment and perfume rejoice the heart, ſo doth the ſweetneſs of a man's friend by hearty counſel.

10 Thine own friend and thy father's friend, forſake thou not: neither enter into thy brother's [w] houſe in the day of thy calamity: for better is a neighbour that is near, than a brother far off.

11 My ſon, be wiſe, and rejoice mine heart, that I may anſwer him that reproacheth me.

12 [x] A prudent man ſeeth the plague, and hideth himſelf: but the fooliſh go on ſtill, and are puniſhed.

13 * Take his garment that is ſurety for a ſtranger, and a pledge of him for the ſtranger. *Ch. 20. 16.

14 He that † praiſeth his friend with a loud voice, riſing [y] early in the morning, it ſhall be counted to him as a curſe. † Heb. bleſſeth.

15 * A continual dropping in the day of rain, and a contentious woman, are alike. *Ch. 19. 13. & 21. 9.

16 He that hideth her, hideth the wind, and ſhe is as the oil in his right hand, that uttereth itſelf.

---

[e] And ſo is in extreme danger.

[f] Conſent not unto him in his doings.

[g] Reprove him as the matter requireth.

[h] To wit, of the meſſenger whom he ſendeth.

[i] That is, receiveth damage thereby.

[k] Whereby he both hurteth himſelf and others.

[l] Meaning God.

[m] For the fool will rather be counſelled than he: alſo the fool ſinneth of ignorance, and the other of malice.

[n] Read chap. 22. 13.

[o] Which diſſembleth himſelf to be that he is not.

[p] They will ſoon break out, and utter themſelves.

[q] Meaning many: he uſeth the number certain for the uncertain.

[r] In the aſſembly of the godly.

[s] Delay not the time, but take occaſion when it is offered.

[t] For the envious are obſtinate, and cannot be reconciled.

[u] They are flattering, and ſeem friendly.

[w] Truſt not to any worldly help in the day of thy trouble.

[x] Read chap 22. 3.

[y] Haſtily, and without cauſe.

17 Iron ſharpeneth iron, ſo doth [z] man ſharpen the face of his friend.

18 He that keepeth the fig-tree, ſhall eat the fruit thereof: ſo he that waiteth upon his maſter ſhall come to honour.

19 As in water face anſwereth to face, [a] ſo the heart of man to man.

20 The grave and deſtruction can never be full, ſo * the eyes of man can never be ſatisfied.

21 As is the fining pot for ſilver, and the furnace for gold, ſo is every man according to his [b] dignity.

22 Though thou ſhouldeſt bray a fool in a morter among wheat brayed with a peſtle, yet will not his fooliſhneſs depart from him.

23 Be diligent to know the ſtate of thy flock, and take heed of thy herds:

24 For riches remain not alway, nor the crown from generation to generation.

25 The hay diſcovereth itſelf, and the graſs appeareth, and the herbs of the mountains are gathered.

26 The [c] lambs are for thy cloathing, and the goats are the price of the field.

27 And let the milk of the goats be ſufficient for thy food, for the food of thy family, and for the ſubſtance of thy maids.

CHAP. XXVIII.

THE wicked [d] flee when none purſueth: but the righteous are bold as a lion.

2 For the tranſgreſſion of the land [e] there are many princes thereof: but by a man of underſtanding and knowledge, a realm likewiſe endureth long.

3 A poor man, if he oppreſs the poor, is like the raging rain that leaveth no food.

4 They that forſake the law, praiſe the wicked: but they that keep the law, ſet themſelves againſt them.

5 Wicked men underſtand not judgment: but they that ſeek the Lord, underſtand all things.

*Ch. 19. 1. 6 * Better is the poor that walketh in his uprightneſs, than he that perverteth his ways, though he be rich.

7 He that keepeth the law, is a child of underſtanding: but he that feedeth the gluttons, ſhameth his father.

8 He that increaſeth his riches by uſury and intereſt, gathereth [f] them for him that will be merciful unto the poor.

9 He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer ſhall be [g] abominable.

10 He that cauſeth the righteous to go aſtray by an evil way, ſhall fall into his own pit, and the upright ſhall inherit good things.

11 The rich man is wiſe in his own conceit: but the poor that hath underſtanding, can [h] try him.

*Ch. 29. 2. 12 * When righteous men rejoice, there is great glory: but when the wicked come up, the man [i] is tried.

13 He that hideth his ſins, ſhall not proſper: but he that confeſſeth and forſaketh them, ſhall have mercy.

14 Bleſſed is the man that [k] feareth alway: but he that hardeneth his heart ſhall fall into evil.

15 As a roaring lion, and an hungry bear, ſo is [l] a wicked ruler over the poor people.

16 A prince deſtitute of underſtanding is alſo a great oppreſſor: but he that hateth covetouſneſs, ſhall prolong his days.

17 A man that doth violence againſt the blood of a perſon, ſhall flee unto the grave, and they ſhall not [m] ſtay him.

18 He that walketh uprightly, ſhall be ſaved: but he that is froward in his ways, ſhall once fall.

19 * He that tilleth his land ſhall be ſatisfied with bread: but he that followeth the idle, ſhall be filled with poverty. *Ch. 12. 11.

20 A faithful man ſhall abound in bleſſings: and * he that maketh haſte to be rich, ſhall not be innocent, *Ch. 13. 11. & 20. 21.

21 To have reſpect of perſons is not good, for that man will tranſgreſs for a piece of [k] bread.

22 A man with a wicked [o] eye haſteth to riches, and knoweth not that poverty ſhall come upon him.

23 He that rebuketh a man ſhall find more favour at the length than he that flattereth with his tongue.

24 He that robbeth his father and mother, and ſaith, It is no tranſgreſſion, is the companion of a man that deſtroyeth.

25 He that is of a proud heart, ſtirreth up ſtrife: but he that truſteth in the Lord, ſhall be [p] fat.

26 He that truſteth in his own heart, is a fool: but he that walketh in wiſdom, ſhall be delivered.

27 He that giveth unto the poor, ſhall not lack: but he that hideth his eyes, ſhall have many curſes.

28 * When the wicked riſe up, men hide themſelves: but when they periſh, the righteous increaſe. *Ch. 29. 2.

CHAP. XXIX.

A MAN that hardeneth his neck when he is rebuked, ſhall ſuddenly be deſtroyed, and cannot be cured.

2 * When the righteous ‡ are in authority, the people rejoice: but when the wicked beareth rule, the people ſigh. *Ch. 28. 12. 28. ‡Or, are increaſed.

3 A man that loveth wiſdom, rejoiceth his father: but * he that feedeth harlots, waſteth his ſubſtance. * Luke 15. 13.

4 A king by judgment maintaineth the country: but a man receiving gifts, deſtroyeth it.

---

[z] One haſty man provoketh another to anger.

[a] There is no difference between man and man by nature, but only the grace of God maketh the difference.

[b] That is, he is either known to be ambitious and glorious, or humble and modeſt.

[c] This declareth the great goodneſs of God towards man, and the diligence that he requireth of him for the preſervation of his gifts.

[d] Becauſe their own conſcience accuſeth them.

[e] The ſtate of the commonwealth is oftentimes changed.

[f] For God will take away the wicked uſurer, and give his goods to him that ſhall beſtow them well.

[g] Becauſe it is not of faith, which is grounded of God's word, or law, which the wicked contemn.

[h] And judge that he is not wiſe.

[i] He is known by his doings to be wicked.

[k] Which ſtandeth in awe of God, and is afraid to offend him.

[l] For he can never be ſatisfied, but ever oppreſſeth and ſpoileth.

[m] None ſhall be able to deliver him.

[n] He will be abuſed for nothing.

[o] Meaning, him that is covetous.

[p] Shall have all things in abundance.

5 A man that flattereth his neighbour, [q] ſpreadeth a net for his ſteps.

6 In the tranſgreſſion of an evil man is his [r] ſnare: but the righteous doth ſing and rejoice.

7 The righteous knoweth the cauſe of the poor: but the wicked regardeth not knowledge.

8 Scornful men bring a city into a ſnare: but wiſe men turn away wrath.

9 If a wiſe man contend with [s] a fooliſh man, whether he be angry or laugh, there is no reſt.

10 Bloody men hate him that is upright: but the juſt have care of his ſoul.

11 A fool poureth out all his mind: but a wiſe man keepeth it in till afterward.

12 Of a prince that hearkeneth to lyes, all his ſervants are wicked.

* Ch. 22. 2. 13 * The poor and the uſurer meet together, and the Lord lighteneth both their eyes.

* Ch. 20. 28. 14 * A king that judgeth the poor in truth, his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever.

15 The rod and correction give wiſdom: but a child ſet at liberty, maketh his mother aſhamed.

16 When the wicked are increaſed, tranſgreſſion increaſeth: but the righteous ſhall ſee their fall.

17 Correct thy ſon, and he will give thee reſt, and will give pleaſure to thy ſoul.

18 [t] Where there is no viſion, the people decay: but he that keepeth the law is bleſſed.

19 A [u] ſervant will not be chaſtiſed with words: though he underſtand, yet he will not
‡ Or, regard. ‡ anſwer.

20 Seeſt thou a man haſty in his matters? there is more hope of a fool, than of him

21 He that delicately bringeth up his ſervant from youth, at length he will be even as his ſon.

* Ch. 15. 18. 22 * An angry man ſtirreth up ſtrife, and a furious man aboundeth in tranſgreſſion.

* Job 22. 29. 23 * The pride of a man ſhall bring him low: but the humble in ſpirit ſhall enjoy glory.

24 He that is partner with a thief, hateth his own ſoul: he heareth curſing, and declareth it not.

25 The fear of man bringeth a [w] ſnare: but he that truſteth in the Lord, ſhall be exalted.

26 Many do ſeek the face of the ruler: but every man's [x] judgment cometh from the Lord.

27 A wicked man is abomination to the juſt: and he that is upright in his way, is abomination to the wicked.

CHAP. XXX.

2 To humble ourſelves in conſideration of God's works. 5 The word of God is perfect. 11 Of the wicked and hypocrites. 15 Of the things that are never ſatiate. 18 Of others that are wonderful.

The words of [y] Agur the ſon of Jakeh.

THE propheſy which the man ſpake unto Ithiel, even to [z] Ithiel and Ucal.

2 Surely I am more [a] fooliſh than any man, and have not the underſtanding of a man in me;

3 For I have not learned wiſdom, nor attained to the knowledge of holy things.

4 Who hath aſcended up to [b] heaven, and deſcended? Who hath gathered the wind in his fiſt? Who hath bound the waters in a garment? Who hath eſtabliſhed all the ends of the world? What is his name, and what is his ſon's name, if thou canſt tell?

5 * Every word of God is pure: he is a ſhield to thoſe that truſt in him. * Pſ. 19. 8.

6 * Put nothing unto his words, leſt he reprove thee, and thou be found a lyar. * Deut. 24. 2. and 12. 32.

7 Two [c] things have I required of thee: deny me them not before I die.

8 Remove far from me vanity and lyes: give me not poverty nor riches: feed me with food convenient for me,

9 Leſt I be full, and deny thee, and ſay, [d] Who is the Lord? or, leſt I be poor and ſteal, and take the name of my God in vain.

10 Accuſe not a ſervant unto his maſter, leſt he curſe thee, [e] when thou haſt offended.

11 There is a generation that curſeth their father, and doth not bleſs their mother.

12 There is a generation that are pure in their own conceit, and yet are not waſhed from their filthineſs.

13 There is a generation whoſe eyes are haughty, and their eyelids are lifted up.

14 There is a generation whoſe teeth are as ſwords, and their jaws as knives to eat up the afflicted out of the earth, and the poor from among men.

15 The horſe-leach hath two [f] daughters, which cry, Give, give. There be three things which will not be ſatiſfied: yea, four, that ſay not, It is enough.

16 The grave, and the barren womb, the earth that cannot be ſatiſfied with water, and the fire that ſaith not, It is enough.

17 The eye that mocketh his father, and deſpiſeth the inſtruction of his mother, let the ravens [g] of the valley pick it out, and the young eagles eat it.

18 There be three things hid from me: yea, four that I know not.

19 The way of an eagle in the air, the way of a ſerpent upon a ſtone, the way of a ſhip in the midſt of the ſea, and the way of a man with a maid.

20 Such is the way alſo of an adulterous woman: ſhe eateth and [h] wipeth her mouth, and ſaith, I have not committed iniquity.

[q] He that giveth ear to the flatterer is in danger, as the bird is before the fowler.

[r] He is ever ready to fall into the ſnare that he layeth for others.

[s] He can bear no admonition, in what ſort ſoever it is ſpoken.

[t] Where there are no faithful miniſters of the word of God.

[u] He that is of a ſervile and rebellious nature.

[w] He that feareth man more than God, falleth into a ſnare, and is deſtroyed.

[x] He needeth not to flatter the ruler; for what God hath appointed, that ſhall come to him.

[y] Who was an excellent man in virtue and knowledge in the time of Solomon.

[z] Which were Agur's ſcholars or friends.

[a] Herein he declareth his great humility, who would not attribute any wiſdom to himſelf, but all unto God.

[b] Meaning, to know the ſecrets of God, as though he would ſay, None.

[c] He maketh this requeſt to God.

[d] Meaning, that they that put their truſt in their riches, forget God, and that by too much wealth men have an occaſion to the ſame.

[e] In accuſing him without cauſe.

[f] The leach hath two forks in her tongue, which here he calleth her two daughters, whereby ſhe ſucketh the blood, and is never ſatiate, even ſo are the covetous extortioners inſatiable.

[g] Which haunt in the valley for carions.

[h] She hath her deſires, and after counterfeiteth as though ſhe were an honeſt woman.

21 For three things the earth is moved: yea, for four it cannot ſuſtain itſelf.

22 For [i] a ſervant when he reigneth, and a fool when he is filled with meat,

23 For the hateful woman when ſhe is married, and for a hand-maid that is [k] heir to her miſtreſs.

24 There be four ſmall things in the earth, yet they are [l] wiſe and full of wiſdom.

25 The piſmires a people not ſtrong, yet prepare they their meat in ſummer:

26 The conies a people not mighty, yet make they their houſes in the rock:

27 The graſhopper hath no king, yet go they forth all by bands:

28 The ſpider taketh hold [m] with her hands, and is in kings palaces.

29 There be three things that order well their going: yea, four are comely in going.

30 A lion, which is ſtrong among beaſts, and turneth not at the ſight of any:

31 A luſty grey hound, and a goat, and a king againſt whom there is no riſing up.

32 If thou haſt been fooliſh in lifting thyſelf up, and if thou haſt thought wickedly, lay thine hand [n] upon thy mouth.

33 When one churneth milk, he bringeth forth butter: and he that wringeth his noſe, cauſeth blood to come out: ſo he that forceth wrath, bringeth forth ſtrife.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 He exhorteth to chaſtity and juſtice, 20 and ſheweth the conditions of a wiſe and worthy woman.

1 The words of King [o] Lemuel: The [p] prophecy which his mother taught him.

2 WHAT, my ſon! and what, the ſon of my [q] womb! and what, O ſon of my deſires!

3 Give not thy ſtrength unto women, [r] nor thy ways, which is to deſtroy kings.

4 It is not for kings, O Lemuel, it is not for kings to drink wine, nor for princes [s] ſtrong drink,

5 Leſt he drink and forget the decree, and change the judgment of all the children of affliction.

6 Give ye ſtrong drink unto him that is ready to periſh, and wine unto them that have grief of heart.

7 Let him drink that he may forget [t] his poverty, and remember his miſery no more.

8 Open thy mouth for the [u] dumb, in the cauſe of all the children of deſtruction.

9 Open thy mouth: judge righteouſly, and judge the afflicted, and the poor.

10 ¶ Who ſhall find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above the pearls.

11 The heart of her huſband truſteth in her, and he ſhall have no need of [w] ſpoil.

12 She will do him good, and not evil, all the days of her life.

13 She ſeeketh wool and flax, and laboureth chearfully with her hands,

14 She is like the ſhips of merchants: ſhe bringeth her food from afar.

15 And ſhe riſes whilſt it is yet night: and giveth ‡ the portion to her houſhold, and the [x] ordinary to her maids.

‡ Or, meat, as Pſ.111.5.

16 She conſidereth a field, and [y] getteth it: and with the fruit of her hands ſhe planteth a vineyard.

17 She girdeth her loins with ſtrength, and ſtrengtheneth her arms.

18 She feeleth that her merchandize is good: her candle is not put out by night.

19 She putteth her hands to the wheel, and her hands handle the ſpindle.

20 She ſtretcheth out her hand to the poor, and putteth forth her hands to the needy.

21 She feareth not the ſnow for her family: for all her family is clothed with ‡ ſcarlet.

‡ Or, with double.

22 She maketh herſelf carpets: fine linen and purple is her garment.

23 Her huſband is known in the [z] gates, when he ſitteth with the elders of the land.

24 She maketh ‡ ſheets, and ſelleth them, and giveth girdles unto the merchant.

‡ Or, linen cloth.

25 [a] Strength and honour is her clothing, and and in the latter day ſhe ſhall rejoice.

26 She openeth her mouth with wiſdom, and the [b] law of grace is in her tongue.

27 She overſeeth the ways of her houſhold, and eateth not the bread of idleneſs.

28 Her children riſe up, and [c] call her bleſſed: her huſband alſo ſhall praiſe her, ſaying,

29 Many daughters have done virtuouſly: but thou ſurmounteſt them all.

30 Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vanity: but a woman that feareth the Lord, ſhe ſhall be praiſed.

31 Give [d] her of the fruit of her hands, and let her own works praiſe her in the [e] gates.

ECCLESIASTES, or the PREACHER.

THE ARGUMENT.

Solomon, as a Preacher, and one that deſired to inſtruct all in the way of ſalvation, deſcribeth the deceivable vanities of this world: that man ſhould not be addicted to any thing under the ſun, but rather inflamed with the deſire of the heavenly life: therefore he confuteth their opinions, which ſet their felicity either in knowledge, or in pleaſures, or in dignity and riches, ſhewing that man's true felicity conſiſteth in that, that he is united with God, and ſhall enjoy his preſence: ſo that all other things muſt be rejected, ſave inaſmuch as they further us to attain to this heavenly treaſure, which is ſure and permanent, and cannot be found in any other ſave in God alone.

CHAP. I.

2 All things in this world are full of vanity, and of no endurance. 13 All man's wiſdom is but folly and grief.

THE words of the [a] Preacher, the ſon of David, king in Jeruſalem.

2 [b] Vanity of vanities, ſaith the Preacher: vanity of vanities, all is vanity.

3 What remaineth unto man in all [c] his travail, which he ſuffereth under the ſun?

4 One generation paſſeth, and another generation ſucceedeth: but the earth remaineth for [d] ever.

5 The ſun riſeth, and the ſun goeth down, and draweth to his place, where he riſeth.

6 The [e] wind goeth toward the ſouth, and compaſſeth toward the north: the wind goeth round about, and returneth by his circuits.

7 All the rivers go into the ſea, yet the ſea is not full: for the rivers go unto the place, [f] whence they return and go.

8 All things are full of labour: man cannot utter it: the eye is not ſatisfied with ſeeing, nor the ear filled with hearing.

9 [g] What is it that hath been? That that ſhall be: and what is it that hath been done? That which ſhall be done: and there is no new thing under the ſun.

10 Is there any thing whereof one may ſay, Behold this, it is new? it hath been already in the old time that was before us.

11 There is no memory of the former, neither ſhall there be a remembrance of the latter that ſhall be, with them that ſhall come after.

12 ¶ [h] I, the Preacher, have been king over Iſrael in Jeruſalem,

13 And I have given mine heart to ſearch and find out wiſdom by all things that are done under the heaven: (this ſore travail hath God given to the ſons of men, [i] to humble them thereby)

14 I have conſidered all the works that are done under the ſun, and behold, all is vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

15 That which is [k] crooked, none can make ſtraight: and that which faileth cannot be numbered.

16 I thought in mine heart, and ſaid, Behold, I am become great, and excel in wiſdom all them that have been before me in Jeruſalem: and mine heart hath ſeen much wiſdom and knowledge.

17 I have given mine heart to know wiſdom and knowledge, [l] madneſs and fooliſhneſs: I knew alſo that this is a vexation of the ſpirit.

18 For in the multitude of wiſdom is much [m] grief: and he that increaſeth knowledge, increaſeth ſorrow.

CHAP. II.

Pleaſures, ſumptuous buildings, riches and poſſeſſions are but vanity. 15 The wiſe and the fool have both one end touching the bodily death.

I Said in mine heart, Go to now, I will prove [n] thee with joy: therefore take thou pleaſure in pleaſant things: and behold, this alſo is vanity.

2 I ſaid of laughter, Thou art mad: and of joy, What is this that thou doeſt?

3 I ſought in my heart † to give myſelf to wine, and to lead mine heart in [o] wiſdom, and to take hold of folly, till I might ſee where is that goodneſs of the children of men, which they † enjoy under the ſun the whole number of the days of their life.

---

[a] Solomon is here called a Preacher, or one that aſſembleth the people, becauſe he teacheth the true knowledge of God, and how men ought to paſs their life in this tranſitory world.

[b] He condemneth the opinions of all men that ſet felicity in any thing but in God alone, ſeeing that in this world all things are as vanity and nothing.

[c] Solomon doth not condemn man's labour or diligence, but ſheweth that there is no full contentment in any thing under the heaven, nor in any creature, foraſmuch as all things are tranſitory.

[d] One man dieth after another, and the earth remaineth longeſt, even to the laſt day, which yet is ſubject to corruption.

[e] By the ſun, wind and rivers, he ſheweth, that the greateſt labour and longeſt hath an end, and therefore there can be no felicity in this world.

[f] The ſea which compaſſeth all the earth, filleth the veins thereof, the which pour out ſprings and rivers into the ſea again.

[g] He ſpeaketh of times and ſeaſons, and things done in them, which, as they have been in times paſt, ſo come they to paſs again.

[h] He proveth that if any could have attained to felicity in this world by labour and ſtudy, he chiefly ſhould have obtained it, becauſe he had gifts and aids of God thereunto above all other.

[i] Man of nature hath a deſire to know, and yet is not able to come to the perfection of knowledge, which is the puniſhment of ſin, to humble man, and to teach him to depend only upon God.

[k] Man is not able by all his diligence to cauſe things to go otherwiſe than they do: neither can he number the faults that are committed, much leſs remedy them.

[l] That is, vain things which ſerved unto pleaſure wherein was no commodity, but grief and trouble of conſcience.

[m] Wiſdom and knowledge cannot be come by without great pain of body and mind: for when a man hath attained to the higheſt, yet is his mind never fully content: therefore in this world is no true felicity.

[n] Solomon maketh this diſcourſe with himſelf, as though he would try whether there were contentment in eaſe and pleaſures.

[o] Albeit I gave myſelf to pleaſures, yet I thought to keep wiſdom, and the fear of God in mine heart, and govern mine affairs by the ſame.

4 I have made my great works: I have built me houſes: I have planted me vineyards.

5 I have made me gardens and † orchards, and planted in them trees of all fruit.

† Heb. paradiſes.

6 I have made me ciſterns of water, to water therewith the woods that grow with trees,

7 I have gotten ſervants and maids: and had children born in the [p] houſe: alſo I had great poſſeſſion of beeves and ſheep above all that were before me in Jeruſalem.

8 I have gathered unto me alſo ſilver and gold, and the chief treaſures of kings and provinces: I have provided me men-ſingers and women-ſingers, and the [q] delights of the ſons of men, as a woman [r] taken captive, and women taken captives.

9 And I was great, and increaſed above all that were before me in Jeruſalem: alſo my wiſdom [s] remained with me.

10 And whatſoever mine eyes deſired, I with-held it not from them: I withdrew not mine heart from any joy: for mine heart rejoiced in all my labour: and this was my [t] portion of all my travail.

11 Then I looked on all my works that mine hands had wrought, and on the travail that I had laboured to do: and behold, all is vanity, and vexation of the ſpirit: and there is no profit under the ſun.

12 ¶ And I turned to behold [u] wiſdom, and madneſs, and folly: (for who is the man that ‡ will come after the king in things which men now have done?

‡ Or, compare with the king.

13 Then I ſaw that there is profit in wiſdom, more than in folly: as the light is more excellent than darkneſs.

14 * For the wiſe man's [w] eyes are in his head, but the fool walketh in darkneſs: yet I know alſo that the ſame [x] condition falleth to them all.

* Prov. 17. 24.

15 Then I thought in mine heart, It befalleth unto me as it befalleth to the fool, why therefore do I then labour to be more wiſe? And I ſaid in mine heart, that this alſo is vanity.

16 For there ſhall be no remembrance of the wiſe, nor of the fool [y] for ever: for that that now is, in the days to come ſhall all be forgotten. And [z] how dieth the wiſe man, as doth the fool?

17 Therefore I hated life: for the work that is wrought under the ſun is grievous unto me: for all is vanity, and vexation of the ſpirit.

18 I hated alſo all my labour, wherein I had travailed under the ſun, which I ſhall leave to the man that ſhall be after me.

19 And who knoweth whether he ſhall be wiſe or fooliſh? yet ſhall he have rule over all my labour wherein I have travailed, and wherein I have ſhewed myſelf wiſe under the ſun. This is alſo vanity.

20 Therefore I went about to make mine heart [a] abhor all the labour wherein I had travailed under the ſun,

21 For there is a man whoſe travail is in wiſdom, and in knowledge, and in equity: yet to a man that hath not travailed herein, ſhall he [b] give his portion: this alſo is vanity and a great grief.

22 For what hath man of all his travail and grief of his heart, wherein he hath travailed under the ſun?

23 For all his days are ſorrows, and his travail grief: his heart alſo taketh not reſt in the night: which alſo is vanity.

24 There is no profit to man, but that he eat, and drink, and [c] delight his ſoul with the profit of his labour: I ſaw alſo this, that it was of the hand of God.

25 For who could eat, and who could haſte to [d] outward things more than I?

26 Surely to a man that is good in his ſight, God giveth wiſdom, and knowledge, and joy: but to the ſinner he giveth pain, to gather, and to heap, to give to him that is good before God: this is alſo vanity and vexation of the ſpirit.

CHAP. III.

1 All things have their time. 14 The works of God are perfect, and cauſe us to fear him. 17 God ſhall judge both the juſt and the unjuſt.

TO all things there is an [e] appointed time, and a time to every purpoſe under the heaven.

2 A time to be born, and a time to die: a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted.

3 A time to ſlay, and a time to heal: a time to break down, and a time to build.

4 A time to weep, and a time to laugh: a time to mourn, and a time to dance.

5 A time to caſt away ſtones, and a time to gather ſtones: a time to embrace, and a time to be far from embracing.

6 A time to ſeek, and a time to loſe: a time to keep, and a time to caſt away.

7 A time to rend, and a time to ſew: a time to keep ſilence, and a time to ſpeak.

8 A time to love, and a time to hate: a time of war, and a time of peace.

9 What profit hath he that worketh, of the thing wherein he travaileth?

10 I have ſeen the travail that God hath given to the ſons of men, [f] to humble them thereby.

---

[p] Meaning, of the ſervants or ſlaves which he had bought: ſo the children born in their ſervitude were the maſter's.

[q] That is, whatſoever men take pleaſure in.

[r] Which were the moſt beautiful of them that were taken in war, as Judg. 5. 30. Some underſtand by theſe words, not women, but inſtruments of muſic.

[s] For all this, God did not take his gift of wiſdom from me.

[t] This was the fruit of all my labour, a certain pleaſure mixt with care, which he calleth vanity in the next verſe.

[u] I bethought with myſelf whether it were better to follow wiſdom, or mine own affections and pleaſures, which he calleth madneſs.

[w] He foreſeeth things, which the fool cannot for lack of wiſdom.

[x] For both die and are forgotten, as ver. 16. or they both alike have proſperity or adverſity.

[y] Meaning in this world.

[z] He wondereth that men forget a wiſe man being dead, as ſoon as they do a fool.

[a] That I might ſeek the true felicity which is in God.

[b] Among other griefs, this was not the leaſt, to leave that which he had gotten by great travail, to one that had taken no pains therefore, and whom he knew not whether he were a wiſe man or a fool.

[c] When man hath all laboured, he can get no more than food, and refreſhing, yet he confeſſeth alſo that this cometh of God's bleſſing, as chap. 3. 13.

[d] Meaning, to pleaſures.

[e] He ſpeaketh of this diverſity of time for two cauſes: firſt, to declare that there is nothing in this world perpetual: next, to teach us not to be grieved if we have not all things at once, according to our deſires, neither enjoy them ſo long as we would wiſh.

[f] Read ch. 1. 13.

11 He hath made every thing beautiful in his time, alſo he hath ſet the [g] world in their heart, yet cannot man find out the work that God hath wrought from the beginning even to the end.

12 I know that there is nothing good in them, but to rejoice, and do good in his life.

13 And alſo that every man eateth and drinketh, and ſeeth the commodity of all his labour, this is the [h] gift of God.

14 I know that whatſoever God ſhall do, it ſhall be for [i] ever: to it can no man add, and from it can none diminiſh: for God hath done it, that they ſhould fear before him.

15 What is that that hath been? that is now: and that that ſhall be, hath now been: for God [k] requireth that which is paſt.

16 And moreover I have ſeen under the ſun the place of judgment, where was wickedneſs: and the place of juſtice, where was iniquity.

17 I thought in mine heart, God will judge the juſt and the wicked: for time is [l] there for every purpoſe, and for every work.

18 I conſidered in my heart the ſtate of the children of men, that God had [m] purged them: yet to ſee to, they are in themſelves as beaſts.

19 For the condition of the children of men, and the condition of beaſts are even as one [n] condition unto them. As the one dieth, ſo dieth the other: for they have all one breath, and there is no excellency of man above the beaſt: for all is vanity.

20 All go to one place, and all was of the duſt, and all ſhall return to the duſt.

21 Who [o] knoweth whether the ſpirit of man aſcend upward, and the ſpirit of the beaſt deſcend downward to the earth?

22 Therefore I ſee that there is nothing better than that a man ſhould [p] rejoice in his affairs, becauſe that is his portion. For who ſhall bring him to ſee what ſhall be after him?

CHAP. IV.

1 The innocents are oppreſſed. 4 Men's labours are full of abuſe and vanity. 9 Man's ſociety is neceſſary. 13 A young man poor and wiſe, is to be preferred to an old king that is a fool.

SO [q] I turned and conſidered all the oppreſſions that are wrought under the ſun, and behold, the tears of the oppreſſed, and none comforteth them: and lo, the ſtrength is of the hand of them that oppreſs them, and none comforteth them.

2 Wherefore I praiſed the [r] dead which now are dead, above the living which are yet alive.

3 And I count him [s] better than them both, which hath not yet been: for he hath not ſeen the evil works which are wrought under the ſun.

4 Alſo I beheld all travail, and all [t] perfection of works, that this is the envy of a man againſt his neighbour: this alſo is vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

5 The fool holdeth his hands, [u] and eateth up his own fleſh.

6 Better is an handful with quietneſs, than two handfuls with labour and vexation of ſpirit.

7 Again I returned, and ſaw vanity under the ſun.

8 There is one alone, and there is not a ſecond, which hath neither ſon nor brother, yet is there no end of all his travail, neither can his eye be ſatisfied with riches: neither doth he think, For whom do I travail, and defraud my ſoul of pleaſure? this alſo is vanity, and this is an evil travail.

9 [w] Two are better than one: for they have better wages for their labour.

10 For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but wo unto him that is alone: for he falleth, and there is not a ſecond to lift him up.

11 Alſo, if two ſleep together, then ſhall they have heat: but to one how ſhould there be heat?

12 And if one overcome him, two ſhall ſtand againſt him: and a threefold [x] cord is not eaſily broken.

13 Better is a poor and wiſe child, than an old and fooliſh king, which will no more be admoniſhed.

14 For out of the [y] priſon he cometh forth to reign: when as he that is [z] born in his kingdom is made poor.

15 Behold all the living which walk under the ſun, [a] with the ſecond child, which ſhall ſtand up in his place.

16 There is no [b] end of all the people, nor of all that were before them, and they that come after ſhall not rejoice in him: ſurely this is alſo vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

17 Take heed to thy [c] foot when thou entereſt into the houſe of God, and be more

---

[g] God hath given man a deſire and affection to ſeek out the things of this world, and to labour therein.

[h] Read ch. 2. 24. and theſe places declare, that we ſhould do all things with ſobriety, and to the fear of God, foraſmuch as he giveth not his gifts to the intent that they ſhould be abuſed.

[i] That is, man ſhall never be able to let God's work, but as he hath determined, ſo it ſhall come to paſs.

[k] God only cauſeth that which is paſt to return.

[m] And made them pure in their firſt creation.

[n] Man is not able by his reaſon and judgment to put difference between man and beaſt, as touching thoſe things whereunto both are ſubject: for the eye cannot judge any otherwiſe of a man being dead, than of a beaſt which is dead: yet by the word of God and faith, we eaſily know the diverſity, as ver. 21.

[o] Meaning, that reaſon cannot comprehend that which faith believeth herein.

[p] By the often repetition of this ſentence, as ch. 2. 24. and ch. 3. 12, 22. ch. 5. 27. and ch. 8. 15. he declareth, that man, by reaſon, can comprehend nothing better in this life, than to uſe the gifts of God ſoberly, and comfortably: for to know farther is a ſpecial gift of God revealed by his Spirit.

[q] He maketh here another diſcourſe with himſelf, concerning the tyranny of them that oppreſſed the poor.

[r] Becauſe they are no more ſubject to their oppreſſors.

[s] He ſpeaketh according to the judgment of the fleſh, which cannot abide to feel, or ſee troubles.

[t] The more perfect that the work is, the more is it envied of the wicked.

[u] For idleneſs he is compelled to deſtroy himſelf.

[w] Foraſmuch as when man is alone, he can neither help himſelf, nor others, he ſheweth, that all men ought to live in mutual ſociety, to the intent they may be profitable one to another, and that their things may increaſe.

[x] By this proverb he declareth how neceſſary it is that men ſhould live in ſociety.

[y] That is, from a poor and baſe eſtate, or out of trouble and priſon, as Joſeph did, Gen. 41. 14.

[z] Meaning, that is born a king.

[a] Which follow and flatter the king's ſon, or him that ſhall ſucceed, to enter into credit with them in hope of gain.

[b] They never ceaſe by all means to creep into favour: but when they obtain not their greedy deſires, they think themſelves abuſed, as others have been in time paſt, and to care no more for him.

[c] That is, with what affection thou comeſt to hear the word of God.

near to hear than to give the ſacrifice of [d] fools: for they know not what they do.

CHAP. V.

1 Not to ſpeak lightly, chiefly in God's matters. 9 The covetous can never have enough. 11 The labourer's ſleep is ſweet. 14 Man, when he dieth, taketh nothing with him. 18 To live joyfully, and with a contented mind, is the gift of God.

BE not [e] raſh with thy mouth, nor let thine heart be haſty to utter a thing before God: for God is in the heavens, and thou art on the earth: therefore let thy words be [f] few.

2 For as a dream cometh by the multitude of buſineſs: ſo the voice of a fool is in the multitude of words.

* Deut. 23. 21. 3 * When thou haſt vowed a vow to God, defer not to pay it: for he delighteth not in fools: pay therefore that thou haſt [g] vowed.

4 It is better that thou ſhouldeſt not vow, than that thou ſhouldeſt vow and not pay it.

5 Suffer not thy mouth to make thy [h] fleſh to ſin: neither ſay before the [i] angel, that this is ignorance: wherefore ſhall God be angry by thy voice, and deſtroy the work of thine hands?

6 For in the multitude of dreams and vanities are alſo many words: but fear thou God.

7 If in a country thou ſeeſt the oppreſſion of the poor, and the defrauding of judgment and juſtice, be not aſtoniſhed at the matter: for he that is [k] higher than the higheſt, regardeth, and there be higher than they.

8 And the [l] abundance of the earth is over all: the king [m] alſo conſiſteth by the field that is tilled.

9 He that loveth ſilver ſhall not be ſatisfied with ſilver, and he that loveth riches, ſhall be without the fruit thereof: this alſo is vanity.

10 When goods increaſe, they are increaſed that eat them: and what cometh to the owners thereof, but the beholding thereof with their eyes?

11 The ſleep of him that travaileth is ſweet, whether he eat little or much: but the [n] ſatiety of the rich will not ſuffer him to ſleep.

12 There is an evil ſickneſs that I have ſeen under the ſun, to wit, riches [o] reſerved to the owners thereof for their evil.

13 And theſe riches periſh by evil travail, and he begetteth a ſon, and in his [p] hand is nothing.

* Job 1. 21. Wiſd. 7. 6. 1 Tim. 6. 7. 14 * As he came forth of his mother's belly, he ſhall return naked to go as he came, and ſhall bear away nothing of his labour, which he hath cauſed to paſs by his hand.

15 And this alſo is an evil ſickneſs, that in all points as he came, ſo ſhall he go: and what profit hath he that hath travailed for the [q] wind?

16 Alſo all his days he eateth in [r] darkneſs with much grief, and in his ſorrow and anger.

17 Behold then, what I have ſeen good, that is comely to [s] eat, and to drink, and to take pleaſure in all his labour, wherein he travaileth under the ſun, the whole number of the days of his life which God giveth him: for this is his portion.

18 Alſo to every man to whom God hath given riches and treaſures, and giveth him power to eat thereof, and to take his part, and to enjoy his labour: this is the gift of God.

19 Surely he will not much remember the days of his [t] life, becauſe God anſwereth to the joy of his heart.

CHAP. VI.

The miſerable eſtate of him to whom God hath given riches, and not the grace to uſe them.

THERE is an evil which I ſaw under the ſun, and it is much among men:

2 A man to whom God hath given riches, and treaſures, and honour, and he wanteth nothing for his ſoul of all that it deſireth: but [u] God giveth him not power to eat thereof, but a ſtrange man ſhall eat it up: this is vanity, and this is an evil ſickneſs.

3 If a man beget an hundred children, and live many years, and the days of his years be multiplied, and his ſoul be not [w] ſatisfied with good things, and he be not [x] buried, I ſay, that an untimely fruit is better than he.

4 For [y] he cometh into vanity, and goeth into darkneſs: and his name ſhall be covered with darkneſs.

5 Alſo he hath not ſeen the ſun, nor known it: therefore this hath more reſt than the other.

6 And if he hath lived a thouſand years twice told, and had ſeen no good, ſhall not all go to one place?

7 All the labour of man is for his mouth: yet the [z] ſoul is not filled.

8 For what hath the wiſe man more than the fool? what hath the poor that [a] knoweth how to walk before the living?

9 The [b] ſight of the eye is better than to walk in the luſts: this alſo is vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

10 What

[d] Meaning, of the wicked, which thinketh to pleaſe God with ceremonies, and have neither faith nor repentance.

[e] Either in vowing or in praying, meaning, that we ſhould uſe all reverence to Godward.

[f] He heareth thee not for thy many words ſake, or often repetitions, but conſidereth thy faith and fervent mind.

[g] He ſpeaketh of vows which are approved by God's word, and ſerve to his glory.

[h] Cauſe not thyſelf to ſin by vowing raſhly, as they do which make a vow to live unmarried, and ſuch like.

[i] That is, before God's meſſenger, when he ſhall examine thy doing: as though thy ignorance ſhould be a juſt excuſe.

[k] Meaning, that God will redreſs theſe things, and therefore we muſt depend upon him.

[l] The revenues of the earth are to be preferred above all things which appertain to this life.

[m] Kings and princes cannot maintain their eſtate without tillage, which thing commendeth the excellency of tillage.

[n] That is, his great abundance of riches, or the ſurfeiting which cometh by his great feeding.

[o] When covetous men heap up riches, which turn to their deſtruction.

[p] He doth not enjoy his father's riches.

[q] Meaning, in vain, and without profit.

[r] In afflictions and grief of mind.

[s] Read chap. 3. 22.

[t] He will take no great thought for the pains that he hath endured in time paſt.

[u] He ſheweth that it is the plague of God, when the rich man hath not a liberal heart to uſe his riches.

[w] If he can never have enough.

[x] As we ſee oftentimes, that the covetous man either falleth into crimes that deſerve death, or is murdered, or drowned, or hangeth himſelf, or ſuch like: and ſo lacketh the honour of burial, which is the laſt office of humanity.

[y] Meaning, the untimely fruit, whoſe life did neither profit or hurt any.

[z] His deſire and affection.

[a] That knoweth to uſe his goods well in the judgment of men.

[b] To be content with that which God hath given, is better than to follow the deſires that never can be ſatisfied.

10 What is that that hath been? the name thereof is now named: and it is known that it is man: and he cannot ſtrive with him that is [c] ſtronger than he.

CHAP. VII.

Divers precepts to follow that which is good, and to avoid the contrary.

SURELY there be many things that increaſe vanity: and what availeth it a man?

2 For who knoweth what is [d] good for man in the life and in the number of the days of the life of his vanity, ſeeing he maketh them as a * ſhadow? For who can ſhew unto man what ſhall be after him under the ſun?

* Job 14. 2. Pſ. 144. 4.

3 * A good name is better than a good ointment, and the day of [e] death than the day that one is born.

* Prov. 22. 1.

4 It is better to go to the houſe of [f] mourning, than to go to the houſe of feaſting, becauſe this is the end of all men: and the living ſhall lay it to his heart.

5 Anger is better than laughter: for by a ſad look the heart is made better.

6 The heart of the wiſe is in the houſe of mourning: but the heart of fools is in the houſe of mirth.

7 Better it is to hear the rebuke of a wiſe man, than that a man ſhould hear the ſong of fools.

8 For like the noiſe of the [g] thorns under the pot, ſo is the laughter of the fool: this alſo is vanity.

9 Surely, oppreſſion maketh a wiſe man [h] mad: and the reward deſtroyeth the heart.

10 The [i] end of a thing is better than the beginning thereof, and the patient in ſpirit is better than the proud in ſpirit.

11 Be not thou of an haſty ſpirit to be angry: for anger reſteth in the boſom of fools.

12 Say not thou, Why is it that the former days were better than theſe? for thou doſt not inquire [k] wiſely of this thing.

13 Wiſdom is good with an [l] inheritance, and excellent to them that ſee the ſun.

14 For man ſhall reſt in the ſhadow of wiſdom, and in the ſhadow of ſilver: but the excellency of the knowledge of wiſdom giveth life to the poſſeſſors thereof.

15 Behold the work of God: for who can make * ſtrait that which he hath made crooked?

* Ch. 1, 15.

16 In the day of wealth be of good comfort, and in the day of affliction [m] conſider: God alſo hath made this contrary to that, to the intent that man ſhould find [n] nothing after him.

17 I have ſeen all things in the days of my vanity: there is a juſt man that periſheth in his [o] juſtice, and there is a wicked man that continueth long in his malice.

18 Be not thou juſt [p] overmuch, neither make thyſelf over-wiſe: wherefore ſhouldeſt thou be deſolate?

19 Be not thou wicked [q] overmuch, neither be thou fooliſh: wherefore ſhouldeſt thou periſh not in thy time?

20 It is good that thou lay hold [r] on this: but yet withdraw not thine hand from [s] that: for he that feareth God ſhall come forth of them all.

21 Wiſdom ſhall ſtrengthen the wiſe man, more than ten mighty princes that are in the city.

22 * Surely there is no man juſt in the earth, that doeth juſt, and ſinneth not.

* 1 Kings 8. 46. 2 Chron. 6. 36. Prov. 20. 9. 1 John 1. 8.

23 Give not thine [t] heart alſo to all the words that men ſpeak, leſt thou do hear thy ſervant curſing thee.

24 For oftentimes alſo thine heart knoweth that thou likewiſe haſt ‡ curſed others.

‡ Or, ſpeak evil of others.

25 All this have I proved by wiſdom: I thought I will be wiſe, but it went far from me.

26 It is far off, what may [u] it be? and it is a profound deepneſs, who can find it?

27 I have compaſſed about, both I and mine heart, to know and to inquire, and to ſearch wiſdom and reaſon, and to know the wickedneſs of folly, and the fooliſhneſs of madneſs,

28 And I find more bitter than death the woman whoſe heart is as nets and ſnares, and her hands as bands: he that is good before God ſhall be delivered from her, but the ſinner ſhall be taken by her.

29 Behold, ſaith the Preacher, this have I found, ſeeking one by one to find [w] the count:

30 And yet my ſoul ſeeketh, but I find it not: I have found one man of a thouſand: but a woman among them all have I not found.

31 Only lo, this have I found, that God hath made man righteous: but they have ſought many [x] inventions.

CHAP. VIII.

1 To obey princes and magiſtrates. 17 The works of God paſs man's knowledge.

WHO is as the wiſe man? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing? the wiſdom of a man doth make his [y] face to ſhine: and the [z] ſtrength of his face ſhall be changed.

---

[c] Meaning, God, who will make him to feel that he is mortal.

[d] There is no ſtate wherein man can live to have perfect quietneſs in this life.

[e] He ſpeaketh thus after the judgment of the fleſh, which thinketh death to be the end of all evils: or elſe, becauſe that this corporal death is the entering into life everlaſting.

[f] Where we may ſee the hand of God, and learn to examine our lives.

[g] Which crackle for a while, and profit nothing.

[h] A man that is eſteemed wiſe, when he falleth to oppreſſion, becometh like a beaſt.

[i] He noteth their lightneſs, which enterpriſe a thing, and ſuddenly leave it off again.

[k] Murmur not againſt God when he ſendeth adverſities for man's ſins.

[l] He anſwereth to them that eſteem not wiſdom, except riches be joined therewith, ſhewing that both are the gifts of God, but that wiſdom is far more excellent, and may be without riches.

[m] Conſider wherefore God doth ſend it, and what may comfort thee.

[n] That man ſhould be able to controul nothing in his works.

[o] Meaning, that cruel tyrants put the godly to death, and let the wicked go free.

[p] Boaſt not too much of thine own juſtice and wiſdom.

[q] Tarry not long when thou art admoniſhed to come out of the way of wickedneſs.

[r] To wit, on theſe admonitions that go before.

[s] Conſider what deſolation and deſtruction ſhall come, if thou do not obey them.

[t] Credit them not, neither care for them.

[u] Meaning, wiſdom.

[w] That is, to come to a concluſion.

[x] And ſo are cauſe of their own deſtruction.

[y] That is, doth get him favour and proſperity.

[z] Whereas before he was proud and arrogant, he ſhall become humble and meek.

2 I advertiſe thee to take heed to the [a] mouth of the king, and to the word of the oath of God.

3 [b] Haſte not to go forth of his ſight: ſtand not in an evil thing: for he will do whatſoever pleaſeth him.

4 Where the word of the king is, there is power, and who ſhall ſay unto him, What doſt thou?

5 He that keepeth the commandment, ſhall know none evil thing, and the heart of the wiſe ſhall know the [c] time and judgment.

6 For to every purpoſe there is a time and judgment, becauſe the [d] miſery of man is great upon him.

7 For he knoweth not that which ſhall be: for who can tell him when it ſhall be?

8 Man is not lord [e] over the ſpirit to retain the ſpirit, neither hath he power in the day of death, nor deliverance in the battle, neither ſhall wickedneſs deliver the poſſeſſors thereof.

9 All this have I ſeen, and have given mine heart to every work which is wrought under the ſun, and I ſaw a time that man ruleth over man to his own [f] hurt.

10 And likewiſe I ſaw the wicked buried, and [g] they returned, and they that came from the holy [h] place were yet forgotten in the city where they had done right: this alſo is vanity.

11 Becauſe ſentence againſt an evil work is not [i] executed ſpeedily, therefore the heart of the children of men is fully ſet in them to do evil.

12 Though a ſinner do evil an hundred times, and God prolongeth his days, yet I know that it ſhall be well with them that fear the Lord, and do reverence before him.

13 But it ſhall not be well to the wicked, neither ſhall he prolong his days: he ſhall be like a ſhadow, becauſe he feareth not before God.

14 There is a vanity which is done upon the earth, that there be righteous men to whom it cometh according to [k] the work of the wicked: and there be wicked men to whom it cometh according to the work of the juſt: I thought alſo that this is vanity.

15 And I praiſed joy: for there is no goodneſs to man, under the ſun, ſave to [l] eat and to drink, and to rejoice: for this is adjoined to his labour, the days of his life that God hath given him under the ſun.

16 Then I applied mine heart to know wiſdom, and to behold the buſineſs that is done on earth, that neither day nor night the eyes of man take ſleep.

17 Then I beheld the whole work of God, that man cannot find out the work that is wrought under the ſun: for the which man laboureth to ſeek it, and cannot find it: yea, and though the wiſe man think to know it, he cannot find it.

CHAP. IX.

1 By no outward thing can man know whom God loveth, or hateth. 12 No man knoweth his end. 16 Wiſdom excelleth ſtrength.

I Have ſurely given mine heart to all this, and to declare all this, that the juſt and the wiſe, and their works are in the hand of God: and no man knoweth either love or [m] hatred of all that is before them.

2 All things come alike to all: and the ſame condition is to the juſt and to the wicked, to the good and to the pure, and to the polluted, and to him that ſacrificeth not: as is the good, ſo is the ſinner: he that ſweareth, as he that feareth an oath.

3 This is evil among all that is done under the ſun, that there is one [n] condition to all, and alſo the heart of the ſons of men is full of evil, and madneſs is in their hearts while they live, and after that they go to the dead.

4 Surely, whoſoever is joined to all the living, there is hope: for it is better to a [o] living dog, than to a dead lion.

5 For the living know that they ſhall die, but the dead know nothing at all: neither have they any more a reward: for their remembrance is forgotten:

6 Alſo their love, and their hatred, and their envy is now periſhed, and they have no more portion for ever, in all that is done under the ſun.

7 Go, eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a chearful heart: for God now [p] accepteth thy works.

8 At all times let thy garments be [q] white, and let not oil be lacking upon thine head.

9 † * Rejoice with the wiſe whom thou haſt loved all the days of the life of thy vanity, which God hath given the, under thee ſun all the days of thy vanity: for this is thy portion in the life, and in the travail wherein thou laboureſt under the ſun.

* Ch. 5. 18.

10 All that thine hand ſhall find to do, do it with all thy power: for there is neither work nor invention, nor knowledge, nor wiſdom in the grave whither thou goeſt.

11 I returned, and I ſaw under the ſun that the race is not to the ſwift, nor the battle to the ſtrong, nor yet bread to the wiſe, nor alſo riches to men of underſtanding, neither yet favour to men

---

[a] That is, that thou obey the king, and keep the oath that thou haſt made for the ſame cauſe.

[b] Withdraw not thyſelf lightly from the obedience of thy prince.

[c] That is, when time is to obey, and how far he ſhould obey.

[d] Man of himſelf is miſerable, and therefore ought to do nothing to increaſe the ſame, but to work all things by wiſdom and counſel.

[e] Man hath no power to ſave his own life, and therefore muſt not raſhly caſt himſelf into danger.

[f] As cometh oft-times to tyrants, and wicked rulers.

[g] That is, others as wicked as they.

[h] They that feared God, and worſhipped him according as he had appointed.

[i] Where juſtice is delayed, there ſin reigneth,

[k] Which are puniſhed, as though they were wicked, as ch. 7. 16.

[m] Meaning, what things he ought to chuſe or refuſe: or man knoweth not by theſe outward things, that is, by proſperity or adverſity, whom God doth favour or hate: for he ſendeth them as well to the wicked as to the godly.

[n] In outward things, as riches and poverty, ſickneſs and health, there is no difference between the godly and the wicked: but the difference is, that the godly are aſſured, by faith, of God's favour and aſſiſtance.

[o] He noteth the epicures and carnal men, which made their belly their god, and had no pleaſure but in this life, wiſhing rather to be an abject and vile perſon in this life, than a man of authority, and ſo to die, which is meant by the dog and lion.

[p] They flatter themſelves to be in God's favour, becauſe they have all things in abundance.

[q] Rejoice, be merry, and ſpare for no coſt: thus ſpeak the wicked belly-gods.

men of knowledge: but time and [r] chance cometh to them all.

12 For neither doth man know [s] his time: but as the fiſhes, which are taken in an evil net, and as the birds that are caught in the ſnare, ſo are the children of men ſnared in the evil time, when it falleth upon them ſuddenly.

13 I have alſo ſeen this wiſdom under the ſun, and it is great unto me:

14 A little city and few men in it, and a great king came againſt it, and compaſſed it, and builded forts againſt it:

15 And there was found therein a poor and wiſe man, and he delivered the city by his wiſdom: but none remembered this poor man.

16 Then ſaid I, Better is wiſdom than ſtrength: yet the wiſdom of the poor is deſpiſed, and his words are not heard.

17 The words of the wiſe are more heard in quietneſs, than the cry of him that ruleth among fools.

18 Better is wiſdom than weapons of war: but one ſinner deſtroyeth much good.

CHAP. X.

1 The difference of fooliſhneſs and wiſdom. 11 A ſlanderer is like a ſerpent that cannot be charmed. 16 Of fooliſh kings and drunken princes, 17 and of good kings and princes.

DEAD flies cauſe to ſtink, and putrify the ointment of the apothecary: ſo doth a little folly him that is in eſtimation for wiſdom, and for glory.

2 The heart of a [t] wiſe man is at his right hand: but the heart of a fool is at his left hand.

3 And alſo when the fool goeth by the way, his heart faileth, and he [u] telleth unto all that he is a fool.

4 If the [w] ſpirit of him that ruleth, riſe up againſt thee, leave not thy place: for gentleneſs pacifieth great ſins.

5 There is an evil that I have ſeen under the ſun, as an [x] error that proceedeth from the face of him that ruleth.

6 Folly is ſet in great excellency, and the [y] rich ſet in the low place.

7 I have ſeen ſervants on horſes, and princes walking as ſervants on the ground.

* Pſ. 7. 16. Prov. 26. 27.

8 * He that diggeth a pit ſhall fall into it, and he that breaketh a hedge, a ſerpent ſhall bite him.

9 He that removeth ſtones ſhall hurt himſelf thereby, and he that cutteth wood ſhall be in danger thereby.

10 If the iron be blunt, and one hath not whet the edge, he muſt then put to more [z] ſtrength: but the excellency to direct a thing is wiſdom.

11 If the ſerpent bite when he is charmed: no better is a babler.

12 The words of the mouth of a wiſe man have grace: but the lips of a fool devour himſelf.

13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is fooliſhneſs, and the latter end of his mouth is wicked madneſs.

14 For the fool multiplieth words, ſaying, Man knoweth not what ſhall be: and who can tell him what ſhall be after him?

15 The labour of the fooliſh doth weary him, for he knoweth not to go into the [a] city.

16 Wo to thee, O land, when thy king is a [b] child, and thy princes [c] eat in the morning.

17 Bleſſed art thou, O land, when thy king is the ſon [d] of nobles, and thy princes eat in time for ſtrength and not for drunkenneſs.

18 By ſlothfulneſs the roof of the houſe goeth to decay, and by the idleneſs of the hands the houſe droppeth through.

19 They prepare bread for laughter, and wine comforteth the living, but ſilver anſwereth to all.

20 Curſe not the king, no not in thy thought, neither curſe the rich in thy bed-chamber; for the [e] fowl of the heaven ſhall carry the voice, that which hath wings, ſhall declare the matter.

CHAP. XI.

1 To be liberal to the poor. 4 Not to doubt of God's providence. 8 All worldly proſperity is but vanity. 9 God will judge all.

CAST thy bread upon the [f] waters: for after many days thou ſhalt find it.

2 Give a portion to ſeven, and alſo to eight: for thou knoweſt not what evil ſhall be upon the earth.

3 If the [g] clouds be full, they will pour forth rain upon the earth: and if the [h] tree doth fall toward the ſouth, or toward the north, in the place that the tree falleth, there it ſhall be.

4 He that obſerveth the [i] wind, ſhall not ſow, and he that regardeth the clouds, ſhall not reap.

5 As thou knoweſt not which is the way of the ſpirit, nor how the bones do grow in the womb of her that is with child: ſo thou knoweſt not the work of God that worketh all.

6 In the morning ſow thy ſeed, and in the evening let not thine hand [k] reſt: for thou knoweſt not whether ſhall proſper, this or [l] that, or whether both ſhall be alike good.

7 Surely, the light is a pleaſant thing: and it is a good thing to the eyes to ſee the ſun.

---

[r] Thus the worldlings ſay, to prove that all things are lawful for them, and attribute that to chance and fortune, which is done by the providence of God.

[s] That is, he doth not foreſee what ſhall come.

[t] So that he doeth all things well and juſtly, whereas the fool doeth the contrary.

[u] By his doings he bewrayeth himſelf.

[w] If thy ſuperior be angry with thee, be thou diſcreet, and not moved.

[x] Meaning, that it is an evil thing when they that are in authority fail and do not their duty.

[y] They that are rich in wiſdom and virtue.

[z] Without wiſdom, whatſoever a man taketh in hand, turneth to his own hurt.

[a] The ignorance and beaſtlineſs of the wicked is ſuch, that they know not common things, and yet will they diſcuſs high matters.

[b] That is, without wiſdom and counſel.

[c] Are given to their luſts and pleaſures.

[d] Meaning, when he is noble for virtue and wiſdom, and with the gifts of God.

[e] Thou canſt not work evil ſo ſecretly but it ſhall be known.

[f] That is, be liberal to the poor, and though it ſeem to be as a thing ventured on the ſea, yet it ſhall bring thee profit.

[g] As the clouds that are full pour out rain, ſo the rich that have abundance muſt diſtribute it liberally.

[h] He exhorteth to be liberal while we live: for after there is no power.

[i] He that feareth inconveniences, when neceſſity requireth, ſhall never do his duty.

[k] Be not weary of well-doing.

[l] That is, which of thy works are moſt agreeable to God.

8 Though a man live many years, and in them all he rejoice, yet he ſhall remember the days of [m] darkneſs, becauſe they are many: all that cometh is vanity.

9 [n] Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth, and let thine heart chear thee in the days of thy youth: and walk in the ways of thine heart, and in the ſight of thine eyes: but know, that for all theſe things, God will bring thee to judgment.

10 Therefore take away [o] grief out of thine heart, and cauſe evil [p] to depart from thy fleſh: for childhood and youth are vanity.

CHAP. XII.

1 To think on God in youth, and not to defer till age. 7 The ſoul returneth to God. 11 Wiſdom is the gift of God, and conſiſteth in fearing him, and keeping his commandments.

REmember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years approach, wherein thou ſhalt ſay, I have no pleaſure in them.

2 While the ſun is not dark, nor the light, nor the moon, nor the ſtars, nor the [q] clouds return after the rain:

3 When the [r] keepers of the houſe ſhall tremble, and the [s] ſtrong men ſhall bow themſelves, and the [t] grinders ſhall ceaſe, becauſe they are few, and they wax dark that [u] look out by the windows:

4 And the [w] doors ſhall be ſhut without by the baſe ſound of the [x] grinding, and he ſhall riſe up at the voice of the [y] bird: and all the [z] daughters of ſinging ſhall be abaſed.

5 Alſo they ſhall be afraid of the [a] high thing, and fear ſhall be in the [b] way, and the almond tree ſhall [c] flouriſh, and the [d] graſshopper ſhall be a burden, and concupiſcence ſhall be driven away: for man goeth to the houſe of his age, and the mourners go about in the ſtreet.

6 While the [e] ſilver cord is not lengthened, nor the golden [f] ewer broken, nor the [g] pitcher broken at the [h] well, nor the [i] wheel broken at the [k] ciſtern:

7 And duſt return to the earth as it was, and the [l] ſpirit return to God that gave it.

8 Vanity of vanites, ſaith the Preacher, all is vanity.

9 And the more wiſe the Preacher was, the more he taught the people knowledge, and cauſed them to hear, and ſearched forth and prepared many parables.

10 The Preacher ſought to find out pleaſant words, and an upright writing, even the words of truth.

11 The words of the wiſe are like goads, and like nails [m] faſtened by the maſters of the aſſemblies, which are given by one [n] paſtor.

12 And of other things beſides theſe, my ſon, take thou heed: for there is no end in making many [o] books, and much reading is a wearineſs of the fleſh.

13 Let us hear the end of all: fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.

14 *For God will bring every work unto judgment, with every ſecret thing, whether it be good or evil.

---

[m] That is, of affliction and trouble.

[n] He derideth them that ſet their delight in worldly pleaſures, as though God would not call them to an account.

[o] To wit, anger and envy.

[p] Meaning, carnal luſts, whereunto youth is given.

[q] Before thou come to a continual miſery: for when the clouds remain after the rains, man's grief is increaſed.

[r] The hands, which keep the body.

[s] The legs.

[t] The teeth.

[u] The eyes.

[w] The lips or mouth.

[x] When the jaws ſhall ſcarce open and not be able to chew any more.

[y] He ſhall not be able to ſleep.

[z] That is, the windpipes, or the ears ſhall be deaf, and not able to hear ſinging.

[a] To climb high becauſe of their weakneſs, or they ſtoop down as though they were afraid, leſt any thing ſhould hit them.

[b] They ſhall tremble as they go, as though they were afraid.

[c] Their heads ſhall be as white as the bloſſoms of an almond-tree.

[d] They ſhall be able to bear nothing.

[e] Meaning, the marrow of the back bone and the ſinews.

[f] The little ſkin that covereth the brain, which is in colour like gold.

[g] That is, the veins.

[h] Meaning, the liver.

[i] Which is the head.

[k] That is, the heart, out of the which the head draweth the powers of life.

[l] The ſoul incontinently either goeth to joy or torment, and ſleepeth not, as the wicked imagine.

[m] Which are well applied by the miniſters, whom he calleth maſters.

[n] That is, by God.

[o] Theſe things cannot be comprehended in books, or learned by ſtudy, but God muſt inſtruct thine heart that thou mayeſt only know that wiſdom is the true felicity, and the way thereunto is to fear God.

An * Excellent SONG which was SOLOMON's.

† Heb. a ſong of ſongs: ſo called, becauſe it is the chiefeſt of thoſe 1005, which Solomon made, as is mentioned, 1 Kings 4. 32.

THE ARGUMENT.

In this Song, Solomon by moſt ſweet and comfortable allegories and parables deſcribeth the perfect love of Jeſus Chriſt, the true Solomon and king of peace, and the faithful ſoul or his church, which he hath ſanctified and appointed to be his ſpouſe, holy, chaſte, and without reprehenſion. So that here is declared the ſingular love of the bridegroom toward the bride, and his great and excellent benefits wherewith he doth enrich her of his pure bounty and grace, without any of her deſervings. Alſo the earneſt affection of the church, which is inflamed with the love of Chriſt, deſiring to be more and more joined to him in love, and not to be forſaken for any ſpot or blemiſh that is in her.

CHAP. I.

1 The familiar talk and myſtical communication of the ſpiritual love between Jeſus Chriſt and his church. 5 The domeſtic enemies that perſecute the church.

LET him[a] kiſs me with the kiſſes of his mouth: for thy love is better than wine.

2 Becauſe of the[b] ſavour of thy good ointments, thy name is as an ointment poured out: therefore the[c] virgins love thee.

3 [d] Draw me: we will run after thee: the king hath brought me into his[e] chambers: we will rejoice and be glad in thee: we will remember thy love more than wine: the righteous do love thee.

4 I am[f] black, O daughters of Jeruſalem, but comely as the tents of[g] Kedar, and as the[h] curtains of Solomon.

5 Regard ye me not becauſe I am[i] black: for the[k] ſun hath looked upon me. The[l] ſons of my mother were angry againſt me: they made me the keeper of the vines: but I[m] kept not mine own vine.

6 Shew me,[n] O thou whom my ſoul loveth, where thou feedeſt, where thou lieſt at noon: for why ſhould I be as ſhe that turneth aſide to the flocks of[o] thy companions?

7 [p] If thou know not, O thou the faireſt among women, get thee forth by the ſteps of the flock: and feed thy kids by the tents of the ſhepherds.

8 I have compared thee, O my love, to the troop of horſes in the[q] chariots of Pharaoh.

9 Thy cheeks are comely with rows of ſtones, and thy neck with chains.

10 We will make thee borders of gold, with ſtuds of ſilver.

11 [r] While the king was at his repaſt, my ſpikenard gave the ſmell thereof.

12 My well-beloved is as a bundle of myrrh unto me: he ſhall lie between my[s] breaſts.

13 My well-beloved is as a cluſter of camphire unto me in the vines of Engedi.

14 My love, behold, thou art[t] fair: behold, thou art fair: thine eyes are like the doves.

15 My well-beloved, behold, thou art fair and pleaſant: alſo our[u] bed is green.

16 The beams of our houſe are cedars, our rafters are of fir.

CHAP. II.

3 The church deſireth to reſt under the ſhadow of Chriſt. 8 She heareth his voice. 14 She is compared to the dove, 15 and the enemies to the foxes.

I AM the roſe of the field, and the lily of the vallies.

2 Like a lily among the thorns, ſo is my[w] love among the daughters.

3 [x] Like the apple-tree among the trees of the foreſt, ſo is my well-beloved among the ſons of men: under his ſhadow had I delight, and ſat down: and his fruit was ſweet unto my mouth.

4 He brought me into the wine-cellar, and love was his banner over me.

5 Stay me with flaggons, and comfort me with apples: for I am ſick of love.

6 His left hand is under mine head, and his right hand doth embrace me.

7 [y] I charge you, O daughters of Jeruſalem, by the roes and by the hinds of the field, that ye ſtir not up, nor waken my love, until ſhe pleaſe.

[a] This is ſpoken in the perſon of the church, or of the faithful ſoul inflamed with the deſire of Chriſt whom ſhe loveth.

[b] The feeling of thy great benefits.

[c] They that are pure in heart and converſation.

[d] The faithful confeſs that they cannot come to Chriſt except they be drawn.

[e] Meaning, the ſecret joy that is not known to the world.

[f] The church confeſſeth her ſpots and ſin, but hath confidence in the favour of Chriſt.

[g] Kedar was Iſhmael's ſon, of whom came the Arabians that dwelt in tents.

[k] The corruption of nature through ſin and afflictions.

[l] Mine own brethren, which ſhould have moſt favoured me.

[m] She confeſſeth her own negligence.

[n] The ſpouſe feeling her fault, fleeth to her huſband only for ſuccour.

[o] Whom thou haſt called to the dignity of paſtors, and they ſet forth their own dreams inſtead of thy doctrine.

[p] Chriſt ſpeaketh to his church, bidding them that are ignorant to go to the paſtors to learn.

[q] For thy ſpiritual beauty and excellency there was no worldly treaſure to be compared unto thee.

[r] The church rejoiceth that ſhe is admitted to the company of Chriſt.

[s] He ſhall be moſt dear unto me.

[t] Chriſt accepteth his church, and commendeth her beauty.

[u] That is, the heart of the faithful, wherein Chriſt dwelleth by his Spirit.

[w] Thus Chriſt preferreth his church above all other things.

[x] The ſpouſe teſtifieth her great deſire toward her huſband, but her ſtrength faileth her, and therefore ſhe deſireth to be comforted, and feel it.

[y] Chriſt chargeth them which have to do in the church, as it were by a ſolemn oath, that they trouble not the quietneſs thereof.

[z] This is ſpoken of Chriſt, who took upon him our nature, to come to help his church.

[a] Foraſmuch as his divinity was hid under the cloak of our fleſh.

[b] So that we cannot have full knowledge of him in this life.

[c] That is, ſin and error is driven back by the coming of Chriſt, which is here deſcribed by the ſpring time when all things flouriſh.

17 Until the day break, and the ſhadows flee away: return, my well-beloved, and be like a [f] roe, or a young hart upon the mountains of Bether.

CHAP. III.

1 The church deſireth to be joined inſeparably to Chriſt her huſband: 6 Her deliverance out of the wilderneſs.

IN my bed by [g] night I ſought him that my ſoul loved: I ſought him, but I found him not.

2 I will riſe therefore now, and go about in the city, by the ſtreets, and by the open places, and will [h] ſeek him that my ſoul loveth: I ſought him, but I found him not.

3 The [i] watchmen that went about the city found me: to whom I ſaid, Have you ſeen him whom my ſoul loveth?

4 When I had paſt a little from them, then I found him whom my ſoul loved: I took hold on him, and left him not, till I had brought him into my mother's houſe, into the chamber of her that conceived me.

5 [k] I charge you, O daughters of Jeruſalem, by the roes and by the hinds of the field, that ye ſtir not up, nor waken my love until ſhe pleaſe.

2 Thy teeth are like a flock of ſheep in good order, which go up from the waſhing: which every one bring out twins, and none is barren among them.

3 Thy lips are like a thread of ſcarlet, and thy talk is comely: thy temples are within thy locks as a piece of a pomegranate.

4 Thy neck is as the tower of David, built for defence: a thouſand ſhields hang therein, and all the targets of the ſtrong men.

5 Thy two [s] breaſts are as two young roes that are twins, feeding among the lilies.

6 Until the day break, and the ſhadows flee away, I will go into the mountain of myrrh, and to the mountain of incenſe.

7 Thou art all fair, my love, and there is no ſpot in thee.

8 [t] Come with me from Lebanon, my ſpouſe, even with me from Lebanon, and look from the top of Amanah, from the top of Shenir, and Hermon, from the dens of the lions, and from the mountains of the leopards.

9 My [u] ſiſter, my ſpouſe, thou haſt wounded mine heart: thou haſt wounded mine heart with one of thine [w] eyes, and with a chain of thy neck.

10 My ſiſter, my ſpouſe, how fair is thy love! how much better is thy love than wine, and the ſavour of thine ointments than all ſpices!

11 Thy [x] lips, my ſpouſe, drop as honeycombs: honey and milk are under thy tongue, and the ſavour of thy garments is as the ſavour of Lebanon.

12 My ſiſter, my ſpouſe, is as a garden incloſed, as a ſpring ſhut up, and a fountain ſealed up.

13 Thy plants are as an orchard of pomegranates with ſweet fruits, as camphire, ſpikenard,

14 Even ſpikenard and ſaffron, calamus and cinnamon, with all the trees of incenſe, myrrh and aloes, with all the chief ſpices.

I AM come into my [a] garden, my ſiſter, my ſpouſe: I gathered my myrrh with my ſpice: I ate my honeycomb with mine honey, I drank my wine with my milk: eat, O friends, drink, and make you merry, O well-beloved.

2 [b] I ſleep, but mine heart waketh, it is the voice of my well-beloved that knocketh, ſaying, Open unto me, my ſiſter, my love, my dove, my undefiled: for mine head is full of dew, and my locks with the drops of the [c] night.

3 I have put off my [d] coat, how ſhall I put it on? I have waſhed my feet, how ſhall I defile them?

4 My well-beloved put in his hand by the hole of the door, and mine † heart was affectioned toward him.

† Heb. my bowels were moved towards him.

5 I roſe up to open to my well-beloved, and mine hands did drop down myrrh, and my [e] fingers pure myrrh upon the handles of the bar.

6 I opened to my well-beloved: but my well-beloved was gone and paſt: mine heart was gone when he did ſpeak: I ſought him, but I could not find him: I called him, but he anſwered me not.

7 The [f] watchmen that went about the city, found me, they ſmote me, and wounded me: the watchmen of the walls took away my vail from me.

8 I charge you, [g] O daughters of Jeruſalem, if you find my well-beloved, that you tell him that I am ſick of love.

9 [h] O the faireſt among women, what is thy well-beloved more than another well-beloved? what is thy well-beloved more than another lover, that thou doſt ſo charge us?

10 My well-beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefeſt of ten thouſand.

11 His [i] head is as fine gold, his locks curled, and black as a raven.

12 His eyes are like doves upon the rivers of waters, which are waſhed with milk, and remain by the full veſſels.

13 His cheeks are as a bed of ſpices, and as ſweet flowers, and his lips like lilies dropping down pure myrrh.

14 His hands as rings of gold ſet with the † chryſolite, his belly like white ivory covered with ſapphires.

15 His legs are as pillars of marble ſet upon ſockets of fine gold: his countenance as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars.

16 His mouth is as ſweet things, and he is wholly delectable: this is my well-beloved, and this is my lover, O daughters of Jeruſalem.

17 [k] O the faireſt among women, whither is thy beloved gone? whither is thy well-beloved turned aſide, that we may ſeek him with thee?

3 Thou art beautiful, my love, [m] as Tirzah, comely as Jeruſalem, terrible as an army with banners.

4 [n] Turn away thine eyes from me: for they overcome me: * thine hair is like a flock of goats which look down from Gilead.

* Ch. 4. 1.

5 Thy teeth are like a flock of ſheep which go up from the waſhing, which every one bring out twins, and none is barren among them.

6 Thy temples are within thy locks as a piece of a pomegranate.

7 There are [o] threeſcore queens and fourſcore concubines, and of damſels without number.

8 But my dove is alone, and my undefiled, ſhe is the only daughter of her mother, and ſhe is dear to her that bare her: the daughters have ſeen her, and counted her bleſſed, even the queens and the concubines, and they have praiſed her.

9 [p] Who is ſhe that looketh forth as the morning, fair as the moon, pure as the ſun, terrible as an army with banners!

10 I went down to the [q] garden of nuts, to ſee the fruits of the valley, to ſee if the vine budded, and if the pomegranates flouriſhed.

11 I [r] knew nothing, my ſoul ſet me [s] as the chariots of my noble people.

ISAIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

God, according to his promiſe, Deut. 18. 15. that he would never leave his church deſtitute of a prophet, hath from time to time accompliſhed the ſame: whoſe office was not only to declare to the people the things to come, whereof they had a ſpecial revelation, but alſo to interpret and declare the law, and to apply particularly ticularly the doctrine contained briefly therein, to the utility and profit of thoſe to whom they thought it chiefly to appertain, and as the time and ſtate of things required. And principally in the declaration of the law, they had reſpect to three things, which were the ground of their doctrine: Firſt, to the doctrine contained briefly in the two tables: ſecondly, to the promiſes and threatenings of the law: and thirdly, to the covenant of grace and reconciliation, grounded upon our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, who is the end of the law; whereunto they neither added nor diminiſhed, but faithfully expounded the ſenſe and meaning thereof. And according as God gave them underſtanding of things, they applied the promiſes particularly for the comfort of the church and the members thereof, and alſo denounced the menaces againſt the enemies of the ſame: not for any care or regard to the enemies, but to aſſure the church of their ſafeguard by the deſtruction of their enemies. And as touching the doctrine of reconciliation, they have more clearly intreated it than Moſes, and ſet forth more lively Jeſus Chriſt, in whom the covenant of reconciliation was made. In all theſe things, Iſaiah did excel all the prophets, and was moſt diligent to ſet out the ſame, with moſt vehement admonitions, reprehenſions, and conſolations: ever applying the doctrine as he ſaw that the diſeaſe of the people required. He declareth alſo many notable prophecies which he had received of God, as touching the promiſe of the Meſſiah, his office, and his kingdom. Alſo of the favour of God toward his church, the vocation of the Gentiles, and their union with the Jews, which are as moſt principal points contained in this book, and a gathering of his ſermons that he had preached: which after certain days that they had ſtood upon the temple-door (for the manner of the prophets was to ſet up the ſum of their doctrine for certain days, that the people might the better mark it, as Iſa. 8. 1. and Hab. 2. 2.) the prieſts took it down, and reſerved it among their regiſters: and ſo, by God's providence, theſe books were preſerved as a monument to the church for ever. As touching his perſon and time, he was of the king's ſtock (for Amos his father was brother to Azariah king of Judah, as the beſt writers agree) and propheſied for more than ſixty four years, from the time of Uzziah unto the reign of Manaſſeh, whoſe father-in-law he was (as the Hebrews write) and of whom he was put to death. And in reading of the prophets, this one thing among others is to be obſerved, that they ſpeak of things to come as though they were now paſt, becauſe of the certainty thereof, and that they could not but come to paſs, becauſe God had ordained them in his ſecret counſel, and ſo revealed them to his prophets.

CHAP. I.

2 Iſaiah reproveth the Jews of their ingratitude and ſtubbornneſs, that neither for benefits nor puniſhments would amend. 11 He ſheweth why their ſacrifices are rejected, and wherein God's true ſervice ſtandeth. 25 He propheſieth of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, 24 and of the reſtitution thereof.

fed beaſts: and I [s] deſire not the blood of bullocks, nor of lambs, nor of goats.

12 When ye come to appear before me, who required this of your hands to tread in my courts?

13 Bring no more oblations [t] in vain: incenſe is an abomination unto me: I cannot ſuffer your new moons, nor ſabbaths, nor ſolemn days (it is iniquity) nor ſolemn aſſemblies.

14 My ſoul hateth your new [u] moons, and your appointed feaſts: they are a burden unto me: I am weary to bear them.

15 And when you ſhall ſtretch out your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you: and though ye make many prayers, I will not hear: for your hands are [x] full of blood.

16 [y] Waſh you, make you clean: take away the evil of your works from before mine eyes: ceaſe to do evil,

17 Learn to do [z] well: ſeek judgment, relieve the oppreſſed, judge the fatherleſs, and defend the widow.

18 Come now, [a] and let us reaſon together, ſaith the Lord: though your ſins were as crimſon, they ſhall be made [b] white as ſnow: though they were red like ſcarlet, they ſhall be as wool:

19 If ye [c] conſent and obey, ye ſhall eat the good things of the land.

20 But if ye refuſe and be rebellious, ye ſhall be devoured with the ſword: for the mouth of the Lord hath ſpoken it.

21 How is the [d] faithful city become an harlot! it was full of judgment, and juſtice lodged therein, but now [e] they are murderers.

22 [f] Thy ſilver is become droſs: thy wine is mixed with water.

23 Thy princes are rebellious and companions of [g] thieves: every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards: they judge not the fatherleſs, neither doth the widow's cauſe come before them.

24 Therefore ſaith the Lord God of hoſts, the [h] mighty one of Iſrael, Ah, I will [i] eaſe me of mine adverſaries, and avenge me of mine enemies.

25 Then I will turn mine hand upon thee, and burn out thy droſs, till it [k] be pure, and take away all thy tin.

26 [l] And I will reſtore thy judges as at the firſt, and thy counſellors as at the beginning: afterward ſhalt thou be called a city of righteouſneſs, and a faithful city.

27 Zion ſhall be redeemed in judgment, and they that return in her, in [m] juſtice.

28 And the [n] deſtruction of the tranſgreſſors and of the ſinners ſhall be together: and they that forſake the Lord ſhall be conſumed.

29 For they ſhall be confounded for the [o] oaks which ye have deſired, and ye ſhall be aſhamed of the gardens that ye have choſen.

30 For ye ſhall be as an oak, whoſe leaf fadeth: and as a garden that hath no water.

31 And the ſtrong ſhall be as [p] tow, and the maker thereof as a ſpark: and they ſhall both burn together, and none ſhall quench them.

CHAP. II.

2 The church ſhall be reſtored by Chriſt, and the Gentiles called. 6 The puniſhment of the rebellious and obſtinate.

THE word that Iſaiah the ſon of Amos, ſaw upon Judah and Jeruſalem.

2 * It [q] ſhall be in the laſt days, that the mountain of the houſe of the Lord ſhall be prepared in the top of the mountains, and [r] ſhall be exalted above the hills, and all nations ſhall [s] flow unto it. * Mich. 4. 1.

3 And many people ſhall go, and ſay, Come, and let us go up to the [t] mountain of the Lord, and to the houſe of the God of Jacob, and he will teach us his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the * [u] law ſhall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from [w] Jeruſalem. * Mich. 4. 2.

4 And [x] he ſhall judge among the nations, and [y] rebuke many people: they ſhall [z] break their

---

[s] Though God commended theſe ſacrifices for a time, as aids and exerciſes of their faith: yet becauſe the people had not faith nor repentance, God deteſteth them, as Pſalm 50. 13. Jer. 6. 20. Amos 5. 22. Micah 6. 7.

[t] Without faith and repentance.

[u] Your ſacrifices offered in the new moons and feaſts: he condemneth hereby hypocrites, which think to pleaſe God with ceremonies, and they themſelves are void of faith and mercy.

[x] He ſheweth, that where men be given to avarice, deceit, cruelty, and extortion, which is meant by blood, there God will ſhew his anger, and not accept them, though they ſeem never ſo holy, as ch. 59. 3.

[y] By this outward waſhing, he meaneth the ſpiritual: exhorting the Jews to repent and amend their lives.

[z] This kind of reaſoning by the ſecond table, the ſcriptures uſe in many places againſt the hypocrites, who pretend moſt holineſs and religion in word, but when their charity and love toward their brethren ſhould appear, they declare that they have neither faith nor religion.

[a] To know if I do accuſe you without a cauſe.

[b] Leſt ſinners ſhould pretend any rigour on God's part, he only willeth them to be pure in heart, and he will forgive all their ſins, were they never ſo many or great.

[c] He ſheweth, that whatſoever adverſity a man endureth, it ought to be attributed to his own incredulity and diſobedience.

[d] That is, Jeruſalem, which had promiſed fidelity unto me, as a wife to her huſband.

[e] Given to covetouſneſs and extortion, which he ſignified before by blood, ver. 15.

[f] Whatſoever was pure in thee before, is now corrupt, though thou have an outward ſhew.

[g] That is, they maintain the wicked and the extortioners, and not only do not puniſh them, but are themſelves ſuch.

[h] When God will ſhew himſelf merciful to his church, he he calleth himſelf, The Holy one of Iſrael: but when he hath to do with his enemies, he is called Mighty, as againſt whom no power is able to reſiſt.

[i] I will take vengeance of mine adverſaries the Jews, and ſo ſatisfy my deſire by puniſhing them. Which thing yet he doth with a grief, becauſe of his covenant.

[k] Leſt the faithful among them ſhould be overcome with this threatening, he addeth this conſolation.

[l] It is only the work of God to purify the heart of man, which thing he doth becauſe of his promiſe made concerning the ſalvation of his church.

[m] By juſtice is meant, God's faithful promiſe, which is the cauſe of the deliverance of his church.

[n] The wicked ſhall not be partakers of God's promiſe, Pſalm 92. 9.

[o] That is, the trees and pleaſant places, where ye commit idolatry, which was forbidden, Deut. 16. 22.

[p] The falſe god, wherein ye put your confidence, ſhall be conſumed as eaſily as a piece of tow.

[q] The decree and ordinance of God, touching the reſtoration of the church, which is chiefly meant of the time of Chriſt.

[r] In an evident place to be ſeen and diſcerned.

[s] When the kingdom of Chriſt ſhall be enlarged by the preaching of the doctrine. Here alſo is declared the zeal of the children of God, when they are called.

[t] Alluding to mount Zion, where the viſible church then was.

[u] Meaning, the whole doctrine of ſalvation.

[w] This was accompliſhed when the goſpel was firſt preached in Jeruſalem, and from thence went through all the world.

[x] The Lord, which is Chriſt, ſhall have all power given him.

[y] They that may acknowledge their ſins and turn to him.

[z] He ſheweth the fruit of the peace which the goſpel ſhould bring: to wit, that men ſhould do good one to another, whereas before they were enemies.

their ſwords alſo into mattocks, and their ſpears to ſcythes: nation ſhall not lift up a ſword againſt nation, neither ſhall they learn to [a] fight any more.

5 O houſe of Jacob, come ye, and let us [b] walk in the light of the Lord.

6 Surely thou [c] haſt forſaken thy people, the houſe of Jacob, becauſe they are [d] full of the eaſt manners, and are ſorcerers as the Philiſtines, [e] and abound with ſtrange children.

7 Their land alſo was full of [f] ſilver and gold, and there was no end of their treaſures: and their land was full of horſes, and their chariots were infinite.

8 Their land alſo was full of idols: they worſhipped the work of their own hands, which their own fingers have made.

9 And a man bowed himſelf, and a man [g] humbled himſelf: therefore [h] ſpare them not.

10 Enter into the rock, and hide thee in the duſt from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his Majeſty.

11 The high look of man ſhall be humbled, and the loftineſs of men ſhall be abaſed, and the Lord only ſhall be exalted [i] in that day.

12 For the day of the Lord of hoſts is upon all the proud and haughty, and upon all that is exalted: and it ſhall be made low.

13 Even upon all the cedars of Lebanon, that are high and exalted, and upon all the oaks of Baſhan:

14 And upon all the high [k] mountains, and upon all the hills that are lifted up:

15 And upon every high tower, and upon every ſtrong wall:

16 And upon [l] all the ſhips of Tarſhiſh, and upon all pleaſant pictures.

17 And the haughtineſs of men ſhall be brought low, and the loftineſs of men ſhall be abaſed, and the Lord ſhall only be exalted in that day.

18 And the idols ſhall he utterly deſtroy.

*Hoſ. 10. 8. Luke 23. 30. Rev. 6. 16. & 9. 6.

19 Then they ſhall go * into the holes of the rocks, and into the caves of the earth, from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his Majeſty, when he ſhall ariſe to deſtroy the earth.

20 At that day man ſhall caſt away his ſilver idols and his golden idols (which they had made themſelves to worſhip them) [m] to the moles and to the bats,

21 To go into the holes of the rocks, and unto the tops of the ragged rocks, from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his majeſty, when he ſhall ariſe to deſtroy the earth.

22 Ceaſe you from the man whoſe [n] breath is in his noſtrils: for wherein is he to be eſteemed?

CHAP. III.

1 For the ſin of the people God will take away the wiſe men, and give them fooliſh princes. 14 The covetouſneſs of the governors. 16 The pride of the women.

FOR lo, the Lord God of hoſts will take away from Jeruſalem and from Judah the [o] ſtay and the ſtrength: even all the ſtay of bread, and all the ſtay of water:

2 The ſtrong man, and the man of war, the [p] judge and the prophet, the prudent and the aged:

3 The captain of fifty, and the honourable, and the counſellor, and the cunning artificer, and the eloquent [q] man.

4 And I will appoint [r] children to be their princes, and babes ſhall rule over them.

5 The people ſhall be [s] oppreſſed one of another: and every one by his neighbour: the children ſhall preſume againſt the ancient, and the vile againſt the honourable.

6 When every one ſhall [t] take hold of his brother of the houſe of his father, and ſay, Thou haſt cloathing: thou ſhalt be our prince, and let this fall be under thine hand:

7 In that day he ſhall [u] ſwear, ſaying, I cannot be an helper: for there is no bread in mine houſe, nor cloathing: therefore make me no prince of the people.

8 Doubtleſs Jeruſalem is fallen, and Judah is fallen down, becauſe their tongue and works are againſt the Lord, to provoke the eyes of his glory.

9 The [w] trial of their countenance teſtifieth againſt them: yea, they declare their ſins as Sodom: they hide them not. Wo be unto their ſouls: for they have rewarded evil unto themſelves.

10 [x] Say ye, Surely it ſhall be well with the juſt: for they ſhall eat the fruit of their works.

11 Wo be to the wicked, it ſhall be evil with him: for the reward of his hands ſhall be given him.

---

[a] He ſpeaketh not againſt the uſe of weapons and lawful war, but ſheweth how the hearts of the godly ſhall be affected one toward another: which peace and love doth begin and grow in this life, but ſhall be perfected when we are joined with our head Chriſt Jeſus.

[b] Seeing the Gentiles will be ſo ready, make you haſte, and ſhew them the way to worſhip God.

[c] The prophet ſeeing the ſmall hope that the Jews would convert, complaineth to God, as though he had utterly forſaken them for their ſins.

[d] Full of the corruptions that reigned chiefly in the Eaſt parts.

[e] They altogether give themſelves to the faſhions of other nations.

[f] The prophet firſt condemned their ſuperſtition and idolatry: next, their covetouſneſs; and thirdly, their vain truſt in worldly means.

[g] He noteth the nature of the idolaters, which are never ſatisfied in their ſuperſtitions.

[h] Thus the prophet ſpake, being inflamed with the zeal of God's glory, and that he might awe them with God's judgments.

[i] Meaning, as ſoon as God ſhall begin to execute his judgments.

[k] By high trees and mountains, are meant them that are proud and lofty, and think themſelves moſt ſtrong in this world.

[l] He condemneth their vain confidence, which they had in ſtrong holds and in their rich merchandize, which brought in vain pleaſures, wherewith men's minds became effeminate.

[m] They ſhall caſt them into moſt vile and filthy places, when they perceive that they are not able to help them.

[n] Caſt off your vain confidence of man, whoſe life is ſo frail, that if his noſe be ſtopped, he is dead, and conſider that you have to do with God.

[o] Becauſe they truſted in their abundance and proſperity, he ſheweth that they ſhould be taken from them.

[p] The temporal governor, and the miniſter.

[q] By theſe he meaneth, that God would take away every thing that was in any eſtimation, and wherein they had any occaſion to vaunt themſelves.

[r] Not only in age, but in wit, manners, knowledge and ſtrength.

[s] For lack of good regiment and order.

[t] He ſheweth that this plague ſhall be ſo horrible, that contrary to the common manner of men, which by nature are ambitious, none ſhall be found able or willing to be their governor.

[u] Fear ſhall rather cauſe him to forſwear himſelf, than to take ſuch a dangerous charge upon him.

[w] When God ſhall examine their deeds whereupon they now ſet an impudent face, he ſhall find the mark of their impiety in their forehead.

[x] Be ye that are godly, aſſured, that God will defend you in the midſt of theſe troubles.

12 [y] Children are extortioners of my people, and women have rule over them: O my people, they that lead thee cauſe thee to err, and deſtroy the way of thy paths.

13 The Lord ſtandeth up to plead, yea, he ſtandeth to judge the people.

14 The Lord ſhall enter into judgment with the [z] ancients of his people, and the princes thereof: for ye have eaten up the vineyard: the ſpoil of the poor is in your houſes.

15 What have ye to do that ye beat my people to pieces, [a] and grind the faces of the poor, ſaith the Lord, even the Lord of hoſts?

16 The Lord alſo ſaith, [b] Becauſe the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with [c] ſtretched-out necks, and with [d] wandering eyes, walking and [e] mincing as they go, and making a [f] tinkling with their feet,

17 Therefore ſhall the Lord make the heads of the daughters of Zion bald, and the Lord ſhall diſcover their ſecret parts.

18 In that day ſhall the Lord take away the ornament of the ſlippers, and the cauls, and the round tires,

19 The ſweet balls, and the bracelets, and the bonnets,

20 The tires of the head, and the ſlops, and the head-bands, and the tablets, and the ear-rings,

21 The rings, and the mufflers,

22 The coſtly apparel, and the veils, and the wimples, and the criſpin pins,

23 And the glaſſes, and the fine linen, and the hoods, and the [g] lawns,

24 And inſtead of ſweet ſavour, there ſhall be ſtink: and inſtead of a girdle, a rent: and inſtead of dreſſing of the hair, baldneſs: and inſtead of a ſtomacher, a girding of ſackcloth: and burning inſtead of beauty.

25 Thy men [h] ſhall fall by the ſword, and thy ſtrength in the battle.

26 Then ſhall her gates mourn and lament, and ſhe being deſolate, ſhall ſit upon the ground.

CHAP. IV.

1 The ſmall remnant of men after the deſtruction of Jeruſalem. 2 The graces of God upon them that remain.

AND in that day ſhall [i] ſeven women take hold of one man, ſaying, We will eat our own bread, and we will wear our own garments: only [k] let us be called by thy name, and take away our [l] reproach.

2 In that day ſhall the [m] bud of the Lord be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the earth ſhall be excellent and pleaſant for them that are eſcaped of Iſrael.

3 Then he that ſhall be left in Zion, and he that ſhall remain in Jeruſalem, ſhall be called Holy, and every one ſhall be [n] written among the living in Jeruſalem.

4 When the Lord ſhall waſh the filthineſs of the daughters of Zion, and purge the [o] blood of Jeruſalem out of the midſt thereof by the ſpirit of [p] judgment, and by the ſpirit of burning.

5 And the Lord ſhall create upon every place of mount Zion, and upon the aſſemblies thereof, [q] a cloud and ſmoak by day, and the ſhining of a flaming fire by night: for upon all the [r] glory ſhall be a defence,

6 And a covering ſhall be for a ſhadow in the day for the heat, and a place of refuge and a covert for the ſtorm, [r] and for the rain.

CHAP. V.

3 Under the ſimilitude of the vine he deſcribeth the ſtate of the people. 8 Of their avarice. 11 Their drunkenneſs. 13 Of their captivity.

NOW will [t] I ſing to my [u] Beloved a ſong of my beloved to his vineyard. * My beloved had a [w] vineyard in a very fruitful hill.

* Jer. 2. 21
Matt. 21. 33

2 And he hedged it, and gathered out the ſtones of it, and he planted it with the beſt plants, [x] and he built a tower in the midſt thereof, and made a wine-preſs therein: then he looked that it ſhould bring forth grapes: but it brought [y] forth wild grapes.

3 Now therefore, O inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and men of Judah, judge, I pray you, [z] between me and my vineyard.

4 What could I have done any more to my vineyard that I have not done unto it? why have I looked that it ſhould bring forth grapes, and it bringeth forth wild grapes?

5 And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard: I [a] will take away the hedge thereof,

---

[y] Becauſe the wicked people were more addicted to their princes than to the commandments of God, he ſheweth that he would give them ſuch princes, by whom they ſhould have no help, but that ſhould be manifeſt tokens of his wrath, becauſe they ſhould be fools and effeminate.

[z] Meaning, that the rulers and governors had deſtroyed his church, and not preſerved it according to their duty.

[a] That is, ye ſhew all cruelty againſt them.

[b] He menaceth the people, becauſe of the arrogancy and pride of their women, which gave themſelves to all wantonneſs and diſſolution.

[c] Which declared their pride.

[d] As a ſign that they were not chaſte.

[e] Which ſhewed their wantonneſs.

[f] They delighted then in ſlippers that did creak, or had little plates ſewed upon them, which tinkled as they went.

[g] In rehearſing all theſe things particularly, he ſheweth the lightneſs and vanity of ſuch as cannot be content with comely apparel according to their degree.

[h] Meaning, that God will not only puniſh the women, but their huſbands, which have ſuffered this diſſoluteneſs, and alſo the commonweal, which hath not remedied it.

[i] When God ſhall execute this vengeance, there ſhall not be one man found to be the head to many women; and they, contrary to womanly ſhamefacedneſs, ſhall ſeek unto men, and offer themſelves to any condition.

[k] Be thou our huſband, and let us be called thy wives.

[l] For ſo they thought it to be without an head and huſband.

[m] He comforteth the church in this deſolation, which ſhall ſpring up like a bud, ſignifying that God's graces ſhould be as plentiful toward the faithful, as though they ſprang out of the earth, as chap. 45. 8. Some by the bud of the Lord, mean Chriſt.

[n] He alludeth to the book of life, whereof read Exod. 32. 32. meaning, God's ſecret counſel, wherein his elect are predeſtinated to life everlaſting.

[o] That is, the cruelty, extortion, avarice, and all wickedneſs.

[p] When things ſhall be redreſſed that were amiſs.

[q] He alludeth to the pillar of the cloud, Exod. 13. 21. meaning, that God's favour and protection ſhould appear in every place.

[r] The faithful are called the glory of God, becauſe his image, and tokens of his grace ſhine in them.

[s] God promiſeth to be the defence of his church againſt all troubles and dangers.

[t] The prophet by this ſong doth ſet before the people's eyes their ingratitude and God's mercies.

[u] That is, to God.

[w] Meaning, that he had planted his church in a place moſt plentiful and abundant.

[x] He ſpared no diligence nor coſt.

[y] In the ſeventh verſe he declareth what they were.

[z] He maketh them judges in their own cauſe, foraſmuch as it was evident that they were the cauſe of their own ruin.

[a] I will take no more care for it: meaning, that he would take from them his word and miniſters, and all other comforts, and ſend them contrary plagues.

of, and it ſhall be eaten up: I will break the wall thereof, and it ſhall be trodden down:

6 And I will lay it waſte: it ſhall not be cut, nor digged, but briars and thorns ſhall grow up: I will alſo command the clouds that they rain no rain upon it.

7 ¶ Surely the vineyard of the Lord of hoſts is the houſe of Iſrael, and the men of Judah are his pleaſant plant, and he looked for [b] judgment, but behold oppreſſion: for righteouſneſs, and behold [c] a crying.

8 Wo unto them that join houſe to houſe, and lay field to field, till there be no [d] place, that ye may be placed by yourſelves in the midſt of the earth.

9 This is in mine [e] ears, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Surely many houſes ſhall be deſolate, even great and fair without inhabitant.

10 For ten acres of vines ſhall yield one [f] bath, and the ſeed of an [g] omer ſhall yield an [h] ephah.

11 ¶ Wo unto them that [i] riſe up early to follow drunkenneſs: and to them that continue until night, [k] till the wine do inflame them.

12 And the harp and viol, timbrel and pipe, and wine are in their feaſts: but they regard not the [l] work of the Lord, neither conſider the work of his hands.

13 Therefore my people [m] is gone into captivity, becauſe they had [n] no knowledge, and the glory thereof are men famiſhed, and the multitude thereof is dried up with thirſt.

14 Therefore [o] hell hath enlarged itſelf: and hath opened his mouth without meaſure, and their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that rejoiceth among them, ſhall deſcend into it.

15 And man ſhall be brought down, and man ſhall be humbled, even the eyes of the proud ſhall be humbled.

16 And the Lord of hoſts ſhall be exalted in judgment, and the holy God ſhall be ſanctified in juſtice.

17 Then ſhall [p] the lambs feed after their manner, and the ſtrangers ſhall eat the deſolate places of the fat.

18 ¶ Wo unto them that draw iniquity with [q] cords of vanity, and ſin as with cart-ropes:

19 Which ſay, [r] Let him make ſpeed: let him haſten his work, that we may ſee it: and let the counſel of the holy One of Iſrael draw near and come, that we may know it.

20 Wo unto them that ſpeak good of evil, [s] and evil of good: which put darkneſs for light, and light for darkneſs: that put bitter for ſweet, and ſweet for ſour.

21 Wo unto them that are [t] wiſe in their own eyes, and prudent in their own ſight.

22 Wo unto them that are [u] mighty to drink wine, and to them that are ſtrong to pour in ſtrong drink:

23 Which juſtify the wicked for a reward, and take away the righteouſneſs of the righteous from him.

24 Therefore as the flame of fire devoureth the ſtubble, and as the chaff is conſumed of the flame: ſo their [w] root ſhall be as rottenneſs, and their bud ſhall riſe up like duſt, becauſe they have caſt off the law of the Lord of hoſts, and contemned the word of the holy One of Iſrael.

25 Therefore is the wrath of the Lord kindled againſt his people, and he hath ſtretched out his [x] hand upon them, and hath ſmitten them that the mountains did tremble: and their carcaſes were torn in the midſt of the ſtreets, and for all this his wrath was not turned away, but his hand was ſtretched out ſtill.

26 And he will lift up a ſign [y] unto the nations afar, and will hiſs unto them from the end of the earth: and behold, they ſhall come haſtily with ſpeed.

27 None ſhall [z] faint nor fall among them: none ſhall ſlumber nor ſleep, neither ſhall the girdle of his loins be looſed, nor [a] the latchet of his ſhoes be broken:

28 Whoſe arrows ſhall be ſharp, and all his bows bent: his horſe-hoofs ſhall be thought like flint, and his wheels like a whirlwind.

29 His roaring ſhall be like a lion, and he ſhall roar like lions whelps: they ſhall [b] roar, and lay hold of the prey: they ſhall take it away, and none ſhall deliver it.

30 And in that day they ſhall roar upon them, as the roaring of the ſea: and if [c] they look unto the earth, behold, darkneſs and ſorrow, and the light ſhall be darkened in their [d] ſky.

CHAP. VI.

IN

---

[b] Judgment and righteouſneſs are true fruits of the fear of God, and therefore in the cruel oppreſſors there is no religion.

[c] Of them that are oppreſſed.

[d] To wit, for the poor to dwell in.

[e] I have heard the complaint and cry of the poor.

[f] Which containeth about ten pottles: ſo that every acre ſhould but yield one pottle.

[g] Which containeth an hundred pottles.

[h] An ephah containeth ten pottles, and is in dry things, as much as a bath is in liquors.

[i] That ſpare no pain nor diligence to follow their luſts.

[k] Which are never weary of their rioting and exceſſive pleaſures: but uſe all means to provoke to the ſame.

[l] They regard not the providence of God over them, nor for what end he hath created them.

[m] That is, ſhall certainly go: for ſo the prophet uſed to ſpeak, as though the thing which ſhall come to paſs, were done already.

[n] Becauſe they would not obey the word of God.

[o] Meaning, the grave ſhall ſwallow up them that ſhall die for hunger and thirſt, and yet for all this great deſtruction it ſhall never be ſatiate.

[p] God comforteth the poor lambs of his church, which had been ſtrangers in other countries, promiſing that they ſhould dwell in thoſe places again, whereof they had been deprived by the fat and cruel tyrants.

[q] Which uſe all allurements, occaſions and excuſes to harden their conſcience in ſin.

[r] He ſheweth what are the words of the wicked, when they are menaced with God's judgments, 2 Pet. 3. 4.

[s] Which are not aſhamed of ſin, nor care for honeſty, but are grown to a deſperate impiety.

[t] Which are contemners of all doctrine and admonition.

[u] Which are never weary, but ſhew their ſtrength, and brag in gluttony and drunkenneſs.

[w] Both they and their poſterity, ſo that nothing ſhall be left.

[x] He ſheweth, that God had ſo ſore puniſhed this people, that the dumb creatures, if they had been ſo plagued, would have been more ſenſible, and therefore his plagues muſt continue, till they begin to feel them.

[y] He will make the Babylonians to come againſt them at his beck, and to fight under his ſtandard.

[z] They ſhall be prompt and luſty to execute God's vengeance.

[a] The enemy ſhall have no impediment.

[b] Whereby is declared the cruelty of the enemy.

[c] The Jews ſhall find no ſuccour.

[d] In the land of Judah.

IN the year of the death of king Uzziah, [e] I ſaw alſo the Lord ſitting upon an [f] high throne, and lifted up, and the lower [g] parts thereof filled the temple.

2 The [h] ſeraphims ſtood upon it: every one had ſix wings: with twain he covered his [i] face, and with twain he covered his [k] feet, and with twain he did [l] fly.

3 And one cried to another, and ſaid, [m] Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hoſts: the whole [n] world is full of his glory.

4 And the lintels of the door cheeks [o] moved at the voice of him that cried, and the houſe was filled with ſmoak.

5 Then I ſaid, [p] Wo is me: for I am undone, becauſe I am of polluted lips, and I dwell in the midſt of a people of polluted lips: for mine eyes have ſeen the King, and Lord of hoſts.

6 Then flew one of the ſeraphims unto me with an hot coal in his hand, which he had taken from the [q] altar with the tongs:

7 And he touched my mouth, and ſaid, Lo, this hath touched thy lips, and thine iniquity ſhall be taken away, and thy [r] ſin ſhall be purged.

8 And I heard the voice of the Lord, ſaying, Whom ſhall I ſend? and who ſhall go for us? Then I ſaid, Here am I, ſend me.

9 And he ſaid, Go, and ſay to this people, [s] Ye ſhall hear indeed, but ye ſhall not underſtand: ye ſhall plainly ſee and not perceive.

10 Make the heart of this people fat, make their ears heavy, and ſhut their eyes, leſt they ſee with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and underſtand with their hearts, and convert, and he heal them.

11 Then ſaid I, Lord, [t] how long? And he anſwered, Until the cities be waſted without inhabitant, and the houſes without man: and the land be utterly deſolate,

12 And the Lord have removed men far away, and there be a great deſolation in the midſt of the land.

13 But yet in it ſhall be [u] a tenth, and ſhall return, and ſhall be eaten up as an elm, [w] or as an oak, which have a ſubſtance in them when they caſt their leaves: ſo the holy ſeed ſhall be the ſubſtance thereof.

AND in the days of * Ahaz, the ſon of Jotham, the ſon of Uzziah king of Judah, Rezin the king of ‡ Aram [x] came up, and Pekah the ſon of Remaliah king of Iſrael, to Jeruſalem, to fight againſt it: but he could not overcome it.

3 ¶ Then ſaid the Lord unto Iſaiah, Go forth now to meet Ahaz (thou and [b] Shear-jaſhub) at the end of the conduit of the upper pool, in the path of the fuller's field,

4 And ſay unto him, Take heed, and be ſtill: fear not, neither be faint-hearted for the two tails of theſe ſmoaking [c] firebrands, for the furious wrath of Rezin, and of Aram, and of Remaliah's ſon:

5 Becauſe Aram hath taken wicked counſel againſt thee, and Ephraim and Remaliah's ſon, ſaying,

6 Let us go up againſt Judah, and let us waken them up, and make a breach therein for us, and ſet a king in the midſt thereof, even the ſon of [d] Tabeal.

7 Thus ſaith the Lord God, It ſhall not ſtand, neither ſhall it be.

[i] Signifying, that they were not able to endure the brightneſs of God's glory.

[k] Whereby was declared, that man was not able to ſee the brightneſs of God in them.

[l] Which thing declared the prompt obedience of the angels to execute God's commandment.

[m] This oft repetition ſignifieth, that the holy angels cannot ſatisfy themſelves in praiſing God: to teach us, that in all our lives we ſhould give ourſelves to the continual praiſe of God.

[n] His glory doth not only appear in the heavens, but through all the world, and therefore all creatures are bound to praiſe him.

[o] Which things were to confirm the prophet, that it was not the voice of man: and by the ſmoak was ſignified the blindneſs that ſhould come upon the Jews.

[p] He ſpeaketh this for two cauſes: the one, becauſe he that was a mortal creature, and therefore had more need to glorify God than the angels, did it not: and the other, becauſe the more near that man approacheth to God, the more doth he know his own ſin and corruption.

[q] Of the burnt-offerings, where the fire never went out.

[r] This declareth that man cannot render true obedience to God, till he have purged us.

[s] Whereby is declared, that for the malice of man, God will not immediately take away his word, but he will cauſe it to be preached to their condemnation, when as they will not learn thereby to obey his will and be ſaved: hereby he exhorteth the miniſters to do their duty, and anſwereth to the wicked murmurers, that through their own malice their heart is hardened, Matt. 13. 14. Acts 28. 26. Rom. 11. 8.

[t] As he was moved with the zeal of God's glory, ſo was he touched with a charitable affection toward the people.

[u] Meaning, the tenth part: or, as ſome write, it was revealed to Iſaiah, for the confirmation of his propheſy, that ten kings ſhould come before their captivity, as were from Uzziah to Zedekiah.

10 ¶ And the Lord ſpake again unto Ahaz, ſaying,

11 Aſk [f] a ſign for thee of the Lord thy God: aſk it either in the depth beneath, or in the height above.

12 But Ahaz ſaid, I will not aſk, neither will I [g] tempt the Lord.

13 Then he ſaid, Hear ye now, O houſe of David, is it a ſmall thing for you to grieve [h] men, that ye will alſo grieve my God?

14 Therefore the Lord [i] himſelf will give you a ſign. Behold, the virgin ſhall conceive and bear a ſon, and ſhe ſhall call his name ‡ Immanuel.

‡ Or, God with us, which name can agree to none but to him that is both God and man.

15 [k] Butter and honey ſhall he eat, till he have knowledge to refuſe the evil, and to chuſe the good.

16 For afore the [l] child ſhall have knowledge to eſchew the evil, and to chuſe the good, the land that thou abhorreſt ſhall be forſaken of both her kings.

17 The Lord ſhall bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon thy father's houſe, the days that have not come, from the day that [m] Ephraim departed from Judah, even the king of [n] Aſſhur.

18 And in that day ſhall the Lord hiſs for the [o] fly that is at the uttermoſt part of the floods of Egypt, and for the bee which is in the land of Aſſhur,

19 And they ſhall come and ſhall light all in the deſolate vallies, and in the holes of the rocks, and upon all thorny places, and upon all buſhy [p] places.

20 In that day ſhall the Lord ſhave with a raſor that is hired, even by them beyond the river, by the king of Aſſhur, the head and the hair of the [q] feet, and it ſhall conſume the beard.

21 And in the ſame day ſhall a man [r] nouriſh a young cow and two ſheep.

22 And for the [s] abundance of milk that they ſhall give, he ſhall eat butter: for butter and honey ſhall every one eat which is left within the land.

23 And at the ſame day every place, wherein ſhall be a thouſand vines, ſhall be at a thouſand pieces of ſilver: ſo it ſhall be for the briers, and for the thorns.

Bef. Chr. 742.

24 With arrows and with [t] bow ſhall one come thither, becauſe all the land ſhall be briers and thorns.

25 But on [u] all the mountains which ſhall be digged with the mattock, there ſhall not come thither the fear of briers and thorns: but they ſhall be for the ſending out of bullocks, and for the treading of ſheep.

MOreover the Lord ſaid unto me, Take thee a [w] great roll, and write in it [x] with a man's pen, make ſpeed to the ſpoil: haſte to the prey.

2 Then I took unto me [y] faithful witneſſes to record, Uriah the prieſt, and Zechariah the ſon of Jeberechiah.

3 After, I came unto the [z] propheteſs, which conceived and bare a ſon. Then ſaid the Lord to me, Call his name ‡ Maher-ſhalalhaſh-baz.

‡ Or, make ſpeed to the ſpoil: or haſte to the prey.

4 For before the [a] child ſhall have knowledge to cry, My father, and my mother, [b] he ſhall take away the riches of Damaſcus, and the ſpoil of Samaria, before the king of Aſſhur.

5 ¶ And the Lord ſpake yet again unto me, ſaying,

6 Becauſe this people hath refuſed the waters of [c] Shiloah that ran ſoftly, and rejoice with Rezin, the ſon of Remaliah,

7 Now therefore, behold, the Lord bringeth up upon them the waters of [d] the river mighty and great, even the king of Aſſhur with all his glory, and he ſhall come up upon all their rivers, and go over all their banks:

8 And ſhall break into Judah; and ſhall overflow and paſs through, and ſhall come up to the [e] neck, and the ſtretching out of his wings ſhall fill the breadth of thy land, O [f] Immanuel.

9 Gather together on heaps, O ye [g] people

[f] For the confirmation of this thing, that thine enemies ſhall be deſtroyed and thou preſerved.

[g] Not to believe God's word without a ſign, is to tempt God; but to refuſe a ſign when God offereth it for the aid and help of our infirmity, is to rebel againſt him.

[h] You think you have to do with men when ye contemn God's meſſengers: but it is God againſt whom you bend yourſelves.

[i] Foraſmuch as thou art unworthy, the Lord for his own promiſe ſake will give a ſign, which ſhall be, that Chriſt the Saviour of his church, and the effect of all ſigns and miracles, ſhall be revealed.

[k] Meaning, that Chriſt is not only God, but man alſo, becauſe he ſhall be nouriſhed as other men, until the age of diſcretion.

[l] Not meaning Chriſt, but any child: for before a child can come to the years of diſcretion, the kings of Samaria and Syria ſhall be deſtroyed.

[m] Since the time that the twelve tribes rebelled under Rehoboam.

[n] In whom thou haſt put thy truſt.

[o] Meaning, the Egyptians: for by reaſon the country is hot and moiſt, it is full of flies, as Aſſyria is full of bees.

[p] Signifying, that no place ſhall be free from them.

[q] That is, that which is from the belly downward: meaning that he would deſtroy both great and ſmall.

[r] He that before had a great number of cattle ſhall be content with one cow and two ſheep.

[s] The number of men ſhall be ſo ſmall, that a few beaſts ſhall be able to nouriſh all abundantly.

[t] As they that go to ſeek wild beaſts among the buſhes.

[u] The mountains, contrary to their wont, ſhall be tilled by ſuch as ſhall flee to them for ſuccour.

[w] That thou mayeſt write in great letters, to the intent it may be more eaſily read.

[x] Meaning, after the common faſhion: becauſe all men might read it.

[y] Becauſe the thing was of great importance, he took theſe two witneſſes, which were of credit with the people, when he ſet this up upon the door of the temple, albeit Uriah was a flattering hypocrite, 2 Kings 16. 11.

[z] Meaning, to his wife: and this was done in a viſion.

[a] Before any child be able to ſpeak.

[b] That is, the army of Aſſyria.

[c] Which was a fountain at the foot of mount Zion, out of the which ran a ſmall river through the city; meaning, that they of Judah diſtruſting their own power, which was ſmall, deſired ſuch power and riches as they ſaw in Syria and Iſrael.

[d] That is, the Aſſyrians, which dwelt beyond Euphrates.

[e] It ſhall be ready to drown them.

[f] He ſpeaketh this to Meſſiah, or Chriſt, in whom the faithful were comforted, and who would not ſuffer his church to be deſtroyed utterly.

10 Take counſel together, yet it ſhall be brought to nought: pronounce a decree, yet it ſhall it not ſtand: for God is with us.

11 For the Lord ſpake thus to me in taking of [h] mine hand, and taught me, that I ſhould not walk in the way of this people, ſaying,

12 Say ye not, A [i] confederacy, to all them to whom this people ſaith a confederacy, neither fear you [k] their fear, nor be afraid of them.

13 [l] Sanctify the Lord of hoſts, and let him be your fear, and let him be your dread.

14 And he ſhall be as a [m] ſanctuary: but as a ſtumbling ſtone, and as a rock to fall upon, to both the houſes of Iſrael, and as a ſnare and as a net to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem.

15 And many among them ſhall ſtumble, and ſhall fall, and ſhall be broken, and ſhall be ſnared, and ſhall be taken.

16 [n] Bind up the teſtimony: ſeal up the law among my diſciples.

17 Therefore I will wait upon the Lord that hath hid his face from the houſe of Jacob, and I will look for him,

18 Behold, I and the [o] children whom the Lord hath given me, are as ſigns and as wonders in Iſrael, [p] by the Lord of hoſts, which dwelleth in mount Zion.

19 And when they ſhall ſay unto you, Enquire at them that have a ſpirit of divination, and at the ſoothſayers which whiſper and murmur, [q] Should not a people enquire at their God? from the [r] living to the dead?

20 To the [s] law, and to the teſtimony: if they ſpeak not according to this word, it is becauſe there is no [t] light in them.

21 Then he that is afflicted and famiſhed, ſhall go to and fro in [u] it: and when he ſhall be hungry, he ſhall even fret himſelf, [w] and curſe his king and his gods, and ſhall look upwards.

22 And when he ſhall look to the earth, behold trouble, and [x] darkneſs, vexation and anguiſh, and he is driven to darkneſs.

CHAP. IX.

1 The vocation of the Gentiles. 6 A prophecy of Chriſt. 14 The deſtruction of the ten tribes for their pride and contempt of God.

YET [y] the darkneſs ſhall not be according to the affliction, [z] that it had when at the firſt he touched lightly the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, nor afterward when he was more grievous by the way of the ſea beyond Jordan, in Galilee of [a] the Gentiles.

2 The people that [b] walked in darkneſs, have ſeen a great [c] light: they that dwelled in the land of the ſhadow of death, upon them hath the [d] light ſhined.

3 Thou haſt [e] multiplied the nation, and not increaſed their joy: they have rejoiced before thee according to the joy in harveſt, and as men rejoice when they divide a ſpoil.

4 For the [f] yoke of their burthen, and the ſtaff of their ſhoulder, and the rod of their oppreſſor haſt thou broken, as in the day of Midian.

5 Surely every battle of the warrior is with noiſe, and with tumbling of garments in blood: but this ſhall be [g] with burning aud devouring of fire.

6 For unto us a child is born, and unto us a ſon is given: and the government is upon his ſhoulder, and he ſhall call his name Wonderful, Counſellor, The mighty God, The everlaſting [h] Father, The Prince of Peace.

7 The increaſe of his government and peace ſhall have no end, he ſhall ſit upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom to order it, and to ſtabliſh it with judgment and with juſtice, from henceforth, even for ever: [i] the zeal of the Lord of hoſts will perform this.

8 ¶ The Lord hath ſent a word into Jacob, and it hath lighted upon [k] Iſrael.

9 And all the people ſhall know, even Ephraim, and the inhabitant of Samaria, that ſay in the pride and preſumption of the heart,

[k] Meaning, that they ſhould not fear the thing that they feared, which have no hope in God.

[l] In putting your truſt only in him, in calling upon him in adverſity, patiently looking for his help, and fearing to do any thing contrary to his will.

[m] He will defend you which are his elect, and reject all the reſt, which is meant of Chriſt againſt whom the Jews ſhould ſtumble and fall, Luke 2. 34. Rom. 9. 33. 1 Pet. 2. 7, 8.

[n] Though all forſake me, yet ye that are mine, keep my words ſure ſealed in your hearts.

[o] Meaning, them that were willing to hear and obey the word of God whom the world hated, as though they were monſters, and not worthy to live.

[p] This was a conſolation in their troubles, knowing that nothing could come unto them, but by the will of the Lord.

[q] Anſwer the wicked thus, Should not God's people ſeek ſuccour only at him?

[r] That is, will they refuſe to be taught of the prophet, who is the mouth of God, and ſeek help at the dead, which is the illuſion of Satan?

[s] Seek remedy in the word of God, where his will is declared.

[t] They have no knowledge, but are blind leaders of the blind.

[u] That is, in Judah, where they ſhould have had reſt, if they had not thus grievouſly offended God.

[w] In whom afore they put their truſt.

[x] They ſhall think that heaven and earth and all creatures are bent againſt them to trouble them.

[y] He comforteth the church again after theſe great threatenings, promiſing to reſtore them to great glory in Meſſiah.

[z] Wherewith Iſrael was puniſhed, firſt by Tiglath Pileſar, which was a light ſcourge in reſpect of that which they ſuffered after by Shalmaneſer, who carried the Iſraelites away captives.

[a] Whereas the Jews and Gentiles dwelt together by reaſon of thoſe twenty cities which Solomon gave to Hiram.

[b] Which were captive in Babylon: and the prophet ſpeaketh of that thing which ſhould come to paſs ſixty years after, as though it were now done.

[c] Meaning, the comfort of their deliverance.

[d] This captivity and deliverance were figures of our captivity by ſin, and our deliverance by Chriſt through the preaching of the goſpel, Matt. 4. 15, 16.

[e] Their number was greater when they went into captivity, than when they returned: but their joy was greater at their return, Hagg. 2. 10.

[f] Thou gaveſt them perfect joy, by delivering them, and by deſtroying the tyrant that kept them in cruel bondage, as thou didſt deliver them by Gideon from the Midianites, Judg. 7. 22.

[g] He ſpeaketh of the deliverance of his church, which he hath delivered miraculouſly from his enemies, but ſpecially by the coming of Chriſt, of whom he propheſieth in the next verſe.

[h] The author of eternity, and by whom the church and every member thereof ſhall be preſerved for ever, and have immortal life.

[i] His ſingular love and care for his elect.

[k] This is another propheſy againſt them of Samaria, which were mockers and contemners of God's promiſes and menaces.

Bef. Chr. 741.

10 The [l] bricks are fallen, but we will build it with hewn ſtones: the wild fig-trees are cut down, but we will change them into cedars.

11 Nevertheleſs the Lord will raiſe up the adverſaries of [m] Rezin againſt him, and join his enemies together.

12 Aram before, and the Philiſtines behind, and they ſhall devour Iſrael with open mouth: yet for all this, his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is ſtretched out ſtill.

13 For the people turneth not unto him that ſmiteth them, neither do they ſeek the Lord of hoſts.

14 Therefore will the Lord cut off from Iſrael head and tail, branch and ruſh in one day.

15 The ancient and the honorable man, he is the head: and the prophet that teacheth lyes, he is the tail.

16 For the leaders of the people cauſe them to err: and they that are led by them, are devoured.

17 Therefore ſhall the Lord have no pleaſure in their young men, neither will he have compaſſion of their fatherleſs and of their widows: for every one is an hypocrite and wicked, and every mouth ſpeaketh folly: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is ſtretched out ſtill.

18 For wickedneſs [n] burneth as a fire: it devoureth the briers and thorns, and will kindle in the thick places of the foreſt: and they ſhall mount up like the lifting up of ſmoak.

19 By the wrath of the Lord of hoſts ſhall the land be darkened, and the people ſhall be as the meat of the fire: no man ſhall [o] ſpare his brother.

20 And he ſhall ſnatch at the right hand, and be hungry: and he ſhall eat on the left hand [p], and ſhall not be ſatisfied: every one ſhall eat the [p] fleſh of his own arm.

5 ¶ O [u] Aſſhur, the rod of my wrath: and the ſtaff in their hands is mine indignation.

6 I will ſend [w] him to a diſſembling nation, and I will give him a charge againſt the people of my wrath to take the ſpoil, and to take the prey, and to tread them under feet like the mire in the ſtreet.

7 But he thinketh not ſo, neither doth his heart eſteem it ſo: but he imagineth to deſtroy and to cut off not a few nations.

8 For he ſaith, Are not my princes altogether kings?

9 Is not Calno as [x] Carchemiſh? Is not Hamath like Arpad? Is not Samaria as Damaſcus?

10 Like as mine hand hath found the kingdoms of the idols, ſeeing their idols were above Jeruſalem, and above Samaria:

11 Shall not I, as I have done to Samaria and to the idols thereof, ſo do to Jeruſalem and to the idols thereof?

[t] Becauſe they have forſaken me, ſome ſhall go into captivity, and the reſt ſhall be ſlain.

[u] God calleth for the Aſſyrians to be the executioners of his vengeance.

[w] That is, the Aſſyrians againſt the Jews, which are but hypocrites: and in this ſixth and ſeventh verſe is declared the difference of the work of God, and of the wicked in one very thing and act: for God's intention is to chaſtiſe them for their amendment, and the Aſſyrians purpoſe to deſtroy them to enrich themſelves: thus in reſpect of God's juſtice, it is God's work, but in reſpect of their own malice, it is the work of the devil.

[x] Seeing that I have overcome as well one city as another, ſo that none could reſiſt, ſhall Jeruſalem be able to eſcape mine hands?

[z] Meaning, of Sennacherib.

25 But yet a very little time, and the wrath ſhall be conſumed, and mine anger in their deſtruction.

26 And the Lord of hoſts ſhall raiſe up a ſcourge for him, according to the plague of [k] Midian in the rock Oreb: and as his ſtaff was upon the [l] ſea, ſo he will lift it up after the manner of Egypt.

27 And at that day ſhall his burden be taken away from off thy ſhoulder, and his yoke from off thy neck: and the yoke ſhall be deſtroyed, becauſe of the [m] anointing.

28 He is come [n] to Aiath: he is paſſed into Migron: at Michmaſh ſhall he lay up his armour.

29 They have gone over the ford: they lodged in the lodging at Geva: Ramah is afraid: Gibeah of Saul is fled away.

30 Lift up thy voice, O daughter Gallim, cauſe Laiſh to hear, O poor Anathoth.

31 Madmenah is removed: the inhabitants of Gebim have gathered themſelves together.

32 Yet there is a time that he will ſtay at Nob: he ſhall lift up his hand toward the mount of the daughter Zion, the hill of Jeruſalem. Bef. Chr. 713.

33 Behold, the Lord God of hoſts ſhall cut off the [o] bough with fear: and they of high ſtature ſhall be cut off, and the high ſhall be humbled.

34 And he ſhall cut away the thick places of the foreſt with iron, and Lebanon ſhall have a mighty fall.

CHAP. XI.

1 Chriſt born of the root of Jeſſe. 2 His virtues and kingdom. 6 The fruits of the goſpel. 10 The calling of the Gentiles.

BUT there ſhall come a [p] rod forth of the ſtock of Jeſſe, and a graff ſhall grow out of his roots.

2 And the Spirit of the Lord ſhall reſt upon him: the Spirit of wiſdom and underſtanding, the Spirit of counſel and ſtrength, the Spirit of knowledge, and of the fear of the Lord,

3 And ſhall make him prudent in the fear of the Lord: for he ſhall not judge after the ſight of his eyes, neither reprove by the hearing of his ears,

4 But with righteouſneſs ſhall he judge the poor, and with equity ſhall he reprove for the meek of the earth: and he ſhall [q] ſmite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips ſhall he ſlay the wicked.

5 And juſtice ſhall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulneſs the girdle of his reins.

6 The [r] wolf ſhall alſo dwell with the lamb, and the leopard ſhall lie with the kid, and the calf, and the lion, and the fat beaſt together, and the little child ſhall lead them.

7 And the cow and the bear ſhall feed: their young ones ſhall lie together: and the lion ſhall eat ſtraw like the bullock.

8 And the ſucking child ſhall play upon the hole of the aſp, and the weaned child put his hand upon the cockatrice hole.

9 Then ſhall none hurt nor deſtroy in all the mountain of mine holineſs: for the earth ſhall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the [s] waters that cover the ſea.

10 And in that day the root of Jeſſe, which ſhall ſtand up for a ſign unto the [t] people, the nations ſhall ſeek unto it, and his [u] reſt ſhall be glorious.

[g] This ſmall number, which ſeemed to be conſumed, and yet according to God's decree is ſaved, ſhall be ſufficient to fill all the world with righteouſneſs.

[h] God will deſtroy this land as he hath determined, and after ſave a ſmall portion.

[m] Becauſe of the promiſe made to that kingdom, whereby Chriſt's kingdom was prefigured.

[n] He deſcribeth by what way the Aſſyrians ſhould come againſt Jeruſalem, to confirm the faithful, when it ſhould come to paſs, that as their plague come, ſo ſhould they be delivered.

[o] Fear and deſtruction ſhall come upon Judah, for the princes and people ſhall all be led away captives.

[p] Becauſe the captivity of Babylon was a figure of the ſpiritual captivity under ſin, he ſheweth that our true deliverance muſt come by Chriſt: for as David came out of Jeſſe, a man without dignity; ſo Chriſt ſhould come of a poor carpenter's houſe, as out of a dead ſtock, ch. 53. 2.

[q] All theſe properties can agree to none but only unto Chriſt: for it is he that toucheth the hearts of the faithful, and mortifieth their concupiſcences: and to the wicked he is the ſavour of death, and to them that ſhall periſh: ſo that all the world ſhall be ſmitten with this rod, which is his word.

[r] Men, becauſe of their wicked affections, are named by the names of beaſts, wherein the like affections reign: but Chriſt by his Spirit ſhall reform them, and work in them ſuch mutual charity, that they ſhall be like lambs, favouring and loving one another, and caſt off all their cruel affections, chap. 65. 25.

12 And he ſhall ſet up a ſign to the nations, and aſſemble the diſperſed of Iſrael, and gather the ſcattered of Judah from the four corners of the world.

13 The hatred alſo of Ephraim ſhall depart, and the adverſaries of Judah ſhall be cut off: Ephraim ſhall not envy [x] Judah, neither ſhall Judah vex Ephraim:

14 But they ſhall flee upon the ſhoulders of the Philiſtines toward the Weſt: they ſhall ſpoil them of the Eaſt together: Edom and Moab ſhall be the ſtretching out of their hands, and the children of Ammon in their obedience.

15 The Lord alſo ſhall utterly deſtroy the [y] tongue of the Egyptian's ſea, and with his mighty wind ſhall lift up his hand [z] over the river, and ſhall ſmite him in his ſeven ſtreams, and cauſe men to walk therein with ſhoes.

16 And there ſhall be a path to the remnant of his people, which are left of Aſſhur, like as it was unto Iſrael in the day that he came up out of the land of Egypt.

CHAP. XII.

A thankſgiving of the faithful for the mercies of God.

CHAP. XIII.

Bef. Chr. 712.

The Medes and Perſians ſhall deſtroy Babylon.

THE [e] burden of Babel, which Iſaiah the ſon of Amos did ſee.

2 Lift up a ſtandard upon the high mountain: lift up the voice unto them: wag the [f] hand, that they may go into the gates of the nobles.

3 I have commanded them, that I have [g] ſanctified: and I have called the mighty to my wrath, and them that rejoice in my [h] glory.

4 The noiſe of a multitude is in the mountains, like a great people: a tumultuous voice of the kingdoms of the nations gathered together: the Lord of hoſts numbereth the hoſt of the battle.

5 They come from a far country, from the end of the heaven: even the Lord with the [i] weapons of his wrath to deſtroy the whole land.

6 Howl [k] you, for the day of the Lord is at hand: it ſhall come as a deſtroyer from the Almighty.

7 Therefore ſhall all hands be weakened, and all men's hearts ſhall melt,

8 And they ſhall be afraid, anguiſh and ſorrow ſhall take them, and they ſhall have pain, as a woman that travaileth: every one ſhall be amazed at his neighbour, and their faces ſhall be like [l] flames of fire.

9 Behold, the day of the Lord cometh, cruel with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land waſte: and he ſhall deſtroy the ſinners out of it.

10 For the [m] ſtars of heaven, and the planets thereof ſhall not give their light: the ſun ſhall be darkened in his going forth, and the moon ſhall not cauſe her light to ſhine.

11 And I will viſit the wickedneſs upon the [n] world, and their iniquity upon the wicked, and I will cauſe the arrogancy of the [o] proud to ceaſe, and will caſt down the pride of tyrants.

12 I will make a [p] man more precious than fine gold, even a man above the wedge of gold of Ophir.

13 Therefore I will ſhake the heaven, the earth ſhall remove out of her place in the wrath of the Lord of hoſts, and in the day of his fierce anger.

14 And [q] it ſhall be as a chaſed doe, and as

[w] For God firſt delivered his people out of Egypt, and now promiſeth to deliver them out of their enemies hands, as from the Parthians, Perſians, Chaldeans, and them of Antiochia, among whom they were diſperſed: and this is chiefly meant of Chriſt, who calleth his people being diſperſed through all the world.

[x] Here he deſcribeth the conſent that ſhall be in his church, and their victory againſt their enemies.

[y] Meaning, a corner of the ſea that entereth into the land, and hath the form of a tongue.

[z] To wit, Nylus, the great river of Egypt, which entereth into the ſea with ſeven ſtreams.

[a] He ſheweth how the church ſhall praiſe God when they are delivered from their captivity.

[b] Our ſalvation ſtandeth only in God, who giveth us an aſſured confidence, conſtancy, and occaſion to praiſe him for the ſame.

[c] The graces of God ſhall be ſo abundant, that ye may receive them in as great plenty as waters out of a fountain that is full.

[d] Ye that are of the church.

[e] That is, the great calamity, which was propheſied to come on Babel, as a moſt grievous burden, which they were not able to bear. In theſe twelve chapters following, he ſpeaketh of the plagues wherewith God would ſmite theſe ſtrange nations, (who they knew) to declare that God chaſtiſed the Iſraelites as his children, and theſe other as his enemies: and alſo, that if God ſpare not theſe that are ignorant, that they muſt not think ſtrange, if he puniſhed them which have knowledge of his law and keep it not.

[f] To wit, to the Medes and the Perſians.

[g] That is, prepared and appointed to execute my judgments.

[h] Which willingly go about the work whereunto I appoint them, but how the wicked do this, read ch. 10. 6.

[i] The army of the Medes and the Perſians againſt Babylon.

[k] The Babylonians.

[l] The Babylonians anger and grief ſhall be ſo much, that their faces ſhall burn as fire.

[m] They that are overcome ſhall think that all the powers of heaven and earth are againſt them, Ezek. 32. 7. Joel 3. 15. Matt. 24. 29.

[n] He compareth Babylon to the whole world, becauſe they ſo eſteemed themſelves by reaſon of their great empire.

[o] He noteth the principal vice, whereunto they were moſt given, as are all that abound in wealth.

[p] He noteth the great ſlaughter that ſhall be, ſeeing the enemy ſhall neither for gold or ſilver ſpare a man's life, as ver. 17.

[q] Meaning, the power of Babylon, with their hired ſoldiers.

a ſheep that no man taketh up: every man ſhall turn to his own people, and flee each one to his own land.

15 Every one that is found, ſhall be ſtricken through: and whoſoever joineth himſelf, ſhall fall by the ſword.

* Pſ. 137. 9. 16 * Their [r] children alſo ſhall be broken in pieces before their eyes: their houſes ſhall be ſpoiled, and their wives raviſhed.

17 Behold, I will ſtir up the Medes againſt them, which ſhall not regard ſilver, nor be deſirous of gold.

18 With bows alſo ſhall they deſtroy the children, and ſhall have no compaſſion upon the fruit of the womb, and their eyes ſhall not ſpare the children.

19 And Babel, the glory of kingdoms, the beauty and pride of the Chaldeans, ſhall be as
* Gen. 19. 24. Jer. 50. 20. the deſtruction of God* in Sodom and Gomorrah.

20 It ſhall not be inhabited for ever, neither ſhall it be dwelled in from generation to generation: neither ſhall the [s] Arabian pitch his tents there, neither ſhall the ſhepherds make their folds there.

21 But [t] Zim ſhall lodge there, and their houſes ſhall be full of Ohim: oſtriches ſhall dwell there, and the ſatyrs ſhall dance there.

22 And Jim ſhall cry in their palaces, and dragons in their pleaſant palaces: and the time thereof is ready to come, and the days thereof ſhall not be prolonged.

CHAP. XIV.

1 The return of the people from captivity. 4 The deriſion of the king of Babylon. 11 The death of the king. 29 The deſtruction of the Philiſtines.

FOR [u] the Lord will have compaſſion of Jacob, and will yet chuſe Iſrael, and cauſe them to reſt in their own land: and the ſtranger [w] ſhall join himſelf unto them, and they ſhall cleave to the houſe of Jacob.

2 And the people ſhall receive them and bring them to their own place, and the houſe of Iſrael ſhall poſſeſs them in the land of the Lord, for [x] ſervants and handmaids: and they ſhall take them priſoners, whoſe captives they were, and have rule over their oppreſſors.

3 ¶ And in that day when the Lord ſhall give thee reſt from thy ſorrow, and from thy fear, and from the ſore bondage wherein thou didſt ſerve,

4 Then ſhalt thou take up this proverb againſt the king of Babel, and ſay, How hath the oppreſſor ceaſed! and the gold-thirſty Babel reſted!

5 The Lord hath broken the rod of the wicked, and the ſceptre of the rulers:

6 Which ſmote the people in anger with a continual plague, and ruled the nations in wrath: if any were perſecuted, he did [y] not let.

7 The whole world is at [z] reſt and is quiet: they ſing for joy.

8 Alſo the fir-trees rejoiced of thee: and the cedars of Lebanon, ſaying, Since thou art laid down, no hewer came up againſt us.

9 Hell beneath is moved for thee, to [a] meet thee at thy coming, raiſing up the dead for thee, even all the princes of the earth, and hath raiſed from their thrones all the kings of the nations.

10 All they ſhall cry and ſay unto thee, Art thou become weak alſo as we? art thou become like unto us?

11 Thy pomp is brought down to the grave, and the ſound of thy viols: the worm [b] is ſpread under thee, and the worms cover thee.

12 How art thou fallen from heaven, O [c] Lucifer, ſon of the morning! and cut down to the ground, which didſt caſt lots upon the nations!

13 Yet thou ſaidſt in thine heart, I will aſcend into heaven, and exalt my throne above beſide the ſtars of God: I will ſit alſo upon the mount of the congregation, in the ſides of the [d] north.

14 I will aſcend above the height of the clouds, and I will be like the moſt High.

15 But thou ſhalt be brought down to the grave, to the ſides of the pit.

16 They that ſee thee, ſhall [e] look upon thee, and conſider thee, ſaying, Is this the man that made the earth to tremble, and that did ſhake the kingdoms?

17 He made the world as a wilderneſs, and deſtroyed the cities thereof, and opened not [f] the houſe of the priſoners.

18 All the kings of the nations, even they all ſleep in glory, every one in his own houſe.

19 But thou art [g] caſt out of thy grave like an abominable branch: like the raiment of thoſe that are ſlain, and thruſt through with a ſword, which go down to the ſtones of the pit, as a carcaſe trodden under feet.

20 Thou ſhalt not be joined with them in the grave, becauſe thou haſt deſtroyed thine own land, and ſlain thy people: the ſeed of the wicked ſhall not be renowned for ever.

21 [h] Prepare a ſlaughter for his children, for the iniquity of their fathers: let them not riſe up nor poſſeſs the land, nor fill the face of the world with enemies.

22 ¶ For I will riſe up againſt them (ſaith the Lord of hoſts) and will cut off from Babel the name and the remnant, and the ſon, and the nephew, ſaith the Lord:

[r] This was not accompliſhed when Cyrus took Babylon: but after the death of Alexander the Great.

[s] Who uſeth to go from country to country, to find paſture for their beaſts, but there ſhall they find none.

[t] Which were either wild beaſts, or fowls, or wicked ſpirits, whereby Satan deluded man, as by the fairies, goblins, and ſuch-like fancies.

[u] He ſheweth, why God will haſte to deſtroy his enemies: to wit, becauſe he will deliver his church.

[w] Meaning, that the Gentiles ſhall be joined with the church, and worſhip God.

[x] Signifying, that the Jews ſhould be ſuperiors to the Gentiles, and that they ſhould be brought under the ſervice of Chriſt, by the preaching of the apoſtles, whereby all are brought to the ſubjection of Chriſt, 2 Cor. 10. 5.

[y] That is, he ſuffered all violence and injuries to be done.

[z] Meaning, that when tyrants reign, there can be no reſt nor quietneſs, and alſo how deteſtable a thing tyranny is, ſeeing the inſenſible creatures have occaſion to rejoice at their deſtruction.

[a] As though they feared leſt thou ſhouldeſt trouble the dead, as thou didſt the living: and here he derideth the proud tyranny of the wicked, which know not that all creatures wiſh their deſtruction, that they may rejoice.

[b] Inſtead of thy coſtly carpets and coverings.

[c] Thou that thoughteſt thyſelf moſt glorious, and as it were placed in the heaven: for the morning-ſtar, that goeth before the ſun, is called Lucifer, to whom Nebuchadnezzar is compared.

[d] Meaning, Jeruſalem, whereof the temple was on the north ſide, as Pſalm 48. 2. whereby he meaneth, that tyrants fight againſt God when they perſecute his church, and would ſet themſelves in his place.

[e] In marvelling at thee.

[f] To ſet them at liberty: noting his cruelty.

[g] Thou waſt not buried in the ſepulchre of thy fathers, thy tyranny was ſo abhorred.

[h] He calleth to the Medes and Perſians, and all thoſe that ſhould execute God's vengeance.

Bef. Chr. 712.

‡ Or, tortoiſe.

23 And I will make it a poſſeſſion to the ‡ hedge-hog, and pools of water, and I will ſweep it with the beſom of deſtruction, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

24 The Lord of hoſts hath ſworn, ſaying, Surely, like as I have purpoſed, ſo ſhall it come to paſs, and as I have conſulted, it ſhall ſtand:

25 [i] That I will break to pieces Aſſhur in my land, and upon my mountains will I tread him under foot: ſo that his yoke ſhall depart from [k] them, and his burden ſhall be taken from off their ſhoulder.

26 This is the counſel that is conſulted upon the whole world, and this is the hand ſtretched out over all the nations,

27 Becauſe the Lord of hoſts hath determined it, and who ſhall diſannul it? and his hand is ſtretched out, and who ſhall turn it away?

28 ¶ In the year that king Ahaz died, was this [l] burden.

29 Rejoice not (thou whole [m] Paleſtina) becauſe the rod of him that did beat thee, is broken: for out of the ſerpent's root ſhall come forth a cockatrice, and the fruit thereof ſhall be a fiery flying ſerpent.

30 For the [n] firſt-born of the poor ſhall be fed, and the needy ſhall lie down in ſafety: and I will kill thy root with famine, and [o] it ſhall ſlay thy remnant.

31 Howl, O gate: cry, O city: thou whole land of Paleſtina art diſſolved, for there ſhall come from the [p] north a ſmoak, and none ſhall be [q] alone at his time appointed.

32 What ſhall then one anſwer [r] the meſſengers of the Gentiles? that the Lord hath ſtabliſhed [s] Zion, and the poor of his people ſhall truſt in it.

CHAP. XV.

A propheſy againſt Moab.

THE [t] burden of Moab, Surely [u] Ar of Moab was deſtroyed, and brought to ſilence in a night: ſurely Kir of Moab was deſtroyed, and brought to ſilence in a night.

2 [w] He ſhall go up to the temple, and to Dibon to the high places to weep: for [x] Nebo and for Medeba ſhall Moab howl: upon all [y] their heads ſhall be baldneſs, and every beard ſhaven.

3 In their ſtreets ſhall they be girded with ſackcloth: on the tops of their houſes, and in their ſtreets every one ſhall howl, and come down with weeping.

4 And Heſhbon ſhall cry, and Elealeh: their voice ſhall be heard unto Jahaz: therefore the warriors of Moab ſhall ſhout: the ſoul of every one ſhall lament in himſelf.

5 Mine [z] heart ſhall cry for Moab: his fugitives ſhall flee unto Zoar, [a] an heifer of three years old: for they ſhall go up with weeping by the mounting up of Luhith: and by the way of Horonaim they [b] ſhall raiſe up a cry of deſtruction.

6 For the waters of Nimrim ſhall be dried up: therefore the graſs is withered, the herbs conſumed, and there was no green herb.

7 Therefore what every man hath left, and their ſubſtance ſhall they bear to the [c] brook of the willows,

8 For the cry went round about the borders of Moab: and the howling thereof unto Eglaim, and the ſhrieking thereof unto Beer-Elim.

9 Becauſe the waters of Dimon ſhall be full [d] of blood: for I will bring more upon Dimon, even lions [e] upon him that eſcapeth of Moab, and to the remnant of the land.

CHAP. XVI.

The cauſes wherefore the Moabites are deſtroyed.

SEND [f] ye a lamb to the ruler of the world from the rock of the wilderneſs unto the mountain of the daughter Zion.

2 For it ſhall be as a bird that [g] flieth, and a neſt forſaken: the daughters of Moab ſhall be at the fords of Arnon.

3 Gather a counſel, execute judgment, [h] make thy ſhadow as the night in the mid-day: hide them that are chaſed out: bewray not him that is fled.

4 Let my baniſhed dwell with thee: Moab, be thou their covert from the face of the deſtroyer: for the extortioner [i] ſhall end: the deſtroyer ſhall be conſumed, and the oppreſſor ſhall ceaſe out of the land.

5 And in mercy ſhall the throne be prepared, and [k] he ſhall ſit upon it in ſtedfaſtneſs, in the tabernacle of David, judging, and ſeeking judgment, and haſting juſtice.

6 We have heard of the pride of Moab (he is very proud) even his pride, and his arrogancy, and his indignation, but his [l] lyes ſhall not be ſo.

7 Therefore ſhall Moab howl unto Moab: every one ſhall howl: for the foundations of Kir-hareſeth ſhall ye mourn, yet they ſhall be [m] ſtricken.

1 A prophecy of the deſtruction of Damaſcus and Ephraim. 7 Calamity moveth to repentance.

THE [w] burden of [x] Damaſcus. Behold, Damaſcus is taken away from being a city, for it ſhall be a ruinous heap.

2 The cities of [y] Aroer ſhall be forſaken: they ſhall be for the flocks: for they ſhall lie there, and none ſhall make them afraid.

3 The munition alſo ſhall ceaſe from [z] Ephraim, and the kingdom from Damaſcus, and the remnant of Aram ſhall be as the [a] glory of the children of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

4 And in that day the glory of [b] Jacob ſhall be impoveriſhed, and the fatneſs of his fleſh ſhall be made lean.

5 And it ſhall be as when the harveſt-man gathereth [c] the corn, and reapeth the ears with his arm, and he ſhall be as he that gathereth the ears in the valley of [d] Rephaim.

9 In that day ſhall the cities of their ſtrength be as the forſaking of boughs and branches, which [g] they did forſake, becauſe of the children of Iſrael, and there ſhall be deſolation.

10 Becauſe thou haſt forgotten the God of thy ſalvation, and haſt not remembered the God of thy ſtrength, therefore ſhalt thou ſet pleaſant plants, and ſhalt graff ſtrange [h] vine branches:

11 In that day ſhalt thou make thy plant to grow, and in the morning ſhalt thou make thy ſeed to flouriſh: but the harveſt ſhall be gone in the day [i] of poſſeſſion, and there ſhall be deſperate ſorrow.

12 [k] Ah, the multitude of many people, they ſhall make a ſound like the noiſe of the ſea: for the noiſe of the people ſhall make a ſound like the noiſe of mighty waters.

13 The people ſhall make a ſound like the noiſe of many waters: but God ſhall [l] rebuke them, and they ſhall flee far off, and ſhall be chaſed as the chaff of the mountains before the wind, and as a rolling thing before the whirlwind.

14 And lo, in the evening there [m] is trouble: but afore the morning it is gone. This is the portion of them that ſpoil us, and the lot of them that rob us.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Of the enemies of the church, 7 and of the vocation of the Gentiles.

[n] That is, the Aſſyrians and other enemies.

[o] Meaning, that the country of Moab was now deſtroyed, and all the precious things thereof were carried into the borders, yea into other countries, and over the ſea.

[p] He ſheweth, that their plague was ſo great, that it would have moved any man to lament with them, as Pſalm 141. 5.

[q] The enemies are come upon thee, and ſhout for joy, when they carry thy commodities from thee, as Jer. 48. 33.

[r] For very ſorrow and compaſſion.

[s] They ſhall uſe all means to ſeek help of their idols, and all in vain: for Chemoz their great god ſhall not be able to help them.

[t] He appointed a certain time to puniſh the enemies in.

[u] Who will obſerve juſtly the time for the which he is hired, and ſerve no longer, but will ever long for it.

[w] Read chap. 13. 1.

[x] The chief city of Syria.

[y] It was a country of Syria by the river Arnon.

[z] It ſeemeth, that the prophet would comfort the church, in declaring the deſtruction of theſe two kings, of Syria and Iſrael, whenas they had conſpired the overthrow of Judah.

[a] The ten tribes gloried in their multitude and alliance with other nations: therefore he ſaith, that they ſhall be brought down, and the Syrians alſo.

[b] Meaning, of the ten tribes, which boaſted themſelves of their nobility, proſperity, ſtrength and multitude.

[c] As the abundance of corn doth not fear the harveſtmen that ſhould cut it down: no more ſhall the multitude of Iſrael make the enemy to ſhrink, whom God ſhall appoint to deſtroy them.

[d] Which valley was plentiful and fertile.

[e] Becauſe God would have his covenant ſtable, he promiſeth to reſerve ſome of this people, and to bring them to repentance.

[f] He ſheweth that God's corrections ever bring forth ſome fruit, and cauſe his to turn from their ſins, and to humble themſelves to him.

[g] As the Canaanites left their cities, when God did place the Iſraelites there, ſo the cities of Iſrael ſhall no more be able to defend their inhabitants than buſhes, when God ſhall ſend the enemy to plague them.

[h] Which are excellent, and brought out of other countries.

[i] As the Lord threateneth the wicked in his law, Lev. 26. 16.

[k] The prophet lamenteth, conſidering the horrible plague that was prepared againſt Iſrael by the Aſſyrians; which were infinite in number, and gathered of many nations.

[l] He addeth this for the conſolation of the faithful which were in Iſrael.

[m] He compareth the enemies, the Aſſyrians, to tempeſt, which riſeth over night, and in the morning is gone.

[n] He meaneth that part of Ethiopia which lieth toward the ſea, which was ſo full of ſhips, that the ſails (which he compareth to wings) ſeemed to ſhadow the ſea.

[o] Which in thoſe countries were great: inſomuch as they made ſhips of them for ſwiftneſs, ye ſwift meſſengers, to a nation that is ſcattered abroad, and ſpoiled, unto a terrible [q] people from their beginning, even hitherto a nation by little and little, even trodden under foot, whoſe land the [r] floods have ſpoiled.

3 All ye the inhabitants of the world, and dwellers in the earth, ſhall ſee when [s] he ſetteth up a ſign in the mountains, and when he bloweth the trump, ye ſhall hear.

4 For ſo the Lord ſaid unto me, I will [t] reſt, and behold in my tabernacle, as [u] the heat drying up the rain, and as a cloud of dew in the heat of harveſt.

5 For afore the harveſt when the flour is finiſhed, and the fruit is ripening in the flour, then he ſhall cut down the branches with hooks, and ſhall take away and cut off the boughs.

6 They ſhall be left together unto the fowls of the mountains, and to [w] the beaſts of the earth: for the fowl ſhall ſummer upon it, and every beaſt of the earth ſhall winter upon it.

7 At that time ſhall a [x] preſent be brought unto the Lord of hoſts, (a people that is ſcattered abroad, and ſpoiled, and of a terrible people from their beginning hitherto, a nation by little and little, even trodden under foot, whoſe land the rivers have ſpoiled) to the place of the name of the Lord of hoſts, even on the mount Zion.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The deſtruction of the Egyptians by the Aſſyrians, 18 Of their converſion to the Lord.

THE [y] burden of Egypt. Behold, the Lord [z] rideth upon a ſwift cloud, and ſhall come into Egypt, and the idols of Egypt ſhall be moved at his preſence, and the heart of Egypt ſhall melt in the midſt of her.

2 And I will ſet the Egyptians againſt the Egyptians: ſo every one ſhall [a] fight againſt his brother, and every one againſt his neighbour, city againſt city, and kingdom againſt kingdom.

3 And the [b] ſpirit of Egypt ſhall fail in the midſt of her, and I will deſtroy their counſel, and they ſhall ſeek at the idols, and at the ſorcerers, and at them that have ſpirits of divination, and at the ſoothſayers.

Bef. Chr. 714.

4 And I will deliver the Egyptians into the hand of cruel lords, and a mighty king ſhall rule over them, ſaith the Lord God of hoſts.

5 Then the waters of the [c] ſea ſhall fail, and the rivers ſhall be dried up and waſted.

6 And the [d] rivers ſhall go far away: the rivers of defence ſhall be emptied and dried up: the reeds and flags ſhall be cut down.

7 The graſs in the river, and at the [e] head of the rivers, and all that groweth by the river ſhall wither, and be driven away, and be no more,

8 The fiſhers alſo ſhall [f] mourn, and all they that caſt angle into the river ſhall lament, and they that ſpread their net upon the waters ſhall be weakened.

9 Moreover, they that work in flax of divers ſorts ſhall be confounded, and they that weave nets.

10 For their nets ſhall be broken, and all they that make ponds ſhall be heavy in heart.

11 Surely the princes of [g] Zoan are fools: the counſel of the wiſe counſellors of Pharaoh is become fooliſh: how ſay ye unto Pharaoh, I [h] am the ſon of the wiſe? I am the ſon of the ancient kings?

12 Where are now thy wiſe men, that they may tell thee, or may know what the Lord of hoſts hath determined againſt Egypt?

13 The princes of Zoan are become fools: the princes of [i] Noph are deceived, they have deceived Egypt, even the [k] corners of the tribes thereof.

14 The Lord hath mingled among them the ſpirit [l] of errors: and they have cauſed Egypt to err in every work thereof, as a drunken man erreth in his vomit.

15 Neither ſhall there be any work in Egypt, which the head may [m] do, nor the tail, the branch, nor the ruſh.

16 In that day ſhall Egypt be like unto women: for it ſhall be afraid and fear, becauſe of the moving of the hand of the Lord of hoſts, which he ſhaketh over it.

17 And the land of Judah ſhall be a [n] fear unto Egypt: every one that maketh mention of it ſhall be afraid thereat, becauſe of the counſel of the Lord of hoſts, which he hath determined upon it.

ſo the Lord did threaten to take away their ſtrength, that the Jews ſhould not truſt therein: or that they did ſolicit the Egyptians, and promiſed them aid to go againſt Judah.

[q] To wit, the Jews, who, becauſe of God's plagues, made all other nations afraid of the like, as God threatened, Deut. 28. 37.

[r] Meaning, the Aſſyrians, as chap. 8. 7.

[s] When the Lord prepareth to fight againſt the Ethiopians.

[t] I will ſtay awhile from puniſhing the wicked.

[u] Which two ſeaſons are moſt profitable for the ripening of fruits: whereby he meaneth, that he will ſeem to favour them, and give them abundance for a time, but he will ſuddenly cut them off.

[w] Not only men ſhall contemn them, but the brute beaſts.

[x] Meaning, that God will pity his church, and receive that little remnant as an offering unto himſelf.

[y] Read ch. 13. 1.

[z] Becauſe the Egyptians truſted in the defence of their country, in the multitude of their idols, and in the valiantneſs of their men, the Lord ſheweth that he will come over all their munitions in a ſwift cloud, and that their idols ſhall tremble at his coming, and that men's hearts ſhall faint.

[a] As he cauſed the Ammonites, Moabites, and Idumeans, to kill one another, when they came to deſtroy the church of God, 2 Chron. 20. 22. ch. 49. 26.

[b] Meaning, their policy and wiſdom.

[c] He ſheweth, that the ſea, and Nilus their great river, whereby they thought themſelves moſt ſure, ſhould not be able to defend them from his anger, but that he would ſend the Aſſyrians among them, that ſhould keep them under as ſlaves.

[d] For Nilus ran into the ſea by ſeven ſtreams, as though they were ſo many rivers.

[e] The Hebrew word is mouth, whereby they mean the ſpring, out of the which the water guſheth as out of a mouth.

[f] The ſcriptures uſe to deſcribe the deſtruction of a country by taking away the commodities thereof, as by vines, fleſh, fiſh, and ſuch other things, whereby countries are enriched.

[g] Called alſo Tanes, a famous city upon Nilus.

[h] He noteth the flatterers of Pharaoh; who perſuaded the king, that he was wiſe and noble, and that his houſe was moſt ancient, and ſo he flattered himſelf, ſaying, I am wiſe.

[i] Or Memphis, others Alexandria, and now called the great Cairo.

[k] The principal upholders thereof are the chiefeſt cauſe of their deſtruction.

[l] For the ſpirit of wiſdom, he hath made them drunken and giddy with the ſpirit of error.

[m] Neither the great nor the ſmall, the ſtrong nor the weak.

[n] Conſidering that through their occaſion the Jews made not God their defence, but put their truſt in them, and were therefore now puniſhed, they ſhall fear leſt the like light upon them.

Bef. Chr. 714.

18 In that day ſhall five cities in the land of Egypt [o] ſpeak the language of Canaan, and ſhall [p] ſwear by the Lord of hoſts: one ſhall be called the city of [q] deſtruction.

19 In that day ſhall the altar of the Lord be in the midſt of the land of Egypt, and a [r] pillar by the border thereof unto the Lord.

20 And it ſhall be for a ſign, and for a witneſs unto the Lord of hoſts in the land of Egypt: for they ſhall cry unto the Lord becauſe of the oppreſſors, and he ſhall ſend them a [s] Saviour and a great man, and ſhall deliver them.

21 And the Lord ſhall be known of the Egyptians, and the Egyptians ſhall know the Lord in that day, and do [t] ſacrifice and oblation, and ſhall vow vows unto the Lord, and perform them.

22 So the Lord ſhall ſmite Egypt, he ſhall ſmite and heal it: for he ſhall return unto the Lord, and he ſhall be intreated of them, and ſhall heal them.

23 In that day ſhall there be a path from [u] Egypt to Aſſhur, and Aſſhur ſhall come into Egypt, and Egypt into Aſſhur: ſo the Egyptians ſhall worſhip with Aſſhur.

24 In that day ſhall Iſrael be the third with Egypt and Aſſhur, even a bleſſing in the midſt of the land.

25 For the Lord of hoſts ſhall bleſs it, ſaying, Bleſſed be my people Egypt and Aſſhur, the work of mine hands, and Iſrael mine inheritance.

CHAP. XX.

2 The three years captivity of Egypt and Ethiopia deſcribed by the three years going naked of Iſaiah.

IN the year that [w] Tartan came to [x] Aſhdod, (when [y] Sargon king of Aſſhur ſent him) and had ſought againſt Aſhdod, and taken it,

2 At the ſame time ſpake the Lord by the hand of Iſaiah the ſon of Amos, ſaying, Go, and looſe the [z] ſackcloth from thy loins, and put off thy ſhoe from thy foot. And he did ſo, walking naked and barefoot.

3 And the Lord ſaid, Like as my ſervant Iſaiah hath walked naked and barefoot three years, as a ſign and wonder upon Egypt and Ethiopia,

4 So ſhall the king of Aſſhur take away the captivity of Egypt, and the captivity of Ethiopia, both young men and old men, naked and barefoot, with their buttocks uncovered, to the ſhame of Egypt.

5 And they ſhall fear, and be aſhamed of [a] Ethiopia their expectation, and of Egypt [b] their glory.

6 Then ſhall the inhabitant of this [c] Iſle ſay in that day, Behold ſuch is our expectation, whither we fled for help to be delivered from the king of Aſſhur, and how ſhall we be delivered?

CHAP. XXI.

1 Of the deſtruction of Babylon by the Perſians and Medes. 11 The ruin of Idumea, 13 And of Arabia.

THE burden of [d] the deſert ſea. As the whirldwinds in the ſouth uſe to paſs from the wilderneſs, ſo ſhall it [e] come from the horrible land.

2 A grievous viſion was ſhewed unto me, The [f] tranſgreſſor againſt a tranſgreſſor, and the deſtroyer againſt a deſtroyer. Go up, [g] Elam, beſiege Media: I have cauſed all the mourners [h] thereof to ceaſe.

3 Therefore are my [i] loins filled with ſorrow: ſorrows have taken me, as the ſorrows of a woman that travaileth: I was bowed down when I heard it, and I was amazed when I ſaw it.

4 Mine heart failed: fearfulneſs troubled me, the night [k] of my pleaſures hath he turned into fear unto me.

5 Prepare thou the table: watch in the watch-tower: eat, drink: [l] ariſe, ye princes anoint the ſhield.

6 For thus hath the [m] Lord ſaid unto me, Go, ſet a watchman to tell what he ſaith.

7 And he ſaw a chariot with two horſemen: [n] a chariot of an aſs, and a chariot of a camel: and he hearkened and took diligent heed.

8 And he cried, A [o] lion: my lord, I ſtand continually upon the watch-tower in the daytime, and I am ſet in my watch every night:

[o] Shall make one confeſſion of faith with the people of God: by the ſpeech of Canaan, meaning the language wherein God was then ſerved.

[p] Shall renounce their ſuperſtitions, and proteſt to ſerve God aright.

[q] Meaning, of ſix cities, five ſhould ſerve God, and the ſixth remain in their wickedneſs: and ſo of the ſixth part there ſhould be but one loſt.

[r] There ſhall be evident ſigns and tokens, that God's religion is there: which manner of ſpeech is taken of the patriarchs, and ancient times, when God had not as yet appointed the place and full manner how he would be worſhipped.

[s] This declareth that this prophecy ſhould be accompliſhed in the time of Chriſt.

[t] By theſe ceremonies, he comprehendeth the ſpiritual ſervice under Chriſt,

[u] By theſe two nations, which were then chief enemies of the church, he ſheweth, that the Gentiles and the Jews ſhould be joined together in one faith and religion, and ſhould be all one fold under Chriſt their Shepherd.

[w] Who was a captain of Sennacherib, 2 Kings 18. 17.

[x] A city of the Philiſtines.

[y] The Hebrews write that Sennacherib was ſo called.

[z] Which ſignifieth that the Prophet did lament the miſery that he ſaw prepared before the three years that he went naked and barefooted.

[a] In whoſe aid they truſted.

[b] Of whom they boaſted and gloried.

[c] Meaning, Judea, which was compaſſed about with their enemies, as an iſle with waters.

[d] On the ſea-ſide, between Judea and Chaldea, was a wilderneſs, whereby he meaneth Chaldea.

[e] That is, the ruin of Babylon by the Medes and Perſians.

[f] The Aſſyrians and Chaldeans, which had deſtroyed other nations, ſhall be overcome of the Medes and Perſians, and this he propheſied an hundred years before it came to paſs.

[g] By Elam, he meaneth the Perſians.

[h] Becauſe they ſhall find no ſuccour, they ſhall mourn no more: or, I have cauſed them to ceaſe mourning, whom Babylon had afflicted,

[i] This the prophet ſpeaketh in the perſon of the Babylonians.

[k] He propheſieth the death of Belſhazzar, as Dan. 5. 30. who in the midſt of his pleaſures was deſtroyed.

[l] While they are eating and drinking, they ſhall be commanded to run to their weapons.

[m] To wit, in a viſion by the ſpirit of propheſy.

[n] Meaning, chariots of men of war and others that carried the baggage.

[o] Meaning, Darius which overcame Babylon.

[p] The watchman whom Iſaiah ſet up, told him who came toward Babylon, and the angel declared, that it ſhould be deſtroyed: all this was done in a viſion.

13 ¶ The burden againſt Arabia. In [u] the foreſt of Arabia ſhall ye tarry all night, even in the ways of Dedanim.

14 O inhabitants of the land of Tema, bring forth [w] water to meet the thirſty, and prevent him that fleeth with his bread.

15 For they flee from the drawn ſwords, even from the drawn ſword, and from the bent bow, and from the grievouſneſs of war.

16 For thus hath the Lord ſaid unto me, Yet a year [x] according to the years of an [y] hireling, and all the glory of Kedar ſhall fail.

17 And the reſidue of the number of the ſtrong archers of the ſons of [z] Kedar ſhall be few: for the Lord God of Iſrael hath ſpoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

1 He propheſieth of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Nebuchadnezzar. 15 A threatening againſt Shebna, 20 To whoſe office Eliakim is preferred.

THE burden of the [a] valley of viſion. What [b] aileth thee now that thou art wholly gone up unto the houſe tops?

2 Thou that art full of [c] noiſe, a city full of bruit, a joyous city: thy ſlain men ſhall not be ſlain [d] with the ſword, nor die in battle.

3 All thy princes ſhall flee together from the bow: they ſhall be [e] bound: all that ſhall be found in thee ſhall be bound together, which have fled from [f] far.

4 Therefore ſaid I, Turn away from me, I will weep [g] bitterly: labour not to comfort me for the deſtruction of the daughter of my people.

Bef. Chr. 712.

5 For it is a day of trouble, and of ruin, and of perplexity by the Lord God of hoſts in the Valley of viſion, breaking down the city: and a [h] crying unto the mountains.

6 ¶ And Elam [i] bare the quiver in a man's chariot with horſemen, and Kir uncovered the ſhield.

7 And thy chief vallies were full of chariots, and the horſemen ſet themſelves in array againſt the gate.

8 And he diſcovered the [k] covering of Judah: and thou didſt look in that day to the armour of the houſe of the foreſt.

9 And ye have ſeen [l] the breaches of the city of David: for they were many, and ye gathered the waters of the lower pool.

10 And ye numbered the houſes [m] of Jeruſalem, and the houſes have ye broken down to fortify the wall.

11 And have alſo made a ditch between the two walls, for the [n] waters of the old pool, and have not looked unto the Maker [o] thereof, neither had reſpect unto him that formed him of old.

12 And in that day did the Lord God of hoſts call unto weeping and mourning, and to baldneſs, and girding with ſackcloth.

13 And behold, joy and gladneſs, ſlaying oxen and killing ſheep, eating fleſh and drinking wine, [p] eating and drinking: for to-morrow we ſhall die.

14 And it was declared in the ears of the Lord of hoſts, Surely this iniquity ſhall not be purged from you till ye die, ſaith the Lord God of hoſts.

15 Thus ſaith the Lord God of hoſts, Go, get thee to that [q] treaſurer, to Shebna, the ſteward of the houſe, and ſay, [q] Meaning, Babylon.

[r] Which was a city of the Iſhmaelites, and was ſo named of Dumah, Gen. 25. 14.

[s] A mountain of the Idumeans.

[t] He deſcribeth the unquietneſs of the people of Dumah who were night and day in fear of their enemies, and ever ran to and fro to enquire news.

[u] For fear, the Arabians ſhall flee into the woods, and he appointeth what way they ſhall take.

[w] Signifying, that for fear they ſhall not tarry to eat nor drink.

[x] He appointeth them reſpite for one year only, and then they ſhould be deſtroyed.

[y] Read Chap. 16. 14.

[z] Which was the name of the people of Arabia; and by the horrible deſtruction of all theſe nations, he teacheth the Jews that there is no place for refuge, or to eſcape God's wrath, but only to remain in his Church, and to live in his fear.

[a] Meaning, Judea, which was compaſſed about with mountains, and was called the Valley of viſions, becauſe of the Prophets, which were always there, whom they named Seers.

[b] He ſpeaketh to Jeruſalem, whoſe inhabitants were fled up to the houſe tops, for fear of their enemies.

[c] Which waſt wont to be full of people and joy.

[d] But for hunger.

[e] And led into captivity.

[f] Which have fled from other places to Jeruſalem for ſuccour.

[g] He ſheweth what is the duty of the godly when God's plagues hang over the church, and ſpecially of the miniſters, Jer. 9. 1.

[h] That is, the ſhout of the enemies, whom God had appointed to deſtroy the city.

[i] He putteth them in mind how God delivered them once from Sennacherib, who brought the Perſians and Cyrenians with him, that they might, by returning to God, avoid that great plague which they ſhould ſuffer by Nebuchadnezzar.

[k] The ſecret place where the armour was, to wit, in the houſe of the foreſt, 1 Kings 7. 2.

[l] Ye fortified the ruinous places, which were neglected in time of peace: meaning, the whole city, and the city of David, which was within the compaſs of the other.

[m] Either to pull down ſuch as might hurt, or elſe know to what men they were able to make.

[n] To provide, if need ſhould be, of water.

[o] To God, that made Jeruſalem: that is, they truſted more in theſe worldly means than in God.

[p] Inſtead of repentance ye were joyful, and made great cheer, contemning the admonitions of the Prophets, ſaying, Let us eat and drink, for our prophets ſay, that we ſhall die to morrow.

[q] Becauſe the Hebrew word doth alſo ſignify one that doth nouriſh and cheriſh, there are of the learned that think that this wicked man did nouriſh ſecret friendſhip with the Aſſyrians and Egyptians, to betray the church, and to provide for himſelf againſt all dangers: In the mean ſeaſon he packed craftily, and gat of the beſt offices into his hand under Hezekiah, ever aſpiring to the higheſt.

[r] Meaning, that he was a ſtranger, and came up of nothing.

[s] Whereas he thought to make his name immortal by his famous ſepulchre, he died moſt miſerably among the Aſſyrians.

Bef. Chr. 712.

17 Behold, the Lord will carry thee away with a great captivity, and will ſurely cover thee.

22 And the [w] key of the houſe of David will I lay upon his ſhoulder: ſo he ſhall open and no man ſhall ſhut: and he ſhall ſhut, and no man ſhall open.

23 And I will faſten him as a [x] nail in a ſure place, and he ſhall be for the throne of glory to his father's houſe.

24 And they ſhall hang upon him all the glory of his father's houſe, even of the nephews and poſterity [y] all ſmall veſſels, from the veſſels of the cups, even to the inſtruments of muſick.

25 In that day, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, ſhall the [z] nail that is faſtened in the ſure place depart and ſhall be broken, and fall: and the burden that was upon it ſhall be cut off: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A propheſy againſt Tyrus. 17 A promiſe that it ſhall be reſtored.

THE [a] burden of Tyrus, Howl, ye ſhips of [b] Tarſhiſh: for [c] it is deſtroyed, ſo that there is no houſe: none ſhall come from the land of [d] Chittim: it is [e] revealed unto them.

2 Be ſtill, ye that dwell in the iſles: the merchants of Zidon, and ſuch as paſs over the ſea, have [f] repleniſhed thee.

3 The [g] ſeed of Nilus growing by the abundance of waters, and the harveſt of the river was her revenues, and ſhe was a marr of the nations.

4 Be aſhamed, thou Zidon: for the [h] ſea hath ſpoken, even the ſtrength of the ſea, ſaying, I have not [i] travailed, nor brought forth children, neither nouriſhed young men, nor brought up virgins.

Bef. Chr. 715.

6 Go you over to [l] Tarſhiſh: howl, ye that dwell in the iſles.

7 Is not this that your glorious city? her antiquity is of ancient days: her own feet ſhall lead her afar off to be a ſojourner.

8 Who hath decreed this againſt Tyrus (that [m] crowneth men) whoſe merchants are princes? whoſe chapmen are the nobles of the world?

9 The Lord of hoſts hath decreed this, to ſtain the pride of all glory, and to bring to contempt all them that be glorious in the earth.

10 Paſs through thy land like a flood to the [n] daughter of Tarſhiſh: there is no more ſtrength.

11 He ſtretched out his hand upon the ſea: he ſhook the kingdoms: the Lord hath given a commandment concerning the place of merchandize, to deſtroy the power thereof.

12 And he ſaid, Thou ſhalt no more rejoice when thou art oppreſſed, [o] O virgin [p] daughter of Zidon: riſe up, go over unto Chittim: yet there thou ſhalt have no reſt.

13 Behold the land of the Chaldeans: this was no people: [q] Aſſhur founded it by the inhabitants of the wilderneſs: they ſet up the towers thereof: they raiſed the palaces thereof, and he [r] brought it to ruin.

14 Howl, ye ſhips of Tarſhiſh, for your [s] ſtrength is deſtroyed.

15 And in that day ſhall Tyrus be forgotten ſeventy years (according to the years of one king) at the end of [t] ſeventy years ſhall Tyrus [u] ſing as an harlot.

16 Take an harp, and go about the city: (thou harlot, that haſt been forgotten) [x] make ſweet melody, ſing more ſongs that thou mayeſt be remembered.

17 And at the end of ſeventy years ſhall the Lord viſit Tyrus, and ſhe ſhall return to her [y] wages, and ſhall commit fornication with all the kingdoms of the earth that are in the world.

18 Yet her occupying and her wages ſhall be [z] holy unto the Lord: it ſhall not be laid up, nor kept

[t] Signifying that whatſoever dignity the wicked attain unto, at length it will turn to the ſhame of thoſe princes by whom they are preferred.

[u] To be ſteward again, out of the which office he had been put by the craft of Shebna.

[w] I will commit unto him the full charge and government of the king's houſe.

[x] I will eſtabliſh him, and confirm him in his office: of this phraſe read Ezra 9. 9.

[y] Meaning, that both ſmall and great, that ſhall come of Eliakim, ſhall have praiſe and glory by this faithful officer.

[z] He meaneth, Shebna, who in man's judgment ſhould never have fallen.

[a] Read chap. 13. 1.

[b] Ye of Cilicia, that come thither for merchandize.

[c] Tyrus is deſtroyed by Nebuchadnezzar.

[d] By Chittim, they mean all the iſles and countries weſtward from Paleſtina.

[e] All men know of this deſtruction.

[f] Have haunted thee, and enriched thee.

[g] Meaning, the corn of Egypt, which was fed by the overflowing of Nilus.

[h] That is, Tyrus, which was the chief port of the ſea.

[i] I have no people left in me, and am as a barren woman that never had a child.

[k] Becauſe theſe two countries were joined in league together.

[l] Tyrus willeth other merchants to go to Cilicia, and to come no more there.

[m] Who maketh her merchants like princes.

[n] Thy ſtrength will no more ſerve thee, therefore flee to other countries for ſuccour.

[o] For Tyrus was never touched nor afflicted before.

[p] Becauſe Tyrus was built by them of Zidon.

[q] The Chaldeans which dwelt in tents in the wilderneſs were gathered by the Aſſyrians into cities.

[r] The people of the Chaldeans deſtroyed the Aſſyrians: whereby the prophet meaneth, that ſeeing the Chaldeans were able to overcome the Aſſyrians, which were ſo great a nation, much more ſhall theſe two nations of Chaldea and Aſſyria be able to overthrow Tyrus.

[s] That is, Tyrus, by whom ye are enriched.

[t] Tyrus ſhall be deſtroyed ſeventy years, which he calleth the reign of one king, or a man's age.

[u] Shall uſe all craft and ſubtilty to intice men again to her.

[x] She ſhall labour by all means to recover her firſt credit, as an harlot, when ſhe is long forgotten, ſeeketh by all means to entertain her lovers.

[y] Though ſhe have been chaſtiſed of the Lord, yet ſhe ſhall return to her old wicked practices, and for gain ſhall give herſelf to all men's luſts like an harlot.

[z] He ſheweth, that God yet, by the preaching of the goſpel, will call Tyrus to repentance, and turn her heart from avarice and filthy gain unto the true worſhipping of God, and liberality towards his ſaints.

Bef. Chr. 712. kept in ſtore, but her merchandize ſhall be for them that dwell before the Lord, to eat ſufficiently, and to have durable cloathing.

CHAP. XXIV.

A prophecy of the curſe of God for the ſins of the people. 13 A remnant reſerved ſhall praiſe the Lord.

BEHOLD, the Lord maketh the [a] earth empty, and he maketh it waſte: he turneth it upſide down, and ſcattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof.

2 And there ſhall be like people like [b] prieſt, and like ſervant like maſter, like maid like miſtreſs, like buyer like ſeller, like lender like borrower, like giver like taker to uſury.

3 The earth ſhall be clean emptied, and utterly ſpoiled: for the Lord hath ſpoken this word.

4 The earth lamenteth and fadeth away: the world is feebled and decayed: the proud people of the earth are weakened.

5 The earth [c] alſo deceiveth, becauſe of the inhabitants thereof: for they tranſgreſſed the laws: they changed the ordinances, and brake the everlaſting covenant.

6 Therefore hath the [d] curſe devoured the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are deſolate. Wherefore the inhabitants of the land are [e] burned up, and few men are left.

7 The wine faileth, the vine hath no might: all that were of merry heart do mourn.

8 The mirth of tabrets ceaſeth: the noiſe of them that rejoice, endeth: the joy of the harp ceaſeth.

9 They ſhall not drink wine with mirth: ſtrong drink ſhall be bitter to them that drink it.

10 The city of [f] vanity is broken down: every houſe is ſhut up, that no man may come in.

11 There is a crying for wine in the ſtreets: all joy is darkened: the mirth [g] of the world is gone away.

12 In the city is left deſolation, and the gate is ſmitten with deſtruction.

13 ¶ Surely thus ſhall it be in the midſt of the earth, among the people, [h] as the ſhaking of an olive-tree, and as the grapes when the vintage is ended.

14 They ſhall lift up their voice: they ſhall ſhout for the magnificence of the Lord: they ſhall rejoice from the [i] ſea. Bef. Chr. 712.

15 Wherefore, praiſe ye the Lord in the vallies, even the name of the Lord God of Iſrael, in the iſles of the ſea.

16 From the uttermoſt part of the earth we have heard praiſes, even glory to the [k] juſt: and I ſaid, [l] My leanneſs, my leanneſs, woe is me: the tranſgreſſors have offended: yea, the tranſgreſſors have grievouſly offended.

17 Fear, and the pit, and the ſnare are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth.

18 And he that fleeth from the noiſe of the fear, ſhall fall into the pit, and he that cometh up out of the pit ſhall be taken in the ſnare: for the [m] windows from on high are open, and the foundations of the earth do ſhake.

19 The earth is utterly broken down: the earth is clean diſſolved: the earth is moved exceedingly.

20 The earth ſhall reel to and fro like a drunken man, and ſhall be removed like a tent, and the iniquity thereof ſhall be heavy upon it: ſo that it ſhall fall, and riſe no more.

21 ¶ And in that day ſhall the Lord [n] viſit the hoſt above that is on high, even the kings of the world that are upon the earth.

22 And they ſhall be gathered together as the priſoners in the pit: and they ſhall be ſhut up in the priſon, and after many days ſhall they be [o] viſited.

23 [p] Then the moon ſhall be abaſhed, and the ſun aſhamed, when the Lord of hoſts ſhall reign in mount Zion, and in Jeruſalem: and glory ſhall be before his ancient men.

CHAP. XXV.

A thankſgiving to God, in that that he ſheweth himſelf judge of the world by puniſhing the wicked and maintaining the godly.

O LORD, [q] thou art my God: I will exalt thee, I will praiſe thy name: for thou haſt done wonderful things according to the counſels of old, with a ſtable truth.

2 For thou haſt made of a [r] city an heap, of a ſtrong city a ruin: even the palace [s] of ſtrangers of a city, it ſhall never be built.

3 Therefore ſhall the [t] mighty people give glory

[a] This prophecy is as a concluſion of that which hath been threatened to the Jews, and other nations, from chap. 13. and therefore by the earth he meaneth thoſe lands which were before named.

[b] Becauſe this was a name of dignity, it was alſo applied to them which were not of Aaron's family, and ſo ſignifieth alſo a man of dignity, as 2 Sam. 8. 18. & 20. 25. 2 Chron. 18. 17. and by theſe words the prophet ſignifieth an horrible confuſion, where there ſhall be neither religion, order, nor policy. Hoſea 4. 9.

[c] That is, rendereth not her fruit for the ſin of the people, whom the earth deceived of their nouriſhment, becauſe they deceived God of his honour.

[d] Written in the law, as Lev. 26. 14. Deut. 28. 16. thus the prophets uſed to apply particularly the menaces and promiſes which are general in the law.

[e] With heat and drought, or elſe, that they were conſumed with the fire of God's wrath.

[f] Which, as it was without order, ſo now ſhould it be brought to deſolation and confuſion: and this was not only meant of Jeruſalem, but of all the other wicked cities.

[g] Becauſe they did not uſe God's benefits aright, their pleaſures ſhould fail, and they fall to mourning.

[h] He comforteth the faithful, declaring that in this great deſolation the Lord will aſſemble his church, which ſhall praiſe his name, as chap. 10. 22.

[i] From the utmoſt coaſts of the world where the goſpel ſhall be preached, as ver. 6.

[k] Meaning, to God, who will publiſh his goſpel through all the world.

[l] I am conſumed with care, conſidering the affliction of the church, both by foreign enemies and domeſtic. Some read, My ſecret, my ſecret: that is, it was revealed to the prophet that the good ſhould be preſerved, and the wicked deſtroyed.

[m] Meaning, that God's wrath and vengeance ſhould be over and under them: ſo that they ſhould not eſcape no more than they did at Noah's flood.

[n] There is no power ſo high, or mighty, but God will viſit him with his rods.

[o] Not with his rods, as ver. 21. but ſhall be comforted.

[p] When God ſhall reſtore his church, the glory thereof ſhall ſo ſhine, and his miniſters (which are called his ancient men) that the ſun and the moon ſhall be dark in compariſon thereof.

[q] Thus the prophet giveth thanks to God, becauſe he will bring under ſubjection theſe nations by his corrections, and make them of his church, which before were his enemies.

[r] Not only of Jeruſalem, but alſo of theſe other cities which have been thine enemies.

[s] That is, a place wherein all vagabonds may live without danger, and as it were at eaſe as in a palace.

[t] The arrogant and proud, which before would not know thee, ſhall by thy corrections fear and glorify thee.

glory unto thee: the city of the ſtrong nations ſhall fear thee.

4 For thou haſt been a ſtrength unto the poor, even a ſtrength to the needy in his trouble, a refuge againſt the tempeſt, a ſhadow againſt the heat: for the blaſt [u] of the mighty is like a ſtorm againſt the wall.

5 Thou ſhalt bring down the noiſe of the ſtrangers, [w] as the heat in a dry place: he will bring down the ſong of the mighty as [x] the heat in the ſhadow of a cloud.

6 And in this [y] mountain ſhall the Lord of hoſts make unto all people a feaſt of fat things, even a feaſt of fined wines, and of fat things full of marrow, of wines fined and purified.

7 And he will deſtroy in this mountain [z] the covering that covereth all people, and the veil that is ſpread upon all nations.

8 He will deſtroy death for ever: and the Lord God will [a] wipe away the tears from all faces, and the rebuke of his people will he take away out of all the earth: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

9 And in that day ſhall men ſay, Lo, this is our God: we have waited for him, and he will ſave us. This is the Lord, we have waited for him, we will rejoice and be joyful in his ſalvation.

10 For in this mountain ſhall the hand of the Lord reſt, and [b] Moab ſhall be threſhed under him, even as ſtraw is threſhed in [c] Madmenah.

11 And he ſhall ſtretch out his hand in the midſt of them (as he that ſwimmeth ſtretcheth them out to ſwim) and with the ſtrength of his hands ſhall he bring down their pride.

12 The defence alſo of the height of thy walls ſhall he bring down and lay low, and caſt them to the ground, even unto the duſt.

CHAP. XXVI.

A ſong of the faithful, wherein is declared, in what conſiſteth the ſalvation of the church, wherein they ought to truſt.

IN that day ſhall [d] this ſong be ſung in the land of Judah, We have a ſtrong city: [e] ſalvation ſhall God ſet for walls and bulwarks.

2 [f] Open ye the gates, that the righteous nation which keepeth the truth may enter.

3 By an aſſured [g] purpoſe wilt thou preſerve perfect peace, becauſe they truſted in thee.

4 Truſt in the Lord for ever: for in the Lord God is ſtrength for evermore.

5 For he will bring down them that dwell on high: the [h] high city will he abaſe: even unto the ground will he caſt it down, and bring it unto duſt.

6 The foot ſhall tread it down, even the feet of the [i] poor, and the ſteps of the needy.

7 The way of the juſt is righteouſneſs: thou wilt make equal the righteous path of the juſt.

8 Alſo we, O Lord, have waited for thee in the way of thy [k] judgment: the deſire of our ſoul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee.

9 With my ſoul have I deſired thee in the night, and with my ſpirit within me will I ſeek thee in the morning: for ſeeing thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world ſhall learn [l] righteouſneſs.

10 Let mercy [m] be ſhewed to the wicked, yet he will not learn righteouſneſs: in the land of uprightneſs will he do wickedly, and will not behold the majeſty of the Lord.

11 O Lord, they will not behold thine high hand, but they ſhall ſee it, and be confounded with [n] the zeal of the people, and the fire of [o] thine enemies ſhall devour them.

12 Lord, unto us thou wilt ordain peace: for thou alſo haſt wrought all our works for us.

13 O Lord our God, other [p] lords beſide thee have ruled us, but we will remember thee only, and thy name.

14 The [q] dead ſhall not live, neither ſhall the dead ariſe, becauſe thou haſt viſited and ſcattered them, and deſtroyed all their memory.

15 Thou haſt increaſed [r] the nation, O Lord, thou haſt increaſed the nation: thou art made glorious: thou haſt inlarged all the coaſts of the earth.

16 Lord, in trouble have [s] they viſited thee: they poured out a prayer when thy chaſtening was upon them.

17 Like as a woman with child, that draweth near to the travail, is in ſorrow, and crieth in her pains, ſo have we been in thy [t] ſight, O Lord.

18 We have conceived, we have borne in pain, as though we ſhould have brought forth wind:

---

[u] The rage of the wicked is furious, till God break the force thereof.

[w] Meaning, that as the heat is abated by the rain, ſo ſhall God bring down the rage of the wicked.

[x] As a cloud ſhadoweth from the heat of the ſun, ſo ſhall God aſſuage the rejoicing of the wicked againſt the godly.

[y] To wit, in Zion, whereby he meaneth his church, which ſhould under Chriſt be aſſembled of the Jews and the Gentiles, and is here deſcribed under the figure of a coſtly banquet, as Matt. 22. 2.

[z] Meaning, that ignorance and blindneſs, whereby we are kept back from Chriſt.

[a] He will take away all occaſions of ſorrow, and fill his with perfect joy, Rev. 7. 17. & 21. 4.

[b] By Moab are meant all the enemies of his church.

[c] There were two cities of this name, one in Judah, 1 Chr. 2. 49. and another in the land of Moab, Jer. 48. 2. which ſeemeth to have been a plentiful place of corn, chap. 10. 31.

[d] This ſong was made to comfort the faithful when their captivity ſhould come, aſſuring them alſo of their deliverance, for the which they ſhould ſing this ſong.

[e] God's protection and defence ſhall be ſufficient for us.

[f] He aſſureth the godly to return after the captivity to Jeruſalem.

[g] Thou haſt decreed ſo, and thy purpoſe cannot be changed.

[h] There is no power ſo high that can let God, when he will deliver his.

[i] God will ſet the poor afflicted over the power of the wicked.

[k] We have conſtantly abided in the adverſities wherewith thou haſt afflicted us.

[l] Meaning, that by afflictions men ſhall learn to fear God.

[m] The wicked, though God ſhew them evident ſigns of his grace, ſhall be never the better.

[n] Through envy and indignation againſt thy people.

[o] The fire and vengeance wherewith thou doſt deſtroy thine enemies.

[p] The Babylonians which have not governed according to thy word.

[q] Meaning, that the reprobate even in this life ſhall have the beginning of everlaſting death.

[r] To wit, the company of the faithful by the calling of the Gentiles.

[s] That is, the faithful by thy rods were moved to pray unto thee for deliverance.

[t] To wit, in extreme ſorrows.

Bef. Chr. 712.

[u] wind : there was no help in the earth, neither did the inhabitants of the [w] world fall.

19 ¶ [x] Thy dead men ſhall live : even with my body ſhall they riſe. Awake, and ſing, ye that dwell in the duſt : for thy [y] dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth ſhall caſt out the dead.

20 Come, my people, [z] enter thou into thy chambers, and ſhut thy doors after thee : hide thyſelf for a very little while, until the indignation paſs over.

21 For lo, the Lord cometh out of his place, to viſit the iniquity of the inhabitants of the earth upon them : and the earth ſhall diſcloſe her [a] blood, and ſhall no more hide her ſlain.

CHAP. XXVII.

A prophecy againſt the kingdom of Satan, 2 and of the joy of the church for their deliverance.

IN that [b] day the Lord with his ſore, and great, and mighty [c] ſword, ſhall viſit Leviathan, that piercing ſerpent, even Leviathan, that crooked ſerpent, and he ſhall ſlay the dragon that is in the ſea.

2 In that day ſing of the vineyard [d] of red wine :

3 I the Lord do keep it : I will water it every moment, leſt any aſſail it : I will keep it night and day.

4 Anger [e] is not in me : who would ſet the briers and the thorns againſt me in battle ? I would go through them, I would burn them together.

5 Or will he [f] feel my ſtrength, that he may make peace with me, and be at one with me ?

6 [g] Hereafter Jacob ſhall take root : Iſrael ſhall flouriſh and grow, and the world ſhall be filled with fruit.

7 Hath he ſmitten [h] him as he ſmote thoſe that ſmote him ? or is he ſlain according to the ſlaughter of them that were ſlain by him ?

8 In [i] meaſure in the branches thereof wilt thou contend with it, when he bloweth with his rough wind in the day of the eaſt wind.

9 By this therefore ſhall the iniquity of Jacob be purged, and this is all the [k] fruit, the taking away of his ſin : when he ſhall make all the ſtones of the altar, as chalk ſtones broken in pieces, that the groves and images may not ſtand up.

Bef. Chr. 712.

10 Yet the [l] defenced city ſhall be deſolate, and the habitation ſhall be forſaken, and left like a wilderneſs. There ſhall the calf feed, and there ſhall he lie, and conſume the branches thereof.

11 When the boughs of it are dry, they ſhall be broken : the [m] women come, and ſet them on fire : for it is a people of no underſtanding : therefore he that made them, ſhall not have compaſſion of them : and he that formed them, ſhall have no mercy on them.

12 And in that day ſhall the Lord threſh from the channel of the [n] river unto the river of Egypt, and ye ſhall be gathered one by one, O children of Iſrael.

13 In that day alſo ſhall the great trump be [o] blown, and they ſhall come which periſhed in the land of Aſhur : and they that were chaſed into the land of Egypt, and they ſhall worſhip the Lord in the holy mount at Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Againſt the pride and drunkenneſs of Iſrael. 9 The untowardneſs of them that ſhould learn the word of God. 24 God doth all things in time and place.

WO to the [p] crown of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim : for his glorious beauty ſhall be a fading flower, which is upon the head of the [q] valley of them that be fat, and are overcome with wine.

2 Behold, the Lord hath a mighty and [r] ſtrong hoſt, like a tempeſt of hail, and a whirlwind that overthroweth, like a tempeſt of mighty waters that overfloweth, which throw to the ground mightily.

3 They ſhall be trodden under foot, even the crown and the pride of the drunkards of Ephraim.

4 For his glorious beauty ſhall be a fading flower, which is upon the head of the valley of them that be fat, and as [s] the haſty fruit afore ſum-

---

[u] Our ſorrows had no end, neither did we enjoy the comfort that we looked for.

[w] The wicked, and men without religion, were not deſtroyed.

[x] He comforteth the faithful in their afflictions, ſhewing them, that even in death they ſhall have life : and that they ſhould moſt certainly riſe to glory : the contrary ſhould come to the wicked, as ver. 14.

[y] As herbs dead in winter, flouriſh again by the rain in the ſpring-time, ſo they that lie in the duſt ſhall riſe up to joy when they feel the dew of God's grace.

[z] He exhorteth the faithful to be patient in their afflictions, and to wait upon God's work.

[a] The earth ſhall vomit and caſt out the innocent blood which it hath drunk, that it may cry for vengeance againſt the wicked.

[b] At the time appointed.

[c] That is, by his mighty power, and by his word. He propheſieth here of the deſtruction of Satan and his kingdom, under the name of Leviathan, Aſſhur, and Egypt.

[d] Meaning, of the beſt wine, which this vineyard, that is, the church, ſhould bring forth as moſt agreeable to the Lord.

[e] Therefore he will deſtroy the kingdom of Satan, becauſe he loveth his church for his own mercy's ſake, and cannot be angry with it, but wiſheth that he may pour his anger upon the wicked infidels, whom he meaneth by briers and thorns.

[f] He marvelleth, that Iſrael will not come by gentleneſs, except God make them to feel his rods, and ſo bring them to him.

[g] Though I afflict and diminiſh my people for a time, yet ſhall the root ſpring again and bring forth in great abundance.

[h] He ſheweth that God puniſheth his in mercy, and his enemies in juſtice.

[i] That is, thou wilt not deſtroy the root of thy church, though the branches thereof ſeem to periſh by the ſharp wind of affliction.

[k] He ſheweth, that there is no true repentance, nor full reconciliation to God, till the heart be purged from all idolatry, and the monuments thereof deſtroyed.

[l] Notwithſtanding his favour that he will ſhew them after, yet Jeruſalem ſhall be deſtroyed, and graſs for cattle ſhall grow in it.

[m] God ſhall not have need of mighty enemies : for the women ſhall do it to their great ſhame.

[n] He ſhall deſtroy all from Euphrates to Nilus : for ſome fled toward Egypt, thinking to have eſcaped.

[o] In the time of Cyrus, by whom they ſhould be delivered : but this was chiefly accompliſhed under Chriſt.

[p] Meaning, the proud kingdom of the Iſraelites : which were drunken with worldly proſperity.

[q] Becauſe the Iſraelites for the moſt part dwelt in moſt plentiful vallies, he meaneth hereby the valley of them that had abundance of worldly proſperity, and were, as it were, crowned therewith as with garlands.

[r] He ſeemeth to mean the Aſſyrians, by whom the ten tribes were carried away.

[s] Which is not of long continuance, but is ſoon ripe, and firſt eaten.

Bef. Chr. 725. ſummer, which when he that looketh upon it, ſeeth it, while it is in his hand he eateth it.

5 In that day ſhall the Lord of hoſts be for a crown of glory, and for a diadem of beauty unto the reſidue [t] of his people:

6 And for a ſpirit of judgment to him that ſitteth in judgment, and for [u] ſtrength unto them that turn away the battle to the gate.

7 But [w] they have erred becauſe of wine, and are out of the way by ſtrong drink: the prieſt and prophet have erred by ſtrong dtink: they are ſwallowed up with wine: they have gone aſtray through ſtrong drink: they fail in viſion: they ſtumble in judgment.

8 For all their tables are full of filthy vomiting: no place is clean.

9 [x] Whom ſhall he teach knowledge? and whom ſhall he make to underſtand the things that he heareth? them that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breaſts.

10 For [y] precept muſt be upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little, and there a little.

11 For with a ſtammering [z] tongue, and with a ſtrange language, ſhall he ſpeak unto this people.

12 Unto whom he [a] ſaid, [b] This is the reſt: [c] give reſt to him that is weary: and this is the refreſhing: but they would not hear.

13 Therefore ſhall the word of the [d] Lord be unto them, precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little, and there a little, that they may go, and fall backward, and be broken, and be ſnared, and be taken.

14 Wherefore hear the word of the Lord, ye ſcornful men, that rule this people which is at Jeruſalem.

15 Becauſe ye have ſaid, We have made a [e] covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement: though a ſcourge run over, and paſs through, it ſhall not come at us: for we have made [f] falſhood our refuge, and under vanity are we hid:

16 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will lay in Zion a ſtone, [g] a tried ſtone, a precious corner-ſtone, a ſure foundation. He that believeth [h] ſhall not make haſte.

17 Judgment alſo will I lay to the rule, and [i] righteouſneſs to the balance, and the [k] hail ſhall ſweep away the vain confidence, and the waters ſhall overflow [l] the ſecret place. Bef. Chr. 725.

18 And your covenant with death ſhall be diſannulled, and your agreement with hell ſhall not ſtand: when a ſcourge ſhall run over and paſs through, then ſhall ye be trod down by it.

19 When it paſſeth over, it ſhall take you away: for it ſhall paſs through every morning in the day, and in the night, and there ſhall be only [m] fear to make you to underſtand the hearing.

20 For the bed is [n] ſtreight that it cannot ſuffice, and the covering narrow that one cannot wrap himſelf.

21 For the Lord ſhall ſtand as in mount [o] Perazim: he ſhall be wroth as in the valley [p] of Gibeon, that he may do his work, his ſtrange work: and bring to paſs his act, his ſtrange act.

22 Now therefore be no mockers, leſt your bonds increaſe: for I have heard of the Lord of hoſts a conſumption, even determined upon the whole earth.

23 Hearken ye, and hear my voice: hearken ye, and hear my ſpeech:

24 Doth the ploughman plow all the day to ſow? doth he open and break the clots of his ground?

25 When he hath made [q] it plain, will he not then ſow the fitches, and ſow cummin, and caſt in wheat by meaſure, and the appointed barley and rye in their place?

26 For his God doth inſtruct him to have diſcretion, and doth teach him.

27 For fitches ſhall not be threſhed with a threſhing inſtrument, neither ſhall a cart wheel be turned about upon the cummin: but the fitches are beaten out with a ſtaff, and cummin with a rod.

28 Bread corn when it is threſhed, he doth not always threſh it, neither doth the wheel of his cart ſtill make a noiſe, neither will he break it with the teeth thereof.

29 This alſo cometh from the Lord of hoſts, which is wonderful in counſel, and excellent in works.

[t] Signifying, that the faithful, which put not their truſt in any worldly proſperity, but made God their glory, ſhall be preſerved.

[u] He will give counſel to the governor, and ſtrength to the captain, to drive the enemies in at their own gates.

[w] Meaning, the hypocrites which were among them, and were altogether corrupt in life and doctrine, which is here meant by drunkenneſs and vomiting.

[x] For there was none that was able to underſtand any good doctrine: but were fooliſh, and as unmeet as young babes.

[y] They muſt have one thing oft-times told.

[z] Let one teach what he can, yet they ſhall no more underſtand him, than if he ſpake in a ſtrange lauguage.

[a] That is, the prophet, whom God ſhould ſend.

[b] This is the doctrine, whereupon ye ought to ſtay and reſt.

[c] Shew to them that are weary and have need of reſt, what is the true reſt.

[d] Becauſe they will not receive the word of God when it is offered, it cometh of their own malice, if after their hearts be ſo hardened, that they care not for it, as before, chap. 6. 9.

[e] They thought they had ſhifts to avoid God's judgments, and that they ſhould eſcape though all other periſhed

[f] Though the prophets condemned their idols, and vain truſt of falſhood and vanity, yet the wicked thought in themſelves that they would truſt in theſe things.

2 But I will bring the altar into diſtreſs, and there ſhall be heavineſs and ſorrow, and it ſhall be unto me like [t] an altar.

3 And I will beſiege thee as a circle, and fight againſt thee on a mount, and will caſt up ramparts againſt thee.

4 So ſhalt thou be humbled, and ſhalt ſpeak out of the [u] ground, and thy ſpeech ſhall be as out of the duſt: thy voice alſo ſhall be out of the ground like him that hath a ſpirit of divination, and thy talking ſhall whiſper out of the duſt.

5 Moreover, the multitude of thy [w] ſtrangers ſhall be like ſmall duſt: and the multitude of ſtrong men ſhall be as chaff that paſſeth away, and it ſhall be in a moment, even ſuddenly.

6 Thou ſhalt be viſited of the Lord of hoſts with thunder, and ſhaking, and a great noiſe, a whirlwind, and a tempeſt, and a flame of a devouring fire.

7 And the [x] multitude of all the nations that fight againſt the altar, ſhall be as a dream or viſion by night: even all they that make the war againſt it, and ſtrong holds againſt it, and lay ſiege unto it.

8 And it ſhall be like as an hungry man dreameth, and behold, [y] he eateth: and when he awaketh, his ſoul is empty: or like as a thirſty man dreameth, and lo, he is drinking: and when he awaketh, behold he is faint, and his ſoul longeth: ſo ſhall the multitude of all nations be that fight againſt mount Zion.

9 [z] Stay yourſelves, and wonder, they are blind, and make you blind: they are drunken, but not with wine: they ſtagger, but not by ſtrong drink.

10 For the Lord hath covered you with a ſpirit of ſlumber, and hath ſhut up your eyes: the prophets and your chief ſeers hath he covered.

11 And the viſion of them all is become unto you as the words of a book that is ſealed up, which they deliver to one that can read, ſaying, Read this, I pray thee. Then ſhall he ſay, I [a] cannot: for it is ſealed.

12 And the book is given unto him that cannot read, ſaying, Read this, I pray thee. And he ſhall ſay, I cannot read.

14 Therefore behold, I will again do a marvellous work in this people, even a marvellous work, and a wonder: for the wiſdom of their wiſe men ſhall [d] periſh, and the underſtanding of their prudent men ſhall be hid.

15 Wo unto them that [e] ſeek deep to hide their counſel from the Lord: for their works are in darkneſs, and they ſay, Who ſeeth us? and Who knoweth us?

16 Your turning of devices ſhall it not be eſteemed [f] as the potter's clay? for ſhall the work ſay of him that made it, He made me not? or the thing formed ſay of him that faſhioned it, He had no underſtanding?

17 Is it not yet but a little while, and Lebanon ſhall be [g] turned into Carmel? and Carmel ſhall be counted as a foreſt?

18 And in that day ſhall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind ſhall ſee out of obſcurity, and out of darkneſs.

19 The meek in the Lord ſhall receive joy again, and the poor men ſhall rejoice in the holy One of Iſrael.

20 For the cruel man ſhall ceaſe, and the ſcornful ſhall be conſumed: and all that haſted to iniquity ſhall be cut off:

21 Which made a man to ſin in the [h] word, and took him in a ſnare: which reproved them in the gate, and made the juſt to fall without cauſe.

22 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord unto the houſe of Jacob, even he that redeemed Abraham, Jacob ſhall not now be confounded, neither now ſhall his face be pale.

23 But when he ſeeth his children, the work of mine hands, in the midſt of him, they ſhall ſanctify my name, and ſanctify the holy One of Jacob, and ſhall fear the God of Iſrael.

24 Then they that erred in ſpirit [i] ſhall have underſtanding, and they that murmured ſhall learn doctrine.

[r] The Hebrew word Ariel ſignifieth, the lion of God, and ſignifieth the altar, becauſe the altar ſeemeth to devour the ſacrifice that was offered to God, as Ezek. 43. 16.

[s] Your vain confidence in your ſacrifices ſhall not laſt long.

[t] Your city ſhall be full of blood, as an altar whereon they ſacrifice.

[u] Thy ſpeech ſhall be no more ſo lofty, but abaſed and low, as the very charmers which are in low places: and whiſper, ſo that their voice can ſcarce be heard.

[w] Thine hired ſoldiers, in whom thou truſteſt, ſhall be deſtroyed as duſt, or chaff in a whirlwind.

[x] The enemies that I will bring to deſtroy thee, and that which thou makeſt thy vain truſt, ſhall come at unawares, even as a dream in the night. Some read as if this were a comfort to the church for the deſtruction of their enemies.

[y] That is, he thinketh that he eateth.

[z] Muſe hereon as long as ye liſt, yet ſhall ye find nothing but occaſion to be aſtoniſhed: for your prophets are blind, and therefore cannot direct you.

[a] Meaning, that is all alike, either to read, or not to read, except God open the heart to underſtand.

[b] Becauſe they are hypocrites, and not ſincere in heart, as Matt. 15. 8.

[c] That is, their religion was learned by man's doctrine, and not by my word.

[d] Meaning, that whereas God is not worſhipped according to his word, both magiſtrates and miniſters are but fools, and without underſtanding.

[e] This is ſpoken of them which in heart deſpiſed God's word, and mocked at the admonitions, but outwardly bare a good face.

[f] For all your craft, ſaith the Lord, you cannot be able to eſcape mine hands, no more than the clay that is in the potter's hands hath power to deliver itſelf.

[g] Shall there not be a change of all things? and Carmel, that is, a plentiful place, in reſpect of that it ſhall be then, may be taken as a foreſt, as chap. 32. 15. and thus he ſpeaketh to comfort the faithful.

[h] They that went about to find fault with the prophet's words, and would not abide admonitions, but would entangle them, and bring them into danger.

2 Which walk forth to go down into Egypt (and have not aſked at my mouth) to ſtrengthen themſelves with the ſtrength of Pharaoh, and truſt in the ſhadow of Egypt.

3 But the ſtrength of Pharaoh ſhall be your ſhame, and the truſt in the ſhadow of Egypt your confuſion.

4 For his [m] princes were at Zoan, and his ambaſſadors came unto Hanes.

5 They all ſhall be aſhamed of the people that cannot profit them, nor help nor do them good, but ſhall be a ſhame, and alſo a reproach.

6 ¶ The [n] burden of the beaſts of the ſouth, in a land of trouble and anguiſh, from whence ſhall come the young and old lion, the viper, and fiery flying ſerpent againſt them that ſhall bear their riches upon the ſhoulders of the colts, and their treaſures upon the bunches of the camels, to a people that cannot profit.

7 For the Egyptians are vanity, and they ſhall help in vain. Therefore have I cried unto [o] her, Their ſtrength [p] is to ſit ſtill.

8 Now go and write [q] it before them in a table, and note it in a book, that it may be for the [r] laſt day for ever and ever:

9 That it is a rebellious people, lying children, and children that would not [s] hear the law of the Lord:

10 Which ſay unto the ſeers, See not, and to the prophets, Propheſy not unto us right things: but ſpeak flattering things unto us: propheſy [t] errors.

11 Depart out of the way: go aſide out of the path, cauſe the holy One of Iſrael to ceaſe from us.

12 Therefore thus ſaith the holy One of Iſrael, Becauſe you have caſt off this word, and truſt in [u] violence, and wickedneſs, and ſtay thereupon,

13 Therefore this iniquity ſhall be unto you as a breach that falleth, or a ſwelling in an high wall, whoſe breaking cometh ſuddenly in a moment.

14 And the breaking thereof is like the breaking of a potter's pot, which is broken without pity, and in the breaking thereof is not found [w] a ſherd to take fire out of the hearth, or to take water out of the pit.

15 For thus ſaith the [x] Lord God, the holy One of Iſrael, In reſt and quietneſs ſhall ye be ſaved: in quietneſs and in confidence ſhall be your ſtrength, but ye would not.

16 For ye have ſaid, No, but we will flee away upon [y] horſes. Therefore ſhall ye flee. We will ride upon the ſwifteſt. Therefore ſhall your perſecutors be ſwifter.

17 A thouſand as one ſhall flee at the rebuke of one: at the rebuke of five ſhall ye flee, till ye be left as a ſhip maſt upon the [z] top of a mountain, and as a beacon upon an hill.

18 Yet therefore will the Lord wait, that he may have [a] mercy upon you, and therefore will he be exalted, that he may have compaſſion upon you: for the Lord is the God of [b] judgment. Bleſſed are all they that wait for him.

19 Surely a people ſhall dwell in Zion, and in Jeruſalem: thou ſhalt weep no more: he will certainly have mercy upon thee at the voice of thy cry: when he heareth thee, he will anſwer thee.

20 And when the Lord hath given you the bread of adverſity, and the water of affliction, thy rain ſhall be no more kept back, but thine eyes ſhall ſee thy ‡ rain.

‡ Or, instructor.

21 And thine ears ſhall hear a word behind thee, ſaying, This is the way, [c] walk ye in it, when thou turneſt to the right hand, and when thou turneſt to the left.

22 And ye ſhall [d] pollute the covering of the images of ſilver, and the rich ornament of thine images of gold, and caſt them away as a menſtruous cloth, and thou ſhalt ſay unto it, [e] Get thee hence.

23 Then ſhall he give rain unto thy ſeed, when thou ſhalt ſow the ground, and bread of the increaſe of the earth, and it ſhall be fat, and as oil: in that day ſhall thy cattle be fed in large paſtures.

24 The oxen alſo and the young aſſes that till the ground, ſhall eat clean provender, which is winnowed with the ſhovel and with the fan.

25 And upon every high [f] mountain, and upon every high hill, ſhall there be rivers and ſtreams of water, in the day of the great ſlaughter, when the towers ſhall fall.

26 Moreover, the light of the moon ſhall be as the light of the [g] ſun, and the light of the ſun ſhall be ſevenfold, and like the light of ſeven days, in the day that the Lord ſhall bind up the breach of his people, and heal the ſtroke of their wound.

[n] That is, a heavy ſentence, or prophecy againſt the beaſts that carried their treaſures into Egypt, by the wilderneſs which was ſouth from Judah: ſignifying, that if the beaſts ſhould not be ſpared, the men ſhould be puniſhed much more grievouſly.

[o] To wit, to Jeruſalem.

[p] And not to come to and fro to ſeek help.

[q] That is, this prophecy.

[r] That it may be a witneſs againſt them for all poſterity.

[s] He ſheweth, what was the cauſe of their deſtruction, and bringeth alſo all miſery to man: to wit, becauſe they would not hear the word of God, but delighted to be flattered and led in error.

[t] Threaten us not by the word of God, neither be ſo rigorous, nor talk unto us in the name of the Lord, as Jer. 12. 21.

[u] Meaning, in their ſtubbornneſs againſt God, and the admonitions of his prophets.

[w] Signifying, that the deſtruction of the wicked ſhall be without recovery.

[x] Oft-times by his prophets he put you in remembrance of this, that you ſhould only depend on him.

[y] We will truſt to eſcape by our horſes.

[z] Whereon all the trees are cut down ſave two or three to make maſts.

[a] He commendeth the great mercies of God, who with patience waiteth to call ſinners to repentance.

[b] Not only in puniſhing, but in uſing moderation in the ſame, as Jer. 20. 24. and 30. 11.

[c] God ſhall direct all thy ways, and appoint thee how to go, either hither or thither.

[d] Ye ſhall caſt away your idols, which you have made of gold and ſilver, with all that belongeth unto them, as a moſt filthy thing and polluted.

[e] Shewing, that there can be no true repentance, except both in heart and deed we ſhew ourſelves enemies to idolatry.

[f] By this diverſe manner of ſpeech, he ſheweth, that the felicity of the church ſhall be ſo great, that none is able ſufficiently to expreſs it.

[g] When the church ſhall be reſtored, the glory thereof ſhall paſs ſeven times the brightneſs of the ſun: for by the ſun and moon, which are two excellent creatures, he ſheweth what ſhall be the glory of the children of God in the kingdom of Chriſt.

27 Behold, [h] the name of the Lord cometh from far, his face is burning, and the burden thereof is heavy: his lips are full of indignation, and his tongue is as a devouring fire.

28 And his Spirit is as a river that overfloweth up to the neck: it divideth aſunder, to fan the nations with the fan of [i] vanity: and there ſhall be a bridle to cauſe them to err, in the jaws of the people.

29 But there ſhall be a ſong unto you as in the [k] night, when a ſolemn feaſt is kept: and gladneſs of heart, as he that cometh with a pipe to go unto the mount of the Lord, to the mighty One of Iſrael.

30 And the Lord ſhall cauſe his glorious voice to be heard, and ſhall declare the lighting down of his arm with the anger of his countenance, and flame of a devouring fire, with ſcattering, and tempeſt, and hail-ſtones.

31 For with the voice of the Lord ſhall Aſſhur be deſtroyed, which ſmote with the [l] rod.

32 And in every place that the ſtaff ſhall paſs, it ſhall [m] cleave faſt, which the Lord ſhall lay upon him [n] with tabrets and harps: and with battles, and lifting up of hands [o] ſhall he fight againſt it.

33 For [p] Tophet is prepared of old: it is even prepared for the [q] king: he hath made it [r] deep and large: the burning thereof is fire and much wood: the breath of the Lord, like a river of brimſtone, doth kindle it.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 He curſeth them that forſake God, and ſeek for the help of men.

WO unto them that [s] go down into Egypt for help, and ſtay upon horſes, and truſt in chariots, becauſe they are many: and in horſemen, becauſe they are very ſtrong: but they look not unto the holy One of Iſrael, nor [t] ſeek unto the Lord,

2 But he yet is [u] wiſeſt: therefore he will bring evil, and not turn back his word: but he will ariſe againſt the houſe of the wicked, and againſt the help of them that work vanity.

3 Now the Egyptians are men, and not God, and their horſes fleſh, and not ſpirit: and when the Lord ſhall ſtretch out his hand, the [w] helper ſhall fall, and he that is holpen ſhall fall, and they ſhall altogether fail.

Bef. Chr. 713.

4 For thus hath the Lord ſpoken unto me, As the lion or lion's whelp roareth upon his prey, againſt whom if a multitude of ſhepherds be called, he will not be afraid at their voice, neither will humble himſelf at their noiſe: ſo ſhall the Lord of hoſts come [x] down to fight for mount Zion, and for the hill thereof.

5 As birds that flee, ſo ſhall the Lord of hoſts defend Jeruſalem by defending and delivering, by paſſing through and preſerving it.

6 O ye children of Iſrael, turn again, inaſmuch as ye are [y] ſunken deep in rebellion.

7 For in that day every man ſhall [z] caſt out his idols of gold, which your hands have made you, even a ſin.

8 [a] Then ſhall Aſſhur fall by the ſword, not of man, neither ſhall the ſword of man devour him, and he ſhall flee from the ſword, and his young men ſhall faint.

9 And he ſhall go for fear to his [b] tower, and his princes ſhall be afraid of the ſtandard, ſaith the Lord, whoſe [c] fire is in Zion, and his furnace in Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XXXII.

The conditions of good rulers and officers deſcribed by the government of Hezekiah, who was the figure of Chriſt.

BEhold, [d] a king ſhall reign in juſtice, and the princes ſhall rule [e] in judgment.

2 And that man ſhall be as an hiding place from the wind, and as a refuge for the tempeſt: as rivers of waters in a dry place, and as the ſhadow of a great rock in [f] a weary land.

3 The eyes of the [g] ſeeing ſhall not be ſhut, and the ears of them that hear ſhall hearken.

4 And the heart of the fooliſh ſhall underſtand knowledge, and the tongue of the ſtutterers ſhall be ready to ſpeak diſtinctly.

[h] This threatening is againſt the Aſſyrians, the chief enemies of the people of God.

[i] To drive them to nothing: and thus God conſumeth the wicked by that means whereby he cleanſeth his.

[k] Ye ſhall rejoice at the deſtruction of your enemies, as they that ſing for joy of the ſolemn feaſt, which began in the evening.

[m] It ſhall deſtroy.

[n] With joy and aſſurance of the victory.

[o] Againſt Babel: meaning the Aſſyrians and Babylonians.

[p] Here it is taken for hell, where the wicked are tormented, read 2 Kings 23. 10.

[q] So that their eſtate or degree cannot exempt the wicked.

[r] By theſe figurative ſpeeches he declareth the condition of the wicked after this life.

[s] There were two ſpecial cauſes why the Iſraelites ſhould not join amity with the Egyptians: firſt, becauſe the Lord had commanded them never to return thither, Deut. 17. 16. and 28. 68. leſt they ſhould forget the benefit of their redemption: and ſecondly, leſt they ſhould be corrupted with the ſuperſtition and idolatry of the Egyptians, and ſo forſake God, Jer. 2. 18.

[t] Meaning, that they forſake the Lord that put their truſt in worldly things: for they cannot truſt in both.

[u] And knoweth their crafty enterpriſes, and will bring all to nought.

[w] Meaning, both the Egyptians and the Iſraelites.

[x] He ſheweth the Jews, that if they would put their truſt in him, he is ſo able, that none can reſiſt his power: and ſo careful over them, as a bird over her young, which ever flieth about them for their defence: which ſimilitude the ſcripture uſeth in divers places, as Deut. 32. 11. Matt. 23. 37.

[y] He toucheth their conſcience, that they might earneſtly feel their grievous ſins, and ſo truly repent, foraſmuch as now they are almoſt drowned and paſt recovery.

[z] By theſe fruits your repentance ſhall be known, as ch. 2. 18.

[a] When your repentance appeareth.

[b] This was accompliſhed ſoon after, when Sennacherib's army was diſcomfited, and he fled to his caſtle in Nineveh for ſuccour.

[c] To deſtroy his enemies.

[d] This prophecy is of Hezekiah, who was a figure of Chriſt, and therefore it ought chiefly to be referred to him.

[e] By judgment and juſtice, is meant an upright government both in policy and religion.

[f] Where men are weary with travelling for lack of water.

[g] He promiſeth to give them true light, which is the pure doctrine of God's word, and underſtanding and zeal of the ſame, contrary to the threatenings againſt the wicked, ch. 6. 9. and 29. 10.

[h] Vice ſhall no more be called virtue, nor virtue eſteemed by power and riches.

empty the hungry ſoul, and to cauſe the drink of the thirſty to fail.

7 For the weapons of the churl are wicked: he deviſeth wicked counſels to undo the poor with lying words, and to ſpeak againſt the poor in judgment.

8 But the liberal man will deviſe of liberal things. and he will continue his liberality.

9 ¶ Riſe up, ye women that are at eaſe: hear my voice, ye [h] careleſs daughters: hearken to my words.

10 Ye women, that are careleſs, ſhall be in fear [i] above a year in days: [k] for the vintage ſhall fail, and the gathering ſhall come no more.

11 Ye women that are at eaſe, be aſtoniſhed: fear, O ye careleſs women: put off the cloaths: make bare, and gird ſackcloth upon the loins.

12 Men ſhall lament for the [l] teats, even for the pleaſant fields, and for the fruitful vine.

13 Upon the land of my people ſhall grow thorns and briers: yea, upon all the houſes of joy in the city of rejoicing.

14 Becauſe the palace ſhall be forſaken, and the ‡ noiſe of the city ſhall be left: the tower and fortreſs ſhall be dens for ever, and the delight of wild aſſes, and a paſture for flocks,

‡ Or, multitude.

15 Until the [m] Spirit be poured upon us from above, and the wilderneſs become a fruitful field, and the [n] plenteous field be counted as a foreſt.

16 And judgment ſhall dwell in the deſert, and juſtice ſhall remain in the fruitful field.

17 And the work of juſtice ſhall be peace, even the work of juſtice, and quietneſs and aſſurance for ever.

18 And my people ſhall dwell in the tabernacle of peace, and in ſure dwellings, and in ſafe reſting-places.

19 When it haileth, it ſhall fall on the foreſt, and the [o] city ſhall be ſet in the low place.

20 [p] Bleſſed are ye that ſow upon all waters, and [q] drive thither the feet of the ox and aſs.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The deſtruction of them by whom God hath puniſhed his church.

WO to thee that [r] ſpoileſt, and waſt not ſpoiled: and doſt wickedly, and they did not wickedly againſt thee: when thou ſhalt [s] ceaſe to ſpoil, thou ſhalt be ſpoiled: when thou ſhalt make an end of doing wickedly, [t] they ſhall do wickedly againſt thee.

2 [u] O Lord, have mercy upon us, we have waited for thee, be thou, which waſt [w] their arm in the morning, our help alſo in time of trouble.

3 At the noiſe of the tumult the [x] people fled: at thine [y] exalting the nations were ſcattered.

4 And your ſpoil ſhall be gathered like the gathering of [z] caterpillars: and [a] he ſhall go againſt him like the leaping of graſhoppers.

5 The Lord is exalted: for he dwelleth on high: he hath filled Zion with judgment and juſtice.

6 And there ſhall be ſtability of [b] thy time, ſtrength, ſalvation, wiſdom and knowledge: for the fear of the Lord ſhall be his treaſure.

7 Behold, [c] their meſſengers ſhall cry without, and the [d] ambaſſadors of peace ſhall weep bitterly.

8 The [e] paths are waſte: the wayfaring man ceaſeth: he hath broken the covenant: he hath contemned the cities: he regarded no man.

9 The earth mourneth and fainteth: Lebanon is aſhamed and hewn down: [f] Sharon is like a wilderneſs, and Baſhan is ſhaken, and Carmel.

10 Now will I [g] ariſe, ſaith the Lord: now will I be exalted, now will I lift up myſelf.

11 [h] Ye ſhall conceive chaff, and bring forth ſtubble: the fire of your breath ſhall devour you.

12 And the people ſhall be as the burning of lime: and as the thorns cut up, ſhall they be burnt in the fire.

---

[h] He propheſieth of ſuch calamity to come, that they will not ſpare the women and children, and therefore willeth them to take heed and provide.

[i] Meaning, that the affliction ſhould continue long, and when one year were paſt, yet they ſhould look for new plagues.

[k] God will take from you the means and occaſions which made you to contemn him: to wit, abundance of worldly goods.

[l] By the teats he meaneth, the plentiful fields, whereby men are nouriſhed as children with the teat: or, the mothers for ſorrow and leanneſs ſhall lack milk.

[m] That is, when the church ſhall be reſtored: thus the prophets, after they have denounced God's judgments againſt the wicked, uſe to comfort the godly, leſt they ſhould faint.

[n] The field which is now fruitful, ſhall be but as a barren foreſt in compariſon of what it ſhall be then, as chap. 29. 17. which ſhall be fulfilled in Chriſt's time; for then they that were before as the barren wilderneſs, being regenerate, ſhall be fruitful; and they that had ſome beginning of godlineſs, ſhall bring forth fruits in ſuch abundance, that their former life ſhall ſeem but as a wilderneſs where no fruits are.

[o] They ſhall not need to build it in high places for fear of the enemy: for God will defend it, and turn away the ſtorms from hurting of their commodities.

[p] That is, upon fat ground and well watered, which bringeth forth in abundance; or, in places which before were covered with waters, and now made dry for your uſes

[q] The fields ſhall be ſo rank, that they ſhall ſend out their cattle to eat up the firſt crop, which abundance ſhall be ſigns of God's favour and love towards them.

[r] Meaning, the enemies of the church, as were the Chaldeans and Aſſyrians: but chiefly of Sennacherib, but not only.

[s] When thine appointed time ſhall come, that God ſhall take away thy power: and that which thou haſt wrongfully gotten ſhall be given to others, as Amos 5. 11.

[t] The Chaldeans ſhall do like to the Aſſyrians, as the Aſſyrians did to Iſrael: and the Medes and Perſians ſhall do the ſame to the Chaldeans.

[u] He declareth hereby what is the chief refuge of the faithful when troubles come, to pray and ſeek help of God.

[w] Which helpedſt our fathers ſo ſoon as they called upon thee.

[x] That is, the Aſſyrians fled before the army of the Chaldeans, or the Chaldeans for fear of the Medes and Perſians.

[y] When thou, O Lord, didſt lift up thine arm to puniſh thine enemies.

[z] Ye that as caterpillars deſtroyed with your number the whole world, ſhall have no ſtrength to reſiſt your enemies the Chaldeans, but ſhall be gathered on an heap and deſtroyed.

[a] Meaning, the Medes and Perſians againſt the Chaldeans.

[b] That is, in the days of Hezekiah.

[c] Sent from Sennecherib.

[d] Whom they of Jeruſalem ſent to treat of peace.

[e] Theſe are the words of the ambaſſadors, when they returned from Sennacherib.

[f] Which was a plentiful country, meaning that Sennacherib would deſtroy all.

[g] To help and deliver my church.

[h] This is ſpoken againſt the enemies, who thought all was their own; but he ſheweth, that their enterpriſe ſhall be in vain, and that the fire which they had kindled for others, ſhould conſume them.

13 Hear, ye that are [i] far off, what I have done, and ye that are near, know my power.

14 The [k] ſinners in Zion are afraid: a fear is come upon the hypocrites: who among us ſhall dwell with the devouring fire? who among us ſhall dwell with the everlaſting burnings?

15 He that walketh in juſtice, and ſpeaketh righteous things, refuſing gain of oppreſſion, ſhaking his hands from taking of gifts, ſtopping his ears from hearing of blood, and ſhutting his eyes from ſeeing evil:

16 He ſhall dwell on [l] high: his defence ſhall be the munitions of rocks: bread ſhall be given him, and his waters ſhall be ſure.

17 Thine eyes ſhall [m] ſee the King in his glory: they ſhall behold the land [n] far off.

18 Thine heart [o] ſhall meditate fear, Where is the ſcribe? Where is the receiver? Where is he that counted the towers?

19 Thou ſhalt not ſee a fierce people, a people of a dark ſpeech that thou canſt not perceive, and of a ſtammering tongue that thou canſt not underſtand.

20 Look upon Zion, the city of our ſolemn feaſts: thine eyes ſhall ſee Jeruſalem a quiet habitation, a tabernacle that cannot be removed, and the ſtakes thereof can never be taken away, neither ſhall any of the cords thereof be broken.

21 For ſurely there the mighty Lord will be unto us as a place of [p] floods, and broad rivers, whereby ſhall paſs no ſhip with oars, neither ſhall great ſhips paſs thereby.

22 For the Lord is our judge, the Lord is our law-giver: the Lord is our king, he will ſave us.

23 [q] Thy cords are looſed: they could not well ſtrengthen their maſt, neither could they ſpread the ſail: then ſhall the [r] prey be divided for a great ſpoil: yea, the lame ſhall take away the prey.

24 And none inhabitant ſhall ſay, I am ſick: the people that dwell therein ſhall have their iniquity forgiven.

CHAP. XXXIV.

2 He ſheweth that God puniſheth the wicked for the love that he beareth toward his church.

COME near, ye [s] nations, and hear, and hearken, ye people: let the earth hear and all that is therein, the world and all that proceedeth thereof.

2 For the indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and his wrath upon all their armies: he hath [t] deſtroyed them, and delivered them to the ſlaughter.

3 And their ſlain ſhall be caſt out, and their ſtink ſhall come out of their bodies, and the mountains ſhall be melted with blood.

4 And all the hoſt of heaven ſhall be [u] diſſolved, and the heavens ſhall be folden like a book: and all their hoſts ſhall fall as the leaf falleth from the vine, and as it falleth from the fig-tree.

5 For my ſword ſhall be [w] drunken in the heaven: behold, it ſhall come down upon Edom, even upon the people of [x] my curſe to judgment.

6 The ſword of the Lord is filled with blood: it is made fat with the fat and with the blood of the [y] lambs and the goats, with the fat of the kidnies of the rams: for the Lord hath a ſacrafice in [z] Bozrah, and a great ſlaughter in the land of Edom.

7 And the [a] unicorn ſhall come down with them, and the heifers with the bulls, and their land ſhall be drunken with blood, and their duſt made fat with fatneſs.

8 For it is the day of the Lord's vengeance, and the year of recompence for the judgment of Zion.

9 And the rivers thereof ſhall be turned into pitch, and the duſt thereof into [b] brimſtone, and the land thereof ſhall be burning pitch.

10 It ſhall not be quenched night nor day: the ſmoak thereof ſhall go up evermore, it ſhall be deſolate from generation to generation: none ſhall paſs through it for ever.

11 But the pelican [c] and the hedge-hog ſhall poſſeſs it, and the great owl and the raven ſhall dwell in it, and he ſhall ſtretch out upon it the line of [d] vanity, and the ſtones of emptineſs.

12 [e] The nobles thereof ſhall call to the kingdom, and there ſhall be none, and all the princes thereof ſhall be as nothing.

13 And it ſhall bring forth thorns in the palaces thereof, nettles and thiſtles in the ſtrong holds thereof, and it ſhall be an habitation for dragons, and a court for oſtriches.

14 There ſhall [f] meet alſo Zim and Jim, and the ſatyr ſhall cry to his fellow, and the ſhriek-

[n] They ſhall be no more ſhut in as they were by Sennacherib, but go where it pleaſeth them.

[o] Before that this liberty cometh, thou ſhalt think that thou art in great danger: for the enemy ſhall ſo ſharply aſſail you, that one ſhall cry, Where is the clerk that writeth the names of them that are taxed? Another, Where is the receiver? Another ſhall cry for him that valueth the rich houſes: but God will deliver you from this fear.

[p] Let us be content with this ſmall river of Shiloah, and not deſire the great ſtreams and rivers whereby the enemies may bring in ſhips, and deſtroy us.

[q] He derideth the Aſſyrians and enemies of the church, declaring their deſtruction as they that periſh by ſhipwreck.

[r] He comforteth the church, and ſheweth that they ſhall be enriched with all benefits both of body and ſoul.

[s] He propheſieth of the deſtruction of the Edomites, and other nations which were enemies to the church.

[t] God hath determined in his counſel, and hath given ſentence for their deſtruction.

[u] He ſpeaketh this in reſpect of man's judgment, who in great fear and horrible troubles thinketh that heaven and earth periſheth.

[w] I have determined in my ſecret counſel, and in the heavens, to deſtroy them till my ſword be weary with ſhedding of blood.

15 There [g] ſhall the owl make her neſt, and lay, and hatch, and gather them under her ſhadow: there ſhall the vultures alſo be gathered, every one with her mate.

16 Seek in the [h] book of the Lord, and read: none of [i] theſe ſhall fail, none ſhall want her mate: for his [k] mouth hath commanded, and his very Spirit hath gathered them.

17 And he hath caſt the [l] lot for them, and his hand hath divided it unto them by line: they ſhall poſſeſs it for ever; from generation to generation ſhall they dwell in it.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 The great joy of them that believe in Chriſt. 3 Their office which preach the Goſpel. 8 The fruits that follow thereof.

THE [m] deſert and the wilderneſs ſhall rejoice, and the waſte ground ſhall be glad and flouriſh as the roſe.

2 It ſhall flouriſh abundantly, and ſhall greatly rejoice alſo and joy: the glory of Lebanon ſhall be given unto it: the beauty of [n] Carmel, and of Sharon, they ſhall [o] ſee the glory of the Lord, and the excellency of our God.

3 [p] Strengthen the weak hands, and comfort the feeble knees.

4 Say unto them that are fearful, Be you ſtrong, fear not: Behold, your God cometh with [q] vengeance, even God with a recompence, he will come and ſave you.

5 Then ſhall the eyes of the [r] blind be lightened, and the ears of the deaf be opened.

6 Then ſhall the lame man leap as an hart, and the dumb man's tongue ſhall ſing: for in the [s] wilderneſs ſhall waters break out, and rivers in the deſert.

7 And the dry ground ſhall be as a pool, and the thirſty as ſprings of water: in the habitation of dragons, where they lay, ſhall be a place for reeds and ruſhes.

8 And there ſhall be a path and a way, and the way ſhall be called [t] holy: the polluted ſhall not paſs by it: for [u] he ſhall be with them, and walk in the way, and the fools ſhall not err.

9 There ſhall be [w] no lion, nor noiſome beaſts ſhall aſcend by it, neither ſhall they be found there, that the redeemed may walk.

10 Therefore the [x] redeemed of the Lord ſhall return and come to Zion with praiſe: and everlaſting joy ſhall be upon their heads: they ſhall obtain joy and gladneſs, and ſorrow and mourning ſhall flee away.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Sennacherib ſendeth Rabſhakeh to beſiege Jeruſalem. 15 His blaſphemies againſt God.

NOW [y] in the [z] fourteenth year of king Hezekiah, Sennacherib king of Aſſhur came up againſt all the ſtrong cities of Judah, and took them.

2 And the king of Aſſhur ſent Rabſhakeh from Lachiſh toward Jeruſalem unto king Hezekiah with a great hoſt, and he ſtood by the conduit of the upper pool, in the path of the fuller's field.

3 Then came forth unto him Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah the [a] ſteward of the houſe, and Shebna [b] the chancellor, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder.

4 And [c] Rabſhakeh ſaid unto them, Tell you Hezekiah, I pray you, Thus ſaith the great king, the king of Aſſhur, What confidence is this, wherein thou truſteſt?

5 I ſay, [d] Surely I have eloquence, but counſel and ſtrength are for the war: on whom then doſt thou truſt, that thou rebelleſt againſt me?

6 Lo, thou truſteſt in this broken ſtaff of reed, on Egypt, whereupon if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: ſo is [e] Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that truſt in him.

7 But if thou ſay to me, We truſt in the Lord our God, is not that he whoſe high places and whoſe altars Hezekiah took down, and ſaid to Judah and to Jeruſalem, Ye ſhall worſhip before this altar?

8 Now therefore give hoſtages to my lord the king of Aſſhur, and I will give thee two thouſand horſes, if thou be able on thy part to ſet riders upon them.

9 For how canſt thou ‡ deſpiſe any captain of the [f] leaſt of my lord's ſervants? and put thy truſt on Egypt for chariots and for horſemen? ‡ Or, turn back.

10 And

[g] Signifying, that Idumea ſhould be an horrible deſolation, and barren wilderneſs.

[h] That is, in the law where ſuch curſes are threatened againſt the wicked.

[i] To wit, beaſts and fowls.

[k] That is, the mouth of the Lord.

[l] He hath given the beaſts and fowls, Idumea for an inheritance.

[m] He propheſieth of the full reſtoration of the church, both of the Jews and Gentiles under Chriſt, which ſhall be fully accompliſhed at the laſt day: albeit as yet it is compared to a deſart and wilderneſs.

[n] The church, which was before compared to a barren wilderneſs, ſhall by Chriſt be made moſt plenteous and beautiful.

[o] He ſheweth, that the preſence of God is the cauſe that the church doth bring forth fruit and flouriſh.

[p] He willeth all to encourage one another, and ſpecially the miniſters to exhort and ſtrengthen the weak, that they may patiently abide the coming of God which is at hand.

[q] To deſtroy your enemies.

[r] When the knowledge of Chriſt is revealed.

[s] They that were barren and deſtitute of the graces of God, ſhall have them given by Chriſt.

[t] It ſhall be for the ſaints of God, and not for the wicked.

[u] God ſhall lead and guide them, alluding to the bringing forth of Egypt.

[w] As he threatened to the wicked to be deſtroyed hereby, chap. 30. 6.

[x] Whom the Lord ſhall deliver from the captivity of Babylon.

[y] This hiſtory is rehearſed, becauſe it is a ſeal and confirmation of the doctrine afore, both for the threatenings and promiſes: to wit, that God would ſuffer his church to be afflicted, but at length would ſend deliverance.

[z] When he had aboliſhed ſuperſtition and idolatry, and reſtored religion, yet God would exerciſe his church, to try their faith and patience.

[a] For he was now reſtored to his office, as Iſaiah had propheſied, chap. 22. 20.

[b] This declareth, that there were few godly to be found in the king's houſe, when he was driven to ſend this wicked man in ſuch a weighty matter.

[c] Sennacherib's chief captain.

[d] He ſpeaketh this in the perſon of Hezekiah, chiefly charging him that he put his truſt in wit and eloquence, whereas his only confidence was in the Lord.

[e] Satan laboured to pull the godly king from one vain confidence to another: to wit, from truſt in the Egyptians, whoſe power was weak and would deceive them, to yield himſelf to the Aſſyrians, and ſo not to hope for any help of God.

[f] He reproacheth to Hezekiah his ſmall power, which is not able to reſiſt one of Sennacherib's leaſt captains.

Bef. Chr. 710.

10 And am I now come up without the Lord to this land to deſtroy it? The Lord ſaid unto me, [g] Go up againſt this land, and deſtroy it.

11 ¶ Then ſaid Eliakim, and Shebna, and Joah unto Rabſhakeh, [h] Speak, I pray thee, to thy ſervants in the Aramites language, (for we underſtand it) and talk not with us in the Jews tongue, in the audience of the people that are on the wall.

12 Then ſaid Rabſhakeh, Hath my maſter ſent me to thy maſter and to thee, to ſpeak theſe words, and not to the men that ſit on the wall? that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own † piſs with you?

† Heb. the water of their feet.

13 So Rabſhakeh ſtood and cried with a loud voice in the Jews language, and ſaid, Hear the words of the great king, of the king of Aſſhur.

14 Thus ſaith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he ſhall not be able to deliver you.

15 Neither let Hezekiah make you to truſt in the Lord, ſaying, The Lord will ſurely deliver us: this city ſhall not be given over into the hand of the king of Aſſhur.

16 Hearken not to Hezekiah: for thus ſaith the king of Aſſhur, Make [i] appointment with me, and come out to me, that every man may eat of his own vine, and every man of his own fig-tree, and drink every man the water of his own well,

17 Till I come and bring you to a land like your own land, even a land of wheat and wine, a land of bread and vineyards,

18 Leſt Hezekiah deceive you, ſaying, The Lord will deliver us. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Aſſhur?

19 Where is the god of [k] Hamath, and of Arpad? where is the god of Sepharvaim? or how have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

20 Who is he among all the gods of theſe lands that hath delivered their country out of mine hand, that the Lord ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of mine hand?

21 Then they [l] kept ſilence, and anſwered him not a word: for the king's commandment was, ſaying, Anſwer him not.

22 Then came Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah the ſteward of the houſe, and Shebna the chancellor, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah with rent cloaths, and told him the words of Rabſhakeh.

CHAP. XXXVII.

Bef. Chr. 710.

2 Hezekiah aſketh counſel of Iſaiah, who promiſeth him the victory. 10 The blaſphemy of Sennacherib. 16 Hezekiah's prayer. 36 The army of Sennacherib is ſlain of the angel, 38 And he himſelf of his own ſons.

AND * when the king Hezekiah heard it, he [m] rent his cloaths, and put on ſackcloth, and came into the houſe of the Lord.

* Kings 19. 1.

2 And he ſent Eliakim the ſteward of the houſe, and Shebna the chancellor, with the elders of the prieſts, cloathed in ſackcloth, unto [n] Iſaiah the prophet, the ſon of Amos.

3 And they ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Hezekiah, This day is a day of tribulation and of rebuke and blaſphemy: for the children are come to the [o] birth, and there is no ſtrength to bring forth.

4 If ſo be the Lord thy God hath [p] heard the words of Rabſhakeh, whom the king of Aſſhur his maſter hath ſent to rail on the living God, and to reproach him with words which the Lord thy God hath heard, then [q] lift up thy prayer for the remnant that are left.

5 So the ſervants of the king Hezekiah came to Iſaiah.

6 And Iſaiah ſaid unto them, Thus ſay unto your maſter, Thus ſaith the Lord, Be not afraid of the words that thou haſt heard, wherewith the ſervants of the king of Aſſhur hath blaſphemed me.

7 Behold, I will ſend a blaſt upon him, and he ſhall hear a [r] noiſe, and return to his own land, and I will cauſe him to fall by the ſword in his own land.

8 ¶ So Rabſhakeh returned, and found the king of Aſſhur fighting againſt [s] Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachiſh.

9 He heard alſo men ſay of Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight againſt thee: and when he heard it, he ſent other meſſengers to Hezekiah, ſaying,

10 Thus ſhall ye ſpeak to Hezekiah kings of Judah, ſaying, Let not thy God [t] deceive thee, in whom thou truſteſt, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall not be given into the hand of the king of Aſſhur.

11 Behold, thou haſt heard what the king of Aſſhur have done to all lands in deſtroying them, and ſhalt thou be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them

[g] Thus the wicked, to deceive us, will pretend the name of the Lord: but we muſt try the ſpirits, whether they be of God or no.

[h] They were afraid, leſt by his words he ſhould have ſtirred the people againſt the king, and alſo pretended to grow to ſome appointment with him.

[i] The Hebrew word ſignifieth bleſſing: whereby this wicked captain would have perſuaded the people that their condition ſhould be better under Sennacherib, than under Hezekiah.

[k] That is, of Antiochia in Syria, of the which theſe two other cities alſo were: whereby we ſee how every town had his peculiar idol, and how the wicked make God an idol, becauſe they do not underſtand that God maketh them his ſcourge, and puniſheth cities for ſin.

[l] Not that they did not ſhew by evident ſigns, that they did deteſt his blaſphemy, for they had now rent their cloaths, but they knew it was in vain to uſe long reaſoning with this infidel, whoſe rage they ſhould have ſo much more provoked.

[m] In ſign of grief and repentance.

[n] To have comfort of him by the word of God, that his faith might be confirmed, and ſo his prayer be more earneſt: teaching hereby that in all dangers theſe two are the only remedies, to ſeek unto God and his miniſters.

[o] We are in as great ſorrow as a woman that travaileth of child, and cannot be delivered.

[p] That is, will declare by effect that he hath heard it: for when God deferreth to puniſh, it ſeemeth to the fleſh that he knoweth not the ſin, or heareth not the cauſe.

[q] Declaring that the miniſter's office doth not only ſtand in comforting by the word, but alſo in praying for the people.

[r] Of the Egyptians and Ethiopians, that ſhall come and fight againſt him.

[s] Which was a city toward Egypt, thinking thereby to have ſtayed the force of his enemies.

[t] Thus God would have him to utter a moſt horrible blaſphemy before his deſtruction: as to call the author of all truth, a deceiver: ſome gather hereby, that Shebna had diſcloſed unto Sennacherib the anſwer that Iſaiah ſent to the king.

Bef. Chr. 710. them which my fathers have deſtroyed? as [u] Gozan, and [w] Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden, which were at Telaſſar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Joa?

14 ¶ So Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the meſſengers and read it, and he went up into the houſe of the Lord, and Hezekiah ſpread it before the Lord.

15 And Hezekiah prayed unto the Lord, ſaying,

16 O Lord of hoſts, God of Iſrael, which [x] dwelleſt between the cherubims, thou art very God alone over all the kingdoms of the earth: thou haſt made the heaven and the earth.

17 Incline thine ear, O Lord, and hear: open thine eyes, O Lord, and ſee: and hear all the words of Sennacherib, who hath ſent to blaſpheme the living God.

18 Truth it is, O Lord, that the kings of Asſhur have deſtroyed all lands, and [y] their country,

19 And have caſt their gods in the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, even wood or ſtone: therefore they deſtroyed them.

20 Now therefore, O Lord our God, ſave thou us out of his hand, that [z] all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou only art the Lord.

21 ¶ Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amos ſent unto Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, Becauſe thou haſt prayed unto me, concerning Sennacherib king of Aſſhur,

22 This is the word that the Lord hath ſpoken againſt him, The [a] virgin, the daughter of Zion, hath deſpiſed thee, and laughed thee to ſcorn: the daughter of Jeruſalem hath ſhaken her head at thee.

23 Whom haſt thou railed on and blaſphemed? and againſt whom haſt thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high? even againſt the [b] holy One of Iſrael.

24 By thy ſervants haſt thou railed on the Lord, and ſaid, By the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the top of the mountains, to the ſides of Lebanon, and will cut down the high cedars thereof, and the fair fir-trees thereof, and I will go up to the heights of his top, and to the foreſt of his fruitful places.

25 I have digged [c] and drunk the waters, and with the plant of my feet have I dried all the rivers cloſed in.

26 Haſt thou not heard how I have of old time made it, [d] and have formed it long ago? and ſhould I now bring it, that it ſhould be deſtroyed, and laid on ruinous heaps, as cities defenced, Bef. Chr. 710.

27 Whoſe inhabitants † have ſmall power, and are afraid and confounded? they are like the graſs of the field and green herb, or graſs on the houſe-tops, or corn blaſted [e] afore it be grown.

† Heb. are ſhort in hand.

28 But I know thy dwelling, and thy going [f] out, and thy coming in, and thy fury againſt me.

29 Becauſe thou rageſt againſt me, and thy tumult is come up unto mine ears, therefore will I put my [g] hook in thy noſtrils, and my bridle in thy lips, and will bring thee back again the ſame way thou [h] cameſt.

30 And this ſhall be a [i] ſign unto thee, O Hezekiah, Thou ſhalt eat this year ſuch as groweth of itſelf: and the [k] ſecond year, ſuch things as grow without ſowing: and in the third year, ſow ye and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof.

31 And the [l] remnant that is eſcaped of the houſe of Judah ſhall again take root downward, and bear fruit upward.

32 For out of Jeruſalem ſhall go a remnant, and they that eſcape out of mount Zion: the zeal of the Lord of hoſts ſhall do this.

33 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord concerning the king of Aſſhur, He ſhall not enter into this city, nor ſhoot an arrow there, nor come before it with ſhield, nor caſt a mount againſt it.

34 By the ſame way that he came, he ſhall return, and not come into this city, ſaith the Lord.

35 For I will defend this city to ſave it, for mine own ſake, and for my ſervant [m] David's ſake.

36 ¶ * Then the angel of the Lord went out, and ſmote in the camp of Aſſhur an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand: ſo when they aroſe early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpſes.

* 2 Kings 19. 35. 2 Chron. 32.

37 So Sennacherib king of Aſſhur departed and went away, and returned and dwelt at [n] Nineveh.

38 And as he was in the temple worſhipping of Niſroch his god, Adrammelech and Sharezer his ſons ſlew him with the ſword, and they eſcaped into the land of ‡ Arrat: and [o] Eſarhaddon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

11 I ſaid, [w] I ſhall not ſee the Lord, even the Lord in the land of the living: I ſhall ſee man no more among the inhabitants of the world.

12 Mine habitation is departed, and is removed from me, like a ſhepherd's tent: I [x] have cut off like a weaver my life: he will cut me off from the height: from day [y] to night thou wilt make an end of me.

13 I reckoned [z] to the morning: but he brake all my bones, like a lion: from day to night wilt thou make an end of me.

14 Like a crane, or a ſwallow, ſo did I [a] chatter: I did mourn as a dove: mine eyes were lift up on high: O Lord, [b] it hath oppreſſed me, comfort me.

15 What ſhall I ſay? [c] for he hath ſaid it to me, and he hath done it, I ſhall walk [d] weakly all my years in the bitterneſs of my ſoul.

16 O Lord, [e] to them that overlive them, and to all that are in them, the life of my ſpirit, ſhall be known, that thou cauſeſt me to [f] ſleep, and haſt given life to me.

17 Behold, for [g] felicity I had bitter grief, but it was thy pleaſure to deliver my ſoul from the pit of corruption: for thou haſt caſt all my ſins [h] behind thy back.

18 For [i] the grave cannot confeſs thee: death cannot praiſe thee: they that go down into the pit, cannot hope of thy truth.

19 But the living, the living, he ſhall confeſs thee, as I do this day: the father to the [k] children ſhall declare thy truth.

20 The Lord was ready to ſave me: therefore we will ſing my ſong all the days of [l] our life in the houſe of the Lord.

21 Then ſaid Iſaiah, Take a lump of dry figs, and [m] lay it upon the boil, and he ſhall recover.

22 Alſo Hezekiah [n] had ſaid, What is the ſign, and I ſhall go up into the houſe of the Lord?

CHAP. XXXIX.

Hezekiah is reproved, becauſe he ſheweth his treaſures unto the ambaſſadors of Babylon.

*2 Kings 20. 12.

AT * the ſame time, [o] Merodach-baladan, the ſon of Baladan, king of Babel, ſent [p] letters, and a preſent to Hezekiah: for he had heard that he had been ſick, and was recovered.

[o] Soon after that the Aſſyrians were ſlain: ſo that God will have the exerciſe of his children continual: that they may learn only to depend upon God, and aſpire to the heavens.

[p] For his heart was touched with fear of God's judgment, ſeeing he had appointed him to die, ſo quickly after his deliverance from ſo great calamity, as one unworthy to remain in that eſtate, and alſo foreſeeing the great change that ſhould come in the church, foraſmuch as he left no ſon to reign after him: for as yet Manaſſeh was not born: and when he reigned, we ſee what a tyrant he was.

[q] He doth not only promiſe of prolong his life, but to give him reſt and quietneſs from the Aſſyrians, who might have renewed their army to revenge their former diſcomfiture.

[r] For Hezekiah had aſked for the confirmation of his faith, a ſign, as ver. 22. and 2 King 20. 8. whereunto he was moved by the ſingular motion of God's Spirit.

[s] Read 2 Kings 20. 10.

[t] He left this ſong of his lamentation and thankſgiving to all poſterity, as a monument to his own infirmity and thankful heart for God's benefits, as David did, Pſalm 51.

[u] At what time it was told me that I ſhould die.

[w] I ſhall no more praiſe the Lord here in this temple among the faithful: thus God ſuffereth his deareſt children to want his conſolation for a time, that his grace afterward may the more appear when they feel their own weakneſs.

[x] By my ſin I have provoked God to take my life from me.

[y] That is, in one day, or ſhortly.

[z] Over-night I thought that I ſhould live till morning, but my pangs in the night perſuaded me the contrary: he ſheweth the horror that the faithful have when they apprehend God's judgments againſt their ſin.

[a] I was ſo oppreſt with ſorrow, that I was not able to utter my words, but only to groan and ſigh.

[b] To wit, ſorrow and grief both of body and mind.

[c] God hath declared by his prophet that I ſhall die, and therefore I will yield unto him.

[d] I ſhall have no releaſe, but continual ſorrows while I live.

[e] They that ſhall overlive the men that are now alive, and all they that are in theſe years ſhall acknowledge this benefit.

[f] That after that thou hadſt condemned me to death, thou reſtoredſt me to life.

[g] Whereas I thought to have lived in reſt and eaſe, being delivered from mine enemy, I had grief upon grief.

[h] He eſteemeth more the remiſſion of his ſins, and God's favour, than a thouſand lives.

[i] Foraſmuch as God hath placed man in this world to glorify him, the godly take it as a ſign of his wrath when their days were ſhortened, either becauſe that they ſeemed unworthy for their ſins to live longer in his ſervice: or for their zeal to God's glory, ſeeing that there are ſo few in earth that do regard it, Pſalm 6. 5. and 115. 17.

[k] All poſterity ſhall acknowledge, and the fathers, according to their duty toward the children, ſhall inſtruct them in thy graces and mercies toward me.

[l] He ſheweth what is the uſe of the congregation and church, to wit, to give the Lord thanks for his benefits.

[m] Read 2 Kings 20. 7.

[n] As ver. 9.

[o] This was the firſt king of Babylon, which overcame the Aſſyrians in the tenth year of his reign.

[p] Partly moved with the greatneſs of the miracle, partly becauſe he ſhewed himſelf enemy ot his enemies; but chiefly, becauſe he would join with them whom God favoured, and have their help if occaſion ſerved.

Bef. Chr. 712. 2 And Hezekiah was [q] glad of them, and ſhewed them the houſe of the treaſures, the ſilver, and the gold, and the ſpices, and the precious ointment, and all the houſe of his armour, and all that was found in his treaſures: there was nothing in his houſe, nor in all his kingdom, that Hezekiah ſhewed them not.

3 Then came Iſaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and ſaid unto him, What ſaid theſe men? and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekiah ſaid, They are come from a far country unto me, from Babel.

4 Then ſaid he, What have they ſeen in thine houſe? And Hezekiah anſwered, All that is in mine houſe have they ſeen: there is nothing among my treaſures that I have not ſhewed them.

5 And Iſaiah ſaid to Hezekiah, Hear the word of the Lord of hoſts:

6 Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine houſe, and which thy fathers have laid up in ſtore until this day, ſhall be [s] carried to Babel: nothing ſhall be left, ſaith the Lord.

7 And of thy ſons, that ſhall proceed out of thee, and which thou ſhalt beget, ſhall they take away, and they ſhall be [t] eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babel.

8 [u] Then ſaid Hezekiah to Iſaiah, The word of the Lord is good, which thou haſt ſpoken: and he ſaid, Yet let there be peace and truth in my days.

CHAP. XL.

2 Remiſſion of ſins by Chriſt. 3 The coming of John Baptiſt. 18 The prophet reproveth the idolaters and them that truſt not in the Lord.

COmfort [w] ye, comfort ye my people, will your God ſay:

2 Speak comfortably to Jeruſalem, and cry unto her, that her [x] warfare is accompliſhed, that her iniquity is pardoned: for ſhe hath received of the Lord's hand [y] double for all her ſins.

3 A [z] voice crieth in the [a] wilderneſs, [b] Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make ſtraight in the deſert a path for our God.

4 Every valley ſhall be exalted, and every [c] mountain and hill ſhall be made low: and the crooked ſhall be ſtraight, and the rough places plain.

5 And the glory of the Lord ſhall be revealed, and all [d] fleſh ſhall ſee it together: for the mouth of the Lord hath ſpoken it. Bef. Chr. 712.

6 A [e] voice ſaid, Cry. And he ſaid, What ſhall I cry? All fleſh is graſs, and all the [f] grace thereof is as the flower of the field.

7 The graſs withereth, the flower fadeth, becauſe [g] the Spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it: ſurely the people is graſs.

8 The graſs withereth, the flower fadeth: but the [h] word of our God ſhall ſtand for ever.

9 ¶ O Zion, that bringeſt good tidings, get thee up into the high [i] mountain: O Jeruſalem, that bringeſt good tidings, lift up thy voice with ſtrength: lift it up, be not afraid: ſay unto the cities of Judah, Behold [k] your God.

10 Behold, the Lord God will come with power; and [l] his arm ſhall rule for him, behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him.

11 He ſhall feed his flock like a ſhepherd: he ſhall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his boſom, and ſhall guide them with [m] young.

12 Who hath meaſured the waters in his [n] fiſt? and counted heaven with a ſpan, and comprehended the duſt of the earth in a meaſure? and weighed the mountains in a weight, and the hills in a balance?

13 Who hath inſtructed the Spirit of the Lord? or was [o] his counſellor, or taught him?

14 Of whom took he counſel, and who inſtructed him, and taught him in the way of judgment? or taught him knowledge, and ſhewed unto him the way of underſtanding?

15 Behold, the nations are as a drop of a bucket, and are counted as the duſt of the balance: behold, he taketh away the iſles as a little duſt.

16 And Lebanon is not ſufficient for fire, nor the beaſts thereof ſufficient for a burnt-offering.

17 All nations before him are as [p] nothing, and they are counted to him leſs than nothing, and vanity.

18 To whom then [q] will ye liken God? or what ſimilitude will ye ſet unto him?

19 The workman melteth an image, or the goldſmith beateth it out in gold, or the goldſmith maketh ſilver plates.

20 Doth not the [r] poor chuſe out a tree that will

[r] He aſketh him of the particulars, to make him underſtand the craft of the wicked, which he before, being overcome with their flattery, and blinded with ambition, could not ſee.

[s] By the grievouſneſs of the puniſhment is declared how greatly God deteſteth ambition and vain glory.

[t] That is, officers and ſervants.

[u] Read 2 Kings 20. 19.

[w] That is, a conſolation for the church, aſſuring them that they ſhall be never deſtitute of prophets; whereby he exhorteth the true miniſters of God that then were, and thoſe alſo that ſhould come after him, to comfort the poor afflicted, and to aſſure them of their deliverance both of body and ſoul.

[x] The time of the affliction.

[y] Meaning, ſufficient, as chap. 61. 7. and full correction, or double grace, whereas ſhe deſerved double puniſhment.

[z] To wit, of the prophets.

[a] That is, in Babylon, and other places, where they were kept in captivity and miſery.

[b] Meaning, Cyrus and Darius, which ſhould deliver God's people out of captivity, and make them a ready way to Jeruſalem: and this was fully accompliſhed when John the Baptiſt brought tidings of Jeſus Chriſt's coming, who was the true deliverer of his church from ſin and Satan. Matt. 3. 3.

[c] Whatſoever may let or hinder this deliverance, ſhall be emoved.

[d] This miracle ſhall be ſo great, that it ſhall be known through all the world.

[e] The voice of God which ſpake to the prophet Iſaiah.

[f] Meaning, all man's wiſdom and natural powers, James 1. 10. 1 Pet. 1. 24.

[g] The Spirit of God ſhall diſcover the vanity in all that ſeem to have any excellency of themſelves.

[h] Though conſidering the frailty of man's nature, many of the Jews ſhould periſh, and ſo not be partakers of this deliverance, yet God's promiſe ſhould be fulfilled: and they that remained ſhould feel the fruit thereof.

[i] To publiſh this benefit through all the world.

[k] He ſheweth at one word the perfection of all man's felicity, which is to have God's preſence.

[l] His power ſhall be ſufficient without help of any other, and ſhall have all means in himſelf to bring his will to paſs.

[m] He ſhall ſhew his care and favour over them that are weak and tender.

[n] Declaring, that as God only hath all power, ſo doth he uſe the ſame for the defence and maintenance of his church.

[o] He ſheweth God's infinite wiſdom for the ſame end and purpoſe.

[p] He ſpeaketh all this to the intent that they ſhould neither fear man, nor put their truſt in any, ſave only in God.

[q] Hereby he armeth them againſt the idolatry wherewith they ſhould be tempted in Babylon.

[r] He ſheweth the rage of the idolaters, ſeeing that the poor that have not to ſuffice their own neceſſities, will defraud themſelves to ſerve their idols.

Bef. Chr. 712. will not rot for an oblation? he ſeeketh alſo unto him a cunning workman, to prepare an image that ſhall not be moved.

21 Know ye nothing? have ye not heard [s] it? hath it not been told you from the beginning? have ye not underſtood it by the [t] foundation of the earth?

22 He ſitteth upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as graſhoppers: he ſtretcheth out the heavens as a curtain, and ſpreadeth them as a tent to dwell in.

23 He bringeth the princes to nothing, and maketh the judges of the earth as vanity,

24 As though they were not planted, as though they were not ſown, as though their ſtock took no root in the earth: for he did even [u] blow upon them, and they withered, and the whirlwind will take them away as ſtubble.

25 To whom now will ye liken me, that I ſhould be like him, ſaith the holy One?

26 Lift up your eyes on high, and behold, who hath created theſe things, and bringeth [w] out their armies by number, and calleth them all by names: by the greatneſs of his power and mighty ſtrength nothing faileth.

27 Why ſayeſt thou, O Jacob, and ſpeakeſt, O Iſrael, [x] My way is hid from the Lord, and my judgment is paſſed over of my God?

28 Knoweſt thou not, or haſt thou not heard, that the everlaſting God, the Lord, hath created the [y] ends of the earth? he neither fainteth, nor is weary: there is no ſearching of his [z] underſtanding.

29 But he giveth ſtrength unto him that fainteth, and unto him that hath no ſtrength, he increaſeth power.

30 [a] Even the young men ſhall faint and be weary, and the young men ſhall ſtumble and fall.

31 But they that wait upon the Lord, ſhall renew their ſtrength: they ſhall lift up their wings as the eagles: they ſhall run, and not be weary, and they ſhall walk, and not faint.

2 God's mercy in chuſing his people. 6 Their idolatry. 27 Deliverance promiſed to Zion.

KEEP [b] ſilence before me, O iſlands, and let the people [c] renew their ſtrength: let them come near, and let them ſpeak: let us come together into judgment.

2 Who raiſed up [d] juſtice from the Eaſt, and called him to his foot? and gave the nations before him, and ſubdued the kings? he gave them as duſt to the ſword, and as ſcattered ſtubble unto his bow. Bef. Chr. 712.

3 He purſued them, and paſſed ſafely by the way that he had not gone with his feet.

4 Who hath wrought and done it? he that calleth the [e] generations from the beginning. I the Lord am the [f] firſt, and with the laſt I am the ſame.

5 The iſles ſaw it, and did [g] fear, and the ends of the earth were abaſhed, drew near, and [h] came.

6 Every man helped his neighbour, and ſaid to his brother, [i] Be ſtrong.

7 So the workmen comforted the founder, and he that ſmote with the hammer, him that ſmote by courſe, ſaying, It is ready for the ſoldering, and he faſtened it with nails, that it ſhould not be moved.

8 ¶ But thou, Iſrael, art my [k] ſervant, and thou Jacob, whom I have choſen, the ſeed of Abraham my friend.

9 For I have taken thee from the ends of the earth, and called thee before the chief thereof, and ſaid unto thee, Thou art my ſervant, I have choſen thee, and not caſt thee away.

10 Fear thou not, for I am with thee: be not afraid, for I am thy God: I will ſtrengthen thee, and help thee, and will ſuſtain thee with the [l] right hand of my juſtice.

11 Behold, all they that provoke thee, ſhall be aſhamed and confounded: they ſhall be as nothing, and they that ſtrive with thee, ſhall periſh.

12 Thou ſhalt ſeek them, and ſhalt not [m] find them: to wit, the men of ſtrife, for they ſhall be as nothing, and the men that war againſt thee as a thing of nought.

13 For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, ſaying unto thee, Fear not, I will help thee.

14 Fear not, thou [n] worm Jacob, and ye men of Iſrael: I will help thee, ſaith the Lord, and thy Redeemer the holy One of Iſrael.

15 Behold, I will make thee a roller, and a new threſhing inſtrument having teeth: thou ſhalt threſh [o] the mountains, and bring them to powder, and ſhalt make the hills as chaff.

16 Thou ſhalt fan them, and the wind ſhall carry them away, and the whirlwind ſhall ſcatter them: and thou ſhalt rejoice in the Lord, and ſhalt glory in the holy One of Iſrael.

[s] Have ye not the word of God, which plainly condemneth idolatry?

[t] Can you not learn by the viſible creatures whom God hath made to ſerve your uſe, that you ſhould not ſerve them, nor worſhip them?

[u] So that his power appeareth in every place whereſoever we turn our eyes.

[w] Who hath ſet in order the infinite number of the ſtars?

[x] He rebuketh the Jews, becauſe they did not reſt on the providence of God, but thought that he had forſaken them in their troubles.

[y] And therefore all power is in his hand, to deliver when his time cometh.

[z] Shewing, that men muſt patiently abide, and not curiouſly ſeek out the cauſe of God's delay in our afflictions.

[a] They that truſt in their own virtue, and do not acknowledge that all cometh of God.

[b] God, as though he pleaded his cauſe with all nations, requireth ſilence, that he may be heard in his right.

[c] That is, gather all their power and ſupports.

[d] Who called Abraham (who was the pattern of God's juſtice in delivering his church) from the idolatry of the Chaldeans, to go to and fro at his commandment, and placed him in the land of Canaan?

[e] Who hath created man, and maintained his ſucceſſion?

[f] Though the world ſet up never ſo many gods, yet they diminiſh nothing of my glory: for I am all one, unchangeable, which have ever been, and ſhall be for ever.

[g] Conſidering mine excellent works among my people.

[h] They aſſembled themſelves, and conſpired againſt me to maintain their idolatry.

[i] He noteth the obſtacle of the idolaters to maintain their ſuperſtition.

[k] And therefore oughteſt not to pollute thyſelf with the ſuperſtition of the Gentiles.

[l] That is, by the force of my promiſe, in the performance whereof I will ſhew myſelf faithful and juſt.

[m] Becauſe they ſhall be deſtroyed.

[n] Thus he calleth them, becauſe they were contemned of all the world; and that they, conſidering their own poor eſtate, ſhould ſeek unto him for help.

[o] I will make thee able to deſtroy all thine enemies, be they never ſo mighty: and this chiefly is referred to the kingdom of Chriſt.

[p] That is, they that ſhall be afflicted in the captivity of Babylon.

I the Lord will hear them: I the God of Iſrael will not forſake them.)

18 I will open rivers in the tops of the hills, and fountains in the midſt of the vallies. I will make the wilderneſs as a pool of water, and the waſte [q] land as ſprings of water.

19 I will ſet in the wilderneſs the cedar, the Shittah-tree, and the myrrh-tree, and the pine-tree, and I will ſet in the wilderneſs the fir-tree, the elm, and the box-tree together.

20 Therefore let them ſee and know, and let them conſider and underſtand together, that the hand of the Lord hath done this, and the holy One of Iſrael [r] hath created it.

21 [s] Stand to your cauſe, ſaith the Lord: bring forth your ſtrong reaſons, ſaith the King of Jacob.

22 Let them bring them forth, and let them tell us what ſhall come: let them ſhew the former things what they be, that we may conſider them, and know the latter end of them: either declare us things for to come.

23 Shew the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that ye are gods: yea, do good or do evil, that we may declare it, and behold it together.

24 Behold, ye are of no value, and your making is of nought: man hath [t] choſen an abomination by them.

25 ¶ I have raiſed up [u] from the North, and he ſhall come: from the Eaſt ſun ſhall [w] he call upon my name, and ſhall come upon [x] princes as upon clay, and as the potter treadeth mire under the foot.

26 Who hath declared from the beginning, that we may know? or before time, that we may ſay, He is righteous? Surely there is none that ſheweth: ſurely there is none that declareth: ſurely there is none that heareth [y] your words.

27 I am the firſt that ſaith to Zion, Behold, behold [z] them: and I will give to Jeruſalem [a] one that ſhall bring good tidings.

28 But when [b] I beheld, there was none: and when I enquired of them, there was no counſellor: and when I demanded of them, they anſwered not a word.

29 Behold, they are all vanity: their work is of nothing, their images are wind and confuſion.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The obedience and humility of Chriſt. 6 Why he was ſent into the world. 11 The vocation of the Gentiles.

BEHOLD, [c] my ſervant: [d] I will ſtay upon him: mine elect, in whom my ſoul [e] delighteth: I have put my Spirit upon him: he ſhall bring forth [f] judgment to the Gentiles.

2 He ſhall not [g] cry, nor lift up, nor cauſe his voice to be heard in the ſtreet.

3 A [h] bruiſed reed ſhall he not break, and the ſmoaking [i] flax ſhall he not quench: he ſhall bring forth judgments in [k] truth.

4 He ſhall not fail nor be diſcouraged till he have [l] ſet judgment in the earth: and the [m] iſles ſhall wait for his law.

5 Thus ſaith God the Lord (he that created the heavens, and ſpread them abroad: he that ſtretched forth the earth, and the buds thereof: he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and ſpirit to them that walk therein)

6 I the Lord have called thee in [n] righteouſneſs, and will [o] hold thine hand, and I will keep thee, and give thee for a [p] covenant of the people, and for a light of the Gentiles,

7 That thou mayeſt open the eyes of the blind, and bring out the priſoners from the priſon: and them that ſit in darkneſs out of the priſon houſe.

8 I am the Lord, this is my name, and my [q] glory will I not give to another, neither my praiſe to graven images.

9 Behold, the former things are [r] come to paſs, and new things do I declare: before they come forth, I tell you of them.

10 Sing unto the Lord a new ſong, and his praiſe from the end of the earth: ye that go down to the ſea, and all that is therein: the iſles and the inhabitants thereof.

11 Let the wilderneſs and the cities thereof lift up their voice, the towns that [s] Kedar doth inhabit: let the inhabitants of the rocks ſing, let them ſhout from the top of the mountains.

[q] God will rather change the order of nature, than they ſhould want any thing that cry to him by true faith in their miſeries: declaring to them hereby, that they ſhall lack nothing by the way, when they return from Babylon.

[r] That is, hath appointed and determined that it ſhall ſo come to paſs.

[s] He biddeth the idolaters to prove their religion, and to bring forth their idols, that they may be tried whether they know all things, and can do all things: which if they cannot do, he concludeth that they are no gods, but vile idols.

[t] So that a man cannot make an idol, but he muſt do that which God deteſteth and abhorreth: for he chuſeth his own devices, and forſaketh the Lord's.

[u] Meaning, the Chaldeans.

[w] That is, Cyrus, who ſhall do all things in my name, and by my direction: whereby he meaneth, that both their captivity and deliverance ſhall be ordered by God's providence and appointment.

[x] Both of the Chaldeans and others.

[y] Meaning, that none of the Gentile gods can work any of theſe things.

[z] That is, the Iſraelites: which return from the captivity.

[a] To wit, a continual ſucceſſion of prophets and miniſters.

[b] When I looked whether the idols could do theſe things, I found that they had neither wiſdom nor power to do any thing: therefore he concludeth, that all are wicked that truſt in ſuch vanity.

[c] That is, Chriſt, who in reſpect of his manhood is called here, ſervant. The prophets uſe to make mention of Chriſt after they have declared any great promiſe, becauſe he is the foundation whereupon all the promiſes are made and ratified.

[d] For I have committed all my power to him, as to a moſt faithful ſteward. Some read, I will eſtabliſh him: to wit, in his office, by giving him the fulneſs of my Spirit.

[e] He only is acceptable unto me, and they that come unto me by him: for there is no other means of reconciliation, Matt. 12. 18. Epheſ. 1. 4.

[f] He ſhall declare himſelf governor over the Gentiles, and call them by his word, and rule them by his Spirit.

[g] His coming ſhall not be with pomp and noiſe, as earthly princes.

[h] He will not hurt the weak and feeble, but ſupport and comfort them.

[i] Meaning, the wick of a lamp or candle, which is almoſt out: but he will cheriſh it, and ſnuff it, that it may ſhine brighter.

[k] Although he favour the weak, yet will he not ſpare the wicked, but will judge them according to truth and equity.

[l] Till he have ſet all things in good order.

[m] The Gentiles ſhall be deſirous to receive his doctrine.

[n] Meaning, unto a lawful and juſt vocation.

[o] To aſſiſt and guide thee.

[p] As him, by whom the promiſe made to all nations in Abraham ſhall be fulfilled.

[q] I will not ſuffer my glory to be diminiſhed: which I ſhould do, if I were not faithful in performing the ſame, and the idolaters thereby would extol their idols above me.

[r] As in time paſt I have been true in my promiſes, ſo will I be in time to come.

[s] Meaning, the Arabians, under whom he comprehendeth all the people of the eaſt.

12 Let them give glory unto the Lord, and declare his praiſe in the iſlands.

13 The Lord ſhall go forth as a [t] giant: he ſhall ſtir up his courage like a man of war: he ſhall ſhout and cry, and ſhall prevail againſt his enemies.

14 I have a long time holden my peace: I have been ſtill, and refrained myſelf: now will I cry like a [u] travailing woman: I will deſtroy and devour at once.

15 I will make waſte mountains and hills, and dry up all the herbs, and I will make the floods iſlands, and I will dry up the pools.

16 ¶ And I will bring the [w] blind by a way that they knew not, and lead them by paths that they have not known: I will make darkneſs light before them, and crooked things ſtreight. Theſe things will I do unto them, and not forſake them.

17 They ſhall be turned back: they ſhall be greatly aſhamed that truſt in graven images, and ſay to the molten images, Ye are our gods.

18 ¶ Hear, ye deaf: and ye blind, regard, that ye may ſee.

19 Who is blind but my [x] ſervant? or deaf but my [y] meſſenger, that I ſent? Who is blind as the [z] perfect, and blind as the Lord's ſervant?

20 Seeing many things, but thou keepeſt them not? opening the ears, but he heareth not.

21 The Lord is willing for his righteouſneſs ſake, that he may magnify the law, and exalt it.

22 But this people is [a] robbed and ſpoiled, and ſhall be all ſnared in dungeons, and they ſhall be hid in priſon houſes: they ſhall be for a prey, and none ſhall deliver: a ſpoil, and none ſhall ſay, [b] Reſtore.

23 Who among you ſhall hearken to this, and take heed, and hear for [c] afterwards?

24 Who gave Jacob for a ſpoil, and Iſrael to the robbers? Did not the Lord, becauſe we have ſinned againſt him? for they would not walk in his ways, neither be obedient unto his law.

25 Therefore he hath poured upon him his fierce wrath, and the ſtrength of battle: and it ſet him on fire round about, and he knew not: and it burned him up, yet he conſidered not.

CHAP. XLIII.

2 The Lord comforteth his people. He promiſeth deliverance to the Jews. 11 There is no God but one alone.

BUT now thus ſaith the Lord [d] that created thee, O Jacob: and he that formed thee, O Iſrael, [e] fear not: for I have redeemed thee: I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine.

2 When thou paſſeſt through the [f] waters, I will be with thee; and through the floods, that they do not overflow thee. When thou walkeſt through the very fire, thou ſhalt not be burnt, neither ſhall the flame kindle upon thee.

3 For I am the Lord thy God, the holy One of Iſrael, thy Saviour: I gave [g] Egypt for thy ranſom, Ethiopia and Seba for thee.

4 Becauſe thou waſt precious in my ſight, and thou waſt honourable, and I loved thee, therefore will I give [h] man for thee, and people for thy ſake.

5 Fear not, for I am with thee: I will bring thy ſeed from the [i] Eaſt, and gather thee from the Weſt.

6 I will ſay to the north, Give: and to the ſouth, Keep not back: bring my ſons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth.

7 Every one ſhall be called by my [k] name: for I created him for my glory, formed him, and made him.

8 I will bring forth the blind people, and they ſhall have eyes: and thedeaf, and they ſhall have ears.

9 Let all the nations be gathered [l] together, and let the people be aſſembled: who among them can declare this, and ſhew us former things? let them bring forth [m] witneſſes, that they may be juſtified: but let them [n] hear, and ſay, It is truth.

10 You are my witneſſes, ſaith [o] the Lord, and my [p] ſervant, whom I have choſen: therefore ye ſhall know and believe me, and ye ſhall underſtand that I am: before me there was no God formed, neither ſhall there be after me.

11 I, even I am the Lord, and beſide me there is no Saviour.

12 I have declared, and I have ſaved, and I have ſhewed, when there was no ſtrange god among you: therefore you are my witneſſes, ſaith the Lord, that I am God.

---

[t] He ſheweth the zeal of the Lord, and his power in the conſervation of his church.

[u] I will haſte to execute my vengeance which I have ſo long deferred, as a woman that deſireth to be delivered when ſhe is in travail.

[w] That is, my poor people, which are in perplexity and care.

[x] To wit, Iſrael, which ſhould have moſt light becauſe of my law.

[y] The prieſt to whom my word is committed, which ſhould not only hear it himſelf, but cauſe others to hear it.

[z] As the prieſts and prophets that ſhould be lights to others.

[a] Becauſe they will not acknowledge this benefit of the Lord, who is ready to deliver them, he ſuffereth them to be ſpoiled of their enemies through their own faults and incredulity.

[b] There ſhall be none to ſuccour them, or to will the enemy to reſtore that which he hath ſpoiled.

[c] Meaning God's wrath.

[d] After theſe threatenings he promiſeth deliverance to his church, becauſe he hath regenerated them, adopted them, and called them.

[e] When thou ſeeſt dangers and conſpiracies on all ſides, remember this benefit and the love of thy God, and it ſhall encourage thee.

[f] By water and fire, he meaneth all kind of troubles and perils.

[g] I turned Sennacherib's power againſt theſe countries, and made them to ſuffer that affliction which thou ſhouldeſt have done, and ſo were as the payment of thy ranſom, chap. 37.9.

[h] I will not ſpare any man, rather than thou ſhouldeſt periſh: for God more eſteemeth one of his faithful, than all the wicked in the world.

[i] He propheſieth of their deliverance from the captivity of Babylon, and ſo of the calling of the univerſal church, alluding to that which is written, Deut. 30. 3.

[k] Meaning, that he could not be unmindful of them, except he would neglect his own name and glory.

[l] Signifying, that no power can reſiſt him in doing this miraculous work, nor all their idols are able to do the like, as chap. 41. 22.

[m] To prove that the things which are ſpoken of them are true.

[n] Shewing, that the malice of the wicked hindereth them in the knowledge of the truth, becauſe they will not hear when God ſpeaketh by his word.

[o] The prophets and people to whom I have given my law.

[p] Meaning, ſpecially Chriſt, and by him all the faithful.

13 Yea, before the day was, I am, and there is none that can deliver out of mine hand: I will do it, and who ſhall let it?

14 Thus ſaith the Lord your Redeemer, the holy One of Iſrael, For your ſake I have ſent to Babylon, and [p] brought it down: they are all fugitives, and the Chaldeans cry in [q] the ſhips.

15 I am the Lord, your holy One: the creator of Iſrael, your king.

16 Thus ſaith the Lord which maketh a way in [r] the ſea, and a path in the mighty [s] waters,

17 When he [t] bringeth out the [u] chariot and horſe, the army and the power lie together, and ſhall not riſe, they are extinct, and quenched as tow.

18 Remember ye not the former things, neither regard ye the things of old.

19 Behold, I do a new thing: now ſhall it come forth: ſhall you not know it? I will even make a way in the [w] deſert, and floods in the wilderneſs.

20 The wild [x] beaſts ſhall honour me, the dragons and the oſtriches, becauſe I gave water in the deſert, and floods in the wilderneſs, to give drink to my people, even to mine elect.

21 This people have I formed for myſelf: they ſhall ſhew forth my praiſe.

22 And thou haſt not [y] called upon me, O Jacob, but thou haſt [z] wearied me, O Iſrael.

23 Thou haſt [a] not brought me the ſheep of thy burnt-offerings, neither haſt thou honoured me with thy ſacrifice. I have not cauſed thee to ſerve with an offering, nor wearied thee with incenſe.

24 Thou boughteſt me no ſweet [b] ſavour with money, neither haſt thou made me drunk with the fat of thy ſacrifices, but thou haſt made me to [c] ſerve with thy ſins, and wearied me with thine iniquities.

25 I, even I am he, that putteth away thine iniquities for mine own ſake, and will not remember thy ſins.

26 Put me in [d] remembrance: let us be judged together: count thou, that thou mayeſt be juſtified.

27 Thy [e] firſt father hath ſinned, and thy [f] teachers have tranſgreſſed againſt me.

28 Therefore I have [g] profaned the rulers of the ſanctuary, and have made Jacob a curſe, and Iſrael a reproach.

CHAP. XLIV.

5 The Lord promiſeth comfort, and that he will aſſemble his church of divers nations. 9 The vanity of idols. 17 The beaſtlineſs of idolaters.

YET now hear, O Jacob my ſervant, and Iſrael whom I have choſen.

2 Thus ſaith the Lord that made thee, and formed [h] thee from the womb: he will help thee. Fear not, O Jacob my ſervant, and thou righteous, [i] whom I have choſen.

3 For I will pour water upon the [k] thirſty, and floods upon the dry ground: I will pour my ſpirit upon thy ſeed, and my bleſſing upon the buds.

4 And they [l] ſhall grow as among the graſs, and as the willows by the rivers of waters.

5 One ſhall ſay, I am the Lord's: another [m] ſhall be called by the name of Jacob: and another ſhall ſubſcribe with his hand unto the Lord, and name himſelf by the name of Iſrael.

6 Thus ſaith the Lord the king of Iſrael, and his Redeemer the Lord of hoſts, [n] I am the firſt, and I am the laſt, and without me is there no God.

7 And who is like me that ſhall [o] call and ſhall declare it, and ſet [p] it in order before me, ſince I appointed the [q] ancient people? and what is at hand, and what things are to come? let [r] them ſhew unto them.

8 Fear ye not, neither be afraid: have not I told thee of old, and have declared it? [s] you are even my witneſſes, whether there be a God beſide me, and that there is no God that I know not.

9 All they that make an image are vanity, and [t] their delectable things ſhall nothing profit: and they are their own witneſſes, [u] that they ſee not nor know: therefore they ſhall be confounded.

---

[p] By Darius and Cyrus.

[q] They ſhall cry when they would eſcape by water, ſeeing that the courſe of Euphrates is turned another way by the enemy.

[r] When he delivered thee from Pharoah, Exod. 14. 22.

[s] When the Iſraelites paſſed through Jordan, Joſh. 3. 17.

[t] When he delivered his people out of Egypt.

[u] Pharaoh and his mighty army.

[w] Meaning, that their deliverance out of Babylon ſhould be more famous than that from Egypt was, Jer. 23. 7. Hag. 2. 10. 2 Cor. 5. 17. Rev. 21. 5.

[x] They ſhall have ſuch abundance of all things as they return home, even in the dry and barren places, that the very beaſts ſhall feel my benefits, and ſhall acknowledge them: much more men ought to be thankful for the ſame.

[y] Thou haſt not worſhipped me as thou oughteſt to have done.

[z] Becauſe thou haſt not willingly received that which I commanded thee, thou didſt grieve me. Whereby he ſheweth, that his mercies were the only cauſe of their deliverance, foraſmuch as they had deſerved the contrary.

[a] Meaning, in true faith and obedience.

[b] Either for the compoſition of the ſweet ointment, Exod. 30. 34. or for the ſweet incenſe, Exod. 30. 7.

[c] Thou haſt made me to bear an heavy burden by thy ſins.

[d] If I forget any thing that may make for thy juſtification, put me in remembrance, and ſpeak for thyſelf.

[e] Thine anceſtors

[f] Thy prieſts and thy prophets.

[g] That is, rejected, abhorred, and deſtroyed them in the wilderneſs, and at other times.

[h] He created and choſe thee from the beginning, of his own mercy, and before thou couldſt merit any thing.

[i] Whom God accepteth as righteous: or, which hadſt occaſion thereunto becauſe of the law, and of thine holy vocation.

[k] Becauſe man of himſelf is as the dry and barren land, he promiſeth to moiſten him with the waters of his holy Spirit, Joel 2. 28. John 7. 38. Acts 2. 17.

[l] That is, thy children and poſterity ſhall increaſe wonderfully after their deliverance from Babylon.

[m] By this diverſity of ſpeech he meaneth one thing: that is, that the people ſhall be holy, and receive the true religion of God, as Pſalm 87. 5.

[n] I am always like myſelf, that is, merciful towards my church, and moſt able to maintain it, as chap. 41. 4. and 48. 12. Rev. 1. 17. and 22. 13.

[o] And appoint them that ſhall deliver the church.

[p] That is, declare unto me how I ought to proceed therein.

[q] God calleth the Iſraelites ancient, becauſe he preferred them to all others in his eternal election.

[r] Meaning, their idols.

[s] Read chap. 43. 10.

[t] Whatſoever they beſtow upon their idols, to make them to ſeem glorious.

[u] That is, the idolaters, ſeeing their idols blind, muſt needs be witneſſes of their own blindneſs, and feeling that they are not able to help them, muſt confeſs that they have no power.

10 Who hath made [u] a god, or molten an image, that is [w] profitable for nothing?

11 Behold, all that are of the [x] fellowſhip thereof ſhall be confounded: for the workmen themſelves are men: let them all be gathered together, and [y] ſtand up, yet they ſhall fear and be confounded together.

12 The ſmith taketh an inſtrument, and worketh in the coals, and faſhioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with the ſtrength of his arms: yea, he is an [z] hungred, and his ſtrength faileth: he drinketh no water, and is faint.

13 The carpenter ſtretcheth out a line: he faſhioneth it with a red thread, he planeth it, and he portrayeth it with the compaſs, and maketh it after the faſhion of a man, and according to the beauty of a man, that it may remain in [a] an houſe.

14 He will hew him down cedars, and take the pine-tree and the oak, and taketh courage among the trees of the foreſt: he planteth a fir-tree, and the rain doth nouriſh it.

15 And man burneth thereof: for he will take thereof, and [b] warm himſelf: he alſo kindleth it and baketh bread, yet he maketh a god, and worſhippeth it: he maketh it an idol, and boweth unto it.

16 He burneth the half thereof even in the fire, and upon the half thereof he [c] eateth fleſh, he roaſteth the roaſt and is ſatisfied: alſo he warmeth himſelf, and ſaith, Aha, I am warm, I have been at the fire.

17 And the reſidue thereof he maketh a god, even his idol: he boweth unto it, and worſhippeth and prayeth unto it, and ſaith, Deliver me: for thou art my god.

18 They have not known nor underſtood: [d] for God hath ſhut their eyes that they cannot ſee: and their hearts, that they cannot underſtand.

† Heb. turneth.

19 And none † conſidereth in his heart, neither is there knowledge nor underſtanding to ſay, I have burnt half of it, even in the fire, and have baked bread alſo upon the coals thereof: I have roaſted fleſh, and eaten it, and ſhall I make the reſidue thereof an abomination? ſhall I bow to the ſtock of a tree?

20 He feedeth [e] of aſhes: a ſeduced heart hath deceived him, that he cannot deliver his ſoul, nor ſay, Is there not a lye in my right hand?

21 [f] Remember theſe (O Jacob and Iſrael) for thou art my ſervant: I have formed thee: thou art my ſervant: O Iſrael, forget me not.

22 I have put away thy tranſgreſſions like a cloud, and thy ſins as a miſt: turn unto me, for I have redeemed thee.

23 [g] Rejoice, ye heavens: for the Lord hath done it: ſhout, ye lower parts of the earth: burſt forth into praiſes, ye mountains, O foreſt, and every tree therein: for the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and will be glorified in Iſrael.

24 Thus ſaith the Lord thy Redeemer, and he that formed thee from the womb, I am the Lord that made all things, that ſpread out the heavens alone, and ſtretched out the earth by myſelf.

25 I deſtroy the [h] tokens of the ſoothſayers, and make them that conjecture, fools: and turn the wiſe men backward, and make their knowledge fooliſhneſs.

26 ¶ He confirmeth the word of his [i] ſervant, and performeth the counſel of his meſſengers, ſaying to Jeruſalem, Thou ſhalt be inhabited: and to the cities of Judah, Ye ſhall be built up, and I will repair the decayed places thereof.

27 He ſaith to the [k] deep, Be dry, and I will dry up thy floods.

28 He ſaith to [l] Cyrus, Thou art my ſhepherd, and he ſhall perform all my deſire: ſaying alſo to Jeruſalem, Thou ſhalt be built: and to the temple, Thy foundation ſhall be ſurely laid.

CHAP. XLV.

1 The deliverance of the people by Cyrus. 9 God is juſt in all his works. 20 The calling of the Gentiles.

THUS ſaith the Lord unto [m] Cyrus his [n] anointed, Whoſe right hand I have holden to [o] ſubdue nations before him: therefore will I weaken the loins of kings, and open the doors before him, and the gates ſhall not be ſhut.

2 I will go before thee, and make the [p] crooked ſtreight: I will break the braſen doors, and burſt the iron bars.

3 And I will give thee the treaſures of darkneſs,

[u] Meaning, that whatſoever is made by the hand of man, if it be eſteemed as God, is moſt deteſtable.

[w] Whereby appeareth their blaſphemy, which call images the books of the laity, ſeeing that they are not only here called unprofitable, but chap. 41. 24. abominable: and Jeremiah calleth them the work of errors, Jer. 10. 15. Habakkuk, a lying teacher, Hab. 2. 18.

[x] That is, which by any way conſent either to the making or worſhipping.

[y] Signifying, that the multitude ſhould not then ſave the idolaters, when God will take vengeance, although they excuſe themſelves thereby among men.

[z] He deſcribeth the raging affection of the idolaters, which forget their own neceſſities to ſet forth their devotions toward their idols.

[a] To place it in ſome temple.

[b] He ſetteth forth the obſtinacy and malice of the idolaters, which, though they ſee by daily experience that their idols are no better than the reſt of the matter whereof they are made, yet they refuſe the one part, and make a god of the other, as the papiſts make their cake-god, and the reſt of their idols.

[c] That is, he either maketh a table or trenchers.

[d] The prophet giveth here an anſwer to all them that wonder how it is poſſible that any ſhould be ſo blind to commit ſuch abomination, ſaying, that that God blinded their eyes, and hardened their hearts.

[e] He is abuſed as one that would eat aſhes, thinking to ſatisfy his hunger.

[f] Shewing, that man's heart is inclined to idolatry, and therefore he warneth his people by theſe examples, that they ſhould not cleave to any, but to the living God, when they ſhould be among the idolaters.

[g] He ſheweth, that the work of the Lord towards his people ſhall be ſo great, that the inſenſible creatures ſhall be moved therewith.

[h] He armeth them againſt the ſoothſayers of Babylon, which would have borne them in hand, that they knew by the ſtars that God would not deliver them, and that Babylon ſhould ſtand.

[i] Of Iſaiah, and the reſt of his prophets, which did aſſure the church of God's favour and deliverance.

[k] He ſheweth, that God's work ſhould be no leſs notable in this their deliverance, than when he brought them out of Egypt through the ſea.

[l] To aſſure them of their deliverance, he nameth the perſon by whom it ſhould be, more than an hundred years before he was born.

[m] To aſſure the Jews of their deliverance againſt the great temptations that they ſhould abide, he named the perſon and the means.

[n] Becauſe Cyrus ſhould execute the office of a deliverer, God called him his anointed for a time, but after another ſort than he called David.

[o] To guide him in the deliverance of my people.

[p] I will take away all impediments and lets.

neſs, and the things hid in ſecret places, that thou mayeſt [q] know that I am the Lord, which call thee by thy name, even the God of Iſrael.

4 For Jacob my ſervant's [r] ſake, and Iſrael mine elect, I will even call thee by thy name and name thee, though thou haſt not known me.

5 I am the Lord, and there is none other: there is no God beſide me: I [s] girded thee, though thou haſt not known me,

6 That they may know from the riſing of the ſun, and from the weſt, that there is none beſides me: I am the Lord, and there is none other.

7 I form the [t] light, and create darkneſs: I make peace, and create evil: I the Lord do all theſe things.

8 Ye heavens, ſend the dew from above, and let the clouds drop down [u] righteouſneſs: let the earth open, and let ſalvation and juſtice grow forth: let it bring them forth together: I the Lord have [w] created him.

9 [x] Wo be unto him that ſtriveth with his Maker, the potſherd with the potſherds of the earth: ſhall the clay ſay to him that faſhioneth it, What makeſt thou? or thy work, [y] It hath no hands?

10 Wo unto him that ſaith to his father, What haſt thou begotten? or to his mother, What haſt thou brought forth?

11 Thus ſaith the Lord, the holy One of Iſrael, and his Maker, Aſk me [z] of things to come concerning my ſons, and concerning the works of mine hands: command you me.

12 I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, whoſe hands have ſpread out the heavens: I have even commanded all their [a] army.

13 I have raiſed [b] him in righteouſneſs, and I will direct all his ways: he ſhall build my city, and he ſhall let go my captives, not for [c] price nor reward, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

14 Thus ſaith the Lord, The labour of [d] Egypt, and the merchandize of Ethiopia, and of the Sabeans, men of ſtature, ſhall come unto thee, and they ſhall be [e] thine: they ſhall follow thee, and ſhall go in chains: they ſhall fall down before thee, and make ſupplication unto thee, ſaying, Surely God is in thee, and there is no other God beſides.

15 Verily, thou, O God, [f] hideſt thyſelf, O God the Saviour of Iſrael.

16 All they ſhall be aſhamed, and alſo confounded: they ſhall go to confuſion together, that are the makers of images.

17 But Iſrael ſhall be ſaved in the Lord with an everlaſting ſalvation: ye ſhall not be aſhamed nor confounded world without end.

18 For thus ſaith the Lord (that created heaven, God himſelf, that formed the earth, and made it: he that prepared it, he created it not in vain: he formed it to be [g] inhabited): I am the Lord, and there is none other.

19 I have not ſpoken in ſecret, neither [h] in a place of darkneſs in the earth: I ſaid not in vain unto the ſeed of Jacob, Seek you me: I the Lord do ſpeak righteouſneſs, and declare righteous things.

20 Aſſemble yourſelves, and come: draw near together, [i] ye abject of the Gentiles: they have no knowledge, that ſet up the wood of their idol, and pray unto a god that cannot ſave them.

21 Tell ye and bring them, and let them take counſel together: who hath declared this from the beginning? or hath told it of old? Have not I the Lord? and there is none other God beſide me, a juſt God, and a Saviour: there is none beſide me.

22 Look unto me, and ye ſhall be ſaved: all the [k] ends of the earth ſhall be ſaved: for I am God, and there is none other.

23 I have ſworn by myſelf: the word is gone out of my mouth in [l] righteouſneſs, and ſhall not return, That every knee [m] ſhall bow unto me, and every tongue ſhall ſwear by me.

24 Surely [n] he ſhall ſay, In the Lord have I righteouſneſs and ſtrength: he ſhall come unto him, and all that [o] provoke him ſhall be aſhamed.

25 The whole ſeed of Iſrael ſhall be juſtified, and glory in the Lord.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 The deſtruction of Babylon and of their idols. 3 He calleth the Jews to the conſideration of his works.

BEL is bowed down: [p] Nebo is fallen: their idols were upon the [q] beaſts, and upon the cattle: they which did bear you, were laden with a weary burthen.

[q] Not that Cyrus did know God to worſhip him aright, but he had a certain particular knowledge, as prophane men may have, of his power, and ſo was compelled to deliver God's people.

[r] Not for any thing that is in thee, or for thy worthineſs.

[s] I have given thee ſtrength, power and authority.

[t] I ſend peace and war, proſperity and adverſity, as Amos 3. 6.

[u] He comforteth the Jews, as if he would ſay, Though when ye look to the heavens and earth for ſuccour, ye ſee nothing now but ſigns of God's wrath; yet I will cauſe them to bring forth moſt certain tokens of your deliverance, and of the performance of my promiſe: which is meant by righteouſneſs.

[w] I have appointed Cyrus to this uſe and purpoſe.

[x] Hereby he bridleth their impatience, which in adverſity and trouble murmur againſt God, and will not tarry his pleaſure, willing that man ſhould match with his like, and not contend againſt God.

[y] That is, it is not perfectly made.

[z] Inſtead of murmuring, humble yourſelves, and aſk what ye will for the conſolation of my children, and you ſhall be ſure of it, as ye are of theſe things which are at your commandment. Some read it with an interrogation, and make it the application of the ſimilitude.

[a] That is, the ſtars.

[b] To wit. Cyrus, that I may ſhew by him the faithfulneſs of my promiſe in delivering my people.

[c] Meaning, freely and without ranſom, or any grievous condition.

[d] Theſe people were tributaries to the Perſians, and ſo king Artaxerxes gave this money toward the building of the temple, Ezra 7. 21.

[e] Whereas before they were thine enemies, they ſhall now honour thee, and thou ſhalt rule them, which was accompliſhed in the time of Chriſt.

[f] Hereby he exhorteth the Jews to patience, though their deliverance be deferred for a time: ſhewing, that they ſhould not repent their long patience, but the wicked and idolaters ſhall be deſtroyed.

[g] To wit, of man, but chiefly of his church.

[h] As do the falſe gods, which give uncertain anſwers.

[i] All ye idolaters, which though you ſeem to have never ſo much worldly dignity, yet in God's ſight you are vile and abject.

[k] He calleth the idolaters to repentance, willing them to look unto him with the eye of faith.

[l] That is, that the thing which I have promiſed ſhall be faithfully performed.

[m] The knowledge of God and the true worſhipping ſhall be through all the world, Rom. 14. 11. Phil. 2. 10. whereby he ſignifieth, that we muſt not only ſerve God in heart, but declare the ſame alſo by outward profeſſion.

[n] Meaning, the faithful ſhall feel and confeſs this.

[o] All the contemners of God.

[p] Theſe were the chief idols of Babylon.

[q] Becauſe they were of gold and ſilver, the Medes and Perſians carried them away.

Bef. Chr. 712.

2 [r] They are bowed down, and fallen together: for they could not rid them of the burden, and their [s] ſoul is gone into captivity.

3 Hear ye me, O houſe of Jacob, and all that remain of the houſe of Iſrael, which are [t] borne of me from the womb, and brought up of me from the birth.

4 Therefore unto old age, I the ſame, even I will bear you until the hoary hairs: I have made you: I will alſo bear you, and I will carry you, [u] and I will deliver you.

5 ¶ To whom will you make me like, or make me equal, or [w] compare me, that I ſhould be like him?

6 They draw gold out of the bag, and weigh ſilver in the balance, and hire a goldſmith to make a god of it, and they bow down and worſhip it.

7 They bear it upon the ſhoulders: they carry him and ſet him in his place: ſo doth he ſtand, and cannot remove from his place. Though one cry unto him, yet can he not anſwer nor deliver him out of his tribulation.

8 Remember this, and be aſhamed: bring it again [x] to mind, O you tranſgreſſors.

9 Remember the former things of old: for I am God, and there is none other god, and there is nothing like me,

10 Which declare the laſt thing from the beginning: and from of old, the things that were not done, ſaying, My counſel ſhall ſtand, and I will do whatſoever I will.

11 I call a [y] bird from the Eaſt, and the man of my [z] counſel from far: as I have ſpoken, ſo will I bring it to paſs: I have purpoſed it, and I will do it.

12 Hear me, ye ſtubborn-hearted, that are far from [a] juſtice.

13 I bring [b] near my juſtice, it ſhall not be far off: and my ſalvation ſhall not tarry: for I will give ſalvation in Zion, and my glory unto Iſrael.

CHAP. XLVII.

The deſtruction of Babylon, and the cauſes wherefore.

COME down and ſit in the duſt: O [c] virgin, daughter of Babylon, ſit on the ground: there is no [d] throne, O daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou ſhalt no more be called tender and delicate.

2 Take the mill-ſtones, and [e] grind meal: looſe thy locks: [f] make bare thy feet, uncover the leg, and paſs through the floods.

Bef. Chr. 712.

3 Thy filthineſs ſhall be diſcovered, and thy ſhame ſhall be ſeen: I will take vengeance, and I will not meet thee as a [g] man.

4 [h] Our Redeemer, the Lord of hoſts is his name, the holy One of Iſrael.

5 [i] Sit ſtill, and get thee into darkneſs, O daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou ſhalt no more be called, The lady of kingdoms.

6 I was wroth with my people: I have polluted mine inheritance, and given them into thine hand: thou didſt ſhew them no [k] mercy, but thou didſt lay thy very heavy yoke upon the ancient.

7 And thou ſaidſt, I ſhall be a lady for ever, ſo that thou didſt not ſet thy mind to theſe things, neither didſt thou remember the latter end thereof.

8 Therefore now hear, thou that art given to pleaſures, and dwelleſt careleſs, She ſaith in her heart, I am, and none elſe: I ſhall not ſit as a widow, neither ſhall know the loſs of children.

9 But theſe two things ſhall come to thee ſuddenly on one day, the loſs of children and widowhood: they ſhall come upon thee in their [l] perfection, for the multitude of thy divinations, and for the great abundance of thine inchanters.

10 For thou haſt truſted in thy wickedneſs, thou haſt ſaid, None ſeeth me. Thy [m] wiſdom and thy knowledge, they have cauſed thee to rebel, and thou haſt ſaid in thine heart, I am, and none elſe.

11 Therefore ſhall evil come upon thee, and thou ſhalt not know the morning thereof: deſtruction ſhall fall upon thee, which thou ſhalt not be able to put away: deſtruction ſhall come upon thee ſuddenly, ere thou be ware.

12 Stand now among thine inchanters, and in the multitude of thy ſoothſayers (with whom thou haſt [n] wearied thyſelf from thy youth) if ſo be thou mayeſt have profit, or if ſo be thou mayeſt have ſtrength.

13 Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counſels: let now the aſtrologers, the ſtar-gazers, and prognoſticators ſtand up, and ſave thee from theſe things that ſhall come upon thee.

14 Behold, they ſhall be as ſtubble: the fire ſhall burn them: they ſhall not deliver their own lives from the power of the flame: there ſhall be no coals [o] to warm at, nor light to ſit by.

15 Thus ſhall they ſerve thee, with whom

[r] The beaſts that carried the idols fell down under their burden.

[s] He derideth the idols, which had neither ſoul nor ſenſe.

[t] He ſheweth the difference between the idols and the true God: for they muſt be carried of others, but God himſelf carrieth his, as Deut. 32. 11.

[u] Seeing I have begotten you, I will nouriſh and preſerve you for ever.

[w] The people of God, ſeeing their own calamity, and the flouriſhing eſtate of the Babylonians, ſhould be tempted to think that their God was not ſo mighty as the idols of their enemies: therefore he deſcribeth the original of all the idols, to make them to be abhorred of all men: ſhewing, that the moſt that can be ſpoken in their commendation, is but to prove them vile, Baruch 6. 25.

[x] Become wiſe, meaning, that all idolaters are without wit or ſenſe, like madmen.

[y] That is, Cyrus, which ſhall come as ſwift as a bird, and fight againſt Babylon.

[z] Him, by whom I have appointed to execute that which I have determined.

[a] Which by your incredulity would let the performance of my promiſe.

[b] He ſheweth that man's incredulity cannot aboliſh the promiſe of God, Rom. 3. 3.

[c] Which haſt lived in wealth and wantonneſs, and haſt not yet been overcome by any enemy.

[d] Thy government ſhall be taken from thee.

[e] Thou ſhalt be brought to moſt vile ſervitude: for to turn the mill was the office of ſlaves.

[f] The things wherein ſhe ſetteth her greateſt pride, ſhall be made vile, even from the head to the foot.

[g] I will uſe no humanity nor pity toward thee.

[h] The Iſraelites ſhall confeſs, that the Lord doth this for his church's ſake.

[i] For very ſhame, and hide thyſelf.

[k] They abuſed God's judgments, thinking that he puniſhed the Iſraelites, becauſe he would utterly caſt them off, and therefore inſtead of pitying their miſery, thou didſt increaſe it.

[l] So that thy puniſhment ſhall be ſo great, as it is poſſible to be imagined.

[m] Thou didſt think that thine own wiſdom and policy would have ſaved thee.

[n] He derideth their vain confidence, that put their truſt in any thing but in God, condemning alſo ſuch vain ſciences, which ſerve to no uſe, but to delude the people, and to bring them from depending only on God.

[o] They ſhall utterly periſh, and no part of them remain.

Bef. Chr. 712. thou haſt wearied thee, even thy merchants from thy youth: every one ſhall wander to his own [p] quarter, none ſhall ſave thee.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1 The hypocriſy of the Jews is reproved. 11 The Lord alone will be worſhipped. 20 Of their deliverance out of Babylon.

HEAR ye this, O houſe of Jacob, which are [q] called by the name of Iſrael, and are come out of [r] the waters of Judah: which ſwear by the name of the Lord, and make mention of the God of Iſrael, but not in truth, nor in righteouſneſs.

2 For they are called of the holy city, and ſtay themſelves [s] upon the God of Iſrael, whoſe name is the Lord of hoſts.

3 I have declared the former things of old, and they went out of my mouth, and I ſhewed [t] them: I did them ſuddenly, and they came to paſs.

4 Becauſe I knew that [u] thou art obſtinate, and thy neck is an iron ſinew, and thy brow braſs.

5 Therefore I have declared it to thee of old: before it came to paſs, I ſhewed [w] it thee, leſt thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Mine idol hath done them, and my carved image, and my molten image hath commanded them.

6 Thou haſt heard, behold all this, and will not ye [x] declare it? I have ſhewed thee new things, even now, and hid things which thou kneweſt not.

7 They are created now, and not of old, and even before this thou heardeſt them not, leſt thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Behold, I [y] knew them.

8 Yet thou heardeſt them not, neither didſt know them, neither yet was thine ear opened of old: for I knew that thou wouldeſt grievouſly tranſgreſs: therefore have I called thee a tranſgreſſor from the [z] womb.

9 For my name's ſake will I defer my wrath, and for my praiſe will I refrain it from thee, [a] that I cut thee not off.

10 Behold, I have fined thee, but [b] not as ſilver: I have [c] choſen thee in the furnace of affliction.

11 For mine own ſake, for mine own ſake will I do it: for how ſhould my name [d] be polluted? [e] ſurely, I will not give my glory unto another.

Bef. Chr. 712. 12 Hear me, O Jacob and Iſrael, my called, [f] I am, I am the firſt, and I am the laſt.

13 Surely mine hand hath laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand hath ſpanned the heavens: when I call them, [g] they ſtand up together.

14 All you aſſemble yourſelves, and hear: which among them hath declared theſe things? the Lord hath [h] loved him: he will do his will in Babylon, and his arm ſhall be againſt the Chaldeans.

15 I, even I have ſpoken it, and I have called him: I have brought him, and his way ſhall proſper.

16 Come near unto me: hear ye this: I have not ſpoken it in ſecret from the [i] beginning: from the time that the thing was, I was there, and now the Lord God and his Spirit hath [k] ſent me.

17 Thus ſaith the Lord thy Redeemer, the holy One of Iſrael, I am the Lord thy God, which teach thee [l] to profit, and lead thee by the way that thou ſhouldeſt go.

18 Oh that thou hadſt hearkened to my commandments! then had thy proſperity been as the flood, and thy righteouſneſs as the waves of the ſea.

19 Thy ſeed alſo had been as the ſand, and the fruit of thy body like the gravel thereof: his [m] name ſhould not have been cut off nor deſtroyed before me.

20 [n] Go ye out of Babylon: flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of joy: tell and declare this: ſhew it forth to the end of the earth: ſay ye, The Lord hath redeemed his ſervant Jacob.

21 And they [o] were not thirſty: he led them through the wilderneſs: he cauſed the waters to flow out of the rock for them: for he clave the rock, and the waters guſhed out.

22 There is no [p] peace, ſaith the Lord, unto the wicked.

CHAP. XLIX.

1 The Lord exhorteth all nations to believe his promiſes. 6 Chriſt is the ſalvation of all that believe, and will deliver them from the tyranny of their enemies.

HEAR ye me, O iſles, and hearken, ye people from far. The Lord hath called me,

---

[p] They ſhall flee every one to that place, which he thought by his ſpeculation to be moſt ſure: but that ſhall deceive them.

[q] He detecteth their hypocriſy, which vaunted themſelves to be Iſraelites, and were not ſo in deed.

[r] Meaning, the fountain and ſtock.

[s] They make ſhew as though they would have none other God.

[t] He ſheweth, that they could not accuſe him in any thing, foraſmuch as he had performed whatſoever he had promiſed.

[u] I have done for thee more than I promiſed, that thy ſtubbornneſs and impudency might have been overcome.

[w] How thou ſhouldeſt be delivered out of Babylon.

[x] Will ye not acknowledge this my benefit, and declare it unto others?

[y] Shewing, that man's arrogancy is the cauſe why God doth not declare all things at once, leſt they ſhould attribute this knowledge to their own wiſdom.

[z] From the time that I brought thee out of Egypt: for that deliverance was at the birth of the church.

[a] As it was my free mercy that I did chuſe thee, ſo it is my free mercy that muſt ſave thee.

[b] For I had reſpect to thy weakneſs and infirmity: for in ſilver there is ſome pureneſs, but in us there is nothing but droſs

[c] I took thee out of the furnace, where thou ſhouldeſt have been conſumed.

[d] God joineth the ſalvation of his with his own honour: ſo that they cannot periſh, leſt his glory ſhould be diminiſhed, as Deut. 32. 27.

[e] Read chap. 42. 8.

[f] Read chap. 41. 4.

[g] To obey me, and to do whatſoever I command them.

[h] Meaning, Cyrus, whom he had choſen to deſtroy Babylon.

[i] Since the time that I declared myſelf to your fathers.

[k] Thus the prophet ſpeaketh for himſelf, and to aſſure them of theſe things.

[l] What things ſhall do thee good.

[m] That is, the proſperous eſtate of Iſrael.

[n] After that he had forewarned them of their captivity, and of the cauſe thereof, he ſheweth them the great joy that ſhall come of their deliverance.

[o] He ſheweth that it ſhall be as eaſy to deliver them, as he did their fathers out of Egypt.

[p] Thus he ſpeaketh, that the wicked hypocrites ſhould not abuſe God's promiſe, in whom was neither faith nor repentance, as chap. 57. 21.

[q] me from [r] the womb, and made mention of my name from my mother's belly.

2 And he hath made my mouth like a ſharp [s] ſword: under the ſhadow of his hand hath he [t] hid me, and made me a choſen ſhaft, and hid me in his quiver,

3 And ſaid unto me, Thou art my ſervant [u] Iſrael, for I will be glorious in thee.

4 And I ſaid, I have [w] laboured in vain: I have ſpent my ſtrength in vain, and for nothing: but my judgment is with the Lord, and my work with my God.

5 And now ſaith the Lord, that formed me from the womb to be his ſervant, that I may bring Jacob again to him (though Iſrael be not gathered, [x] yet ſhall I be glorious in the ſight of the Lord: and my God ſhall be my ſtrength.)

6 And he ſaid, It is a ſmall thing that thou ſhouldeſt be my ſervant, to raiſe up the tribes of Jacob, and to reſtore the deſolations of Iſrael: I will alſo give [y] thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou mayeſt be my ſalvation unto the end of the world.

7 Thus ſaith the Lord the Redeemer of Iſrael, and his holy One, to him that is deſpiſed in ſoul, to a nation that is abhorred, to a [z] ſervant of rulers, Kings ſhall ſee, and [a] ariſe, and princes ſhall worſhip, becauſe of the Lord, that is faithful: and the holy One of Iſrael which hath choſen thee.

8 Thus ſaith the Lord, [b] In an acceptable time I have heard thee: and in a day of ſalvation have I helped thee: and I will preſerve thee, and will [c] give thee for a covenant of the people, that thou mayeſt raiſe up the [d] earth, and obtain the inheritance of the deſolate heritages:

9 That thou mayeſt ſay to the [e] priſoners, Go forth: and to them that are in darkneſs, Shew yourſelves: they ſhall feed in the ways, and their [f] paſtures ſhall be in all the tops of the hills.

10 They ſhall not be hungry, neither ſhall they be thirſty, neither ſhall the heat ſmite them, nor the ſun: for he that hath compaſſion [g] on them, ſhall lead them: even to the ſprings of waters ſhall he drive them.

11 And I will make all my mountains as a way, and my paths ſhall be exalted.

12 Behold, theſe ſhall come from far: and lo, theſe from the North and from the Weſt, and theſe from the land of [h] Sinim.

13 Rejoice, O [i] heavens, and be joyful, O earth: break forth into praiſe, O mountains: for God hath comforted his people, and will have mercy on his afflicted.

14 But Zion ſaid, The Lord [k] hath forſaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me.

15 Can a woman forget her child, and not have compaſſion on the ſon of her womb? though they ſhould forget, yet will I not forget thee.

16 Behold, I have graven thee upon the palm of mine [l] hands: thy [m] walls are ever in my ſight.

17 Thy builders make [n] haſte: thy deſtroyers, and they that made thee waſte are departed from thee.

18 Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold: all theſe gather themſelves together, and come to thee: as I live, ſaith the Lord, thou ſhalt ſurely [o] put them all upon thee as a garment, and gird thyſelf with them like a bride.

19 For thy deſolations, and thy waſte places, and thy land deſtroyed, ſhall ſurely be now narrow for them that ſhall dwell in it: and they that did devour thee, ſhall be far away.

20 The children of thy barrenneſs ſhall ſay again in thine ears, The place is ſtrait for me: give place to me that I may dwell.

21 Then ſhalt thou ſay in thine heart, Who hath begotten me theſe, ſeeing I am barren and deſolate, a captive and a wanderer to and fro? and who hath nouriſhed them? behold, I was left alone: whence are theſe?

22 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will lift up mine hand to the [p] Gentiles, and ſet up my ſtandard to the people: and they ſhall bring thy ſons in their arms: and thy daughters ſhall be carried upon their ſhoulders.

23 And kings [q] ſhall be thy nurſing fathers, and queens ſhall be thy nurſes: they ſhall worſhip thee with their faces toward the earth, and lick up the [r] duſt of thy feet: and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord: for they ſhall not be aſhamed that wait for me.

24 Shall the prey be [s] taken from the mighty? or the juſt captivity delivered?

25 But thus ſaith the Lord, [t] Even the captivity of the mighty ſhall be taken away, and the [q] This is ſpoken in the perſon of Chriſt, to aſſure the faithful, that theſe promiſes ſhould come to paſs, for they were all made in him, and in him ſhould be performed.

[r] This is meant of the time that Chriſt ſhould be manifeſted to the world, as Pſalm 2. 7.

[s] By the ſword and ſhaft, he ſignifieth the virtue and efficacy of Chriſt's doctrine.

[t] God hath taken me to his protection and defence: this chiefly is meant of Chriſt, and may alſo be applied to the miniſters of his word.

[u] By Iſrael is meant Chriſt, and all the body of the faithful, as the members and their head.

[w] Thus Chriſt in his members complaineth that his labour and preaching take no effect, yet he is content that his doings are approved of God.

[x] Though the Jews refuſe my doctrine, yet God will approve my miniſtry.

[y] To declare my goſpel to the Gentiles, chap. 42. 6. Acts 13: 47. Luke 2. 32.

[z] Meaning, the Jews, whom tyrants keep in bondage.

[a] The benefit of their deliverance ſhall be ſo great, that great and ſmall ſhall acknowledge it, and reverence God for it.

[b] Thus he ſpeaketh of his church, when he would ſhew his mercy toward it, 2 Cor. 6. 2.

[c] Meaning, Chriſt alone.

[d] Signifying, that before Chriſt renew the earth by his word, there is nothing but confuſion and diſorder.

[e] To them that are in the priſon of ſin and death.

[f] Being in Chriſt's protection, they ſhall be ſafe againſt all dangers, and free from the fear of their enemies.

[g] Meaning, that there ſhould be nothing in their way from Babylon, that ſhould hinder or hurt them: but this is accompliſhed ſpiritually.

[h] Meaning, the South country, ſo that Chriſt ſhall deliver his from all the parts of the world.

[i] Read chap. 44. 23.

[k] He objecteth what the faithful might ſay in their long affliction, and anſwereth thereunto to comfort them with a moſt proper ſimilitude and full of conſolation.

[l] Becauſe I would not forget thee.

[m] Meaning, the good order of policy and diſcipline.

[n] I have a continual care to build thee up again, and to deſtroy thine enemies.

[o] He ſheweth, what are the ornaments of the church: to have many children, which are aſſembled by the word of God, and governed by his Spirit.

[p] He ſheweth, that Chriſt will not only gather this great number of the Jews, but alſo of the Gentiles.

[q] Meaning, the kings ſhall be converted to the goſpel, and beſtow their power and authority for the preſervation of the church.

[r] Being joined with the church, they ſhall humble themſelves to Chriſt their head, and give him all honour.

[s] He maketh this as an objection, as though the Chaldeans were ſtrong, and had them in juſt poſſeſſion

[t] This is the anſwer to their objection, that none is ſtronger than the Lord, neither hath a more juſt title unto them.

Bef. Chr. 712. the prey of the tyrant ſhall be delivered : for I will contend with him that contendeth with thee, and I will ſave thy children :

26 And will feed them that ſpoil thee, with [u] their own fleſh, and they ſhall be drunken with their own blood, as with ſweet wine : and all fleſh ſhall know that I the Lord am thy Saviour and thy Redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob.

CHAP. L.

1 The Jews forſaken for a time. 2 Yet the power of God is not diminiſhed. 5 Chriſt's obedience and victory.

THUS ſaith the Lord, Where is that [w] bill of your mother's divorcement, [x] whom I have caſt off ? or who is the creditor [y] to whom I ſold you ? Behold, for your iniquities are ye ſold, and becauſe of your tranſgreſſions is your mother forſaken.

2 Wherefore [z] came I, and there was no man ? I called, and none anſwered : is mine hand ſo [a] ſhortened, that it cannot help ? or have I no power to deliver ? Behold, at my rebuke I dry up the ſea : I make the floods deſert : their fiſh rotteth for want of water, and dieth for thirſt.

3 I cloath the heavens with darkneſs, and make a [b] ſack their covering.

4 The Lord God hath [c] given me a tongue of the learned, that I ſhould know to miniſter a word in time to him that is [d] weary : he will raiſe me up in the morning : in the morning he will waken mine ear to hear, [e] as the learner.

5 The Lord God hath opened mine ear, and I was not rebellious, neither turned I back.

6 I gave my back unto the [f] ſmiters, and my cheeks to the nippers : I hid not my face from ſhame and ſpitting.

7 For the Lord God will help me, therefore ſhall I not be confounded : therefore have I ſet my face like a flint, and I know that I ſhall not be aſhamed.

8 He is near that juſtifieth me : who will contend with me ? Let us ſtand together : who is mine adverſary ? let him come near to me.

9 Behold, the Lord God will help me : who is he that can condemn me ? lo, they ſhall wax old as a garment : the moth ſhall eat them up.

10 [g] Who is among you that feareth the Lord ? let him hear the voice of his ſervant : he that walketh in darkneſs, and hath no light, let him truſt in the name of the Lord, and ſtay upon his God.

Bef. Chr. 712. 11 Behold, all you kindle [h] a fire, and are compaſſed about with ſparks : walk in the light of your fire, and in the ſparks that ye have kindled. This ſhall ye have of mine hand : ye ſhall lie down in ſorrow.

CHAP. LI.

1 To truſt in God alone by Abraham's example. 7 Not to fear men. 17 The great affliction of Jeruſalem, 22 and her deliverance.

HEAR me, ye [i] that follow after righteouſneſs, and ye that ſeek the Lord : look unto the [k] rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit from whence ye are digged.

2 Conſider Abraham your father, and Sarah that bare you : for I called him alone, and bleſſed him, and increaſed him.

3 Surely the Lord ſhall comfort Zion : he ſhall comfort all her deſolations, and he ſhall make her deſert [l] like Eden, and her wilderneſs like the garden of the Lord : joy and gladneſs ſhall be found therein : praiſe, and the voice of ſinging.

4 Hearken ye unto me, my people : give ear unto me, O my people : for a [m] law ſhall proceed from me, and I will bring forth my judgment for the light of the people.

5 My [n] righteouſneſs is near : my ſalvation goeth forth, and mine [o] arms ſhall judge the people : the iſles ſhall wait for me, and ſhall truſt unto mine arm.

6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath : for the [p] heavens ſhall vaniſh away like ſmoak, and the earth ſhall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein ſhall periſh in like manner : but my ſalvation ſhall be for ever, and my righteouſneſs ſhall not be aboliſhed.

7 Hearken unto me, ye that know righteouſneſs, the people in whoſe heart is my law. Fear ye not the reproach of men, neither be ye afraid of their rebukes.

8 For the moth ſhall eat them up like a garment, and the worm ſhall eat them like wool : but my righteouſneſs ſhall be for ever, and my ſalvation from generation to generation.

9 Riſe up, riſe up, and put on ſtrength, O arm of the Lord : riſe up as [q] in the old time, in the generations of the world. Art not thou the ſame that hath [r] cut Rahab, and wounded the [s] dragon ?

10 Art not thou the ſame which hath dried the ſea, even the waters of the great deep, making

[u] I will cauſe them to deſtroy one another, as Judg. 7. 22. 2 Chron. 20. 22. chap. 19. 2.

[w] Meaning, that he had not forſaken her, but through her own occaſion, as Hoſ. 2. 2.

[x] Which ſhould declare that I have cut her off : meaning, that they could ſhew none.

[y] Signifying, that he ſold them not for any debt of poverty, but that they ſold themſelves to ſins, to buy their own luſts and pleaſures.

[z] He came by his prophets and miniſters, but they would not believe their doctrine and convert.

[a] Am I not as able to help you as I have holpen your fathers of old, when I dried up the red Sea and killed the fiſh in the rivers, and alſo afterward in Jordan ?

[b] As I did in Egypt in token of my diſpleaſure, Exod. 10. 21.

[c] The prophet doth repreſent here the perſon and charge of them that are juſtly called to the miniſtry of God's word.

[d] To him that is oppreſſed by affliction and miſery.

[e] As they that are taught and made meet by him.

[f] I did not ſhrink from God for any perſecution or calamity : whereby he ſheweth, that the true miniſters of God can look for no other recompence of the wicked, but after this ſort, and alſo what is their comfort.

[g] Shewing, that it is a rare thing, that any ſhould obey aright God's true miniſters, though they labour to bring them from hell to heaven.

[h] You have ſought conſolation by your own devices, and have refuſed the light and conſolation which God hath offered : therefore ye ſhall remain in ſorrow, and not be comforted.

[i] He comforteth the church, that they ſhould not be diſcouraged for their ſmall number.

[k] That is, to Abraham, of whom ye were begotten ; and to Sarah, of whom ye were born.

[l] As plentiful as Paradiſe, Gen. 2. 3.

[m] I will rule and govern my church by my word and doctrine.

[n] The time that I will accompliſh my promiſe.

[o] My power and ſtrength.

[p] He forewarneth them of the horrible changes and mutations of all things, and how he will preſerve his church in the midſt of all theſe dangers.

[q] He putteth them in remembrance of his great benefit for their deliverance out of Egypt, that thereby they might learn to truſt in him conſtantly.

[r] Meaning Egypt, Pſalm 87. 4.

[s] To wit, Pharaoh, Ezek. 29. 3.

ing the depth of the ſea a way for the redeemed to paſs over?

11 Therefore the redeemed of the Lord ſhall [t] return, and come with joy unto Zion, and everlaſting joy ſhall be upon their head: they ſhall obtain joy and gladneſs and ſorrow and mourning ſhall flee away.

12 I, even I am he, that comfort you. Who art thou, that thou ſhouldeſt fear a mortal man, and the ſon of man, which ſhall be made as graſs.

13 And forgetteſt the Lord thy maker, that hath ſpread out the heavens, and laid the foundations of the earth? and haſt feared continually all the day, becauſe of the rage of the oppreſſor, which is ready to deſtroy? Where is now the rage of the oppreſſor?

14 The captive [u] haſteneth to be looſed, and that he ſhould not die in the pit, nor that his bread ſhould fail.

15 And I am the Lord thy God that divided the ſea, when his waves roared: the Lord of hoſts is his name.

16 And I have put my words in thy [w] mouth, and have defended thee in the ſhadow of mine hand, that I may plant the [x] heavens, and lay the foundation of the earth, and ſay unto Zion, Thou art my people.

17 Awake, awake, and ſtand up, O Jeruſalem, which haſt drunk at the hand of the Lord the [y] cup of his wrath: thou haſt drunken the dregs of the cup of trembling, and wrung them out.

18 There is none to guide her, among all the ſons whom ſhe hath brought forth: there is none that taketh her by the hand, of all the ſons that ſhe hath brought up.

19 Theſe two [z] things are come unto thee: who will lament thee? deſolation, and deſtruction, and famine, and the ſword: by whom ſhall I comfort thee?

20 Thy ſons have fainted, and lie at the head of all the ſtreets as a wild bull in a net, and are full of the wrath of the Lord, and rebuke of thy God.

21 Therefore hear now this, thou miſerable and drunken, but [a] not with wine:

22 Thus ſaith the Lord thy God, even God that pleadeth the cauſe of his people, Behold, I have taken out of thine hand the cup of trembling, even the dregs of the cup of my wrath: thou ſhalt drink it no more.

23 But I will put it into their hand that ſpoil thee: which have ſaid to thy ſoul, Bow down, that we may go over, and thou haſt laid thy body as the ground, and as the ſtreet to them that went over.

CHAP. LII.

1 A conſolation to the people of God. 7 Of the meſſengers thereof.

ARISE, ariſe: put on thy ſtrength, O Zion: put on the garments of thy beauty, O Jeruſalem, the holy city: for henceforth there ſhall no [b] more come into thee the uncircumciſed and the unclean.

2 Shake thyſelf from the [c] duſt: ariſe, and ſit down, O Jeruſalem: looſe the bands of thy neck, O thou captive daughter, Zion.

3 For thus ſaith the Lord, Ye were ſold for [d] nought: therefore ſhall ye be redeemed without money.

4 For thus ſaith the Lord God, My people went [e] down aforetime into Egypt to ſojourn there, and Aſſhur [f] oppreſſed them without cauſe.

5 Now therefore what have I here, ſaith the Lord, that my people is taken away for nought, and they that rule over them make them to howl, ſaith the Lord? and my name all the day continually is [g] blaſphemed?

6 Therefore my people ſhall know my name: therefore they ſhall know in that day, that I am he that doth ſpeak: behold, it is I.

7 How [h] beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that declareth and publiſheth peace! that declareth good tidings! and publiſheth ſalvation, ſaying unto Zion, Thy God reigneth.

8 [i] The voice of thy watchmen ſhall be heard: they ſhall lift up their voice, and ſhout together: for they ſhall ſee eye to eye, when the Lord ſhall bring again Zion.

9 O ye deſolate places of Jeruſalem, be glad and rejoice together: the Lord hath comforted his people: he hath redeemed Jeruſalem.

10 The Lord hath made [k] bare his holy arm in the ſight of all the Gentiles, and all the ends of the earth ſhall ſee the ſalvation of our God.

11 [l] Depart, depart ye: go out from thence and touch no unclean thing: go out of the midſt of her: be ye clean, that [m] bear the veſſels of the Lord.

12 For ye ſhall not go out [n] with haſte, nor depart by fleeing away: but the Lord will go before you, and the God of Iſrael will gather you together.

13 Behold, my [o] ſervant ſhall proſper: he ſhall be exalted and extolled, and be very high.

[t] From Babylon.

[u] He comforteth them by the ſhort time of their baniſhment: for in ſeventy years they were reſtored, and the greateſt empire of the world deſtroyed.

[w] Meaning, of Iſaiah, and of all true miniſters, who are defended by his protection.

[x] That all things may be reſtored in heaven and earth, Eph. 1. 10.

[y] Thou haſt been juſtly puniſhed, and ſufficiently, as ch. 40. 2. and this puniſhment in the elect is by meaſure, and according as God giveth grace to bear it: but in the reprobate it is the juſt vengeance of God, to drive them to an inſenſibleneſs and madneſs, Jer. 25. 15, 16.

[z] Whereof the one is outward, as of the things that come to the body: as war and famine: and the other is inward, and appertaineth to the mind; that is, to be without comfort, therefore he ſaith, How ſhalt thou be comforted?

[a] But with trouble and fear.

[b] No wicked tyrant, which ſhall ſubvert God's true religion, and oppreſs the conſcience.

[c] Put off the garments of ſorrow and heavineſs, and put on the apparel of joy and gladneſs.

[d] The Babylonians paid nothing to me for you: therefore I will take you again without ranſom.

[e] When Jacob went thither in the time of famine.

[f] The Egyptians might pretend ſome cauſe to oppreſs my people, becauſe they went thither, and remained among them, but the Aſſyrians have no title to excuſe their tyranny by: and therefore will I puniſh them more than I did the Egyptians.

[g] To wit, by the wicked, which think that I have no power to deliver them.

[h] Signifying, that the joy and good tidings of their deliverance ſhould make their affliction in the mean time more eaſy: but this is chiefly meant of the ſpiritual joy, as Nahum 1. 15. Rom. 10. 15.

[i] The prophets which are thy watchmen, ſhall publiſh this thy deliverance: this was begun under Zerubbabel, Ezra and Nehemiah, but was accompliſhed under Chriſt.

[k] As ready to ſmite his enemies, and to deliver his people.

[l] He warneth the faithful not to pollute themſelves with the ſuperſtitions of the Babylonians, as chap. 48. 20. 2 Cor. 6. 17.

[m] For the time is at hand that the prieſts and Levites chiefly (and ſo by them all the people, which ſhall be as the Levites in this office) ſhall carry home the veſſels of the temple which Nebuchadnezzar had taken away.

[n] As your fathers did out of Egypt.

[o] Meaning Chriſt, by whom our ſpiritual deliverance ſhould be wrought, whereof this was a figure.

Bef. Chr. 712.

14 As many were aſtoniſhed at thee (his viſage was ſo [p] deformed of men) ſo [q] ſhall he ſprinkle many nations · the kings ſhall ſhut their [r] mouths at him: for that which had not been told them, ſhall they ſee: and that which they had not heard, ſhall they [s] underſtand.

CHAP. LIII.

1 Of Chriſt and his kingdom, whoſe word few will believe. 6 All men are ſinners. 11 Chriſt is our righteouſneſs, 12 And is dead for our ſins.

WHO [t] will believe our report? and to whom is the [u] arm of the Lord revealed?

2 But he ſhall grow up before him as a branch, and as a [w] root out of a dry [x] ground: he hath neither form nor beauty: when we ſhall ſee him, there ſhall be no form that we ſhould deſire him.

3 He is deſpiſed and rejected of men: he is a man full of ſorrows, and hath experience of [y] infirmities: we hid, as it were, our faces from him: he was deſpiſed, and we eſteemed him not.

4 Surely he hath borne our infirmities, and carried [z] our ſorrows: yet we did judge him as [a] plagued, and ſmitten of God, and humbled.

5 But he was wounded for our tranſgreſſions, he was broken for our iniquities: the [b] chaſtiſement of our peace was upon him, and with his ſtripes we are healed.

6 All we like ſheep have gone aſtray: we have turned every one to his own way, and the Lord hath laid upon him the [c] iniquity of us all.

7 He was oppreſſed and he was afflicted, yet did not [d] open his mouth: he is brought as a ſheep to the ſlaughter, and as a ſheep before his ſhearer is dumb, ſo he opened not his mouth.

8 He was taken out from [e] priſon, and from judgment: [f] and who ſhall declare his age? for he was cut out of the land of the living: for the tranſgreſſion of my people was he plagued.

9 [g] And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death, though he had done no wickedneſs, neither was any deceit in his mouth.

10 Yet the Lord would break him, and make him ſubject to infirmities: when [h] he ſhall make his ſoul an offering for ſin, he ſhall ſee his ſeed, and ſhall prolong his days, and the will of the Lord ſhall proſper in his hand.

Bef. Chr. 712.

11 He ſhall ſee of the [i] travail of his ſoul, and ſhall be ſatisfied: by his knowledge ſhall my [k] righteous ſervant juſtify many: for he ſhall bear their iniquities.

12 Therefore will I give him a portion with the great: and he ſhall divide the ſpoil with the ſtrong, becauſe he [l] hath poured out his ſoul unto death: and he was counted with the tranſgreſſors, and he bare the ſin [m] of many, and prayed for the treſpaſſers.

CHAP. LIV.

1 More of the Gentiles ſhall believe the Goſpel than of the Jews. 7 God leaveth his for a time, to whom afterward he ſheweth mercy.

REJOICE, O [n] barren, that doſt not bear: break forth into joy and rejoice, thou that didſt not travail with child: for the [o] deſolate hath more children than the married wife, ſaith the Lord.

2 [p] Enlarge the place of thy tents, and let them ſpread out the curtains of thine habitations: ſpare not: ſtretch out thy cords, and make faſt thy ſtakes.

3 For thou ſhalt increaſe on the right hand and on the left, and thy ſeed ſhall poſſeſs the Gentiles, and dwell in the deſolate places.

4 Fear not, for thou ſhalt not be aſhamed, neither ſhalt thou be confounded: for thou ſhalt not be put to ſhame: yea, thou ſhalt forget the ſhame of thy [q] youth, and ſhalt not remember the reproach of thy [r] widowhood any more.

5 For he that [s] made thee, is thine huſband, (whoſe name is the Lord of hoſts) and thy Redeemer the holy One of Iſrael, ſhall be called the God of the whole [t] world.

6 For the Lord hath called thee, being as a woman forſaken, and afflicted in ſpirit, and as a [u] young wife when thou waſt refuſed, ſaith thy God.

7 For a little while have I forſaken thee, but with great compaſſion will I gather thee.

[s] By the preaching of the goſpel.

[t] The prophet ſheweth that very few ſhall receive this their preaching of Chriſt, and of their deliverance by him, John 12. 38. Rom. 10. 16.

[u] Meaning, that none can believe but whoſe hearts God toucheth with the virtue of his holy Spirit.

[w] The beginning of Chriſt's kingdom ſhall be ſmall and contemptible in the ſight of men, but it ſhall grow wonderfully and flouriſh before God.

[a] We judged evil, thinking that he was puniſhed for his own ſins, and not for ours.

[b] He was chaſtiſed for our reconciliation, 1 Cor. 15. 3.

[c] Meaning, the puniſhment of our iniquity, and not the fault itſelf.

[g] God the Father delivered him into the hands of the wicked, and to the power of the world, to do with him what they would.

[h] Chriſt by offering up himſelf ſhall give life to the church, and ſo cauſe them to live with him for ever.

[i] That is, the fruit and effect of his labour, which is the ſalvation of his church.

[k] Chriſt ſhall juſtify by faith, through his word, whereas Moſes could not juſtify by the law.

[l] Becauſe he humbled himſelf, therefore he ſhall be exalted to glory, Phil. 2. 7, 8.

[m] That is, of all that believe in him.

[n] After that he hath declared the death of Chriſt, he ſpeaketh to the church, becauſe it ſhould feel the fruit of the ſame; and calleth her barren, becauſe that in the captivity ſhe was a widow without hope to have any children.

[o] The church in this her affliction and captivity ſhall bring forth more children than when ſhe was at liberty: or this may be ſpoken by admiration, conſidering the great number that ſhould come of her. Her deliverance under Cyrus was as her childhood, and therefore this was accompliſhed when ſhe came to her age, which was under the goſpel.

[p] Signifying, that for the great number of children that God ſhould give her, ſhe ſhould ſeem to want room to lodge them.

[q] The afflictions which thou ſufferedſt at the beginning.

[r] When as thou waſt refuſed for thy ſins, chap. 50. 1.

[s] That did regenerate thee by his Holy Spirit.

9 For this is unto me as the [w] waters of Noah: for as I have ſworn that the waters of Noah ſhould no more go over the earth, ſo have I ſworn that I would not be angry with thee, nor rebuke thee.

10 For the mountains ſhall remove, and the hills ſhall fall down: but my mercy ſhall not depart from thee, neither ſhall the covenant of my peace fall away, ſaith the Lord, that hath compaſſion on thee.

11 O thou afflicted and toſſed with tempeſt, that haſt no comfort, behold, I will lay thy ſtones with [x] the carbuncle, and lay thy foundation with ſapphires.

12 And I will make thy windows of ‡ emeralds, and thy gates ſhining ſtones, and all thy border of pleaſant ſtones.

‡ Or, jaſper, or pearl.

13 And all thy children ſhall be [y] taught of the Lord, and much peace ſhall be to thy children.

14 In [z] righteouſneſs ſhalt thou be eſtabliſhed, and be far from oppreſſion, for thou ſhalt not fear it: and from fear, for it ſhall not come near thee.

15 Behold, the enemy ſhall gather himſelf, but without [a] me: whoſoever ſhall gather himſelf in thee, [b] againſt thee, ſhall fall.

16 Behold, I have created the [c] ſmith that bloweth the coals in the fire, and him that bringeth forth an inſtrument for his work, and I have created the deſtroyer to deſtroy.

17 But all the weapons that are made againſt thee, ſhall not proſper: and every tongue that ſhall riſe againſt thee in judgment, thou ſhalt condemn. This is the heritage of the Lord's ſervants, and their righteouſneſs is of me, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. LV.

1 An exhortation to come to Chriſt. 8 God's counſels are not as man's. 12 The joy of the faithful.

HO, every one that [d] thirſteth, come ye to the waters, and ye that have [e] no ſilver, come, buy and eat: come, I ſay, buy [f] wine and milk without ſilver and without money.

2 Wherefore do ye lay out ſilver, and not for bread? [g] and your labour, without being ſatiſfied? hearken diligently unto me, and eat that which is good, and let your ſoul delight in [h] fatneſs.

3 Incline your ears, and come unto me: hear, and your ſoul ſhall live: and I will make an everlaſting covenant with you, even the [i] ſure mercies of David.

4 Behold, I gave [k] him for a witneſs to the people, for a prince and a maſter unto the people.

5 Behold, thou ſhalt call a nation that thou knoweſt not, [l] and a nation that knew not thee ſhall run unto thee, becauſe of the Lord thy God, and the holy One of Iſrael: for he hath glorified thee.

6 Seek ye the Lord while he may [m] be found: call ye upon him while he is near.

7 Let the wicked [n] forſake his ways, and the unrighteous his own imaginations, and return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him: and to our God, for he is very ready to forgive.

8 For my [o] thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, ſaith the Lord.

9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth, ſo are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts above your thoughts.

10 Surely as the rain cometh down, and the ſnow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it to bring forth and bud, that it may give ſeed to the ſower, and bread unto him that eateth,

11 So ſhall my [p] word be, that goeth out of my mouth: it ſhall not return unto me void, but it ſhall accompliſh that which I will, and it ſhall proſper in the thing whereto I ſent it.

12 Therefore ye ſhall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the [q] mountains and the hills ſhall break forth before you into joy, and all the trees of the field ſhall clap their hands:

13 For thorns there ſhall grow fir-trees: for nettles ſhall grow the myrrh-tree, and it ſhall be to the Lord [r] for a name, and for an everlaſting [s] ſign that ſhall not be taken away.

CHAP. LVI.

1 An exhortation to judgment and juſtice. 10 Againſt ſhepherds that devour their flock.

[w] As ſure as the promiſe that I made to Noah, that the waters ſhould no more overflow the earth.

[x] Hereby he declareth the excellent eſtate of the church under Chriſt.

[y] By the hearing of his word and inward moving of his Spirit.

[z] In ſtability and ſureneſs, ſo that it ſhall ſtand for ever.

[a] And therefore ſhall not prevail.

[b] Meaning, the domeſtical enemies of the church, as are the hypocrites.

[c] Signifying hereby, that man can do nothing but ſo far as God giveth power: for ſeeing that all are his creatures, he muſt needs govern and guide them.

[d] Chriſt by propoſing his graces and gifts to his church, exempteth the hypocrites which are full with their imagined works, and the Epicures which are full with their worldly luſts, and ſo thirſt not after theſe waters.

[e] Signifying, that God's benefits cannot be bought for money.

[f] By waters, wine, milk and bread, he meaneth all things neceſſary to the ſpiritual life, as theſe are neceſſary to this corporal life.

[g] He reproveth their ingratitude, which refuſe thoſe things that God offereth willingly, and in the mean time ſpare neither coſt nor labour to obtain thoſe which are nothing profitable.

[h] You ſhall be fed abundantly.

[i] The ſame covenant, which through my mercy I ratified and confirmed to David, that it ſhould be eternal, 2 Sam, 7. 13. Acts 13. 34.

[k] Meaning, Chriſt, of whom David was a figure.

[l] To wit, the Gentiles, which before thou didſt not receive to be thy people.

[m] When he offereth himſelf by the preaching of his word.

[n] Hereby he ſheweth that repentance muſt be joined with faith; and how we cannot call upon God aright, except the fruits of our faith appear.

[o] Although you are not ſoon reconciled one to another, and judge me by yourſelves, yet I am moſt eaſy to be reconciled, yea, I offer my mercies to you.

[p] If theſe ſmall things have their effect, as daily experience ſheweth, much more ſhall my promiſe, which I have made and confirmed, bring to paſs the things which I have ſpoken for your deliverance.

[q] Read chap. 44. 23. and 49. 13.

[r] To ſet forth his glory.

[s] Of God's deliverance, and that he will never forſake his church.

[t] God ſheweth what he requireth of them after that he hath delivered them: to wit, the works of charity, whereby true faith is declared.

[u] Which I will declare toward you, and pour into your hearts by my Spirit.

2 Bleſſed is the man that doeth this, and the ſon of man which layeth hold on it: he that keepeth the [w] ſabbath, and polluteth it not, and keepeth his hand from doing any evil.

3 And let not the ſon of the ſtranger, which [x] is joined to the Lord, ſpeak and ſay, The Lord hath ſurely ſeparated me from his people: neither let the eunuch ſay, Behold, I am a dry tree.

4 For thus ſaith the Lord unto the eunuchs, that keep my ſabbaths, and chuſe the thing that pleaſeth me, and take hold of my covenant,

5 Even unto them will I give in mine [y] houſe, and within my walls, a place and a [z] name better than of the ſons and of the daughters: I will give them an everlaſting name that ſhall not be put out.

6 Alſo the ſtrangers that cleave unto the Lord, to ſerve him, and to love the name of the Lord, and to be his ſervants: every one that keepeth the ſabbath, and polluteth it not, and embraceth my covenant,

7 Them will I bring alſo to mine holy mountain, and make them joyful in mine houſe of prayer: their burnt [a] offerings, and their ſacrifices, ſhall be accepted upon mine altar: for mine houſe ſhall be called an houſe of prayer for [b] all people.

8 The Lord God ſaith, which gathereth the ſcattered of Iſrael, Yet will I gather to them thoſe that are to be gathered to them.

9 All ye [c] beaſts of the field, come to devour, even all the beaſts of the foreſt.

10 Their [d] watchmen are all blind: they have no knowledge: they are all dumb dogs: they cannot bark: they lie and ſleep, and delight in ſleeping.

11 And theſe greedy dogs can never have enough: and theſe ſhepherds cannot underſtand: for they all look to their own way, every one for his advantage, and for his own purpoſe.

12 Come, I will bring wine, and we will fill ourſelves with ſtrong drink, and to [e] morrow ſhall be as this day, and much more abundant.

CHAP. LVII.

1 God taketh away the good, that he ſhould not ſee the horrible plagues to come. 3 Of the wicked idolaters, 9 And their vain confidence.

THE righteous periſheth, and no man conſidereth it in heart: and merciful men are taken away, and no man underſtandeth that the righteous is taken away [f] from the evil to come.

2 [g] Peace ſhall come: they ſhall reſt in their beds, every one that walketh before him.

3 But you, [h] witches children, come hither, the ſeed of the adulterer and of the whore.

4 On whom have ye jeſted? upon whom have ye gaped and thruſt out your tongue? are not ye rebellious children, and a falſe ſeed?

5 Inflamed with idols under every green tree? and ſacrificing the [i] children in the vallies under the tops of the rocks?

6 Thy portion is in the ſmooth ſtones [k] of the river: they, they are thy lot: even to them haſt thou poured a drink-offering: thou haſt offered a ſacrifice. Should I delight in [l] theſe?

7 Thou haſt made thy [m] bed upon a very high mountain: thou wenteſt up thither, even thither wenteſt thou to offer ſacrifice.

8 Behind the [n] doors alſo and poſts haſt thou ſet up thy remembrance,: for thou haſt diſcovered thyſelf to another than me, and wenteſt up, and didſt [o] enlarge thy bed, and make a covenant between thee and them, and lovedſt their bed in every place where thou ſaweſt it.

9 Thou wenteſt [p] to the kings with oil, and didſt increaſe thine ointments, and ſend thy meſſengers far off, and didſt humble thyſelf unto hell.

10 Thou weariedſt thyſelf in thy manifold journies, yet ſaidſt thou not, [q] There is no hope: thou [r] haſt found life by thine hand, therefore thou waſt not grieved.

11 And whom didſt thou reverence or fear, ſeeing thou haſt [s] lied on me, and haſt not remembered me, neither ſet thy mind thereon? is it not becauſe I hold my peace: and that of long [t] time? therefore thou feareſt not me.

12 I will declare thy [u] righteouſneſs, and thy works, and they ſhall not profit thee.

13 When

[w] Under the ſabbath he comprehendeth the whole ſervice of God and true religion.

[x] Let none think himſelf unmeet to receive the graces of the Lord: for the Lord will take away all impediments, and will forſake none which will keep his true religion, and believe in him.

[y] Meaning, in his church.

[z] They ſhall be called after my people, and be of the ſame religion: yea, under Chriſt the dignity of the faithful ſhall be greater than the Jews were at that time.

[a] Hereby he meaneth the ſpiritual ſervice of God, to whom the faithful offer continual thankſgiving, yea themſelves, and all that they have, as a lively and acceptable ſervice.

[b] Not only for the Jews, but for all others, Matt. 21. 13.

[c] Meaning, the enemies of the church, as the Babylonians, Aſſyrians, &c. thus he ſpeaketh to fear the hypocrites, and to aſſure the faithful, that when this cometh, they may know it was told them before.

[d] He ſheweth that this affliction ſhall come through the fault of the governors, prophets and paſtors, whoſe ignorance, negligence, avarice and obſtinacy, provoked God's wrath againſt them.

[e] We are well yet, and to-morrow ſhall be better: therefore let us not fear the plagues before they come: thus the wicked contemned the admonitions and exhortations which were made them in the name of God.

[f] From the plague that is at hand, and alſo becauſe God will puniſh the wicked.

[g] The ſoul of the righteous ſhall be in joy, and their body ſhall reſt in the grave unto the time of the reſurrection, becauſe they walked before the Lord.

[h] He threateneth the wicked hypocrites, who under the pretence of the name of God's people, derided God's word and his promiſes: boaſting openly that they were the children of Abraham, but becauſe they were not faithful and obedient as Abraham was, he calleth them baſtards, and the children of ſorcerers, which forſook God, and fled to wicked means for ſuccour.

[i] Read Levit. 18. 21. 2 Kings 23. 10.

[k] Meaning, every place was polluted with their idolatry: or every fair ſtone that they found, they made an idol of it.

[l] In the ſacrifices which you, offering before theſe idols, thought you did ſerve God by.

[m] To wit, thine altars in an open place, like an impudent harlot, that careth not for the ſight of her huſband.

[n] Inſtead of ſetting up the word of God in the open places on the poſts and doors to have it in remembrance, Deut. 6. 9. and 27. 1. thou haſt ſet up ſigns and marks of thine idolatry in every place.

[o] That is, didſt increaſe thine idolatry more and more.

[p] Thou didſt ſeek the favour of the Aſſyrians by gifts and preſents, to help thee againſt the Egyptians: and when they failed, thou ſoughteſt to the Babylonians, and more and more didſt torment thyſelf.

[q] Although thou ſaweſt all thy labours to be in vain, yet wouldeſt thou never acknowledge thy fault, and leave off.

[r] He derideth their unprofitable diligence, which thought to have made all ſure, and yet were deceived.

[s] Broken promiſe with me.

[t] Meaning, that the wicked abuſe God's lenity, and grow to further wickedneſs.

[u] That is, thy naughtineſs, idolatries and impieties, which the wicked call God's ſervice: thus he derideth their obſtinacy.

Bef. Chr. 698.

13 When thou crieſt, let them that thou haſt gathered together deliver thee: but the wind ſhall [w] take them all away: vanity ſhall pull them away: but he that truſteth in me ſhall inherit the land, and ſhall poſſeſs mine holy mountain.

14 [x] And he ſhall ſay, Caſt up, caſt up: prepare the way: take up the ſtumbling-blocks out of the way of my people.

15 For thus ſaith he that is high and excellent, he that inhabiteth the eternity, whoſe name is the holy One, I dwell in the high and holy place: with him alſo that is of a contrite and humble ſpirit, to renew the ſpirit of the humble, and to give life to them that are of a contrite heart.

16 For I will not contend for ever, neither will I be always wroth, [y] for the ſpirit ſhould fail before me: and I have made the breach.

17 For his wicked [z] covetouſneſs, I am angry with him, and have ſmitten him: I hid me, and was angry, yet he went away, and turned after the way of his own heart.

18 I have ſeen his ways, and will [a] heal him: I will lead him alſo, and reſtore comfort unto him, and to thoſe that lament him.

19 I create the [b] fruit of the lips, to be peace: peace unto them that are [c] far off, and to them that are near, ſaith the Lord: for I will heal him.

20 But the wicked are like the raging ſea, that [d] cannot reſt, whoſe waters caſt up mire and dirt.

21 There is no peace, ſaith my God, to the wicked.

3 [g] Wherefore have we faſted, and thou ſeeſt it not? we have puniſhed ourſelves, and thou regardeſt it not. Behold, in the day of your faſt you will ſeek [h] your will, and require all your debts.

4 Behold, ye faſt to ſtrife and debate, and to ſmite with the fiſt of wickedneſs: ye ſhall not faſt as ye do to-day, to make your voice to be [i] heard above.

Bef. Chr. 698.

5 Is it ſuch a faſt that I have choſen, that a man ſhould afflict his ſoul for a day, and to bow down his head as a bulruſh, and lie down in ſackcloth and aſhes? wilt thou call this a faſting, or an acceptable day to the Lord?

6 Is not this the faſting that I have choſen, to looſe the bands of wickedneſs, to take off the heavy burdens, and to let the oppreſſed go free, and that ye break every [k] yoke?

7 Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that wander, unto thine houſe? when thou ſeeſt the naked, that thou cover him, and hide not thyſelf from [l] thine own fleſh?

8 Then ſhall thy [m] light break forth as the morning, and thine health ſhall grow ſpeedily: thy [n] righteouſneſs ſhall go before thee, and the glory of the Lord ſhall embrace thee.

9 Then ſhalt thou call, and the Lord ſhall anſwer: thou ſhalt cry, and he ſhall ſay, Here I am: if thou take away from the midſt of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the [o] finger, and wicked ſpeaking:

10 If thou [p] pour out thy ſoul to the hungry, and refreſh the troubled ſoul: then ſhall thy light ſpring out in the [q] darkneſs, and thy darkneſs ſhall be as the noon day.

11 And the Lord ſhall guide thee continually, and ſatisfy thy ſoul in drought, and make fat thy bones: and thou ſhalt be like a watered garden, and like a ſpring of water, whoſe waters fail not.

12 And they ſhall be of thee, that ſhall build the old [r] waſte places: thou ſhalt raiſe up the foundations for many generations, and thou ſhalt be called the repairer of the breach, and the reſtorer of the paths to dwell in.

13 If thou [s] turn away thy foot from the ſabbath, from doing thy will on mine holy day, and call the ſabbath a delight, to conſecrate it, as glorious to the Lord, and ſhalt honour him, not doing thine own ways, nor ſeeking thine own will, nor ſpeaking a vain word,

14 Then ſhalt thou delight in the Lord, and I will cauſe thee to mount upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the mouth of the Lord hath ſpoken it.

[a] Though they were obſtinate, yet I did not withdraw my mercy from them.

[b] That is, I frame the ſpeech and words of my meſſengers which ſhall bring peace.

[c] As well to him that is in captivity, as to him that remaineth at home.

[d] Their evil conſcience doth ever torment them, and therefore they can never have reſt, read chap. 48. 22.

[e] The Lord thus ſpeaketh to the prophet, willing him to uſe all diligence and ſeverity to rebuke the hypocrites.

[f] They will ſeem to worſhip me, and have outward holineſs.

[g] He ſetteth forth the malice and diſdain of the hypocrites, which grudge againſt God, if their works be not accepted.

[h] Thus he convinceth the hypocrites by the ſecond table, and by their duty toward their neighbour, that they have neither faith nor religion.

[i] So long as you uſe contention and oppreſſion, your faſting and prayer ſhall not be heard.

[k] That you leave off all your extortions.

[l] For in him thou ſeeſt thyſelf as in a glaſs.

[m] That is, the proſperous eſtate wherewith God will bleſs thee.

[n] The teſtimony of thy goodneſs ſhall appear before God and man.

[o] Whereby is meant all manner of injury.

[p] That is, have compaſſion on their miſeries.

[q] Thine adverſity ſhall be turned into proſperity.

[r] Signifying, that of the Jews ſhould come ſuch as ſhould build again the ruins of Jeruſalem and Judea: but chiefly this is meant of the ſpiritual Jeruſalem, whoſe builders were the apoſtles.

[s] If thou refrain thyſelf from thy wicked works.

Bef. Chr. 698.

* Num. 11. 23. Ch. 50. 2. Jer. 5. 5.

BEHOLD, * the Lord's hand is not ſhortened, that it cannot ſave: neither is his ear heavy, that it cannot hear.

2 But * your iniquities have ſeparated between you and your God, and your ſins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear.

3 For your hands are defiled with [t] blood, and your fingers with iniquity: your lips have ſpoken lyes, and your tongue hath murmured iniquity.

4 No man calleth for juſtice: no man [u] contendeth for truth: they truſt in vanity, and ſpeak vain things: they conceive miſchief, and [w] bring forth iniquity.

5 They hatch cockatrice [x] eggs, and weave the ſpider's [y] web: he that eateth of their eggs dieth, and that which is trod upon breaketh out into a ſerpent.

6 Their webs ſhall be no garment, neither ſhall they cover themſelves with their labours: for their works are works of iniquity, and the work of cruelty is in their hands.

7 Their feet run to evil, and they make haſte to ſhed innocent blood: their thoughts are wicked thoughts: deſolation and deſtruction is in their paths.

8 The way of peace they know not, and there is none equity in their goings: they have made them crooked paths: whoſoever goeth therein, ſhall not know peace.

9 Therefore is [z] judgment far from us, neither doth [a] juſtice come near unto us: we wait for light, but lo it is darkneſs: for brightneſs, but we walk in darkneſs.

10 We grope for the wall like the [b] blind, and we grope as one without eyes: we ſtumble at the noon-day as in the twilight: we are in ſolitary places, as dead men.

11 We roar all like [c] bears, and mourn like doves: we look for equity, but there is none: for health, but it is far from us.

12 For our treſpaſſes are many before thee, and our [d] ſins teſtify againſt us: for our treſpaſſes are with us, and we know our iniquities.

13 In treſpaſſing and lying againſt the Lord, and we have departed away from our God, and have ſpoken of cruelty and rebellion, conceiving and uttering out of the heart falſe [e] matters.

14 Therefore [f] judgment is turned backward, and juſtice ſtandeth far off: for truth is fallen in the ſtreet, and equity cannot enter.

15 Yea, truth faileth, and he that refraineth from evil, maketh himſelf [g] a prey: and when the Lord ſaw it, it diſpleaſed him, that there was no judgment.

16 And when he ſaw that there was no man, he wondered that none would offer himſelf. [h] Therefore his arm did [i] ſave it, and his righteouſneſs itſelf did ſuſtain it.

17 For he put on righteouſneſs as an habergeon, and an [k] helmet of ſalvation upon his head, and he put on the garments of vengeance for cloathing, and was clad with zeal as a cloak.

18 As to make recompence, as to requite the fury of the adverſaries with a recompence to his enemies: he will fully repay the [l] iſlands.

19 So ſhall they fear the name of the Lord from the Weſt, and his glory from the riſing of the ſun: for the enemy ſhall [m] come like a flood, but the Spirit of the Lord ſhall chaſe him away.

20 And the Redeemer ſhall come unto Zion, and unto [n] them that turn from iniquity in Jacob, ſaith the Lord.

21 And I will make this my covenant with them, ſaith the Lord, My Spirit that is upon thee, and my words, which I have put in thy mouth, [o] ſhall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy ſeed, nor out of the mouth of the ſeed of thy ſeed, ſaith the Lord, from henceforth even for ever.

CHAP. LX.

3 The Gentiles ſhall come to the knowledge of the goſpel. 8 They ſhall come to the church in abundance. 16 They ſhall have abundance, though they ſuffer for a time.

ARISE, O Jeruſalem: be bright, for thy [p] light is come, and the glory of the Lord is riſen upon thee.

2 For behold, darkneſs ſhall cover the [q] earth, and groſs darkneſs the people: but the Lord ſhall ariſe upon thee, and his glory ſhall be ſeen upon thee.

3 And the Gentiles ſhall walk in [r] thy light, and kings at the brightneſs of thy riſing up.

4 Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold: all [s] theſe are gathered, and come to thee, thy ſons ſhall come from far, and thy daughters ſhall be nouriſhed at thy ſide.

5 Then thou ſhalt ſee and ſhine: thine heart ſhall be aſtoniſhed [t] and enlarged, becauſe the multitude of the ſea ſhall be converted unto thee, and the riches of the Gentiles ſhall come unto thee.

6 The [u] multitude of camels ſhall cover thee:

[t] Read chap. 1. 15.

[u] All men wink at the injuries and oppreſſions, and none go about to remedy them.

[w] According to their wicked devices, they hurt their neighbours.

[x] Whatſoever cometh from them is poiſon, and bringeth death.

[y] They are profitable to no purpoſe.

[z] That is, God's vengeance to puniſh our enemies.

[a] God's protection to defend us.

[b] We are altogether deſtitute of counſel, and can find no end of our miſeries.

[c] We expreſs our ſorrows by outward ſigns, ſome more, ſome leſs.

[d] This confeſſion is general to the church, to obtain remiſſion of ſins, and the prophets did not exempt themſelves from the ſame.

[e] To wit, againſt our neighbours.

[f] There is neither juſtice nor uprightneſs among men.

[g] The wicked will deſtroy him.

[h] Meaning, to do juſtice, and to remedy the things that were ſo far out of order.

[i] That is, his church, or his arm did help itſelf, and did not ſeek aid of any other.

[k] Signifying, that God hath all means at hand to deliver his church, and to puniſh their enemies.

[l] To wit, your enemies which dwell in divers places, and beyond the ſea.

[m] He ſheweth that there ſhall be great affliction in the church, but God will ever deliver his.

[n] Whereby he declareth that the true deliverance from ſin and Satan belongeth to none but to the children of God, whom he ſuſtaineth.

[o] Becauſe the doctrine is made profitable by the virtue of the Spirit, he joineth the one with the other, and promiſeth to give them both to his church for ever.

[p] The time of thy proſperity and felicity: whereas ſpeaking of Babylon, he commanded her to go down, ch. 47. 1.

[q] Signifying, that all men are in darkneſs, till God give them the light of his Spirit, and that this light ſhineth to none but to thoſe that are in his church.

[r] Meaning, that Judea ſhould be as the morning ſtar, and that the Gentiles ſhould receive light of her.

[s] An infinite number from all countries, as ch. 49. 18.

[t] For joy: as the heart is drawn in for ſorrow.

[u] Meaning, that every one ſhall honour the Lord with that wherewith he is able. Signifying, that it is no true ſerving of God, except we offer ourſelves to ſerve his glory, and all that we have.

Bef. Chr. 698. and the dromedaries of Midian and of Ephah: all they of Sheba ſhall come: they ſhall bring gold and incenſe, and ſhew forth the praiſes of the Lord.

7 All the ſheep of [w] Kedar ſhall be gathered unto thee: the rams of Nebaioth ſhall ſerve thee: they ſhall come to be accepted upon mine [x] altar: and I will beautify the houſe of my glory.

8 Who are theſe [y] that flee like a cloud, and as the doves to their windows?

9 Surely the iſles ſhall wait for me, and the ſhips [z] of Tarſhiſh, as at the beginning, that they may bring thy ſons from far, and their ſilver and their gold with them, unto the name of the Lord thy God, and to the holy One of Iſrael, becauſe he hath glorified thee.

10 And the ſons of ſtrangers ſhall build up the walls, and their [a] kings ſhall miniſter unto thee: for in my wrath I ſmote thee, but in my mercy I had compaſſion on thee.

11 Therefore thy gates ſhall be open continually: neither day nor night ſhall they be ſhut, that men may bring unto thee the riches of the Gentiles, and that their kings may be brought.

12 For the nation and the [b] kingdom, that will not ſerve thee, ſhall periſh: and thoſe nations ſhall be utterly deſtroyed.

13 The [c] glory of Lebanon ſhall come unto thee, the fir-tree, the elm and the box-tree together, to beautify the place of my ſanctuary: for I will glorify the place of my [d] feet.

14 The ſons alſo of them that afflicted thee, ſhall come and bow unto thee: and all they that deſpiſed thee, ſhall [e] fall down at the ſoles of thy feet: and they ſhall call thee, The city of the Lord, Zion of the holy One of Iſrael.

15 Whereas thou haſt been forſaken and hated, ſo that no man went by thee, I will make thee an eternal glory, and a joy from generation to generation.

16 Thou ſhalt alſo ſuck the milk of the Gentiles, and ſhalt ſuck the [f] breaſts of kings: and thou ſhalt know, that I the Lord am thy Saviour, and thy Redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob.

17 For braſs will I bring gold, and for iron will I bring ſilver, and for wood braſs, and for ſtones iron. I will alſo make thy government [g] peace, and thine exactors righteouſneſs.

18 Violence ſhall no more be heard of in thy land, neither deſolation, nor deſtruction within thy borders: but thou ſhalt [h] call ſalvation thy walls, and praiſe thy gates. Bef. Chr. 698.

19 Thou ſhalt have no more ſun to ſhine by day, neither ſhall the brightneſs of the [i] moon ſhine unto thee: for the Lord ſhall be thine everlaſting light, and thy God thy glory.

20 Thy ſun ſhall never go down, neither ſhall thy moon be hid: for the Lord ſhall be thine everlaſting light, and the days of thy ſorrow ſhall be ended.

21 Thy people alſo ſhall be all righteous: they ſhall poſſeſs the land for ever, the [k] graff of my planting ſhall be the work of mine hands, that I may be glorified.

22 A little one ſhall become as a [l] thouſand, and a ſmall one as a ſtrong nation: I the Lord will haſten it in due time.

CHAP. LXI.

1 He propheſieth that Chriſt ſhall be anointed, and ſent to preach. 10 The joy of the faithful.

THE * Spirit of the Lord God is [m] upon me, therefore hath the Lord anointed me: he hath ſent me to preach good tidings unto the poor, to bind up the [n] broken hearted, to preach liberty to the [o] captives, and to them that are bound, the opening of the priſon, *Luke 4.18.

2 To preach the [p] acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of [q] vengeance of our God, to comfort all that mourn,

3 To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, and to give unto them beauty for [r] aſhes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of gladneſs for the ſpirit of heavineſs, that they might be called [s] trees of righteouſneſs, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified.

4 And they ſhall build the old waſte places, and raiſe up the former deſolations, and they ſhall repair the cities that were deſolate and waſte through many [t] generations.

5 And the ſtranger ſhall [u] ſtand and feed your ſheep, and the ſons of the ſtrangers ſhall be your plowmen, and dreſſers of your vines.

6 But ye ſhall be named [w] the prieſts of the Lord, and men ſhall ſay unto you, The miniſters of our God: Ye ſhall eat the [x] riches of the Gentiles, and ſhall be exalted with their glory.

7 For your ſhame you ſhall receive [y] double, and for confuſion [z] they ſhall rejoice in [a] their portion

[w] That is, the Arabians, that have great abundance of cattle.

[x] Becauſe the altar was a figure of Chriſt, Heb. 13. 10. he ſheweth that nothing can be acceptable to him, which is not offered to him by this altar, who was both the offering and the altar itſelf.

[y] Shewing what great number ſhall come to the church, and with what great diligence and zeal.

[z] The Gentiles that are now enemies, ſhall become friends and ſetters-forth of the church.

[a] Meaning, Cyrus and his ſucceſſors, but chiefly this is accompliſhed in them that ſerve Chriſt, being converted by his goſpel.

[b] He ſheweth that God hath given all power and authority here in earth for the uſe of his church, and that they which will not ſerve and profit the ſame, ſhall be deſtroyed.

[c] There is nothing ſo excellent which ſhall not ſerve the neceſſity of the church.

[d] Signifying, that God's majeſty is not included in the temple, which is but the place for his feet, that we may learn to riſe up to the heavens.

[e] To worſhip their head Chriſt, by obeying his doctrine.

[f] Both high and low ſhall be ready to help and ſuccour thee.

[g] Thy governors ſhall love thee and ſeek thy wealth and proſperity.

[h] Meaning, not a temporal felicity, but a ſpiritual, which is fulfilled in Chriſt's kingdom.

[i] Signifying, that all worldly means ſhall ceaſe, and that Chriſt ſhall be all in all, as Rev. 21. 22. and 22. 5.

[k] The children of the church.

[l] Meaning, that the church ſhould be miraculouſly multiplied.

[m] This appertaineth to all the prophets and miniſters of God, but chiefly to Chriſt, of whoſe abundant graces every one receiveth according as it pleaſeth him to diſtribute.

[n] To them that are lively touched with the feeling of their ſins.

[o] Which are in the bondage of ſin.

[p] The time when it pleaſed God to ſhew his good favour to man, which St. Paul calleth the fulneſs of time, Gal. 4. 4.

[q] For when God delivereth his church, he puniſheth his enemies.

[r] Which was the ſign of mourning.

[s] Trees that bring forth good fruits, as Matt. 3. 8.

[t] That is, for a long time.

[u] They ſhall be ready to ſerve you in all your neceſſities.

[w] This is accompliſhed in the time of Chriſt, by whom all the faithful are made prieſts and kings, 1 Pet. 2. 9. Rev. 1. 6. and 5. 10.

[x] Read chap. 60. 11, 16.

[y] Abundant recompence, as this word is uſed, ch. 40. 2.

[z] That is, the Jews.

[a] To wit, of the Gentiles.

portion: for in their land they ſhall poſſeſs the [b] double: everlaſting joy ſhall be unto them.

8 For I the Lord love judgment, and hate [c] robbery for burnt-offering, and I will direct their work in truth, and will make an everlaſting covenant with them.

9 And [d] their ſeed ſhall be known among the Gentiles, and their buds among the people. All that ſee them ſhall know them, that they are the ſeed which the Lord hath bleſſed.

10 [e] I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, and my ſoul ſhall be joyful in my God: for he hath cloathed me with the garments of ſalvation, and covered me with the robe of righteouſneſs: he hath decked me like a bridegroom, and as a bride tireth herſelf with her jewels.

11 For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden cauſeth to grow that which is ſown in it: ſo the Lord God will cauſe righteouſneſs to grow, and praiſe before all the heathen.

CHAP. LXII.

1 The great deſire that the prophets have had for Chriſt's coming. 6 The diligence of the paſtors to preach.

FOR Zion's ſake I will not [f] hold my tongue, and for Jeruſalem's ſake I will not reſt, until the righteouſneſs thereof break forth as the [g] light, and ſalvation thereof as a burning lamp.

2 And the Gentiles ſhall ſee thy righteouſneſs, and all kings thy glory: and thou ſhalt be called by [h] a new name, which the mouth of the Lord ſhall name.

3 Thou ſhalt alſo be a [i] crown of glory in the hand of the Lord, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God.

4 It ſhall no more be ſaid unto thee, [k] Forſaken, neither ſhall it be ſaid any more to thy land, Deſolate, but thou ſhalt be called ‡ Hephzi-bah, and thy land ‡ Beulah: for the Lord delighteth in thee, and thy land ſhall have an [l] huſband.

‡Or, my delight in her.
‡ Or, married.

5 For as a young man marrieth a virgin, ſo ſhall thy ſons [m] marry thee: and as a bridegroom is glad of the bride, ſo ſhall thy God rejoice over thee.

6 I have ſet [n] watchmen upon thy walls, O Jeruſalem, which all the day and all the night continually ſhall not ceaſe: [o] ye that are mindful of the Lord, keep not ſilence.

7 And give him no reſt, till he repair, and until he ſet up Jeruſalem the [p] praiſe of the world.

8 The Lord hath ſworn by his right hand, and by his ſtrong arm, Surely I will no more give thy corn to be meat for thine enemies: and ſurely the ſons of the ſtrangers ſhall not drink thy wine, for the which thou haſt laboured:

9 But they that have gathered it ſhall eat it, and praiſe the Lord, and the gatherers thereof ſhall drink it in the courts of my ſanctuary.

10 [q] Go through, go through the gates: prepare you the way for the people: caſt up, caſt up the way, and gather out the ſtones, and ſet up a ſtandard for the people.

11 Behold, the Lord hath proclaimed unto the ends of the world: [r] tell the daughter Zion, Behold thy Saviour cometh: behold, his wages is with him, and [s] his work is before him.

12 And they ſhall call them, The holy people, the redeemed of the Lord, and thou ſhalt be named, A [t] city ſought out, and not forſaken.

CHAP. LXIII.

1 God ſhall deſtroy his enemies for his church's ſake. 7 God's benefit towards his church.

WHO is this that cometh [u] from Edom, with red garments from Bozrah? he is glorious in his apparel, and walketh in his great ſtrength. [w] I ſpeak in righteouſneſs, and am mighty to ſave.

2 [x] Wherefore is thine apparel red, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the wine-preſs?

3 I have trodden the wine-preſs alone, and of all people there was none with me: for I will tread them in mine anger, and tread them under foot in my wrath, and their blood ſhall be ſprinkled upon my garments, and I will ſtain all my raiment.

4 For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the [y] year of my redeemed is come.

5 And I looked, and there was none to help, and I wondered that there was none to uphold: therefore mine own [z] arm helped me, and my wrath itſelf ſuſtained me.

6 There-

[b] Whereas the Gentiles had dominion over the Jews in times paſt, now they ſhall have double authority over them, and poſſeſs twice ſo much.

[c] I will not receive their offering, which are extortioners, deceivers, hypocrites, or that deprive me of my glory.

[d] That is, of thy church.

[e] He ſheweth what ſhall be the affection, when they feel this their deliverance.

[f] The prophet ſaith, that he will never ceaſe to declare unto the people the good tidings of their deliverance.

[g] Till they have full deliverance: and this the prophet ſpeaketh to encourage all other miniſters to the ſetting forth of God's mercies towards his church.

[h] Thou ſhalt have a more excellent fame than thou haſt had hitherto.

[i] He ſhall eſteem thee as dear and precious, as a king doth his crown.

[k] Thou ſhalt no more be contemned as a woman forſaken of her huſband.

[l] That it may be repleniſhed with children.

[m] Foraſmuch as they confeſs one faith and religion with thee, they are in the ſame bond of marriage with thee, and they are called the children of the church, inaſmuch as Chriſt maketh her plentiful to bring forth children unto him.

[n] Prophets, paſtors, and miniſters.

[o] He exhorteth the miniſters never to ceaſe to call upon God by prayer for the deliverance of his church, and to teach others to do the ſame.

[p] For the reſtoration whereof all the world ſhall praiſe him.

[q] Signifying the great number that ſhould come to the church, and what means he would prepare for the reſtitution of the ſame, as chap. 57. 14.

[r] Ye prophets and miniſters, ſhew the people of this their deliverance: which was chiefly meant of our ſalvation by Chriſt, Zech. 9. 9. Matt. 21. 5.

[s] He ſhall have all power to bring his purpoſe to paſs, as chap. 40. 10.

[t] That is, one, over whom God hath had a ſingular care to recover her, when ſhe was loſt.

[u] This prophecy is againſt the Idumeans, and enemies which perſecuted the church, on whom God will take vengeance, and is here ſet forth all bloody after that he hath deſtroyed them in Bozrah, the chief city of the Idumeans: for theſe were the greateſt enemies, and under the title of circumciſion, and the kindred of Abraham, claimed to themſelves the chief religion, and hated the true worſhippers, Pſalm 137. 7.

[w] God anſwereth them that aſked this queſtion, Who is this? &c. and ſaith, Ye ſee now performed indeed the vengeance which my prophets threatened.

[x] Another queſtion to the which the Lord anſwereth.

[y] Shewing, that when God puniſheth his enemies, it is for the profit and deliverance of his church.

[z] God ſheweth, that he hath no need of man's help for the deliverance of his, and though men refuſe to do their duty through negligence and ingratitude, yet he himſelf will deliver his church, and puniſh the enemies, read chap. 59. 16.

6 Therefore I will tread down the people in my wrath, and make them [a] drunken in mine indignation, and will bring down their ſtrength to the earth.

7 [b] I will remember the mercies of the Lord, and the praiſes of the Lord, according unto all that the Lord hath given us, and for the great goodneſs toward the houſe of Iſrael, which he hath given them according to his tender love, and according to his great mercies.

8 For he ſaid, Surely they are my [c] people, children that will not lye: ſo he was their Saviour.

9 In all their troubles he was [d] troubled, and the angel [e] of his preſence ſaved them: in his love and in his mercy he redeemed them, and he bare them, and carried them always continually.

10 But they rebelled, and vexed his holy Spirit: therefore was he turned to be their enemy, and he fought againſt them.

11 Then he [f] remembered the old time of Moſes and his people, ſaying, Where is he that brought them up out of the ſea, with the [g] ſhepherd of his ſheep? Where is he that put his holy Spirit within [h] him?

12 He led them by the right hand of Moſes: with his own glorious arm, dividing the water before them, to make himſelf an everlaſting name.

13 He led them through the deep, as an [i] horſe in the wilderneſs, that they ſhould not ſtumble.

14 As the beaſt goeth down into the valley, the Spirit of the Lord gave them reſt: ſo didſt thou lead thy people, to make thyſelf a glorious name.

15 [k] Look down from heaven, and behold from the dwelling place of thine holineſs, and of thy glory. Where is thy [l] zeal and thy ſtrength, the multitude of thy mercies, and of thy compaſſions? they are reſtrained from [m] me.

16 Doubtleſs thou art our Father: though [n] Abraham be ignorant of us, and Iſrael know us not, yet thou, O Lord, art our Father, and our Redeemer: thy name is for ever.

17 O Lord, why haſt [o] thou made us to err from thy ways? and hardened our heart from thy fear? return, for thy [p] ſervants ſake, and for the tribes of thine inheritance.

18 The people of thine holineſs have poſſeſſed it but a little [q] while: for our adverſaries have trodden down thy ſanctuary.

19 We have been as they over whom thou never bareſt rule, and upon whom thy name was not called.

CHAP. LXIV.

1 The prophet prayeth for the ſins of the people. 6 Man's righteouſneſs is like a filthy cloth.

OH that thou wouldſt [r] break the heavens, and come down, and that the mountains might melt at thy preſence!

2 As the melting fire burned, as the fire cauſed [s] the waters to boil (that thou mighteſt declare thy name to thy adverſaries), the people did tremble at thy preſence.

3 When thou didſt terrible things, which we looked not for, thou cameſt down, and the mountains melted at thy preſence.

4 For ſince the beginning of the world they have not [t] heard, nor underſtand with the ear, neither hath the eye ſeen another God beſide thee, which doth ſo to him that waiteth for him.

5 Thou didſt meet him [u] that rejoiced in thee, and did juſtly: they remembered thee in thy [w] ways: behold, thou art angry, for we have ſinned: yet in [x] them is continuance, and we [y] ſhall be ſaved.

6 But we have all been as an unclean thing, and all our [z] righteouſneſs is as filthy clouts, and we all do fade like a leaf, and our iniquities like the wind have taken us away.

7 And there is none that calleth upon thy name, neither that ſtirreth up himſelf to take hold of thee: for thou haſt hid thy face from us, and hath conſumed us becauſe of our iniquities.

8 But now, O Lord, thou art our Father: we are the [a] clay, and thou art our potter, and we all are the work of thine hands.

9 Be not angry, O Lord, [b] above meaſure,

---

[a] I will ſo aſtoniſh them, and make them ſo giddy, that they ſhall not know which way to go.

[b] The prophet ſpeaketh this to move the people to remember God's benefits in times paſt, that they may be confirmed in their troubles.

[c] For I did chuſe them to be mine, that they ſhould be holy, and not deceive mine expectation.

[d] He bare their afflictions and griefs, as though they had been his own.

[e] Which was a witneſs of God's preſence: and this may be referred to Chriſt, to whom belongeth the office of ſalvation.

[f] That is, the people of Iſrael, being afflicted, called to remembrance God's benefits, which he had beſtowed upon their fathers in times paſt.

[g] Meaning, Moſes.

[h] That is, in Moſes, that he might well govern the people: ſome refer this giving of the Spirit to the people.

[i] Peaceably, and gently, as an horſe is led to his paſture.

[k] Having declared God's benefits ſhewed to their forefathers, he turneth himſelf to God by prayer, deſiring him to continue the ſame graces toward them.

[l] Thy great affection which thou bareſt toward us.

[m] Meaning, from the whole body of the church.

[n] Though Abraham would refuſe us to be his children, yet thou wilt not refuſe to be our Father.

[o] By taking away thy holy Spirit from us, by whom we were governed, and ſo for our ingratitude didſt deliver us up to our own concupiſcence, and didſt puniſh ſin by ſin, according to thy juſt judgment.

[p] Meaning, for the covenant's ſake made to Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob his ſervants.

[q] That is, in reſpect of the promiſe, which is perpetual: albeit they had now poſſeſſed the land of Canaan a thouſand and four hundred years: and thus they lament, to move God rather to remember his covenant, than to puniſh their ſins.

[r] The prophet continueth his prayer, deſiring God to declare his love towards his church, by miracles and mighty power, as he did in mount Sinai.

[s] Meaning, the rain, hail, fire, thunder, and lightnings.

[t] St. Paul uſeth the ſame kind of admiration, 1 Cor. 2. 9. marvelling at God's great benefits ſhewed to his church by the preaching of the goſpel.

[u] Thou ſhewedſt favour toward our fathers when they truſted in thee, and walked after thy commandments.

[w] They conſidered thy great mercies.

[x] That is, in thy mercies, which he calleth the ways of the Lord.

[y] Thou wilt have pity upon us.

[z] We are juſtly puniſhed and brought into captivity, becauſe we have provoked thee to anger, and though we would excuſe ourſelves, yet our righteouſneſs and beſt virtues are before thee as vile clouts, or (as ſome read) like the menſtruous cloths of a woman.

[a] Albeit, O Lord, by thy juſt judgment thou mayeſt utterly deſtroy us as the potter may his pot, yet we appeal to thy mercies, whereby it hath pleaſed thee to adopt us to be thy children.

CHAP. LXV.

1 The vocation of the Gentiles, and the rejection of the Jews. 13 The joy of the elect, and the puniſhment of the wicked.

I Have been ſought of them that [f] aſked not: I was found of them that ſought me not: I ſaid, Behold me, behold me, unto a nation that called not upon my name.

2 I have ſpread [g] out mine hands all the day unto a rebellious people, which walked in a way that was not good, even after their own [h] imaginations.

3 A people that provoked me ever unto my face: that ſacrificeth in [i] gardens, and burneth incenſe upon [k] bricks:

4 Which remain among the [l] graves, and lodge in the deſarts: which eat [m] ſwines fleſh, and the broth of things polluted are in their veſſels:

5 Which ſay, [n] Stand apart, come not near to me: for I am holier than thou: theſe are a ſmoke in my wrath, and a fire that [o] burneth all the day.

6 Behold, it is [p] written before me: I will not keep ſilence, but will render it and recompenſe it unto their boſom.

7 Your iniquities, and the iniquities of your fathers, ſhall be [q] together (ſaith the Lord) which have burnt incenſe upon the mountains, and blaſphemed me upon the hills: therefore will I meaſure their old work into their boſom.

8 Thus ſaith the Lord, As the wine is found in the cluſter, and one ſaith, Deſtroy it not, for a [r] bleſſing is in it, ſo will I do for my ſervants ſakes, that I may not deſtroy them whole.

Bef. Chr. 968.

9 But I will bring a ſeed out of Jacob, and out of Judah, that ſhall inherit my mountain: and mine elect ſhall inherit it, and my ſervants ſhall dwell there.

10 And [s] Sharon ſhall be a ſheepfold, and the valley of Achor ſhall be a reſting place for the cattle of thy people, that have ſought me.

11 But ye are they that have forſaken the Lord, and forgotten mine holy mountain, and have prepared a table for the [t] multitude, and furniſh the drink-offerings unto the number.

12 Therefore will I [u] number you to the ſword, and all you ſhall bow down to the ſlaughter, becauſe I called, and ye did not anſwer: I [w] ſpake, and ye heard not, but did evil in my ſight, and did chuſe the thing which I would not.

13 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, my ſervants ſhall [x] eat, and ye ſhall be hungry: behold, my ſervants ſhall drink, and ye ſhall be thirſty: behold, my ſervants ſhall rejoice, and ye ſhall be aſhamed:

14 Behold, my ſervants ſhall ſing for joy of heart, and ye ſhall cry for ſorrow of heart, and ſhall howl for vexation of mind.

15 And ye ſhall leave your name as a curſe unto my [y] choſen: for the Lord God ſhall ſlay you, and call his ſervants by [z] another name.

16 He that ſhall bleſs me in the [a] earth, ſhall bleſs himſelf in the true God: and he that ſweareth in earth, ſhall ſwear by the true God: for the former [b] troubles are forgotten, and ſhall ſurely hide themſelves from mine eyes.

17 For lo, I will create [c] new heavens and a new earth: and the former ſhall not be remembered nor come into mind.

18 But be you glad and rejoice for ever in the things that I ſhall create: for behold, I will create Jeruſalem as a rejoicing, and her people as a joy.

19 And I will rejoice in Jeruſalem, and joy in my people, and the voice of weeping ſhall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying.

20 There ſhall be no more there a child of years, nor an old man that hath [d] not filled his days: for he that ſhall be an hundred years old, ſhall die as a young man: but the ſinner being [e] an hundred years old, ſhall be accurſed.

21 And

[c] Which were dedicated to thy ſervice, and to call upon thy name.

[d] Wherein we rejoiced and worſhipped thee.

[e] That is, at the contempt of thine own glory? though our ſins have deſerved this, yet thou wilt not ſuffer thy glory to be diminiſhed.

[f] Meaning, the Gentiles which knew not God, ſhould ſeek after him when he had moved their hearts with his Holy Spirit, Rom. 10. 20.

[g] He ſheweth the cauſe of the rejection of the Jews, becauſe they would not obey him for any admonition of his prophets, by whom he called them continually, and ſtretched out his hands to draw them.

[h] He ſheweth that to delight in our own fancies, is the declining from God, and the beginning of all ſuperſtition and idolatry.

[i] Which were dedicate to idols.

[k] Meaning their altars, which he thus nameth by contempt.

[l] To conſult with ſpirits and to conjure devils, which was forbidden, Deut. 18. 11.

[m] Which was contrary to God's commandment, Levit. 11. 7. Deut. 14. 8.

[n] He ſheweth that hypocriſy is ever joined with pride and contempt of others.

[o] Their puniſhment ſhall never have an end.

[p] So that the remembrance thereof cannot be forgotten.

[q] Shall be both puniſhed together: and this declareth how the children are puniſhed for their fathers faults, to wit, when the ſame faults or like are found in them.

[r] That is, it is profitable: meaning, that God will not deſtroy the faithful branches of his vineyard, when he deſtroyeth the rotten ſtocks, that is, the hypocrites.

[s] Which was a plentiful place in Judea to feed ſheep, as Achor was for cattle.

[t] By the multitude and number, he meaneth their innumerable idols, of whom they thought they could never have enough.

[u] Seeing you cannot number your gods, I will number you with the ſword.

[w] By my prophets, whom ye would not obey.

[x] By theſe words, eat and drink, he meaneth the bleſſed life of the faithful, which have always conſolation and full contentment of all things in their God, though ſometimes they lack theſe corporal things.

[y] Meaning, that he would call the Gentiles, who ſhould abhor even the very name of the Jews, for their infidelity's ſake.

[z] Than by the name of the Jews.

[a] By bleſſing and by ſwearing, is meant the praiſing of God for his benefits, and the true worſhipping of him, which ſhall not be only in Judea, but through all the world.

[b] I will no more ſuffer my church to be deſolate as in times paſt.

[c] I will ſo alter and change the ſtate of my church, that it ſhall ſeem to dwell in a new world.

[d] Meaning, in this wonderful reſtoration of the church, there ſhould be no weakneſs of youth, nor infirmities of age, but all ſhould be freſh and flouriſhing: and this is accompliſhed in the heavenly Jeruſalem, when all ſins ſhall ceaſe, and the tears ſhall be wiped away.

[e] Whereby he ſheweth that the infidels and unrepentent ſinners have no part of this benediction.

Bef. Chr. 968.

21 And they ſhall [f] build houſes, and inhabit them: and they ſhall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them.

22 They ſhall not build, and another inhabit: they ſhall not plant, and another eat: for as the days of the tree are the days of my people, and mine elect ſhall enjoy in old age the work of their hands.

23 They ſhall not labour in vain, nor bring forth in fear: for they are the ſeed of the bleſſed of the Lord, and their buds with them.

24 Yea, before they call, I will anſwer, and while they ſpeak, I will hear.

25 The [g] wolf and the lamb ſhall feed together, and the lion ſhall eat ſtraw like the bullock: and to the ſerpent duſt ſhall be his meat. They ſhall no more hurt nor deſtroy in all mine holy mountain, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. LXVI.

1 God dwelleth not in temples made with hands. 3 He deſpiſeth ſacrifices done without mercy and faith. 4 God comforteth them that are troubled for his ſake. 19 The vocation of the Gentiles. 23 The perpetual ſabbath. 24 The puniſhment of the wicked is everlaſting.

* Acts 7.48, 49.

THUS ſaith the Lord, * The [h] heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footſtool: where is that houſe that ye will build unto me? and where is that place of my reſt?

2 For all theſe things hath mine hand made, [i] and all theſe things have been, ſaith the Lord: and to him will I look, even to him that is poor, and of a [k] contrite ſpirit, and trembleth at my words.

3 He that killeth a bullock, is as if he [l] ſlew a man: he that ſacrificeth a ſheep, as if he cut off a dog's neck: he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered ſwines blood: he that remembereth incenſe, as if he bleſſed an idol: yea, they have choſen their own ways, and their ſoul delighteth in their abominations.

4 Therefore will I [m] chuſe out their deluſions, and I will bring their fear upon them: becauſe I called them, and none would anſwer: I ſpake, and they would not hear: but they did evil in my ſight, and choſe the things which I would not.

5 Hear the word of the Lord, all ye that tremble at his [n] word, Your brethren that hated you, and caſt you out for my name's ſake, ſaid, Let the Lord be glorified: but he ſhall appear to your joy, and they ſhall be aſhamed.

Bef. Chr. 698.

6 [o] A voice ſoundeth from the city, even a voice from the temple, the voice of the Lord, that recompenſeth his enemies fully.

7 Before [p] ſhe travailed, ſhe brought forth, and before her pain came, ſhe was delivered of a man child.

8 Who hath heard ſuch a thing? who hath ſeen ſuch things? ſhall the earth be brought forth in one [q] day? or ſhall a nation be born at once? for as ſoon as Zion travailed, ſhe brought forth her children.

9 Shall I [r] cauſe to travail, and not bring forth? ſhall I cauſe to bring forth, and ſhall be barren, ſaith thy God?

10 Rejoice ye with Jeruſalem, and be glad with her, all ye that love her: rejoice for joy with her, all ye that mourn for her.

11 That ye may ſuck [s] and be ſatisfied with the breaſts of her conſolation: that ye may milk out, and be delighted with the brightneſs of her glory.

12 For thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will extend [t] peace over her like a flood, and the glory of the [u] Gentiles like a flowing ſtream: then ſhall ye ſuck, ye ſhall be [w] borne upon her ſides, and be joyful upon her knees.

13 As one whom his mother comforteth, ſo will I comfort you, and ye ſhall be comforted in Jeruſalem.

14 And when ye ſee this, your hearts ſhall rejoice, and your [x] bones ſhall flouriſh like an herb: and the hand of the Lord ſhall be known among his ſervants, and his indignation againſt his enemies.

15 For behold, the Lord will come with fire, and his chariots like a whirlwind, that he may [y] recompenſe his anger with wrath, and his indignation with the flame of fire:

16 For the Lord will judge with fire and with his ſword all fleſh, and the ſlain of the Lord ſhall be many.

17 They that ſanctify [z] themſelves, and purify themſelves in the gardens behind one tree in the midſt, eating [a] ſwines fleſh, and ſuch abomination, even the mouſe, ſhall be conſumed together, ſaith the Lord.

[k] To him that is humble and pure in heart, which receiveth my doctrine with reverence and fear.

[l] Becauſe the Jews thought themſelves holy by offering of their ſacrifices, and in the mean ſeaſon had neither faith nor repentance, God ſheweth that he doth no leſs deteſt theſe ceremonies, than he doth the ſacrifices of the heathen, who offered men, dogs and ſwine, to their idols, which things were expreſly forbidden in the law.

[m] I will diſcover their wickedneſs and hypocriſy, wherewith they think to blind mine eyes, to all the world.

[n] He encourageth the faithful, by promiſing to deſtroy their enemies, which pretended to be as brethren, but were hypocrites, and hated them that feared God.

[o] The enemies ſhall ſhortly hear a more terrible voice, even fire and ſlaughter, ſeeing they would not hear the gentle voice of the prophets, which called them to repentance.

[p] Meaning, that the reſtoration of the church ſhould be ſo ſudden and contrary to all men's opinion: as when a woman is delivered before ſhe look for it, and that without pain in travail.

[q] This ſhall paſs the capacity of man, to ſee ſuch a multitude that ſhall come up at once: meaning, under the preaching of the goſpel, whereof they that came up out of Babylon were a figure.

Bef. Chr. 698.

21 And I will take of them for [o] prieſts, and for Levites, ſaith the Lord.

22 For [h] as the new heavens and the new earth, which I will make, ſhall remain before me, ſaith the Lord, ſo ſhall your ſeed and your name continue.

23 And from month to month, and from ſabbath to ſabbath, ſhall all fleſh come to worſhip before me, ſaith the Lord.

24 And they ſhall go forth, and look upon the [q] carcaſes of the men that have tranſgreſſed againſt me: for their [r] worm ſhall not die, neither ſhall the fire be quenched, and they ſhall be an abhorring [s] unto all fleſh.

[q] As he hath declared the felicity that ſhall be within the church for the comfort of the godly, ſo doth he ſhew what horrible calamity ſhall come to the wicked, that are out of the church.

[r] Meaning, a continual torment of conſcience, which ſhall ever gnaw them, and never ſuffer them to be at reſt. Mark 9. 44.

[s] This is the juſt recompence for the wicked, who, contemning God and his word, ſhall be by God's juſt judgment abhorred of all his creatures.

JEREMIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

The prophet Jeremiah, born in the city of Anathoth in the country of Benjamin, was the ſon of Hilkiah, whom ſome think to be he that found out the book of the law, and gave it to Joſiah. This prophet had excellent gifts of God, and moſt evident revelations of prophecy, ſo that by the commandment of the Lord he began very young to propheſy, that is, in the thirteenth year of Joſiah, and continued eighteen years under the ſaid king, and three months under Jehoahaz, and under Jehoiakim eleven years, and three months under Jehoiachin, and under Zedekiah eleven years, unto the time that they were carried away into Babylon. So that this time amounteth to above forty years, beſides the time that he propheſied after the captivity. In this book he declareth with tears and lamentation, the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and the captivity of the people for their idolatry, covetouſneſs, ſubtilty, cruelty, exceſs, rebellion, and contempt of God's word; and for the conſolation of the church, revealeth the juſt time of their deliverance. And here chiefly are to be conſidered three things: Firſt, the rebellion of the wicked, which wax more ſtubborn and obſtinate, when the prophets do admoniſh them moſt plainly of their deſtruction. Next, how the prophets and miniſters of God ought not to be diſcouraged in their vocation, though they be perſecuted and rigorouſly handled of the wicked for God's cauſe. And thirdly, though God ſhew his juſt judgment againſt the wicked, yet he will ever ſhew himſelf a preſerver of his church; and when all means ſeem to man's judgment to be aboliſhed, then will he declare himſelf victorious in preſerving his.

CHAP. I.

1 In what time Jeremiah propheſied. 6 He acknowledgeth his imperfection, and is ſtrengthened of the Lord. 11 The Lord ſheweth him the deſtruction of Jeruſalem. 17 He commandeth him to preach his word without fear.

THE [a] words of Jeremiah the ſon of [b] Hilkiah, one of the prieſts that were at [c] Anathoth in the land of Benjamin:

2 To whom [d] the word of the Lord came in the days of Joſiah the ſon of Amon king of Judah, in the thirteenth year of his reign:

3 And alſo in the days of Jehoiakim the [e] ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, unto the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, even unto the carrying away of Jeruſalem captive, in the fifth [f] month.

4 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

[b] Which is thought to be he that found the book of the law under king Joſiah, 2 Kings 22. 8.

[c] This was a city about three miles diſtant from Jeruſalem, and belonged to the prieſts the ſons of Aaron, Joſh. 21. 18.

[d] This is ſpoken to confirm his vocation and office: forasmuch as he did not preſume of himſelf to preach and propheſy, but was called thereunto by God.

[e] Meaning, the nephew of Joſiah: for Jehoahaz was his father, who reigned but three months, and therefore is not mentioned, no more is Jehoiachin that reigned no longer.

[f] Of the eleventh year of Zedekiah, who was alſo called Mattaniah, and at this time the Jews were carried away into Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar.

5 Before I [g] formed thee in the womb, I knew thee, and before thou cameſt out of the womb I ſanctified thee, and ordained thee to be a prophet unto the [h] nations.

6 Then ſaid I, [i] Oh, Lord God, behold, I cannot ſpeak, for I am a child.

7 But the Lord ſaid unto me, Say not, I am a child: for thou ſhalt go to all that I ſhall ſend thee, and whatſoever I command thee, ſhalt thou ſpeak.

8 Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, ſaith the Lord.

9 Then the Lord ſtretched out his hand, and [k] touched my mouth, and the Lord ſaid unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth.

10 Behold, this day have I ſet thee over the [l] nations, and over the kingdoms, to pluck up, and to root out, and to deſtroy and throw down, to build and to plant.

11 After this, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying, Jeremiah, what ſeeſt thou? And I ſaid, I ſee a rod of an [m] almond-tree.

12 Then the Lord ſaid unto me, Thou haſt ſeen aright: for I will haſten my word to perform it.

13 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me the ſecond time, ſaying, What ſeeſt thou? And I ſaid, I ſee a [n] ſeething-pot look out of the North.

14 Then ſaid the Lord unto me, Out of the [o] North ſhall a plague be ſpread upon all the inhabitants of the land.

15 For lo, I will call all the families of the kingdoms of the North, ſaith the Lord, and they ſhall come, and every one ſhall ſet his throne in the entering in of the gates of Jeruſalem, and on the walls thereof round about, and in all the cities of Judah.

16 And I will declare unto them my [p] judgments touching all the wickedneſs of them that have forſaken me, and have burnt incenſe unto other gods, and worſhipped the works of their own hands.

17 Thou therefore truſs up thy loins, and ariſe and ſpeak unto them all that I command thee: be not afraid of their faces, leſt I [q] deſtroy thee before them.

18 For I, behold, I this day have made thee a defenced city, and an [r] iron pillar and walls of braſs againſt the whole land, againſt the kings of Judah, and againſt the princes thereof, againſt the prieſts thereof, and againſt the people of the land.

19 For they ſhall fight againſt thee, but they ſhall not prevail againſt thee: for I am with thee to deliver thee, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. II.

2 God rehearſeth his benefits done unto the Jews. 8 Againſt the prieſts and falſe prophets. 12 The Jews are deſtroyed becauſe they forſake God.

MOreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Go, and cry in the ears of Jeruſalem, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, I remember thee with the [s] kindneſs of thy youth, and the love of thy marriage, when thou wenteſt after me to the wilderneſs, [t] in a land that was not ſown.

3 Iſrael was as a thing [u] hallowed unto the Lord, and his firſt-fruits: all they [w] that eat it, ſhall offend: evil ſhall come upon them, ſaith the Lord.

4 Hear ye the word of the Lord, O houſe of Jacob, and all the families of the houſe of Iſrael.

5 Thus ſaith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone [x] far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become [y] vain?

6 For they ſaid not, Where is the Lord that brought us up out of the land of Egypt? that led us through the wilderneſs, through a deſert, and waſte land, through a dry land, and [z] by the ſhadow of death, by a land that no man paſſed through, and where no man dwelt?

7 And I brought you into a plentiful country, to eat the fruit thereof, and the commodities of the ſame: but when ye entered, ye defiled [a] my land, and made mine heritage an abomination.

8 The prieſts ſaid not, [b] Where is the Lord? and they that ſhould miniſter the [c] law, knew me not: the [d] paſtors alſo offended againſt me, and 12 O ye [l] heavens, be aſtoniſhed at this: be afraid and utterly confounded, ſaith the Lord.

13 For my people have committed two evils: they have forſaken me, the fountain [m] of living waters, to dig them pits, even broken pits that can hold no water.

14 Is Iſrael a [n] ſervant, or is he born in the houſe? why then is he ſpoiled?

15 The [o] lions roared upon him, and yelled, and they have made his land waſte: his cities are burnt [p] without an inhabitant.

16 Alſo the children of [q] Noph and Tahapanes have [r] broken thine head.

17 Haſt thou not procured this unto thyſelf, becauſe thou haſt forſaken the Lord thy God, when he [s] led thee by the way?

18 And what haſt thou now to do in the way of [t] Egypt? to drink the water of Nilus? or what makeſt thou in the way of Aſſhur? to drink the water of the [u] river?

19 Thine own wickedneſs ſhall [w] correct thee, and thy turnings-back ſhall reprove thee: know therefore and behold, that it is an evil thing, and bitter, that thou haſt forſaken the Lord thy God, and that my fear is not in thee, ſaith the Lord God of hoſts.

20 For of old time I have broken thy yoke, and burſt thy bonds, and thou ſaidſt, [x] I will no more tranſgreſs, but like an harlot thou runneſt about upon all high hills, and under all green trees.

21 Yet I had planted thee, a noble vine, whoſe † plants were all natural: how then art thou turned unto me into the plants of a ſtrange vine?

Bef. Chr. 629.

† Heb. ſeed was all true.

22 Though thou waſh thee with [y] nitre, and take thee much ſoap, yet thine iniquity is marked before me, ſaith the Lord God.

23 How canſt thou ſay, I am not polluted, neither have I [z] followed Baalim? behold thy ways in the valley, and know what thou haſt done: thou art like a ſwift [a] dromedary, that runneth by his ways:

24 And as a wild [b] aſs, uſed to the wilderneſs, that ſnuffeth up the wind by occaſion at her pleaſure: who can turn her back? all they that ſeek her, will not weary themſelves, but will find her in her [c] month.

25 Keep thou thy feet from [d] barrenneſs, and thy throat from thirſt: but thou ſaidſt deſperately, No, for I have loved ſtrangers, and them will I follow.

26 As the [e] thief is aſhamed when he is found, ſo is the houſe of Iſrael aſhamed, they, their kings, their princes, and their prieſts, and their prophets,

27 Saying to a tree, Thou art my [f] father, and to a ſtone, Thou haſt begotten me: for they have turned their back unto me, and not their face: but in the time of their trouble they will ſay, Ariſe, and help us.

28 But where are thy gods that thou haſt made thee? let them ariſe, if they can help thee in the time of thy trouble: for according [g] to the number of thy cities, are thy gods, O Judah.

29 Wherefore will ye [h] plead with me: ye all have rebelled againſt me, ſaith the Lord.

30 I have ſmitten your children in vain, they received no correction: your [i] own ſword hath devoured your prophets like a deſtroying lion.

31 O generation, take heed to the word of the Lord: have I been as [k] a wilderneſs unto Iſrael?

[z] Meaning, that hypocrites deny that they worſhip the idols: but that they honour God in them, and therefore they call their doings God's ſervice.

[a] He compareth the idolaters to theſe beaſts, becauſe they never ceaſe running to and fro: for both vallies and hills are full of their idolatry.

[d] Hereby he warneth them, that they ſhould not go into ſtrange countries to ſeek help: for they ſhould but ſpend their labour and hurt themſelves, which is here meant by the bare foot and thirſt, Iſa. 57. 10.

[e] As a thief will not acknowledge his fault, till he be taken with the deed, and ready to be puniſhed: ſo they will not confeſs their idolatry, till the plagues due to the ſame light upon them.

[f] Meaning, that idolaters ſpoil God of his honour: and whereas he hath taught to call him the father of all fleſh, they attribute this title to their idols.

[g] Thou thoughteſt that thy gods of blocks and ſtones could have holpen thee, becauſe they were many in number, and preſent in every place: but now let me ſee whether either the multitude, or their preſence can deliver thee from my plague, chap. 11. 13.

34 Alſo in thy [n] wings is found the blood of the ſouls of the poor innocents : I have not found it in holes, but upon all theſe places.

35 Yet thou ſayeſt, Becauſe I am guiltleſs, ſurely his wrath ſhall turn from me : behold, I will enter with thee into judgment, becauſe thou ſayeſt, I have not ſinned.

36 Why runneſt thou about ſo much to change thy ways ? for thou ſhalt be confounded of Egypt, [o] as thou art confounded of Aſſhur.

37 For thou ſhalt go forth from thence, and thine hands upon [p] thine head, becauſe the Lord hath rejected thy confidence, and thou ſhalt not proſper thereby.

CHAP. III.

God calleth his people unto repentance. 14 He promiſeth the reſtitution of his church. 20 He reproveth Judah and Iſrael, comparing them to a woman diſobedient to her huſband.

THEY [q] ſay, If a man put away his wife, and ſhe go from him, and become another man's, ſhall he return again unto her ? ſhall not this land [r] be polluted ? but thou haſt played the harlot with many [s] lovers : yet [t] turn again to me, ſaith the Lord.

2 Lift up thine eyes unto the high places, and behold, where thou haſt not played the harlot : thou haſt ſit waiting for them in the ways, as the [u] Arabian in the wilderneſs : and thou haſt polluted the land with thy whoredoms, and with thy malice.

3 Therefore the ſhowers have been reſtrained, and the [w] latter rain came not, and thou hadſt a [x] whore's forehead : thou wouldeſt not be aſhamed.

4 Didſt thou not ſtill cry [y] unto me, Thou art my father, and the guide of my youth ?

5 Will he keep his anger for ever ? will he reſerve it to the end ? Thus haſt thou ſpoken, but thou doſt evil, even more and more.

6 The Lord alſo ſaid unto me, in the days of Joſiah the king, Haſt thou ſeen what this [z] rebel Iſrael hath done ? for ſhe hath gone up upon every high mountain, and under every green tree, and there played the harlot. Bef. Chr. 629.

7 And I ſaid, when ſhe had done all this, Turn thou unto me : but ſhe turned not, as her rebellious ſiſter Judah ſaw.

8 When I ſaw, how that by all occaſions rebellious Iſrael had played the harlot, I caſt [a] her away; and gave her a bill of divorcement : yet her rebellious ſiſter Judah was not afraid, but ſhe went alſo and played the harlot.

9 So that for the [b] lightneſs of her whoredom, ſhe hath even defiled the land : for ſhe hath committed fornication with ſtones and ſtocks.

10 Neverthleſs for all this, her rebellious ſiſter Judah hath not returned unto me with [c] her whole heart, but feignedly, ſaith the Lord.

11 And the Lord ſaid unto me, The rebellious Iſrael hath [d] juſtified herſelf more than the rebellious Judah.

12 Go and cry theſe words toward [e] the north, and ſay, Thou diſobedient Iſrael, return, ſaith the Lord, and I will not let my wrath fall upon you : for I am merciful, ſaith the Lord, and I will not alway keep mine anger.

13 But know thine iniquity : for thou haſt rebelled againſt the Lord thy God, and haſt [f] ſcattered thy ways to the ſtrange gods under every green tree, but ye would not obey my voice, ſaith the Lord.

14 O ye diſobedient children, turn again, ſaith the Lord, for I am your Lord, and I will take you one of a city, and two of a tribe, and will bring you to Zion,

15 And I will give you paſtors according to mine heart, which ſhall feed you with knowledge and underſtanding.

16 Moreover, when ye be increaſed and multiplied in the land, in thoſe days, ſaith the Lord, they ſhall ſay no more, The [g] ark of the covenant of the Lord : for it ſhall come no more to mind, neither ſhall they remember it, neither ſhall they viſit it, for that ſhall be no more done.

17 At that time they ſhall call Jeruſalem, [h] The throne of the Lord, and all the nations ſhall be gathered unto it, even to the name of the Lord in Jeruſalem : and thenceforth they ſhall follow no more the hardneſs of their wicked heart.

[w] As God threatened by his law, Deut. 28. 24.

[x] Thou wouldeſt never be aſhamed of thine acts and repent : and this impudence is common to idolaters, which will not give off, though they be never ſo manifeſtly convicted.

[y] He ſheweth that the wicked in their miſeries will cry unto God and uſe outward prayer as the godly do, but becauſe they turn not from their evil, they are not heard, Iſa. 58. 3, 4.

[b] The Hebrew word may either ſignify lightneſs and wantonneſs, or noiſe and bruit.

[c] Judah feigned for a time that ſhe did return, as under Joſiah and other good kings, but ſhe was never truly touched, or wholly reformed, as appeared when occaſion was offered by any wicked prince.

[d] Iſrael hath not declared herſelf ſo wicked as Judah, which yet hath had more admonitions and examples to call her to repentance.

20 But as a woman rebelleth againſt her [i] huſband: ſo have ye rebelled againſt me, O houſe of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord.

21 [k] A voice was heard upon the high places, weeping and ſupplications of the children of Iſrael: for they have perverted their way, and forgotten the Lord their God.

22 O ye diſobedient children, return and I will heal your rebellions. [l] Behold, we come unto thee, for thou art the Lord our God.

23 Truly, the hope of the hills is but vain, nor the multitude of mountains: but in the Lord our God is the health of Iſrael.

24 For confuſion hath devoured our [m] fathers labour from our youth, their ſheep and their bullocks, their ſons and their daughters.

25 We lie down in our confuſion, and our ſhame covereth us: [n] for we have ſinned againſt the Lord our God, we and our fathers from our youth, even unto this day, and have not obeyed the voice of the Lord our God.

CHAP. IV.

1 True repentance. 4 He exhorteth to the circumciſion of the hearts. 6 The deſtruction of Judah is propheſied, for the malice of their hearts. 19 The prophet lamenteth it.

O Iſrael, if thou return, [o] return unto me, ſaith the Lord: if thou put away thine abominations out of my ſight, then ſhalt thou not remove,

2 And thou ſhalt [p] ſwear, The Lord liveth, in truth, in judgment, and in righteouſneſs, and the nations ſhall be bleſſed in him, and ſhall glory in him.

3 For thus ſaith the Lord to the men of Judah, and to Jeruſalem:

4 Break up your [q] fallow ground, and ſow not among the thorns: be circumciſed to the Lord, and take away the fore-ſkins of your hearts, ye men of Judah, and inhabitants of Jeruſalem, leſt my wrath come forth like fire, and burn, that none can quench it, becauſe of the wickedneſs of your inventions. Bef. Chr. 612.

5 [r] Declare in Judah, and ſhew forth in Jeruſalem, and ſay, Blow the trumpet in the land, cry and gather together, and ſay, Aſſemble yourſelves, and let us go into ſtrong cities.

6 Set up the ſtandard in Zion: [s] prepare to flee, and ſtay not: for I will bring a plague from the North, and a great deſtruction.

7 The [t] lion is come up from his den, and the deſtroyer of the Gentiles is departed, and gone forth of his place to lay the land waſte, and thy cities ſhall be deſtroyed without an inhabitant.

8 Wherefore gird you with ſackcloth: lament and howl, for the fierce wrath of the Lord is turned back from us.

9 And in that day, ſaith the Lord, the heart of the king ſhall periſh, and the heart of the princes and the prieſts ſhall be aſtoniſhed, and the [u] prophets ſhall wonder.

10 Then ſaid I, Ah, Lord God, ſurely thou haſt [w] deceived this people, and Jeruſalem, ſaying, Ye ſhall have peace, and the ſword pierceth unto the heart.

11 At that time ſhall it be ſaid to this people, and to Jeruſalem, A dry [x] wind in the high places of the wilderneſs cometh toward the daughter of my people, but neither [y] to fan nor to cleanſe.

12 A mighty wind ſhall come unto me from thoſe places, and now will I alſo give ſentence upon them.

13 Behold, he ſhall come up as the [z] clouds, and his chariots ſhall be as a tempeſt: his horſes are lighter than eagles: [a] Wo unto us, for we are deſtroyed.

14 O Jeruſalem, waſh thine heart from wickedneſs, that thou mayeſt be ſaved: how long ſhall thy wicked thoughts remain within thee?

15 For a voice declareth from [b] Dan, and publiſheth affliction from mount [c] Ephraim.

16 Make ye mention of the heathen, and publiſh in Jeruſalem, Behold, the ſcouts come from a far country, and cry out againſt the cities of Judah.

17 They have compaſſed her about as the [d] watchmen of the field, becauſe it hath provoked me unto wrath, ſaith the Lord.

18 Thy ways and thy inventions have procured thee theſe things, ſuch is thy wickedneſs: there-

[l] This is ſpoken in the perſon of Iſrael to the ſhame of Judah, which ſtayed ſo long to turn unto God.

[m] For their idolatry, God's vengeance hath light upon them and theirs.

[r] He warneth them of the great dangers that ſhall come upon them by the Chaldeans, except they repent and turn to the Lord.

[s] He ſpeaketh this to admoniſh them of the great danger when every man ſhall prepare to ſave himſelf, but it ſhall be too late, 2 Kings 25. 4.

20 Deſtruction upon deſtruction is cried, for the whole land is waſted: ſuddenly are my tents [f] deſtroyed, and my curtains in a moment.

21 How long ſhall I ſee the ſtandard, and hear the ſound of the trumpet?

22 For my people is fooliſh, they have not known me: they are fooliſh children, and have none underſtanding: [g] they are wiſe to do evil, but to do well they have no knowledge.

23 I have looked upon the earth, and lo, it was without form and [h] void: and to the heavens, and they had no light.

24 I beheld the mountains: and lo, they trembled, and all the hills ſhook.

25 I beheld, and lo, there was no man, and all the birds of the heaven were departed.

26 I beheld, and lo, the fruitful place was a wilderneſs, and all the cities thereof were broken down at the preſence of the Lord, and by his fierce wrath.

27 For thus hath the Lord ſaid, The whole land ſhall be deſolate: yet will I not [i] make a full end.

28 Therefore ſhall the earth mourn, and the heavens above ſhall be darkened, becauſe I have pronounced it: I have thought it and will not repent, neither will I turn back from it.

29 The whole city ſhall flee, for the noiſe of the horſemen and bowmen: they ſhall go into thickets, and climb up upon the rocks: every city ſhall be forſaken, and not a man dwell therein.

30 And when thou ſhalt be deſtroyed, what wilt thou do? Though thou [k] clotheſt thyſelf with ſcarlet, though thou deckeſt thee with ornaments of gold, though thou painteſt thy face with colours, yet ſhalt thou trim thyſelf in vain: for thy lovers will abhor thee, and ſeek thy life.

31 For I have heard a noiſe as of a woman travailing, or as one labouring of her firſt child, even the voice of the daughter Zion that ſigheth and ſtretcheth out her hands: [l] wo is me now: for my ſoul fainteth becauſe of the murderers.

CHAP. V.

1 In Judah no righteous man is found, neither among the people nor the rulers. 15 Wherefore Judah is deſtroyed of the Chaldeans.

Bef. Chr. 612.

RUN to and fro by the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, and behold now, and know, and inquire in the open places thereof, if ye can find a man, or if there be any that executeth judgment, and ſeeketh the truth, and I will ſpare [m] it.

2 For though they ſay, The [n] Lord liveth, yet do they ſwear falſely.

3 O Lord, are not thine eyes upon the [o] truth? thou haſt [p] ſtricken them, but they have not ſorrowed: thou haſt conſumed them, but they have refuſed to receive correction: they have made their faces harder than a ſtone, and have refuſed to return.

4 Therefore I ſaid, Surely they are poor, they are fooliſh, for they know not the way of the Lord, nor the judgment of their God.

5 I will get me unto the [q] great men, and will ſpeak unto them: for they have known the way of the Lord, and the judgment of their God: but theſe have altogether broken the yoke, and burſt the bonds.

6 Wherefore [r] a lion out of the foreſt ſhall ſlay them, and a wolf of the wilderneſs ſhall deſtroy them: a leopard ſhall watch over their cities: every one that goeth out thence ſhall be torn in pieces, becauſe their treſpaſſes are many, and their rebellions are increaſed.

7 How ſhould I ſpare thee for this? thy children have forſaken me, and [s] ſworn by them that are no gods: though I fed them to the full, yet they committed adultery, and aſſembled themſelves by companies in the harlots houſes.

18 Neverthelеſs, at thoſe days, ſaith the Lord, I will not make a full end of [c] you.

Ch. 16. 10. 19 And when * ye ſhall ſay, Wherefore doth the Lord our God do theſe things unto us? then ſhalt [d] thou anſwer them, Like as ye have forſaken me and ſerved ſtrange gods in your land, ſo ſhall ye ſerve ſtrangers in a land that is not yours.

20 Declare this in the houſe of Jacob, and publiſh it in Judah, ſaying, † Heb. without heart. * Iſa. 6. 9. Matt. 13. 14. Acts 28. 27. Rom. 11. 8. 21 Hear now this, O fooliſh people, and † without underſtanding, which have * eyes and ſee not, which have ears and hear not.

* Job 26. 10. 22 Fear ye not me? ſaith the Lord: or will ye not be afraid at my preſence, which have placed the ſand for the * bounds of the ſea by the perpetual decree that it cannot paſs it: and though the waves thereof rage, yet can they not prevail: though they roar, yet can they not paſs over it?

23 But this people hath an unfaithful and rebellious heart: they are departed and gone.

24 For they ſay not in their heart, Let us now fear the Lord our God, that giveth rain both early and late in due ſeaſon: he reſerveth unto us the appointed weeks of the harveſt.

25 Yet your [e] iniquities have turned away theſe things, and your ſins have hindered good things from you.

26 For among my people are found wicked perſons, that lay wait as he that ſetteth ſnares: they have made a pit to catch men.

27 As a cage is full of birds, ſo are their houſes full of deceit: thereby they are become great, and waxen rich.

* Iſa. 1. 23. Zech. 7. 9. 28 They are waxen fat and ſhining: they do overpaſs the deeds of the wicked: * they execute no judgment, no not the judgment of the fatherleſs: yet they [f] proſper, though they execute no judgment for the poor. Bef. Chr. 612.

29 Shall I not viſit for theſe things? ſaith the Lord: or ſhall not my ſoul be avenged on ſuch a nation as this?

30 An horrible and filthy thing is committed in the land.

31 The [g] prophets propheſy lyes, and the prieſts ‡ receive gifts in their hands, and my people delight therein. What will ye then do in the end thereof? ‡ Or, bear rule.

CHAP. VI.

1 The coming of the Aſſyrians and Chaldeans. 16 He exhorteth the Jews to repentance.

O YE children of [h] Benjamin, prepare to flee out of the midſt of Jeruſalem, and blow the trumpet in [i] Tekoa: ſet up a ſtandard upon [k] Beth-haccerem: for a plague appeareth out of the North, and great deſtruction.

2 I have compared the daughter of Zion to [l] a beautiful and dainty woman.

3 The paſtors with their [m] flocks ſhall come unto her: they ſhall pitch their tents round about by her, and every one ſhall feed in his place.

4 [n] Prepare war againſt her: ariſe, and let us go toward the South: wo unto us, for the day declineth, and the ſhadows of the evening are ſtretched out.

5 Ariſe, and let us go up by night, and deſtroy her palaces.

6 For thus hath the Lord of hoſts ſaid, Hew down wood, and caſt a mount againſt Jeruſalem: this city muſt be viſited: all oppreſſion is in the midſt of it.

7 As the fountain caſteth out her waters, ſo ſhe caſteth out her malice: [o] cruelty and ſpoil is continually heard in her before me with ſorrow and ſtrokes.

8 Be thou inſtructed, O [p] Jeruſalem, leſt my ſoul depart from thee, leſt I make thee deſolate as a land that none inhabiteth.

9 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, They ſhall gather as a vine the reſidue of Iſrael: turn [q] back thine hand as the grape-gatherer into the baſket.

10 Unto whom ſhall I ſpeak and admoniſh, that they may hear? behold, their ears are [r] uncircumciſed, and they cannot hearken: behold, the word of the Lord is unto them as a reproach: they have no delight in it.

11 Therefore I am full of the wrath of the Lord: I am weary with holding it: [s] I will pour it out upon the [t] children in the ſtreet, and likewiſe

[y] They are not ſent of the Lord, and therefore that which they threaten to us, ſhall come upon them.

[z] Meaning, Jeremiah.

[a] To wit, the Babylonians and Chaldeans.

[b] Who ſhall kill many with their arrows.

[c] Here the Lord declareth his unſpeakable favour toward his church, as chap. 4. 27.

[d] Meaning, the prophet Jeremiah.

[e] If there be any ſtay, that we receive not God's bleſſings in abundance, we muſt conſider that it is for our own iniquities, Iſa. 59. 1, 2.

[f] They feel not the plague of God for it.

[g] Meaning, that there could be nothing but diſorder, where the miniſters were wicked perſons and corrupt

[h] He ſpeaketh to them chiefly, becauſe they ſhould take heed by the example of their brethren, the other half of their tribe which were now carried away priſoners.

[i] Which was a city in Judah, ſix miles from Bethlehem, 2 Chron. 11. 6.

[k] Read Nehem. 3. 14.

[l] I have intreated her greatly, and given her abundance of all things.

[m] She ſhall be ſo deſtroyed, that the ſheep may be fed in her.

[n] He ſpeaketh this in the perſon of the Babylonians, which complain that the time faileth them before they have brought their enterpriſes to paſs.

[o] He ſheweth the cauſe why it ſhould be deſtroyed, and how it cometh of themſelves.

[p] He warneth them to amend by his corrections, and to turn to him by repentance.

[q] He exhorteth the Babylonians to be diligent to ſearch out all and to leave none.

[r] They delight to hear vain things, and to ſhut up their ears to true doctrine.

[s] As the Lord had given him his word to be as a fire of his indignation to burn the wicked, chap. 5. 14. ſo he kindleth it now when he ſeeth that all remedies are paſt.

[t] None ſhall be ſpared.

Bef. Chr. 612. likewiſe upon the aſſembly of the young men: for the huſband ſhall even be taken with the wife, and the aged with him that is full of days.

12 And their houſes with their lands, and wives alſo ſhall be turned unto ſtrangers: for I will ſtretch out mine hand upon the inhabitants of the land, ſaith the Lord.

13 For from the leaſt of them, even unto the greateſt of them, every one is given unto covetouſneſs: and from the prophet even unto the prieſt, they all deal falſely.

14 They have healed alſo the hurt of the daughter of my people with ſweet words, ſaying, [u] Peace, peace, when there is no peace.

15 Were they aſhamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not aſhamed, no, neither could they have any ſhame: therefore they ſhall fall among the † ſlain: when I ſhall viſit them, they ſhall be caſt down, ſaith the Lord.

† Heb. them that fall.

16 Thus ſaith the Lord, Stand in the ways and behold, and aſk for the [w] old way, which is the good way, and walk therein, and ye ſhall find reſt for your ſouls: but they ſaid, We will not walk therein.

17 Alſo I ſet [x] watchmen over you, which ſaid, Take heed to the ſound of the trumpet: but they ſaid, We will not take heed.

18 Hear therefore, ye [y] Gentiles, and thou congregation, know what is among them.

19 Hear, O earth, and behold, I will cauſe a plague to come upon this people, even the fruit of their own imaginations: becauſe they have not taken heed unto my words, nor to my law, but caſt it off.

20 To what purpoſe bringeſt thou me [z] incenſe from Sheba, and ſweet calamus from a far country? Your burnt-offerings are not pleaſant, nor your ſacrifices ſweet unto me.

21 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will lay ſtumbling-blocks before this people, and the fathers and the ſons together ſhall fall upon them: the neighbour and his friend ſhall periſh.

22 Thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, a people cometh from the [a] north country, and a great nation ſhall ariſe from the ſides of the earth.

23 With bow and ſhield ſhall they be weaponed: they are cruel and will have no compaſſion: their voice roareth like the ſea, and they ride upon horſes, well appointed, like men of war againſt thee, O daughter Zion.

24 We have heard their fame, and our hands wax [b] feeble: ſorrow is come upon us, as the ſorrow of a woman in travail.

25 Go not forth into the field, nor walk by the way: for the ſword of the enemy, and fear is on every ſide,

26 O daughter of my people, gird thee with ſackcloth, and wallow thyſelf in the aſhes: make lamentation and bitter mourning as for thine only ſon: for the deſtroyer ſhall ſuddenly come upon us. Bef. Chr. 612.

27 I have ſet [c] thee for a defence and fortreſs among my people, that thou mayeſt know and try their ways.

28 They are all rebellious traitors, walking craftily: they are braſs and iron, they all are deſtroyers.

29 The [d] bellows are burnt: the lead is conſumed in the fire: the founder melteth in vain: for the wicked are not taken away.

30 They ſhall call them reprobate ſilver, becauſe the Lord hath rejected them.

CHAP. VII.

2 Jeremiah is commanded to ſhew unto the people the word of God, which truſteth in the outward ſervice of the temple. 13 The evils that ſhall come to the Jews, for the deſpiſing of their prophets. 21 Sacrifices doth not the Lord chiefly require of the Jews, but that they ſhould obey his word.

THE words that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, ſaying,

2 Stand in the gate of the Lord's houſe, and cry this word there, and ſay, Hear the word of the Lord, all ye of Judah that enter in at theſe gates to worſhip the Lord.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, * Amend your ways and your works, and I will let you dwell in this place. * Ch. 26. 13.

4 Truſt not in [e] lying words, ſaying, The temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord: this is the temple of the Lord.

5 For if you amend and redreſs your ways and your works: if you execute judgment between a man and his neighbour,

6 And oppreſs not the ſtranger, the fatherleſs and the widow, and ſhed no innocent blood in this place, neither walk after other gods to your deſtruction,

7 Then [f] will I let you dwell in this place, in the land that I gave your fathers, for ever and ever.

8 Behold, you truſt in lying words, that cannot profit.

9 Will you ſteal, murder, and commit adultery, and ſwear falſly, and burn incenſe unto Baal, and walk after other gods whom ye know not,

10 And come and ſtand before me in this houſe, whereupon my name is called, and ſay, We are delivered, though we have done all theſe abominations?

11 Is this houſe become [g] a den of thieves, whereupon my name is called before your eyes? Behold, even I ſee it, ſaith the Lord.

12 But

[u] When the people began to fear God's judgments, the falſe prophets comforted them by flatterings, ſhewing, that God would ſend peace and not war.

[w] Wherein the patriarchs and prophets walked, directed by the word of God: ſignifying, that there is no true way but that which God preſcribeth.

[x] Prophets which ſhould warn you of the dangers that were at hand.

[y] God taketh all the world to witneſs, and the inſenſible creatures, of the ingratitude of the Jews.

[z] Read Iſa. 1. 11. and Amos 5. 21.

[a] From Babylon, by Dan, which was north from Jeruſalem.

[b] For fear of the enemy; he ſpeaketh this in the perſon of the Jews.

[c] Meaning, Jeremiah, whom God had appointed to try out the godly from the wicked, as a founder doth the pure metal from the droſs.

[d] All the pain and labour that hath been taken with them, is loſt.

[e] Believe not the falſe prophets, which ſay, that for the temple's ſake, and the ſacrifices there, the Lord will preſerve you, and ſo nouriſh you in your ſin, and vain confidence.

[f] God ſheweth on what condition he made his promiſe to this temple: that they ſhould be an holy people unto him, as he would be a faithful God to them.

[g] As thieves hid in holes and dens think themſelves ſafe, ſo when you are in my temple, you think to be covered with the holineſs thereof, and that I cannot ſee your wickedneſs, Matt. 21. 13.

12 But go ye now into my place which was in Shiloh, [h] where I ſet my name at the beginning, and behold what I did to it for the wickedneſs of my people Iſrael.

13 Therefore now becauſe ye have done all theſe works, ſaith the Lord, (and I [i] roſe up early, and ſpake unto you: but when I ſpake, ye would not hear me, neither when I called, would [k] ye anſwer)

14 Therefore will I do unto this houſe, whereupon my name is called, wherein alſo ye truſt, even unto the place that I gave to you, and to your fathers, as I have done unto Shiloh.

15 And I will caſt [l] you out of my ſight, as I have caſt out all your brethren, even the whole ſeed of Ephraim.

16 Therefore thou ſhalt not [m] pray for this people, neither lift up cry nor prayer for them, neither intreat me, for I will not hear thee.

17 Seeſt thou not what they do in the cities of Judah, and in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem?

18 The children gather wood, and the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead the dough to make cakes to [n] the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings unto other gods, that they may provoke me unto anger.

19 Do they provoke me to anger, ſaith the Lord, and not themſelves to the confuſion of their own faces?

20 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, mine anger and my wrath ſhall be poured upon this place, upon man and upon beaſt, and upon the tree of the field, and upon the fruit of the ground, and it ſhall burn and not be quenched.

21 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, put your burnt-offerings unto your ſacrifices, and eat the fleſh.

22 For [o] I ſpake not unto your fathers, nor commanded them, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, concerning burnt-offerings and ſacrifices.

23 But this thing commanded I them, ſaying, Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye ſhall be my people: and walk ye in all the ways which I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you.

24 But they would not obey, nor incline their ear, but went after the counſels and the ſtubbornneſs of their wicked heart, and went backward and not forward.

25 Since the day that your fathers came up out of the land of Egypt, unto [p] this day, I have even ſent unto you all my ſervants the prophets, [q] riſing up early every day, and ſending them.

26 Yet would they not hear me, nor incline their ear, but hardened their neck and did worſe than their fathers.

27 Therefore ſhalt thou ſpeak all theſe words unto them, but they [r] will not hear thee: thou ſhalt alſo cry unto them, but they will not anſwer thee.

28 Thou ſhalt ſay unto them, This is a nation that heareth not the voice of the Lord their God, nor receiveth diſcipline: truth is periſhed, and is clean gone out of their mouth.

29 Cut off thine [s] hair, O Jeruſalem, and caſt it away, and take up a complaint on the high places: for the Lord hath rejected and forſaken the generation of his [t] wrath.

30 For the children of Judah have done evil in my ſight, ſaith the Lord: they have ſet their abominations in the houſe, whereupon my name is called, to pollute it.

31 And they have built the high place of [u] Tophet, which is in the valley of Ben-hinnom, to burn their ſons and their daughters in the fire, which I [w] commanded them not, neither came it in my heart.

32 Therefore behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that it ſhall no more be called Tophet, nor the valley of Ben-hinnom, but the valley of ſlaughter, for they ſhall bury in Tophet till there be no place.

33 And the carcaiſes of this people ſhall be meat for the fowls of the heaven, and for the beaſts of the earth, and none ſhall fray them away.

34 * Then will I cauſe to ceaſe from the cities of Judah, and from the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, the voice of mirth and the voice of gladneſs, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, for the land ſhall be deſolate.

* Ezek. 26. 13.

CHAP. VIII.

AT that time, ſaith the Lord, they ſhall bring out the bones of the kings of Judah, and the bones of their princes, and the bones of the prieſts, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem out of their [x] graves.

2 And they ſhall ſpread them before the ſun and the moon, and all the hoſt of heaven, whom they have loved, and whom they have ſerved, and whom they have followed, and whom they have

4 Thou ſhalt ſay unto them alſo, Thus ſaith the Lord, Shall they [z] fall and not ariſe? ſhall he turn away and not turn again?

5 Wherefore is this people of Jeruſalem turned back by a perpetual rebellion? They gave themſelves to deceit, and would not return.

6 I hearkened and heard, but none ſpake aright: no man repented him of his wickedneſs, ſaying, What have I done? every [a] one turned to their race, as the horſe ruſheth into the battle.

7 Even the ſtork in the air knoweth her appointed times, and the turtle, and the crane, and the ſwallow obſerve the time of their coming, but my people knoweth not the [b] judgment of the Lord.

8 How do ye ſay, We are wiſe, and the law [c] of the Lord is with us? Lo, certainly in vain made he it, the pen of the ſcribes is in vain.

9 The [d] wiſe men are aſhamed: they are afraid and taken: lo, they have rejected the word of the Lord, and what wiſdom is in them?

10 Therefore will I give their wives unto others, and their fields to them that ſhall poſſeſs them: * for every one from the leaſt even unto the greateſt is given to covetouſneſs, and from the prophet even unto the prieſt, every one dealeth falſely.

11 And I will make Jeruſalem an heap, and a den of dragons: and I will make the cities of Judah waſte without an inhabitant.

12 Who is [z] wiſe to underſtand this? and to whom the mouth of the Lord hath ſpoken, even he ſhall declare it. Why doth the land periſh, and is burnt up like a wilderneſs, that none paſſeth through?

13 And the Lord ſaith, Becauſe they have forſaken my law, which I ſet before them, and have not obeyed my voice, neither walked thereafter:

14 But have walked after the ſtubbornneſs of their own heart, and after Baalim, which [a] their fathers taught them:

20 Therefore hear the word of the Lord, O ye women, and let your ears regard the words of his mouth, and [e] teach your daughters to mourn, and every one her neighbour to lament.

21 For death is come up into our [f] windows, and is entered into our palaces, to deſtroy the children without, and the young men in the ſtreets.

22 Speak, Thus ſaith the Lord, The carcaſes of men ſhall lie even as the dung upon the field, and as the handful after the mower, and none ſhall gather them.

23 Thus ſaith the Lord, Let not the [g] wiſe man glory in his wiſdom, nor the ſtrong man glory in his ſtrength, neither the rich man glory in his riches.

24 But let him that glorieth, glory in this, that he underſtandeth and knoweth me: for I am the Lord, which [h] ſhew mercy, judgment and righteouſneſs in the earth: for in theſe things I delight, ſaith the Lord.

25 Behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that I will viſit all them which are [i] circumciſed, with the uncircumciſed:

26 Egypt, and Judah, and Edom, and the children of Ammon, and Moab, and all the utmoſt corners of them that dwell in the wilderneſs: for all theſe nations are uncircumciſed, and all the houſe of Iſrael are uncircumciſed in the heart.

CHAP. X.

1 The conſtellation of the ſtars are to be feared. 5 The weakneſs of idols. 6 Of the power of God. 31 Their paſtors are become brute beaſts.

HEAR ye the word of the Lord that he ſpeaketh unto you, O houſe of Iſrael.

2 Thus ſaith the Lord, Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not afraid for the [k] ſigns of heaven, though the heathen be afraid of ſuch.

3 For the [l] cuſtoms of the people are vain: for one cutteth a tree out of the foreſt (which is the work of the hands of the carpenter) with the ax.

4 And

[u] They have ſo practiſed deceit, that they cannot forſake it.

[w] They had rather forſake God than leave their wicked trade.

[x] With the fire of affliction.

[y] Signifying, that all the places about Jeruſalem ſhould be deſtroyed.

[z] Meaning, that they are all without ſenſe and underſtanding, and that God hath taken his Spirit from them.

[a] He ſheweth, that the children cannot excuſe themſelves by their fathers: for both father and child, if they be wicked, ſhall periſh.

[b] Read chap. 8. 14.

[c] Seeing you cannot lament your own ſins, call for thoſe fooliſh women, whom of a ſuperſtition you have to lament for the dead, that they by their feigned tears may provoke you to ſome ſorrow.

[d] As though they were weary of us, becauſe of our iniquities, Lev. 18. 28. and 20. 22.

[e] He derideth the ſuperſtition of the women which made an art of mourning, and taught to weep with feigned tears.

[f] Signifying, that there is no means to deliver the wicked from God's judgment, but when they think to be moſt ſure, and moſt far off, then are they ſooneſt taken.

[g] Foraſmuch as none can ſave himſelf by his own labour, or any worldly means, he ſheweth that it is in vain to put our truſt therein, but that we truſt in the Lord, and rejoice in him, who only can deliver us, 1 Cor. 1. 31. 2 Cor. 10. 17.

[h] Theſe three points are neceſſary to know aright: his mercy, wherein conſiſteth our ſalvation: his judgment, which he executeth continually againſt the wicked: and his juſtice, whereby he defendeth and maintaineth the faithful.

[i] Meaning, both Jews and Gentiles, as in the next verſe he ſheweth the cauſe: read chap. 4. 4.

[k] God forbiddeth his people to give credit or fear the conſtellations and conjunctions of ſtars and planets, which have no power of themſelves, but are governed by him, and their ſecret motions and influences are not known to man, and therefore there can be no certain judgment thereof, Deut. 18. 9.

[l] Meaning, not only in the obſervation of the ſtars, but their laws and ceremonies whereby they confirm their idolatry, which is forbidden, Deut. 12. 30.

4 And another decketh it [m] with ſilver, and with gold: they faſten it with nails, and hammers, that it fall not.

5 The idols ſtand up as the palm-tree, but ſpeak not, they are borne becauſe they cannot go: fear them not, for they cannot do evil, neither can they do good.

6 There is none like unto thee, O Lord: [n] thou art great, and thy name is great in power.

7 Who would not fear thee, O king of nations? for to thee appertaineth the dominion: for among all the wiſe men of the Gentiles, and in all their kingdoms, there is none like thee.

8 But altogether they doat, and are fooliſh: for the ſtock is a [o] doctrine of vanity.

9 Silver plates are brought from Tarſhiſh, and gold from [p] Uphaz, for the work of the workman, and the hands of the founder: the blue ſilk, and the purple is their clothing: all theſe things are made by cunning men.

10 But the Lord is the God of truth: he is the living God, and an everlaſting king: at his anger the earth ſhall tremble, and the nations cannot abide his wrath.

11 (Thus ſhall you ſay unto them, The gods [q] that have not made the heavens and the earth, ſhall periſh from the earth, and from under theſe heavens)

12 He hath made the earth by his power, and eſtabliſhed the world by his wiſdom, and hath ſtretched out the heaven by his diſcretion.

13 He giveth by his voice the multitude of waters in the heaven, and he cauſeth the clouds to aſcend from the ends of the earth: he turneth lightnings to rain, and bringeth forth the wind out of his treaſures.

14 Every man is a [r] beaſt by his own knowledge: every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his melting is but falſehood, and there is no breath therein.

15 They are vanity, and the work of errors: in the time of their viſitation they ſhall periſh.

16 The [s] portion of Jacob is not like them: for he is the maker of all things, and Iſrael is the rod of his inheritance: the Lord of hoſts is his name.

17 ¶ [t] Gather up thy wares out of the land, O thou that dwelleſt in the ſtrong place.

18 For thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, at this time I will throw as with a ſling the inhabitants of the land, and will trouble them, and they ſhall find it ſo.

19 Wo is me for my deſtruction, and my grievous plague: but I thought, Yet it [u] is my ſorrow, and I will bear it.

20 [w] My tabernacle is deſtroyed, and all my cords are broken: my children are gone from me, and are not: there is none to ſpread out my tent any more, and to ſet up my curtains.

21 For the paſtors [x] are become beaſts, and have not ſought the Lord: therefore have they none underſtanding: and all the flocks of their paſtures are ſcattered.

22 Behold the noiſe of the bruit is come, and a great commotion out of the [y] north country to make the cities of Judah deſolate, and a den of dragons.

23 O Lord, I know that [z] the way of man is not in himſelf, neither is it in man to walk and to direct his ſteps.

24 O Lord, correct me, but with [a] judgment: not in thine anger, leſt thou bring me to nothing.

25 Pour out thy [b] wrath upon the heathen that know thee not, and upon the families that call not on thy name: for they have eaten up Jacob, and devoured him and conſumed him, and have made his habitation deſolate.

CHAP. XI.

3 A curſe of them that obey not the word of God's covenant. 10 The people of Judah following the ſteps of their fathers, worſhip ſtrange gods. 15 The Lord forbiddeth Jeremiah to pray for them.

THE word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, ſaying,

2 Hear ye the words of this covenant, and ſpeak unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem,

3 And ſay thou unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord

[m] The prophets uſe thus plainly and ſimply to ſet forth the vile abſurdity of the idolaters, that men might learn to be aſhamed of that whereunto their corrupt nature is moſt ſubject: read Iſa. 44. 12.

[n] He teacheth the people to lift up their eyes to God who hath all power, and therefore ought only to be feared, and herein he ſheweth them not only the evil that they ought to eſchew, but the good which they ought to follow, Rev. 15.4.

[o] Becauſe the people thought, that to have images was a means to ſerve God, and to bring them to the knowledge of him, he ſheweth that nothing more diſpleaſeth God, nor bringeth man into greater errors and ignorance of God: and therefore he calleth them, the doctrine of vanity, the work of errors, ver. 15. and Hab. 2. 18. calleth them the teachers of lyes: contrary to that wicked opinion, that they are the books of the lay people.

[p] Whereat they found the beſt gold: ſhewing, that they thought nothing too dear for their idols: ſome read Ophir, as 1 Kings 9. 28.

[q] This declareth that all that hath been in this chapter ſpoken of idols, was to arm the Jews when they ſhould be in Chaldea among the idolaters, and now with one ſentence he inſtructeth them both how to proteſt their own religion againſt the idolaters, and how to anſwer them to their ſhame, which ſhould exhort them to idolatry; and therefore he writeth this ſentence in the Chaldeans tongue for a memorial, whereas all the reſt of his writing is Hebrew.

[r] The more that man thinketh to do any thing well by his own wiſdom, and not as God inſtructeth him, the more doth he prove himſelf to be a vile beaſt.

[s] By theſe words, portion and rod, he ſignifieth their inheritance: meaning, that God ſhould be all-ſufficient for them: and that their felicity conſiſteth in him alone, and therefore they ought to renounce all other helps and ſuccours, as of idols, &c. Deut. 32. 9. Pſalm 10. 15.

[t] The prophet willeth the Jews to prepare themſelves to this captivity, ſhewing, that it was now at hand that they ſhould feel the things whereof he had told them.

[u] It is my juſt plague, and therefore I will take it patiently, whereby he teacheth the people how to behave themſelves toward God.

[w] He ſheweth how Jeruſalem ſhall lament.

[x] The governors and miniſters.

[y] Read chap. 4. 15.

[z] He ſpeaketh this becauſe that Nebuchadnezzar purpoſed to have made war againſt the Moabites and Ammonites, but hearing of Zedekiah's rebellion, he turned his power to go againſt Jeruſalem, Ezek. 21. 21. therefore the prophet ſaith, that this was the Lord's direction.

[a] Conſidering that God had revealed unto him the certitude of their captivity, chap. 7. 16. he only prayeth, that he would puniſh them with mercy, which Iſaiah calleth in meaſure, chap. 27. 8. meaſuring his rods by their infirmity, 1 Cor. 10. 13. for here by judgments is meant not only the puniſhment, but alſo the merciful moderation of the ſame, as chap. 30. 11.

[b] Foraſmuch as God can not only be known and glorified by his mercy that he uſeth toward his church, but alſo by his juſtice in puniſhing his enemies, he prayeth that his glory may fully appear both in the one and the other, Pſalm 79. 6.

Bef. Chr. 608. Lord God of Iſrael, [c] Curſed be the man that obeyeth not the words of this covenant,

4 Which I commanded unto your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt from the iron furnace, ſaying, Obey my voice, and do according to all theſe things which I commanded you: ſo ſhall ye be my people, and I will be your God,

5 That I may confirm the oath that I have ſworn unto your fathers, to give them a land which floweth with milk and honey, as appeareth this day. Then anſwered [d] I, and ſaid, So be it, O Lord.

6 Then the Lord ſaid unto me, Cry all theſe words in the cities of Judah, and in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, ſaying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them.

7 For I have proteſted unto your fathers, when I brought them up out of the land of Egypt unto this day, [e] riſing early, and proteſting, ſaying, Obey my voice.

8 Nevertheleſs they would not obey, nor incline their ear: but every one walked in the ſtubbornneſs of his wicked [f] heart: therefore I will bring upon them all the [g] words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did it not.

9 And the Lord ſaid unto me, A [h] conſpiracy is found among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jeruſalem.

10 They are turned back to the iniquities of their forefathers, which refuſed to hear my words: and they went after other gods to ſerve them: thus the houſe of Iſrael and the houſe of Judah have broken my covenant, which I made with their fathers.

11 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will bring a plague upon them, which they ſhall not be able to eſcape, and though they cry unto me, [i] I will not hear them.

12 Then ſhall the cities of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, go, and cry unto the gods unto whom they offer incenſe, but they ſhall not be able to help them in time of their trouble.

13 [k] For according to the number of thy cities were thy gods, O Judah; and according to the number of the ſtreets of Jeruſalem have ye ſet up altars of confuſion, even altars to burn incenſe unto Baal.

14 Therefore thou ſhalt not pray [l] for this people, neither lift up a cry or prayer for them: for when they cry unto me in their trouble, I will not hear them.

15 What ſhould my [m] beloved tarry in mine houſe, ſeeing they have committed abomination with many? and the holy fleſh [n] goeth away from thee: yet when thou doeſt evil, thou rejoiceſt. Bef. Chr. 608.

16 The Lord called my name, A green olive-tree, fair, and of goodly fruit: but with [o] noiſe and great tumult he hath ſet fire upon it, and the branches of it are broken.

17 For the Lord of hoſts that planted thee, hath pronounced a plague againſt thee, for the wickedneſs of the houſe of Iſrael, and of the houſe of Judah, which they have done againſt themſelves to provoke me to anger in offering incenſe unto Baal.

18 And the Lord hath taught me, and I know it, even then thou ſhewedſt me [p] their practices.

19 But I was like a lamb, or a bullock, that is brought to the ſlaughter, and I knew not that they had deviſed thus againſt me, ſaying, Let us [q] deſtroy the tree with the fruit thereof, and cut him out of the land of the living, that his name may be no more in memory.

20 But O Lord of hoſts, that judgeſt righteouſly, and trieſt the reins and the heart, let me ſee thy [r] vengeance on them: for unto thee have I opened my cauſe.

21 The Lord therefore ſpeaketh thus of the men of [s] Anathoth, (that ſeek thy life, and ſay, [t] Propheſy not in the name of the Lord, that thou die not by our hands)

22 Thus therefore ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Behold, I will viſit them: the young men ſhall die by the ſword: their ſons and their daughters ſhall die by famine.

23 And none of them ſhall remain: for I will bring a plague upon the men of Anathoth, even the year of their viſitation.

CHAP. XII.

1 The prophet marvelleth at the proſperity of the wicked, although he confeſſeth God to be righteous. 7 The Jews are forſaken of the Lord. 10 He ſpeaketh againſt paſtors and preachers, that ſeduce the people. 14 The Lord threateneth deſtruction unto the nations that troubled Judah.

O LORD, if I diſpute with thee, thou art [u] righteous: yet let me talk with thee of thy judgments: wherefore doth the way of the wicked [w] proſper? why are all they in wealth that rebellioully tranſgreſs?

[c] He calleth the Jews to the conſideration of God's mercies, who freely choſe them, made a covenant of eternal felicity with them, and how he ever performed it on his behalf, and how they ever ſhewed themſelves rebellious and ingrate toward him, and brake it on their part, and ſo are ſubject to the curſe of the law, Deut. 27. 26.

[d] Thus he ſpeaketh in the perſon of the people, which agreed to the covenant.

[e] Read chap. 7. 13.

[f] According to his own fancy, and not as my word appointed him.

[g] Meaning, the menaces and curſes contained in the law, Lev. 26. 14. Deut. 28. 16.

[h] That is, a general conſent to rebel againſt me.

[i] Becauſe they will not pray with true faith and repentance, but for the ſmart and grief which they feel, Prov. 1. 28.

[k] Read chap. 2. 28.

[l] Read chap. 7. 26. and 14. 11.

[m] My people of Iſrael whom I have hitherto ſo greatly loved.

[n] Meaning, that they offer not in the temple to God, but upon the altar of Baal and the idols, and ſo rejoiced in their wickedneſs.

[o] Of the Babylonians and Chaldeans.

[p] Which went about privily to conſpire my death.

[q] Let us deſtroy the prophet and his doctrine. Some read, Let us corrupt his meat with wood, meaning poiſon.

[r] Thus he ſpake not for hatred, but being moved with the Spirit of God, he deſireth the advancement of God's glory, and the verifying of his word, which is by the deſtruction of his enemies.

[s] To wit, both the prieſts and the reſt of the people: for this town was the prieſts, and they dwelt in it: read ch. 1. 1.

[t] Not that they could not abide to hear God named: (for herein they would ſhew themſelves moſt holy) but becauſe they could not abide to be ſharply reproved, and therefore deſired to be flattered, Iſa. 30. 10. and to be maintained in their pleaſures, Micah 2. 11. and not to hear vice condemned, Amos 7. 12.

[u] The prophet confeſſeth God to be juſt in all his doings, although man be not able to give a reaſon of all his acts.

[w] This queſtion hath been always a great temptation to the godly, to ſee the wicked enemies of God in proſperity, and his dear children in adverſity, as Job 21. 7. Pſalm 37. 1. & 73. 3. Hab. 1. 3.

Bef. Chr. 608.

2 Thou haſt planted them, and they have taken root: they grow, and bring forth fruit: thou art near in their mouth, and far from their [x] reins.

3 But thou, Lord, knoweſt me: thou haſt ſeen me, and tried mine heart toward thee: pull them out like ſheep for the ſlaughter, and [y] prepare them for the day of ſlaughter.

4 How long ſhall the land mourn, and the herbs of every field wither, for the wickedneſs of them that dwell therein? the beaſts are conſumed, and the birds, becauſe they ſaid, [z] He will not ſee our laſt end.

5 If thou haſt run with [a] footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canſt thou match thyſelf with horſes? and if thou thoughteſt thyſelf in a peaceable land, what wilt thou do in the ſwelling of Jordan?

6 For even thy brethren, and the houſe of thy father, even they have dealt unfaithfully with thee, and they have cried out altogether upon thee: but believe them not, though they ſpeak fair to thee.

7 I have forſaken [b] mine houſe: I have left mine heritage: I have given the dearly beloved of my ſoul into the hands of her enemies.

8 Mine heritage is unto me as a [c] lion in the foreſt: it crieth out againſt me, therefore have I hated it.

9 Shall mine heritage be unto me as a bird [d] of divers colours? are not the birds about her, ſaying, Come, aſſemble all the beaſts of the field, come to eat her?

10 Many paſtors have deſtroyed my [e] vineyard, and trodden my portion under foot: of my pleaſant portion they have made a deſolate wilderneſs.

11 They have laid it waſte, and it, being waſte, mourneth unto me: and the whole land lieth waſte, becauſe no man ſetteth his mind on [f] it.

12 The deſtroyers are come upon all the high places in the wilderneſs: for the ſword of the Lord ſhall devour from the one end of the land even to the other end of the land: no fleſh ſhall have peace.

13 [g] They have ſown wheat, and reaped thorns: they were [h] ſick, and had no profit: and they were aſhamed of [i] your fruits, becauſe of the fierce wrath of the Lord.

14 Thus ſaith the Lord againſt all mine evil [k] neighbours, that touch the inheritance, which I have cauſed my people Iſrael to inherit, Behold, I will pluck them out of their land, and pluck out the houſe of Judah from among them.

Bef. Chr. 608.

15 And after that I have plucked them out, I [l] will return, and have compaſſion on them, and will bring again every man to his heritage, and every man to his land.

16 And if they will learn the [m] ways of my people, to ſwear by my name, ([n] The Lord liveth, as they taught my people to ſwear by Baal) then ſhall they be built [o] in the midſt of my people.

17 But if they will not obey, then will I utterly pluck up and deſtroy that nation, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. XIII.

The deſtruction of the Jews is prefigured. 11 Why Iſrael was received to be the people of God, and why they were forſaken. 15 He exhorteth them to repentance.

THUS ſaith the Lord unto me, Go, and buy thee a linen girdle, and put it upon thy loins, and put it not in water.

2 So I bought the girdle according to the commandment of the Lord, and put it upon my loins.

3 And the word of the Lord came unto me the ſecond time, ſaying,

4 Take the girdle that thou haſt bought, which is upon thy loins, and ariſe, go toward [p] Perath, and hide it there in the cleft of the rock.

5 So I went and hid it by Perath, as the Lord had commanded me.

6 And after many days the Lord ſaid unto me, Ariſe, go toward Perath, and take the girdle from thence, which I commanded thee to hide there.

7 Then went I to Perath, and digged, and took the girdle from the place where I had hid it, and behold, the girdle was corrupt, and was profitable for nothing.

8 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

9 Thus ſaith the Lord, After this manner will I deſtroy the pride of Judah, and the great pride of Jeruſalem.

10 This wicked people have refuſed to hear my word, and walk after the ſtubbornneſs of their own heart, and walk after other gods to

[x] They profeſs God in mouth, but deny in him in heart, which is here meant by the reins, Iſa. 29. 13. Matt. 15. 8.

[y] The Hebrew word is, Sanctify them, meaning, that God would be ſanctified in the deſtruction of the wicked, to whom God for a while giveth proſperity, that afterward they ſhould the more feel his heavy judgment when they lack their riches, which were a ſign of his mercy.

[z] Abuſing God's lenity and his promiſes, they flattered themſelves as though God would ever be merciful, and not utterly deſtroy them: therefore they hardened themſelves in ſin, till at length the beaſts and inſenſible creatures felt the puniſhment of their ſtubborn rebellion againſt God.

[a] Some think that God reproveth Jeremiah, in that that he would reaſon with him, ſaying, that if he were not able to match with men, that he were far unable to diſpute with God. Others by the footmen, mean them of Anathoth: and by the horſemen, them of Jeruſalem, which ſhould trouble the prophet worſe than his own countrymen did.

[b] God willeth the prophet to denounce his judgments againſt Jeruſalem, notwithſtanding that they ſhall both by threatenings and flatteries labour to put him to ſilence.

[c] Ever ramping and raging againſt me and my prophets.

[d] Inſtead of bearing my livery, and wearing only my colours, they have change and diverſity of colours of their idols and ſuperſtitions: therefore their enemies, as thick as the fowls of the air, ſhall come about them to deſtroy them.

[e] He propheſieth of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by the captains of Nebuchadnezzar, whom he calleth paſtors.

[f] Becauſe no man regardeth my word, or the plagues that I have ſent upon the land.

[g] To wit, the prophets.

[h] They lamented the ſins of the people.

[i] For inſtead of amendment, you grow worſe and worſe, as God's plagues teſtified.

[k] Meaning, the wicked enemies of his church which blaſphemed his name, and whom he would puniſh after that he hath delivered his people.

[l] After that I have puniſhed the Gentiles, I will have mercy upon them.

[m] The true doctrine and manner to ſerve God.

[n] Read chap. 4. 2.

[o] They ſhall be of the number of the faithful, and have a place in my church.

[p] Becauſe this river Perath, or Euphrates, was far from Jeruſalem, it is evident, that this was a viſion, whereby was ſignified that the Jews ſhould paſs over Euphrates to be captives in Babylon, and there, for length of time, ſhould ſeem to be rotten, although they were joined to the Lord before, as a girdle about a man.

Bef. Chr. 602.

ſerve them, and to worſhip them: therefore they ſhall be as this girdle, which is profitable to nothing.

11 For as the girdle cleaveth to the loins of a man, ſo have I tied to me the whole houſe of Iſrael, and the whole houſe of Judah, ſaith the Lord, that they may be my people: that they might have a name and praiſe, and glory, but they would not hear.

12 Therefore thou ſhalt ſay unto them this word, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, Every [q] bottle ſhall be filled with wine: and they ſhall ſay unto thee, Do we not know that every bottle ſhall be filled with wine?

13 Then ſhalt thou ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will fill all the inhabitants of this land, even the kings that ſit upon the throne of David, and the prieſts and the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, with drunkenneſs.

14 And I [r] will daſh them one againſt another, even the fathers and the ſons together, ſaith the Lord: I will not ſpare, I will not pity, nor have compaſſion, but deſtroy them.

15 Hear and give ear, be not proud: for the the Lord hath ſpoken it.

16 Give glory to the Lord your God, before he bring [s] darkneſs, and or ever your feet ſtumble in the dark mountains, and while you look for [t] light, he turn it into the ſhadow of death, and make it as darkneſs.

17 But if ye will not hear this, my ſoul ſhall [u] weep in ſecret for your pride, and mine eye ſhall weep and drop down tears, becauſe the Lord's flock is carried away captive.

18 Say unto the [w] king, and to the queen, Humble yourſelves, ſit down, for the crown of your glory ſhall come down from your heads.

19 The cities of [x] the South ſhall be ſhut up, and no man ſhall open them: all Judah ſhall be carried away captive: it ſhall be wholly carried away captive.

20 Lift up your eyes, and behold them that come from the North: where is the [y] flock that was given thee, even the beautiful flock?

21 What wilt thou ſay, when he ſhall viſit thee? (for thou haſt [z] taught them to be captains and as chief over thee) ſhall not ſorrow take thee as a woman in travail?

22 And if thou ſay in thine heart, Wherefore come theſe things upon me? For the multitude of thine iniquities are thy ſkirts [a] diſcovered, and thy heels made bare.

23 Can the black-moor change his ſkin? or the leopard his ſpots? then may ye alſo do good, that are accuſtomed to do evil.

Bef. Chr. 602.

24 Therefore will I ſcatter them, as the ſtubble that is taken away with the ſouth wind.

25 This is my portion, and the part of thy meaſures from me, ſaith the Lord, becauſe thou haſt forgotten me, and truſted in lyes.

26 Therefore I have alſo diſcovered thy ſkirts upon thy face, [b] that thy ſhame may appear.

27 I have ſeen thine adulteries, and thy [c] neighings, the filthineſs of thy whoredom on the hills in [d] the fields, and thine abominations. Wo unto thee, O Jeruſalem: wilt thou not be made clean? when ſhall it once be?

CHAP. XIV.

1 Of the dearth that ſhould come. 7 The prayer of the people aſking mercy of the Lord. 10 The unfaithful people are not heard. 12 Of prayer, faſting, and of falſe prophets that ſeduce the people.

THE word of the Lord that came unto Jeremiah, concerning the [e] ‡ dearth.

‡ Or, reſtraint.

2 Judah hath mourned, and the gates thereof are deſolate, they have been [f] brought to heavineſs unto the ground, and the cry of Jeruſalem goeth up.

3 And their nobles have ſent their inferiors to the water, who came to the wells and found no water: they returned with their veſſels empty: they were aſhamed and confounded, and [g] covered their heads.

4 For the ground was deſtroyed, becauſe there was no rain in the earth: the plowmen were aſhamed, and covered their heads.

5 Yea, the hind alſo calved in the field, and forſook [h] it, becauſe there was no graſs.

6 And the wild aſſes did ſtand in the high places, and drew in their wind like [i] dragons, their eyes did fail becauſe there was no graſs.

7 [k] O Lord, though our iniquities teſtify againſt us, deal with us according to thy name: for our rebellions are many, we ſinned againſt thee.

8 O the hope of Iſrael, the Saviour thereof in the time of trouble, why art thou as a [l] ſtranger in the land, as one that paſſeth by to tarry for a night?

9 Why art thou as a man aſtoniſhed, and as [m] a ſtrong man that cannot help? yet thou, O Lord, art in the midſt of us, and thy name is called upon us: forſake us not.

[g] In this perplexity, the Lord comforted me, and ſaid, that my laſt days ſhould be quiet: and by the enemy, he meaneth here Nebuzaradan, the captain of Nebuchadnezzar, who gave Jeremiah the choice, either to remain in his country, or to go whither he would: or by the enemy, he meaneth the Jews which ſhould afterward know Jeremiah's fidelity, and therefore favour him.

19 Hearken unto me, O Lord, and hear the voice of them that contend with me.

20 Shall evil be recompenſed for good? for they have digged a pit for my ſoul: remember that I ſtood before thee to ſpeak good for them, and to turn away thy wrath from them.

21 Therefore, [i] deliver up their children to famine, and let them drop away by the force of the ſword, and let their wives be robbed of their children, and be widows: and let their huſbands be put to death, and let their young men be ſlain by the ſword in the battle.

CHAP. XIX.

He propheſieth the deſtruction of Jeruſalem for the contempt and deſpiſing of the word of God.

THUS ſaith the Lord, Go and buy an earthen bottle of a potter, and take of the ancients of the people, and of the ancients of the prieſts,

2 And go forth into the valley of Benhinnom, which is by the entry of the ‡ Eaſt-gate: and thou ſhalt preach there the words that I ſhall tell thee:

‡ Or, gate of the ſun.

3 And ſhalt ſay, Hear ye the word of the Lord, O [k] kings of Judah, and inhabitants of Jeruſalem, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will bring a plague upon this place, the which, whoſoever heareth, his ears ſhall [l] tingle.

4 Becauſe they have forſaken me, and profaned this place, and have burnt incenſe in it unto other gods, whom neither they nor their fathers have known, nor the kings of Judah, (they have filled this place alſo with the blood of innocents,

Bef. Chr. 605.

5 And they have built the high places of Baal, to burn their ſons with fire for burnt-offerings unto Baal, which [m] I commanded not nor ſpake it, neither came it into my mind)

6 Therefore behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that this place ſhall no more be called [n] Tophet, nor the valley of Benhinnom, but the valley of ſlaughter.

7 And I will bring the counſel of Judah and Jeruſalem to nought in this place, and I will cauſe them to fall by the ſword before their enemies, and by the hand of them that ſeek their lives: and their carcaſes will I give to be meat for the fowls of the heaven, and to the beaſts of the field.

8 * And I will make this city deſolate and an hiſſing, ſo that every one that paſſeth thereby ſhall be aſtoniſhed and hiſs, becauſe of all the plagues thereof.

* Ch. 18. 16. and 49. 13. and 50. 13.

9 * And I will feed them with the fleſh of their ſons, and with the fleſh of their daughters, and every one ſhall eat the fleſh of his friend in the ſiege and ſtraitneſs, wherewith their enemies that ſeek their lives, ſhall hold them ſtrait.

* Deut. 28. 53. Lament. 4. 10.

10 Then ſhalt thou break the bottle in the ſight of the men that go with thee,

11 And ſhalt ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Even ſo will I break this people and this city, as one breaketh a [o] potter's veſſel, that cannot be made whole again, and they ſhall bury them in Tophet, till there be no place to bury.

12 Thus will I do unto this place, ſaith the Lord, and to the inhabitants thereof, and I will make this city like Tophet.

13 For the houſes of Jeruſalem, and the houſes of the kings of Judah, ſhall be defiled as the place of Tophet, becauſe of all the [p] houſes upon whoſe [q] roofs they have burnt incenſe unto all the hoſt of heaven, and have poured out drink-offerings unto other gods.

14 Then came Jeremiah from Tophet, where the Lord had ſent him to propheſy, and he ſtood in the court of the Lord's houſe, and ſaid to all the people,

15 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will bring upon this city, and upon all her towns, all the plagues that I have pronounced againſt it, becauſe they have hardened their necks, and would not hear my words.

2 Jeremiah is ſmitten and caſt into priſon for preaching of the word of God. 3 He propheſieth the captivity of Babylon. 7 He complaineth that he was a mocking ſtock for the word of God. 9 He is compelled by the Spirit to preach the Word.

WHEN Paſhur, ſon of Immer, the prieſt, which was appointed governor in the houſe of the Lord, heard that Jeremiah propheſied theſe things,

2 Then Paſhur ſmote Jeremiah the prophet, and put him in the [r] ſtocks that were in the high gate of Benjamin, which was by the houſe of the Lord.

3 And on the morning Paſhur brought Jeremiah out of the ſtocks. Then ſaid Jeremiah unto him, The Lord hath not called thy name Paſhur, but ‡ Magor-miſſabid. ‡ Or, fear round about.

4 For thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will make thee to be a terror to thyſelf, and to all thy friends, and they ſhall fall by the ſword of their enemies, and thine eyes ſhall behold it, and I will give all Judah into the hand of the king of Babel, and he ſhall carry them captive into Babel, and ſhall ſlay them with the ſword.

5 Moreover, I will deliver all the ſubſtance of this city, and all the labours thereof, and all the precious things thereof, and all the treaſures of the kings of Judah, will I give into the hands of their enemies, which ſhall ſpoil them, and take them away, and carry them to Babel.

6 And thou, Paſhur, and all that dwell in thine houſe, ſhall go into captivity, and thou ſhalt come to Babel, and there thou ſhalt die, and ſhalt be buried there, thou and all thy [s] friends, to whom thou haſt propheſied lyes.

7 O Lord, thou haſt deceived me, and I am [t] deceived: thou art ſtronger than I, and haſt [u] prevailed: I am in deriſion daily: every one mocketh me.

8 For ſince I ſpake, I cried out of wrong, and proclaimed [w] deſolation: therefore the word of the Lord was made a reproach unto me, and in deriſion daily.

9 Then I ſaid, I will not make mention of him, nor ſpeak any more of his name. But his word was in mine heart as a burning fire ſhut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and I could not ſtay.

10 For I had heard the railing of many, and fear on every ſide. [x] Declare, ſaid they, and we will declare it: all my familiars watched for my halting, ſaying, It may be that he is deceived: ſo we ſhall prevail againſt him, and we ſhall execute our vengeance upon him.

17 Becauſe he hath not ſlain me, even from the womb, or that my mother might have been my grave, or her womb a perpetual [b] conception.

18 How is it, that I came forth of the womb, to ſee labour and ſorrow, that my days ſhould be conſumed with ſhame?

He propheſieth that Zedekiah ſhall be taken, and the city burned.

THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, when king Zedekiah ſent unto him Paſhur, the ſon of Malchiah, and Zephaniah the ſon of Maaſeiah the prieſt, ſaying,

2 [c] Inquire, I pray thee, of the Lord for us, (for Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel maketh war againſt us) if ſo be that the Lord will deal with us according to all his wonderous works, that he may return up from us.

4 Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, Behold, I will [d] turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands, wherewith ye fight againſt the king of Babel, and againſt the Chaldeans, which beſiege you without the walls, and I will aſſemble them in the midſt of this city.

5 And I myſelf will fight againſt you with an out-ſtretched hand, and with a mighty arm, even in anger and in wrath, and in great indignation.

* Ch 21. 12. 3 Thus ſaith the Lord, * Execute ye judgment and [l] righteouſneſs, and deliver the oppreſſed from the hand of the oppreſſor, and vex not the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, nor the widow: do no violence, nor ſhed innocent blood in this place.

5 But if ye will not hear theſe words, I [m] ſwear by myſelf, ſaith the Lord, that this houſe ſhall be waſte.

6 For thus hath the Lord ſpoken upon the king's houſe of Judah, Thou art [n] Gilead unto me, and the head of Lebanon, yet ſurely I will make thee a wilderneſs, and as cities not inhabited,

7 And I will [o] prepare deſtroyers againſt thee, every one with his weapons, and they ſhall cut down thy chief [p] cedar trees, and caſt them in the fire.

Againſt falſe paſtors. 5 A prophecy of the great paſtor Jeſus Chriſt.

Bef. Chr. 599.

WO be unto [f] the paſtors that deſtroy and ſcatter [g] the ſheep of my paſture, ſaith the Lord.

2 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael unto the paſtors that [h] feed my people, Ye have ſcattered my flock and thruſt them out, and have not viſited them: behold, I will viſit you for the wickedneſs of your works, ſaith the Lord.

3 And I will gather the [i] remnant of my ſheep out of all countries whither I had driven them, and will bring them again to their folds, and they ſhall grow and increaſe.

4 And I will ſet up ſhepherds over them, which ſhall feed them: and they ſhall dread no more nor be afraid, neither ſhall any of them be lacking, ſaith the Lord.

5 Behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that I will raiſe unto David a righteous [k] branch, and a king ſhall reign and proſper, and ſhall execute judgment and juſtice in the earth.

6 In his days Judah ſhall be ſaved, and * Iſrael ſhall dwell ſafely, and this is the name whereby they ſhall call him, * The Lord our righteouſneſs.

* Deut. 33. 28.

* Ch. 33. 16.

7 Therefore behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that they ſhall no more ſay, The [l] Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Iſrael out of the land of Egypt:

8 But, the Lord liveth, which brought up and led the ſeed of the houſe of Iſrael out of the north country, and from all countries where I had ſcattered them, and they ſhall dwell in their own land.

[a] Both the governors, and they that ſhould help thee, ſhall vaniſh away as wind.

[b] Thou art built of the fair cedar trees of Lebanon.

[c] Who was called Jehoiachin, or Jeconiah, whom he calleth here Coniah in contempt, who thought his kingdom could never depart from him becauſe he came of the ſtock of David, and therefore, for the promiſe ſake, could not be taken from his houſe: but he abuſed God's promiſe, and therefore was juſtly deprived of the kingdom.

[d] He ſheweth, that all poſterity ſhall be witneſſes of this juſt plague, as though it were regiſtered for perpetual memory.

[e] Not that he had no children (for after that he begat Salathiel in the captivity, Matt. 1. 12.) but that none ſhould reign after him as king.

15 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts concerning the prophets, Behold, I will feed them with [r] wormwood, and make them drink the water of gall: for from the prophets of Jeruſalem is ‡ wickedneſs gone forth into all the land.

‡ Or, hypocriſy.

16 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Hear not the words of the prophets that propheſy unto you, and teach you vanity: they ſpeak the viſion of their own [s] heart, and not out of the mouth of the Lord.

17 They ſay ſtill unto them that deſpiſe me, The Lord hath ſaid, Ye [t] ſhall have peace: and they ſay unto every one that walketh after the ſtubbornneſs of his own heart, No evil ſhall come upon you.

18 For [u] who hath ſtood in the counſel of the Lord, that he hath perceived and heard his word? Who hath marked his word, and heard it?

19 Behold, the tempeſt of the Lord goeth forth in his wrath, and a violent whirlwind ſhall fall down upon the head of the wicked.

20 The anger of the Lord ſhall not return until he have executed, and till he have performed the thoughts of his heart: in the latter days ye [w] ſhall underſtand it plainly.

* Ch. 14. 13, 14. and 27. 15. and 29. 8, 9.

21 * I have not ſent theſe prophets, ſaith the Lord, yet they ran: I have not ſpoken to them, and yet they propheſied.

22 But if they had ſtood in my counſel, and [x] had declared my words to my people, then they ſhould have turned them from their evil way, and from the wickedneſs of their inventions.

23 Am I a God at hand, ſaith the Lord, and not a God [y] far off?

24 Can any hide himſelf in ſecret places, that I ſhall not ſee him, ſaith the Lord? Do not I fill heaven and earth, ſaith the Lord?

25 I have heard what the prophets ſaid, that propheſy lyes in my name, ſaying, I [z] have dreamed, I have dreamed.

† Heb. it is in the heart of the prophets.

26 How long? † Do the prophets delight to propheſy lyes, even propheſying the deceit of their own hearts?

27 Think they to cauſe [a] my people to forget my name by their dreams, which they tell every man to his neighbour, as their forefathers have forgotten my name for Baal?

28 The prophet that hath a dream, let him [b] tell a dream: and he that hath my word, let him ſpeak my word faithfully: [c] what is the chaff to the wheat? ſaith the Lord.

29 Is not my word even like a fire? ſaith the Lord: and like an hammer, that breaketh the ſtone?

30 Therefore behold, I will come againſt the prophets, ſaith the Lord, that [d] ſteal my word, every one from his neighbour.

31 Behold, I will come againſt the prophets, ſaith the Lord, which have ſweet tongues, and ſay, [e] He ſaith.

32 Behold, I will come againſt them that propheſy falſe dreams, ſaith the Lord, and do tell them, and cauſe my people to err by their lyes, and by their flatteries, and I ſent them not, nor commanded them: therefore they bring no profit unto this people, ſaith the Lord.

33 And when this people, or the prophet, or a prieſt ſhall aſk thee, ſaying, What is the [f] burden of the Lord? thou ſhalt then ſay unto them, What burden? I will even forſake you, ſaith the Lord.

34 And the prophet, or the prieſt, or the people that ſhall ſay, The [g] burden of the Lord, I will even viſit ſuch one and his houſe.

35 Thus ſhall ye ſay every one to his neighbour, and every one to his brother, What hath the Lord anſwered? and what hath the Lord ſpoken?

36 And the burden of the Lord ſhall ye mention no more: for every man's [h] word ſhall be his burden: for ye have perverted the words of the living God, the Lord of hoſts our God.

37 Thus ſhalt thou ſay to the prophet, What hath the Lord anſwered thee? and what hath the Lord ſpoken?

38 And if you ſay, The burden of the Lord, then thus ſaith the Lord, Becauſe ye ſay this word, The burden of the Lord, and I have ſent unto you, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſay, The burden of the Lord:

39 Therefore behold, I, even I, will utterly ‡ forget you, and I will forſake you, and the city that I gave you and your fathers, and caſt you out of my preſence.

‡ Or, take you away.

40 And will bring * an everlaſting reproach upon you, and a perpetual ſhame, which ſhall never be forgotten.

* Ch. 20. 11.

[p] They which ſhould have profited by my rods againſt Samaria, are become worſe than they.

[q] Though to the world they ſeem holy fathers, yet I deteſt them as I did theſe abominable cities.

[r] Read chap. 8. 14.

[s] Which they have invented of their own brain.

[t] Read chap. 6. 14. and 8. 11.

[u] Thus they did deride Jeremiah, as though the word of God were not revealed unto him: ſo alſo ſpake Zedekiah to Micah, 1 Kings 22. 24.

[w] Both that God hath ſent me, and that my words ſhall be true.

[x] He ſheweth the difference between the true prophets and the falſe, between the hireling and the true miniſter.

[y] Do not I ſee your falſhood, howſoever you cloke it, and whereſoever you commit it?

[z] I have a propheſy revealed unto me, as Num. 12. 16.

[a] He ſheweth that Satan raiſeth up falſe prophets to bring the people from God.

[b] Let the falſe prophet declare that it is his own fancy, and not ſlander my word, as though it were a cloak to cover his lyes.

[c] Meaning, that it is not ſufficient for God's miniſters to abſtain from lyes, and to ſpeak the word of God: but that there be judgment in alledging it, and that it may appear to be applied to the ſame purpoſe that it was ſpoken, Ezek. 3. 17. 1 Cor. 2. 13. and 4. 2. 2 Tim. 2. 15. 1 Pet. 4. 10, 11.

[d] Which ſet forth in my name that which I have not commanded.

[e] To wit, the Lord.

[f] The prophets called their threatnings, God's burden, which the ſinners were not able to ſuſtain: therefore the wicked, in deriding the word, would aſk of the prophets, What was the burden? as though they would ſay, You ſeek nothing elſe, but to lay burdens on our ſhoulders: and thus they rejected the word of God as a grievous burden.

[g] Becauſe this word was brought to contempt and deriſion, he will teach them another manner of ſpeech, and will cauſe this word Burden to ceaſe, and teach them to aſk with reverence, What ſaith the Lord?

[h] The thing which they mock and contemn, ſhall come upon them.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 The viſion of the baſket of figs, 5 ſignifieth that part of the people ſhould be brought again from captivity, 8 and that Zedekiah, and the reſt of the people, ſhould be carried away.

THE Lord ſhewed me, and behold, two [i] baſkets of figs were ſet before the temple of the Lord, after that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel had carried away captive Jeconiah the ſon of Jehoiakim king of Judah, and the princes of Judah, with the workmen, and the cunning men of Jeruſalem, and had brought them to Babel.

2 One baſket had very good figs, even like the figs that are firſt ripe: and the other baſket had very naughty figs, which could not be eaten, they were ſo evil.

3 Then ſaid the Lord unto me, What ſeeſt thou, Jeremiah? And I ſaid, Figs: the good figs very good, and the naughty very naughty, which cannot be eaten, they are ſo evil.

4 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

5 Thus ſaith the Lord, the God of Iſrael, Like theſe good figs, ſo will I know them that are carried away captive of Judah to be good, whom I have ſent out of this [k] place, into the land of the Chaldeans.

6 For I will ſet mine eyes upon them for good, and I will bring them again to this land, and I will build them, and not deſtroy them, and I will plant them, and not root them out.

* Ch. 31. 33. Heb. 8. 10.

7 And I will give them [l] an heart to know me, that I am the Lord, and they ſhall be my * people, and I will be their God: for they ſhall return unto me with their whole heart.

* Ch. 29. 17.

8 * And as the naughty figs which cannot be eaten, they are ſo evil: (ſurely thus ſaith the Lord) ſo will I give Zedekiah the king of Judah, and his princes, and the reſidue of Jeruſalem that remain in this land, and them that dwell [m] in the land of Egypt:

9 I will even give them for a terrible plague to all the kingdoms of the earth, and for a reproach, and for a proverb, for a common talk, and for a curſe, in all places where I ſhall caſt them.

10 And I will ſend the ſword, the famine, and the peſtilence among them, till they be conſumed out of the land that I gave unto them and to their fathers.

CHAP. XXV.

1 He propheſieth that they ſhall be in captivity ſeventy years, 12 And that after the ſeventy years the Babylonians ſhould be deſtroyed. 15 The deſtruction of all nations is propheſied.

Bef. Chr. 606.

THE word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the [n] fourth year of Jehoiakim the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, that was in the firſt year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel:

2 The which Jeremiah the prophet ſpake unto all the people of Judah, and to all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, ſaying,

3 From the thirteenth year of Joſiah the ſon of Amon king of Judah, even unto [o] this day, (that is, the three and twentieth year) the word of the Lord hath come unto me, and I have ſpoken unto you, [p] riſing early, and ſpeaking, but ye would not hear.

4 And the Lord hath ſent unto you all his ſervants the prophets, riſing early, and ſending them, but ye would not hear, nor incline your ears to obey.

5 They [q] ſaid, Turn again now every one from his evil way, and from the wickedneſs of your inventions, and ye ſhall dwell in the land that the Lord hath given unto you, and to your fathers for ever and ever.

6 And go not after other gods, to ſerve them and to worſhip them, and provoke me not to anger with the works of your hands, and I will not puniſh you.

7 Nevertheleſs ye would not hear me, ſaith the Lord, but have provoked me to anger with the works of your hands to your own hurt.

8 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts: Becauſe ye have not heard my words,

9 Behold, I will ſend and take to me all the [r] families of the North, ſaith the Lord, and Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babel, my [s] ſervant, and will bring them againſt this land, and againſt the inhabitants thereof, and againſt all the nations [t] round about, and will deſtroy them, and make them an aſtoniſhment, and an hiſſing, and a continual deſolation.

10 * Moreover, I will ‡ take from them the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladneſs, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the noiſe of the [u] millſtones, and the light of the candle.

* Ch. 16. 9. ‡ Or, deſtroy.

11 And this whole land ſhall be deſolate, and an aſtoniſhment, and theſe nations ſhall ſerve the king of Babel ſeventy years:

12 And when the [w] ſeventy years are accompliſhed, I will viſit [x] the king of Babel, and that nation, ſaith the Lord, for their iniquities, even the land of the Chaldeans, and will make it a perpetual deſolation.

13 And I will bring upon that land all my words

[i] The good ſiege ſignified, them that were gone into captivity, and ſo ſaved their life, as chap. 21. 8. and the naughty figs them that remained, which were yet ſubject to the ſword, famine, and peſtilence.

[k] Whereby he approveth the yielding of Jeconiah and his company, becauſe they obeyed the prophet, who exhorted them thereunto.

[l] Which declareth that man of himſelf can know nothing, till God give the heart and underſtanding.

[m] Which fled thither for ſuccour.

[n] That is, in the third year accompliſhed, and in the beginning of the fourth: for though Nebuchadnezzar began to reign in the end of the third year of Jehoiakim's reign, yet that year is not here counted, becauſe it was almoſt expired, Dan. 1. 1.

[o] Which was the fifth year, and the ninth month of Jehoiakim's reign.

[p] That is, I have ſpared no diligence or labour, chap. 7. 13

[q] He ſheweth, that the prophets wholly with one conſent did labour to pull the people from thoſe vices which then reigned; to wit, from idolatry, and the vain confidence of men: for under theſe two all other were contained, 2 Kings 17. 13. chap. 18. 11. and 35. 15. Jonah 3. 8.

[r] The Chaldeans, and all their power.

[s] So the wicked and Satan himſelf are God's ſervants, becauſe he maketh them to ſerve him by conſtraint, and turneth that which they do of malice, to his honour and glory.

[t] As the Philiſtines, Ammonites, Egyptians, and others.

[u] Meaning, that bread, and all things that ſhould ſerve unto their feaſts, ſhould be taken away.

[w] This revelation was for the confirmation of his propheċy, becauſe he told them of the time that they ſhould enter and remain in captivity, 2 Chron. 36. 22. Ezra 1. 1. chap. 29. 10 Dan. 9. 2.

[x] For ſeeing the judgment began at his own houſe, the enemies muſt needs be puniſhed moſt grievouſly, Ezek. 9. 6. 1 Pet. 4. 17.

Bef. Chr. 606. words which I have pronounced againſt it, even all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah hath propheſied againſt all nations.

14 For many nations, and great kings, ſhall even [y] ſerve themſelves of them: thus will I recompenſe them according to their deeds, and according to the works of their own hands.

15 For thus hath the Lord God of Iſrael ſpoken unto me, [z] Take the cup of wine of this mine indignation at mine hand, and cauſe all the nations to whom I ſend thee, to drink it.

16 And they ſhall drink, and be moved, and be mad, becauſe of the ſword that I will ſend among them.

17 Then took I the cup at the Lord's hand, and made all people to drink, unto whom the Lord had ſent me:

18 Even Jeruſalem, and the cities of Judah, and the kings thereof, and the princes thereof, to make them deſolate, an aſtoniſhment, an hiſſing, and a curſe, [a] as appeareth this day:

19 Pharaoh alſo king of Egypt, and his ſervants, and his princes, and all his people:

20 And all ſorts of people, and all the kings of the land of [b] Uz: and all the kings of the land of the Philiſtines, and [c] Aſhkelon, and Azzah, and Ekron, and the remnant of Aſhdod:

21 [d] Edom, and Moab, and the Ammonites:

22 And all the kings of Tyrus, and all the kings of Zidon, and the kings of the [e] iſles that are beyond the ſea,

23 And [f] Dedan, and Tema, and Buz, and all that dwell in the uttermoſt corners,

24 And all the kings of Arabia, and all the kings of Arabia that dwell in the [g] deſart,

25 And all the kings of Zimri, and all the
‡ Or, Perſia. kings of ‡ Elam, and all the kings of the Medes,

26 And all the kings of the North, far and near one to another, and all the kingdoms of the world which are upon the earth, and the king of [h] Sheſhach ſhall drink after them.

27 Therefore ſay thou unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Drink and be drunken, and ſpew and fall, and riſe no more, becauſe of the ſword which I will ſend among you.
